Maya's u-turn on backing BJP

Lucknow: Bahujan Samaj Party president Mayawati asserted on Monday that her party would never enter into an alliance with the BJP in elections, highlighting that the ideology of the two parties were "opposite". Her clarification came amid speculation over her last week's statement that the BSP would vote for the BJP or any other party's candidate to ensure defeat of the Samajwadi Party contenders in future elections, including those of the Uttar Pradesh legislative council and the Rajya Sabha. She alleged that the SP and the Congress were misusing her statement so that the Muslims distance themselves from the BSP.

SC: Speed up Tablighi cases

New Delhi: The Supreme Court on Monday asked the trial courts to expedite hearing in the pending cases against foreign Tablighi Jamaat members for alleged visa violations. A bench of Justices A.M. Khanwilkar, Dinesh Maheshwari and Sanjiv Khanna listed the pleas filed against blacklisting of foreign members of Tablighi Jamaat for attending the Nizamuddin Markaz congregation in the national capital for further hearing on November 20 and asked the lower courts to expeditiously deal with their cases.

Centre to release ₹2,300 cr for Polavaram minus riders

N. VAMSI SRINIVAS | DC HYDERABAD, NOV. 2

In a major and immediate relief to the Y.S. Jagan Mohan Reddy government in Andhra Pradesh, the Union finance ministry on Monday agreed to release ₹2,300 crore for the ongoing Polavaram multipurpose irrigation project without imposing riders. Earlier, the finance ministry insisted that the Jal Shakti ministry approve the project cost at ₹29,000 crore as estimated in the financial year 2013-2014 as against the revised estimate of ₹48,000 crore. The precondition for releasing the funds, if agreed by the Jal Shakti ministry, would have put a heavy financial burden on the state government as it could have had to bear the differential amount.

"We are happy to note that the Union finance ministry has removed a conditional clause for releasing ₹2,300 crore and asked the Jal Shakti ministry to sort out the issue by the time the next instalment is due," a senior water resources official of Andhra Pradesh told Deccan Chronicle.

The Jagan Mohan Reddy government has also got a shot-in-the-arm with the Polavaram Project Authority (PPA), a nodal agency, observing that the project could be completed only at the revised estimate. The PPA met here on Monday under the chairmanship of Chandrasekhar Iyer to discuss the finance ministry's proposal to the Jal Shakti ministry to approve the project cost to avail funds. Significantly, the PPA also fixed April 2022 as the deadline for completing the project.

An expert committee, which recently visited the project site, has prepared a monthly schedule of works to be completed to meet the deadline.

MFG SECTOR SEES FASTEST GROWTH IN A DECADE

MADHUSUDAN SAHOO NEW DELHI, NOV. 2

With rising demand and output amidst Covid-19 disruptions, India's factory activity, measured by the Manufacturing Purchasing Managers' Index (PMI), expanded to 58.9 in October—nearly a 13-year high and the fastest pace in over a decade. However, on the employment front, the numbers remain a concern, as companies cut more jobs, a private survey showed on Monday.

Even though the economy shrank at a record 23.9 per cent in the April-June quarter, the latest PMI survey shows that Asia's third-largest economy is signalling a fast pace of recovery with several economic indicators turning positive.

"Rising from 56.8 in September to 58.9 in October, the headline PMI pointed to the strongest improvement in the health of the sector in over a decade, with companies raising output to the greatest extent in 13 years amid robust sales growth. The reading was the highest since May 2010 and above the 50-level separating growth from contraction for the third straight month.

US poll campaign draws to a close

Washington, Nov. 2: The US Presidential campaign entered its final day on Monday with a last-minute scramble for votes by incumbent Donald Trump and his challenger Joe Biden, drawing to a close an extraordinary race that has put a pandemic-stricken country on edge.

While campaigning will halt and voters will have their say on Tuesday, many questions remain over how soon a result will be known due to a flood of mail-in ballots and possible legal challenges.

Those factors, along with an unprecedented convergence of social justice protests, coronavirus precautions and Trump's fear-mongering campaign, have led to apprehension over whether unrest could erupt. Taking no chances, businesses in some cities have boarded up windows, while across the country the harsh political climate has led to fierce debate. As proof of how much

Americans have been galvanised — and perhaps frightened by the pandemic — a record of more than 93 million people have cast early ballots, according to the nonpartisan US Elections Project.

As the hours count down on Monday and with polls showing him behind, Trump and Biden continue their final rallies.

57 teachers, 3 students test positive for Corona

Source of infection could not be schools, say officials

AVINASH P. SUBRAMANYAM | DC TIRUPATI, NOV. 2

Even as the Covid infection continues to threaten, bringing students back to the classrooms appears to be unsafe as the first day of reopening since March, saw some teachers and students testing positive for coronavirus on Monday.

As per the data, six students, including three each from Nellore and Chittoor districts, tested positive when the medical department conducted random tests. Similarly, about 57 teachers in Chittoor and a watchman and a mid-day meals helper in Nellore district also tested positive.

It may be recalled that there was strong criticism from various sections on the decision to reopen the schools while the virus rages. Monday's incidents prove them right and this has created ripples among parents and officials. The education department officials have, however, said that it is possible the children or teachers were infected elsewhere.

SAMPAT G. SAMRITAN | DC VIJAYAWADA, NOV. 2

Chief Minister Y.S. Jagan Mohan Reddy directed officials to ensure that students are not subject to any undue pressure on catching up with academics in a bid to cover the Covid-19 setback.

He was speaking at a review meeting on higher education with minister for education Adimulapu Suresh, chief secretary Nilam Sawhney and other senior officials at his Camp Office on Monday.

Jagan Mohan Reddy laid stress on a motivational ambience so that students concentrate better and be on their chosen career path. He asked the officials to comply with the guidelines issued by both the Centre and the UGC in promoting higher education in the state.

The CM called for compliance with standards, especially in private universities. Pointing out that students prefer private universities in the expectation of quality teaching and good infrastructure, the state government should keep a check on such universities.

POOR TURNOUT SEEN IN SCHOOLS, COLLEGES IN STATE

DC CORRESPONDENT VIJAYAWADA, NOV. 2

The fear of getting infected with Covid-19 seems to have had its impact on the turnout of students from Classes IX and X and Intermediate second year in both government and private institutions.

As schools and colleges reopened on Monday after seven months closure, the turnout of students was poor on the first day.

While 43.65 per cent Class 10 students attended schools, only 39.65 per cent students from Class 9 turned out at the schools. In total, out of 10,04,989 students, the attendance registered was 42 per cent.

Among the teachers, out of a total strength of 98,723, as many as 86,656 attended schools for an 87.88 per cent of attendance.

Hotly-contested Dubbak bypoll has all TS focus

S.A. ISHAQUI | DC HYDERABAD, NOV. 2

The stage is set for polling on Tuesday in the Dubbak Assembly constituency which witnessed a high-voltage campaign ever since the bypoll was notified by the Election Commission.

The polling is scheduled to take place at 315 polling stations in the constituency from 7 am to 6 pm. The Election Commission has made all arrangements for the conduct of the bypoll in compliance with Covid-19 norms, besides taking tight security measures.

The byelection was necessitated by the death of sitting TRS MLA Solipeta Ramalinga Reddy in August this year. The TRS has fielded his widow Solipeta Sujatha as its candidate. Though 23 candidates are in the fray, the main contest is among the candidates of the TRS, Congress and the BJP.

The Congress has given the ticket to TRS leader Cheruku Srinivas Reddy, who joined the party just ahead of the bypoll, while the BJP has fielded M. Raghunandan Rao who lost the previous election in Dubbak. The results of the byelection will be out on November 10.

Political observers believe that odds are in the favour of the ruling TRS and that it would certainly retain the seat. They claim that typically a majority of voters in the bypoll opt for the ruling party for the development programmes.

As the TRS goes into the Dubbaka byelection with a good track record of winning such exercises, the fight between the Congress and the BJP appears to be confined to the second position. The Congress, though claims to defeat the ruling party, is trying hard to retain its second place in view of the ensuing elections to the Greater Hyderabad Municipal Corporation. If the Congress loses its second position, it would have to face a difficult situation in the GHMC polls, observers noted.

SC won't extend ex-judge's security

New Delhi, Nov. 2: The Supreme Court on Monday refused to extend the security of former special judge S.K. Yadav who had pronounced the verdict in the Babri Masjid demolition case and acquitted all 32 accused, including BJP veterans L.K. Advani, M.M. Joshi and Uma Bharti.

A bench, headed by Justice R.F. Nariman and also comprising Justices

Navin Sinha and Krishna Murari, was considering the former judge's request to continue his security in view of the sensitivity of the case decided by him on his last day in office.

"Having perused the letter, we don't consider it appropriate to provide security," the bench said.

Attendance of students better in Chittoor, Nellore rural areas

Parents are concerned about the safety of their kids despite assurances

AVINASH P.
SUBRAMANYAM | DC
TIRUPATI, NOV. 2

Despite worries over the safety of children and parents' reluctance to give their consent for physical classes, the attendance of the students is better in rural areas as compared to the urban areas across Chittoor and Nellore districts.

On day one of the reopening of schools on Monday, about 70-75 per cent and 43 per cent attendance was reported from schools across the Nellore and Chittoor districts respectively, in which schools in rural areas saw 60 per cent attendance.

Officials of the Education Department said some parents are concerned about the safety of their kids despite assurances by the administration regarding adherence to the Covid-19 safety guidelines and are not keen to send their wards to schools just yet.

District Educational Officers of Nellore and Chittoor districts, P. Ramesh and Narasimha Reddy said that the Covid-19 scare was still prevalent. Confirming that the attendance of the students is better in rural areas as compared to the urban areas, they reiterated that all schools had been sanitised and Covid-19 standard operating protocols (SOPs) are being followed.

In Chittoor district, of the 69,587 students enrolled in ninth standard (34,931) and tenth standard (34,656) at 673 schools across the district, about 29,559 (IX - 13,482 + X-16,077) students turned up on the day one on Monday. In all, of the 16,372 teachers working in 4,825 schools, including primary, upper primary and high schools, only 9,773 have attended the duties on day one.

Meanwhile, most parents are still having apprehensions about the safety of their wards and are not ready yet to send them to school. "We are not eager to submit consent letters immediately. Some schools are still lacking the better infrastructure to ensure a seating plan with social distancing. School managements should build confidence through preparations are being made to resume schools," said a Tirupati-based parent, who requested anonymity.

Parents reluctant to send children to school

VADREVVU SRINIVAS | DC
KAKINADA, NOV. 2

Many parents are not willing to send their children to the schools on the first day of reopening day on Monday in East and West Godavari districts. They were reluctant to give consent letters to send their children to the schools. They want to wait for another 10 or 15 days, and after careful observation of circumstances, they want to send their ward to the schools. Attendance was very thin on the first day of reopening the schools in East and West Godavari districts on Monday.

Most of the students have not attended the classes, in particular, the attendance in private schools was very low. It was 11.15 per cent in West Godavari with only 11,724 students attended out of 1,05,158 total students for IX and X standards and Kakinada Municipal Corporation registered 19 per cent attendance in 14 Municipal High Schools which is a strength of 1,526.

The West Godavari district Educational Officer P.V. Renuka said that the attendance of the students might increase in coming days as it was the first day on Monday of reopening and all precautionary steps were being taken for not attracting Covid-19 virus. She said that 96.64 per cent of teachers attended the schools. She said that 11,573 teachers attended out of 1,1975 in West Godavari on the first day. She said that 4,430 students both boys and girls (8.54 per cent) out of 51,887 for IX standard and 7294 students both boys and girls (13.69 per cent) out of 53,271 to X standard attended.

East Godavari registered 69 per cent with attendance of 96,698 students out of 1,39,966 in IX and X standards.

The EG District Educational Officer S. Abraham said that 49,026 students attended out of 71,861 in IX standard with 68 per cent and 47,672 students out of 68,105 attended with 70 per cent in X standard. He said that the teachers are making efforts to create awareness among the students to come to the schools.

However, the private school managements have a different view. They said that on the first day of reopening of the schools, about 1.5 per cent students attended since parents were hesitant to send their children to the schools due to Covid-19 scare.

"Parents did not give their consent letters for sending their students for the classes of IX and X standards," said the Private Schools Managements Association East Godavari president Muthukumilli Srijiyay.

He said that the parents said that they would wait for another 10 days and after observing the circumstances, they can send their children to the schools. He said that the government was campaigning on the second wave of Covid-19 and parents are afraid of sending their children to the schools. However, it is said that the students residing in slums have attended in large numbers to their respective municipal schools without expressing any Covid-19 scare.

The committee estimated that 74 per cent of the civil works are completed.

The representatives of the Central Water Commission and the Revised Cost Committee took part in the meeting through a video conference. Adityanath Das, special CS, water resources, represented the delegation of AP officials.

"The outcome of the meeting is positive. There has been a consensus among the participants that the project cannot be completed at 2013-2014 estimates and the same has to be communicated to the MoJS which in turn will take up the matter with MoF," sources said.

The state government has also made a strong pitch for treating the Rehabilitation and Resettlement cost as an integral part of the irrigation component of the project.

The officials brought to the PPA's notice that Centre has not separated R&R in any national irrigation project currently under progress in other parts of the country and there should be no discrimination against Andhra Pradesh. The state government has agreed to the PPA's observation that revenue proceedings from the sale of water to industrial purposes should go to the authority.

Release whitepaper on Polavaram: BJP

DC CORRESPONDENT
KAKINADA, NOV. 2

The Bharatiya Janata Party demanded the state government should release a whitepaper on Polavaram project. The BJP media panel member Y. Malakondaiah told the media on Monday that the union government would release the funds for the completion of the Polavaram project if the state government acts transparently and submits details of the funds spent on the project.

He said that there was 50 per cent of corruption in taking up the Polavaram project works since the late CM Y.S. Rajasekhara Reddy and the corruption went to a peak stage during the Telugu Desam regime.

The then opposition leader Y.S. Jagan Mohan Reddy made several allegations of corruption in the Polavaram Project. Although he assumed charge as the Chief Minister, Mr Jagan Mohan Reddy could not disclose the corruption practices during Mr Chandrababu Naidu's regime. So, now,

Mr Jagan Mohan Reddy should release a whitepaper on funds released by the Union government, taking up works, completion of works, required land for the project, acquisition of the lands and its compensation, rehabilitation and resettlement and other issues.

He said that the Union government would construct the Polavaram project compulsorily.

Mr Malakondaiah also said that the union government was releasing funds of more than ₹3,440 crore to ₹57.60 lakh farmers in the state, but the state government was not rendering support to the farmers who incurred great losses during heavy rains and floods.

He said that the government should make a probe on rice distribution under the Public Distribution Scheme as the rice was going to recycling and then it is being exported to foreign countries. He said that the state government should appoint food committees and curb the recycling of rice belonging to ration depots.

AG takes serious note of CM's letter to CJI

VIJAYAWADA, NOV. 2

Attorney General K.K. Venugopal took a serious note of the letter written by Chief Minister Y S Jagan Mohan Reddy to Supreme Court Chief Justice S.A. Bobde and his principal advisor Ajay Kallam, releasing the same to the media.

"Prima-facie the conduct of the said persons (Chief Minister and Kallam) is contumacious," he said in his reply to Ashwin Kumar Upadhyay, a Supreme Court advocate who requested the former to initiate proceedings for criminal contempt against the two. Further, Venugopal said that he was of the opinion that the timing of the letter and releasing it to media "could certainly be said to be suspect, in the background of the order passed by Justice Ramana on September 16 directing pending prosecutions of elected representatives to be taken up and disposed of expeditiously."

The AG, however, declined to consent to the contempt proceedings as CJI was already seized of the matter and it would not be appropriate for him to deal with the same.

Some traders are diverting the rice being distributed on subsidy by the central and state governments through the public distribution system (PDS) to support the poor. In Kadapa district, some gangs are moving the rice to neighbouring states to make money. Despite occasional raids by the authorities, these irregularities have not been fully curbed.

The smugglers are smuggling the rice to neighbouring districts and states, earning lakhs of rupees. Some people do not eat rice given by ration depots as it is not of good quality. The gang members go to the houses of cardholders and buy rice at ₹13 to ₹15 per kg and deliver it to their rice mills by auto in the evening or morning times

● The gang members go to the houses of cardholders and buy rice at ₹13 to ₹15 per kg and deliver it to their rice mills by auto in the evening or morning times this rice is mainly in Proddatur, Jammalamadugu, Maidukuru, Pulivendula and Kadapa areas.

The rice thus collected from the beneficiaries is transported directly to the mills where it is re-polished. They are then stuffed into bags with labels belonging to their mills. These are then taken directly to markets in Karnataka, Tamil Nadu and other places. Some are pouring the subsidised rice directly into other bags and moving it directly to other areas. Others are polished in mills and mixed with about half of ordinary rice and sold locally. They are accused of committing these irregularities with the support of some politicians. There are a total of 1,737 fair price shops in the district. Rice is being supplied to these shops from 19 warehouses located in different parts of the district. While there are 8,26,449 rice cards, 12,000 tonnes of rice is being distributed in the district every month.

On October 27, vigilance officers raided a rice mill near Palempalle in the suburbs of Kadapa on information that it contained ration rice. During the raids, 50 kg packets of 5,108 bags of rice were found in the warehouse. Their value is ₹75 lakh, officials said. The police also seized 318 bags of rice being transported to Bengaluru in a lorry and three autos on October 1 in Proddatur. The police also seized 33 bags of rice moving from Proddatur to Jammalamadugu on the 13th. Also, on October 22, while moving to Kadiri in Anantapur district, police seized 30 bags of rice at Kalamalla.

They later took out a rally to Collectorate where the police, present in large numbers, bundled several of them into vans and taken to the Two Town police station and were later released on self bail.

Honorary president of AP ASHA Workers Union P. Mani said the workers were attached to the district medical and health department under the National Health Mission.

By transferring them to secretariats, the jurisdiction of each worker has been enhanced from 2,500 population to 8,000. She said the workers were being asked to sign the register at the secretariat every evening after daylong field-work and the superiors are harassing them for no reason.

Mani said they were being paid ₹10,000 per month and no social benefits like ESI and PF were given to them. They were also denied the superannuation benefits like other employees.

"Hundreds of workers are on the rolls since the last 14 years, but the government is not showing any interest in regularising their services despite their immense contribution to the health sector," Mani said.

AP HC stays online
admissions for InterDC CORRESPONDENT
VIJAYAWADA, NOV. 2

AP High Court issued a stay order on the ongoing online admissions for first-year intermediate courses until November 10.

The High Court single-member bench headed by justice M. Venkata Ramana held a hearing on the petition objecting to online admission for intermediate first-year admission in the state.

The court asked under what rule the department of education was taking up online admission for students of intermediate first year.

Petitioner's counsel argued that the online admission would deprive the opportunity for the students to select which group to pursue as they get no opportunity for counselling to choose the group of their choice by interacting with the officials.

He said that it might result in the student failing to select the group of his or her choice to pursue.

The government's counsel asked the court to give some time to submit full details on the issue.

Based on it, the court issued a stay order and posted the case for next hearing on November 10.

The court directed the state government to submit a counter-affidavit on the issue.

Earlier, the Board of Intermediate Education announced a schedule of admission for the first year intermediate course online for the current academic year 2020-21 beginning from October 21 to 29. Subsequently, the date for online registration was extended up to November 6.

In a separate development, the court held a hearing on a batch of petitions opposing relocation of capital city Amaravati claiming that the state government did not have the authority to do so.

However, the court posted the case for next hearing on Tuesday.

MAYA: BSP-BJP ALLIANCE NOT POSSIBLE

Lucknow, Nov. 2: Bahujan Samaj Party president Mayawati asserted on Monday that her party would never enter into an alliance with the BJP in the assembly or the Lok Sabha elections, highlighting that the ideology of the two parties were “opposite”.

Her clarification came amid speculation over her last week’s statement that the BSP would vote for the BJP or any other party’s candidate to ensure defeat of the Samajwadi Party contenders in future elections, including those of the Uttar Pradesh legislative council and the Rajya Sabha.

Mayawati alleged that the SP and the Congress were misusing her recent statement so that the Muslim community distances itself from the BSP.

“The alliance of the BJP with the BSP is not possible in any polls in the future. The BSP cannot contest with the communal party,” she said in a media briefing.

“Our ideology is of sarvajana sarva dharma hitay (benefit of everyone and all religions) and is opposite to the BJP’s ideology,” she said. “The BSP cannot enter into an alliance with those having communal, casteist and capitalist ideology.”

Mayawati said she would rather take sanyas (retirement) from politics than ally with such parties.

MODI LIKELY TO WIND UP BIHAR CAMPAIGN TODAY

DC CORRESPONDENT
NEW DELHI, NOV. 2

As the battle for Bihar enters its final phase, Prime Minister Narendra Modi and Congress leader Rahul Gandhi are all set to address rallies in the Seemanchal area of the state.

While the Prime Minister will be winding up his election tour of Bihar on Tuesday, Mr. Gandhi will carry on with his campaign and address another couple of rallies the next day as well.

A senior leader of Bihar Pradesh Congress Committee said that in all likelihood Mr. Gandhi might conclude his election engagements by holding a joint press conference with RJD leader and Grand Alliance’s CM face, Tejashwi Prasad Yadav, on Wednesday.

The Congress leader will address two rallies at Bihariganj in Madhepura and Araria on November 4.

Daughter of Sharad Yadav, Subhashini Rao, and sitting MLA Abidur Rahman are set to take on JD(U)’s Niranjan Kumar Mehta in Bihariganj and Sagufta Ajim in Araria seats respectively.

Bihar Congress leaders are also mobilising their resources to ensure that the rallies of the former Congress president at Korha in Katihar and Kisaniganj on Tuesday are a grand success and work in favour of sitting MLA Poonam Paswan and Izharul Hussain, who are pitted against the BJP’s Kavita Singh and Sweetey Singh respectively.

CRUCIAL CONTEST IN MP AS VOTING TO BE HELD TODAY

Bhopal/Lucknow/Ahmedabad, Nov. 2: Voting will be held on Tuesday for by-elections to 54 assembly constituencies in 10 states including 28 seats in Madhya Pradesh where the BJP is locked in a keenly-fought contest with the Congress to save its government.

All eyes are riveted on Madhya Pradesh where the BJP which has 107 MLAs in the assembly, with an effective strength of 229, needs at least eight more MLAs for a simple majority.

The stakes are high for the Congress too as it had sitting MLAs in 27 seats out of 28 in the state.

The saffron party is fielding 31 candidates in MP, Gujarat and Karnataka who had won from the Congress ticket but switched sides and resigned, necessitating the byelections in those states.

In Uttar Pradesh, the BJP, which has a comfortable majority in the Assembly, is locked in a battle of prestige on the seven seats six of which it had won in the last election while one was with the Samajwadi Party.

In Gujarat, the bypolls are being held in eight seats after the Congress MLAs resigned ahead of the Rajya Sabha polls in June this year. Five of them later joined the ruling BJP and are contesting again.

SC ‘relief’ for Kamal Nath on star campaigner issue

SC issues notice to EC, CJI focuses on issue of the powers of poll panel

DC CORRESPONDENT
NEW DELHI, NOV. 2

The Supreme Court on Monday stayed the Election Commission’s order taking away the start campaigner status of the former Madhya Pradesh Chief Minister Kamal Nath for the Congress in the ongoing bypolls to the state assembly for which campaigning ended on Sunday.

The court issued notice to the Election Commission.

Putting on hold the poll panel’s decision denuding Kamal Nath of his status as star campaigner for the Congress in Madhya Pradesh bypolls, Chief Justice Sharad A. Bobde heading a bench also comprising Justice A. S. Bopanna and Justice V. Ramasubramanian sought reply from the poll panel while questioning its powers to decide as to who will be the leader of a party during electioneering. Referring to Section 77 of the Representation Act that deals with the expenditure of a candidate or by the leader of a political party campaigning during election, the Chief Justice of India expressed his misgiving whether the poll panel had any such powers which it had exercised in the case of Kamal Nath.

At the outset of the hearing, senior counsel Rakesh Dwivedi told the court that the petition by the former Madhya Pradesh Chief Minister has become infructuous as campaigning has already ended and polling is on Tuesday (November 3).

However, the CJI focused on the larger issue of the powers of the poll panel to take decision ousting a star campaigner from electioneering.

Senior advocate Kapil Sibal, appearing for Kamal Nath, asserted that “no notice was issued to us” and the decision was arbitrary.

Kamal Nath has moved the top court challenging the EC’s decision to revoke his status as a star campaigner.

The BJP on Tuesday said the stay on election commission’s order revoking former chief minister Kamal Nath’s star campaigner status by supreme court, cannot be construed as relief to the Congress leader.

BJP spokesman Rajneesh Agrawal said the stay order was merely a judicial process and it did not give a clean chit to Mr Nath for his violation of model code of conduct by terming state women and child development minister Imarti Devi as an ‘item’.

Besides, the stay order is meaningless now considering that the campaigning for the assembly by-elections in the state already came to close on Monday evening.

Shivraj, Nath hit out at each other

Meanwhile, with barely 24 hours left for the crucial assembly by-elections in Madhya Pradesh, chief minister Shivraj Singh Chouhan and Congress veteran Kamal Nath on Monday indulged in name-calling to show each other in poor light in public.

While Mr Chouhan has refused to withdraw the papi (sinner) tag given by him to Mr Nath, the latter literally called him a liar.

“Mr Chouhan calls me a papi. Let him explain what sin I have committed? All his (Mr Chouhan’s) assertions that I have not implemented farm loan waiver promises and also held back students’ scholarships when I was chief minister are utter lies. Mr Chouhan is shamelessly dishing out lies”, Mr Nath told reporters here.

He said crop loans of around 27 lakh farmers were written off when he was chief minister. His government was planning to waive farm loans of the rest of the beneficiaries in 2 phases, but it was pulled down. Mr Chouhan, however, stood by his remarks saying that Mr Nath has committed fraud on farmers by going back on his promise to waive their crop loans within ten days of coming to power in the state.

Tejashwi, 4 ministers of Nitish govt in fray as Bihar votes in 2nd phase today

Patna, Nov. 2: The stage is set for the second and, arguably, the most crucial of the three phases of Bihar assembly elections in which over 2.85 crore voters are eligible to decide the fate of nearly 1,500 candidates on Tuesday.

Voting will take place on November 3 in 94 assembly segments, more than a third of the 243-strong assembly spread across 17 districts, all of which but three — Patna, Bhagalpur and Nalanda — are situated north of the Ganges.

Notable among the candidates is the RJD’s Tejashwi Yadav, the opposition Grand Alliance’s Chief Ministerial candidate, who has been aggressively trying to cash in on the anti-incumbency factor against the Nitish Kumar government.

The 31-year-old is seeking re-election from Raghupur in Vaishali district which he had wrested back for his party from the BJP’s Satish Kumar in 2015. The BJP leader had defeated Yadav’s mother Rabri Devi, a former chief minister, in 2010.

The BJP has retained its trust in Satish Kumar, hoping that the giant killer will be able to do a repeat of 2010 when, like this time, JD(U) president and Chief Minister Nitish Kumar was with the NDA.

Tejashwi’s elder brother Tej Pratap Yadav is trying his luck from Hasanpur in Samastipur district, shifting his base from Mahua in Vaishali. There were said to be fears in the RJD camp that Tej Pratap’s bid to retain Mahua could be challenged by the NDA through his estranged wife Aishwarya as its trump card. She is already taking an active part in the campaign for her father Chandrika Roy in Parsa, which he has represented a number of times and is seeking to retain on a JD(U) ticket this time.

All the four assembly segments in the capital city Patna Sahib, Kumhrar, Bankipur and Digha are also going to polls in the second phase. All these are held by the BJP.

State minister Nand Kishore Yadav is in the fray trying to retain Patna Sahib for a seventh consecutive term.

Multiple-term MLA Nitin Nabin faces a challenge in Bankipur from Congress candidate Luv Sinha, who is the son of actor-turned-politician Shatrughan Sinha, a two-time local MP who lost the seat when he entered the fray after quitting the BJP.

The BJP has retained as its candidates Arun Sinha and Sanjiv Chaurasia for Kumhrar and Digha respectively. Seven constituencies of Nalanda district, to which Chief Minister Nitish Kumar belongs, also go to polls in the second phase. Barring Hilsa, represented by the RJD’s Shakti Singh Yadav, and Bihar Sharif, which two-term MLA Sunil Kumar retained on a BJP ticket in 2015, all the remaining five were won by the JD(U).

The assembly segment named after the district is represented by state minister Shrawan Kumar who is seeking re-election from the seat.

The JD(U) has suffered a setback in the reserved Rajgir seat where its sitting MLA Ravi Jyoti, a former police inspector, is now the fray on a Congress ticket.

Two other ministers Ram Sevak Singh (JDU) and Rana Randhir Singh (BJP) are trying their luck from Hathua and Madhuban in Gopalganj and East Champaran districts respectively. The ministers are sitting MLAs from the respective seats.

Many bahubalis or their wives, sons, brothers or other close relatives are also contesting a number of seats.

Of the 1,463 candidates in the fray on the 94 seats, nearly 10 per cent (146) are women. Among the 2.85 crore voters, females account for 1.35 crore.

Maharajganj has the maximum number of 27 candidates for any constituency while Darauli (04) has the lowest.

The RJD is contesting 56 of the 94 seats while its ally Congress is contesting 24. The CPI and CPI(M), which joined the Grand Alliance recently, are fighting four seats each.

HAM seeks probe into Paswan’s death

Patna, Nov. 2: NDA ally HAM created a flutter on Monday with its leader Jitan Ram Manjhi demanding a judicial inquiry into the death of union minister Ram Vilas Paswan while pointing an accusing finger at Chirag Paswan, prompting the LJP chief to claim it was a “plot” by Chief Minister Nitish Kumar to discredit him when election was under way.

Chirag Paswan, in an angry retort to Manjhi, said the former chief minister should ask Prime Minister Narendra Modi about the issue.

Paswan jr. said Modi used to call him up every day to inquire after his late father when he was sick and hospitalised, sometimes to even inform him about the LJP founder’s condition after talking to doctors attending to him.

“I request the prime minister to order a judicial probe into the death of Ram Vilas Paswan to unravel the dubious role of Chirag Paswan in the matter,” Manjhi said.

HAM spokesman Danish Rizwan also wrote a letter to Modi backing the demand while citing a video of Chirag rehearsing before issuing a video message a day after the death of his father where he was purportedly seen joking with the people present and even talking about the texture of his hair.

Chirag Paswan accused Nitish Kumar of “scripting a plot to settle political scores with him” and instigating the HAM to rake up an emotional issue to blunt the LJP’s campaign to prevent him from becoming the chief minister once again.

Manjhi wanted to know who ordered the hospital to not issue regular health bulletins of Paswan, who was “such a big leader”.

Manjhi also claimed people were prevented from meeting the Dalit leader when he was hospitalised. Chirag had informed people about the death of his father through a tweet on October 8. Manjhi claimed it was being speculated that the LJP leader had died 2-3 days ago.

“When he had telephoned me when my father was in hospital, I told him everything. He neither called me again nor visited Papa in the hospital,” Chirag Paswan told a press conference.

Ever since his return to the NDA, facilitated by Kumar, Manjhi and his party have been routinely targeting the LJP, which has walked out of the ruling alliance in Bihar and is going solo at the hustings. Chirag has also frequently launched vicious attacks on the chief minister.

Both the HAM and the LJP draw strength from Dalit voters, and Manjhi was not on good terms with Ram Vilas Paswan when the two were partners in the NDA in the 2015 assembly election.

“Kumar, who is now showing concern about my father’s death, never telephoned me to know about his health leave alone visiting him in the hospital,” the LJP president said.

“On the other hand, Prime Minister Narendra Modi was kind enough and used to telephone me almost twice a day to inquire about Papa’s health and sometimes even tell me what the doctors are saying about his medical condition.”

He recalled Modi had told his first rally of the election in Sasaram that Paswan stood with him till his last breath.

“Indeed he (Modi) was the only person who was sincerely bothered about him till he breathed his last,” the 38-year-old LJP chief, who recently declared himself Modi’s Hanuman, said.

Flanked by BJP and JD(U) rebels like Rajendra Singh and Bhagwan Singh Kushwaha, he claimed while there were smiles on the faces of LJP candidates after the first phase of polls, Kumar was glum. “Nitish will be sent packing after November 10,” he asserted.

NITISH: WILL RJD DELAY SALARIES TO FULFILL 10-LAKH JOBS PROMISE?

Patna, Nov. 2: Bihar Chief Minister Nitish Kumar on Sunday said providing 10 lakh jobs, RJD leader Tejashwi Yadav’s main poll promise, would cost the exchequer ₹1.44 lakh crore annually, and wondered if his rival would shelve other development works or delay salaries to implement his pledge.

Addressing constituents in five assembly segments through a virtual rally called “Nishchay Samwad”, Kumar also said his government has changed the state’s industrial policy and that “we will be able to invite several industries”.

Tejashwi has promised he would sanction 10 lakh government jobs in his very first cabinet meeting if the ‘Mahagathbandhan’ is voted to power.

“That is impossible, they won’t get the chance to govern,” Kumar said.

“But for what he (Tejashwi) has said, it will cost the state exchequer ₹1.44 lakh crore annually... Should they shelve all other development work?”

He said earlier nobody used to get salaries in time and recalled that several teachers and university professors had told the CM during his Vikas Yatra in 2005 that they did not get salaries in time.

“We fixed that. Now what do they want to do? Again not paying salaries? Will there be no other (development) work?” Kumar said.

Last-minute scramble for votes by Trump and Biden; no clarity on timing of the result

POLL LINGO: NAKED BALLOTS TO A RED MIRAGE

WILMINGTON, Del. (Reuters) - Every U.S. presidential election has its own lingo, like the "hanging chads" on voting cards in Florida that led to a landmark court battle in 2000. Below is some of the jargon used in the days leading up to the Nov. 3 election pitting President Donald Trump against his Democratic challenger Joe Biden.

NAKED BALLOTS

Sixteen states require voters to return mail ballots in a special "secrecy" envelope. Ballots that don't arrive in the envelope will be considered "naked" and might be disqualified. Celebrities including Naomi Campbell, Chris Rock and Sarah Silverman disrobed in a video to promote proper voting procedures, "the least sexy thing a completely naked person can say," according to actor Josh Gad, who also stripped for the video by activist group Represent.Us, which has promoted anti-graft resolutions, says it does not endorse either candidate.

RED MIRAGE/BLUE SHIFT

Fearing crowded polling places amid the Coronavirus pandemic, a record number of Americans, particularly Democrats, cast mail-in ballots this year, and counting them could take days. As a result, initial results on Election Day may show Republicans, indicated by red on election maps, holding large leads in battleground states, which counts mail-in ballots received three days after Nov. 3. As ballots are tallied in the ensuing days, that "red mirage" could fade, giving way to a "blue shift." Experts see a possible "blue mirage" and "red shift" in Florida and North Carolina.

SPOILED BALLOTS

Ballots that are improperly marked can be rejected as spoiled. Trump said in a tweet the phrase "can I change my vote" was trending on Google and urged Americans to submit a new ballot for him. Some states allow voters to request a new absentee ballot but first they have to request their original ballot be marked as spoiled.

DUELLING ELECTORS

The Electoral College allots electors to states based on population, and the candidate who wins the popular vote gets its electors. But legal experts say Trump could try to convince Republican lawmakers in closely contested states to approve the Republican slate of electors based on early vote tallies. As more ballots are counted, Biden might be certified as the winner. The result: Dueling electors and an outcome that could be determined by Congress.

COURT PACKING

Republicans confirmed Amy Coney Barrett as a Supreme Court justice on Oct. 26 to replace the late Ruth Bader Ginsburg, a hero to many for her advocacy for women's issues. Democrats had argued Ginsburg's seat should be filled after poll. Some have suggested that a Biden Administration could expand the court beyond its traditional nine justices. Biden has said he will establish a bipartisan commission to consider changes to the court system, which he said is "getting out of whack."

POLL WATCHERS

The Republican National Committee is mobilizing thousands of supporters to monitor early voting sites and ballot drop boxes, looking for irregularities such as people dropping off multiple ballots in states where that generally is not allowed. This marks the first presidential election in nearly four decades in which the Republicans can engage in "ballot security" activities without prior review and approval from the Department of Justice.

Washington, Nov. 2: The US presidential campaign enters its final day Monday with a last-minute scramble for votes by Donald Trump and Joe Biden, drawing to a close an extraordinary race that has put a pandemic-stricken country on edge.

But while campaigning will halt and voters will have their say on Tuesday, many questions remain over how soon a result will be known due to a flood of mail-in ballots and possible legal challenges.

About three-quarters of Americans are concerned about riots and violence after election day, according to a new poll by J.L. Partners-Independent.

Almost three out of four voters (72%) describe themselves as "very or very concerned about post-election violence", according to the survey. Concerns are greater among President Trump's supporters - 77% said they fear violence and unrest. Among former Vice President Biden's supporters, 73% described these concerns.

Those factors, along with an unprecedented convergence of social justice protests, Coronavirus precautions and President Trump's fear-mongering campaign, have led to apprehension over whether unrest could erupt.

Taking no chances, businesses in some cities have boarded up windows, while across the country the harsh political climate has led to fierce debate, in some cases even dividing families.

As proof of how much Americans have been galvanized - and perhaps frightened by the pandemic - a record of more than 93 million people have cast early ballots, including in-person and mailed votes, according to the nonpartisan US Elections Project.

Will host meet of democracies: Joe Fayetteville (US), Nov. 2: Democratic presidential candidate Joe Biden has said that if elected, he will convene a global summit of democracies in the first year of his presidency to counter the "rising authoritarianism" in the world and address issues of election security and human rights.

Biden accused President Donald Trump of "embracing" every autocrat in the world which he said has undermined America's credibility. "One of the things that have hurt us so badly, is that this president has embraced every thug and every autocrat in the world, in ways that have undermined our credibility," he said during a conference call.

"I'll energise the community of democracies to counter the rising authoritarianism we see in the world. In my first year, we're going to host a summit of the democracies to address election security, human rights, etc." Biden said.

Responding to questions on China, he said trade, human rights and security are the three main issues. Criticising President Trump's policies toward China, he said, "Trump caved to Chinese leaders every time. He let them off the hook, started a trade war, etc."

"Trump gave them the green light to put millions of Chinese Uighurs in concentration camps," he said. His campaign has termed the alleged HR violations of Uyghur Muslims in China's Xinjiang region as "genocide" and called for a global effort to make a united stand against the "oppression". — PTI

Biden names 800 major fundraisers

Washington, Nov. 2: Democratic presidential candidate Joe Biden has released the names of major fundraisers, including Indian-Americans, who helped him raise at least $100,000 for his election campaign this year.

The list, released on Sunday, contains the names of 800 major donors, including a few dozen Indian-Americans.

Topping the list of Indian-Americans are well known community leaders Swadesh Chatterjee, Rameshk Kapoor, Shekar N. Narasimhan, R. Rangaswami, Ajay Jain Bhutoria and Frank Islam.

Among other prominent Indian-American bundlers are Neil Makhija, Rahu, Prakash, Deepak Raj, Raj Shah, Rajan Shah, Radhika Shah, Jill and Raj Singh, Nidhi Thakar, Kiran Jain, Sony Kalsi and Bela Bajaria. Indian-American Congresswoman Pramila Jayapal has also been listed as a bundler.

Given that the list of bundlers includes all those who have raised more than $100,000, the number of Indian-Americans in far less than those of former presidents Barack Obama and Bill Clinton campaigns. Some of the traditional Indian-American Democratic donors like hotelier Sant Chatwal are missing from the list. According to The Wall Street Journal, the list of "bundlers" includes the who's who of Democratic politics, including former and current governors, senators, Cabinet secretaries and big names from Hollywood. Film producer Jeffrey Katzenberg, writer and director Lee Daniels, LinkedIn co-founder Reid Hoffman; media mogul Haim Saban and former US Commerce Secretary Penny Pritzker are on the list, the daily said.

Idli and any kind of 'Tikka' fav Indian dishes: Kamala

New York, Nov. 2: Democratic Vice Presidential nominee Kamala Harris has listed Idli with a "really good Sambar" and "any kind of Tikka" as her favourite Indian dishes. Born to a Jamaican father and an Indian mother, Harris, is the first Indian-origin and first Black woman to be picked by a major American political party for the top post. Harris, responding to a question on what her favourite Indian dishes are, said: "So South Indian, it would be Idli with... a really good Sambar, and then North Indian — probably any kind of Tikka".

The 56-year-old California senator, after being chosen by Democratic Party's presidential candidate Joe Biden as his running mate in August, reflected on her proud Indian heritage during her maiden address to the Indian-American community and recalled how her mother Shyamala Gopalan always wanted to instill in her a "love for good Idli".

She had taken a trip down the memory lane, mentioning her "long walks" in Madras (now Chennai) with her grandfather who would tell her about the "heroes" responsible for the birth of the world's largest democracy. In a video posted on Twitter on Sunday, Harris answered some questions asked by Instagram users. On what she is doing to take care of her mental health on the campaign trail, she said that she works out every morning, speaks with her kids and loves to cook. Asked what her plan is to ensure a sustainable and eco-friendly future for the coming generations, Harris said Biden and she are prepared to make commitments with timelines to achieve zero emissions by 2050. — PTI

PROLONGED VOTE COUNT: DON READY FOR LEGAL BATTLE

Fayetteville (US), Nov. 2: US President Donald Trump has denied that he is planning to prematurely declare victory after the presidential polls are over on Tuesday and hinted that he is gearing up for a legal battle against a vote count that stretched past Election Day. "No, no that was a false report," Trump told reporters on Sunday at the Charlotte airport in North Carolina amidst a news report that he is planning to prematurely declare victory on the election night.

Americans have rushed to vote early, already casting nearly 92 million mail-in ballots that could take days or weeks to be counted in some states — meaning a winner might not be declared in the hours after polls close on Tuesday. Trump indicated that his team was gearing up for a legal battle.

Trump lamented Supreme Court's rulings that allowed for Pennsylvania and North Carolina to count absentee ballots that are postmarked before Election Day but arrive shortly after Tuesday. "I think it is a terrible thing when ballots can be collected after an election. I think it is a terrible thing when people or states are allowed to tabulate ballots for a long period of time after the election is over because it can only lead to one thing," Trump said.

"We are going in the night of — as soon as the election is over — we are going in with our lawyers," he said as he criticised the decision taken by the Supreme Court to allow ballots to be received after Election Day in several battleground states. — PTI

HARRIS SEEKS DECISIVE MANDATE FROM AMERICANS

Fayetteville (US), Nov. 2: Democratic Vice Presidential nominee Kamala Harris has sought a decisive mandate from Americans so that no amount of legal battle can overturn the poll results.

US President Donald Trump on Sunday denied that he is planning to prematurely declare victory after the presidential polls are over on Tuesday, but hinted that he is gearing up for a legal battle in the counting of mail and absentee votes post the election.

He criticised the decision taken by the Supreme Court to allow ballots to be received after Election Day in several battleground states.

"Well, first of all, we plan to decisively win this election so I don't, I don't think we're going to need to get to that point," 56-year-old Harris told reporters during a day of hectic campaigning with stops in this North Carolinian city and in Georgia.

Over the past few days, polls indicate that the November 3 presidential election is getting tighter, even though Democratic presidential candidate Joe Biden continues to maintain substantial lead over Republican incumbent President Donald Trump.

ELECTION | EVENT Drive-in car rallies are very selective in nature

Honking gets new meaning

Fayetteville (US), Nov. 2: Honking has got a new meaning in the US politics with the annoying sound replacing clapping, cheers and even boos in election campaigns, in particularly the drive-in car rallies of Democratic presidential candidate Joe Biden and his running mate Kamala Harris. Drive-in car rallies have become a signature election event of the Democratic Party which has taken the innovative path wherein a select group of supporters gather in a parking lot to be addressed by the party's top leadership as part of its efforts to maintain social distancing due to the Coronavirus.

Both Biden, 77, and Harris, 56, ask their supporters sitting in their cars to honk to express their sentiments. In fact, honking in the election rallies of the Democratic Party has replaced all kinds of emotion in election rallies. In the election rallies of Republican incumbent President Donald Trump, thousands of his supporters cheer, clap and chant slogans like "We Love You" and "Four More years." Most of these drive-in car rallies are very selective in nature and they are not publicised. In their rallies, it's all honking.

The level of honking reflects the sentiments, happiness and anger of their supporters. On Sunday at a drive-in rally attended by less than 100 cars, invited by the local campaign officials, every time Harris supporters got excited with her remarks, they honked. Every time she was critical of Trump, they honked. Every time she spoke about "Black Lives Matter", they honked. It was once in a while that some of the supporters peeked out of their car windows. Those who were standing outside their cars ensured that they were maintaining social distancing as they clapped.

There were no cheers at all. Same was the case with shouting slogans. Unlike the Trump rallies, which are publicised locally much in advance and people are encouraged to participate, the car drive-in rallies of Biden and Harris are by invitation only.

‘Love jihad’ is a diversion, enforce rule of law in UP

If Uttar Pradesh with its 20.4 crore people were a country, it would have been the seventh-most populous in the world. It is number two among Indian states when it comes to ease of doing business but languishes at the bottom in terms of governance, based on a transparent Public Affairs Index-2020, prepared by a non-governmental organisation headed by former ISRO chairman K. Kasturirangan. Chief Minister Yogi Adityanadh came to power with the promise of maintaining rule of law but reports of him undermining administration of criminal justice through encounter killings are plenty; data says more than 125 persons have been killed in more than 6,476 encounters in the last three years of his rule. The gang-rape and murder of a teenager and the inhuman treatment meted out to the girl even after her death and to her family has earned the state administration universal condemnation.

Such stark realities and contradictions notwithstanding, Adityanath has discovered a new enemy of his state: ‘love jihad’, the derogative term used by the right wing for the marriage between Muslim men and Hindu women. The Chief Minister has even promised to bring in a law to fight such marriages. If that won't suffice, he has threatened those who “play with our sisters’ respect: If you don't mend your ways your ‘Ram naam satya’ (chant associated with Hindu funerals) journey will begin.” The Chief Minister has a judicial verdict to bank on: A single bench of Allahabad high court said conversion for the sake of marriage is not admissible before the law. The Chief Minister of Haryana, a state which has the worst sex ratio betraying the poor rights women enjoy in the state, has joined hands with his Uttar Pradesh counterpart and is contemplating introducing a law to curb ‘love jihad’.

The right to freely profess, practise and propagate one's religion is a fundamental right guaranteed by India's Constitution. Marriages in India are legalised by civil laws governing various communities and religions. Then there is the Special Marriage Act, 1954, that allows any two people to marry irrespective of their religious affiliations. Marriage, in the eye of the law, is a civil contract between two consenting adults and there are enough legal tools to punish fraudsters who enter into it with ulterior motives. The state has, and should have, very little role in what two adults do; it definitely has no business playing ‘father’ and ‘brother’ of damsels in distress.

The Uttar Pradesh Chief Minister is not only known for his hardline Hindutva ideology but also for his pro-business policies and actions. The state's ascent to the top in terms of ease of doing business is no accident. He has time and again talked about the importance of attracting investment, domestic and foreign. If he means business, then he would rather focus on creating an open and liberal environment that welcomes multinationals than plunging his state into the dark ages with its archaic mind-sets. It cannot afford to be a paradox any longer.

Economy: Hope, with caution

The Goods and Service Tax (GST) collection for the month of October — one of the two festive months for the Hindu community — has been on expected lines with the GST Council reporting a gross collection of a little over ₹1 lakh crore. The fact that the gross GST collection in October this year at ₹1,05,155 crores was 10 per cent more than ₹95,379 crore collected in the same month last year is very heartening. Other economic indicators such as the sale of automobiles and industrial growth have been promising. Major carmakers such as Maruti Suzuki and Hyundai Motors have reported highest-ever monthly sales in October. The two-wheeler segment, which was considered to be badly affected by Covid-19 pandemic, appears to be wriggling out of comma, with Hero MotoCorp posting all-time high monthly sales in October.

According to Power System Operation Corporation Limited, India's power consumption rose by 13 per cent in October 2020 to 110.94 billion units (BU)

IHS Markit India Manufacturing Purchasing Managers' Index (PMI), which tracks the manufacturing sector in the country, reported a historically-sharp monthly expansion in production by companies in October. This is the consecutive third month of expansion in industrial production and suggests a revival of animal spirits among the manufacturing sector as the severity of Covid-19 infections begins to wane in the country. Data from power consumption too validate the reports of economic revival. According to Power System Operation Corporation Limited, India's power consumption rose by 13 per cent in October 2020 to 110.94 billion units (BU) compared to 97.84 billion units in October 2019.

While all economic indicators paint a rose picture of India's economic revival, the government must not get complacent in its efforts to support the economy in getting on its feet. Since the spike in demand is still driven by retail consumption, it could as well be a pent-up demand being released during the festive season. The government must, therefore, remain cautious and hold its horses till it hopefully sees a similar growth curve in the non-festive months.

As US votes today, the world holds its breath

K.C. Singh

The US system worked fine till the white working and middle classes felt threatened by demographic changes, and perceived loss of their way of life

Late Tuesday afternoon in India is when the United States begins voting to decide whether President Donald Trump gets a second term or, like in his episode ending line in serial Apprentice, people say “you are fired”. The stakes are high both for America and the world as the policy schism between Democrats and Republicans has never been wider in decades, on a slew of domestic and global issues.

Steven Levitsky and Daniel Ziblatt in How Democracies Die devise four core behavioural warning signs in politicians that endanger democracy. These are when ruling politicians (1) reject, in words or action, the democratic rules of the game; (2) deny the legitimacy of opponents; (3) tolerate or encourage violence; or (4) indicate a willingness to curtail the civil liberties of opponents, including the media. Alexander Hamilton, a founding father of the United States, wrote in the Federalist Papers: “History will teach us, of those men who have overturned the liberties of republics, the great number have begun their career by paying obsequious court to the people: commencing demagogues, and ending tyrants”.

President Trump has displayed all these symptoms and with the Supreme Court now in his pocket, with a 6-3 majority of conservative judges, he is likely to unravel the liberal-compassionate socio-economic order evolved since the presidency of Franklin D. Roosevelt in late 1930s.

American Presidents are elected indirectly by an Electoral College, created with graded advantage for smaller states, disproportionate to their population. The US having been formed as a union of independent states, the smaller units negotiated checks on the power of the larger states. India's states, contrariwise, were carved out from a unitary India, while merging en masse quasi-independent states under rulers, after Independence. In fact, a major reorganisation of states occurred only after 1956 on a linguistic basis. This process continued till last year when Jammu and Kashmir was reorganised.

The US system worked fine till the white working and middle classes felt threatened by demographic changes, and perceived loss of their way of life, and economic stagnation caused first by the oil crisis of the 1970s and then by globalisation of the deindustrialisation of vast areas. These states, now referred to as the Rust Belt, are like Michigan, the old car manufacturing hub of the US, or the steel industry in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, which produced one-third of the national steel output in the 1920s but collapsed in the mid-1980s. This caused a geographical bipartisan split in national politics, creating a wall of so-called “red” (Republican) and “blue” (Democratic) states, with more or less pre-determined voting preferences. For instance, California, with the largest haul of 55 electoral college votes, is home to technology innovation and a growing Latino population, swung to the Democrats in 1992. It has since voted for them in increasing numbers in each successive election. Similarly, the states of the Northeast, including global financial centre New York, favours the Democrats. Large parts of the Midwest and beyond, constituting America's food bowl, vote Republican.

Thus, presidential elections really boil down to the “swing states”, which can tilt either way and impact the election result. In 2016, Mr Trump managed his 304 Electoral College votes, crossing the 270 required for a win, with 46.1 per cent of the popular vote. He did this by carrying Michigan (16), Wisconsin (10) and Pennsylvania (20) by narrow margins, which in the past were pro-Democrat. In addition, he swept Florida (29) and North Carolina (15). But the election this time, conducted under the shadow of Covid-19, has seen almost 100 million people, nearly 70 per cent of the 2016 vote, do early voting. In-person early voting is fine but mailed votes have led to disparate rulings about their receipt deadlines. Emboldened by his sway over the higher courts, Mr Trump is preparing to tie up postal ballots in legal challenges if he emerges ahead in votes cast in-person in crucial states.

Joe Biden needs to wrest one, or more, swing state early to stymie Mr Trump. Three states — North Carolina, Florida and Ohio — will be reporting early with their postal and in-person votes. A win in one of them can signal a change in the popular mood against the incumbent and the game is over. Three more states that Mr Trump carried in 2016 — Iowa, Arizona and Georgia — are in play this time as demographic changes are altering the electoral map in the so-called Sun Belt states in the South. That explains the Houston hoopla in September 2019 where the “Howdy Modi” rally saw President Trump's tango with Prime Minister Narendra Modi. Texas has almost 125,000 Indian voters. However, a recent YouGov.com poll indicated that over 70 per cent were pro-Biden. The moral is that while the diaspora may express nostalgic euphoria at essentially Indian political events on their soil, at election time they consider bread-and-butter issues like immigration policies and inclusive politics.

Mr Biden has led consistently in national and crucial state pre-election polls, despite Mr Trump's aggressive attempt in two debates to kill the challenger's momentum. The race has narrowed in the last few weeks. Mr Trump's supporters may intimidate non-white voters on election day to suppress voting. But due to the pandemic or intimidation fears, many Democratic voters may have already cast their votes, as shown by the huge early voting numbers. But if an exceptionally heavy turnout on November 3 swells the overall vote, the outcome is more difficult to guess, as independents' voting intent is less decipherable.

Interestingly, Bihar's second polling phase is the same day as the US election. Major department stores in metropolitan cities, including the iconic Bloomindale's in New York, are shuttering stores fearing possible violence if Mr Trump trails or prematurely claims victory. This is more reminiscent of Bihar's electoral past than expected in the world's most powerful democracy. For India, the outcome will be a mixed blessing. Mr Trump, in a second term, may look to moderate his China-baiting, cut deals with Russia over West Asia, increase pressure on Iran and bring trade back to the India-US table. Mr Biden may resurrect old alliances, maintain a positive engagement with India, but also adopt a less confrontational China policy. India may also find his focus on democracy, human rights and the freedom of the media irksome, unless the government here curbs its religio-cultural evangelism. For the next 24 hours, the entire world will be literally holding its breath.

GST COLLECTIONS

It is surprising that the gross GST collections have crossed one lakh crore mark in October 2020 that too in the Covid-19 pandemic situation (Indians begin to splurge yet again, DC, Nov. 2). It does not mean that the Indian economy has picked up in a right way but certainly is a big relief and hope for bright economic future. It is also happy to note that both the Telugu states are in the GST growth list particularly AP which is reeling under deep financial crisis. Once other sectors pick up gradually then Indian economy may reach its right destination.

CINEMAS

The reopening of cinema halls after a gap of over seven months is a very good sign for the economy. But at the same time this activity is wrought with threat to the well-being of people from health point of view, if the pandemic protocol is not adhered to in its entirety. Already America and several western countries are again going back to lockdown days due to the second wave of Covid-19. The responsibility to prevent such an occurrence in India would, therefore, squarely lie on the shoulders of not only the authorities concerned but also on that of the people in general.

Ex-rulers have no legal right to privileges

NEW DELHI, NOVEMBER 2 The Attorney-General, Mr. Niren De, argued in the Supreme Court today that the covenants and agreements between the Government of India and former rulers were an act of State which were political in nature and hence not enforceable in a court of law.

Resuming his arguments against the maintainability of the writ petitions moved by some former rulers. Mr. De said the sanctions behind the covenants were political and not legal.

Any rights and obligations arising there from were not enforceable, he maintained.

Mr. De said the ex-rulers had no legal right to continue to be recognised as rulers, to receive the privy purse or to enjoy the princely privileges.

Is PM ignoring reality about our economy & Covid handling?

Prime Minister Narendra Modi has recently given an extraordinary interview to a leading business newspaper. It is confident in outlook, breezy in tone and out of place with our current reality.

He assumes he had done not only the right thing in managing the Covid-19 pandemic but done something other nations have not done. This, according to him, has saved lives in this country. He says: “I am no health expert, but my assessment is based on numbers. I think we should assess our coronavirus fight against the metric of how many lives we are able to save.”

He did not provide any numbers, but he doesn't need to because they are public. India has the second most infections in the world and currently has the third highest number of fatalities.

The one other nation India is comparable with in terms of population, China, controlled the epidemic in one stroke. Its peak came on one day, February 12, and then its spread was contained in some way.

Our sister nations around us, like Bangladesh and Pakistan, culturally and geographically comparable, have fared more than twice as well as us both in terms of infections per lakh population and deaths. On what grounds can we assume that the Narendra Modi government has done comparatively well? He seems to think we should compare ourselves to Brazil, Italy and the United States. But why?

He makes the claim that India, the second most infected nation in the world, “is a world model of public participation without any coercive enforcement”. India actually had the worst lockdown in the world, forced on it by the Union government which invoked the Disaster Management Act. People were punished and jailed by the State for going back home without work, food or shelter. People were run over by trains because they had walked on the tracks to avoid the police on the highways. This is what coercive enforcement is. Perhaps the definition is different in Gujarat.

That unprepared, arbitrary lockdown did not save lives — there is no relation between the spread of infections and the weeks that India spent in forced hibernation — but it did help skewer the economy. The Prime Minister is confident that the August and September data shows that the economy is “back on track”. Back on track to where?

India's Gross Domestic Product (GDP) growth was in sequential decline for two years before the pandemic hit. It has been falling every quarter for 10 quarters since January 2018. Growth was three per cent before Covid-19 pandemic. What are we getting back on track to?

Also, if he seems to think that we will be back to where we were in February soon, he has the wrong advisers. One quarter of the GDP fell off between April and June. The best we can hope for in the July-

September quarter is that it doesn't decline further, but it will. Even if it doesn't, to recover the lost quarter of India's GDP will take two years. Meaning that, after two years, we may be back to where we were in February this year. That is not “back on track”.

The Prime Minister continues to speak of a $5 trillion economy. On one hand, this is a banal thing. India's economy, at whatever pace, will reach there at some point (assuming no magical strokes like demonetisation or lockdowns are forthcoming to slow it down).

But to assume that it will happen in 2024, as Prime Minister Modi does, is to be unaware of what has happened in the past three years. He said in the interview: “Most people who are pessimistic remain in doubt. If you sit among them, you will hear only things of despair and despondency.”

No, it is called being in touch with reality and being able to read the numbers.

It is hard to tell whether the Prime Minister is unable to confront the reality or whether he is so supremely confident in his abilities that he can convince the rest of us that the reality is different from our perception of it.

If we pretend that China hasn't occupied the lands that our Army was patrolling till February, then they haven't crossed the Line of Actual Control.

If we compare ourselves to Brazil and Italy and not China and Pakistan, our coronavirus numbers will look excellent. If we make up meaningless phrases like this one from the interview — “Atma Nirbhar Bharat is not just about competition but also about competence, it's not about dominance but about dependability, it's not about looking within but about looking out for the world” — then that is a substitute for trying to right an economy that has been in the doldrums for over 30 months.

PMI at a 13-year high of 58.9 in Oct. Mfg sees fastest pick-up in decade

MADHUSUDAN SAHOO
NEW DELHI, NOV. 2

With rising demand and output amidst Covid-19 disruptions, India's factory activity, measured by the Manufacturing Purchasing Managers' Index (PMI), expanded to 58.9 in October—nearly a 13-year high and the fastest pace in over a decade. However, on the employment front, the numbers remain a concern, as companies cut more jobs, a private survey showed on Monday.

Even though the economy shrank at a record 23.9 per cent in the April-June quarter, the latest PMI survey shows that Asia's third-largest economy is signalling a fast pace of recovery with several economic indicators turning positive.

"Rising from 56.8 in September to 58.9 in October, the headline PMI pointed to the strongest improvement in the health of the sector in over a decade, with companies raising output to the greatest extent in 13 years amid robust sales growth. The reading was the highest since May 2010 and above the 50-level separating growth from contraction for the third straight month. While firms purchased additional inputs for use in the production process, payroll numbers were lowered due to government guidelines related to the Covid-19," said the IHS Markit survey. Commenting, Pollyanna

De Lima, economics associate director at IHS Markit, said, "Levels of new orders and output at Indian manufacturers continued to recover from the Covid-19 induced contractions seen earlier in the year, with the PMI results for October highlighting historically sharp monthly rates of expansion. Companies were convinced that the resurgence in sales will be sustained in coming months, as indicated by a strong upturn in input buying amid restocking efforts."

"Also, confidence towards the year-ahead outlook for production improved as firms hoped that fewer Covid-19 cases and the reopening of other businesses could boost output growth. There was disappointing news on the employment front though, with October seeing another reduction in payroll numbers," said De Lima.

With input and output prices rising at a faster pace last month, overall retail inflation could see a spike. Inflation rose to an eight-month high of 7.34 per cent in September could remain above the RBI's medium-term target of 2-6 per cent in coming months.

In the survey, hopes of an end to Covid-19 cases and the reopening of other sectors in the economy underpinned positive sentiment towards the year-ahead outlook for production. The level of confidence was at a 50-month high.

"Also, confidence towards the year-ahead outlook for production improved as firms hoped that fewer Covid-19 cases and the reopening of other businesses could boost output growth," Lima said.

Centre transfers ₹6,000 cr to 16 states, 3 UTs

FC BUREAU
NEW DELHI, NOV. 2

In an effort to meet the goods and services tax (GST) revenue shortfall, the Centre on Monday transferred loans worth Rs 6,000 crore as the second tranche to 16 states and three Union territories (UTs) under a special borrowing window. With this amount, the government has already facilitated total loans of Rs 12,000 crore till date under the special window to states and UTs to meet the shortfall in GST compensation cess collections.

"The finance ministry said the "amount was raised at a weighted average yield of 4.42 per cent. This amount will be passed on to the states/UTs at the same interest rate, which is lower than the cost of borrowings for the states and UTs, thus benefitting them."

The 16 states and three UTs that received funds include Andhra Pradesh, Assam, Bihar, Goa, Gujarat, Haryana, HP, Karnataka, MP, Maharashtra, Meghalaya, Odisha, Tamil Nadu, Tripura, UP, Uttarakhand and the UTs of Delhi, J&K and Puducherry.

Twenty-one states and three UTs have opted so far for the special window under Option 1 presented by the Union government. "The loans raised by government are released on a back-to-back basis to states/UTs, in lieu of GST Compensation Cess releases," the ministry said.

Company moves to trust and outcome-based working culture

Work from anywhere, Tata Steel tells staff

New Delhi, Nov. 2: Domestic steel maker Tata Steel on Monday announced a new work model for its employees which allows them to work from home for up to 365 days a year.

The new 'Agile Working Models' policy is effective from Sunday, Tata Steel said in a statement.

Tata Steel said that it is moving towards a "trust and outcome-based working culture" and to give more flexibility to its employees.

Under the new models, effective November 1, even officers who are required to be based out of a particular location can now work from home for unlimited days in a year, it said.

Once the pandemic situation normalises, the policy will enable company's officers to move to a location of choice, giving the employee the flexibility to operate out of any location in the country, the company said adding the policy will be piloted for a year and based on adaptability and feedback, the policy will be reviewed after one year.

Suresh Dutt Tripathi, vice-president, human resource management, Tata Steel, said that flexible working not only portrays an organisation's intent to create a workplace for the upcoming generations but also solidifies its intent to cater to the needs of its diversified workforce across geographies.

The pandemic has helped move away from the traditional thinking of productivity being contingent upon fixed hours of work within an office environment and bust many of the myths around remote working, he said.

The policy will ensure better work-life balance, will give more flexibility to choose where one lives as the daily work commute shifts out of consideration, provides working opportunities to new parents at their convenience, and ensures continuity of work for persons with disabilities in their respective work enabled environment.

"Flexible working provides greater freedom to choose locations and make essential life decisions such as supporting families, be it ageing parents or spouses with non-transferrable jobs. This will help in retaining and enriching our key talent from across the country and attract workforce for location agnostic roles," Tripathi added.

WIN-WIN GAME

Delhi beat Bangalore but both teams make play-offs

Abu Dhabi, Nov. 2: Delhi Capitals qualified for the Indian Premier League play-offs at number two position with a six-wicket win over Royal Challengers Bangalore here on Monday. RCB also entered the play-offs after DC took more than 17.3 overs to complete their chase. Invited to bat, Royal Challengers Bangalore scored 152 for seven in the stipulated 20 overs. Young Devdutt Padikkal top-scored with a 41-ball 50. In reply, DC chased down the target with six balls to spare, courtesy calculative knocks from Shikhar Dhawan (54) and Ajinkya Rahane (60). Earlier, Padikkal, who looked in good nick during his stay in the middle, smashed five fours and shared a 57-run stand with skipper Virat Kohli (29 off 24) for the third wicket. The Capital pulled things back brilliantly in the middle overs. Pacer Anrich Nortje (3/33) was the pick of the bowlers for Delhi Capitals, while Kagiso Rabada (2/30) picked up two wickets and Ravichandran Ashwin (1/18) took the important wicket of Kohli. Padikkal and Josh Philippe (12) were circumspect in the powerplay overs. Rabada provided the Capitals with the early breakthrough off his very first ball, claiming the wicket of the Australian in the fifth over. — PTI

'SHORT RUN' CAME BACK TO BITE US, SAYS RAHUL

Abu Dhabi, Nov. 2: Kings XI Punjab skipper K L Rahul believes that the "short run" that played a part in their opening IPL loss to Delhi Capitals massively affected their play-off chances despite a remarkable comeback in the second leg of the tournament. KXIP finished on 12 points after losing their last game against Chennai Super Kings after winning five games on trot to raise visions of a play-off chance. "It is disappointing. We had a lot of games in our pockets and we couldn't get over the line and we only have ourselves to blame. That short run game too (against Delhi Capitals on September 20), looks like it has come back to bite us," Rahul said at the post-match presentation ceremony. Before that particular match went into Super Over, the TV footage showed that square leg umpire Menon had erred in calling Chris Jordan for a "short run" in the third ball of the 19th over, bowled by Kagiso Rabada. The TV replays showed that Jordan's bat was inside the crease when he completed the first run, starting from the non-striker's end. However to KXIP's horror, Menon gestured that Jordan has not completed the run and only one run was added to Mayank Agarwal and the Punjab team's total. On their loss against CSK, Rahul said that it was all about not batting too well. — PTI

Mumbai stand in between Sunrisers and play-off spot

Sharjah, Nov. 2: Riding high on momentum, resurgent Sunrisers Hyderabad will back themselves to topple the mighty Mumbai Indians and qualify for the IPL play-offs here on Tuesday. Thanks to their healthy run-rate, a win against Mumbai Indians should be enough to send Sunrisers into the final four. After taking a tough call to leave out the dangerous Jonny Bairstow from the playing eleven, Sunrisers have managed to find out the "right" balance. Wriddhiman Saha has made an instant impact as David Warner's opening partner and the inclusion of Jason Holder has given them an all-round option. Pacers Holder and Sandeep Sharma were extremely impressive, both upfront and at the death, in the last game against RCB.

MPL to sponsor Team India kit

New Delhi, Nov. 2: Fantasy gaming platform Mobile Premier League's subsidiary arm 'MPL Sports Apparel and Accessories' is the new kit sponsor of the Indian cricket team for a period of three years.

A member of the Apex Council confirmed the development on Monday that BCCI has inked the apparel and merchandise deal with MPL, replacing Nike.

"Yes, Apex Council has passed the sponsorship deal for apparel of Indian team (men, women, A and U19).

"However the rate per match will be ₹65 lakh per game instead of ₹88 lakh that Nike was giving," the senior official said on conditions of anonymity.

It is learnt that BCCI will also get 10 per cent of the royalty from the sale of merchandise.

"MPL has formed an apparel manufacturing company. They will also pay an amount for merchandise contract. The deal will end in November, 2023," the source added.

● It is learnt that BCCI will also get 10 per cent of the royalty from the sale of merchandise.

While Puma and Adidas had earlier picked up the bid papers for apparel sponsorship, they didn't fill the bid as they felt that the deal needed to be reduced to one third from the original bid.

Nike had a five year deal during which they paid ₹370 crore from 2016 to 2020 with a ₹30 crore royalty.

"No sporting apparel major was ready to pay that kind of money that Nike paid in current economic climate (due to Covid-19).

"One of the major reasons being merchandise items being very costly for common public," the source said.

MPL is currently associated with two IPL franchises (Kolkata Knight Riders and RCB), one CPL franchise (TKR) and the cricket boards of Ireland and the UAE. — PTI

Ronaldo returns with double in Juve's win

Milan, Nov. 2: Cristiano Ronaldo came off the bench to score a brace on his return from coronavirus as Juventus got back to winning ways in Serie A with a 4-1 victory against promoted Spezia on Sunday.

The champions ended a run of three consecutive draws to move third in Serie A, four points behind leaders AC Milan, who beat Udinese 2-1 earlier in the day thanks to a spectacular late winner from Zlatan Ibrahimovic.

Sassuolo overtook Juventus to reclaim second spot, two points behind Milan, after a 2-0 win over Napoli, their first ever success at the Stadio San Paolo. Ronaldo replaced Paulo Dybala in the 56th minute in Cesena with the match level after Tommaso Pobega had cancelled out Alvaro Morata's opener for Juventus.

But the Portuguese striker put Juve in front just three minutes later.

Adrien Rabiot grabbed a third on 68 minutes, with Ronaldo scoring a second from the penalty spot with 15 minutes to go for his fifth goal in three league games this season.

"Cristiano is back. This is the important thing," said Ronaldo, who had been furious at missing Juventus' Champions League 2-0 defeat in mid-week by Lionel Messi's Barcelona.

BALE IS TOTTENHAM'S MATCH WINNER AGAIN

London, Nov. 2: Gareth Bale soared into the air, connected with the ball and powered it into the net.

It's taken more than seven years but Bale was Tottenham's match-winner again. And they have only required three minutes on the field for the substitute to clinch a 2-1 victory over Brighton on Sunday.

A bit of relief and a lot of happiness, Bale said after being set up by Sergio Reguilon, who also switched from Real Madrid in September. "It's an incredible feeling, personally. Obviously you wish the fans were here to be able to celebrate," he said after the match. — AP
