India plans to bar import of 101 weapon platforms in five years

PAWAN BALI | DC
NEW DELHI, AUG. 9

Defence minister Rajnath Singh on Sunday announced a “negative list” of 101 defence platforms and weapons whose import will be banned progressively, starting December 2020, to boost the indigenisation of defence production under the “Atma Nir-bhar Bharat” initiative.

The negative list includes artillery guns, assault rifles, corvettes, sonar systems, transport aircraft, light combat helicopters (LCHs) and radars.

By December 2025, the import of all defence items on the list will be totally barred, while 69 will not be imported from December 2020 itself.

The defence ministry claimed with this embargo, contracts worth ₹4 lakh crore will be placed with domestic industry in the next five to seven years.

Of these, equipment and weapons of ₹1,30,000 crore each are likely for the Army and Air Force, while almost ₹1,40,000 crore worth of items are anticipated by the Navy.

“This decision will offer a great opportunity to India’s defence industry to manufacture items in the negative list,” the defence minister said.

Cong: Sonia will stay interim prez

New Delhi, Aug. 9: The Congress on Sunday said Sonia Gandhi will continue as interim president till such time a “proper procedure” is implemented in the “not too distant future” to elect a party chief.

Congress spokesperson Abhishek Singhvi, during an online media briefing, said it was true that Sonia Gandhi’s tenure as interim chief comes to an end on August 10, one year after she assumed the post, but it did not mean that the seat automatically falls vacant that day.

“Sonia Gandhi is the president, she will continue till such time as a proper procedure is implemented and it will be implemented in the not too distant future,” he told reporters.

“Yes, her tenure comes to an end on August 10. But be rest assured that there is a process which goes through the CWC (Congress Working Committee). This will be followed in the near future and a result will emerge,” he said.

The procedure is written in the Congress’ constitution and the party is committed to follow it, Mr Singhvi said, adding that it was being done and information will be shared on it soon.

Asked about the confusion over whether Mrs Gandhi’s term ends tomorrow or there is no deadline for when the term of an interim president ends, he said it is very clear that neither nature nor politics, nor political parties, permit or tolerate a vacuum.

“Just like nature abhors a vacuum, political parties cannot function in a vacuum. It is true that the tenure is expiring tomorrow. There is a laid down procedure for elections,” Singhvi said. — PTI

Plane crash black box probe begins

New Delhi, Aug. 9: Investigators on Sunday began examining the black box of a Boeing-737 that overshot a runway on its second attempt, killing 18 people in the worst aviation accident in a decade.

In an interview on Sunday, Arun Kumar, head of DGCA, said India would open the recovered transcripts to international investigators, as well as manufacturer Boeing.

“Only after conducting a thorough and unbiased probe, can we tell what happened,” Kumar said.

The 2,700 metre runway at the airport is known as a “table-top”, an aviation term for runways with steep drops at one or both ends.

They leave little room for error should a pilot overshoot the runway, either through human error or mechanical failure.

Late on Saturday, Kumar said in another interview that the pilot made an aborted landing attempt into a headwind and then made a second approach with a tail wind, landing 1,000 metres down the runway.

An air traffic control official familiar with the crash confirmed this version of events, adding it is unusual to attempt a landing with a tailwind, typically used for takeoffs.

“The length of the runway is around 2,700 metres and the plane touched the ground after crossing 1,000 metres, leaving less room for a halt,” the official said. — Reuters

4G in J&K to get delayed further

DC CORRESPONDENT
NEW DELHI, AUG. 9

Restoration of 4G Internet services in Jammu and Kashmir could get delayed further with appointment of new Lt Governor Manoj Sinha.

Sources claim he is expected to review the entire issue in detail again. High speed internet services in Valley were suspended for over a year now after Article 370 was abrogated.

Suspension of high speed 4G internet services in the Valley has remained a highly contentious issue as there were increasing demands from various quarters that these services be restored.

However, the move was strongly opposed by multiple security and intelligence agencies on the grounds that this will trigger a fresh round of terror and false propaganda. The matter has also been pending in the Supreme Court in view of some petitions being filed for restoring the services.

10 Covid patients housed in Vijayawada hotel die in fire

Short circuit in reception spread to first, second floors at 5 am

MD. ILYAS | DC
VIJAYAWADA, AUG. 9

Ten persons undergoing treatment for Coronavirus at a hotel-turned-hospital in Vijayawada were killed in a fire mishap early on Sunday.

The fire broke out at 5 am at the reception in the centrally located Swarna Palace Hotel due to a short circuit. The flames spread rapidly to first and second floors, where the patients were housed. Ramesh Hospitals, a well-known institution, had taken the hotel on lease for treating Covid-19 patients and 30 patients were undergoing treatment at the time of the mishap. The thick smoke that filled the hotel following the fire is said to have asphyxiated 10 of them.

Besides, 10 hospital staff were also present to take care of the patients. Short circuit in an air conditioner near the reception on the ground floor caused the fire around 4.30 am. The fire started spreading to first and second floors, where the patients were undergoing treatment. The fire was noticed about half an hour later.

Many patients rushed out of their rooms and tried to climb down the stairs. They were unable to see anything due to thick smoke. Patients and hospital staff then rushed to windows and started screaming for help.

The fire department, NDRF and police personnel reached the spot around 5.15 am. There was no way they could enter the hotel using the stairs. They used the fire brigade ladders and climbed to the first and second floors, broke the window panes of the rooms and evacuated the patients.

Srinivas Reddy said that the fire station was located within a kilometre from the hotel and they could respond within 10 minutes.

“There was no way to enter the hotel to rescue the people who were screaming from the windows, due to the flames and smoke,” he said.

In an ironic twist, out of 10 persons, who died in the fire mishap at Covid Care Centre attached to a private hospital in Vijayawada, only two tested Coronavirus positive while the remaining eight turned out negative.

As per government’s norms, it is mandatory that a Covid-19 test is carried out on all those who die an unnatural death before their post-mortem is conducted.

This condition has been stipulated so that forensic experts, who perform the post-mortem, can take adequate precautions while performing the post-mortem.

Alert Covid patient called fire force, police for help

VIJAYAWADA, AUG. 9

The presence of mind of a Covid-19 patient undergoing treatment in the private Covid centre at Swarna Palace Hotel at Vijayawada helped the fire department, National Disaster Response Force and other officials to swiftly plunge into action and rescue patients.

The patient, Chowd-avarapu Pawan Sai Kishan, on observing the flames tried to escape from the room. Seeing fire, heat and smoke, he returned to his room and broke open glass window pane. He then called the fire department and police from his mobile phone. The fire department rushed fire tenders to the hotel and rescued Pawan Sai by bringing him down on a ladder. They also rescued 18 patients who were also trapped and shifted them to hospitals.

Kishan narrated his horrifying saga through a self-ie video and said this was almost a second life for him. He said he was staying in Room 307. In the wee hours, he saw thick smoke coming inside the hotel. He said “I started feeling breathless. The thick smoke made it impossible for me to use the stairs.”

“As I was facing a problem, I used my mobile. Fortunately the fire department, police and other officials responded swiftly. They immediately fixed a tall ladder which helped me to get down. I was shifted to another hospital. I salute them for saving my life and that of other patients,” he said.

HOTEL DID NOT HAVE NoC FROM FIRE DEPARTMENT

DC CORRESPONDENT
VIJAYAWADA, AUG. 9

The six-storied Swarna Palace hotel lacks “No Objection Certificate” from the Fire Department, something mandatory for every building above the height of 16 metres. Though it was equipped with fire-fighting equipment, the smoke detectors and water sprinklers installed were not in working condition.

Fire authorities believe that if the smoke detectors were active, the fast-asleep staff would have woken up with the alarm going around 5 am.

Personnel say fire broken 30 minutes before

Delayed call to fire staff costs 10 lives

DC CORRESPONDENT
VIJAYAWADA, AUG. 9

Long delay in alerting the fire personnel about the fire at Swarna Palace, a temporary private Covid-19 facility, has cost 10 Coronavirus patients their lives.

Fire Department authorities say they received information about the fire mishap at 5.09 am on Sunday. By the time they reached the venue, thick fumes of smoke and a raging fire had already engulfed the building. This indicated that the fire had broken about 30-35 minutes before they got intimation about the fire.

According to fire personnel, fire erupted on the ground floor near the reception. It soon spread and turned into a wildfire because of inflammable material like wood, curtains and other materials.

As thick smoke and fire had reached the first floor from ground floor, even engulfing the staircase, there was no way out for patients to escape. A patient was found charred to death on the first floor while seven more bodies were found on the second floor.

There was a huge oxygen tank kept at the reception for giving oxygen to Covid-19 patients upon their arrival for treatment at the facility. It is suspect oxygen leaked from this tank, causing the fire to rage further. Fortunately, the oxygen tank did not explode. There were also cooking gas cylinders in the kitchen on the ground floor. Luckily, the fire was brought under control before it could reach the kitchen.

Otherwise, it could have been a major disaster.

Regional fire officer G. Srinivasulu said, “We received information about the fire mishap at 5.09 am and reached the hotel by 5.13 am. As everyone had been fast asleep when the short circuit occurred, nearly 30-35 minutes were lost by the time they alerted us about the fire. When we reached, the fire had engulfed the ground, first, second and third floors. We could rescue Covid-19 patients only using ladders and ropes.”

Vijayawada: Governor Biswabhusan Harichandan expressed deep anguish and grief over the death of 11 Covid-19 patients in the Swarna Palace Hotel fire mishap on Sunday. In his condolence message, the Governor expressed sympathy for the families of those who died in the hotel fire. He directed the state government to provide the best possible treatment to the injured persons and stressed the need for compliance with fire safety norms by hospitals and commercial buildings to avert recurrence of such tragedies.

They could then have made efforts to counter the fire till fire brigade came on to the scene. During the crucial period, they could have also evacuated Covid-19 patients staying at the hotel.

As per preliminary reports, fire brigade received a call about the fire mishap at 5.09 am and by 5.13 am five fire tenders had reached the spot. The fire was doused within half an hour. It is suspected the fire erupted due to electric short circuit at the reception on the ground floor, releasing thick smoke. Hotel workers did not notice the fire as they were fast asleep at the time. By the time they realised the hotel was on fire, the fire had spread to the first and second floors.

Majority of the patients were of advanced age with mild symptoms or were asymptomatic. When they realised the hotel was on fire, some of the patients rushed to the third floor and started screaming for help from the open corridors. Fire personnel rescued as many as 18 Coronavirus patients by bringing them down using their ladders and with the help of ropes.

Fire authorities are now a worried lot as nearly 30 personnel and officers had taken part in the rescue operation. They had also physically handled Covid-19 patients. There is a possibility that some of them may have contracted the virus.

Regional fire officer G. Srinivasulu said as sanitiser sprays were being widely used to sanitise rooms, beds and other facilities, their inflammable vapours hanging in the air could have catalysed the fire. That could be the reason for the fire spreading rapidly.

Krishna district medical and health officer Dr I. Ramesh said, "We gave permission to Ramesh Hospital to use Swarna Palace to accommodate Covid-19 patients after putting in place all safety precautions". The hotel had the capacity to accommodate 30 patients.

NELLORE, AUG. 8

As usual, officials woke up from slumber and directed the fire officers to inspect all the Covid hospitals and care centres following the Swarna Palace Hotel mishap in Vijayawada on Sunday.

District fire officials said that they have no idea whether the designated Covid hospitals have obtained NOC or not. In fact, they have no information as to how many hotels have been converted into Covid care centres and how many hospitals have been designated to treat the patients in their jurisdiction.

Fire officials in Prakasam and Nellore said all corporate hospitals in their jurisdiction have obtained NOC and they have to do fire safety audit in other Covid hospitals and care centres.

Prakasam district fire officer S. Srinivasa Rao said Sanghamithra and KIMS Hospital, which are treating Coronavirus patients in Ongole, obtained NOC, but they have to check whether other hospitals such as HCG MNR Curie Cancer Centre complied with norms.

He said they are waiting for the list of Covid care centres and hospitals to conduct an audit.

Nellore DFO K. Srikanth said they launched an inspection of designated Covid hospitals and care centres and expressed the hope that they would submit a report to the district authorities by Monday afternoon.

When contacted, DMHO Dr Rajyalakshmi said she constituted a team to inspect.

Over 250 hosps have no NOC from fire dept

K.M.P. PATNAIK | DC
VISAKHAPATNAM, AUG. 9

The Vijayawada fire mishap that claimed the lives of 10 Covid patients brings into sharp focus the state of safety standards in hospitals in Visakhapatnam city. Sources in the fire service department said over 250 hospitals in the GVMC jurisdiction have not obtained no objection certificates (NOCs). The officials recently conducted a survey in view of the Covid and served notices on the erring hospitals. Fortunately, major Covid designated hospitals are found to be adhering to the fire safety norms. There are several hospitals in the city which are treating Covid patients even though they have no official permission.

"During last couple of days 50 hospitals including 10 dental hospitals have obtained NOCs and 200 are yet to respond. We have written to the government to initiate action against these hospitals," said regional fire officer Niranjan Reddy.

Speaking to DC on Sunday, Niranjan Reddy said the vulnerable institutions like hospitals, schools and function halls are taking advantage of the inadequate staff of the fire service department and continuing to violate the fire safety rules.

It may be recalled that a fire broke out in the Cath lab of My Cure, located at Maharanipecta here, in October 2018 due to a short-circuit. The alert staff shifted about 70 patients to various other hospitals and prevented casualties.

Similarly, a major fire accident was averted at an operation theatre in King George Hospital with the timely intervention of the staff. In another incident, the entire paediatric ward of Victoria General Hospital, well-known as Gosha Hospital, was gutted. Luckily, there were no casualties due to the immediate rescue operations by the staff.

In the Vizag region, there are about 340 hospitals, both in private and government sector. Only 80 have fire NOC and over 250, including 20 government hospitals, have not obtained mandatory certificate, said Niranjan Reddy.

District fire officer B. Ram Prakash said all the Covid designated hospitals including GITAM, VIMS, Apollo, Seven Hills and all the hospitals in Health City have installed fire safety systems at the time of construction.

"But they need to conduct mock drills and overhaul the system periodically," the DFO said.

Inspections conducted hastily by officials on Sunday soon after the Vijayawada tragedy revealed that 10 of the 25 Covid hospitals in East Godavari and five in West Godavari did not have NOC.

As the inspection of all hospitals was not completed, it will continue on Monday. West Godavari DFO Sankara Rao admitted that many of the Covid centres and hospitals did not have NOCs.

According to him, due to the urgency, some of the buildings were hurriedly converted into Covid-19 centres without checking whether they met safety norms or not.

Joint collector (W) G.Rajakumari said that the fire department officials were directed to inspect Covid centres and take necessary steps for further course of action.

Chief Minister Y.S. Jagan Mohan Reddy announced ₹50 lakh ex gratia to the family members of those killed in the fire accident at the hotel-turned-corona facility here on Sunday.

Governor Biswabhusan Harichandan ordered the government to take immediate rescue measures to save the lives of injured people. The Chief Minister directed officials to take necessary steps to provide better medical services to the victims and also ordered a probe into the incident.

Meanwhile, Prime Minister Narendra Modi expressed grief at the death of ten Covid patients in the fire accident.

Mr Modi spoke to Jagan Mohan Reddy over phone and enquired about the present situation and complete details of the fire accident. The Chief Minister pointed out that a private hospital had leased the hotel which was converted into a Covid-19 care centre for treating coronavirus patients. He explained that the fire broke out at around 5 am and authorities immediately took remedial action and saved the lives of most of the patients, and the injured were being provided emergency medical care. VIJAYAWADA, AUG. 9

Personnel from the fire department put their lives to enormous risk during their rescue operation that saved many Coronavirus patients who were undergoing treatment at Swarna Palace Hotel after it was converted into an isolation centre by Ramesh Hospitals.

When the fire broke out early on Sunday morning, nurses and patients screamed for help from the windows. Although many people gathered at the spot on hearing the cries, none dared to enter the premises because of the fear of catching Covid-19.

Showing remarkable courage, fire personnel immediately plunged into action and rescued several patients.

District fire officer M. Srinivas Reddy, assistant district fire officer, A. Sekhar, SFO Autonagar K. Ramesh and fire officer Srinath Reddy said that after first dousing the flames, they entered the building and started rescuing people inside. They stated that it was only while shifting people struck inside that they realised they were Covid-19 patients as they had tags and bands to their hands. This did not deter the officials from rescuing all 21 survivors.

The fire staff lamented that during the pandemic situation, the kith and kin of patients were treating their loved ones as untouchables. In contrast, the firefighters were without PPE kits and protective measures while going about the rescue operation.

The availability of two fire tenders located at the fire station barely one km from the hotel helped them reach within minutes. In the meantime, four more fire tenders from Ajit Singh Nagar, Kotha Peta and Autonagar were rushed to the spot. The fire was extinguished in around 30 minutes and they were able to contain the intensity of the mishap and property loss.

Patients brought down on ladders

He and three other fire officers decided to climb to the first and second floors on ladders and started bringing down the people. He said ropes were used to harness the patients so that they could climb down safely.

After the blaze was brought under control, fire personnel entered the hotel and found 10 dead bodies lying on floors of the hotel-turned-hospital.

Ministers Velampalli Srinivas Rao and Mekathoti Sucharita said as per preliminary investigations, negligence of hospital management had caused the fire mishap. A case has been registered and two committees have been constituted to probe the incident.

Vijayawada police has registered cases against managements of Ramesh Hospitals and Swarna Palace Hotel for the mishap.

Sucharita said negligence of the two managements had surfaced in the preliminary inquiry into the blaze. Cases had been registered on Sunday against the two managements.

Vijayawada Central mandal revenue officer P. Jaya Sri lodged a complaint at Governorpet police station alleging that managements of the hospital and the hotel had knowledge about electrical defects in the hotel. They avoided repairs as that would cost money.

Chief Minister Y.S. Jagan Mohan Reddy announced ₹50 lakh ex gratia to the family members of those killed.

PROBE REPORT IN 48 HOURS: HOME MINISTER

The home minister said 48 hours have been given for completing the investigation and submitting a report to the government. Stern action will be initiated against those found guilty.

Earlier, Vijayawada city central MRO, P. Jaya Sri lodged a complaint at Governorpet police station under whose jurisdiction Swarna Palace comes. In her complaint, the official stated that Ramesh Hospital, Vijayawada, had signed a Memorandum of Understanding with Swarna Palace hotel for running a private Covid-19 centre to treat Corona patients on payment basis. The MRO alleged that managements of the hospital and hotel had knowledge about electrical defects in the hotel. They deliberately avoided repairs as that would cost a huge amount of money. Further, despite knowing the fact that there were electrical defects in the hotel that could cause short circuits, the two managements had opened the private Covid-19 treatment centre.

The complainant stated that an electrical short circuit had caused the fire mishap in the hotel killing 10 Corona patients and causing injuries to 20 patients and staff at the hotel. The official sought stern action against the two managements for negligence.

Meanwhile, Krishna district collector A. Md Imtiaz has appointed a committee to probe the fire mishap and directed it to submit its report within two days. Joint collector (Development) L. Sivasankar will lead the inquiry committee. Sub-collector Dhyan Chandra, VMC chief medical officer Dr. G. Geeta Bai, RFO Uday Kumar, and officials of the Electricity Department will be members of the probe committee.

MOST HOSPITALS FIRE TRAPS IN TIRUPATI

TIRUPATI, AUG. 9

Most of the hotels-turned-Covid-19 care centres and private hospitals are located in congested and narrow lanes in the city, making it difficult for even a passenger vehicle to pass through them, let alone a fire tender. What is more disturbing is the fact that some private hospitals are far behind when it comes to implementing fire safety norms.

In most of the buildings, emergency exits remain permanently blocked, entry and exit points are not clearly marked. Though some have firefighting equipment, they are mostly defunct and sprinklers are hard to find, it is observed.

Highly-placed sources in the corporation told Deccan Chronicle that about five major hospitals in the city were found to be lacking the mandatory no-objection certificate (NOC) from the fire services department. It is learnt that frequent notices served on them by the fire services department authorities have failed to stir them into action.

Immediately after the news of Vijayawada hotel fire broke out, district collector G. Veerapandian had directed the district fire officials to check fire safety compliances in all the government and private hospitals in the district, and submit a report.

The DFO said many old hospitals in the state do not have fire safety equipments like sprinklers. "Even the roads in big hospitals are mostly blocked by parked vehicles. If a fire breaks out, fire tenders cannot find an easy access to the mishap site. Therefore norms & codes for building design & fire safety should be followed not only for high rise hospital buildings but also for small structures or nursing homes," he said.

Tirumala registered 2.38L footfalls in July

DC CORRESPONDENT TIRUPATI, AUG. 9

As many as 2.38 lakh pilgrims from different places across the country had darshan of Lord Balaji at Tirumala in July, said TTD EO Anil Kumar Singhal.

Disclosing the details to mediapersons here on Sunday, Singhal said that though there was a dip in the number of pilgrims due to increased Coronavirus cases across the country, during the last three days, the number of pilgrims picked up again.

“On August 8, about 8,500 odd pilgrims had darshan against the quota of 9,000 tickets,” he observed.

Hundi collections stood at ₹16.69 crore, while the e-hundi collection stood at ₹3.97 crore in the last month. “In Padmavathi temple also, we commenced e-hundi recently and so far ₹8.15 lakh has been received,” Singhal added.

The TTD is contemplating making advertisements free on the Sri Venkateswara Bhakthi channel (SVBC) upon requests from devotees across the world and started an SVBC Trust as it requires ₹3-4 crore annually to maintain the channel. So far, the trust had received ₹2.61 crore in the

As many as 743 employees of the TTD tested positive for Covid-19 since the hill shrine of Lord Venkateswara at Tirumala was reopened on June 8 after nearly 80 days of lockdown.

Revealing this to media persons during the monthly “Dial Your EO” programme here on Sunday, TTD executive officer Anil Kumar Singhal said not a single devotee, who visited Tirumala for darshan, had got infected with the virus because of stringent anti-Covid measures taken by the temple management. While 91 employees tested positive for Covid-19 till July 9, about 652 employees fell victim to the virus by August 9. Three have succumbed to the deadly virus so far.

According to the TTD EO, 402 employees have recovered completely and re-joined their duties,

“We are giving the best possible treatment to our employees in the Covid centres. I thank all our employees for rendering services to the visiting pilgrims,” he said.

Refuting the allegations that TTD reopened the temple only to fill its coffers, Mr Singhal said that they had taken the decision in June after several requests from devotees with a noble intention to fulfill their longing for darshan of Lord after 80 days of lockdown.

“Initially, everyone appreciated the TTD’s move. But soon as cases started increasing in Tirupati, the blame was put on us by some vested interests. We are spending more on checking the spread of Covid-19 than what we are earning now,” he clarified.

Man beheads son-in-law

DC CORRESPONDENT KAKINADA, AUG. 9

In a gruesome incident at DJ Puram village in Rowthulapudi mandal of East Godavari district a man beheaded his son-in-law and handed the severed head to officials at Annavaram police station on Sunday.

The son-in-law reportedly threatened his father-in-law that he would kill his two children if the elder man did not allow him to marry again.

According to Annavaram Circle Inspector Y. Rambabu, Palla Satyanarayana married off his daughter to Pampanaboyina Lakshman (30) of Achampet village in Sankhavaram mandal in 2015. The couple had two daughters. But, Lakshman’s wife reportedly committed suicide 10 months back.

On Saturday, Satyanarayana invited his son-in-law and the grandchildren to present new clothes as a ritual after the death of his daughter.

Lakshman fought with his father-in-law for another marriage, failing which he threatened to kill his two young daughters. An enraged Satyanarayana hacked him with a sword and separated his head and brought it to the police station. Rambabu said that the head and the remaining body were sent to post-mortem.

Annavaram police registered a case. Meanwhile, it is suspected that in a drunken state, Lakshman had killed his wife but made it appear like a suicide.

MINOR FIRE MISHAP IN A SHIP BERTHED AT VIZAG

DC CORRESPONDENT VISAKHAPATNAM, AUG. 9

A minor fire in a ship berthed at West Q 5 in Visakhapatnam port caused panic among the crew and port workers on Sunday.

The vessel BD51 used for changing crew for the major merchant ships was berthed at WQ5 on Saturday.

On Sunday, about 2 pm, smoke was found emanating from the crew change room of the ship.

Immediately, VPT fire brigade rushed to the spot and put out the flames. Port officials said the smoke originated from oil soaked waste jute and cotton and boiler suits of crews. There’s no damage to the vessel, the officials said.

However, people who have been witnessing many industrial mishaps in the last few months were frightened to see flames again.

Best medicare for prisoners

DC CORRESPONDENT RAJAHMUNDRY, AUG. 9

Backward Classes welfare minister Ch. Srinivasa Venugopala Krishna said that better medical facilities were being provided to prisoners in Central Jail at Rajahmundry, who were infected with Covid-19 virus.

He, along with the district collector D. Muralidhar Reddy and Rajahmundry Municipal Commissioner Abhishikh Kishore, visited the Central Jail and inspected the facilities provided for the treatment of prisoners infected with Covid-19. Mr Venu said that there are 1,960 prisoners, including remand and regular, out of which 272 patients tested positive for Covid-19 and the reports of 300 more prisoners are yet to be received.

He said that there is a hospital in the central jail and doctors frequently are visiting the hospital and rendering services. He said that the quality medical treatment is being provided to all Covid-19 positive cases without any discrimination of common man, rich man and prisoners.

JAC: PROTECT ADIVASIS FROM VIRUS THREAT

DC CORRESPONDENT VISAKHAPATNAM, AUG. 9

Adivasi organisations observed World Indigenous People’s Day at several places in north coastal Andhra on Sunday.

Members of Joint Action Committee of Adivasi organisations hoisted the flag at Girijana Students Union Library in Paderu where several speakers expressed their concern over the fast spreading Coronavirus in the Agency. “Covid is threatening the very existence of Adivasis and hence the government should pay special attention as the existing medical institutions and health officials are not adequate to face the challenges,” said JAC convener Rama Rao Dora. He also appealed to the government to follow the Unesco guidelines in protection of Adivasis.

Paderu MLA, in a meeting held in ITDA in the presence of collector V. Vinay Chand and Araku MLA Chetti Palguna, asked the government to check illegal mining that has been going on since years. She also told the collector to improve road network, drinking water supply and internet services in the Agency areas. Araku Valley MLA Chetti Palguna told the collector that the recent rains caused land slip in many areas disrupting the traffic. He said the roads should be restored to ensure supply of essentials.

Tribals told to know of rights

DC CORRESPONDENT KADAPA, AUG. 9

District collector Chevuri Harikiran called on the tribal communities to know about their rights and laws framed for their welfare in the Constitution. He was speaking at a programme held by the District Tribal Welfare Department on the occasion of World Tribal Day on Sunday.

The collector, who was the chief guest at the programme, said that the authorities should work hard to ensure that the welfare schemes provided by the state government for the development of the tribals reached the beneficiaries.

He said that the role of tribals in the preservation of our ancient culture and traditions was worth appreciating.

The state government has introduced several welfare schemes through the Tribal Welfare Department. There are 4 per cent of tribals in the district population. The tribal welfare schemes have been benefiting the Erukula, Lambadi and other communities in the district.

Super speciality hospital in Agency

DC CORRESPONDENT KAKINADA, AUG. 9

West Godavari district collector Revu Muthyala Raju said that the government had sanctioned a super specialty hospital in the Agency area which would be built at a cost of ₹75 crore and the officials are searching for 10 acres of land for it.

He participated in the International Adivasi Day at Kota Ramachandrapuram in ITDA office on Sunday. He said that steps were being taken for improving infrastructure in the Agency area by developing roads and other facilities.

He said that the tribal people were facing several hardships to get treatment for their ailments. He said that two Covid Care Centres have been set up in Tadepalligudem and Eluru and another Covid Centre would be set up at Buttayigudem with a ventilator facility. He suggested the tribal people wear masks, maintain social distance and wash their hands with soaps, when they go outside.

Polavaram MLA T. Balaraju said that employment opportunities would be provided to the tribal youth soon.

At Rampachodavaram, East Godavari district collector D. Muralidhar Reddy called upon the tribal people to make efforts to develop themselves by making use of the laws and the resources.

He said that third phase of Forest Rights Patta would be distributed to the beneficiaries on October 2 on Gandhi Jayanti. He praised the tribal women who were working in Sri City in Chittoor in firms manufacturing cell phones.

Chandrapur, Aug. 9: A shepherd has been killed by a tiger in the Bramhapuri forest range in Chandrapur district of Maharashtra, an official said on Sunday.

The incident occurred on Saturday evening when the victim, Annaji Kuthe, was grazing cattle, he said, adding that the body was spotted by villagers in night. A total of 18 people have been killed in Chandrapur district so far this year by tigers, the official said. In 2019, 23 people had fallen prey to big cats.

BJP RIDDEN WITH FACTIONALISM,
SAYS GEHLOT

Jaipur, Aug. 9: Rajasthan Chief Minister Ashok Gehlot on Sunday questioned the shifting of BJP MLAs to Gujarat, saying the opposition party was ridden with factionalism.

His comments came in the wake of the BJP herding its 18 MLAs in the past two days to party-ruled Gujarat ahead of the Rajasthan assembly session beginning August 14. The BJP had claimed that their MLAs were being harassed by police and the administration at the behest of the Congress government in the state.

Gehlot, on the other hand, defended the stay of Congress legislators at a Jaisalmer hotel, saying the party required to keep them together to thwart horse-trading. "But, what is worrying the BJP? They are herding their legislators to three-four places. I see a big split in them," Gehlot told reporters in Jaisalmer.

Lashing out at the opposition party, Gehlot said the "tradition they are setting up is dangerous to democracy." He said while BJP is trying to topple his government, the government is making efforts to save lives amid the Coronavirus crisis. Unfortunately, such people sitting in power are weakening democracy, which we saved for the past 70 years, Gehlot said.

11 PAK MIGRANTS FOUND DEAD IN RAJASTHAN

Jodhpur, Aug. 9: Eleven members of a family of Pakistan Hindu migrants were found dead at a farm in Rajasthan's Jodhpur district on Sunday morning, police said. A member of the family, however, was found alive outside the hut they lived at Lodta village of the Dechu area, over 100 km away from Jodhpur city, an officer said.

"But he claimed to have no idea about the incident, which believed to have happened in the night," said Superintendent of Police (Rural) Rahul Barhat. "We are yet to ascertain the cause and means of death. They appeared to have committed suicide by consuming some chemical in the night," Barhat said.

He said there was a smell of some chemical in the hut, suggesting they consumed something. The family belonging to the Bhil community had come to India from Pakistan's Sindh province in 2015 on a long-term visa. They had been living at the Lodta village farm, which they had hired for farming, for the past six months.

ED GRILLS RHEA'S BROTHER FOR 18 HOURS

DC CORRESPONDENT
MUMBAI, AUG. 9

The Enforcement Directorate (ED) questioned Showik Chakraborty, brother of actor Rhea Chakraborty, for about 18 hours and has summoned the actress again for questioning on Monday in connection with the money laundering case linked to the death of actor Sushant Singh Rajput.

Following questioning of Rhea on Friday, the agency is probing the trail of ₹2.5 crore worth fixed deposit of the late actor, to ascertain if it was diverted to Chakraborty. The interrogation has hinted towards the possibility of the money having been allegedly siphoned off with the help of her chartered accountant (CA).

The ED officials said the responses given by the brother sister duo was largely incomplete that gave rise to many questions. The team questioning them has hence sought for another round of questioning and Chakraborty has again been summoned on Monday.

PMO sets deadline for Naga talks

Sources stated that an accord will be signed in September after surrendering weapons

MANOJ ANAND | DC
GUWAHATI, AUG. 9

The Centre has decided to conclude the decades-old peace talks with the NSCN (I-M) and NNPGs (Naga National Political Groups) in Nagaland by September this year, for which a process of thrashing out differences over some of the minor rhetorical issues will start next week in meetings in New Delhi between the collective leadership of the NSCN (I-M) and the Prime Minister's special envoy for Naga talks R.N. Ravi, who is also the governor of Nagaland.

Saying that the Prime Minister's Office had set a September deadline for the final settlement of all Naga political issues, authoritative security sources told this newspaper that the date and place of signing of the historic peace accord, bringing an end to one of India's oldest armed insurgencies, is yet to be decided.

Saying that Mr Ravi was leaving for New Delhi from Kohima on Tuesday, the sources said the NSCN (I-M) delegation has already reached New Delhi for the talks. Saying that a consensus had already been created on a majority of the issues, apart from the demand of for a separate flag and constitution, the sources said the NSCN (I-M) was also insisting on some changes in the "language" of the final draft agreement that will be come up for discussion at the meeting.

Indicating that the focus of the talks in New Delhi would also be to work out the date and place for signing of the peace accord, the sources said the interlocutor would also be asking the Naga rebel groups to submit the list of cadres and inventory of arms and ammunition. Stating that an accord will be signed after the surrender of the

● THE SECURITY sources said the interlocutor and NSCN (I-M) negotiators may have more than one or two rounds of meetings before finalisation of the modalities of the Naga pact for which the NSCN (I-M), the working committee of Naga National Political Groups and other stakeholders will be the signatories.

● SAYING THAT the Prime Minister's Office had set a September deadline for the final settlement of all Naga political issues inventory of weapons by the cadres, the sources said the Union home ministry, in consultation with the interlocutor, was also preparing a rehabilitation package for the Naga rebels.

Clarifying that the Covid-19 situation had delayed the peace process, the sources said the government had already rejected the demand for a separate flag and constitution for Nagaland, but the NSCN (I-M) was still insisting on discussing these issues. Saying these two contentious issues may be left for negotiations between the state and Central governments after the signing of the accord, the sources said a vested interest group was working overtime to derail the peace process. "As Naga peace talks started in 1997, a vested interest group is already developed and active. They know they can't derail the peace process so they have been working hard to ensure that the status quo is maintained," the sources said, while rejecting media reports making claims such as a change of interlocutor to the NSCN (I-M) refusing to join the talks, etc.

About the talks being held in New Delhi instead of Kohima, the sources said the decision to hold the talks in New Delhi was taken by Mr Ravi given the health issues of 86-year-old NSCN (I-M) general secretary Th Muivah, who is now under treatment in New Delhi.

The security sources said the interlocutor and NSCN (I-M) negotiators may have more than one or two rounds of meetings before finalisation of the modalities of the Naga pact for which the NSCN (I-M), the working committee of Naga National Political Groups and other stakeholders will be the signatories.

It is significant that the Naga insurgency has been one of India's oldest conflicts. Right from Independence, the Naga groups have asserted their distinct identity and sought to break away from the Indian Union. Led by Angami Zipo Phizo, the movement for secession took a violent turn in the 1950s. When some elements signed a peace accord with the government, a more radical outfit — the Nationalist Socialist Council of Nagaland (NSCN) — was set up under the leadership of T. Muivah, Isak Swu and S.S. Khaplang. The group later split.

In 1997, New Delhi began engaging closely with the NSCN, led by Isak and Muivah (I-M). A ceasefire was declared. Multiple rounds of talks were held. Violence dipped — even though the insurgents maintained a parallel government in the state. And in August 2015, a framework agreement was signed that has not only managed to neutralise the Naga extremists but also shattered the backbone of the insurgency across the entire Northeast. A distinct evolution in the Naga position is visible, the security sources added.

Virus cases in India
cross 22-lakh mark

DC CORRESPONDENT
NEW DELHI, AUG. 9

India crossed the 22 lakh cases mark on Sunday. On Saturday, India had recorded 65,788 cases, the highest so far on a given day.

The biggest contributors to the spike were Maharashtra and Andhra Pradesh both of which reported over 10,000 cases in a single day while numbers are rising in Uttar Pradesh, Karnataka, Bihar and West Bengal. Delhi, where the number of cases has fallen impressively, is again reporting a high number of cases. However, Delhi health minister said the rise in Delhi numbers is due to persons from outside the city coming to the capital for testing and treatment which is leading to the increase in numbers.

Union health ministry officials said such high numbers of positive cases are due to higher testing. In a new high, India has scaled the peak of testing more than 7 lakh people in a single day as 7,19,364 tests were conducted in the last 24 hours. India has so far conducted 2, 41, 06, 535 tests.

"Such high levels of testing will also lead to a high number of daily positive cases. However, states have been advised to firmly focus on comprehensive tracking, prompt isolation and effective treatment. Several meetings in the past week have engaged with states showing higher fatality rates," said union health ministry officials.

They added that such an approach of high testing has started showing results and recoveries are also increasing exponentially. India recorded the highest number of recoveries in a single day with 53,879 patients recovered and discharged on Saturday. With this, the total number of recovered cases has touched another high of 14,80,884 on Sunday.

"This is more than twice the number of active cases (6,28,747). The number of recovered cases is 2.36 times the active cases, which are all under medical attention either in home isolation or in hospitals," officials said.

Cong targets PM, launches employment programme

DC CORRESPONDENT
NEW DELHI, AUG. 9

Targeting Prime Minister, Narendra Modi, the Congress on Sunday launched a Rozgar Do (provide employment) programme.

Congress leader, Rahul Gandhi, accused the Modi government of failing to meet its promise of jobs for two crore people every year and then enacting policies that 'destroyed India's economic structure' and left crores without jobs.

In a 90-second video posted on his Twitter account, Gandhi launched the Rozgar Do campaign and urged young people without jobs, as well as others, to raise their voices, speak out and 'awaken the government from its slumber.'

"When Narendra Modi became Prime Minister, he promised the youth of this country that he would give employment to two crore people every year. He sold them a very big dream. The truth is 14 crore people have been made jobless by Narendra Modi's policies," said Gandhi.

He further added, "Why did this happen? Because of wrong policies - demonetisation, GST and then the lockdown. Because of these three, the government has destroyed India's economic structure. The truth now is India cannot give its youth jobs."

Several leaders of the Congress also shared videos on social media demanding that Modi should give employment to the youth. In the last couple of weeks, the Congress claimed that around 12 crore people lost jobs in April alone, a month into the first lockdown, according to estimates by the private think tank, the centre for monitoring Indian economy (CMIE).

Unemployment in India stood at 11 per cent in June down from 23.5 per cent the previous month - according to data released by CMIE that said over 46 crore people were looking for jobs that month.

The CMIE also said that unemployment levels 'pre-lockdown' were 8.5 per cent. The Congress has added unemployment as one of the major failures of the Modi government.

₹1 lakh-cr PM fund for agri-infra

NEW DELHI, AUG. 9

The Centre on Sunday announced a financing facility of ₹1 lakh crore under the Agriculture Infrastructure Fund for agri-entrepreneurs, start-ups, agri-tech players and farmer groups for nurturing farm assets and post-harvest management.

The fund, which was launched by Prime Minister Narendra Modi, is part of the government's 'Atma Nirbhar Bharat' initiative to make farmers self-reliant.

These assets will enable farmers to get greater value for their produce, as they will be able to store and sell at higher prices, reduce wastage, and increase processing and value addition, the government said.

"Today, our farmers have a choice. If he wants to deal with his produce in his field, he can. Or he can directly connect with the warehouse or whoever pays the higher price," Modi said, saying the agriculture sector will benefit a great deal.

A loan amount of ₹1 lakh crore will be made available to farmers over a period of four years.

While ₹10,000 crores will be made available between 2020 and 2021, ₹30,000 crore will be provided in each of the remaining three years. Farmers will also get a subsidy of three per cent on interest.

The PM also released the sixth instalment of ₹17,100 crores to the bank accounts of over 8.55 crore farmer beneficiaries under the Pradhan Mantri Kisan Samman Nidhi (PM-Kisan) scheme.

Under the scheme, launched in 2018 and funded by the Centre, each farmer gets direct support of up to ₹6,000 a year as minimum income support.

The Prime Minister reiterated that India has a huge opportunity to invest in post-harvest management solutions like warehousing, cold chain and food processing, and build a global presence in areas such as organic and fortified foods.

He also mentioned that this scheme provides a good opportunity for start-ups in agriculture to avail the benefits and scale their operations, thereby creating an ecosystem that reaches farmers in every corner of the country. Modi also interacted with farmers from Karnataka, Gujarat and Madhya Pradesh who are among the initial beneficiaries of the credit facility under this new fund through Primary Agricultural Credit Societies (PACS) for creating post-harvest facilities.

Citing reasons for poor investment in agri-infrastructure, the prime minister said there was "negligible" investment due to legal hurdles in the wake of a provision of stock limit under the Essential Commodities (EC) Act. "Now, we have surplus production. The stock limit not only affects the farmers but also the country's economy and consumers. But surprisingly the law (EC Act) was still continuing when we have become a surplus producing nation. This law is not required now," he said.

Rape accused
held after 34 yrs

DC CORRESPONDENT
BHOPAL, AUG. 9

Police in Gwalior in Madhya Pradesh on Sunday arrested a rape accused who had absconded after committing the crime 34 years ago.

The accused, Suresh Pathak (62), was arrested in Gwalior bus stand early on Sunday morning following a tip off by a local police informer, police said.

According to the police, the accused, a resident of Dehri under Barason police station in Bhind district, had been living in Mathura, Vrindavan and Haridwar in guise of a 'sadhu' for the last 33 years after fleeing Madhya Pradesh soon after he committed the crime in 1986.

He returned to Gwalior in 2019 thinking that his case may have been buried in police files and forgotten.

Police has circulated his photographs in all police stations in the state recently as a part of drive to solve old cases.

IN BRIEF

Hungary bus crash: 1 dead

Budapest: One man died and three people, including a young child, were seriously injured when a tourist bus crashed into a ditch on the side of a highway in Hungary, police and rescue officials said Sunday. The incident happened on the M5 highway in the city of Kiskunfelegyhaza, about 115 kilometres (71 miles) east of Budapest, the capital. Police said the vehicle was a Polish tourist bus. A spokesman for the National Rescue Service said a 35-year-old man died at the scene and 34 people were injured. Three people who suffered serious injuries, including a child about five years old. Two helicopters and 14 ambulances were taking the injured to hospitals. The bus was travelling toward Budapest and the crash happened around 6:30 a.m.

Czech apartment blaze kills 11

Prague: At least 11 people have been killed and 10 others injured in an apartment building fire in the northeastern Czech Republic, officials said Saturday, with some suggesting that the fire could be arson. Police said the fire hit the 11th floor of the 13-story building in the afternoon in the town of Bohumin. Firefighters spokesman Lukas Popp told local media that six people, three adults and three children, were killed in an 11th-floor apartment. The other five died after trying to escape from the building "in a panic" by jumping from the windows on the 12th floor, Interior Minister Jan Hamacek told Czech public radio. Hamacek and the head of the regional government, Ivo Vondrak, suggested the fire was likely intentionally set. Regional firefighter chief Vladimir Vleck said it was unusual how quickly the fire spread through the apartment.

30 perish in S. Korea floods

Seoul: Landslides and flooding triggered by days of heavy rain in South Korea have left at least 30 people dead and 12 missing, officials said Sunday, warning of more downpours. Torrential rain has wreaked havoc across the country since the beginning of the month, but nearly half of the deaths occurred in the past three days, according to the Ministry of the Interior and Safety. Since Friday more than 3,700 people have been displaced from their homes after flooding in the country's hardest-hit southern region. In all, nearly 6,000 people have been evacuated from their homes across the country this month, with about 4,600 of them staying at temporary shelters. Among the victims was a man in his 80s who was found dead after he was buried in a landslide with his tractor. A 61-year-old man and a 59-year-old woman were killed after their home was swallowed by a landslide. Authorities have issued landslide warnings for 24 regions.

3 DAYS OF RAIN KILLS 50 IN PAKISTAN

Karachi, Aug. 9: Three days of heavy monsoon rains triggering flash floods killed at least 50 people in various parts of Pakistan, as troops with boats rushed to a flood-affected district in the country's southern Sindh province Sunday to evacuate people to safer places.

Every year, many cities in Pakistan struggle to cope with the annual monsoon deluge, drawing criticism about poor planning. The monsoon season runs from July through September, during which swelling rivers cause damage to crops and infrastructure.

According to Pakistan's National Disaster Management Authority, 19 people were killed in rain-related incidents in northwestern Khyber Pakhtunkhwa province, 12 in southern Sindh province, 8 in Punjab province and 10 in the country's scenic northern Gilgit Baltistan region in the past three days.

Rains also partially damaged about 100 homes and caused a breach in a main flooded canal, inundating villages in Sindh province. Troops used boats to rescue stranded people and move them to safer places.

It said a medical camp was also established and food was being provided to the rescued people. Heavy rains also lashed many districts in Baluchistan province, damaging homes. According to local media reports, at least eight people were killed in Baluchistan because of rains and flash flooding.

Violence, chaos must not prevail in Lebanon: Macron

French Prez urges speedy global response after deadly Beirut port blast

Paris, Aug. 9: French President Emmanuel Macron on Sunday said violence and chaos must not prevail in Lebanon as he opened a UN-backed aid conference for the country rocked by angry protests over negligence blamed for the deadly Beirut port blast.

"It is up to the authorities of the country to act so that the country does not sink, and to respond to the aspirations that the Lebanese people are expressing right now, legitimately, in the streets of Beirut," Macron said.

"We must all work together to ensure that neither violence nor chaos prevails," he added. "It is the future of Lebanon that is at stake." Macron on Sunday called for speedy international backing for disaster-struck Lebanon and urged its leaders to prevent "chaos" as he opened an emergency aid conference following Beirut's deadly port blast.

Macron hosted US President Donald Trump and other world leaders for the virtual conference to drum up aid for Lebanon, as the UN said some $117 million will be needed over the next three months for the emergency response. "The objective today is to act quickly and effectively to coordinate our aid on the ground so that it goes as efficiently as possible to the Lebanese people," Macron told the conference also attended by

Lebanon information minister quits in first govt resignation

Beirut, Aug. 9: Lebanon's information minister Manal Abdel Samad on Sunday quit in the first government resignation since a deadly port blast killed more than 150 people and destroyed swathes of the capital. "After the enormous Beirut catastrophe, I announce my resignation from government," she said in a statement carried by local media, apologising to the Lebanese public for failing them.

The head of Lebanon's Maronite church meanwhile called on the entire government to step down over the August 4 explosion, a blast widely seen as shocking proof of the rot at the core of the state apparatus. Lebanese protesters enraged by the blast vowed to rally again after a night of street clashes in which they stormed several ministries.

Maronite patriarch Beshara Rai joined the chorus of people pressing Prime Minister Hassan Diab's cabinet to step down over a blast he said could be "described as a crime against humanity". "It is not enough for a lawmaker to resign here or a minister to resign there," Rai said in a Sunday sermon.

"It is necessary, out of sensitivity to the feelings of the Lebanese and the immense responsibility required, for the entire government to resign, because it is incapable of moving the country forward."

Rai echoed calls by Diab for early parliamentary polls — a long-standing demand of a protest movement that began in October, demanding the removal of a political class deemed inept and corrupt. — AFP

Germany troop pullout: Pompeo eyes east Europe

Washington, Aug. 9: As President Donald Trump orders US troops out of Germany and faces a tough re-election battle, his top diplomat, Mike Pompeo, is heading to friendly climes in Central and Eastern Europe.

Pompeo on Tuesday opens a five-day trip that will terminate in close ally Poland, which is eager to welcome some of the US troops leaving Germany to guard against historic adversary Russia. He will also travel to the Czech Republic, Slovenia and Austria where he is expected to press his campaign for nations to shun Huawei, the Chinese telecom giant considered a threat by Washington as it takes a lead in fifth-generation internet.

In Slovenia, where he will be the first US secretary of state to visit since 2001, Pompeo will on Thursday sign an agreement on 5G, officials said without previewing details. Pompeo's trip comes weeks after the Pentagon said the United States would bring home some 6,400 military personnel from Germany and shift nearly 5,600 more to other NATO allies, including Italy and Belgium. Trump has a tense relationship with German Chancellor Angela Merkel, who declined his invitation for a Group of Seven summit in Washington in the middle of the Coronavirus pandemic, and accuses Europe's largest economy of unfair trading practices.

"What is most significant about this trip is the places the secretary is not going to," said Ian Lesser, the Brussels-based vice president of the German Marshall Fund of the United States.

"If the secretary was going to address the core issues in transatlantic relations at the moment, he would be making stops in Brussels, Paris and Berlin," Lesser said that the troop repositioning out of Germany was unlikely to be a major issue for US voters. "What does have some political resonance is how a senior American official is received when he or she goes to Europe," he said. — AFP

HIGHEST LEVEL U.S. VISIT TO TAIWAN BEGINS

Taipei, Aug. 9: A senior member of US President Donald Trump's administration landed in Taiwan Sunday for Washington's highest level visit since switching diplomatic recognition to China in 1979, a trip Beijing has condemned. During the three-day visit Health Secretary Alex Azar will meet President Tsai Ing-wen, who advocates Taiwan being recognised as a sovereign nation and is loathed by China's leaders.

Tsai's office said the meeting would take place Monday morning. Azar is the most senior US cabinet member to visit Taiwan in decades and his visit comes as relations between the world's two biggest economic powers plunge to historic lows.

In recent days, Trump has ordered sweeping restrictions on popular Chinese apps TikTok and WeChat and the US Treasury Department slapped sanctions on Hong Kong's leader over a tough law that curbs dissent.

Washington has billed the Taiwan trip as an opportunity to learn from the island's fight against the Coronavirus. — AFP

Mahinda Rajapaksa sworn in Lanka PM

Colombo, Aug. 9: Sri Lanka's former President Mahinda Rajapaksa was sworn in as the prime minister for the fourth time Sunday after his party secured a landslide victory in parliamentary elections that cemented his family's hold on power. Rajapaksa took oath before his younger brother, President Gotabaya Rajapaksa, at a prominent Buddhist temple on the outskirts of the capital Colombo. Mahinda Rajapaksa served as the island nation's president from 2005 to 2015 and is highly popular among the ethnic majority Sinhalese for ending the country's 25-year civil war against Tamil rebels in 2009.

He was first elected prime minister in 2004 and again appointed for brief periods in 2018 and 2019. Sri Lanka People's Front — the party led by the Rajapaksa brothers — won 145 seats in the 225-member Parliament in the election last Wednesday. Its main opponent obtained only 54 seats.

A party representing ethnic minority Tamils won 10 seats, and 16 others were split among 12 small parties. The victory gave the Rajapaksa brothers nearly the two-third majority of seats required to make constitutional changes that could strengthen dynastic rule in the country. This time, five members of the Rajapaksa family have been elected as lawmakers — Rajapaksa, his son Namal, the eldest brother Chamal and his son Sashindra, and a nephew, Nipuna Ranawaka. The brothers need 150 seats to be able to change the constitution.

At least four small parties collaborate with the Rajapaksa's party, so they appear to have mustered that support. However, analysts say any attempt by Gotabaya Rajapaksa to push for changes that will strengthen presidential powers at the expense of the prime minister may trigger sibling rivalry. — AP

Mauritius containing oil spill in sea

Port Louis, Aug. 9: Police in Mauritius on Sunday prepared to board a grounded ship leaking tonnes of oil into its crystal-clear waters, as clean-up crews confronted a growing ecological disaster on the archipelago's pristine shores. The bulk carrier MV Wakashio has been seeping fuel into a protected marine park boasting unspoiled coral reefs, mangrove forests and endangered species, prompting Prime Minister Pravind Jugnauth to declare an environmental emergency and appeal for international help.

Attempts to stabilise the stricken vessel, which ran aground on July 25 but only started leaking oil this week, and pump 4,000 tonnes of fuel from its hold have failed, and local authorities fear rough seas could further rupture the tanker.

Kozhikode highlights air safety imperative

It would be some time before we get to know what led to crashlanding of the Air India Express flight at Kozhikode airport on Friday, which claimed the life of 18 passengers including the pilot and the co-pilot. The Director-General of Civil Aviation (DGCA) has already initiated an investigation into the accident in which the aircraft, part of the Vande Bharat Mission, carrying 191 passengers including the crew skidded off the runway and ran into a ditch. Inclement weather and poor visibility coupled with human error have been cited as early reasons but the whole truth will come out only when the investigation is completed. It should also reveal if the systems were made to make amends for the errors that caused a similar accident in Mangaluru airport 10 years ago.

An aircraft is a magnificent engineering product which has evolved over a century and air travel is the safest mode of transport if we consider the number of people using it. This is basically because it is system-dependent, and recalibrates itself if something goes wrong anywhere in the system. It is imperative on the part of the regulators and the authorities to pick lessons from the Kozhikode incident and improve it further.

While awaiting the investigation report, we must comment on the grace, presence of mind, valour and selflessness, which were on display at Kozhikode immediately after the mishap. The local residents of the nearby Kondotty town in Malappuram district rushed to the accident site, launched the rescue operations in no time and, with the help of the rescue team from the airport, completed the job in about less than two hours. They evacuated all the passengers and rushed them to the nearby hospitals despite knowing the fact that they are operating in a Covid containment zone and that many of the passengers could have been infected with the Coronavirus. The timely intervention has considerably reduced the casualty, according to doctors. The social media was awash with photographs of youngsters rushing to hospitals and queuing up to donate blood for people of whom they have not heard before.

That, however, should bring certain other disturbing facts to the attention of the government. The DGCA had banned the operation of wide-bodied aircraft under Code E from May 2015 after an inspection by the regulator flagged safety concerns and later in 2018 allowed the same. The aircraft that met with the accident does not belong to that class but experts have already called for a reassessment of the safety standards. The tabletop airport, which is traditionally considered accident prone, needs expansion of its runway and the proposal to acquire about 100 acres for the project has been hanging fire for long. The Airports Authority of India, which runs the airport, and the government of Kerala must act in tandem, discuss it with the people and their representatives and complete the project after meeting their demands at the earliest so that all types of aircraft can have safe landing there.

Setback for Tamils, Muslims

The overwhelming victory of Sri Lanka Podujana Peramuna (SLPP) in the August 5 elections to the island nation's Parliament is a triumph of Sinhala Buddhist majoritarianism and a consolidation of power by the Rajapaksa family. It just follows a popular political trend across the globe, wherein people with power and privilege hunger for more power and more privilege and hand over governments on a platter to politicians whom they believe would do that for them.

In Sri Lanka, the Sinhalese perhaps chose the Rajapaksa family because they were enamored by the way prominent brothers, Mahinda and Gotabaya, ruthlessly quelled the LTTE in 2009. Or do the people believe that as a large family of rulers — another brother Basil and Nirmal, son of Mahinda, included — the Rajapaksas would do a better job in showing minorities their place?

Whatever it is, political trends that lead to the concentration of power in the hands of a family yanks democracy off the feet of nations. With such a brute majority in Parliament, the brothers are only likely to make sweeping constitutional changes to enhance the authority of the President and to continue ruling the country for a longer time. There are also indications that they would fashion the government on the lines of a military regime. Already Gotabaya, who came in as President in November, has appointed many serving and former military officers to key bureaucratic posts.

Since Gotabaya stormed into government by stoking ethnic Sinhala nationalism and SLPP has now romped home exemplifying such a majoritarian agenda, the ruling family would have no qualms about subjugating the minorities, Muslims and Tamils in particular. And when the minorities look up to the government for an assurance to realise their legitimate aspirations, the pardoning of military officers charged with war crimes during the end of the civil war in 2009 by the Rajapaksas can be least assuring.

Will ‘Ram Rajya’ lead to a more tolerant India?

Pavan K. Varma

Chanakya's View

Religious disputes, involving historical memory, and deeply divisive recent communal clashes, are not easy to resolve. But the manner in which India got over the Ram Mandir versus the Babri Masjid dispute must be a unique template for the rest of the world. When the talks failed, the matter was left to the Supreme Court. The judgment, which finally came in November 2019, was a remarkable compromise. It condemned the demolition of the Babri Masjid on December 6, 1992 and asked for all those responsible for this act to be prosecuted. The Ram Mandir Trust was awarded the disputed land for the building of the new temple. Simultaneously, the country's highest court also ordered that five acres of land should be allocated elsewhere for the construction of a mosque. In a country where some 80 per cent of the population is Hindu, Shri Ram will finally get a temple in his name in his hometown and at his birthplace after a struggle for over a century through a hard fought legal title suit!

There were some commentators in the media who proclaimed that August 5, 2020, the date of the shilanyas of the temple, marked the death of secularism in India. Frankly, I consider all such remarks ludicrous. Does secularism banish religious faith and worship in India? On the contrary, the Constitution guarantees both as part of our fundamental rights. If so, why should the building of a temple, pursuant to the decision of the highest court of the land, be the harbinger of such unredeemed doom? The Muslim litigants, who were party to the judicial dispute, may not have been entirely happy about the final verdict, but they accepted it. The same “secular” commentariat has no objection if a mosque or a church is built. In the past, they had always maintained that a solution to the prolonged dispute should be found either through mutual accommodation or through a judicial verdict. Why then this pained hand wringing? In fact, it is my firm conviction that it is precisely this kind of reflex reaction that does the greatest disservice to the cause of secularism in this country.

Perhaps the problem with the critics is the pageantry that marked the ceremony. But this was hardly a chance that the BJP-RSS was going to miss. A temple was becoming a reality after 136 years of struggle. Its consecration had to be done in accordance with Hindu rituals, and the entire ceremony was bound to be telecast live. There was criticism too about Prime Minister Narendra Modi's participation in the function. But the precedent of our first President, Rajendra Prasad, inaugurating the restored Somnath temple in Gujarat, in spite of the advice of then Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru against it, is telling. Secularism in our country is not about the absolute separation of the State and faith. It is about the fundamental freedom of following one's faith, while respecting all other faiths. Babu Rajendra Prasad was one of the most prominent followers of Mahatma Gandhi. He was uncompromisingly secular. But his evocative defence of his devotion was simply this: “I believe in my religion and cannot cut myself away from it.” In other words, just like Gandhiji, he did not see a contradiction between being a practising Hindu and the imperative to respect all religions. Indeed, if one reads the debates of the Constituent Assembly on the question of secularism, this — and not the European construct of a complete separation between the State and religion — was the interpretation accepted by the vast majority of its members.

There were some commentators in the media who proclaimed that August 5, 2020, the date of the shilanyas of the temple, marked the death of secularism in India. Frankly, I consider all such remarks ludicrous.

This being said, what is important for the future is a closure to the kind of communal politics that we have recently seen. Devotees of Shri Ram would do well to remember that he was “maryada purushottam”, the very epitome of right conduct, the role model of correct behaviour. Shri Ram would never sanction irrational anger, unwarranted violence, or unnecessary vengeance, particularly against the weak or the innocent. In fact, in Tulsidas's Ramcharit-manas, there is a very significant line in the description of Ram Rajya: “sab nar karahin paraspar priti” (all human beings would harbour mutual affection for each other). It is Shri Ram again who — in Tulsidas' words — tells Bharat: “Par hiith saras dharam nahin bhai, par peeda sam nahin athamai” (there is no greater virtue than the welfare of others, and no greater sin than injury to others). This did not make him a passive god. He fought hard against injustice and defeated Ravan. But even in this form, he harboured no personal enmity, and remained the embodiment of the saumya rasa, eternally in equipoise and equilibrium, rational and restrained, and certainly not the kind of person who would approve taking the law into one's own hands.

Thus, when Prime Minister Modi in his speech at the ceremony said that Ram stands for the unity of India, it must be assumed that what he meant was that Ram, as the embodiment of mercy, compassion, justice and right conduct, must guide our actions in the future. BJP ideologue Ram Madhav quotes Swami Chinmayananda to say that Ayodhya itself stands for “ayuddha” (non-war or peace), which should augur peace forever among all communities. If the otherwise noble greeting of Jai Shri Ram has been weaponised by illiterate bigots, Prime Minister Modi's emphasis on Jai Siya Ram in Ayodhya on August 5 is a good sign. We must remain vigilant to ensure that such sentiments are, indeed, implemented in the future. Hinduism, and its intrinsic tolerance for all faiths, would want that to happen.

Singhal nephew at puja venue; Covid reprieve for Gehlot govt?

While most invitees seated in close proximity to Prime Minister Narendra Modi around the havan kund at the ground breaking ceremony for the Ram Mandir at Ayodhya last week could be recognised, people were left guessing the identity of a couple who participated in the religious ceremony. It turned out the “unknown person” was Salil Singhal, a Udiapur-based businessman and the nephew of late Ashok Singhal, who was the international working president of the Vishwa Hindu Parishad for nearly two decades and a leading figure in the Ram Janmabhoomi movement. Salil Singhal's presence, along with his wife Madhu, led many to ask about denying the same courtesy to children of senior Bharatiya Janata Party leaders L.K. Advani and Murli Manohar Joshi who were also the architects of the movement which catapulted the saffron party to power. Party insiders pointed out it should be remembered that Ashok Singhal was the first leader from the Sangh to declare his support for Mr Modi's candidature as the BJP's prime ministerial face. Speaking to the press at the 2013 Mahakumbh congregation in Allahabad, Mr Singhal had said that Mr Modi enjoyed the same popularity as Jawaharlal Nehru. In contrast to Mr Singhal, Mr Advani had resisted Mr Modi's move to the national political stage while Mr Joshi was also not known to be favourably disposed towards Mr Modi.

After Congress general secretary Priyanka Gandhi Vadra came out in support of the construction of a Ram Mandir at Ayodhya, party leaders went overboard in endorsing her stand. While most leaders put out similar tweets and statements, many party offices in the states and districts organised special prayer meetings while others even burst crackers to mark the occasion. However, this open display of religiosity at the party offices has not gone down well with a section of the Congress cadre. Questions are being raised in private conversations about organising pujas at party offices and whether similar celebrations will be held in the future to mark the festivals of other faiths. Most parti-nently, it is being asked if any programme will be held when the construction of the mosque begins on the plot, which has been allotted to the Muslim community to compensate for giving up their claim on the disputed site of the Babri Masjid.

First home minister Amit Shah tested positive for Corona virus. Petroleum minister Dharmendra Pradhan was next. Both are undergoing treatment at a private hospital in Gurugram. With the two leaders in quarantine, BJP insiders are wondering how their incarceration will affect the party's plans to topple the Ashok Gehlot government in Rajasthan. It is an acknowledged fact that it is Mr Shah who is planning and supervising the operation in the desert state while Mr Pradhan, who has now emerged as his chief lieutenant, executes the former party president's orders. So does this mean a reprieve for the Gehlot government? The more optimistic in the BJP express full faith in Mr Shah's capabilities while underlining that it is perhaps no coincidence that the two chief players are in a hospital which is in close proximity to the resort where rebel Rajasthan Congress leaders are lodged.

Bihar's director general of police Gupteshwar Pandey, who has been extremely vocal about the ongoing investigation into actor Sushant Singh Rajput's death, sounds more like a politician than a high-ranking police officer. Like a politician he has been making all kinds of charges in public, acting as judge, jury and executioner. It must be recalled here that Mr Pandey nurses political ambitions and had even sought a ticket from the Bharatiya Janata Party but it never materialised. As inspector general of police, Muzaffarpur, Mr Pandey courted controversy when he was investigating an abduction case and was even examined by the Central Bureau of Investigation in connection with it. Mr Pandey took voluntary retirement from the service a few years ago but was subsequently reinstated by Bihar chief minister Nitish Kumar, a decision which raised a lot of eyebrows. This bit of background is important to understand why Mr Pandey is over-eager to please his political bosses.

The recent decision of the textile ministry, headed by Smriti Irani, to disband the 70-year-old All-India Handloom Board, set up by Pupul Jayakar, and the All-India Handicrafts Board, has virtually gone unnoticed. The two panels, comprising craftspeople and other experts, served as a valuable forum for the government to get inputs from people working in the field. The official explanation for scrapping these boards is that it is prompted by the government's vision of “minimum government, maximum governance”. However, representatives of the sector and craftspeople, are convinced the decision flows from a belief that Irani's ministry does not need to listen to voices from the ground. They feel it is a deliberate attempt to deny an opportunity to those outside the system to interact with the government. Ms Irani is particularly prickly about working with anyone who has been even remotely associated with the Congress regime.

Current price is lower than 1980 high Gold has room to go beyond $2,800

SANGEETHA G CHENNAI, AUG. 9

At $2,070 an ounce, gold touched a new high last week and has moved up more than 30 per cent since the break of Covid-19 pandemic. However, when adjusted to inflation, the record price is lower than 1980 January as well as September 2011 record-high levels. This provides room for gold to move beyond $2,800 per ounce.

"Adjusted for inflation, the gold price today is $200 shy of the 2011 level and well below its January, 21, 1980 record high equivalent to approximately $2,800 per ounce in today's money," says a World Gold Council report.

Gold had hit a record high of $850 an ounce in January 1980 as investors piled up bullion to beat high inflation due to strong oil prices, the Soviet Union intervention in Afghanistan and the impact of the Iranian revolution. If adjusted to inflation, this would have translated to $2,800 per ounce in today's scenario. Similarly, in September 2011, gold had made a high of $1,920 per ounce and if adjusted to inflation, it would have been close to $2,200 per ounce.

Further, the report finds that the gold price had more than doubled from about $900 per ounce in early 2008 to its high more than three years later in the aftermath of the global financial crisis. In contrast, it has increased by 30-34 per cent since the beginning of the Covid-19 pandemic.

The current price movement of gold has been driven by high levels of global uncertainty and very low interest rates. The Covid-19 pandemic is far from over and more importantly, its impact on the global economy is yet to be determined.

Central banks have aggressively cut interest rates, often in combination with quantitative easing and other non-traditional policy measures. Governments have also approved massive rescue packages to support their local economies. These initiatives have increased concerns that easy money, rather than fundamentals, is fuelling the stock market rally and all the extra money being pumped into the system may result in very high inflation or at the very least, currency devaluations.

"The re-emergence of infections seen in Japan, Australia, South Korea and Vietnam and upturn in infections seen in the US, Russia and India could trigger the reimplementations of lockdowns and containment measures. The more delayed the complete reversal of the great lockdown, the slower the economic recovery. With this background, it is hard to imagine a scenario where central banks around the world will change their accommodative stance any time soon," said Chirag Mehta, senior fund manager-alternative investments, Quantum Mutual Fund.

Further, despite record inflows into gold ETFs in 2020, gold remains an under-owned asset. The market share of Gold ETFs, compared to all ETF assets, jumped from 3 per cent to 8 per cent in the aftermath of the global financial crisis before dwindling to one per cent levels in the following years. The current figure stands at 3 per cent, indicating significant potential for Gold ETF asset expansion going forward, says Mehta.

TikTok plans to sue Trump administration

BELINDA CAO & YUEQI YANG AUG. 9

TikTok plans to file a federal lawsuit as soon as Tuesday to challenge President Donald Trump's executive order banning the video-sharing service from the US as unconstitutional, National Public Radio reported.

The lawsuit will be filed in the US District Court for the Southern District of California, where TikTok's American operations are based, NPR said, citing a person familiar with the matter whom it didn't identify. It will argue that the president's action is unconstitutional because it failed to give the company a chance to respond and that the US government's national-security justification for the order is baseless, according to the report.

Chinese-owned TikTok responded in a blog post on Friday it is "shocked" and will pursue all remedies available, including in US courts. A company spokesman reached by phone on Saturday declined to comment on the NPR report and referred to the earlier blog post.

Trump signed executive orders on Thursday prohibiting US residents and companies from doing business with TikTok and Tencent Holdings' WeChat apps, effective in 45 days, citing the national-security risk of leaving Americans' personal data exposed. A 1977 law lets the US president declare a national emergency in response to an "unusual and extraordinary threat."

Defence stocks may gain from latest import ban

RAVI RANJAN PRASAD MUMBAI, AUG. 9

Defence production related stocks like Larsen & Toubro, Bharat Forge and defence PSUs such as Bharat Electronics and HAL would be in focus on Monday as the government has fast-tracked indigenous production of many items and plans to phase out high levels of import dependence over a period of time.

The Department of Military Affairs (DMA), Ministry of Defence (MoD) has prepared a list of 101 items for which there would be an embargo on the import beyond the timeline indicated against them, said a release on Sunday.

"It is estimated that contracts worth almost Rs 4 lakh crore will be placed upon the domestic industry within the next five to seven years. Of these, items worth almost Rs 1,30,000 crore each are anticipated for the Army and the Air Force while items worth almost Rs 1,40,000 crore are anticipated by the Navy over the same period," the defence ministry said.

Bharat Forge, Bharat Electronics, Larsen & Toubro, HAL, Cochin Shipyard, Garden Reach, BHEL, Bharat Dynamics, Mishra Dhatu Nigam and BHEL may bag large contracts with their past records in defence-related production, brokers said.

just simple parts but also some high technology weapon systems like artillery guns, assault rifles, corvettes, sonar systems, transport aircraft, light combat helicopters (LCHs), radars and many other items.

The list also includes, wheeled armoured fighting vehicles (AFVs) with indicative import embargo date of December 2021, of which the Army is expected to contract almost 200 at an approximate cost of Rs 5,000 crore.

Similarly, the Navy is likely to place demands for submarines with indicative import embargo date of December 2021, of which it expects to contract about six at an approximate cost of Rs 42,000 crore. For the Air Force, it has been decided to enlist the light combat aircraft with an indicative embargo date of December 2020. Of these, 123 are anticipated at an approximate cost of over Rs 85,000 crore, the release said.

The embargo on imports is planned to be progressively implemented between 2020 and 2024. The aim behind promulgation of the list is to apprise the Indian defence industry about the anticipated requirements of the Armed Forces. More such equipment for import embargo would be identified in consultation with all stakeholders, the defence ministry said.

The recently published draft Defence Production and Export Promotion Policy, 2020 suggests a more bottom-up framework to empower system integrators to achieve greater scale by expanding the role of the private sector, especially MSMEs. Key objectives include achieving Rs 1.75 lakh crore turnover, including Rs 35,000-crore exports; cutting defence imports; entry in the global defence exports value chain, among others.

Oil giants cut value of assets by $50 bn

DAVID GAFFEN AUG. 9

The world's five largest oil companies collectively cut the value of their assets by nearly $50 billion in the second quarter, and slashed production rates as the coronavirus pandemic caused a drastic fall in fuel prices and demand.

The dramatic reductions in asset valuations and decline in output show the depth of the pain in the second quarter. Fuel demand at one point was down by more than 30 per cent worldwide, and still remains below pre-pandemic levels.

Several executives said they took massive write-downs because they expect demand to remain impaired for several more quarters as people travel less and use less fuel due to the ongoing global pandemic that has killed more than 700,000 people.

Of those five companies, only Exxon Mobil did not book sizeable impairments. But an ongoing re-evaluation of its plans could lead to a "significant portion" of its assets being impaired, it reported, and signal the elimination of 20 per cent or 4.4 billion barrels of its oil and gas reserves.

By contrast, BP took a $17 billion hit. It said it plans to re-centre its spending in coming years around renewables and less on oil and natural gas.

Weak demand means oil producers must revisit business plans, said Lee Maginniss, managing director at consultants Alarez & Marsal. He said the goal should be to pump only what generates cash in excess of overhead costs. "It's low-cost production mode through the end of 2021 for sure, and to 2022 to the extent there are new development plans being contemplated," Maginniss said.

London-based BP has previously said it plans to cut its overall output by roughly 1 million barrels of oil equivalent (boepd) by the end of 2030 from its current 3.6 million boepd. Of the five, Exxon is the largest producer, with daily output of 3.64 million boepd, but its production dropped 408,000 boepd between the first and second quarters. The five majors, which include Chevron Corp, Royal Dutch Shell and Total SA, also cut capital expenditures by a combined $25 billion between the quarters.

ONGC pares debt by 35%, but low oil & gas prices a concern

New Delhi, Aug 9: State-owned Oil and Natural Gas Corporation (ONGC) has cut its debt by more than one-third but faces an uphill challenge to meeting planned expenditure during the current fiscal due to oil and gas prices falling below sub-optimal levels, according to company officials and regulatory filings.

ONGC's outstanding debt of Rs 21,593 crore as on March 31, 2019 has come down to Rs 13,949 crore as on March 31, 2020, as it used revenue from better operations to retire some of the borrowings, according to the company's regulatory filings.

Out of this debt, long-term borrowings account for Rs 2,245 crore which are due for maturity in December 2029.

The company had cash and cash equivalent (including other bank balances) of Rs 968 crore as on March 31, 2020, up from a record low of Rs 504 crore a year back.

Standalone debt-equity ratio at the end of March 31, 2020 is only 0.07, which is considered comfortable. Company officials explained that ONGC has been working on bringing operational efficiencies and financial discipline and used surplus revenues to repay debt.

"While we ended the 2019-20 fiscal year with a comfortable financial position, we face an uphill challenge during the current 2020-21 financial year. The pandemic has played havoc on oil prices and government mandated gas price is way below cost of production," a senior official said.

ONGC has planned a capital expenditure of over Rs 26,000 crore and meeting that target with the current oil and gas prices will be a challenge, he said.

Another official said the company had taken an impairment loss of Rs 4,899 crore in Q4 FY'20 to funds of Rs 12,034 crore and balance Rs 24,881 crore from borrowed money from commercial banks.

The funding requirement of Rs 7,560 crore for Gujarat State Petroleum Corporation's KG block acquisition was met by borrowing against term deposits.

Its cash and balances dipped to touch a record low of Rs 504 crore in March 2019, down from Rs 1,013 crore in March 2018 and Rs 9,511 crore in March 2017 and Rs 9,957 in March 2016.

"We live in an era of sub-optimal oil prices and government mandated natural gas prices that are way below the cost. The answer to such a scenario is to optimise cost and bring in operational efficiencies," an official said.

He said the company has sufficient lines of credit/short term fund facilities with banks amounting to Rs 7,800 crore for meeting the working capital or deficit requirements. Further, the company has an overall limit of Rs 10,000 crore for raising funds through commercial paper.

Shelf-life of skills now only 2-3 years, says Nasscom chief

U. B. Pravin Rao

Bengaluru, Aug. 9: Nasscom chairman U. B. Pravin Rao on Sunday said the shelf-life of skills is now only two to three years, as he called for continuous, lifelong learning.

As corporates are reinventing themselves, individuals also need to reinvent themselves to stay relevant, said the COO of Infosys.

"Shelf-life of skills is becoming short, two-three years," said Rao, who was addressing the online graduation ceremony hosted by upGrad and IIT-B.

"People need to unlearn, learn new stuff and therefore commit to lifelong learning. This is critical to stay relevant and employable", Rao said. — PTI

Thailand bets on pvt medical marijuana to lift economy

NATNICHA CHUWIRUCH AUG. 9

Thailand's ailing economy, particularly its tourism and agriculture sectors, is poised to get a boost from new rules that ease the private cultivation and sale of medical marijuana.

The cabinet amended the Narcotics Act on Aug. 4, pending parliament's approval, to allow private medical operators - a category including some traditional medicine practitioners and farmers - to grow and trade the crop including for both export and import. The move expands a cornerstone policy of deputy prime minister and health minister Anutin Charnvirakul, who bet that the controlled legalisation of marijuana would boost the wellness, travel and agriculture sectors.

The latest plan will lift limits imposed when the country in 2018 became the first in Southeast Asia to legalise medicinal use of the herb. It also follows the opening in January of a medical-marijuana clinic in the health ministry facilities that offer free medicine to its patients. This does not include the 147 authorised clinics in the country that are currently able to prescribe it.

"Thailand is already a tourist destination for many foreigners, and marijuana will be another attraction for the country and for medical tourists," Marut Jirasrattasiri, director-general of the Department of Thai Traditional and Alternative Medicine, said in an interview. Private medical practitioners with licences will gain the right to "grow, produce and export marijuana," he said, adding that Thai farmers will gain "more options for income."

Priority will be given to Thai investors, Marut said. "We want to use Thai money for now, especially collaboration between the government and communities to enhance knowledge, research and production," Marut said. "We don't want foreigners to come in and invest, then reap all the benefits."

The agriculture and tourism sectors are crucial to the local economy. About a third of Thais make their living from rice alone, according to the Thai Rice

Exporters Association. Meanwhile, the wellness tourism sector generated domestic expenditures of $12 billion in 2017, more than the combined amounts in Indonesia and Malaysia, according to a report by the Global Wellness Institute.

Thailand's economy is likely to contract 8.5 per cent in 2020 amid the global coronavirus pandemic, the biggest decline projected in Asia.

"This will allow more patients to have access to medical marijuana for their ailments and to increase awareness of medical marijuana in Thailand," Traisuree Taisaranakul, a government spokeswoman, said in a statement.

Marijuana cultivation and dispensing is currently done solely by government agencies or closely regulated organisations. The plant remains a category-five drug, meaning recreational use is forbidden. Illegal possession could trigger a 10-year prison sentence and "trafficking" is a crime punishable by life imprisonment or the death penalty.

"In the next stages, both Thais and foreigners will have the opportunity to be treated with medical marijuana, but only after the Covid-19 pandemic has passed and inter-travel restrictions lifted," Marut said. "Marijuana has always been Thailand's crop, and all the foreign countries love it."

BARCLAYS PROBED BY WATCHDOG FOR MONITORING STAFF

EDUARD GISMATULLIN AUG. 9

Barclays Plc is being investigated by the Information Commissioner's Office, a privacy watchdog, on allegations it spied on its workers through a computer monitoring software, the Telegraph reported. It said Barclays faces a maximum fine of 865 million pounds ($1.1 billion) if it's found to have broken data privacy laws.

The software allowed managers to measure the length of time employees were away from their desks or how long they took to finish tasks, the paper said. — Bloomberg

SHORT TAKES

Domestic cricket likely from Nov.

New Delhi: The BCCI is mulling November 19 as tentative date for start of domestic season with Syed Mushtaq Ali T20 tournament but Indian players in various IPL teams won't be able to play first few rounds due to quarantine protocols in place.

The delay in the beginning of the domestic season due to Covid-19 pandemic means that only Mushtaq Ali trophy and Ranji Trophy (December 13-March 10) comprising of 245 games (across the formats with 38 teams) will be played. There will be no Vijay Hazare Trophy, Duleep Trophy or Challenger Series this year and as of now there is no provision for Irani Cup also.

"This is a tentative list that has been prepared and it has gone for approval of president Sourav Ganguly and secretary Jay Shah," a BCCI official said. While this is a draft schedule, it is being asked how the Indian players, who will return from IPL, will play since they will have to be in a 14-day quarantine as per government rules.

Ex-Bagan captain Manitombi dead

Kolkata: Former India defender and Mohun Bagan captain Manitombi Singh died at the age of 39 at his native village near Imphal in Manipur on Sunday, club sources said. Manitombi was suffering from prolonged illness and breathed his last in the early hours of Sunday.

He is survived by his wife and an eight-year-old son. "Mohun Bagan family is deeply saddened by the untimely demise of former club captain Manitombi Singh. Our thoughts and prayers are with his family during this difficult time. Rest in peace, Manitombi Singh," the club posted on its Twitter handle.

Manitombi was a key member of the Stephen Constantine-coached India Under-23 side that lifted the LG Cup in 2003 by defeating Vietnam 3-2 in Ho Chi Minh City.

It was India's first international triumph since their victory at an eight-nation tournament in Singapore in 1971. Manitombi also represented India in the 2002 Asian Games. — PTI

Johnson leads at PGA tourney

San Francisco: Dustin Johnson supplied the birdies, eight of them at the PGA Championship, the most he has ever made in his 157 rounds of major championship golf for a 5-under 65 and a one-shot lead.

Brooks Koepka supplied the needle on Saturday. Koepka recovered from three straight bogeys to salvage a 69 and stay within two shots of a leaderboard more crowded than any of San Francisco's congested highways.

At stake is a chance to become only the seventh player to win the same major three straight times. He surveyed the cast of contenders, and focused on the guy at the top. The final round at Harding Park figures to be wide open, just like it was on a Saturday so wild that eight players had at least a share of the lead during the third round.

Johnson lost his yardage book and still found his way through an enormous crowd of contenders. — AFP

Lake Buena Vista, Florida: Luka Doncic scored 36 points in his NBA-leading 17th triple-double and the Dallas Mavericks scored the last seven points of regulation to force overtime, going on to a 136-132 win over the Milwaukee Bucks on Saturday.

Milwaukee star Giannis Antetokounmpo had 34 points, 13 rebounds and five blocks before fouling out in the final seconds on the day the reigning MVP was named a finalist for the award. Meanwhile, Jamal Murray scored 23 points as Denver Nuggets beat Utah Jazz 134-132. — AP

EYES ON ICC CHAIR

Nomination process for top post on agenda

Dubai, Aug. 9: Finalising the nomination process to elect Shashank Manohar's successor as the next independent chairman of the world cricket body is the sole agenda for the ICC Board, which will meet virtually on Monday.

It is expected that the entire process irrespective of whether it's an election or unanimous selection will be over by four weeks.

"The meeting on Monday only has nomination process in the agenda. Normally, it is a two week window that is provided for filing nominations," a senior board member said on the condition of anonymity.

Usually in ICC, a two-third majority is required but there could be a few board members who would want it to be a case of simple majority among 17 members.

The 17 board members of ICC comprise of 12 Test playing nations, three associate nations (Malaysia, Scotland, Singapore), chairman (in this case interim) and independent director (Indra Nooyi of Pepsico). ICC CEO Manu Sawhney is also a part of ICC Board but without voting right.

A candidate can be nominated by a past or present director of ICC but it has to be seconded mandatorily by two current directors. Only then one can enter the election fray.

There have been discussions on whether the a former director nominating an incumbent should remain valid or not.

As far as the candidates are concerned, there are few names, including that of current interim chairman from Singapore Imran Khawaja, are doing rounds.

Vivo pullout no big deal: Dada

Delhi, Aug. 9: India's cricket chief Sourav Ganguly says the Indian Premier League's decision to suspend a lucrative contract with its main sponsor, the Chinese phone maker Vivo, following a deadly border clash between the two nations is "just a blip".

The IPL last week suspended the agreement with Vivo, which signed a five-year contract in 2017 worth more than $330 million to sponsor the world's richest cricket tourney.

"I wouldn't call it a financial crisis. It is just a little bit of a blip," said Ganguly, the head of the Board of Control for Cricket in India (BCCI).

"BCCI, it's a very strong foundation — the game, the players, the administrators in the past have made this game so strong that BCCI is able to handle all these blips," he said at an online conference on Saturday.

"You keep your other options open. It is like Plan A and Plan B," the BCCI president added.

The 2020 IPL tournament is due to start in the United Arab Emirates next month.

Vivo said the decision was mutually agreed.

The IPL and BCCI have tie-ups with companies including Paytm, Swiggy, Dream11 and Byju, which all have Chinese investment.

According to reports, the BCCI was in talks with Indian companies over sponsorship deals but was expected to make less than the $60 million it would have received from Vivo.

Each of the eight IPL teams stands to lose nearly $4 million from the lost sponsorship, a team said.

The star-studded IPL Twenty20 league is a huge revenue earner for BCCI and is estimated to generate more than $11 billion for the Indian economy.

The tournament normally starts in March, but was repeatedly postponed this year because of the pandemic. — AFP

Messi rises and shines

Barcelona, Aug. 9: Just when it looked like Lionel Messi had nowhere to go, the Argentine great bamboozled half of Napoli's team before scoring from an exquisite solo effort that helped Barcelona reach the Champions League quarterfinals in Portugal.

Messi netted Barcelona's second goal in the 3-1 victory that sent the Spanish side past Napoli on a 4-2 aggregate score on Saturday.

Messi's goal in the 23rd minute was arguably the pick of the 31 he has scored this season in all competitions.

Napoli appeared to have him in check when Messi received the ball all alone outside the right corner of the area. Messi, however, dipped his head and took on the well-placed defense. He kept control of the ball despite being knocked over while going past three Napoli players.

Meanwhile, Robert Lewandowski scored twice and set up two more goals as Bayern beat Chelsea 4-1 on Saturday for a 7-1 win on aggregate in Munich to book a ticket to Lisbon.

Verstappen steals victory in Brit F1

Silverstone, Aug. 9: Max Verstappen delivered Red Bull's first victory at Silverstone since 2012 on Sunday when he made the most of a superior strategy in sizzling conditions to beat both Mercedes and claim victory in the 70th Anniversary Grand Prix.

It was the Dutchman's first victory of the season and the ninth of his career and the first time a race had been won by a driver who did not start on pole position in seven races since last year's Mexican Grand Prix.

Verstappen owed his victory to a team decision to start the race on hard compound tyres while his main rivals all launched from the grid on mediums, the two Mercedes men struggling to manage tyre-wear throughout the race.

During the race, Red Bull asked him to ease off, but he replied saying "I don't want to drive like a grandma" before the team relented.

who passed Mercedes teammate Valtteri Bottas in the closing stages. The Finn finished third.

"I didn't see that coming, 'but after the first stint it seemed we were really good on tyres. I didn't have any tyre issues at all — a great day for us," said Verstappen.

Hamilton said: "That was a massive challenge, but congratulations to Red Bull. It was definitely unexpected to have the blistering (on tyres) as hard core as that."

Bottas, who started from pole, said: "Very frustrating for me, to start from pole and finish third. It's not ideal and I think that as a team we were sleeping." — AFP

BUTTLER & WOAKES SEE ENGLAND HOME IN TEST

Manchester, Aug. 9: Jos Buttler and Chris Woakes led a remarkable comeback for England in a three-wicket victory over Pakistan in the first test on Saturday.

The pair went on the counter-attack at the fall of the fifth wicket in England's second innings and shared a sixth-wicket stand of 139 on day 4 at Old Trafford. No fans were present for the exciting finale due to the coronavirus pandemic restrictions.

Buttler was out for 75 while Woakes hit the winning runs and was undefeated on 84 as England finished on 277-7 for its 10th highest successful test run chase.

Brief scores: Pakistan 326 & 169 (Y. Shah 33, A. Shafiq 29, S. Broad 3/37, lost to England 219 & 277/7 in 82.1 ov (J. Buttler 75, C. Woakes 84*, J. Root 42, Y. Shah 2/74).

Root praises Jos, Chris for show

Manchester, Aug. 9: England captain Joe Root doffed his hat to Jos Buttler after his beleaguered teammate battled concerns over his father's health and fear of losing his place in the side to engineer a dramatic triumph in the first Test against Pakistan here.

After his vital 75-run knock in a partnership of 139 with Chris Woakes that rescued England from 117 for five to register a three-wicket victory, Buttler avoided any discussion on his father Johnny, who had spent the previous evening in hospital.

"It says a huge amount about him as a person to carry that and be able to either use it, or park it only he will know which way he did that and to play in that manner was exceptional. To have that external pressure as well, I'm chuffed to bits with him," Root said.

It was a welcome knock for Buttler who had been struggling with the bat.

Root was also full of praise for Woakes.

"You watch him play and know he's more than capable of three or four more Test hundreds. His game is there. He's got all the attributes, he was clear how he wanted to play Yasir Shah and managed the seamers.

STOKES SET TO MISS REST OF THE SERIES

England star Ben Stokes will miss the concluding two Tests against Pakistan for family reasons, the England and Wales Cricket Board announced Sunday.

Stokes's father Ged was admitted to hospital in Johannesburg two days before Christmas last year with a serious illness while following his son's progress with the England cricket team during their tour of South Africa.

Dire need to keep age fraud under check

Hemant Kenkre
Silly Point

The lovely game of cricket has had its issues over a period of time. Fudging age, particularly in the Asian sub-continent, has been a primary one which has not got the necessary treatment it deserves from Boards that govern the game in countries therein.

The Board of Control for Cricket in India (BCCI) announced an amnesty scheme for young cricketers to own up any 'fudging' they may have committed if they want to play age-group cricket at a higher level.

The malaise of tampering with age has been going on for years in India and many 'illegals' have gone scot free, playing with cricketers much younger to them.

They have taken advantage of having strength over talent to bulldoze their way in school and age-group games creating a playing field that was completely lop sided, favouring teams that fielded older boys.

BCCI's edict of offering amnesty is welcome in the sense it will now ensure parity in age-group tournaments where offenders who continue to play illegally will face a two-year ban. The ban will ensure that they will not be allowed to play in any age-group tournaments, local and national, effectively taking away the best of the formative years of their careers.

Being ineligible to play for two seasons is a harsh punishment for youngsters and the BCCI has (over the past few years) been docking the guilty for meddling with age. Last year saw them, and domestic associations, punish more than 200 cricketers including one who had represented India Under-19 in the victorious 2018 World Cup.

Tinkering with age is an old issue that has plagued Indian cricket over the years. As a 16-year old boy, playing the Cooch Behar Trophy, which was an inter-state schools tournament in those days, I was shocked to see sweets being distributed by the captain of another state school team to celebrate the birth of his son. The incident that happened 47 years ago still rankles in my mind.

Most school cricketers in Mumbai (then Bombay) were aware that they had to compete with 'almost adults' who were masquerading as kids.

While cases, in those days, happened they were not as rampant as what we have been seeing recently. Elder, ineligible, players get more opportunities to represent state age-group teams irrespective of real skills, leaving genuine cricketers in the lurch. Not being in the state squads eventually forces talented youngsters give up the game with parents insisting on spending time on the children education.

The biggest problem faced by genuine coaches is to persuade parents to let their talented children continue to play the game. Reputed coach, Dinesh Lad, who nurtured young talent like Rohit Sharma, Shardul Thakur and his son Siddesh said that the biggest challenge in his 25-years of coaching at the school level comes from convincing parents.

"I always tell parents that talented youngsters should continue to play at the Under-14 and Under-16 levels to develop their skills for the future and not worry about state team selections. Real talent like Sachin, Tendulkar and Rohit Sharma will always find their way irrespective of the inequality," he confided.

Why then has this malaise been allow to take rampant proportions over the years? The answer lies in career prospects that cricket offers. Earlier it was jobs that talented cricketers got which ensured stability, now parents look at the prospect of a much bigger and better opportunity of their wards likely to be picked for the Indian Premier League (IPL) and get them set for life. Today, playing in the IPL is a more immediate goal set for youngsters than playing for the state or the country, unlike in the past.

BCCI's amnesty scheme is a fabulous move, one that will give errant youngsters an opportunity to get back into the scheme of things and not put obstacles for their immediate future. If one takes a holistic view of the age tampering issue the primary blame lies with indecorous coaches who get the youngsters (and their gullible parents) to agree to fake certificates that fuddle the age of the cricketer.

The unequal contests eventually lead to ruin with this form of short-term cheating tearing into the fabric of the game. Along with the Board of Control for Cricket in India, many state associations have started to focus on this corruption which is as bad, if not worse, than match fixing and throwing the game.

Hopefully, the amnesty scheme will deter youngsters from taking such illegal shortcuts. To ensure a level playing field, the state associations must also censure errant coaches (the main culprits) with life time bans if any of their wards are found guilty in the future.
