PROF TURNS HIS HOUSE INTO A STUDIO

Dr Jagadeesh said he knew the difficulties of engineering students in understanding the subjects and especially students from a rural background. Such students faced difficulty due to lack of proper internet connectivity to attend online classes for their engineering courses. Hence he started the Parnika tutorials YouTube channel to help them.

He said poor and middle-class students who are preparing for various competitive exams such as GATE, UGC Net are struggling a lot as they are not able to join coaching centres due to hefty fees of Rs 50,000 and above for coaching.

Dr Jagadeesh turned his house into a studio to record lessons. "I would wake up at 5am to record the videos and then upload them. It would take 5-6 hours to make a video and I am doing this to help engineering students understand lessons in a broad manner. Students with a rural background usually hesitate to clear their doubts in classrooms. I have also prepared videos for various competitive exams such as GATE, UGC NET, SLET etc," he said.

Dr Jagadeesh said that he is clearing the doubts of the students in less than ten hours. Questions can be asked on the space provided below the youtube video and he would answer them possibly the same day.

Engineering students viewing the lessons said these were very helpful due to the simple style of narration and clearing of their doubts without fail.

Real farmers will ask for returning of their farmlands: Kannababu

DC CORRESPONDENT
VIJAYAWADA, FEB. 24

Ministers Kurasala Kannababu and Vellampalli Srinivas Rao expressed confidence that the YSRC would win the Vijayawada Municipal Corporation elections. They campaigned for the elections on Wednesday and stated that the welfare schemes launched by Chief Minister Y.S. Jagan Mohan Reddy were getting accolades from people.

Kannababu said that YSRC government had not refused to develop Amaravati. He said that TD chief Chandrababu Naidu was "losing his balance" due to humiliating defeat in the gram panchayat elections and was levelling baseless allegations against the CM.

YSRC RIDICULES NAIDU FOR FALSE CLAIMS ON WINS

DC CORRESPONDENT
NELLORE, FEB. 24

YSRC Nellore district convener and Sarvepalli legislator Kakani Govardhan Reddy claimed that their party bagged 86 per cent of the gram panchayats during the recent elections while ridiculing the TD Chief Chandrababu Naidu for false claims over victory without giving the numbers.

Speaking to media persons here on Wednesday, Govardhan Reddy said that TD supremo is not able to provide figures related to the number of panchayats won by his party because they secured only 14 per cent of the panchayats.

He also found fault with Naidu for his outcry over the defeat of democracy in panchayat elections at Kuppam segment.

The legislator alleged that TD attempted to divide people and provoke them for gains in the elections, but in vain as they could not find candidates to enter the fray.

Attributing the victory of YSRC to the welfare programmes introduced by the Chief Minister YS Jaganmohan Reddy, he said the hard work and efforts of YSRC cadres also helped to secure 86 percent of Panchayats.

Stressing that TD doesn't have the guts to take the elections as a referendum, he predicted landslide victory to the ruling party in the ensuing MP/TC and ZPTC elections apart from the by-election to Tirupati Lok Sabha seat.

defeat in the gram panchayat elections and was levelling baseless allegations against the CM. He refuted allegations of Naidu and other Telugu Desam leaders that assurances were being made about developing Amaravati were being made with an eye on the elections.

Kannababu said that real farmers would ask for returning of their farmlands; that is why farmers whose land had been acquired for the Kakinada SEZ had demanded their land back. He stated that Amaravati farmers were not asking for the return of their lands but demanding increase of their land values.

Mentioning Naidu's tour of Kuppam, Kannababu said that he was going to repair the damage done by the YSRC in the gram panchayat elections but it would work possible as the people were with the YSRC government. He said that YSRC would win the municipal elections as well.

Endowment minister Vellampalli Srinivas Rao refuted allegations of the TD that no action was taken against higher officials for anomalies in temple affairs. He said the YSRC government had initiated action against corrupt officials in Guntur, Visakhapatnam and Dwaraka Tirumala temples. He said that action was initiated against 15 corrupt officials and employees of the Durga temple.

AP has become a hub of violence, says Naidu

DC CORRESPONDENT
VIJAYAWADA, FEB. 24

Telugu Desam chief N Chandrababu Naidu accused the Jagan Mohan Reddy government of converting Andhra Pradesh into a hub of violence with the ruling party leaders unleashing terror in the panchayat elections. He condemned their brutal attack that led to the death of TD activist Somaiah from Gollamandala village of A Konduru mandal in Tiruvuru assembly segment.

He alleged that Jagan Mohan Reddy and his party leaders were deriving diabolical pleasure by killing opposition activists.

In a statement here on Wednesday, the TD chief said that YSRC leaders attacked TD ward member Palakollu Nagamalleswara Rao's father Somaiah during the counting process and inflicted injuries on February 21. Somaiah succumbed in the hospital where he was rushed to. He said that this was tantamount to State-sponsored murder and the Chief Minister should be held responsible for the heinous act.

Naidu deplored that the TD activist was attacked with sticks and such incidents marked the return of the 'murder politics' in the State because of Reddy's shortsighted policies and political killings. He demanded the police to take immediate action against the culprits and a case should be registered against them.

Earlier, Naidu said that YSRC leaders had murdered democracy during the panchayat elections.

He stated that the attack on his party's former legislator Tangirala Sowmya at his residence by YSRC goons was condemnable and the culprits needed to be brought to book.

The TD chief said that the civic polls would be a great opportunity for the urban voters to teach a lesson to the headstrong Chief Minister.

Hyderabad, Kollam found to be suffering from 2nd worst level of air pollution

Most polluted city in winter was Visakhapatnam

DC CORRESPONDENT
HYDERABAD, FEB. 24

Hyderabad, along with Kollam in Kerala, was found to be suffering from the second worst level of air pollution in South India during the winter.

The Centre for Science and Environment (CSE), New Delhi, said that after an extensive analysis of real time data from cities across the country, it found, with respect to south India that Visakhapatnam in Andhra Pradesh had the highest levels of winter air pollution in 2020-21. The CSE noted that the winter coincided with the unlocking of the economy after the hard lockdown because of the Covid-19 pandemic.

Visakhapatnam, the CSE said, recorded a seasonal average of 75 ug/m3 of PM2.5 particulate matter, followed by Hyderabad and Kollam. During 2020-21, though the the average level of PM2.5 levels during the summer and monsoon months was considerably lower than the previous year due to the summer lockdown, the winter PM2.5 concentration rose compared to 2019 winter in many cities.

“This bouncing back of pollution post-lockdown unmasks the high impacts of local and regional pollution. This demands quicker regional reforms to curb pollution from vehicles, industry, power plants and waste burning to curb the winter pollution and also sustain annual improvement at a regional scale with speed,” according Anumita Roychowdhury, CSE's executive director in charge of research and advocacy.

South India, the CSE said, saw five cities with an increasing winter air pollution trend with more than 8 per cent. Tirupati in Andhra Pradesh saw a jump of 52 per cent in the seasonal average, followed by Visakhapatnam that registered 34 per cent increase from last winter. Other cities that show significant increase were Rajamahendravaram, Amaravati, and Chikkaballapur.

Among the cities that showed less than 8 per cent rise compared to 2019 winter were Bengaluru, Thiruvananthapuram, and Hyderabad, while Mysuru, Kozhikode, Chennai, and Kochi showed a decline.

The 35-year-old Telugu Desam citadel, Hindupur, suffered major cracks in the recent gram panchayat elections as YSRC-backed nominees bagged more than 80 per cent of gram panchayats in Hindupur Assembly segment.

In a further jolt, former MLA Pamisetty Ranganayakulu quit the party and joined YSRC despite sitting MLA Nandamuri Balakrishna's bid to dissuade him.

Hindupur has been a TD stronghold right from its inception in 1985 as the party founder N.T. Rama Rao chose and won from here thrice.

The people continued to support the party and his sons Hari Krishna and Balakrishna and also other TD candidates while Congress and other parties were pushed into oblivion. YSRC's move to field former police officer Md. Iqbal against Balakrishna came a crop-

● The situation today is dramatically reversed even as TD is facing dissidence, which has had an adverse impact in the gram panchayat polls.

● Even though Balakrishna stayed for a couple of days during elections, YSRC ruled the roost by winning nine of 12 gram panchayats in Lepakshi mandal; six of 13 gram panchayats in Chilamathur mandal and six against 10 in Hindupur rural mandal.

The YSRC leadership focussed its attention on Hindupur municipality and began steps to improve its position in the special grade municipality. Ranganayakulu, a strong leader from the weavers' community, shifted loyalties to YSRC.

“I was attracted by the welfare schemes launched by Jagan Mohan Reddy”, he said while making the move.

The incident occurred when a police team led by Sub Inspector Dinesh Ram reached village Kunwari under Majorganj police station to arrest Mukul, Ranjan and their associates in connection with an extortion case. Sources said that as soon as the police team started cordoning off the area, criminals opened fire in which the Sub Inspector was killed and a police guard sustained injuries.

According to the police, Mukul, Ranjan and others have also been involved in liquor smuggling from Nepal and other neighbouring states.

Later, Mukul was arrested while he was fleeing to Nepal after the firing incident and one of the smugglers was killed by the police.

“Manhunt has been launched and raids are being conducted to nab all those who have been involved in the incident”, ADG (law and order) Amit Kumar told reporters in Patna. The incident has triggered sharp reactions from across the political spectrum in Bihar. While the ruling JD(U) termed the incident as “an act of frustration” by the liquor mafia, opposition blamed the state government for its failure to check liquor smuggling from outside the state.

“The incident shows that there is no fear of law in Bihar. The state government should order a high-level probe and act against all those who are behind the entire liquor trade racket in the state. There are many big people who have close links with liquor mafias”, RJD leader Subodh Rai told reporters. A total ban on liquor was imposed in April 2016. Liquor prohibition was the first major announcement by Nitish Kumar after he was sworn in as CM in 2015 following an emphatic victory.

Recently after the opposition raised questions on the success of liquor prohibition following eight hooch deaths in two separate incidents, Bihar CM Nitish Kumar defended the decision saying that “people were in favour of the act and if government employees are found consuming it will be dismissed from the service”.

Scenes in Kashmir reminiscent of early ’90s

Securitymen abruptly and unexpectedly set up makeshift checkpoints and conduct random searches

YUSUF JAMEEL | DC
SRINAGAR, FEB. 24

Security across Jammu and Kashmir has been stepped up exceptionally with local cops and members of Central armed police forces conducting surprise cordon-and-search and frisking operations in cities and towns particularly summer capital Srinagar at intervals. The Army is also launching sensitisation and area domination operations in select Valley areas quietly.

The scenes witnessed particularly in some crowded areas of the Valley’s main town including at and around historic Lal Chowk over the past few days are reminiscent of the early 1990s when the Kashmiri separatist campaign was at its peak. The adequately equipped uniformed men, abruptly and unexpectedly, arrive in an area, choose a location, set up makeshift checkpoints and roadblocks and conduct random searches which include frisking of pedestrians after making them wait in lines. They also stop vehicles and then subject passengers to body search and check their belongings thoroughly.

The authorities said that such random operations have been necessitated by the recent spurt in militant attacks and in view of the reports that the separatists are planning more violence in coming weeks.

Last week, two policemen were targeted by a pheran-clad shooter with an AK assault rifle concealed under the traditional Kashmiri outfit in Srinagar’s Barzulla area resulting in their instant death. Against the backdrop of this incident and the demand of banning pheran raised by some Jammu-based Bharatiya Janata Party leaders and likeminded outfits, the security forces deployed along the streets and other public places in the Valley have in several instances forced people to take off the outfit. There have also been reports of visitors being allowed to enter certain government offices and other sensitive premises only after removal of pheran by them. This has evoked sharp criticism by political activities and netizens.

Counter-militancy strategists and policing experts also disagree with such actions and call for tactical changes towards dealing with the emerging situation by the security forces effectively.

Former Director General of Police, Shesh Paul Vaid, said, “In 1990s also several incidents took place wherein militants used weapons hidden beneath their pheran to target security forces yet the garment was not banned. I don’t think banning a particular dress is a solution.”

He added, “Pheran and Kangri (traditional firepot) are part and parcel of the Kashmiri culture and lifestyle rather centuries’ old wisdom to beat the biting cold in winters. As said, banning pheran is not the way out. The solution is, be alert, stop the person you suspect, subject him to frisking and if you find him hiding an illegal weapon beneath his garment take action as per law. That is what we would do during the heyday of militancy to minimise such gory acts”.

Search on

Search for missing people continues in the disaster-hit areas of Tapovan in Chamoli district on Wednesday. So far, 70 bodies and 29 human body parts have been recovered from different places in the avalanche-hit areas, out of which 40 bodies and one human body part have been identified. DNA samples of bodies and 28 body parts have been sent to the Forensic Science Laboratory, Dehradun for matching.

Phase-2 Covid jabs to begin from March 1

VINEETA
NEW DELHI, FEB. 24

After the vaccination of healthcare and frontline workers in the first phase, it is now time for the general public to get the Covid-19 jab. From March 1, people over the age of 60 years and those over 45 years having comorbidities will be able to get vaccinated at 10,000 government facilities and over 20,000 private hospitals, the government said on Wednesday while announcing its plan to roll out the second phase of immunisation against the Coronavirus.

The President, Prime Minister, several Cabinet minister and state Chief Ministers are expected to take the jab from March 1.

The number of beneficiaries in this category is expected to be over 10 crore. The vaccine shots will be given free of cost in government hospitals but they will be charged for in private hospitals. Announcing the decision taken by the Union cabinet on Wednesday, Union minister for information and broadcasting, Prakash Javadekar, said that vaccine rates in the private sector are still being worked out by the health ministry in consultation with the private hospitals and manufacturers and will be announced in a couple of days.

“The second phase of the world’s largest vaccination drive will begin from Monday in which anybody above 60 years and 45 years plus with co-morbidities will be given vaccines in 10,000 government and over 20,000 private hospitals. Whoever goes to the government centre will be administered a vaccine free of cost. The Indian government will pay for them. Those who want to get vaccination from private hospitals will have to pay,” Javadekar said. The minister, however, did not elaborate if people will have a choice of vaccines. Union minister Ravi Shankar Prasad said most of the ministers are thinking of paying for the vaccines.

Meanwhile, with Covid-19 cases surging in several states, the Centre on Wednesday deputed high-level, multi-disciplinary teams to Maharashtra, Kerala, Chhattisgarh, Madhya Pradesh, Gujarat, Punjab, Karnataka, Tamil Nadu, West Bengal and the Union Territory of Jammu & Kashmir for supporting them in public health measures for targeted Covid response and management, and effectively tackling the pandemic.

These teams will work closely with state and UT administrations to ascertain reasons for the recent surge in the number of Covid-19 cases. They will also coordinate with health authorities of the states and UT for requisite Covid-19 control measures to break the chain of transmission. States and UTs have been advised to regularly review the emerging situation with the concerned district officials to ensure that gains made so far in Covid management are not lost, Union health ministry officials said.

Union health secretary has also written to Maharashtra, Kerala, Chhattisgarh, Madhya Pradesh, Gujarat, Punjab and Jammu and Kashmir which have been witnessing a rise in daily Covid cases, along with decreasing proportion of RT-PCR tests.

The health secretary has urged states/UT to focus on undertaking aggressive measures to break the chain of transmission and to ensure that RT-PCR testing is amplified to flush out undetected cases.

2 militants killed
in Anantnag

DC CORRESPONDENT
SRINAGAR, FEB. 24

Two militants believed to be associated with a proscribed outfit — possibly Jaish-e-Muhammad — were killed in a fierce gunfight raging in woods of southern Anantnag district since Wednesday morning. However, the authorities said that the identities of the slain men are being ascertained. The internet services in Anantnag have been suspended “as a precautionary measure,” they said.

The Army said that the operation to flush out militants from Shalgul forest area of Srigufwara belt of Anantnag was launched following an input from the J&K police. The police sources said that its counterinsurgency Special Operations Group along with the Army’s 3 Rashtriya Rifles moved in the woods on learning about the presence of four militants including an IED ‘expert’.

Initial reports quoting unnamed local police officials had said that all the four militants have been killed but later the police officially clarified that only two of them have been “neutralised” and that the operation was still underway. Local sources said that the Army also used a helicopter and drones for the surveillance of the area during the operation.

A statement issued by the police here said when, during the jointly launched cordon-and-search operation, the presence of militants was established they were given an opportunity to surrender.

“However, they fired indiscriminately upon the joint search party which was retaliated leading to an encounter.”

Didi: Modi is the ‘biggest rioter’

RAJIB CHOWDHURI | DC
KOLKATA, FEB. 24

West Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee on Wednesday branded Prime Minister Narendra Modi as the “biggest rioter” of the world who is waiting to face even a “worse fate” than that of former US president Donald Trump. The Trinamul Congress supremo cast aspersions on Mr Modi at her party rally on Dunlop Ground at Chinsurah in Hooghly to counter his attack on her at a BJP rally on the same venue only two days ago.

“Mr Modi is the biggest rioter, liar, cheat and the most vindictive. There is no parallel of him in the whole world. You saw what happened to Mr Trump. But Mr Modi went to ensure his victory. How could he dare to do that when he himself does not have any capability? His fate will be even worse than Trump. Violence never gifts anything good,” she said.

Without taking the names of Mr Modi and his deputy Amit Shah, Ms Banerjee also taunted them in Bengali. She mocked that only two leaders Kimb-hootkimakar (grotesque) and Hodolkootkoot (pot bellied man) have been calling all the shots in the country.

“There are only two leaders in the country. One of them is Hodolkootkoot. I do not what it is called in English or Hindi because it is a typical Bengali classical word. Another leader is Kimbhootkimakar,” she claimed.

A wise BJP IT cell in-charge Amit Malviya later attributed her jibe to the PM and the union home minister respectively. “Sensing an inevitable saffron surge across West Bengal, Pishi is clearly jittery and resorting to name calling, something culturally evolved people of WB had never witnessed in public discourse,” he tweeted.

A day after the Central Bureau of Investigation grilled her MP nephew Abhishek Banerjee’s wife Rujira Banerjee Narula at her home for her suspected link to overseas financial transactions in the high profile coal smuggling case, Ms Banerjee also asked the PM, “How can you, after entering my house, call a Bachcha Meye of 22-23 years who is also Ghorer Bou a coal thief when you are roaming with coal thieves in your lap? Don’t you feel ashamed of yourself to call our daughters and sisters at home coal thieves? You have dirt all over you.”

Film producer Raj Chakraborty, actress Shayoni Ghosh, actor Kanchan Chakraborty and cricketer Manoj Tiwari joined the TMC in front of Ms Banerjee at the rally. Later the CM urged the PM to help her government to purchase the vaccines from designated points on top priority basis and offer them to the common people as part of a rapid drive in the poll-bound state.

President’s Rule
imposed in Puducherry

DC CORRESPONDENT
PUDUCHERRY, FEB. 24

With the Union Cabinet approving of the proposal to impose President’s Rule in Puducherry, days after a Congress-led government in the union territory lost power during a vote of confidence, polls seem imminent.

Announcing the Cabinet decision in New Delhi, Union Minister Prakash Javadekar had told reporters that the decision was taken as no party was coming forward to stake a claim to form the government in the UT.

He also noted that the model code of conduct was expected to come into effect soon after the Election Commission announces the dates for elections in the UT, along with the four states of Tamil Nadu, Kerala, Assam and West Bengal.

The Lt Governor in charge of Puducherry, Tamilisai Soundararajan, had no choice but to recommend President’s Rule as the opposition group led by N. Rangasamy of the NR Congress with seven MLAs and having the support of four AIADMK MLAs besides the three (nominated) BJP MLAs who too have a vote was not keen on taking the reins of a government that might be in place for just about two months as polls are likely to be held in mid April itself.

With the Prime Minister visiting Puducherry on Thursday, it would have been embarrassing not to have resolved the situation arising after chief minister V. Narayanasamy put in his papers on Monday on walking out of the Assembly before the trust vote was taken.

Tokyo, Feb. 24: Japan's communications ministry punished 11 senior officials on Wednesday for accepting lavish dinners paid for by Prime Minister Yoshihide Suga's eldest son and his fellow executives at a satellite broadcaster, the latest embarrassment for Suga's already scandal-laden government.

Renew thrust on tests, speed up vaccinations

The Union government's directive to states which witness a spurt in the daily case load of Covid-19 to tighten the testing procedures and the announcement that it will soon start the vaccination programme for people other than frontline workers have come not one day late. The pandemic shows no sign of going; in fact, it continues to make lives difficult in nations across the globe. The number of deaths due to the virus in the United States has crossed 5 lakhs; Britain, another hard-hit nation, which has already vaccinated one third of its adult population, sees a return to normal life only by June. Both France and Germany are worried about the turn the pandemic has taken. France has not yet announced a national lockdown, but there is night-time curfew. As many as 14 of the 16 states in Germany report higher than the target level of infections.

Back home in India, the scene is far from comfortable. As many as 16 of the 36 states and Union territories have reported a rise in the Covid numbers last week while seven states — Maharashtra, Madhya Pradesh, Punjab, Jammu and Kashmir, Chhattisgarh, Delhi and Haryana — have reported a dramatic hike. Several districts in Maharashtra are under lockdown. India at present hosts all the important variants of the virus and scientists are afraid that some of them could frustrate vaccination drive by mutation. This situation leaves the Union government with little option other than taking a serious look at the way the pandemic is fought at the ground. The nation has now practically done away with every restriction that was part of the lockdown announced last year. Life has returned to near normal in most parts of the nation.

This is incompatible with the reality, and hence the government must take a relook at the restrictions before it is too late, including those on social, political and religious congregations. Educational institutions have started functioning in most states and now some states are opening even the primary classes. The government must seek expert advice on the opening of educational institutions and share it with the states.

India has targeted to vaccinate three crore frontline workers in the first phase and is at present close to half the target. It must speed up the process and soon announce the roll-out of the programme for the next target group — people who are aged above 50 years. The government has announced that it will rope in the private sector in the next phase. At present, only 0.8 vaccine doses, the lowest, have been given to 100 people in countries with highest total vaccinations. Hence the government should waste no time and come up with a transparent policy to co-opt private hospitals for the massive programme. The renewed thrust on RT-PCR tests is also welcome; the Union government should think of incentivising such tests by the states. There has to be a concerted effort by the Centre and the states to stop another wave of the pandemic.

Business trumps nationalism

Irrespective of whether it is viable strategy or not, the Narendra Modi government gives the impression of wanting to get back to business as usual with China as early as possible. Some Chinese investment proposals stuck in the pipeline since the time last summer when India woke up to sour northern neighbour's incursion into Indian territory have thus been cleared expeditiously.

These clearances appear to have been accorded no sooner than the disengagement of troops and military hardware were completed in the north and the south banks of Pangong Lake last Friday, and while the Chinese side is being difficult about vacating the strategically vital Depsang Plains where China's military presence cuts us off from our airfield at Daulat Beg Oldie and access to the Karakoram pass.

When the People's Liberation Army (PLA) moved into Indian territory there was much to do about applying a squeeze on Chinese economic interests as a form of retaliation. Hundreds of Chinese apps doing brisk business in India were choked. The "Atmanirbhar Bharat" slogan was sought to be made routine from the highest levels of government. That phase appears to be behind us.

Perhaps the business end of things is trumping nationalism for the Modi government. It turns out that in 2020 China remained India's biggest trading partner, and more was imported from China than from the US and the UAE — the second and the third biggest trading partners — put together.

It also became evident that at a time when India's exports were suffering on account of Covid and other factors, its exports to China were in steady shape. Perhaps the Modi regime does not want this compromised. India also uses Chinese heavy equipment, electronics and household appliances in a big way. On the whole, the Indian economy seems as difficult to disengage from the Chinese as Chinese soldiers from eastern Ladakh. Perhaps this is a reason why officially India is yet to acknowledge that China intruded into Indian territories.

Ignoring Biden mantra may be costly for India

K.C. Singh

Three events have been shaping India's geopolitical environment since the Galwan Valley stand-off between India and China since May-June last year. One is the trajectory of the Covid-19 pandemic and the pace of vaccination. Two, the ascendancy of US President Joe Biden and his swift moves to establish his domestic and international agenda. Finally, the farmers' agitation against the three agricultural reform laws, passed hurriedly by Parliament without a proper examination by a select committee or a division and vote.

A classic case was how a "toolkit" developed for environmental activists to be more effective, tweeted by global youth icon Greta Thunberg, became the locus of the police arrests of Indian activists recommending it to protesting farmers. From there it is being sought to be linked to pro-Khalistan proponents abroad. Almost 100 British parliamentarians threw their weight behind the Indian farmers, whose protest has gradually widened as the lead passed from mainly Punjabi and Sikh farm union leaders to the redoubtable Tikait brothers of western Uttar Pradesh and the family of late Prime Minister Charan Singh. Besides rumblings in the US Congress, the state department urged respect for the protesters' rights. American farm unions also lent their weight to the Indian protests.

In the brouhaha, not enough attention has been paid to the repeated message from President Joe Biden, as he told the Munich Conference that "we are at an inflection point". From that assumption, he argues how the US plans to regenerate economically and reassert strategically. The main challenges are climate change, the global pandemic, Chinese assertiveness combined with Russian obduracy, reform of multilateralism and defence of the democratic way of life.

Between President Biden's Munich address on February 19 and his remarks at the G-7 meeting a day earlier, the most striking was his plea over the role of democracy and rule of law. Critics maintain that historically US actions in this regard have often been differed from America's words. For decades, during the Cold War, the Americans not only happily worked with autocrats and dictators as allies but overthrew with alacrity democratic governments, for instance in Iran and Chile, if seen as unfriendly to US interests. Therefore, the Indian government has so far ignored subtle hints from the US that freedom of expression includes the freedom to protest peacefully and tweet or support those protests on social media platforms. The spat between the government and Twitter over which handles to block underscored the divergence between the Indian approach and that adopted in the West by and large.

President Biden's words need closer attention to understand that this is a new America, traumatised by four years of Trumpian undermining of US institutions, including the former President denying his electoral defeat and repeatedly rejecting the orderly transfer of power. That wound is still open as despite the impeachment of Mr Trump having failed, the US Congress is in the process of setting up a 9/11-type commission of inquiry into the Capital violence and Mr

Trump's role in it.

President Biden's Munich address began by recommitting America to its trans-Atlantic alliance, which his predecessor had contemptuously shredded. Then he developed at some length his defence of democracy. He argued that the alliance was rooted in the "richness of our shared values", including the need to protect the rights of all and the rule of law. He warned that in both the US and Europe "democratic progress is under assault". He added: "We are in the midst of a fundamental debate about the future and direction of our world". Despite the pandemic and the so-called fourth industrial revolution, he continued, democracy was essential and must prevail. He concluded this part with the telling sentence that "democracy does not happen by accident", nor is Western liberal democracy a "relic of history".

The same message emanated from the Australia-India-Japan-US Quad ministerial meeting, held a day before Mr Biden's Munich address. The statement notes the four nations share values as "political democracies, market economies and pluralistic societies". They seek a rules-based international order and respect for the territorial integrity of other nations. The second is aimed at both the maritime claims of China in South and East China seas, as indeed resolving Chinese intrusions across the Line of Actual Control in Ladakh. But India too had to accept in exchange the criticism of the military coup in Myanmar by joining the demand for the rule of law and democratic transition.

To assume that the US is just posturing against China and India's strategic value as a counterweight to China, economi-

Democracy for him is no longer some asinine prescription for the Third World, used selectively, but a living organism that needs defending if China and Russia have to be countered cally and militarily, would keep any serious criticism of heavy-handed and majoritarian governance of the Indian government in check might be a mistake. Mr Biden has seen power exercised both from the White House as vice-president for eight years and from the Senate, where he chaired the foreign relations committee. Hillary Clinton recounts in her book Hard Choices that she and Mr Biden opposed President Barack Obama cutting Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak loose as the protests developed at Tahrir Square during the Arab Spring. That was Mr Biden as the traditional pragmatist. But the new Biden has emerged triumphant from Donald Trump almost bringing US democracy to its knees. Democracy for him is no longer some asinine prescription for the Third World, used selectively, but a living organism that needs defending if China and Russia have to be countered.

Sources in the BJP say Prime Minister Narendra Modi is unwilling to roll back the farm laws. As chief minister, he apparently browbeat protesting Gujarat farmers over the installation of electricity meters. He is trying to extrapolate that success in dealings with the farmers of Punjab, Haryana and Uttar Pradesh. The BJP's Haryana government hangs by a thread. The UP Assembly election is just a year away. The Covid-19 pandemic is starting to respite as the vaccination pace is slow, with the calls for private sector involvement ignored. As Harold Wilson once said, a week is a long time in politics. Exactly a year ago, a cocky President Donald Trump said before he travelled to India that the US was on top of Covid-19. With him gone and half a million Americans dead, the conclusion is unavoidable that political arrogance can be costly. India may discover just that, caught between Prime Minister Modi's obduracy, the BJP's reflexive majoritarianism and President Biden's evangelistic defence of liberal democracy.

Though the fall of the Congress-led government in Puducherry is imminent, the way in which the political events took place crossed all the limits of constitutional provisions (Puducherry: Democracy on back foot, holds poll on time (DC, Feb. 24).) The episode exposes the failure of the anti-defection law to stop defections and cause a downfall of a government. Ironically, PM Narendra Modi in his Mann Ki Baat in May 2019, said: "Beyond laws and rules, democracy is embedded in our sanskaar; democracy is our culture. Democracy is our heritage."

CIVIC POLLS

The civic polls in Gujarat gave a resounding victory to the ruling BJP by thrashing hapless Congress (DC, Feb. 24). In AP village panchayat elections, the ruling YSR romped home easily beating the Telugu Desam. In Punjab, the ruling Congress won civic polls easily defeating the SAD. In West Bengal also the Trinamul succeeded in civic polls trouncing the BJP and the Congress parties. These results cannot be yardstick for Assembly and Parliament elections for all political parties.

5 Naxalites die in clash with jail wardens

KRISHNAGAR, February. 24

Five Naxalites were killed and 40 others injured in Berhampur jail in a clash with jail wardens this morning, according to District Magistrate of Murshidabad Ashok Chatterjee.

The trouble started when Naxalite prisoners stabbed the head warden, who had to be removed to hospital in a critical condition.

After this the Naxalites rioted and began dragging away another employee of the jail. To save him, the wardens made a lathi-charge in which five were killed and 40 others injured.

Naxalites similarly rioted in Midnapore Central Jail twice in recent weeks. About 20 Naxalites escaped from prison in Filiguri on February 21. — UNI

Keats' immortal poetry can be found on shelves all across world

The headstone above a final resting place dug in Rome's non-Catholic cemetery 200 years ago today bears the indelible inscription: "This grave contains all that was mortal of a young English poet who, on his death bed, in the bitterness of his heart at the malicious power of his enemies, desired these words to be engraven on his tomb stone: 'Here lies one whose name was writ in water'."

There is a harp above the inscription, but no name. As some readers might have guessed, the mortal remains are those of John Keats, the bicentenary of whose distressingly premature demise was commemorated yesterday with readings, lectures, virtual tours and the like. His immortal remains can be found in bookshelves all around the world.

Contrary to what the gravestone suggests, it wasn't bad reviews that killed the poet. The villain was tuberculosis, commonly known back then as consumption. After a night out in London in February 1820, Keats coughed up blood and recognised its colour. "That drop of blood is my death warrant," he told his housemate. "I must die."

A couple of years earlier, he had watched his younger brother, Tom, succumb to the ailment. As a teenager, he had seen his mother die of the same disease. Besides, he was a qualified apothecary and an apprentice surgeon who eventually chose poetry over medicine, but not before working at Guy's and St Thomas' hospitals in London.

Orphaned at a tender age, Keats was a belligerent schoolboy, more interested in brawls than in scholastic pursuits. But he became a voracious reader in his later teens and soon began spouting verse. Hardly any of his juvenile poetry has stood the test of time, although the emotions expressed therein ought to be familiar to men — yes, it's the male gaze, although Keats was later to be commended (or criticised) for his feminine sensibility, too.

The sonnet "On First Looking into Chapman's Homer" is generally seen as his first significant poem, signalling a lifelong fascination with Greek mythology, which didn't always serve him well. It was followed not long afterwards by a far lesser known sonnet, Written in Disgust at Vulgar Superstition, an exhortation of organised religion. Some of the early poems also hint at political engagement, but it never came anywhere close to that of his contemporary (and admirer) Percy Bysshe Shelley.

Keats' first volume of verse, published in 1817, may not have been particularly impressive, but it did not deserve the derision it received from a Tory literary establishment almost genetically inclined to be dismissive of "Cockney poets". The criticism became even more vicious when Keats published his first long poem, Endymion; he himself was far from satisfied with this extended excursion into Greek mythology, but had decided that he couldn't countenance any further revisions.

What's particularly extraordinary, though, is that his genius wasn't widely recognised even after he published Lamia, Isabella, The Eve of St

Agnes and Other Poems in 1820. The "other poems" included, mind you, some of the most exquisite verses committed to paper in the English language — the odes "To a Nightingale", "On a Grecian Urn" and "To Autumn", alongside the odes "To Psyche" and "On Melancholy". The only notable poem that followed was the sonnet Bright Star.

Yet by the mid-19th century Keats was yet to be recognised as a gift to posterity, unlike older contemporaries such as Wordsworth and Coleridge (both of whom he had met). Perhaps it was only in the 20th century that Keats' stature (he stood 5ft 11in) was deservedly elevated to that of a literary giant, but his star was already shining bright in the late 19th century.

On a visit in 1877 to the cemetery where the poet's remains are interred, Oscar Wilde prostrated himself upon the grave and declared it to be "the holiest place in Rome". He marked the occasion with a sonnet that includes the lines: "Thy name was writ in water — it shall stand/ And tears like mine will keep thy memory green."

The original manuscript can be found in the Keats-Shelley House adjacent to the Spanish Steps in Rome, where Keats grew pallid and spectre-thin and died just months after he arrived in Italy, having survived a tumultuous sea voyage that included quarantine off the coast of Naples because of a cholera outbreak in London.

Keats stepped ashore on his 25th birthday, fully aware that his fears that "I may cease to be/ before my pen has gleaned my teeming brain" were about to come true. His possible future shall eternally remain a mystery and matter of conjecture. But given his core body of work, it's hard not to conclude that the opening lines of Endymion would have served as a far more appropriate epitaph than a name "writ in water": "A thing of beauty is a joy forever: Its loveliness increases; it will never/ Fade into nothingness..."

Common infra for govt, corp bonds mullied

Unification of government bond and corporate bond markets will enable the trading of such securities on the same platform, thereby utilising common infrastructure for trading, clearing, settlement and holding of securities, said Sebi chairman Ajay Tyagi. "Unification of government bond and corporate bond markets is an idea whose time has come," Tyagi said. This would lead to seamless transmission of pricing info, he said.

Bidders of PSBs should have deep pockets: RBI

The potential owners of privatised public sector banks must be financially strong to ensure that the lenders have robust risk buffers, the RBI governor said. While the government has the final say in deciding the buyers, from the regulator's perspective, the bidders should meet RBI's fit and proper criteria and have enough financial strength to capitalise the banks significantly, governor Shaktikanta Das said in an interview.

Bourses trade till 5 pm; indices soar Glitch gives stocks an extended run

RAVI RANJAN PRASAD
MUMBAI, FEB. 24

The National Stock Exchange on Wednesday faced a major technical glitch, leading to a halt in trading for more than three hours from 11.40 am, as the bourse had faced connectivity issues with its server.

Surging volumes both in cash and futures & options segments before the monthly derivatives expiry on Thursday might also have contributed to the technical glitch, said market experts.

On Tuesday, the traded value of NSE's cash segment was Rs 75,979 crore against rival BSE's Rs 4,520 crore.

As traders had several open positions a day before the monthly equity derivatives expiry, the halting of trading led to a panic situation among the market participants as there was no communication either from the NSE or the market regulator as to when trading would be resumed while the BSE was functioning normally.

Around 1 pm the NSE spokesperson stated that the exchange's multiple telecom links with two service providers were having issues with their links, due to which there was an impact on NSE systems and that they were working on restoring the systems.

Finally, the market hours had to be extended till 5 pm to close the open positions in the market. The NSE finally

SEBI SEEKS NSE'S EXPLANATION FOR NOT MIGRATING TO DISASTER RECOVERY SITE

Mumbai, Feb. 24: Regulator Sebi on Wednesday asked the National Stock Exchange to explain why trading on the bourse did not migrate to a disaster recovery site after facing connectivity issues.

It also advised the NSE to carry out a detailed root cause analysis of the "trading halt" witnessed at the exchange.

The NSE should "explain the reasons for trading not migrating to the disaster recovery site" and asked it to submit a report at the earliest, according to an official statement.

A disaster recovery system helps as a plan-B in times of distress to ensure that activity is not affected. The bourse said it depends on two telecom service providers for connectivity, and both failed simultaneously. —PTI reopened for trade at 3.30 pm after ironing out the glitches and trade continued till 5 pm uninterrupted.

The extended trading hours resulted in sharp gains for the market ahead of the futures & options contracts expiry.

The Fifty-50 closed 274 points, or 1.86 per cent, higher at 14,982 while the Sensex gained 1,030 points to close at 50,781.

"Due to technical glitch, the option buyers (especially 'put' option buyers) had to pay the price because we witnessed premiums falling drastically due to the loss of time. For call buyers (as well as put writers), it may not have impacted much because once the market resumed trading for a short period, market had a sharp upsurge which could have definitely benefited them. But for other counter party, prices just diminished rapidly," said Sameet Chavan, technical and derivatives analyst, Angel Broking.

Marketmen questioned the bourse's decision to halt trade, as only index feeds were not updating.

"The biggest question in this whole issue is why was the entire market shut just because index feeds were not refreshing? Feeds for underlying contracts were fine and so was order matching, so why shut down the entire market?" asked Jimeet Modi, CEO & founder, Samco Ventures.

"A similar issue in index feeds had happened a few months ago, but trading was not completely halted. Instead, trading went on with the glitch in index prices that day. Sebi and NSE need to quickly look at alternatives here," Modi said.

All pvt banks can now offer pension, other govt biz

N e w

Delhi, Feb.

24: The finance ministry on Wednesday allowed all private sector banks to participate in government-related business like collection of taxes pension payments and small savings schemes.

Currently, only a few large private sector banks are allowed to conduct government-related business.

"Embargo lifted on grant of Govt business to private banks. All banks can now participate. Private banks can now be equal partners in development of the Indian economy, furthering Govt's social sector initiatives, and enhancing customer convenience," finance minister Nirmala Sitharaman said in a tweet.

An official statement said, "with the lifting of the embargo, there is now no bar on RBI for authorisation of private sector banks (in addition to public sector banks) for government business, including government agency business. The government has conveyed its decision to RBI."

The government has already announced its intent to privatise two public sector lenders, other than IDBI Bank, in the Budget 2021-22. —PTI

ReNew Power gets $8 bn valuation in merger deal

New Delhi, Feb. 24: ReNew Power has agreed to merge with blank-cheque company RMG Acquisition Corporation II, giving India's biggest renewable power producer an enterprise value of $8 billion and a listing on the Nasdaq.

The biggest deal in the fast-growing clean energy sector is expected to close in the second quarter, a company statement said on Wednesday.

The deal will be financed with cash proceeds of $1.2 billion, including $855 million in investments from serial blank-check dealmaker Chamath Paliapitiya, funds managed by BlackRock and Sylebra Capital.

A blank-cheque company is a developmental stage firm that does not have established business plan.

"The transaction would further bolster ReNew's leading position in solar and wind energy generation for the Indian market, by funding medium-term growth opportunities, as well as paying down debt," it said.

This is the first major overseas listing of an Indian company via the Spac (special purpose acquisition company) route, which is a big hit currently on Wall Street.

A Spac is a shell or blank-cheque company and its sole aim is to raise capital via an initial public offering to acquire a private business at a later date and then take it public without going through the traditional route of IPOs.

In this transaction, RMG Acquisition Corporation II is the blank-cheque company. It raised $345 million in its December 2020 IPO. Founded in 2011, ReNew Power counts Goldman Sachs and Canada Pension Plan Investment Board (CPPIB) among its prominent investors. It owns and operates 5 GW of solar and wind energy projects.

The merger comes at a time when India is targeting 450 GW renewable energy capacity by 2030.

"The Indian renewable energy sector has grown rapidly over the last decade," said Sumant Sinha, founder chairman and CEO of ReNew.

"During this time, ReNew has been a driving force in making sure that the sources of this growth are sustainable, and also economically competitive."

"Over the next decade, ReNew plans to maintain its track record of market share growth. Over time, we will expand our capabilities even further, with utility-scale battery storage, and customer-focused intelligent energy solutions," he said.

RMG II CEO Bob Mancini said the firm was looking to partner with a company driving change on a global scale, with a proven track record, and best-in-class management. "We found that company in ReNew," he said.

The pro forma consolidated and fully diluted market capitalization of the combined company would be $4.4 billion.

"Proceeds (from the deal) will be used to support ReNew's growth strategy, including the buildout of its contracted, utility-scale renewable power generation capacity, as well as to reduce debt," the statement said.

ReNew's management, and its current group of stockholders, including Goldman Sachs, CPPIB, Abu Dhabi Investment Authority, and Jera Co, among others, who together own 100 per cent of ReNew today, will be rolling a majority of their equity into the new company, and are expected to represent 70 per cent of the effective company ownership. —PTI

India, China reduced global income inequality: ILO

SANGEETHA G
CHENNAI, FEB. 24

Economic convergence, driven mainly by China and India, has caused global labour income inequality to decline over the past 13 years, finds the International Labour Organisation.

According to the ILO, the global labour income distribution is lopsided. A worker in the top decile earns $7,475 per month and one in the bottom decile, just $22. The highest-earning 10 per cent of workers worldwide received almost half, or 48.9 per cent, of total pay, the next decile received 20.1 per cent while the remaining 80 per cent workers received just 31 per cent.

Although global pay inequality levels are very high, it is important to note that they have decreased between 2004 and 2017. However, if India and China are excluded, a much slower reduction in labour income inequality over that period has been observed. Interestingly, these findings do not reflect a decrease in

DIFFERENT STROKES

► Global labour income distribution is lopsided. A worker in the top decile earns $7,475 per month and one in the bottom decile, just $22

► The highest-earning 10% of workers worldwide received 48.9% of total pay while 80% workers got just 31%

► Neither India nor China registered a dip in inequality, rather their growth along with initial low income 'mechanically' reduced global inequality inequality within India or China-indeed, the data suggest that neither country registered such a decline during 2004-17. Instead, the two countries have enjoyed very high growth rates, which, together with their initially low level of average labour income, have contributed "mechanically" via economic convergence to a global decrease in inequality.

The report also finds that despite the economic progress made in past decades, the number of people not in employment, education or training are likely to increase in Asia-Pac, including India, due to the recent deceleration of GDP.

The share of youth who are not in employment, education or training in the region reached 24.3 per cent in 2019 compared with 23.9 per cent in 2018. The high rate is driven by South Asia, where opportunities for young women to go to university or work is limited. In South Asia nearly 161 million youth, including 81 million young women, have this status.

Further, the labour productivity growth rate, measured as output per worker, dropped from 4.3 per cent in 2018 to 3.9 per cent in 2019. This drop was driven mainly by countries in South-East Asia, the Pacific and South Asia, including India and some of the Asean countries where GDP growth decelerated. Poor job quality and high rates of informality remain a challenge to be tackled by governments and employers' and workers' organisations. As many as 79.1 million workers in Asia and the Pacific, or 4.2 per cent, remained in extreme poverty in 2019, and 277 million workers or 14.6 per cent were still living in moderate poverty. While working poverty continues to decline, those who have escaped poverty remain highly vulnerable to adverse economic shocks and therefore face a significant risk of becoming poor again.

The report also found that the Periodic Labour Force Survey (PLFS) of India is not in line with international best practice. The main difference between the ILO modelled estimates of November 2019 and those of November 2018 is the revision of historical unemployment rates for India. There are considerable methodological differences here, it said.

91-year-old Suzuki chairman to bow out

RIVER DAVIS
FEB. 24

Suzuki Motor Corporation's 91-year-old chairman Osamu Suzuki is stepping down after leading an automaker for longer than anyone else in the industry.

Suzuki, who served as the Japanese carmaker's chief executive for 22 years and then as chairman for another two decades, will step down from his current role following a shareholders meeting in June, the company said in a statement on Wednesday. He will remain as a senior adviser.

With almost half a century at the helm, Suzuki is widely credited with turning the carmaker into what it is today: one of the largest small-vehicle manufacturers in the world. Instead of taking Japan's biggest auto giants like Toyota Motor Corp head on, Suzuki worked to grow the company by finding new markets around the world for its compact automobiles, building a dominant share in India during his first of two terms as president from 1978 to 2000.

The nonagenarian also steered Suzuki into alliances with two of the world's biggest automakers, Volkswagen AG and General Motors Co, though those ultimately failed.

His departure comes one week after Honda Motor Co's chief executive Takahiro Hachigo said he would resign effective June, underscoring the churn the Japanese auto industry is currently undergoing. Japanese carmakers are beginning to recover from a tough pandemic-marred year, but even as demand revives, they're struggling to meet sales targets amid a global chip shortage.

ITALIAN GROUP TO ACQUIRE MODERN FOODS

Mumbai, Feb. 24: Private equity player Everstone Capital has sold Modern Foods, which it had taken over in early 2016 from Hindustan Unilever, to Italian baking major Grupo Bimbo for an undisclosed sum.

Everstone in a statement on Wednesday said that Modern Food Enterprises, which was held by its bread and bakery platform Everfoods Asia, was sold to Ready Roti India, the domestic subsidiary of the Italian major.

Grupo Bimbo is the largest baking company in the world, operating in 33 countries, including in India, and has a diversified portfolio of over 13,000 products ucts and more than 100 brands.

Everfoods acquired Modern Foods from Hindustan Unilever in April 2016 and successfully relaunched the iconic bread brand in June 2017 nationwide.

HUL had bought Modern Foods from the government in 2000 as part of the divestment process and later decided to exit as part of its strategy to leave non-core sectors.

Modern Food Industries was set up by the government 1965 as Modern Bakeries in Madras and was renamed as Modern Food in 1982. When sold off to HUL, it had 13 bread manufacturing units apart from fruit juice concentrates under brand name Rasika in New Delhi and aerated soft drinks Double Seven.

Harpic drives RB's India sales

New Delhi, Feb. 24:

British FMCG major RB Plc on Wednesday said the large contribution from markets like India, where consumption of its hygiene products such as toilet cleaner Harpic soared in the Covid-impacted 2020, helped it to grow 11.8 per cent to 13.99 billion pounds in the year.

The company witnessed a volume growth of 9.6 per cent in 2020, led by the strong performance of its disinfectant brands driving market penetration and share, said RB, which owns brands like Dettol, Lysol, Durex, Strepsils and Vanish.

"All geographic regions have grown, with the largest contributors to growth including the US, India and China," said RB (Reckitt Benckiser) in an earning statement.

Its leading disinfectant brands have seen exceptionally strong levels of penetration and brands as Dettol and Lysol are used in over 300 million households globally.

"In India alone, Harpic is now used in over 100 million homes, up by nearly 30 million compared to 2019, as a result of purpose-led marketing campaigns centred around behaviour change," the company said.

Lysol is now estimated to be present in over half of all US homes, while in Canada, its penetration is up over 1200 basis points over the past year.

"Mortein and Harpic also delivered growth in all their major geographies, with Harpic particularly strong in India," it said.

In 2020, RB's net revenue for the hygiene segment was up 19.5 per cent at 5.81 billion pounds.

Its popular brands as Dettol and sexual well-being brand Durex helped RB to get its net revenue from the health segment to go up by 12.1 per cent to 4.89 billion British pounds in 2020 on a like for like basis.

"Consumer demand for disinfectants drove strong demand for Dettol throughout 2020, with the brand growing over 50 per cent," it said. —PTI

Murray knocked out by Gerasimov

Montpellier: Andy Murray was dumped out of the ATP event in Montpellier on Tuesday after suffering a straight-sets defeat in the opening round against Belarusian Egor Gerasimov.

Murray, who missed the Australian Open after testing positive for Covid-19, was playing his first ATP Tour event since last October. The 33-year-old Briton lost in the final of a second-tier Challenger tournament in Italy to Illya Marchenko earlier this month. Murray fell a break behind in the seventh game against Gerasimov on Tuesday, but fought back to force a tie-break. He missed one opportunity to take the set in the breaker, but his opponent clinched it on his fourth set point. It was all one-way traffic in the second set, though, as Murray had to save a match point to avoid being on the wrong end of a bagel. The three-time Grand Slam champion is currently 121st in the world, having been beset by hip and groin injuries. — AFP

Jyoti stuns world champ, in Last 8

New Delhi: Jyoti Gulia (51kg) upstaged two-time world champion Nazym Kyzaibay of Kazakhstan to enter the quarterfinals along with two others but three Indians bowed out after second-round losses in the 72nd Strandja Memorial Boxing Tournament in Sofia, Bulgaria.

Gulia, a 2017 world youth champion, prevailed 3-2 over Kyzaibay, a gold-winner from the 2014 and 2016 senior world championships. The Haryana-boxer is also a 2019 national champion. She will take on Romania's Perijoc Lacramioara in her quarterfinal bout on Thursday. Another Indian to enter the quarter-finals on the second day was Bhagyabati Kachari, who outclassed Russian opponent Anna Galimova 5-0 in the 75kg category. — PTI

Doncic clinches thriller for Dallas

Los Angeles: Luka Doncic nailed two clutch three-pointers, including the game winner with one second left, to lift the Dallas Mavericks to a thrilling 110-107 victory over the Boston Celtics on Tuesday in Texas.

Doncic hit consecutive go-ahead three-pointers in the final 30 seconds, draining a step-back three with 15 seconds left to make it 107-105. He repeated the feat by shooting a high arching 28-footer over two Celtics defenders with less than a second left to win it. The 21-year-old Slovenian finished with 31 points, 10 rebounds and eight assists as the Mavs earned their sixth win in seven games. — AFP

Bamford fires Leeds to 3-0 win

Leeds: Patrick Bamford strengthened his case for an England call-up ahead of the European Championship by scoring his 13th goal of the season in Leeds' 3-0 win over struggling Southampton in the Premier League on Tuesday.

Bamford squeezed a low, angled shot into the corner from the edge of the area in the 47th minute to put Leeds ahead and move level with Harry Kane and Dominic Calvert-Lewin as the leading English scorers this campaign. Only Liverpool forward Mohamed Salah and Manchester United midfielder Bruno Fernandes have scored more. Left back Stuart Dallas provided an outside-of-the-foot finish at the end of a breakaway in the 78th for Leeds' second goal and Brazilian winger Raphinha wrapped up the victory with a curling free kick from 20 meters as Southampton's winless run extended to eight games. The margin of victory flattered Leeds. — AFP

AXAR'S SIXER!

Patel takes 6/38 as India bowl England out for 112

Ahmedabad, Feb. 24: Axar Patel's devastating six-wicket haul bundled England out for 112 before Rohit Sharma's languid elegance shone through in an unbeaten half century that handed India the edge on the opening day of the day-night third Test here on Wednesday.

The combination of left-arm Patel and off-spinner Ravichandran Ashwin exploited the turning Motera pitch at the newly-inaugurated Narendra Modi stadium to the full and England's first innings folded in just 48.4 overs after the visitors opted to bat.

Patel (21.4-6-38-6) grabbed his second five-for in his second Test while Ashwin (16-6-26-3) took three.

At stumps, India were 99 for 3 from 33 overs with Rohit batting on 57 off 82 balls. Ajinkya Rahane (1) was giving him company following skipper Virat Kohli's dismissal in the second last over of the day.

Kohli was dismissed for 27 off 58 balls by left-arm spinner Jack Leach (10-1-27-2).

India trailed by just 13 runs with seven first innings wickets in hand.

Before this, it was a nightmare that unfolded for England with the 47-run stand for the third wicket being their best. They lost their last six wickets in the second session. The last seven wickets yielded just 38 runs.

This was after Ishant Sharma, only the second Indian fast bowler after Kapil Dev to play in 100 Tests, fittingly took India's first wicket in the third over to open the floodgates for the hosts.

He was accorded a guard of honour by his teammates after being felicitated by President Ram Nath Kovind and Home Minister Amit Shah ahead of his landmark game. In reply to a below par score, India negotiated the opening spells of much-vaunted England seamers James Anderson and Stuart Broad without any damage in the tricky twilight period. — PTI

Players will need to adapt quickly to lights, says Kohli

Ahmedabad, Feb. 24: Indian skipper Virat Kohli is worried that the lights at the Narendra Modi Stadium here could potentially impact visibility and said the players will need to adapt quickly.

Tiger in hospital after major crash

Washington, Feb. 24: The amazing golf career of Tiger Woods, from two-year-old prodigy to his epic comeback 2019 Masters victory, was in jeopardy Tuesday after injuries suffered in a serious solo car crash.

The 45-year-old American, among the world's most famous athletes for the past quarter-century, underwent surgery for multiple leg injuries following the early morning wreck near Los Angeles.

It could mean the end of a groundbreaking career that has seen Woods win 15 major titles, three shy of the all-time record set by Jack Nicklaus, and 82 US PGA crowns, level with Sam Snead for the all-time mark.

Woods has faced plenty of prior troubles off the course, including multiple back and knee surgeries, the 2009 revelation of multiple affairs that led to an emotional public apology and divorce from wife Elin Nordegren plus a 2017 reckless driving incident.

Woods was recovering from 2017 back surgery when he was arrested for driving under the influence of alcohol or drugs, his mug shot drawing worldwide attention. He said he had not realized how prescription drugs he was taking might interact and later pleaded guilty to reckless driving.

In the 1990s, Woods put himself alongside pal and NBA star Michael Jordan as two of the world's most iconic sports stars and richest endorsements pitchmen, his fame going beyond golf lovers or sports fans.

Woods thrilled audiences with his skill as well as a winning charm and personality, global audiences inviting him into their homes through television every week, while at the same time keeping private details about his life.

Woods was the first black winner of the Masters in 1997, hugging his father Earl after his historic victory in course record fashion.

In 2019, Woods would come off the same green at Augusta National after winning his first major title since 2008 and hug his children, Sam and Charlie, in a bookend moment to signal a completed return from back surgery Woods hoped would allow him a normal life. It also gave him another chance at golfing glory.

Andhra go down to Punjab

Indore, Feb. 24: Punjab bounced back from back-to-back defeats to beat Andhra by seven wickets in a Group 'B' match to register their first win in the ongoing Vijay Hazare Trophy here on Wednesday.

Punjab skipper Mandeep Singh won the toss and sent Andhra in to bat and Siddharth Kaul (4/27) was bang on target from the word go. Kaul got Ashwin Hebbur, centurion in the previous match against Tamil Nadu, for 1 in the fourth over.

Kaul then struck a huge blow by getting the wicket of Andhra captain Hanuma Vihari (2).

A disciplined bowling effort from Punjab meant Andhra innings never had the momentum. Kaul picked up four wickets while left-arm medium-pacer Barinder Sran took three as Andhra were bowled out for 175 in the 49th over.

Chasing the target, Mandeep starred with an unbeaten 64 (81 balls, 8 fours) to take Punjab home in 36 overs and register their first win in the tournament.

Meanwhile in Surat, Baroda beat Hyderabad by 110 runs, courtesy Kedar Devdhar's hundred and impressive show by the bowlers.

Put into bat, Baroda rode on Devdhar's stroke-filled 131 to post a competitive 316/7 on the board, and then bundled out the opposition for 206, with Babashafi Pathan (3/37) doing the bulk of the damage.

Devdhar was back among the runs as he tore apart the Hyderabad attack with his 139-ball innings, hammering 14 boundaries and two maximums. He and Smit Patel (35) added 79 runs for the first wicket. But Patel perished after being caught by B. Sandeep off right-arm medium pacer Ajay Dev Goud (2/68).

Hyderabad could not capitalise on a 75-run strong start given by openers Tanmay Agarwal (34) and Tilak Varma (47) and suffered a middle-order collapse. Both the openers perished in quick succession as Hyderabad slipped to 83/2.

Baroda rattled Hyderabad by striking twice, first Ninad Rathwa ran out Himalay Agarwal (17) and Babashafi Pathan then sent back Mickil Jaiswal (5). B. Sandeep (18) and T. Ravi Teja (19) weren't able to convert their starts as Hyderabad found themselves reeling at 143/6. Hyderabad were eventually bundled out for 202.

Giroud's gem earns victory for Chelsea

Bucharest, Feb. 24: Olivier Giroud's magnificent bicycle kick broke Atletico Madrid's resistance and earned Chelsea a crucial away goal on Tuesday, a 1-0 victory giving Thomas Tuchel's side a slender advantage in the Champions League last 16.

Giroud's acrobatic strike was initially ruled out for offside but stood after VAR showed Mario Hermoso had got the final touch, delivering a huge blow to Atletico's hopes of reaching the quarterfinals. Atletico Madrid had put on a typically disciplined defensive performance until that point but Giroud's moment of genius means they will have to score in London on March 17 if they are to avoid an early exit.

It also continues a worrying dip for Atletico, whose lead in La Liga is also under threat after one win in four matches. Meanwhile at Rome, Holders Bayern Munich brushed off their recent poor domestic form by throwing down a Champions League marker with an emphatic 4-1 win at Lazio to take a "huge step" towards the quarter-finals. Robert Lewandowski gave Bayern an early lead before Jamal Musiala scored his first Champions League goal. — AFP
