Pvt doctors seek higher rates under Aarogyasri

Claims govt rates for Covid treatment too low

DC CORRESPONDENT
VIJAYAWADA, APRIL 29

Doctors have urged the Andhra Pradesh state government to revise the Covid-19 treatment rates under the YSR Aarogyasri scheme in their hospitals as they remained highly unviable for them.

Indian Medical Association's Academy of Medical Specialists national chairman Dr D. Sreehari Rao said, "We urge the state government to revise Covid-19 treatment rates upwards under Aarogyasri scheme as the present rates are not viable given the high wages to be paid to the doctors and health personnel for risking their lives to treat the patients and also for maintenance costs. We are sure the move will help get more beds into usage for the patients. We also appeal to the government to extend fire NOC for six more months to the hospitals as their applications for renewal are pending with fire authorities for a long time."

Andhra Pradesh has nearly 2,000 private hospitals. Of them, 600-700 hospitals have more than 50 beds each covered under the Dr YSR Aarogyasri scheme.

There are two categories of private hospitals in the state — those which are already covered under the scheme and the ones which got temporary permission to treat patients for the Covid-19 under the scheme.

For both the categories, the state government had fixed rates. While the patients would be treated for Covid free of cost — reimbursed later by the government — at the empaneled hospitals, non-empaneled hospitals would charge as fixed by the government from the patients.

DC CORRESPONDENT
HYDERABAD, APRIL 29

Bharat Biotech, that manufactures Covid-19 vaccine Covaxin, on Thursday announced that it was cutting down Covaxin price for state governments, to ₹400 per dose. The company had previously said it will sell each dose to state governments at ₹600, and at ₹1,200 to private hospitals that are offering the vaccination service.

In its announcement, Bharat Biotech said it is "deeply concerned with the critical pandemic circumstances that India is facing at this time", and decided to reduce the price recognising the challenges faced by the healthcare system.

Its decision comes a day after Serum Institute of India made a similar announcement reducing the price of its vaccine Covishield from ₹400 a dose to ₹300 a dose for state governments.

Doubts on May 1 rollout as vax fall short

VINEETA PANDEY | DC
NEW DELHI, APRIL 29

The vaccine rollout in the fourth phase to cover all adult Indians above 18 is due to begin on Saturday. However, even as several states have said that they are ready to give the jab free to their citizens, they don't have sufficient stocks of the vaccine. Therefore, the rollout would have to be delayed.

Across the country, there are signs of utter chaos and a visible shortage of vaccines.

Already, several people above 45 years who are due to get their second dose of the vaccine are unable to receive their shots.

In Delhi, those due to get their second shot got cancellation messages on Thursday.

However, the Centre said the total vaccine doses available as of Thursday was 1.27 crore, while the total consumption of vaccines from January 16 to April 29 was 15.11 crores.

Aaraa projected a massive lead for the YSR Congress in Tirupati over its nearest rival Telugu Desam. The ruling party is projected to get a vote share of 65.85 per cent and TD a mere 23.1 per cent.

HMR Research Pvt Ltd predicted that 41 per cent voters felt Jagan Mohan Reddy's performance as

NELLORE RUSHES TO CHENNAI BUT DENIED BEDS

DC CORRESPONDENT
NELLORE, APRIL 29

Covid-19 patients, who are unable to get admitted to an ICU or find oxygen-equipped hospital beds in Nellore, are rushing to Chennai in hope of getting better treatment. In most cases, patients have been moving to Chennai only after they are assured of a bed.

However, hospitals are denying admission to patients whose oxygen saturation levels are dwindling. In one instance, Siddique, a 45-year-old from Gandavaram near Nellore, was taken to a hospital in Chennai, after his friends managed to secure a bed for him, on Wednesday.

He was forced to return after the hospital staff denied him admission, stating that his oxygen levels were less than 80 per cent, as against the mandatory 95 per cent. On Thursday, his son Surjeet pleaded with officials of Narayana hospital to get him admission.

Surjeet said the ambulance journey to and from Chennai cost ₹50,000, which he paid for with borrowed money. According to sources, ambulance vehicles have been demanding ₹30,000 to ₹50,000 for a three-hour journey as there is no check despite patients' complaints.

Inflated fertiliser prices burn holes in farmers' pockets

KADAPA, APRIL 29

A year-on-year rise in fertiliser prices has left farmers deeply concerned, with prices having tripled in the past five years. The burden of this increase, which translates into crores of rupees annually, will fall on the farmers of the district.

The price of a complex fertiliser bag has increased from ₹450 to ₹700.

Similarly, the price for one bag of Di-ammonium Phosphate (DAP) has gone up to ₹1,900.

Of the 1,15,836 hectares of area under general kharif cultivation, 46,660 hectares are food grains, 12,842 hectares under pulses, 25,939 hectares under oilseeds, and 28,000 hectares are under commercial crops. Farmers estimate that 1.25 lakh hectares will be cultivated in rabi.

Farmers, who use fertilisers such as urea, DAP, and complex fertilisers on their crops, estimate that kharif and rabi crops require an average of two-and-a-half to three tonnes of fertiliser annually. However, farmers are using twice as much fertiliser as recommended by the authorities.

Justifying the state government's move to proceed with conducting of intermediate exams from May 5 amid the second wave of the Covid-19 pandemic, minister for education, Adimulapu Suresh said that the decision was made keeping in mind the academic future of the students.

Suresh, while addressing the media, said, "1,452 exam centres have been set up, an addition of 41 centres as compared to last year. On average, a district would have 80 exam centres. The government is taking all requisite measures at these centres to avoid the spread of the virus, especially among students. District collectors and regional inspection officers have been directed to take these measures."

Further, Suresh said that 98 per cent of exams would be completed between May 5 and May 19. Exams for both first and second year students would be held on alternate days. "Materials for conducting the exams have been sent to the respective exam centres while the question papers will go to concerned police stations," he added.

In addition, 13 Covid-19 special officers, with one each at all 13 districts, have been appointed. These officers will ensure arrangement of thermal scanners, masks, mobile medical vans and squads at exam centres. They have also been instructed to sanitise the centres every day, and arrange isolation centres for infected students and PPE kits for the needy.

Criticising the politicisation of the intermediate exams issue, Suresh said that the Chief Minister Y.S. Jagan Mohan Reddy had taken a decision to go ahead with the exams solely to safeguard the academic future of students, and urged opposition parties to not make baseless allegations as it would affect the morale of students and their parents. "Merely giving pass certificates would not benefit students in any way," he added.

NELLORE, APRIL 29

Gudur rural police on Thursday apprehended an accused in the murder of his wife at Vemulapalem village in Gudur rural mandal on April 22.

The accused was identified as K. Srihari and the deceased as Subhashini. He had set fire to the woman after dousing her body with petrol at their farm near the village following a heated argument with her.

According to Gudur Rural Circle Inspector P. Srinivasulu Reddy, Srihari was addicted to bad habits and he used to quarrel with his wife frequently demanding money to consume liquor.

Based on the messages she received from the bank, Subhashini recently found that Srihari was withdrawing large sums of money they received through the sale of paddy from the bank account of the family.

Shocked by the withdrawals, Subhashini reprimanded Srihari for drawing the money without her knowledge and misusing it.

In this backdrop, Srihari, who was keeping away from home, invited Subhashini to their farm on April 22 and the couple had heated arguments over money being spent by Srihari.

In a fit of anger, Srihari attacked his wife with a stick and removed a gold chain she was wearing after she fell unconscious. He then set her ablaze, said Circle Inspector Srinivasulu Reddy.

Based on the complaint lodged by the brother of the victim, Gudur rural police registered a case and apprehended the accused on Wednesday.

Docs advise home isolation

Awareness on Coronavirus has increased, say doctors

DC CORRESPONDENT
KADAPA, APRIL 29

Amid the rising number of Covid-19 cases, home isolation is the best option for those with mild Covid-19 symptoms, even if they're positive, say doctors.

During the first wave of the pandemic, infected patients were referred to quarantine centres or district Covid-19 hospitals. Only those with mild symptoms were allowed to stay at home in isolation and receive treatment.

However, infected patients with mild symptoms have been isolating at home and seeking treatment, without rushing to hospitals, since March this year. Health officials are also encouraging people to do the same in order to reduce the load on hospitals and health centres.

Visakhapatnam: The District Medical and Health Officer Dr P. Suryanarayana said patients would be sent to home isolation if their situation improves after four days in the government hospitals to make space for the serious patients. He added that the beds in government hospitals will be given only through 108 call centres, DMHO office and collector's office. He said checks were conducted on eight private hospitals and all of them were found to be full.

KAKINADA, APRIL 29

Private school managements have requested the central and state governments to waive interest on their bank loans and also get RBI nod for them to delay the installments and loan dues in view of the difficult Covid-19 situation.

School managements are facing a severe financial crisis and they are not able to even meet the daily expenses, said the school managers' association legal adviser and its East Godavari district unit president, Muthukumil Srivijay.

He told the media here on Thursday that parents are not able to pay the students' fees and hence school managements expected of the state government to help them.

"The managements are not able to pay the salaries. Nearly 26 school correspondents lost their lives due to financial problems during the Covid19 season," he said.

After four months of obstacles, auspicious mahurats for several functions like marriages, upanayanam, griha arambha and guruhapravesam are set to begin on May 1.

According to Almanac Writers, all functions were stopped from January and the inauspicious time will end on Friday.

Some exit polls predict extremely close finish in West Bengal

The BJP was projected to get 109-121 seats, and the Congress-Left-ISF alliance 14-25 seats. In the 2016 Assembly polls in the state, the TMC had won 211, the BJP had secured three seats and the Left and Congress had cornered 76 seats.

The Axis exit poll predicts an extremely close finish – with the TMC winning 130-156 seats and the BJP winning 134-160 seats. The survey further states that the voteshare of the TMC is 44 per cent while that of the BJP is 43 per cent.

In Tamil Nadu, the DMK led by M.K. Stalin is expected to make a clean sweep, with all exit polls predicting a landslide for the DMK. This is the first Assembly election being held after the death of political stalwarts J. Jayalalithaa and M. Karunanidhi, and it is expected to witness the return of the DMK-Congress alliance to power with a clear majority. Voting for the 234-seat Tamil Nadu Assembly was held on April 6 in a single phase. The survey data shows that a combination of 10-year anti-incumbency and the absence of a charismatic successor to J.

Jayalalithaa is expected to lead to an electoral setback for the ruling AIADMK-led coalition. The C-Voter survey shows that DMK-led alliance might secure 160 to 172 seats in the state, which has 234 Assembly constituencies. The ruling AIADMK-led alliance is expected to be restricted to 58 to 70 seats. The Axis exit poll shows the DMK+ may get 175-195 seats and AIADMK+ to secure 38 to 54 seats.

In Kerala, it is a straightforward electoral battle between the incumbent Pinarayi Vijayan-led Left Democratic Front (LDF) and the Congress-led United Democratic Front (UDF). According to the exit polls, the ruling LDF is expected to retain the southern state and thus buck the trend of the UDF and LDF alternating in power every five years. Kerala went to the polls on April 6 to elect 140 legislators. According to the C-Voter survey, the LDF may get 71-77 seats and the UDF 62-68 seats. The Axis survey shows 104-120 seats for the LDF and 20-36 seats for the UDF.

The BJP is all set to retain power in Assam, according to all the exit polls. The party is ahead in all exit polls so far even after it faced protests over the CAA and NRC. The C-Voter survey projects 58 to 71 seats for the BJP-led NDA and 53 to 66 seats for the Congress-led UPA. The Axis poll predicts 75-85 seats for the NDA and 40-50 seats for the UPA. Assam has a 126-member Assembly.

The exit poll data shows the NDA winning in the Union territory of Puducherry, with an almost two-thirds majority. The exit polls projected 19 to 23 seats for the NDA, comprising the AINRC, BJP and AIADMK. The Congress and DMK, which constitute the UPA, are projected to win eight to 10 seats.

If the exit polls predictions hold on counting day, May 2, it will be a big relief for the BJP, with the party making gains in West Bengal, retaining power in Assam and winning Puducherry. The Congress will have a lot to worry about as it could not win back power in Assam and in Kerala, that is now the state which party leader Rahul Gandhi represents in the Lok Sabha. Despite that, however, his party could not make a comeback in the southern state.

CURB BLACK-MARKETING OF REMDESIVIR,

KAKINADA, APRIL 29

West Godavari district collector Karthikeya Misra has advised drug inspectors to ensure Remdesivir injections and oxygen are not sold in black market and take strict action against the guilty.

Addressing officials through video conference mode at Eluru on Thursday, Misra said an audit should be done on Redesivir stocks, supply, as also use, and of oxygen cylinders. He said there were complaints that doctors and ANMs were not responding properly to needs of patients. When Covid19 patients are making calls for their treatment, such behaviour would not be tolerated. Every official should respond to calls and help in the treatment of Covid patients, he said.

Some 38 private hospitals in West Godavari have been designated as Covid-19 treatment centres and 5,000 beds are available. Some 3,582 doses of Covishield vaccine is available for second dose in the district, he said.

NGO SEEKS WAIVER OF GST ON DRUGS, MEDICAL SUPPLIES

PARMOD KUMAR | DC
NEW DELHI, APRIL 29

An NGO, the Public Policy Advocates, on Wednesday moved the Supreme court seeking to exempt levying of Goods and services Tax on the medicines and medical devices including equipment being used for the treatment of Covid patients in the second wave of pandemic.

Seeking exemption of GST on Remdesivir, Tocilizumab, Favipiravi and other similar generic medicines, the petition by the Public Policy Advocates has described as "unjustified" the levy of GST on the medicines essential for the treatment of Covid including medical grade oxygen, oxygen concentrators, ventilators, Bipap Machines, and other Covid patient care support equipment.

The application said, "the Right to Health in times of pandemic, assumes an ever more crucial significance since affordable healthcare and availability of drugs which are critical to fight moderate and severe cases of illness have to be given paramount importance. This would have the effect of preventing black marketing, hoarding of such drugs and other medical equipment, as well as would ensure that the same is available to the citizens at affordable cost."

The application has been moved by Pritika Kumar — the founder of the Public Policy advocates. The application has been moved in the suo motu matter being heard by the top court relating to the supply of essential medicines, oxygen, manner and method of vaccination, dual pricing of the vaccine and declaration of lockdown.

The top court which had in the last hearing of suo motu petition had said that it can't be "silent spectator" of the worsening Covid situation and the difficulties being encountered by people in getting drugs, oxygen, hospital beds for the treatment of Covid infected patients.

The petitioner has sought top court direction to GST Council to "expeditiously" convene its meeting to consider exempting from levy of GST — both at the Central and at the state level — the drugs and medical equipment being used for treating Covid patients.

In the interim, till the GST Council meets and takes a call, the petitioner organisation has sought direction to the Centre to issue "appropriate ad hoc guidelines, orders or notifications."

What India needs: 5L ICU beds, 3.5L medicos

Pune, April 29: Forecasting that the Covid-19 pandemic is only going to get worse, noted surgeon Dr Devi Prasad Shetty has said India will need an extra 5 lakh ICU beds, 2 lakh nurses and 1.5 lakh doctors in the next few weeks, and also suggested radical solutions to meet the mountainous challenge.

At present, India has only 75,000 to 90,000 ICU beds and almost all are already occupied — when the second wave of the pandemic hasn't even reached its peak yet, he said. India is reporting about 3.5 lakh cases a day, and some experts say the number could go up to 5 lakh cases daily at its peak.

While most of the newspaper headlines and prime time television coverage have been over the lack of oxygen for the patients in ICUs, "I am having sleepless nights for the next headline, which is going to be that patients are dying in ICUs because there are no nurses and doctors to take care of the patients," he said.

"And this is going to happen. I do not doubt it now," said Dr Shetty, the chairman and founder of Narayana Health, a chain of 21 medical centres in India, in his online address at the Symbiosis Golden Jubilee Lecture Series in Pune recently.

He pointed out that for every patient who is tested positive, there are 5 to 10 people who are positive but not tested. That means more than 15 to 20 lakh people are getting infected every day in India even now. Statistically, five per cent of the positive patients need an ICU bed, irrespective of their age. On an average, a patient in ICU spends at least 10 days there. "So you can just imagine what the scenario is. Know what we need to do? We need to create at least five lakh additional ICU beds in the next few weeks," he said.

"Unfortunately, beds do not treat patients. We need nurses, doctors and paramedics in that order, he said, pointing out that managing Covid patients successfully in ICUs depends mostly on nurses, not doctors. Even before the start of the pandemic, government hospitals across the country had a shortage of 78 per cent of medical specialists.

"Now, we need to produce at least two lakh nurses and at least one and a half lakh doctors in the next few weeks who are dedicated to managing Covid for the next one year. Because the current pandemic is likely to last for about 4 to 5 months. And then we should be prepared for the third wave," he said.

Dr Shetty then proceeded to provide out-of-the-box solutions for meeting that need. He said India has about 2.20 lakh nursing students who have finished their three-year GNM (General Nursing and Midwifery) or four-year B Sc courses in various nursing schools and colleges across the country who are preparing for their exam scheduled to take place in the next few weeks.

He suggested that the ministry of health, along with the Indian Nursing Council, should consider these students as graduates and deploy them to work in Covid ICU wards for one year, after which they will be given graduation certificates. They could also be given preference over others in government jobs, he said.

"Take the approach of drafting for the armed forces when there is an impending war with the enemy country ... This is not peacetime. It is wartime.

"If that is done, I am convinced most of these girls and boys will join the fight against Covid. The battle cannot be won by doctors of my age. No war can be fought by people of my age. You need young people. Most of them are vaccinated and they are naturally in a better position to fight Covid in case they get it.

He said there are also 1.30 lakh young doctors today, working not in Covid ICUs but preparing for NEET exams to get into post-graduate courses where only 35,000 positions are available. An online test for NEET should be conducted immediately and results declared in a few days.

After allowing the 35,000 seats, there will be still one lakh young doctors who are left out, who didn't get the PG seats. They should be offered a chance during the next year's PG selection if they work in the Covid ICU for one year, he said. Additionally, there are about 25,000 doctors who have finished their postgraduate training and haven't yet appeared for the exam. This batch of medical specialists should be told that they can skip the exam and get the degree provided they work in the Covid ICUs for one year, he suggested.

Also, there are between 90,000 to one lakh doctors who graduated from overseas universities who haven't been able to pass a national entrance exam. "Identify 20,000 brightest of these kids and ask them to work in Covid ICU for one year for getting a permanent registration," he said.

"If we can do this successfully in the next few weeks, believe me, we would have conquered the Covid battle. Otherwise, the consequences can be very very serious, mainly because just admitting a patient in a Covid ICU and giving him some oxygen is not going to save their life," he concluded.

Bombay HC for 15-day lockdown

Maha extends lockdown-like curbs till May 15

SHAHAB ANSARI & BHAGWAN PARAB | DC
MUMBAI, APRIL 29

The Bombay High Court on Thursday asked the Maharashtra government to consider imposing complete lockdown in the state for 15 days.

A division bench of Chief Justice Dipankar Datta and Justice G.S. Kulkarni was of the opinion that a complete lockdown like last year was necessary in order to successfully contain the spread of Coronavirus in the state.

The bench also asked Advocate General (AG) Ashutosh Kumbhakoni if the state believed its current restrictions on the movement of citizens were working. The judges also asked him if people with only urgent business were on roads.

The bench clarified that it was not issuing any mandate, however they were of the opinion that the government should consider a lockdown like last year.

The HC also directed the Maharashtra government to ensure municipal authorities conducted an immediate fire audit of all hospitals, nursing homes and Covid care centres across the state.

Referring to Wednesday's fire in a private hospital in Thane district where four people died, the bench said, "We do not want any more fires in hospitals."

The bench said a patient does not have time to check if a hospital is fire-compliant or not. "We do not want hospitals turning into Jatugrihas," the HC said, referring to the highly combustible house of lac that Duryodhana had built for the Pandavas in the Mahabharata.

The HC also said it was not trying to pin the blame for the raging pandemic on the state government or municipal corporation, but it was the society's "collective failure" and that citizens must also act responsibly.

"You want to have everything. You want Kumbh, you want marriages...are you waiting for the third wave?" it asked.

"At least for 15 days if people stay strictly indoors, like last year, we may expect better results. Please advise your government," the high court told this to the AG.

The HC was hearing a PIL, alleging improper management of Covid treatment in Maharashtra and seeking directions pertaining to shortage of Remdesivir, the key antiviral drug, and oxygen supply.

Advocate General Kumbhakoni on behalf of the state and the senior counsel Anil Sakhre on behalf of BMC told the HC that there was adequate stock of Remdesivir and oxygen for hospitals in Mumbai and a safety audit of medical facilities across the state would be conducted.

The court also directed them to also ensure there are no long queues at Covid vaccination centres and make arrangements for the safety of those working in crematoriums. Meanwhile, the state government on Thursday evening issued a new order extending Covid restrictions till May 15. People can travel only in emergencies. Shops and markets, except for emergency services, will be allowed to be open for only two hours till 11am every day.

Also, with the rise in cases and deaths showing no signs of decline, the Maharashtra government has extended the lockdown-like curbs in the state till May 15.

State chief secretary Sitarum Kunte on Thursday issued an order, which said, "Maharashtra is continuing to be threatened with the spread of Covid and therefore it is imperative to continue emergency measures to prevent and contain the spread of virus. The government finds it necessary to continue the enforcement of the current restrictions throughout the state till 15th May to break the chain of transmission effectively."

The strict curbs on movement of people and a host of other activities have been in force in the state since April 14 and were to end on April 30. Essential services have been exempted from the restrictions.

On April 21, the Maharashtra government had imposed more strict restrictions in the state under the 'Break the Chain' campaign. Under the curbs, all government offices (centre, state, local administrative), except emergency services related to the coronavirus pandemic, will open with only 15 per cent attendance.

FB blocks #ResignModi posts, restores it later

NEW DELHI, APRIL 29

Social media platform Facebook temporarily blocked posts containing hashtags calling on Prime Minister Narendra Modi to resign, then reinstated them on Wednesday, saying the action had been taken erroneously, according to international media reports.

"We temporarily blocked this hashtag by mistake, not because the Indian government asked us to, and have since restored it," Facebook spokesman Andy Stone was quoted as saying. According to these media reports, #ResignModi was blocked on Facebook for several hours amid national controversy and public anger over the Union Government's response to the ongoing Covid crisis.

The media reports said the Indian government had ordered U.S. social-media companies to block certain social media posts, saying Covid-related misinformation risked spurring a panic and were disrupting efforts to bring the pandemic under control. A second wave of the Covid pandemic is currently battering India leading to a severe shortage of hospital beds, oxygen and anti-viral drugs such as Remdesivir India is now recording over three and a half lakh fresh Covid cases every day while the death toll is now crossing three thousand daily.

Desperate appeals for help have become the norm on social media as people helplessly watch many of their family-members and friends die for want of timely medical care.

A foreign envoy posted in India had also recently told media outlets that his heart bled seeing scenes of hospitals and people asking for hospital beds on social media.

Modi had also recently conceded that the second Corona "storm has shaken the country" when the nation had been full of enthusiasm and self-confidence after "successfully confronting the first wave of Corona".

The government has also conceded that the current over three million active cases of Covid have "put considerable pressure on the health care system".

Just a few days back, Twitter and other social media platforms removed about 100 posts and URLs after the government asked them to remove content that was critical of the handling of the current medical crisis or spreading fake news around the pandemic.

Reports citing Lumen database, an independent research project studying cease and desist letters concerning online content, suggested that more than 50 posts — including those by a Member of Parliament, MLA and filmmakers — were removed by Twitter on government request.

Government sources had said the social media platforms were asked to remove the posts and URLs (uniform resource locators) to "prevent obstructions in the fight against the pandemic" and disruption of public order due to the said posts.

They had added that the order was issued in view of the misuse of social media platforms by certain users to spread fake or misleading information and create panic.

Portals of 4 temples will open as scheduled, only priests permitted

Char Dham Yatra deferred amid Covid surge

Dehradun, April 29: Char Dham Yatra to the four famous Himalayan shrines in Uttarakhand, which was scheduled to begin next month, has been postponed in view of the massive surge in Covid-19 cases.

Announcing this here on Thursday, Uttarakhand Chief Minister Tirath Singh Rawat said conducting the yatra amid the raging pandemic is not possible. "Considering the rising cases of corona, it has been decided to suspend the Char Dham Yatra," Rawat told reporters.

However, the portals of the four Himalayan temples known as Char Dham will open as scheduled, he said.

Only priests will be allowed to perform daily prayers at the shrines and not devotees, the Chief Minister said.

"Though opening on schedule, no pilgrim neither from inside the state nor from outside will be allowed to visit the temples," he said.

Badrinath, Kedarnath, Gangotri and Yamunotri are the four famous shrines. Kedarnath is slated to open at 5 am on May 17, Badrinath at 4:15 am on May 18, Yamunotri at 12:15 pm on May 14 and Gangotri on 7:30 am on May 15.

Covid-19 cases have been rising drastically in Uttarakhand as in various other states.

They hit a new high in the state on Wednesday with 6,054 people testing positive and 108 succumbing to the virus.

This is the highest single-day spike in Covid cases and fatalities recorded by the state so far.

The state government had drawn much flak for organising the Kumbh Mela in Haridwar which according to many contributed to the second wave of Coronavirus.

Even the Uttarakhand High Court in an oral observation recently had asked the state government to publish the standard operating procedure for Char Dham Yatra saying it cannot be allowed to become another Kumbh.

It has also asked the state government to control the raging virus and save lives putting aside everything else.

Covid had cast its shadow on the Char Dham Yatra which is considered the backbone of the hill economy last year too delaying opening of the temples for pilgrims by several months.

The delayed opening of the temples for pilgrims coupled with restrictions such as mandatory negative RT-PCR test report, a daily cap on the number of devotees visiting shrines besides compliance with mask wearing and social distancing norms had severely affected the inflow of pilgrims.

Govt needs to provide free vaccination to all in India

The registration for the third phase of the vaccination programme against pandemic Covid-19 has started with some technical glitches in the registration portal that were promptly corrected. As per the government's account, more than 80 lakh people aged between 18 and 45 years registered themselves for the programme that starts on May 1. The government has made it mandatory for anyone to get a jab in the third phase to register with the portal. It has also said there will be no more free vaccination for this group, which makes up almost half of the eligible population.

The government had injected a lot of hope into the people whose lives and livelihoods were severely battered by the onslaught of the microorganism when it launched the world's largest vaccination programme on January 16 this year but most of the steps it has taken after that belied that hope. And worse, the latest decisions reflect poor understanding of the ground situation and a scornful neglect for the idea of universal vaccination against a deadly pandemic. The government has parliamentary clearance for spending money to get every eligible person vaccinated but has now passed that responsibility on to the state governments so far as its most productive section of the population is concerned. Worse, it has made the private sector an integral part of the programme with little regulatory protocols. The government's decision to allow the private manufacturers to fix the price of the vaccine doses, and then merrily grabbing the opportunity to make super profits, truly reflects the callousness with which it plans to wage the war on the pandemic.

No elected central government in the world would dare force the elected bodies below them to compete with private companies for a product such as vaccines. There won't be many countries where the citizen's right to vaccination is linked to the acts of a philanthropist entrepreneur who himself is a beneficiary of governmental largesse.

The coordinates about which the people in the Union government work now defy all sense of democracy and decency and the constitutional principles which bind them to seats of power. The right to get vaccinated against a pandemic is nothing less than the right to life and the government is duty bound to protect it. Introducing a technological interface such as a registration portal is okay as long as it brings efficiency to how the government works; making it a condition to enjoy a fundamental right is not.

The Union government must rework its vaccination policy for the youth. Anything less than a universal vaccination programme for them is akin to discounting their right to life, and is unacceptable. Technology can be a tool for people to access it but it cannot be the sole determinant. Illiterate people have an equal right to the jab, and it is the government's job to ensure it. The financial burden must be borne by the Union government that has sought, and been granted, funds by Parliament for the purpose. Anything less will amount to undermining the survival of the future of the nation. The government can decide.

Stop politics over oxygen

In the dire emergency caused by the coronavirus pandemic liquid medical oxygen has become a crucial national resource. The order to open Vedanta's Sterilite Copper smelter plant on the southern coast of Tamil Nadu and produce oxygen for medical use is a logical step to augment availability. When production is scaled up to around 1,000 MT a day, it can add about 10 per cent to national capacity. To facilitate such production is a national task and all politicians of Tamil Nadu, including the head honchos of the government of the day who opposed the oxygen operations in court, should climb off their hobby horse and cooperate in using that oxygen to help people sickened by the virus to breathe.

An oxygen crisis exists not in terms of production but in transportation as the nation has an inadequate number of tankers. It is a logistical nightmare to be able to rush lifesaving LMO to every nook and corner of the country and oxygen will soon be required everywhere in the face of the bewildering scale and speed of the spread of the disease. To undertake supply on a war footing is the executive's job but it should not be hampered by the play of politics in deciding how much oxygen will go to which state and when. The people are fed up already with political leaders playing havoc with a fair and equitable distribution of oxygen, life-saving drugs, ventilators, hospital and ICU beds, besides vaccines.

The First World has responded to India's crisis by sending oxygen concentrators, non-invasive ventilators and various other medical equipment that can help in the crisis. Political leaders and the executive they give directions to must ensure fair distribution so that patients can be helped in time and the mortality rate kept down. Having lost the battle against a second wave we must first ensure that the gravely ill receive treatment in time. The politics over who is right or wrong can wait and it's time to rein in ill-conceived comments about arresting those who criticise governments or spread rumours about the Covid-19 catastrophe.

India's grim reality out in the open as myths busted

Karan Thapar

As I See It

It wasn't so long ago that we convinced ourselves we are a superpower or, at least, one that's definitely in the making. We believed the evidence was long and compelling — the world's largest democracy, the sixth biggest economy, a 1.38 billion-strong domestic market, excellence in IT and the West's back office, an unbeatable cricket team, the home of Bollywood, one of the most successful diasporas and, of course, a Prime Minister on first name terms with all the world's top leaders. The RSS was convinced this was because we are a Hindu majority nation. The BJP was more specific. It was because of Narendra Modi.

Well, an invisible virus has punctured the bubble of our pretensions. As Covid-19 increases by nearly 400,000 cases a day — mathematically projected to possibly reach a million a day in two weeks' time — our friends have shut their doors on us. From Paris to Hong Kong, Canberra to Dubai, flights from India have been barred. Meanwhile, our "enemies" are reaching out. China has offered assistance. Charities in Pakistan were the first to write to our PM. Days later Imran Khan tweeted his offer to help. This is, of course, kindness but it's likely to rattle the government.

So what went wrong? There are many answers but the one that concerns me is the argument which suggests that we brought this on ourselves. I'm referring both to our earlier belief that we're something special and have conquered the virus and also our irresponsible refusal to plan and prepare for the worst. In other words, our judgment. And before I go into detail, let me add it's judgment, more than size and power, that one expects of a superpower. That's where we have failed.

First, after the number of new infections started to remarkably, though inexplicably, shrink from September onwards, we claimed victory. Just as Europe and America were experiencing second or even third waves, far worse than the first, we convinced ourselves that our fate would be different. In January, Prime Minister Modi told the World Economic Forum that India has "defeated" Covid. Three weeks later, on February 21, the BJP passed the following resolution: "It can be said with pride that India not only defeated Covid under the able, sensitive, committed and visionary leadership of Prime Minister Narendra Modi, but also infused in all its citizens the confidence to build an 'Atma Nirbhar Bharat'".

The party unequivocally hails its leadership for introducing India to the world as a proud and victorious nation in the fight against Covid." In March, the health minister, who is himself a doctor, added his personal touch. He claimed to the Delhi Medical Association that "we are in the endgame of the Covid-19 pandemic in India".

This misplaced, unscientific, irrational and downright foolish conviction that we are special is the cause of the crisis we face today. As a result, we did not plan for a second wave. In fact, we shut down the special facilities created to handle the first. Empowered committees that recommended enhancing oxygen production in April 2020 were ignored. Even when it was decided to do so, the tenders were not placed for eight months. Time, we felt certain, was on our side. So, of the 162 plants sanctioned by the health ministry, only 33 have been installed. Consequently, today, we're forced to shut down virtually all industrial use of oxygen while we are desperately trying to import 50,000 tonnes from any country willing to sell it quickly.

I'll touch on only one more example of our irresponsible incompetence. We boast of being the vaccine manufacturer of the world. Yet with our eyes wide open, we failed to ensure we can produce enough to vaccinate ourselves. Once again, the explanation is we either didn't bother to plan or weren't capable of doing it intelligently.

Consider this — as far back as May or June last year we knew that if 75 per cent of our people were to be given a two-dose vaccine, we would need two billion jabs. That was elementary maths. We also knew that our existing vaccine production capacity could not produce anywhere near this number in the time-frame that we required. So, what did we do? A superpower would have immediately increased its capacity. Doubled or tripled it, if necessary. We did nothing. We blithely carried on as if there was no looming problem. Now we have a crisis. And, once again, the world we are so eager to impress simply cannot understand how we let this happen.

The picture which the world sees of India is not that of a potential superpower but an inept and flailing Third World country struggling but unable to handle a crisis it has inflicted on itself

Consequently, the picture which the world sees of India is not that of a potential superpower but an inept and flailing Third World country struggling but unable to handle a crisis it has inflicted on itself. Hospitals are paralysed by the lack of beds and oxygen, patients are dying in ambulances and, sometimes, on the streets, pavements and open fields have been converted into crematoria, and everywhere we have helpless, crying, forsaken citizens, with no one to turn to.

This is the grim image the Western press now has of our country. But as far as our government is concerned, it's even worse. Because all of this is compounded by the dawning realisation that the leader they once thought was strong and decisive now appears to have been unconcerned by the challenge he faced or incapable of responding to it. Indeed, his own behaviour suggests he was either ignorant of how bad things could become or unwilling to believe it.

So, today, the world is horrified by what they see of India and deeply dismayed. The bragadocio has been stripped aside. The exposed reality is ugly and impossible to hide.

Finally, there's also how we view ourselves. Our confidence in being special seems to have disappeared. This is not the exclusiveness that we sought. Television and the social media have brought home a different truth. We've been reduced to a nation that's more than frightened, we're in panic. The dream of achieving India's inevitable and irresistible destiny has metamorphosed into a nightmare where we know our own incompetence and irresponsibility is what haunts us. We long to wake up to a bright and beautiful morning. But when will this sleep of torment end?

DON'T HOLD EXAMS

The decision to hold exams may prove to be devastating for AP in general and backward districts like Srikakulam in particular. Covid-19 is at its peak and we are daily witnessing heavy rise in fatalities from Covid hospitals. Government's mere contention of gaining admissions in premier colleges based on marks of Class X and inter is beyond comprehension when lives of thousands of students are at stake.

Paidi Visweswar Rao
Visakhapatnam

At a time when the state is registering an alarming surge in Covid-19 cases, the decision to hold SSC and Intermediate exams is unwise. The reasons given by the authorities for holding the exams are sound and unfeigned. However, students are going through extraordinary circumstances due to the resurgence of Coronavirus. Therefore, it is better to put off the exams.

TRACKING COVID

The ugliest side of human beings is on full display as thousands of Covid patients go untraced not only in Tirupati but all over the state. Perhaps other states are also not an exception to this behaviour. It is disgusting and shameful to note that those infected are giving incorrect contact information. Such people should be jailed.

China supplying arms to Pak

RAWALPINDI, APRIL 29 Western diplomats said they believe Communist China is supplying military equipment to Pakistan and has agreed to outfit new units in the Western province to replace troops sent to suppress the Awami League in Bangla Desh.

They, however did not have details on the amount or type of military equipment to be supplied.

They said the agreement followed an unannounced visit to Peking earlier this month by Pakistan's Foreign Secretary, Sultan Khan, former Ambassador to China.

How far is Biden ready to go on guns, minimum wage, healthcare?

It is somewhat disconcerting to find myself almost in agreement with US Senator Lindsey Graham, a particularly odious representative of the Republican leadership that dropped up the Trump presidency for four years, and seems determined to perpetuate its sordid legacy.

But he was on the ball when he told Fox News Sunday: "AOC said his first 100 days exceeded her expectations. That's all you need to know."

Of course, what he meant by "That's all you need to know" is vastly different from the way many others would interpret New York congresswoman Alexandria Ocasio-Cortez's statement last Friday that the Biden administration has "definitely exceeded the expectations that progressives had".

When AOC entered the US Congress in 2018, contrary to the primary desires of the Democratic Party establishment — alongside Squad-mates Ilhan Omar, Rashida Tlaib and Ayannah Pressley — she came across as a breath of fresh air: a legislator determined to challenge not just the egregious excesses of the Trump administration but also the unsavoury realities of her own party's inclinations.

She had already done her bit by then for the unsuccessful Bernie Sanders campaign in 2016, and she did it again four years later. Last year's Sanders campaign, although hobbled again by the Democratic establishment, was more successful. At least in the sense that Biden advisers collaborated with Sanders associates in drawing up the election agenda.

Nonetheless, in the run-up to last November's election, it was logical to assume that, if elected, Joe Biden would go his own way — striving for bipartisanship, as was his wont during three decades in the Senate, and quite possibly achieving very little.

However, Mr Biden has managed to go reasonably far in his first 100 days — admittedly an arbitrary criterion that has been in vogue since the initial phase of Franklin Delano Roosevelt's 1933 inauguration. FDR assumed power during the depths of the 1930s depression, and tried to reboot the US economy through an unprecedented injection of government resources.

It was a partial success — it actually took a world war to resurrect the US economy. Biden's efforts in the wake of Covid-19 have been compared with FDR's New Deal and Lyndon Johnson's Great Society, thwarted in large part by Johnson's Vietnam woes.

For all his flaws, Johnson did manage to legislate some of the most substantial provisions against racial discrimination since Lincoln's Emancipation Act 100 years earlier. Ever since, though, there have been efforts to claw back the advances, and Republican-guided voter suppression reached a new level of sorts in Georgia recently, after the state's voters gave Biden a tentative majority in the US Senate.

The President, meanwhile, has gone further in his stimulus packages than some of his detractors on the left expected, and has facilitated a considerably more substantial role in the Senate for Sanders than anyone might have anticipated. A partial consequence has been that, unlike in 2009 when the advent of Barack Obama was followed by far too much of the "rescue package" being restricted to the economic culprits on Wall Street, the latest stimulus has sustained poorer households.

These are temporary measures, though. There is the prospect of a massive infrastructure package that would also seek to redress, in some measure, America's reliance on fossil fuels. Mr Biden recently presided over a virtual global summit ostensibly aimed at reducing carbon dioxide emissions more sharply than spelt out in the Paris agreement of 2015, but it has been pointed out that whereas the current administration is willing to pursue its goal through concrete measures, it has no objection to the rest of the world chasing the task through market mechanisms, which have hitherto proved grossly inadequate.

The Biden administration is also struggling with border immigration measures, and with foreign policy more generally: ties with China and Russia, in particular, remain dismal. The proposed withdrawal from Afghanistan, welcome at many levels, is likely to effectively entail handing back power to the Taliban — without any official recognition of why the invasion 20 years ago was a grievous error.

But let's put foreign policy aside, even though US neocolonialism is an intrinsic part of America's postwar identity, not least in its Latin American "backyard". However even domestically, there's little hope of instituting a minimum wage of only $15, let alone the kind of universal healthcare that is routine in comparable nations, or the kind of gun control that might reduce the regular mass shootings.

These three straightforward objectives are not even on Biden's agenda. And some of the items on his wish list face resistance not just from mindless Republicans but also from Democratic senators such as Joe Manchin and Kyrsten Sinema.

Yes, Joe Biden has exceeded expectations in his first 100 days, but where he will — or can — go from here remains an open question.

GERMAN WOMAN IN CUSTODY OVER KILLINGS

Potsdam, Germany: An employee at a clinic for disabled people outside Berlin was arrested Thursday on suspicion of killing four people at the centre and wounding a fifth, police said, with the motive still unclear.

The slain victims, two women and two men, were stabbed with a knife late Wednesday at the facility in the city of Potsdam, the daily Bild reported.

Those killed are believed to be patients at the care clinic, local newspaper Potsdamer Neueste Nachrichten reported. Police said earlier the dead were subjected to “intense, extreme violence”, but did not give any details around the circumstances of the killings.

CYPRUS TALKS FOR SETTLEMENT AT UN COLLAPSE

Geneva: Talks with rival Cypriot leaders failed to find common ground that could pave the way towards resolving the decades-old division of Cyprus, the UN chief concluded Thursday (April 29).

The United Nations is trying to mediate a deal for the eastern Mediterranean island, nearly six decades since it first deployed peacekeepers.

UN Secretary-General Antonio Guterres travelled from New York to Geneva to oversee the three days of informal talks in various formats, but said they had not managed to overcome the differences between the Greek and Turkish Cypriot positions.

“The truth is that in the end of our efforts, we have not yet found enough common ground to allow for the resumption of formal negotiations in relation to the settlement of the Cyprus problem,” Guterres told a press conference.

“But I do not give up,” he said.

AMAZON TO RAISE PAY FOR OVER 5 LAKH WORKERS

New York: Amazon said Wednesday that it plans to give more than 5,00,000 of its workers a raise as it seeks to attract new workers.

The online shopping giant, which already pays new hires at least $15 an hour, said it will start increasing pay between 50 cents an hour to $3 an hour starting next month.

Those getting raises include warehouse workers, who pack and ship orders, as well as those who work in Amazon’s package sorting centers and other facilities.

Amazon said the pay raise is part of its push to hire more workers. The company has needed more people to get orders to shoppers during the pandemic as Americans increasingly shop online.

It hired 5,00,000 people in 2020 alone, bringing its total workforce to nearly 1.3 million people worldwide.

The pay announcement also comes after a failed union push at an Alabama warehouse, which put a national spotlight on working conditions at Amazon.

POPULATION GREW IN 2020 SAYS CHINA

Beijing: China’s population grew last year, the government said on Thursday, following a report that a census might have found a surprise decline, possibly adding to downward pressure on economic growth.

The National Bureau of Statistics gave no details in its one-sentence statement and said the population figure would be reported later. But the unusual decision to respond to the report by The Financial Times reflected the issue’s political sensitivity.

The Financial Times said people familiar with China’s 2020 census expect it to show the population, which edged above 1.4 billion in 2019, declined for the first time since famine in 1959-61 killed millions of people.

The ruling Communist Party has enforced birth limits to restrain population growth since 1980, but an outright fall would reduce the flow of workers into the economy when it is trying to shore up growth and reduce poverty.

“According to our understanding, in 2020, China’s population continued to grow,” the NBS said on its website.

China’s population has long been expected to peak and decline in line with trends.

Prez Biden calls white supremacy ‘terrorism’

Says global terror networks have largely moved beyond US

Washington, April 29: In his first joint address to the US Congress, President Joe Biden identified white supremacy as a domestic terror threat that America must remain vigilant against.

While discussing his decision to withdraw American troops from war-torn Afghanistan, Biden noted global terror networks have largely moved beyond the country and that white supremacists posed a bigger threat than foreign actors.

“We won’t ignore what our intelligence agencies have determined to be the most lethal terrorist threat to our homeland today: White supremacy is terrorism,” Biden said in the House chamber, which just three months ago was attacked by the supporters of former president Donald Trump in an effort to overthrow the outcome of the 2020 presidential election.

“White supremacy is terrorism, and we’re not going to ignore that either: My fellow Americans, look, we have to come together to heal the soul of this nation, the president said.

In remarks, Biden acknowledged the January 6 attempted insurrection at the Capitol, saying it was an existential crisis that tested democracy.

“As we gather here tonight, the images of a violent mob assaulting this Capitol desecrating our democracy remain vivid in all our minds. Lives were put at risk many of your lives. Lives were lost. Extraordinary courage was summoned. The insurrection was an existential crisis a test of whether our democracy could survive. It did,” Biden said.

But he underscored that “the struggle is far from over” and that “the question of whether our democracy will long endure is both ancient and urgent.” — PTI

US on the move again, says Biden

Washington, April 29: President Joe Biden triumphantly declared that the United States is “on the move again” in a rousing speech to Congress on Wednesday, calling for trillions of dollars to rebuild the post-pandemic US middle class and give new life to “forgotten” workers.

Lauding the success of mass vaccination against Covid-19, Biden told Congress and the nation on primetime television that “in America, we always get up.”

“America is ready for takeoff,” he said. “We are working again, dreaming again, discovering again, leading the world again.”

Biden, who was celebrating the eve of his 100th day in office, called the vaccine rollout one of “the greatest logistical achievements” in US history.

But Biden quickly pivoted to insisting that this national effort must now focus on rebuilding the economy and fighting inequality with “the largest jobs plan since World War II.”

In a line that could have come from his populist Republican predecessor Donald Trump, Biden said working-class Americans had been ignored, while the top one percent got richer, and that his plans would give them a chance.

“You feel left behind and forgotten in an economy that’s rapidly changing. Let me speak directly to you,” Biden said, before going on to promise Americans “good-paying jobs that can’t be outsourced.”

In every aspect of the primetime television speech, Biden echoed his mantra that “America is back” — both in recovering from the coronavirus disaster and in putting the turbulence of the Trump era behind. — AFP

U.S. TO MAINTAIN STRONG MILITARY IN INDO-PACIFIC

Washington, April 29: Declaring that “America is rising anew” under his leadership, President Joe Biden has told China that the US will maintain a “strong” military presence in the Indo-Pacific “not to start conflict, but to prevent one” as Beijing became more assertive in the strategically vital region. Using his maiden address to the joint session of Congress on the eve of his 100th day in office to make a strong case for huge new investments and tax reforms to overhaul the US economy and rebuild the middle class, Biden said, “we have acted to restore the people’s faith in our democracy to deliver.”

In his 65-minute address, Biden spent the majority of his time to discuss his economic and infrastructure plans for the nation, his foreign policy vision for America’s role in the world and the coronavirus pandemic. — PTI

Harris, Pelosi make history at first address to Congress

Washington, April 29: Vice President Kamala Harris and House Speaker Nancy Pelosi have made history as they shared the stage during President Joe Biden’s first joint session to Congress, marking the first time that two women sat behind a US president during an address to Congress.

Harris, 56, who is also the first Indian-American and also the first woman of colour woman to become America’s Vice President, sat behind on the president’s right side as he delivered his first speech to a joint session of Congress on Wednesday night.

Pelosi, 81, who became the first woman in her role in 2007, sat behind on the President’s left.

Harris entered the House chamber on Wednesday night to a round of applause for Biden’s address to Congress.

When asked about the significance of two women sitting behind the President for the address, Harris replied, “Normal,” to reporters in the Capitol as she led the Senate delegation to the House chamber.

Asked her view on the historic moment, Pelosi said, “It’s about time.” “It’s pretty exciting. And it’s wonderful to make history. It’s about time,” Pelosi said hours before the speech. Pelosi already knows what it feels like to sit on the rostrum in the House chamber and introduce a president for speeches. — PTI

US advises its citizens to leave India as cases spike

Washington, April 29: The US has advised its citizens not to travel to India or to leave as soon as it is safe to do so and authorised the voluntary departure of family members of its employees in the Indian missions, saying the access to all types of medical care is becoming severely limited in the country amid a massive surge in Covid-19 cases.

The US has put India on Level 4 Travel Advisory, the highest level issued by the Department of State.

The current Level 4 Travel Advisory asks US citizens not to travel to India or to leave as soon as it is safe to do so due to the current health situation in the country.

The Department of State also authorised the voluntary departure of family members of US government employees in Mission India.

US Embassy New Delhi and Consulates General Chennai, Hyderabad, Kolkata, and Mumbai will remain open and continue to provide emergency consular services.

“#India: Access to medical care is severely limited due to Covid-19 cases. US citizens wishing to depart should use available commercial options now. Daily direct flights to the US and flights via Paris and Frankfurt are available,” the State Department tweeted.

In a health alert, the US Embassy in New Delhi said: “Access to all types of medical care is becoming severely limited in India due to the surge in Covid-19 cases.”

“We urge US citizens to enrol in STEP (Smart Traveler Enrollment Programme) at step.state.gov in order to receive critical information from the Embassy related to health and safety in India,” it said.

It asked American citizens to visit the Indian Ministry of Health and Family Welfare website for the latest information on travel restrictions.

EU inches closer to Covid certificate

Brussels, April 29: The European Parliament on Thursday agreed its position on how a Covid certificate should work, bringing the EU closer to launching a document to open up travel within the bloc.

Europe intends to have a certificate showing the bearer’s vaccination status, Covid test results and/or evidence of having survived the disease up and running in June, in time for the continent’s summer vacation period.

While technical work has been ongoing to ensure the certificate is recognised across all 27 EU member states, final details have to be worked out involving capitals, the European Commission and the parliament.

The first change MEPs have called for to a commission proposal is the name. Instead of a “digital green certificate” they want to call it an “EU Covid-19 certificate” — to avoid any implication of it becoming a “vaccine passport”.

They said the document should “neither serve as travel document nor become a precondition to exercise the right to free movement” and should only be in use for 12 months.

Stressing that the certificate should not result in discrimination, parliament demanded that Covid-19 tests for travel should be free of charge. The commission has said that this issue should be left up to member states.

The parliament’s negotiation position was announced on Thursday following a vote late Wednesday, with 540 MEPs in favour, 119 against, and 31 abstentions. — AFP from Covid-19 have risen sharply throughout India to record levels. Covid-19 testing infrastructure is reportedly constrained in many locations,” the mission said in a statement.

A record single-day rise of 3,79,257 Covid-19 infections, 3,645 fatalities on Thursday pushed India’s tally of cases to 1,83,76,524, death toll to 2,04,832.

“Hospitals are reporting shortages of supplies, oxygen, and beds for both Covid-19 and non-Covid-19 related patients. US citizens are reporting being denied admittance to hospitals in some cities due to a lack of space. Some states have enacted curfews and other restrictions that limit movement and the operation of non-essential businesses,” it said. — PTI

Moderna eyes 3 bn vax shots in 2022

Paris, April 29: US pharmaceutical firm Moderna said on Thursday it expects to increase global production of its cutting-edge Covid vaccine to up to three billion doses in 2022.

The company said in a statement that it would make new funding commitments to increase supply at its manufacturing facilities in Europe and the United States.

The investments will double the manufacturing of drug substance at its Swiss partner Lonza and more than double output by Rovi in Spain. Production at Moderna’s US facilities would increase by 50 percent. “As we follow the rapid spread of SARS-CoV-2 variants of concern, we believe that there will continue to be significant need for our mRNA Covid-19 vaccine and our variant booster candidates into 2022 and 2023,” chief executive Stephane Bancel said in the statement.

INDIA TELLS UN IT WAS DIFFICULT BUT DID VAX JOB

United Nations, April 29: India, despite severe constraints and within its own limited resources, has tried to “walk the talk” on vaccine equity and shared Covid-19 vaccines with more than 80 countries, the country told the United Nations.

The UN Department of Global Communications (DGC), which spreads awareness around the world about the work the UN does, has actively encouraged further sharing of vaccine doses from all countries, Counsellor in India’s Permanent Mission to the United Nations A. Amarnath said in the General Assembly’s 43rd Session of Committee on Information.

India urged the Department to also “suitably highlight the efforts of Member States, international organisations, and vaccine producers, who have already done so, especially with those who need it most.” — PTI

Air pollutants in India sees a rise

Birmingham, April 29: Levels of air pollutants in cities in India are on the rise, according to scientists using observations from instruments on satellites that scan the global skies every day.

Researchers used a long record of data gathered by space-based instruments to estimate trends in a range of air pollutants for 2005 to 2018, timed to coincide with well-established air quality policies in the UK and rapid development in India.

The study was led by the University of Birmingham and UCL and included an international team of contributors from Belgium, India, Jamaica and the UK. The researchers published their findings in the journal Atmospheric Chemistry and Physics, noting that fine particles (PM2.5) and nitrogen dioxide (NO2), both hazardous to health, are increasing in Kanpur and Delhi.

Delhi is a fast-growing megacity and Kanpur was ranked by the WHO in 2018 as the most polluted city in the world.

This contrasts with trends in the UK cities London and Birmingham, which show modest but ongoing declines in PM2.5 and NOx, reflecting the success of policies targeting sources that emit these pollutants. — PTI

Concessions beyond nuclear-specific sanctions may be halted

US may rollback Iran sanctions

Washington, April 29: The Biden administration is considering a near wholesale rollback of some of the most stringent Trump-era sanctions imposed on Iran in a bid to get the Islamic Republic to return to compliance with a landmark 2015 nuclear accord, according to current and former US officials and others familiar with the matter.

As indirect talks continue this week in Vienna to explore the possibility of reviving the nuclear deal, American officials have become increasingly expansive about what they might be prepared to offer Iran, which has been driving a hard line on sanctions relief, demanding that all US penalties be removed, according to these people.

American officials have refused to discuss which sanctions are being considered for removal. But they have said they are open to lifting any sanctions that are inconsistent with the nuclear deal or that deny Iran the relief it would be entitled to should it return to compliance with the accord.

Because of the complex nature of the sanctions architecture, that could include non-nuclear sanctions, such as those tied to terrorism, missile development and human rights

Biden administration officials say this is necessary because of what they describe as a deliberate attempt by the Trump administration to stymie any return to the deal. Under the 2015 agreement, the United States was required to lift sanctions tied to Iran’s nuclear program, but not non-nuclear sanctions.

Administration officials deny they will remove all non-nuclear sanctions, but have declined to identify those which they believe Trump improperly imposed on terrorism and other grounds.

“Any return to the JCPOA would require sanctions relief, but we are considering removing only those sanctions that are inconsistent with the JCPOA,” said State Department spokesman Ned Price. “Even if we rejoin the JCPOA — which remains a hypothetical — we would retain and continue to implement sanctions on Iran for activities not covered by the JCPOA, including Iran’s missile proliferation, support for terrorism, and human rights abuses.”

When President Donald Trump re-imposed sanctions after withdrawing from the deal in 2018, he not only put the nuclear sanctions back in but also added layers of terrorism and other sanctions on many of the same entities. In addition, the Trump administration imposed an array of new sanctions on previously unsanctioned entities.

This has put the current administration in an awkward position: Iran is demanding the removal of all sanctions.

If the US doesn’t lift at least some of them, Iran says it won’t agree to halt its nuclear activities barred by the deal known as the Joint Comprehensive Plan of Action, or JCPOA.

But if the Biden administration makes concessions that go beyond the nuclear-specific sanctions, Republican critics and others, including Israel and Gulf Arab states, are likely to seize on them as proof that the administration is caving to Iran. Former Secretary of State Mike Pompeo has led the charge among Trump alumni to denounce any easing of sanctions. — AP

Umpire, referee pull out of IPL

New Delhi: India's top umpire Nitin Menon has pulled out of the ongoing IPL after his family was struck by a couple of Covid-19 cases, while his Australian counterpart Paul Reiffel's attempts at leaving hit a dead end because of his country's suspension of air travel with India. It is learnt that Menon, a resident of Indore, has left the IPL bio-bubble after his wife and mother tested positive for Covid-19. Match referee Manu Nayyar too has left the bio-bubble in Ahmedabad following the death of his mother on Wednesday night. In Reiffel's case, the Australian government's imposition of a travel ban on flights to and from India in the wake of the rising COVID-19 cases here led to him being unable to leave the bubble after initial information suggested that he has made the move. — PTI

QUINTESSENCE

Sublime De Kock's unbeaten 70 brings Mumbai back to winning ways

New Delhi, April 29: O opener Quinton de Kock roared back to form with a blistering 50-ball 70 as Mumbai Indians beat Rajasthan Royals by seven wickets in their IPL game here on Thursday.

Put in to bat, Rajasthan rode on 42 by skipper Sanju Samson and Jos Buttler's 41 to post a competitive 171 for four but their efforts was overshadowed by de Kock, who struck six fours and two maximums to complete the task in 18.3 overs at the Arun Jaitley Stadium. Krunal Pandya also played a useful cameo, smashing 39 off 26 balls with the help of two fours and as many sixes.

Mumbai openers Rohit Sharma (14) and de Kock put up 49 for the first wicket. The South African fetched his first boundary, a cover drive, and then launched into left-arm pacer Mustafizur Rahman (1/37) for a four and a maximum. While Rohit played his trademark pull-shot to get a six in the fifth over.

De Kock hammered Chris Morris (2/33) for another maximum but Rohit perished in the sixth over, giving a dolly to Chetan Sakariya at mid-on.

Leg-spinner Rahul Tewatia (0/30) conceded three boundaries in the seventh over, two by Suryakumar Yadav (16; 3x4) and one by de Kock, as Mumbai got 14 runs.

However, Morris brought back Rajasthan by removing Surya, as Mumbai slipped to 83/2. Krunal joined de Kock, who completed his half-century in 35 balls and then got a life. De Kock and Krunal added 63 runs for the third wicket and brought the side closer to a win. — PTI

PUNJAB HAVE TASK CUT OUT AGAINST RCB

Ahmedabad, April 29: Punjab Kings will have to play out of their skins to get their stuttering campaign back on track when they face a high-flying Royal Challengers Bangalore in the Indian Premier League here on Friday.

Smarting from a five-wicket defeat at the hands of Kolkata Knight Riders, it will not be an easy task for a struggling Punjab side to stand up to the challenge thrown by a RCB team, which has been firing on all cylinders.

Following four losses and two wins, Punjab are currently placed sixth in the league table with four points, whereas RCB are second with 10 points from five wins, only behind Chennai Super Kings on net run rate.

Apart from the sole loss against CSK, RCB have emerged as strong contenders for a maiden IPL title, with many of their players striking form as the tournament progresses. In their six games, the K.L. Rahul-led side have gone on to make the three low totals batting first — 106, 120 and 123. — PTI

VALLADOLID HOLD BILBAO TO STAY SAFE

Madrid, April 29: Valladolid twice came from behind to draw 2-2 with Athletic Bilbao and climb out of the Spanish league's relegation zone.

Shon Weissman scored an 85th-minute equaliser to give the visitors the point that lifted them to 17th place with five rounds left.

Valladolid are tied on 30 points with 18th-place Elche but are ahead on goal difference.

Athletic took the lead through Jon Morcillo in the 14th before Fabián Orellana levelled the match in the 70th and Raúl García put the hosts ahead again in the 76th.

The draw extended Valladolid's winless streak in the league to seven matches.

Athletic were looking to keep the momentum from a win over leaders Atlético Madrid on Sunday. They sit in ninth place and still have an outside chance of qualifying for the Europa League.

The match was originally scheduled to be played two weeks ago. It was postponed because of Athletic's participation in the Copa del Rey final.

Mahrez magic lifts Man City past PSG

Paris, April 29: Manchester City are in pole position to reach the Champions League final after coming from behind to beat Paris Saint-Germain 2-1 away in the first leg of their blockbuster semi-final on Wednesday, with Riyad Mahrez curling in the winner from a free-kick.

Marquinhos had powered in a header to give PSG an early lead and the deserved advantage at half-time at the Parc des Princes.

However, City skipper Kevin De Bruyne's cross dropped in to pull City level just after the hour and Mahrez beat Keylor Navas from a 71st-minute free-kick to complete the turnaround, giving Pep Guardiola's side the advantage going into next Tuesday's return in Manchester.

"The last 10 minutes of the first half was good and the second half was excellent in every department. We scored two goals away which is so important, but we have a hard job to do in six days," Guardiola told BT Sport.

"In general, so satisfied for the performance but it is halfway. We still have 90 more minutes to beat them and PSG is a team where anything can happen."

After starting so well, PSG lost their way after half-time and had Idrissa Gana Gueye sent off in the 77th minute as a shocking tackle on Ilkay Gundogan earned the midfielder a straight red card.

Having already failed to win at home to Manchester United, Barcelona and Bayern in this season's Champions League, the Parisians face an uphill struggle in England if they are to reach the final for the second year running. It is, then, first blood to Emirati-backed City against Qatar-owned PSG in a tie that is also a battle of competing nations. "We conceded two stupid goals," Marquinhos admitted to broadcaster RMC Sport.

Of the return leg, he added: "There is no point in us going there if we don't believe we can turn it around."

After all the money pumped in by their owners from Abu Dhabi, City are eyeing a first ever Champions League final, and this was their first appearance in the semi-finals since 2016, when they defeated PSG in the last eight.

However, PSG can still be optimistic about their prospects after sensational away performances against Barcelona and Bayern in the last two rounds. PSG coach Mauricio Pochettino is hoping to once again get the better of Guardiola, just as he did when his Tottenham side beat City in the quarter-finals in 2019. — AFP

Ahmedabad, April 29: Prithvi Shaw's quickfire 82 off just 41 balls helped Delhi Capitals eased past Kolkata Knight Riders by seven wickets in their Indian Premier League match here on Thursday. DC chased down the target in 16.3 overs.

The 21-year-old Shaw smashed 11 fours and three sixes during his blazing knock. He was well-supported by experienced Shikhar Dhawan (46 off 47 balls) and shared 142 run for the first wicket.

Pat Cummins was pick of the bowler for the losing side as he took 3/24.

Asked to bat first, Kolkata Knight Riders made 154 for six against the in-form team from Delhi.

FC GOA COACH, FOREIGN STAFF LEAVE INDIA

Margao, April 29: Indian Super League side FC Goa on Thursday allowed their foreign staffers, including Spanish head coach Juan Ferrando and some footballers, to leave the country ahead of their last AFC Champions League match in view of the restrictions imposed on flights from India.

As India grapples with the second wave of the Covid-19 pandemic, several countries, including Australia, Italy and Germany, have imposed travel bans on India.

The club said that it was a "pre-emptive measure in view of recent policies being taken by European and other countries in regards to travellers from India".

"FC Goa would like to inform that the club's foreign contingent including the Head Coach and foreign staff have been advised to travel back home immediately," a club statement read.

"This comes as a pre-emptive measure in view of recent policies being taken by European and other countries in regards to travellers from India as the nation battles the second wave of Covid-19 which has engulfed the country," it added. — PTI

S. KOREA INOCULATES TOKYO-BOUND ATHLETES

Seoul, April 29: South Korea began administering fast-track Covid-19 vaccines on Thursday to athletes, coaches and others expected to attend the Tokyo Olympics.

The Korean Sport and Olympic Committee said the first group of about 100 people received the first doses at a state-run hospital in Seoul at the start of the country's prioritized vaccination program for its Olympic delegation. They will be given second shots in the coming weeks.

A total of 930 athletes, coaches, officials and other support staff will be vaccinated ahead of the Tokyo Games, which is set to open on July 23. Athletes can receive the vaccines if they have already qualified for the Olympics or are in qualifying tournaments, so some may get vaccinated but not attend the games. — AP
