VIJAYAWADA, JUNE 11

Nearly 6.6 km stretch diversion of Godavari river from its main course through Polavaram irrigation project’s spillway to supply water mainly for cultivation of crops in kharif season in Godavari delta region, has been ceremoniously commissioned by performing Bhoomi Puja by the water resources authorities at Polavaram in West Godavari on Friday.

Minister for water resources Dr P. Anil Kumar has taken part in the programme virtually from the city.

Participating in the programme at the project site, water resources engineer-in-chief Narayana Reddy stated that with the direction from the Chief Minister Y.S. Jagan Mohan Reddy and cooperation from the Centre, they could take up diversion of Godavari river through spillway having 42 crest gates to lift them and facilitate flow of nearly 10 cusecs of water at present.

He said that they had made arrangements even not to take the natural flow with flood of 24 lakh cusecs as nearly 3,000 project affected families had already been evacuated from the vulnerable areas.

He also said that they were trying to keep the Godavri river under their control to meet the requirements for mainly cultivation of crops and for drinking water needs of the people and added that the water could be moved by project gravity for the ensuing kharif season to the command area without any need for a demarcation and sounded confident to complete the execution of the Polavaram project by December, 2022.

US ignores Covaxin’s largescale use in India, seeks more data

FDA’s prejudice against Indian vax

DC CORRESPONDENT
HYDERABAD, JUNE 11

In what is seen as an instance of the West denying “due recognition” to Indian technological prowess, the US Food and Drug Administration (FDA) has refused to allow Indian vaccine-maker Bharat Biotech to sell its Covid-19 vaccine there.

The grant of an “emergency approval use” (EAU) would have allowed the Hyderabad-based firm to sell Covaxin in the US with immediate effect.

The FDA, however, recommended Bharat Biotech’s American partner, Ocugen, to submit a biologicals licence application or take the full approval route with additional data. Ocugen said in an official release on Friday that this may delay the launch of Covaxin in the US.

Explaining the process of granting an EUA on its website, FDA said that it “may allow use of unapproved medical products, or unapproved uses of approved medical products in an emergency to diagnose, treat, or prevent serious or life-threatening diseases or conditions when certain statutory criteria have been met, including that there are no adequate, approved, and available alternatives.”

Under this process, the FDA has granted emergency authorization to vaccines of Pfizer-BioNTech, Moderna and Janssen. However, none of these has proven its efficacy for the highly transmissible Delta variant that was initially found in India and spread to many other countries.

Though the FDA cites the unavailability of alternatives as a criteria for granting emergency approval, it turned a blind eye to the fact that Covaxin has been proven to be effective against the Delta variant.

The FDA’s move shows the distrust that the US harbours for Indian products, especially those in the field of cutting-edge technology.

Covaxin has been administered to millions of people in India and it was given approval for emergency use in 14 countries. “No vaccine manufactured or developed from India has ever received EUA or full licensure from USFDA. When approved, it will be a great leap forward for vaccine innovation and manufacturing from India,” Bharat Biotech said in its statement.

Covaxin is also facing prejudice at the top global health entity dominated by the West: The World Health Organisation (WHO). The global health body has not yet included Covaxin in the list of the vaccines that are approved for international travel.

KOLKATA, JUNE 11

Dealing a severe blow to his party a month after its whitewash in the West Bengal Assembly elections, BJP national vice-president Mukul Roy along with his son Shubhrangshu Roy quit the party and returned to his Trinamul Congress roots in a grand welcome by its supreme Mamata Bane-rjee.

The newly elected Krishnanagar North MLA’s defection to the state’s ruling TMC, which has reduced the BJP to 74

MLAs in the House, came after he did not get the Leader of the Opposition post that went to Nandigram MLA Suwendu Adhikari. Even a recent call from Prime Minister Narendra Modi inquiring about his ailing wife Krishna failed to stop Mr Roy from maintaining his distance from the BJP.

Mr Roy, who switched to the BJP from the TMC in November 2017 and engineered defections later, visited Trinamul Bhavan, the party’s headquarters off Eastern Metropolitan Bypass, from his home in Salt Lake on Friday.

VIJAYAWADA, JUNE 11

In a major development, YSRC Congress has sought disqualification of its rebel MP K. Raghu Ramakrishna Raju. YSRC chief whip in Lok Sabha Margani Bharat on Friday submitted a petition to Lok Sabha Speaker Om Birla seeking disqualification of Krishnam Raju for "anti-party activities".

Krishnam Raju had been elected as MP from Narsapuram constituency on YSRC ticket. This is the second time that YSRC Congress has given a petition seeking cancellation of Narsapuram MP's membership of parliament.

The petition pointed out that though elected on YSRC ticket, Krishnam Raju has been working against the party's interests. On this ground, the YSRC chief whip sought that his membership of parliament is cancelled.

MP Bharat said the party had submitted evidence to the Lok Sabha Speaker in the past over the remarks made by Krishnam Raju against YSRC and his anti-party activities. The chief whip had also appealed to the Speaker for disqualification of Narsapuram MP on several occasions.

Jagan pleads AP's case with Centre on pending issues, funds

DC CORRESPONDENT
VIJAYAWADA, JUNE 11

Ending his two-day Delhi trip during which he discussed the issues of Andhra Pradesh with several Union ministers, Chief Minister Jagan Mohan Reddy returned to his home in Tadepalli on Friday evening.

Ruling YSRC sources said the party is happy over the success of Jagan's Delhi tour and is hoping to get the state's dues from the Centre without any hitch.

The CM met home minister Amit Shah last night and held discussions on decentralised development and the plea for Special Category Status (SCS) for AP, among other issues. He has pleaded for sanction of 13 medical colleges and financial assistance to them. He also requested the central leadership to release the pending dues of ₹4,652.70 crore and an enhancement of the annual person days for work per family from 100 to 150 days by rural development ministry.

Jagan also sought early release of arrears of ₹529.95 crore towards rural local body grants related to the 14th finance commission and ₹497 crore for fiscal 2020-21 in relation to the 15th finance commission recommendations.

The chief minister also requested the central leaders to give assent to the Andhra Pradesh DISHA bills and the Andhra Pradesh land titling authority bill 2020. He also pleaded for the establishment of the central tribal university within the tribal sub plan area.

During the CM's discussions with Jal Shakti minister Gajendra Singh Shekhawat regarding the Polavaram project, the CM reiterated the need to complete the project on time and sought approval for investment clearance for ₹55,656.87 crore as recommended by PPA & central water commission and accepted by the technical advisory committee.

Jagan urged the Centre to reimburse the amount regarding the land acquisition and R&R compensation for project-affected families therein as per their right under the fair compensation & transparency in land acquisition, rehabilitation & resettlement act, 2013.

The CM reiterated the need for shifting of headquarters of PPA from Hyderabad to Rajamahendravaram.

Jagan Mohan Reddy also called on Niti Aayog vice chairman Dr Rajiv Kumar at Niti Aayog office and discussed with the concerned ministers to reimburse the cost for development of infrastructure in the newly formed colonies as a part of assistance given to the state governments under the PMAY programme.

The CM met the minister of steels Dharmendra Pradhan on Friday and reiterated the plea to not privatize the Visakhapatnam Steel Plant. He said the members had already been nominated for the working group on behalf of the state government to discuss the project modalities and asked the Centre to issue immediate directions to start the project.

Responding to the Chief Minister, Pradhan said that a petro complex would definitely be set up in Andhra Pradesh and he was also positive about the VGF. He told the Chief Minister that a meeting would be scheduled next week with the Chief Secretary and the officials of the petroleum department to finalise the procedures.

The Chief Minister said 32 people had laid down their lives to set up the steel plant in Visakhapatnam, where nearly 20,000 people were employed and thousands more were having indirect employment.

Further, the Chief Minister explained that the VSP performed well and made profits between 2002-2015. The plant had gone through an expansion by taking loans, but due to the slump in international market during 2014-15, the organisation fell into debts with the increasing operational costs and lack of own mines.

He explained that in fact, the VSP had achieved the highest ever capacity utilisation of 6.3 MTPA against the installed capacity of 7.3 MTPA and started making a monthly profit of close to ₹200 crore. Continuing this performance for a further period of two years would result in improving the financial situation, he said adding that the Plant

Jagan Mohan Reddy said, "Currently, RINL is purchasing iron ore from NMDC Bailadila mines at a market price of around ₹5,260 per MT of steel. Many of its competitors have captive mines for over 60 per cent of their requirement and buy only the rest from NMDC. Even SAIL has its own captive mines with reserves of iron ore sufficient for 200 years. This excess cost of iron ore has cost implications of more than ₹3,472 crore for the plant and it is essential to have an allotment of captive mines in order to overcome the cost disadvantage."

The Chief Minister requested the Centre to allot the captive mine in Odisha which would help in reviving the VSP.

Besides these, Jagan Mohan Reddy suggested other possibilities in restructuring the finances of the VSP, where all the short-term and long-term loans could be converted into equity, easing the burden. He said,

"The plant has a debt of ₹22,000 crore which is being serviced at interest rates as high as 14 per cent. Conversion of these loans into equity and listing the entity on the stock exchange would remove the interest burden totally, where the banks would also encash through the stock exchange.

VSP has supplied over 7,000 MT of oxygen during the second wave of Covid-19, saving lives of people in hard times and the state is ready to work with the relevant Central departments to protect this company."

ELECTROCUTIONDC CORRESPONDENT
TIRUPATI, JUNE 11

It seems there is no end in sight to the human-animal conflict with yet another prized pachyderm losing its life in the western part of Chittoor district. A female elephant aged about six years was electrocuted in the fields at Kothigutta village in Palamaner mandal around 11.30 pm on Thursday as an electric pole fell on it.

The deceased calf was part of a herd numbering up to 15-16 that was moving around the farmlands and destroying crops in several villages abutting the Koundinya wildlife in Palamaner mandal for the past few weeks.

“On Thursday night, the villagers tried to drive back the herd into the forest and managed to send away nearly 12 elephants. Few, however, stayed put on the farm land and were eating the mango crop. When two calves were having a tussle, one of them accidentally came in contact with an electric pole, which fell on this 5-6 years-old calf,” said S. Ravi Shankar, DFO, Chittoor (West).

On receipt of news, the forest officials rushed to the village and recovered the carcass on Friday morning. As it was difficult to carry it to veterinary hospital, they conducted an autopsy on the spot. Later, they carried out Sava Panchanama and buried it in the nearby forest. The villagers also performed puja to the deceased elephant.

Taking cue from Bonigi Anandaiah of Krishnapatnam in Nellore district, some people have taken to preparing herbal mixture, taking expert advice of Ayurvedic doctors. They are distributing it to the needy free of cost.

The approval given by the state government for Anandaiah's potion seems to have triggered public interest in Ayurvedic herbal formulations, as many patients are succumbing to Covid-19 even after spending lakhs of rupees on allopathic treatment in private and corporate hospitals.

In general, people repose faith in Ayurvedic immune boosters. Even in villages like Anaparthi, some people prepare Ayurvedic herbal preparations for free distribution to boost immunity. They claim that these formulations, much like Anandaiah's preparation, would prevent Covid-19 and would also help in recovery of Covid patients. However, no expert has so far certified the efficacy of these formulations.

With plants and herbs being in abundance in East Godavari district, local traditional medicine practitioners are preparing some potions. Many are already distributing these to the people. In Anaparthi village, a paddy trader Nallamilli Ramachandra Reddy is making use of two Ayurvedic experts in preparing a herbal mix. He supplies 20 varieties of herbs to them and the mixture is being prepared under a 400-year-old banyan tree at Anaparthi. He is distributing the preparation through volunteers in several villages in Anaparthi constituency. Local MLA Dr Sathi Suryanarayana Reddy is extending his support to its distribution in villages.

“People need not come to Anaparthi to get the medicine as I am sending it to all villages and it is being distributed through volunteers appointed by the government,” said Ramachandra Reddy. He said that nearly 20,000 doses of his mixture are being prepared every day. After checking the response of the people who have consumed it, the number of doses will be increased to one lakh per day and it will be distributed throughout the district. He said he does not bother about the funds. “We spent ₹25 lakh to save my relative who suffered from Covid-19 in a private hospital. But the relative succumbed to Covid. When we were in a grief mood, Anandaiah's episode came out to the society and I consulted a traditional Guru in Dwarapudi village and he directed two Ayurvedic medicine experts Dr Manikanta Swamy and one more to prepare the medicine. Now we are happy to give such immune boosters to the people free of cost and we want to help for a healthy society,” he said.

Ramachandra Reddy also said that there was no negative feedback so far.

Realty reels as there are no takers for low-cost flats

K.M.P. PATNAIK | DC
VISAKHAPATNAM, JUNE 11

Real estate sector, particularly construction activity, was hit hard by the second wave of Covid-19 in Visakhapatnam city that is poised to be the executive capital of Andhra Pradesh.

Builders said around 10,000 flats from Gajuwaka on the south to Madhuravada in the northern city remained unsold since the beginning of the year. Of the unsold flats, 40 per cent are completed and are being given final touches. “There are not even any enquiries for the affordable houses which were built in Anandapuram, Bhimili and Madhuravada region last year,” said

● Builders in the proposed executive capital are hit hard and unemployment plagues the sector. They seek sops from govt to regain a strong footing the chairman of Vizag chapter of the Confederation of Real Estate Developer's Associations of India (Credai), B Srinivas.

The Credai local chapter chairman said the builders fixed ₹3,500 per sqft in Gajuwaka, ₹4,500 in Madhuravada and Yendada, yet there are no takers.

In contrast, in the prime localities like East Point Colony, Dasappa Hills and RK Beach, flats are going at ₹10,000 sq ft. There are not many ventures planned in these localities.

Lok Sabha member M.V.V. Satyanarayana noted should the pandemic continue to be on the wane, consumers are likely to be purchasing flats.

On the plans for new ventures, Srinivas said builders are apprehensive as construction costs are going up every day. Steel prices are jacked up by ₹5,000 since March and a tonne is being sold for ₹55,000. Similarly, cement is being sold for ₹400 a bag. Its cost went up by ₹100 per bag in April this year. In addition to the price hike in materials, the builders are facing a shortage of skilled manpower, restrictions on working hours and other uncertainties.

A low-cost housing builder B.K. Murthy said many people were not making a second enquiry as the second wave of pandemic is putting a severe strain on family budgets due to hard times and crippling hospitalisations. They would take some time to recoup before thinking of owning their homes, he added.

Srinivas said the government should offer some succor to the builders by reducing stamp duty as is being done in some states, revise GST and offer subsidy on steel and cement.

“More than our money, we are also concerned about the unemployment slump has caused. Out of 30,000 construction workers, only 5,000 are employed now,” Srinivas said.

TWO ARRESTEDDC CORRESPONDENT
VISAKHAPATNAM, JUNE 11

The Vizianagaram police has busted a car rental racket and arrested two members of a gang involved in cheating people. The police recovered 29 cars worth over ₹2 crore and arrested two members of the gang.

The arrested were M. Chandramouli, a native of Parvathipuram in Vizianagaram district and L. Siva Ramakrishna, a resident of Seethampeta in Srikakulam district. Cops launched a manhunt for the absconding accused, S. Ravi, a native of Bobbili town in Vizianagaram district.

The gang targeted car owners in need of money and offer them monthly income of ₹25,000 or more as rent on their car. Worried over the EMIs and vehicle maintenance, several such individuals fell for the offer.

Vizianagaram SP Raja Kumari said complainant P. Rajesh of Srikakulam district filed an FIR on May 29, saying Chandramouli had promised him a monthly income of ₹29,000 by way of rent for his car. Chandramouli and Siva Ramakrishna took away his car after signing an agreement. They neither gave him money nor returned his car. Later, Rajesh came to know that the two men mortgaged the car.

The Parvathipuram police investigated the case and arrested Chandramouli. Police found that Chandramouli along with two others used to hire cars in Vizianagaram, Vizag and Srikakulam districts, by paying a little advance. They used to extend the hire period.

Upon the interrogation, Chandramouli said they had so far mortgaged 29 rented cars to various persons by taking loans of ₹2 lakh to ₹2.5 lakh. The gang pledged the rented cars for easy money to indulge in their vices and other expenses, the SP said. The owners of the cars claimed 23 cars which were seized from the gang. The police said no one came forward to claim the remaining six.

The Supreme Court on Friday agreed to order the dropping of criminal proceedings against two Italian marines accused of killing two Indian fishermen off Kerala coast in 2012, after court was informed that ₹10 crore compensation for the families of victims have been deposited with the court registry.

The Italian marines Chief Master Sergeant Massimiliano Latorre and Sergeant Major Salvatore Gironi, on board Italian-flagged oil tanker M V Enrica Lexie, had killed two Kerala fishermen who were on a fishing vessel in India's Exclusive Economic Zone (EEZ), allegedly suspecting them to be sea pirates.

On the question of disbursement of money to the families of victims, the court indicated that it may ask Kerala High Court to deal with it as it can monitor the aspect of disbursement of the compensation to the families of the victims.

BJP leaders call Mukul Roy 'Mir Jafar, opportunist'

RAJIB CHOWDHURI | DC
KOLKATA, JUNE 11

The Bharatiya Janata Party, shattered by its national vice president Mukul Roy's exit and his return to the Trinamul Congress, has become a divided house in West Bengal with a blame game between two camps amid a fierce internal revolt since its poll debacle in the state.

While one section slammed the party leadership for inducting Mir Jafars like Roy without any judgment ahead of elections, senior leaders alleged their rivals of having "no contribution" while downplaying the newly elected Krishnanagar North MLA's defection as a "personal choice."

Bishnupur BJP MP Saumitra Khan alleged, "We saw Mir Jafar in Bengal before independence. But now we are seeing them in politics. This type of people are never accepted. Had he been Chanakya in politics, he could have succeeded in ensuring the victory for his son Shubhrangshu from Bijpur Assembly seat this time. But he failed. Mir Jafar can not do anything good. His party colleague Anupam Hazra posted on Facebook, "A pathetic outcome of extra jubilation over one or two leaders during election and sidelining and insulting the efficient through lobbying!! Now the Royal Passengers of Chartered flights are also missing!!! Still time is there, the Bengal BJP should stop lobbying and engage the efficient leaders who are sidelined!!!"

State BJP president Dilip Ghosh, however, said, "Those who have no contribution in the rise of our party here are feeling sad. If someone fails to sing in the party's tune, it is his personal problem, not of the party. Anyone can go anywhere. It is his personal wish. I do not know if there was hardly any gain for us when he was there. Our party remains intact."

Darjeeling BJP MP Raju Bista said, "Mukul Roy is a senior and a seasoned politician, and his joining TMC is a reflection of his personal choice. The beauty of democracy is that people are free to choose. But sadly, today this freedom to choose does not exist in West Bengal. BJP is making space for democracy to foster again in Bengal and as the 2021 elections showed, BJP has grown stronger in the grassroots level in West Bengal and this momentum will continue unabated."

Former MLA Shilbhadra Dutta, who defected to the BJP before the polls, said, "This is a personal choice. He did whatever he thought was best. I have nothing to say. But people develop a hatred towards politics when they see repeated switches by someone."

SC raps Param Bir for having no faith in cops

DC CORRESPONDENT
NEW DELHI, JUNE 11

The Supreme Court on Friday described as "shocking" the former Mumbai police commissioner Param Bir Singh saying that he had no confidence in the Maharashtra police with which he has been associated for over three decades as IPS officer, as it declined to entertain his plea for the transfer of all the criminal cases registered against him in Maharashtra to CBI or an independent agency.

Apparently intrigued over Param Bir Singh showing lack of faith in Maharashtra police in which he grew up to become the top cop of Mumbai police, the court observed that those living in glass houses should not throw stones on others.

Describing as "shocking" Param Bir Singh's plea that he was seeking the transfer of all the criminal cases to CBI or an independent agency because of his lack of trust in the Maharashtra police, a bench comprising Justice Hemant Gupta and Justice V. Ramasubramanian said, "It is very surprising. You were part of Maharashtra IPS cadre for 30 years and served it. Now you are saying you do not have faith in that system. It is a shocking ... shocking allegation."

Reminding Param Bir Singh that he was alleging lack of trust in a police force of which he was part for 30 years, the court observed, "It is said persons living in glass houses shouldn't throw stones at other."

"Your Lordships are assuming I am living in glass houses," senior counsel Mahesh Jethmalani appearing for Param Bir Singh said responding to the observation from the bench.

At the outset of the hearing, the court told Singh that it can't pass a blanket order in respect of all the FIRs registered against him and asked him to approach Bombay High Court or any other appropriate forum.

Prashant Kishor's meeting with Pawar sets off speculations

MUMBAI, JUNE 11

Well-known political strategist Prashant Kishor on Friday met Nationalist Congress Party (NCP) chief Sharad Pawar at the latter's residence Silver Oak in South Mumbai. Though the NCP maintained that the meeting was a thanksgiving trip related to the Bengal and Tamil Nadu election, there are speculations that non-Congress opposition parties are trying to put up a joint fight against the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) and credible leader against Prime Minister Narendra Modi. The Shiv Sena has been openly proposing Pawar as the opposition leader.

Kishor held talks with the NCP chief and party leaders for three and half hours. The meeting between Pawar and Kishor assumes 'political significance' as it is believed the NCP chief wants a united forum of Opposition parties to take on the ruling BJP in the next Lok Sabha election, which is scheduled in 2024.

A senior NCP leader, requesting anonymity, said that Kishor had apprised the NCP chief about the current political situation with the facts and figures.

He also gave a suggestion on how to unite the opposition parties in the country. Apart from the NCP chief, the meeting was also attended by Baramati MP Supriya Sule, Maharashtra NCP president Jayant Patil and MLA Rohit Pawar.

Speaking with this newspaper on Friday, Maharashtra Cabinet minister and NCP national spokesperson Nawab Malik said that the current political situation in the country was discussed in the meet-

Senior NCP leader and Cabinet minister Chhagan Bhujbal said that Prashant Kishor, who is a successful election strategist, has helped various parties win the elections at the centre and states with his suggestion and strategies.

"But I don't know the exact reason behind the meeting but if he comes with a suggestion, Pawar will certainly consider it," he added.

Shiv Sena spokesperson Arvind Sawant welcomed the meeting and said, "At present, polarisation is needed in the country. If democracy needs to be preserved, a strong opposition is needed."

In March 2021, the Sena had said that there is a need to restructure the UPA, and the new alliance should be led by a senior leader like Sharad Pawar as many regional parties are not ready to work under the leadership of the Congress. According to the Sena, if UPA is restructured, more parties will join the alliance.

to saving the precious lives of people, however mandate all shops and business establishments to provide hand sanitizer with dispenser at the entrance, thermal screening of body temperature and ensuring that all workers wore face masks and so on.

No shop can have the air conditioner on and should restrict the entry of customers with a view to maintaining social distancing, which should also be maintained as they waited outside to enter the premises by marking spots.

Among other activities allowed in the 27 districts with low infection rates are Parks and playgrounds to open for morning walking between 6 am and 9 am, shops repairing agricultural accessories and pump sets (not those doing sales) from 9 am to 5 pm, opticians, both selling and repairing spectacles, from 9 am to 2 pm and potters and handicraft makers and sellers between 6 am to 5 pm.

Will continue as CM for next two years:Yediyurappa

Hassan (K'taka), June 11: BJP national general secretary Arun Singh's statement ruling out his replacement has given him "more strength", Karnataka Chief Minister B.S. Yediyurappa said on Friday and asserted that he will work for the development of the state during the remaining two years of the term.

The 78-year-old Lingayat strongman also said his responsibility has increased because of the trust shown in him by the BJP high command. "Arun Singh who is Karnataka in-charge has said that there is no question (of leadership change)... it doesn't arise and that Yediyurappa will remain (CM) for the next two years and complete the term — where does that question arise," Yediyurappa said in response to a question.

Speaking to reporters after a review meeting with officials and public representatives from the district, he said, "it has been clarified that Yediyurappa will continue for the remaining two years and with the cooperation of everyone I will focus on development and tour across the state, and will make honest efforts to do a good job."

Amid speculation about leadership change in Karnataka, Singh, who is BJP's national general secretary in-charge of the state, on Thursday had ruled out replacing the Chief Minister and asserted that Yediyurappa will continue in the top post.

Yediyurappa in response to a question said that Singh's statement has given him "more strength".

"Hundred per cent, when our Karnataka in-charge has said there is no change for the remaining two years and good work is happening under my leadership, my responsibility has increased. I will put more effort and honestly work for the next two years, and try to live up to the trust shown in me by PM Narendra Modi and Amit Shah (Union home minister)," he added.

Speculation has been rife for some time now that efforts were on, by a section of the ruling BJP to exert pressure for unseating Yediyurappa. Some BJP legislators are said to be pushing for convening a legislature party meeting, citing some decisions taken by the government, its functioning, handling of the Covid crisis and alleged instances of corruption, among others.

SUPERMARKET

Royal Palm Beach, Fla.: A man fatally shot a grandmother and her 1-year-old grandson inside a Florida supermarket before killing himself, authorities said, causing dozens to flee the store in panic.

The shooting happened shortly after 11:30 am on Thursday at a Publix located in a strip mall that also houses small shops and restaurants.

Authorities initially said the shooter and the victims may have known each other. A later update from the Palm Beach County Sheriff's Office said there was no known motive or relationship between the suspect and the victims, but detectives were still investigating.

The sheriff's office identified the suspect as Timothy J. Wall, 55, of Royal Palm Beach.

The names of the grandmother and her grandson won't be released. Their family invoked Marsy's Law, the sheriff's office said, which allows victims of crimes to block information that could be used to locate or harass them or their families from being made public.

INDONESIA
OFFERS HOPE

Jakarta: Dengue fever infections dropped dramatically in an Indonesian study where a bacteria was introduced into disease-carrying mosquitoes, offering hope in the battle against an illness that sickens millions annually around the world.

Results of the three-year study, published in the New England Journal of Medicine this week, found that infecting dengue-carrying mosquitoes with a harmless bacteria called Wolbachia led to a 77 percent drop in human cases.

Infections requiring hospitalisation also fell by 86 percent in Wolbachia-treated areas of Yogyakarta, a city on Java island where the experiment was conducted, researchers said. The study was conducted by the World Mosquito Program at Monash University in Australia and Indonesia's Gadjah Mada university. "The 77 percent figure is honestly quite fantastic for a transmittable disease and we're very grateful with the result," said Adi Utarini, a public-health researcher.

INDIA-KUWAIT
SIGN MOU ON RECRUITMENT

Kuwait City: India and Kuwait have signed an MoU that brings Indian domestic workers in the Gulf nation within the ambit of a legal framework that streamlines their recruitment and provides them with the protection of the law.

The MoU was signed on Thursday by Indian Ambassador Sibi George and Deputy Minister for Foreign Affairs of Kuwait Majdi Ahmad Al-Dhafiri in the presence of visiting External Affairs Minister S Jaishankar and his Kuwaiti counterpart Sheikh Ahmad Nasser Al-Mohammad Al-Sabah.

Jaishankar arrived here on his first bilateral visit to the oil-rich Gulf nation early on Thursday, according to a press release issued by the Indian Embassy here. The MoU brings the Indian domestic workers in Kuwait within the ambit of a legal framework that streamlines their recruitment and provides them with the protection of the law.

G7 to donate 1 billion jabs

Leading economies feel joint approach is best to recover from Covid-19

Carbis Bay, June 11: G7 leaders gathered on Friday for their first in-person talks in nearly two years, with an expected pledge to donate one billion Covid vaccine doses to poor countries on the agenda in a show of Western democratic cohesion.

The club of leading economies — Britain, Canada, France, Germany, Italy, Japan and United States — say a joint approach is the world's best chance for recovering from the global health crisis, and tackling climate change.

President Joe Biden has set the tone, ditching Donald Trump's isolationist stance to ram home a message of resolve by the G7 and NATO against both Beijing and Moscow, as he heads into his first sit-down with Russian President Vladimir Putin next week in Geneva.

"The driving animating purpose of this G7 summit is to show that democracy can deliver against the biggest challenges we're facing in the world," a senior US administration official said.

Campaigners say the G7's vaccine donations pledge for this year and next — including 500 million US doses — is far too little, too late to end a pandemic that has claimed over 3.7 million lives worldwide.

"If the best G7 leaders can manage is to donate one billion vaccine doses then this summit will have been a failure," Oxfam said, insisting the world needs 11 billion doses. But the G7 has recognised it needs to rise to competing "vaccine diplomacy" efforts launched by China and Russia, with the Biden administration stressing it expects nothing in return for its donated jabs.

G7 leaders meeting at the seaside resort of Carbis Bay in Cornwall, southwest England, are also expected to outline more help for developing nations to build up infrastructure, as a counterpoint to the debt-fuelled spending by China in Africa, Asia and Latin America.

The initiative "will embrace a high standards, transparent, climate friendly, non-corrupt mechanism" for infrastructure investment in the developing world, the US official said. "It will be an alternative to that which other countries, including China, are offering." Underpinning the US-led

KULBHUSHAN

Islamabad, June 11: The Pakistan government has rushed through the National Assembly a bill to provide the right of appeal to Indian death-row prisoner Kulbhushan Jadhav amidst ruckus and boycott by the Opposition.

The lower house of Parliament passed the ICJ (Review and Re-consideration) Bill, 2020 on Thursday. The bill is aimed at allowing Jadhav to have consular access in line with the International Court of Justice (ICJ) verdict.

Jadhav, the 51-year-old retired Indian Navy officer, was sentenced to death by a Pakistani military court on charges of espionage and terrorism in April 2017.

India approached the ICJ against Pakistan for denial of consular access to Jadhav and challenging the death sentence.

The Hague-based ICJ ruled in July 2019 that Pakistan must undertake an "effective review and reconsideration" of the conviction and sentence of Jadhav and also to grant consular access to India without further delay.

The ICJ, in its 2019 verdict, had asked Pakistan to provide a proper forum for appeal against the sentence given to Jadhav. — PTI

CDC LOOKS INTO HEART BURN
AFTER PFIZER VAX

Washington, June 11: US health officials are investigating what appear to be higher than expected reports of heart inflammation in male teens and young adults after they get a second dose of the Pfizer and Moderna vaccines.

It's not clear if the heart inflammation is caused by the shots and the reports still are rare, according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention. It urges everyone 12 and older to get vaccinated.

As of May 31, the agency had 275 preliminary reports of such inflammation in 16- to 24-year-olds, CDC's Dr Tom Shimabukuro told a government vaccine meeting on Thursday. — AP

H1-B visa: USCIS
undoes Trump plan

Washington, June 11: The US' immigration agency has said that it would rescind a 2018 trump-era policy that allowed immigration officers to reject visa applications, including the H-1B, instead of first issuing a notice of intent to deny to the applicants, a decision which will reduce barriers to "legal immigration".

The H-1B visa, popular among Indian IT companies and professionals, is a non-immigrant visa that allows US companies to employ foreign workers in speciality occupations that require theoretical or technical expertise.

UK says Delta variant
60% more transmissible

London, June 11: The British government said Friday that the new Delta coronavirus variant is 60 percent more transmissible in households than the variant that forced the country to lock down in January.

The Delta variant, which first emerged in India, has caused a rise in cases in the UK, prompting questions about whether social distancing restrictions will be lifted as planned from June 21.

New research from Public Health England "suggests that the Delta variant is associated with an approximately 60 percent increased risk of household transmission" compared to the Alpha variant identified in Kent, southeast England.

The Kent variant caused a surge of Covid cases in January leading to a three-month lockdown as hospitals were stretched to near-capacity.

The government ramped up its public vaccination drive in response, and has now given two doses of vaccine to nearly 29 million adults and one dose to nearly 41 million.

Daily cases rose to 7,393 on Thursday, a level not seen since February. More than 90 percent of new cases were of the Delta variant, ministers said.

However the number of patients in hospital remains low, at just over 1,000 on Thursday, and Health Secretary Matt Hancock has said most inpatients have not had any vaccine.

The government said this suggested the vaccination programme is mitigating the impact of the Delta variant, urging the public to get both jabs.

Jenny Harries, chief executive of the UK Health Security Agency, said that "two doses provide significantly more protection" against the Delta variant than one.

The UK has reported 127,867 deaths from the virus, the worst toll in Europe.

Under the government roadmap, England plans to drop rules on numbers at social gatherings and allow large weddings and reopening of nightclubs from June 21. — AFP

UK digs in over
North Ireland in Brexit trade row

Enniskillen, United Kingdom, June 11: Britain on Friday hit back at French President Emmanuel Macron's uncompromising stance on Brexit, in a simmering row over new trading arrangements for Northern Ireland.

Macron on Thursday warned London that it was "not serious" to review agreements signed last December, just weeks before the UK left the European single market and customs union.

"Nothing is renegotiable," he said before heading to the G7 leaders summit in Cornwall, southwest England.

But Foreign Secretary Dominic Raab insisted that Brussels should be more flexible in its approach to Northern Ireland, which shares the UK's only land border with the EU.

Under the so-called Northern Ireland protocol, checks are required on some goods heading to the British province from mainland Britain — England, Scotland and Wales. But that has angered unionist communities who say it has driven a wedge between them and the rest of the UK, and blamed it for a resurgence of violence.

Controls have been suspending, and London has extended a grace period for checks on deliveries of chilled meat products to the province.

"The change must come from the European Commission side," said Raab. "We are not negotiating or haggling the integrity of the United Kingdom," he told Sky News.

Talks to try to resolve the issue broke up in London without agreement on Wednesday, with Brussels threatening punitive action if London fails to implement the agreement.

The arrangement — to prevent unchecked goods heading into the EU through member state Ireland — effectively means Northern Ireland is still part of the European single market.

The row threatened to overshadow the G7 summit, with reports that US President Joe Biden was angered at the potential harm to the 1998 peace deal that brought an end to three decades of violence over British rule in Northern Ireland.

Prime Minister Boris Johnson played down reports of a rift on Thursday, after the pair met for 90 minutes of talks on the eve of the G7 leaders meeting. — AFP

US: China can spark
'crisis' in Indo-Pacific

Washington, June 11: Describing China as a "pacing challenge" to the US, Defence Secretary Lloyd Austin has told American lawmakers that Beijing's "aggressive behaviour" in the Indo-Pacific could spark a "crisis" in the strategically vital region.

Responding to questions from members of the Senate Armed Services Committee during a Congressional hearing on the annual budget of the Pentagon, he stressed on having a direct line of communication between the militaries and also between government officials of the two countries.

"As we look at some of the aggressive behaviour that we have witnessed from China in the Indo-Pacific, I'm concerned about something that could happen that could spark a crisis," Austin told the lawmakers on Thursday. "We need the ability to be able to talk with our allies and partners and also with our adversaries or potential adversaries. So, I think there needs to be a direct line of communication between the military and also between government officials as well," the defence secretary said.

Austin described the US' relationship with China currently as one of competition. "They desire to be the preeminent country on the planet. Their mid to long-term goal is to do that. They look to compete with us, not only militarily but across a spectrum of activity," he said. — PTI

US nod to 1st Muslim federal judge

Washington, June 11: The US Senate has approved the historic nomination of Pakistani-American Zahid Quraishi to the District Court in New Jersey, making him the first Muslim federal judge in the country's history.

The Senate voted 81-16 on Thursday to confirm Quraishi, 46. As many as 34 Republicans joined the Democrats in confirming the first-ever Muslim-American as a federal judge.

Currently, a magistrate judge for the District of New Jersey, Quraishi would now make history when he will be sworn in as the Judge of the US District Court of New Jersey. "Judge Quraishi has devoted his career to serving our country, and his story embodies both the rich diversity of New Jersey and the promise of America as a place where anything is possible," said Senator Robert Menendez during a speech on the Senate floor before the confirmation vote.

Zahid Quraishi

Menendez is Chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

"Zahid Quraishi is a man of integrity, a consummate public servant, and a trailblazer for Asian-Americans and Muslim-Americans across this country who dream of one day presiding over a court of their own,"

he said.

"We should all draw inspiration from his story because it is a story that could only take place in the United States of America," Menendez said. The US District Court of New Jersey is one of the busiest in the country, with 46,000 cases pending before it and with judges facing individual case-loads more than triple the national average.

Quraishi was appointed as a US Magistrate Judge for the District of New Jersey in the Trenton Vicinage on June 3, 2019. Quraishi, who is of Pakistani ancestry, is the first Asian-American to serve on the federal bench in New Jersey.

"Judge Quraishi has devoted his career to serving our country, and his story embodies both the rich diversity of New Jersey and the promise of America as a place where anything is possible. He was born in New York and grew up in Fanwood, New Jersey with his parents, both immigrants from Pakistan who came to this country to build a better life," Menendez said.

Before his appointment, he was Chair of Riker Danzig's White Collar Criminal Defence and Investigations Group and his firm's first Chief Diversity Officer.

Before joining Riker, Quraishi served as an Assistant US Attorney in the District of New Jersey for over five years. He previously represented the United States as an Assistant Chief Counsel and trial attorney with the US Department of Homeland Security. — PTI

Biden, 13th US Prez set to meet queen

London, June 11: Imagine trying to make an impression on someone who's met, well, almost everyone.

Such is the challenge for President Joe Biden, who is set to sip tea with Queen Elizabeth II on Sunday at Windsor Castle after a Group of Seven leaders' summit in southwestern England.

Biden will be the 13th president to sit with the now-95-year-old monarch. The White House said he previously met the queen in 1982, when he was a US senator.

Before the two meet again, the leaders are to attend a reception Friday with the queen, her son Prince Charles and his wife, Camilla, and Charles' son Prince William and his wife, Kate.

The queen has met every American president since Dwight Eisenhower during her nearly 70-year reign, except for Lyndon Johnson, who didn't visit Britain while he was in office.

She was a 25-year-old princess when she came to Washington in 1951 and stayed with President Harry S. Truman and his family at Blair House, where Truman lived while the White House underwent a major renovation. She met Herbert Hoover in 1957, more than 20 years after he left office.

Her personal ties to U.S. leaders underscore the importance of the United States to the United Kingdom and to the queen.

She came of age during World War II and understands the central role the trans-Atlantic alliance has played in modern British history, said Robert Hardman, author of "Queen of the World," which examines her role representing Britain on the world stage.

"She grew up with that sort of sense of the USA is almost a sort of salvation that came along and rescued Europe in the darkest days of the war," Hardman said. — AP

To stay relevant, Congress must hold inner-party polls

After repeated electoral setbacks the party has endured in recent years, is there any relevance left for the Congress? Many may think the question redundant, considering how little the party's impact has been on the ground in most parts of the country. And yet, there is another question: "Does India need a viable Opposition?"

This question has not become pressing on account of the government's conspicuous failures to deal with the corona crisis last year and this year, which is pretty much an open and shut case, no matter how much the BJP may try to put a spin on it. Even before the virus struck, the economy stood shaken on account of questionable policies, and the unemployment rate was the highest in 45 years. Shortly thereafter, the Chinese Army marched into territories on India's side of the Line of Actual Control and remains there by and large. The humiliation is stark.

If none of this has quite registered with the public, there has to be a question about the effectiveness of the Opposition. For want of a viable choice, the voter may find themselves stuck in a rut. This hypothesis may be too structured. After all, the electorate is capable of springing a dramatic surprise, as in the election after the Emergency. But for that to happen, there have to be on the scene political actors with antecedents, and some reliability.

The present-day Congress inspires too little confidence. There is a leadership vacuum. Party units do not function on the ground in most states. And where they do, they are riven in factions, and cannot hold a coherent line.

On that count the present-day Congress inspires too little confidence. There is a leadership vacuum. Party units do not function on the ground in most states. And where they do, they are riven in factions, and cannot hold a coherent line. In any case, the party is lacking a message. Defections are frequent, Jitin Prasada being the most recent. As for even the most swashbuckling of regional parties, these are not of a mould that can fit the pattern nationwide. As if to attest to this, the ruling BJP's highest political priority appears to be to decimate a Congress whose trace is slowly disappearing. If this is an irony of sorts, it also tells us something about the meaning of brand value.

There has been some G-23 messaging after Mr Prasada quit last Wednesday, but most in the G-23 are not even paper tigers. What the Congress needs is a stiff dose of the sanjeevani of even a haphazard CWC election based on old AICC roles, which in turn would lead on to an immediate election for the party president.

The Gandhi family has meant well and has hewed to the line of Gandhiji and Jawaharlal Nehru. The tallest of them is too unwell to carry on even in an interim capacity. The most vital of them, and the most honorable, will not return as party chief. He resigned taking responsibility for a major poll defeat and announced none in his family would fill the slot after him. Which means he has paved the way for a fresh election for party president.

If this can happen well before the upcoming election in UP, Uttarakhand, Punjab and Goa in early 2022, the Congress can be in the hunt for the laurels, and the political scene can be electrified. Let the Congress disregard the corona restrictions (as it would need to anyway when elections are announced), and go for inner-party polls.

No room for complacency

The second wave of the pandemic Covid-19 has started showing signs of a decline, given that every indicator, from daily case load to number of deaths to test positivity rate, shows a definite pattern. This, however, offers little reason to be complacent what with experts predicting the arrival of a third wave which could be more dangerous and lethal. It is important that the government pull up the socks to take on it, and a truthful and scientific assessment of the first and second waves is key to the successful resistance to the pandemic.

It is in this context that the reports of an upward revision of the death toll in Bihar must be viewed. As per the latest government figures, Bihar has lost 9,375 people to the pandemic against the earlier figure of 5,424. This indicates that the government's figures have gone up by more than 72 per cent after the correction. The government's justification is that it has taken time to collect data from private hospitals, other facilities, in home isolation and of those who died of post-Covid complications. In a way, the government was admitting that it was formulating its policies and strategies on a wrong database.

The Bihar episode should be an eye-opener for all state governments and the Union government. The Union health ministry must ensure that every state follows uniform guidelines, formed by the Indian Council of Medical Research in the collecting data on infection and deaths. It must also ensure that the data from the rural and remote areas are also collected, collated and analysed scientifically so that it gives valuable inputs while preparing for the next wave. The right inputs based on reliable data should help the government plan the ways to augment healthcare infrastructure at places that would seem the next target of the virus.

It is important that the government pull up the socks to take on Covid, and a truthful and scientific assessment of the earlier waves is key to a successful resistance to pandemic.

‘Bombshell Barbara’ vs the ‘Robed Yogi’ of UP

Shobhaa's Take

I love it that we're a chilled-out country so accepting of dramatic contrasts. I mean that! For centuries, we have absorbed absurdities and carried on like it's no big deal. Last week's headline grabbers couldn't have been more startlingly different! One, a mysterious femme fatale in Antigua, the other a saffron-robed chief minister of our country's most populous state. In both cases, their newsworthiness was hinged around perfect timing! "Bombshell Barbara" is getting her cues so on point (wonder who's tutoring this one!). So is Yogi Adityanath (err... we can guess who his tutor is!). Both protagonists are armed with enough lethal ammo to blow up a few very important reputations. There is a third high-profile player: Harish Salve, who'll attract almost as much attention in the weeks to come as these two.

Let's start with "Bombshell Barbara", who's living up to the old chestnut... "Cherchez la femme"... in the ongoing extradition saga featuring a disreputable and disgraced diamondaire from India — the infamous Mehul Choksi, maternal uncle of an equally "wanted" diamondaire Nirav Modi. The brilliant Harish Salve has his work cut out for him, in a way. He has announced he'll succeed in getting back the fugitive diamond merchant either hiding out or being held hostage in Dominica, who ran off with ₹3,500 crores of public money in the PNB scam. Please note, Shri Salve is saying this feat will be achieved in weeks, not months! That's Salve for you — brilliant, mercurial, well-connected, super-confident and successful.

While we hold our breaths for the "Return of the Jewel Thief", the adventurous lady playing a starring role in the high seas action drama in the Caribbean is attracting a great deal of attention — not just from Choksi's wife Preeti, but the media at large. The official "Jab we met" versions keep changing, but when the kidnapping story broke, Barbara was khullam khulla described as Mehul's girlfriend. Till loyal wife Preeti protested and staunchly denied a romantic liaison, choosing to describe Barbara as a family friend who had tricked her sweet husband into accepting a "dinner appointment" (Preeti's description). That too, at 5.30 pm (why not call it "high tea" with nashita paani?). Between the wanted man and the bombshell, we expected a tad more action. What was this innocuous, chaste "appointment" Preeti was talking about? Please, madam, do describe it as a hot and daring dinner date a deux, then we are talking! Oh, wait a minute, when did the Bewakoof Barbara discover that she'd been had by Mehul Choksi in more ways than one? When did she find out she was just one more greedy woman conned by Mehul, who she alleges wooed her with "priceless" diamond trinkets, which turned out to be fake! During their "long walks" and "relaxed evenings"? As they say, beware the wrath of a woman diamond scorned... After the scandal broke, Barbara has been singing like a canary with a sore throat. Alas, there go her dreams of becoming a real estate tycoon in Antigua — another false promise made by Mehul to keep his lady love interested, while he figured out his next move — some say to Cuba. Maybe what he didn't figure was the classic honey trap — "The End" — to his pyaar mohabbat!

Diamonds are forever, as the tagline goes. But Mehul was peddling cheap glass. God knows how many high net-worth customers in India have been similarly tricked by Mehul and his understudy Nirav. Funny part is, the cheated ladies can't file charges — those supposedly priceless and rare stones were probably sold minus receipts, to greedy and gullible clients eager to park unaccounted money in easy to store heera motis. I can visualise these ladies staring glumly at their obscene rocks and wondering what to do with the useless baubles. Meanwhile, "Bombshell Barbara" may be busy selling the rights to her story to Netflix. This is "Pirates of the Caribbean", without Johnny Depp! But with a roly poly Mehul Choksi playing Humpty Dumpty.

On the other side of the news cycle is a diminutive "ascetic" who is making some badass moves in Uttar Pradesh. Clearly prepping for the Assembly elections in 2022. Yogi wants it to be his solo show, not a group exhibition. Clearly, he is being backed by his RSS bosses, and encouraged to assert his individuality more emphatically, in order to defuse any argument as to who calls the shots in UP — Modi or Yogi? Political watchers believe a new axis is forming, which pitches the Modi-Shah combo against the Gadkari-Yogi jodi. If true, this could also pave the way for new power structures across India and dent the invincibility of those currently holding the reins at the Centre.

On the other side of the news cycle is a diminutive 'ascetic' who is making some badass moves in Uttar Pradesh. Clearly prepping for the Assembly elections in 2022.

Yogi, after several disastrous errors of judgment (all that nonsense about love jihads, anti-Romeo squads), quickly got his act together and took a firm position against the anti-CAA riots in Muslim dominated areas. But then came the horrifying sight of Covid corpses floating down the rivers of Yogi's vast state of 240 million! Not good! Not good! Satyanaash... But hey, he bounced back swiftly! Fans and supporters are pointing out how he tamed and tackled the Covid-19 numbers, even managing to beat other states at keeping cases down. The interesting thing is this: that even the hardcore, hard-bitten BJP supporters are now uttering Yogi Adityanath's name in the same breath as Narendra Modi's. Sacrilege! And hello!

Nobody is demanding their heads on a platter. They are also insisting Yogi is their guy. The main man. Which means the highest of the high commands is okay with the new narrative and is in fact encouraging such public talk. Frankly, this is a positive development — absolute power corrupts absolutely, as we all know. Throwing in a serious challenger to NaMo at this critical stage (the run-up to Elections 2022) is a smart, shrewd move. It means all players will have to work that much harder to win this round. It also signals Yogi's elevation to a more visible, pan-India position, from where he can leverage and consolidate his image before the asli biggie — the national elections of 2024. The person who should be watching these developments closely is Mamata Didi, given her prime ministerial ambitions. These two make worthy rivals — both come with their single-and-not-ready-to-mingle status: the guy is a Yogi and the lady is a Yogini. Their followers worship them and believe that they can do no wrong. The race to the hot seat has suddenly got hotter!

BIHAR DISGRACE

The whopping 72 per cent rise in number of deaths due to Covid-19 in Bihar while recounting after being reported officially following a High Court direction is a sign of crass irresponsibility prevailing in the psyche of state administration there (Bihar revises Covid-19 toll by 72% after HC flags flaws, DC, June 11). Having tried to sweep the death count under the carpet, the adminstration has brought disgrace to humanity itself. There couldn't have been more disservice by the administration to the deceased and their families, and society than hushing up the tragedy.

Idiosyncratic casting is not new — black actors have been cast as Julius Caesar, women as Titus Andronicus and black actors, female so far, as the three Chekhovian sisters.

In the case of Ann, however, no commentator has openly objected but a lot has still been said. The writer-director of the series and Channel 5 put out a press release saying that their version intended to correct the prevalent view of Ann Boleyn as a manipulative schemer who deserved what she got. Though they didn't say it, what the writer-director who cast the black actress and her black brother in their respective roles probably intended was to win sympathy for Ann as a victim and someone who resists this victimisation, all in tune with the zeitgeist of the Black Lives Matter explosion.

Another seemingly well-informed reviewer pointed out that most historians and three previous depictions of Ann Boleyn in drama and film, characterised her not a manipulative sorceress, but as precisely the victim of capricious power. The Channel 5 drama was pushing against an open door.

The story ends horribly and tragically for Ann and her brother and this cross-racial casting sets out to prove that the privileged white establishment is guilty of racism — gosh! What a revelation — why didn't I think of it — thank you, Channel 5!

My own viewing of the series, perhaps in total eccentricity, reminded me at several points of Prince Harry and Meghan Markle and had me wondering whether Oprah Winfrey was about to appear in the role of marriage counsellor.

Integrated or gender-and-colour-blind casting has several purposes. It may be that it was introduced in Britain and America under pressure from black actors who complained of not having opportunities and work as there weren't many roles for them to play. As a member in the 1980s of two theatre companies, the Black Theatre Coop (BTC) and the Asian Co-operative Theatre (ACT, geddit?), we were very much in the thick of the clamour for parts for non-white actors.

Our solution was not to cast blacks in traditional white roles, but to find and encourage the writing and production of plays about the black and Asian experience, contemporary, international, historical, epic, mythical and even sci-fi and fantastical. That vein of theatre has prospered in part and flourished in part but seems to have established itself firmly in the theatrical space of Britain, moving from the venues and audiences we played in and for, into the terrain of the nation's dramatic establishment. We were the proud and defiant fringe. Now black and Asian drama covers the whole scalp, sometimes scantily as "racial" concession, but also occasionally in rich, dramatic, Rastafarian ringlets.

There was a parallel impulse which prompted racially integrated casting, which was the contention that all the stage is a world, a self-contained world removed from, though portraying the realities of racial and nationalistic tensions.

It was this impulse or determination that caused the maestro Peter Brook to cast any and every nationality and race in his masterful nine-hour production of the Mahabharat. Japanese and Caribbean actors played Indian heroes, heroines and gods.

Brook's criterion was not race or nationality but something like "the best actor from all the world for the role". Akin to the players of Manchester United not representing the city of Manchester but drawn from anywhere and everywhere.

The Brook impulse was certainly not shared by sections of the Indian population. Inspired by Brook's liberality or, as some would say, liberties with the Mahabharat, I wrote a novel called Bombay Duck in which this same impulse — of universally integrated casting — results in tragedy. The book progresses to other instances and narratives to question all our notions of authenticity.

Perhaps Peter Brook would, with these colour-blind casting eyes, direct Othello with a white female actor playing the principal part? I am almost certain that Channel 5 would not but am a bit doubtful about Britain's National Theatre or indeed the Royal Shakespeare Company, which might very well in the interests of "diversity" overcome the idea that the play depends to a large extent on perceptions of race and gender. When Laurence Olivier, palpably white, played Othello, he blackened his face to dramatise this dimension of the play. Through the last few decades, no choric group of white singers in the West would blacken their faces to represent black and white minstrels. If a white actor blacked up to play Othello there would be mass riots in the streets. But what if one of the established theatres cast a white female actor as Othello without a change into male clothes, skin colour or plummy accent? Interesting. Watch this space.

Pilot run is part of 'Medicines from the Sky' project Flipkart to test drone delivery of vaccine, meds in Telangana

FC BUREAU NEW DELHI, JUNE 11

Homegrown e-commerce major Flipkart on Friday said it has partnered with the Telangana government to lead a consortium tasked with the development and execution of the drone deliveries of medical supplies to remote areas under the 'Medicines from the Sky' project.

As part of the consortium, Bengaluru-based Flipkart will deploy drones and enable deliveries of vaccines and medical supplies.

These efforts will be complemented with technologies such as geo mapping, routing of shipments and track and trace of location etc, developed by Flipkart over the years in serving millions of customers across the country, a Flipkart statement said.

A combination of these technologies will then be used to conduct 'Beyond Visual Line of Sight' (BVLOS) deliveries in remote areas of the state.

The pilot, to be conducted for over six days, will be tested out for delivering thousands of vaccines.

"The Covid-19 crisis has pushed the envelope in the rapid development of scalable and robust technologies and the Medicines from the Sky project is a testament to that. It is a decisive step in making use of cutting-edge technologies for the safety and well-being of the masses," said Rajneesh Kumar, senior VP and chief corporate affairs officer, Flipkart.

The Telangana government has adopted this framework to implement drones for last-mile delivery and will integrate them into the state's healthcare supply chain.

Jayesh Ranjan, principal secretary (IT and I&C), Government of Telangana said the state has been a pioneer in using technology for improving the lives of the citizens.

HC okays CCI probe of e-com biggies

SANGEETHA G CHENNAI, JUNE 11

The Karnataka High Court on Friday dismissed pleas by e-commerce biggies Amazon and Flipkart challenging the probe ordered by the Competition Commission of India (CCI).

The CCI had ordered a probe in January 2020 against both Amazon and Walmart-owned Flipkart in a complaint filed by the Delhi Vyapar Mahasangh (DVM), representing small businesses. The petitioner had alleged that the e-commerce companies were violating the competition laws while selling smart phones on their platform. The Delhi Vyapar Mahasangh had levelled allegations of predatory pricing, deep discounting, preferential seller listing, and exclusive partnerships, among others, against Amazon and Flipkart. The Confederation of All-India Traders (Cait) too had implored as a party to the case.

In February, the e-commerce players got stay on the probe from the Karnataka High Court, which found that the ongoing investigation by the Enforcement Directorate (ED) should be completed before the CCI could initiate a probe. The ED in 2019 had initiated an investigation against Amazon and Flipkart for alleged violation of Foreign Direct Investment laws.

Following this, the petitioners again approached the court asking it to vacate the stay order.

However, on Friday CCI argued that an investigation by the ED under the Foreign Exchange Management Act, 1999 (Fema) does not bar another investigation by the CCI for violations of competition law. It said e-commerce players were twisting the pendency of an ED investigation to ward off CCI's probe.

Responding to the court order, an Amazon spokesperson said: "We will review the judgement carefully and decide on the next steps."

Nifty-50, Sensex scale new peaks

RAVI RANJAN PRASAD MUMBAI, JUNE 11

The equity market's benchmark indices, Nifty-50 and Sensex, closed at new all-time highs on Friday, marking the fourth successive weekly close with gains. However, the upward momentum seems to be slowing down with relatively lower daily gains for the indices.

The Nifty-50 gained 61.60 points or 39 per cent to close at a new peak of 15,799.35 after touching an intra-day high of 15,835.

The Sensex also closed at a new high of 52,474.76, gaining 174.29 points, and registered a new all-time high of 52,641.53 intra-day.

"The market is rallying on a slowed-down momentum, which can be properly visualised with the help of negative divergence in RSI (Relative Strength Index) in daily time-frame," said Nirali Shah, head of equity research, Samco Securities.

"The traded volume of derivatives saw a sharp decline by 30-40 per cent. The fall in intraday volumes is primarily attributable to either the new peak margin requirements (became effective from June 1) or the drying up of investor conviction at current levels. Overall, the market remained range-bound with an upward bias," Shah said in her weekly analysis.

The broader market outperformed, with Nifty Mid-cap-50 Index up 2.56 per cent and the Nifty Mid-cap 100 Index up 3.28 per cent.

NSE's India VIX Index dropped 13.04 per cent during the week to 14.10, indicating lower volatility ahead.

The market's upward momentum has sustained on the back of Rs 15,520 crore net buying by the foreign portfolio investors (FPIs) in June so far and domestic mutual funds also lending support as shown by the 14-month high inflows in equity mutual funds in May 2021.

On Friday domestic institutions were net buyers of equities worth Rs 666.36 crore while the FPIs took a pause with Rs 18.64 crore net purchases.

The IT sector emerged a top gainer during the week, with the Nifty IT Index moving up 4.52 per cent while the financials were the laggards, as the Nifty Bank was down 0.69 per cent.

ASSET QUALITY OF MICRO LOAN PORTFOLIOS DIP

SANGEETHA G CHENNAI, JUNE 11

With lockdowns hitting collections, the asset quality of micro loan portfolios is estimated to have deteriorated this month, exceeding the post-demonetisation levels.

A drop in the collection efficiency of NBFC-MFIs owing to Covid-19 curbs will increase asset-quality pressures in the sector and loans in arrears for over 30 days could rise to 14-16 per cent of portfolio in June from a recent low of 6-7 per cent in March, says a Crisil report. This is higher than 11.7 per cent touched in March 2017 in the aftermath of demonetisation.

"Pressure on asset quality would be higher (than last year) as borrowers do not have a blanket moratorium this time, while their cash flows have been impacted by the second wave," said Krishnan Sitaraman, senior director and deputy chief ratings officer, Crisil Ratings.

Earlier, Sa-Dhan had reported that overall collections, which had bounced back to pre-Covid levels in March, dropped by 10 to 20 per cent in April-May 2021 as the lockdown was imposed in some of the key states.

Passenger vehicle sales dip 66% in May amid Covid disruptions: Siam

MICHAEL GONSALVES PUNE, JUNE 11

Passenger vehicle wholesales— dispatches from factory gates to the dealerships—declined month-on-month by 66 per cent to 88,045 units in May as compared to April as lockdowns across various states impacted dispatches to dealers, auto industry trade lobby the Society of Indian Automobile Manufacturers, or Siam, said on Friday.

Passenger vehicle wholesales in April stood at 2,61,633 units.

Since both May 2020 and May 2021 were abnormal months because of the Covid-19 situation and lockdowns, comparison of these two months holds no meaning. But a comparison of May 2021 sales with April this year, presents a realistic picture.

Siam said two-wheeler dispatches to dealers dropped by 65 per cent to 3,52,717 units compared with 9,95,097 units in April.

Motorcycle sales declined 56 per cent last month to 2,95,257 units as against 6,67,841 units in April.

Biogen drug was authorised based on evidence that it can reduce brain plaques

US FDA faces criticism over Alzheimer's drug approval

JULIE STEENHUYSEN & DEENA BEASLEY JUNE 11

In approving the first new Alzheimer's drug in nearly 20 years, the US Food and Drug Administration is taking its biggest risk yet with a strategy that allows new therapies onto the market without strong evidence that they work, regulatory and scientific experts say.

The Biogen Inc drug, Aduhelm, was authorised based on evidence that it can reduce brain plaques, a likely contributor to Alzheimer's, rather than proof that it slows progression of the lethal mind-wasting disease.

The FDA has granted so-called "accelerated approval" in more than 250 instances since 1992, mainly for rare diseases or small patient populations that have had no effective treatments available to them. In these cases, the agency requires that drugmakers conduct additional clinical trials to prove their therapy works, or face withdrawal from the market.

Aduhelm, however, is in a different league in terms of the number of potential patients and cost to the healthcare system.

In addition, the FDA approval ignored the recommendation of its outside advisors, who said Biogen did not provide enough evidence of clinical benefit. Three of the advisory panel's members have resigned in protest since the FDA decision was announced on Monday.

"This decision has shaken the foundations of the scientific process and methods," said Dr Jason Karlawish, co-director of the Penn Memory Center in Philadelphia. Karlawish ran one of the trial sites for the Biogen drug.

He said the FDA made its decision "by fiat," and had not asked its advisors to consider whether the drug's ability to remove a type of brain plaques known as beta amyloid would improve outcomes for patients.

"It's a disturbing set of events, scientifically, clinically, politically," Karlawish said.

Biogen has said that some 1.5 million Americans with early-stage Alzheimer's will be eligible for the drug, priced at an average of $56,000 per year, with the federal Medicare insurance programme for seniors likely on the hook for most of the cost.

The FDA approval allows Biogen to sell its product over several years - with forecasts for potential annual sales reaching as high $10 billion to $50 billion - until the company completes a required follow-up study.

"No amount of unmet need can take the place of sufficient evidence," said

Johns Hopkins public health professor Dr Caleb Alexander, a member of the FDA advisory panel.

The number of Americans living with Alzheimer's is expected to more than double to around 13 million by 2050, according to the Alzheimer's Association.

Biogen research chief Alfred Sandrock said the FDA had painstakingly analysed its clinical trial data over two years before reaching a conclusion.

"I believe they came to the right decision on behalf of the American public," Sandrock said in an interview.

Vinesh emerges on top in Poland

Warsaw: Star Indian wrestler Vinesh Phogat proved that her preparations for the Tokyo Games were on track by winning the 53kg gold at the Poland Open here on Friday, giving herself some crucial 'mat-time' ahead of the Olympics. It is third title of the season for the 26-year-old Vinesh, who claimed gold medals at the Matteo Pellicone event (March) and Asian Championship (April) earlier. The victory would potentially make Vinesh the top seed at the Tokyo Olympics. Except for her opening bout against 2019 World bronze (50kg) winner Ekaterina Poleshchuk, Vinesh wasn't troubled by any of her other rivals as she conceded only two points en route the top place on the podium. She did not concede a single point to Ukraine's Khrystyna Bereza in the final, winning 8-0. Vinesh took most of her points through double-leg attacks while the 2019 European silver medalist Bereza was on the defensive throughout.

New Delhi: The Sports Ministry on Friday said it has decided against sending its delegation to Tokyo Olympics to accommodate "maximum" support staff, including coaches and physios, for the athletes competing in the Summer Games. A total of 100 Indian athletes have so far qualified and another 25 to 35 might make the cut. Tokyo undecided on spectators

Tokyo: The question of allowing any fans into Tokyo Olympic venues is still being debated with a decision unlikely to be announced before the end of the month. This would be just a few weeks before the Olympics are to open on July 23. Fans from abroad have already been banned in what is shaping up as a largely made-for-television Olympics. Tokyo and several prefectures are under a state of emergency until June 20. Infections have slowed recently, but the spread of variants is still a concern that could put pressure on already stressed medical facilities. — AP

Top-ranked Belgium take on Russia in quest for Euro glory

St Petersburg, June 11: What's being billed by some as the last hurrah for Belgium's "golden generation" begins with two of the team's long-time stalwarts likely to miss their opening match of the European Championship.

Injury and fitness concerns mean neither Kevin De Bruyne nor Eden Hazard are set to start against Russia on Saturday at Saint Petersburg Stadium, where the Belgians' World Cup hopes in 2018 died in a loss to France.

They return to the same venue three years later as the world's top-ranked team — they have been in that position since October 2018 — but with doubts about the availability of their two star attacking midfielders, and maybe a bit more.

De Bruyne is probably the least of coach Roberto Martinez's concerns, despite linking up with the squad a week late after fracturing his nose and eye socket during Manchester City's loss to Chelsea in the Champions League final. The playmaker required a minor operation and is likely to be ready to start in Belgium's second game, against Denmark in Copenhagen on June 17, when he might be wearing a face mask.

rupted season with Real Madrid and only being a substitute in Euro 2020 warmup games.

Martinez said Hazard still needed to get "match intensity" so is likely to be on the bench again for the game against Russia, whose chances of an upset win suddenly have improved. Playing in front of a potential 30,000 fans, among the biggest group-stage attendances at the tournament, can only spur on Russia in their fifth straight appearance at the European Championship.

BALE 'NOT WORRIED' ABOUT DROUGHT

Wales captain Gareth Bale said on Friday he was unconcerned about his international goal drought on the eve of his side's Euro 2020 opener against Switzerland.

Bale, 31, last scored for Wales against Croatia in October 2019 but has created four goals in his previous seven appearances.

"It doesn't matter. I've made assists. I'm still contributing. I'm not worried," he said.

"If the chances arise to score, hopefully I can take them," he added.

Bale's side start their campaign in Azerbaijan on Saturday in the competition that has been delayed by a year due to the coronavirus pandemic.

The Real Madrid forward, who spent last season on loan at Tottenham, has scored 33 goals in 92 international appearances since making his debut in 2006 but his goalless run stretches back 11 matches.

Wales coach Robert Page, who will take charge of the side during the tournament as Ryan Giggs is facing trial in England, backed his star player.

FINLAND READY FOR DANISH TEST

Finland goalkeeper Lukas Hradecky didn't sugar coat things when summing up the difference between his team and Denmark at the European Championship.

"They have better players than us in every position," Hradecky said bluntly ahead of Finland's major tournament debut at Euro 2020.

Then the Bayer Leverkusen goalkeeper touched upon the one thing that could speak in his team's favor going into Saturday's Group B game in Copenhagen.

"But we have shown before that the sum of all the parts in our puzzle is greater than what people think," he said.

Quick passes

Spain vaccinate entire squad

Worried that a coronavirus outbreak could derail their chances at the European Championship, Spain sent in the army on Friday to vaccinate the national team three days before their opening match at the tournament. Medics from Spain's Armed Forces administered the shots at the team's training facility near Madrid. "We have had the privilege and the good fortune that the government decided to vaccinate us," said Spain midfielder Thiago, who was infected with Covid-19 last year. "While this is great news for us, I hope that we don't have any adverse effects before the match."

Scotland players to take a knee

Scotland's players will take a knee at the European Championship before the game against England in London but will stand ahead of matches in Glasgow against the Czech Republic and Croatia. The England team have been doing the anti-racism gesture since last year. Scotland captain Andy Robertson says "we have collectively decided to again take the knee as a team for the fixture against England at Wembley Stadium." The match will be played on June 18. The gesture has been booed by a section of England fans but the team will continue to take a knee at Euro 2020. England's first game of the tournament will be on Sunday against Croatia.

De Bruyne to miss opener

Kevin De Bruyne has not travelled to St. Petersburg with the Belgium squad for Saturday's European Championship game against Russia. The Manchester City playmaker only linked up with the team on Monday after having a minor operation on the fractured nose and eye socket he sustained during the Champions League final against Chelsea on May 29. Belgium coach Roberto Martinez says De Bruyne hasn't yet trained with the group and was still following an individual programme to "get him back to really being able to move freely."

Martinez says he expects De Bruyne to join full training with the squad when Belgium's players return to the training camp in Tubize after the group game against Russia.

Messi, Di Maria boost Argie side

Buenos Aires, June 11: Lionel Messi, Sergio Aguero and Angel Di Maria are headlining the Argentina squad that will head to Brazil for the Copa America, seeking their national team's first major title since 1993.

The list was published on Thursday by South American governing body, CONMEBOL.

Defender Juan Foyth and striker Lucas Ocampos are the most notable absentees from the 28-player squad, despite featuring regularly since Lionel Scaloni became head coach in 2018.

Foyth was involved late when Argentina conceded a last-minute equaliser to Colombia in a World Cup qualifying match earlier this week.

The Villarreal defender, a winner of the latest Europa League, lost possession at the edge of the penalty box. Colombia subsequently crossed and then found the back of the net with a header by Miguel Borja.

A Stef closer to Slam dream

Paris, June 11: Stefanos Tsitsipas went from way ahead to suddenly stuck in a five-set struggle against Alexander Zverev at the French Open on Friday before emerging to earn his first berth in a Grand Slam final.

The fifth-seeded Tsitsipas entered with an 0-3 record in major semifinals and it seemed as if he might let this one slip away, too, until a late surge carried him to the 6-3, 6-3, 4-6, 4-6, 6-3 victory after more than 3 and a half hours at Court Philippe Chatrier.

On Sunday, Tsitsipas will face 13-time Roland Garros champion Nadal or top-seeded Novak Djokovic for the championship on the red clay.

Tsitsipas regained control of his semifinal on a cloudy afternoon in the late going thanks to a combination of more solid returning by him and a succession of ground-stroke unforced errors from the sixth-seeded Zverev, a 24-year-old from Germany.

The fifth set began with a key service hold after Tsitsipas double-faulted to fall behind love-40. From there, he won five consecutive points, including one with a cross-court forehand passing winner that he celebrated by shaking his racket as the crowd chanted, "Tsi-tsi-pas! Tsi-tsi-pas! Tsi-tsi-pas!"

Then Tsitsipas broke to go up 3-1 with plenty of help from Zverev, who double-faulted, then missed a backhand, followed by a forehand and another backhand.

Zverev winced and Tsitsipas raised his right fist.

Fifteen minutes later, Tsitsipas earned his first match point, and while he needed five of them to close the proceedings, he eventually did convert one with an ace.

Tsitsipas will be the first player from Greece in a Grand Slam singles final and youngest man to appear in the title match at the French Open since Nadal won the 2008 championship five days after his 22nd birthday.

And this is not some out-of-nowhere ascension. Tsitsipas has been building toward this over the past couple of seasons, reaching three major semifinals in a row and leading the ATP in total match wins (39 now) and clay-court wins (22) in 2021. Three of his seven career tour-level titles came on clay, including a pair this year — at the Monte Carlo Masters and Lyon.

Zverev's loss makes him 0-10 against members of the Top 10 at Grand Slam tournaments, an especially confounding statistic when viewed in contrast to his 31-30 mark against such opponents in any other setting.

ANASTASIA AND BARBORA SEEK GRAND SUCCESS

Paris, June 11: Anastasia Pavlyuchenkova and Barbora Krejickova, two of the most unlikely Grand Slam finalists of the modern era, meet in Saturday's French Open title match at the conclusion of a shock-heavy tournament. World number 32 Pavlyuchenkova has reached this stage for the first time at the 52nd attempt, 10 years after making a first Slam quarter-final in Paris.

Krejickova has long been labelled a doubles specialist and this is just her fifth appearance in a main draw singles at the Slams, having never previously got beyond the last 16. However, both women have capitalised on a draw where the top seeds fell and just kept falling.

Ashleigh Barty hobbled out in the second round.

Serena Williams was knocked out in the fourth round, world number two Naomi Osaka withdrew after one match while 2018 champion Simona Halep never even made it to Paris. Pavlyuchenkova is bidding to become the fourth Russian champion at Roland Garros. — AFP
