Army foils drone attack bid in J&K

YUSUF JAMEEL | DC
SRINAGAR, JUNE 28

The Army said Monday that its alert jawans had averted two separate drone activities in the Ratnuchak-Kaluchak belt close to the border with Pakistan in the Jammu region, thereby foiling a possible threat in this sensitive military zone.

This comes a day after two bombs believed to have been dropped by one or two drones rocked the high-security technical area of the Jammu Air Force Station. Two security personnel got minor injuries in these blasts, one of which ripped off the roof of a barracks and the other took place on an open ground on the night of June 26-27.

The Army said on the intervening night of June 27-28 two separate drone activities — one at 11.45 pm and the second at 2.40 am — were spotted over the Ratnuchak-Kaluchak military area by troops who opened fire at the unmanned aerial vehicles or unanned aircraft systems.

Defence spokesman Lt. Col. Devender Anand said: "After the drone activities were noticed, a high alert was sounded and Quick Reaction Teams engaged them (drones), following which both flew away."

CM, Guv unveil 26-ft PV statue

DC CORRESPONDENT
HYDERABAD, JUNE 28

Governor Tamilisai Soundararajan and Chief Minister K. Chandrashekar Rao on Monday unveiled the 26-foot bronze statue of former prime minister P.V. Narasimha Rao to mark the conclusion of his birth centenary celebrations organised by the state government. The statue has been installed on a rotary leading to P.V. Narasimha Rao Marg, formerly called the Necklace Road, adjacent to Hussainsagar. Later, the Governor opened the renamed road to traffic and released eight books, including four penned by the former PM. Dignitaries from various fields attended the programme.

Addressing the gathering, the Chief Minister hailed Narasimha Rao as a ‘reformist’ and said he had left an indelible mark in every field he was associated with, both at state-level and national-level. “When he was made Prime Minister heading a minority government, he took it up as a challenge and successfully completed a full five-year tenure,” Chandrashekar Rao said.

The CM stated that due to reforms introduced by Narasimha Rao, the country could come out of the economic crisis which contributed to steady inflow of investments into the country providing vast employment opportunities for all sections.

He recalled the land reforms introduced by him in the United Andhra Pradesh which set an example to other states. “He donated 800 acres of land owned by his family during land reforms introduced by him and led from the front,” said the Chief Minister. Chandrashekar Rao hailed the former PM as the architect of gurukuls and Navodaya schools in the country which he had set up as education minister in AP. These were later adopted by other states, he said and added that there was a need to follow the ideologies of the former PM. “Politicians and administrators need to be dynamic for ensuring welfare and development,” remarked the CM.

He announced that the state government had approved the proposal of setting up P.V. Vidhya Peetham in Kakatiya University. He thanked the Mahabubnagar-Hyderabad-Ranga Reddy Graduate MLC constituency voters for electing the former PM’s daughter Vani Devi as a tribute. Former Prime Minister Dr Manmohan Singh termed late Prime Minister P.V. Narasimha Rao a political ‘sanyasi’ (monk) and said he was a rare scholar and statesman, who gave a new sense of direction to India’s economic and foreign policies. “One of the significant aspects of the economic reforms that we initiated was that they took into account the unique nature of the realities of the Indian situation,” Dr Singh said.

No district with zero new cases

DC CORRESPONDENT
HYDERABAD, JUNE 28

Active Covid-19 cases stood at 13,869 in the state on Monday, even as the reduction in the number of new cases continued. However, no district has reported zero cases.

This is being observed very closely by experts as they are analysing the transmission of the Coronavirus in the aftermath of lifting the lockdown.

Dr Yadgiri Rao, senior member of the Indian Medical Association, said, “Vaccinating a majority of the people before the onset of the third wave is very important. Data from Maharashtra shows that those who have got one and two doses of vaccine are better protected. We have to move into the districts and vaccinate people.”

Experts urge people to give vaccines a priority and not fall for misinformation. They state that it will help to deal with the third wave better if maximum people are vaccinated.

IAF wishes to conduct its own probe

He added: “As a result of the alertness and proactive approach of our jawans, a major threat was thwarted in the area. The security forces are on high alert and the search operation is in progress.”

Reports said one of the drones was hovering over the brigade HQ of an Army unit located in the Kaluchack garrison.

The probe by the Indian Air Force into the disquieting blasts at its overly sensitive airbase in Jammu, with the incident seen as a major security lapse by the authorities, is now rolling. A National Investigation Agency team had visited the scene on Sunday morning to gather initial evidence and there is a possibility that the NIA, the country’s premier counter-terrorist task force, will be asked to take over the probe.

However, sources told this newspaper that the IAF authorities have told the government that it is capable enough of probing the incidents and take them to their logical conclusion on its own.

The Air Chief, Air Chief Marshal Rakesh Kumar Singh Bhadauria, is likely to visit the Jammu airbase either on Tuesday or Wednesday after he returns from a three-day official visit to Bangladesh for an on-the-spot assessment of the situation arising out of the blasts. Late Sunday, he had telephoned the two IAF personnel injured in the twin blasts, Arvind Singh and S.K. Singh, to enquire about their well-being.

Explaining the NIA team’s visit to the blast site, the sources said that the National Investigation Act 2008 gives the NIA powers to take suo motu cognisance of terror activities in any part of the country and register a case. In 2019, this law was amended to expand the type of offences the agency could investigate and prosecute, including the ones coming under the Explosive Substances Act 1908, the sources added. The J&K police have also taken up the investigation into the blasts after an FIR was filed at the Satwari police station of Jammu under the relevant provisions of the Unlawful Activities (Prevention) Act on Sunday.

The Army sources said that its men fired 20-25 rounds at the drones before these “flew back under the cover of darkness.”

The drones were suspected to be flying at a height of 1.2 kilometers and were possibly powered by long range batteries, the sources said.

The sources added that the security grid had already been on toes as 14 drone stories have been reportedly launched from across the Line of Control (LoC) and International Border (IB) with Pakistan in the recent past.

MP Arvind is trying to politicise the issue, he said. Speaking to newsmen in Nizamabad on Monday, the minister said that they will take up the ROB works at an appropriate time.

GANDRA MAY JOIN CONG. IN BHUPALPALLY

DC CORRESPONDENT
WARANGAL, JUNE 28

With the Congress high command bestowing the position of PCC president to Revanth Reddy, new equations are coming up in the Bhupalpally political map. The future plans of AIFB leader Gandra Satyanarayana Rao sparked a new debate in political circles.

His closeness to Revanth Reddy during their time in the TD is raising speculation that he would be asked to join the Congress so that Bhupalpally constituency can finally have a leader.

He contested as an MLA candidate from BJP in 2014 and AIFB in 2019 and lost. However, he pushed former speaker Sirikonda Madhusudana Chary to the third position and gave a strong competition to the winner Gandra Venkataramana Reddy, who later joined the TRS.

Gandra Satyanarayana Rao had a long stint in the TD before the party lost its sheen following the formation of Telangana state. He grew as a leader with a strong vote bank in the constituency. He hails from Buddharam village in Ghanpur Mandal where he served as a sarpanch 30 years ago.

Subabul farmers shift focus to palm oil cultivation

A. RAVINDRA SESHU | DC
KHAMMAM, JUNE 28

Subabul farmers, who are finding it tough to sell wood, are shifting gears and eyeing palm oil cultivation. The state government's encouragement is coming as a morale-booster.

There are two palm oil factories in Bhadradi district and a third is coming up at Konigerla in Khammam district.

The price of crude palm oil is nearly ₹20,000 per tonne and farmers in Dammamet and Aswaraopet are getting a lucrative ₹80,000 per acre as annual lease for their palm oil fields.

Around 300 farmers from Konigerla, Kallur, Sattupalli, Kusumanchi, Tallada, Wyra and Enkoor mandals in Khammam district and Dammamet, Awarapet, Mulakalapalli, Chandrugonda and Annapureddipalli, who have adequate water facility, have gone in for palm oil. The land extent from subabul to palm oil shift is around 1,500 acres.

Meanwhile, landlords with over 40 acres of land shifted their businesses by raising subabul in their lands. There is no regular supervision for subabul and the land owner can order wood cutting every third year. Instead of waiting for revenue every third year,

13-YEAR-OLD GANGRAPED IN UTTAR PRADESH

Mahoba (UP), June 28: A 13-year-old girl was allegedly gang-raped four months ago and a health worker colluding with the criminals gave anti-abortion pills to the pregnant minor, police said on Monday.

Three of the four men who allegedly raped the girl in a village under Srinagar Police Station area of the district and the health worker have been arrested, they said.

The incident came to light on Friday when the condition of the girl, who became pregnant, deteriorated after she was given anti-abortion pills by the Accredited Social Health Activists (Asha) worker named Sushila, police said.

In her statement to police, the victim alleged that B.P. Singh, Ram Babu Singh, Raghu Raikwar and Shatrughan Singh had raped her while Sushila was part of a conspiracy to cover up the crime.

After a case was registered on Sunday, the four accused including the Asha worker were arrested while the hunt is on for the fifth culprit, SHO of Srinagar Police Station Sanjay Sharma said. The victim's statement will be recorded in the court soon, he added.

TOP LASHKAR COMMANDER ARRESTED

DC CORRESPONDENT SRINAGAR, JUNE 28

Two officers and a jawan of Central Reserve Police Force (CRPF) have been injured in a fierce gunfight with militants, raging in Malhoora area on the peripheries of Jammu and Kashmir's summer capital Srinagar since Monday afternoon. An earlier report had said that a suspected Lashkar-e-Tayyaba (LeT) cadre was killed in the clash but the officials did not confirm it.

Earlier during the day on Monday, the J&K police had arrested what it claimed is a top commander of the LeT from a car after it was stopped at a makeshift checkpoint laid by it at Parimipora neighbourhood.

It is believed that the LeT commander Nadeem Abrar, who the police said has been involved in several militancy related incidents, identified the place where the militants' group currently engaged in the gunfight with the security forces was hiding.

The police and CRPF sources said that the injured CRPF Assistant Commandant Satendra Kumar and Constable Muhammad Waseem who were injured in the clash were immediately taken to the 92-Base Hospital of the Army in Srinagar's Badami Bagh Cantonment.

DIDI ALLEGES DHANKHAR HAS 'TAINTED' PAST

RAJIB CHOWDHURI | DC KOLKATA, JUNE 28

Describing West Bengal governor Jagdeep Dhankhar as "corrupt", Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee on Monday alleged in an explosive outburst that he was earlier charge-sheeted for his role in the infamous 1996 Jain hawala scam.

The Trinamul Congress boss also claimed while Dhankhar's name was later dropped after "the court was managed", a PIL was filed later and has since been pending against him in the court.

She further challenged the Centre, if it was unaware of Dhankhar's tainted past, to check the chargesheet in the high-profile financial scam.

Retaliating over Banerjee's unprecedented attack within hours, a "disappointed" governor denounced her claims for creating a "sensation" and accused her of lying.

Banerjee told the media at Nabanna, the state secretariat: "Someone, who was a journalist, told me the present governor's name was in the Jain hawala case in 1996. He was charge-sheeted. But they went to court to clear his name. Again, a public interest litigation was filed there. It is still pending. He is a corrupt man, a corruption-oriented man. What more do you want to know?" She added: "Why does the Central government allow a Governor like him to continue? If the Central government is unaware of his involvement, I can explain it. Let the chargesheet of the Jain hawala case be brought out to check whether his name was there or not. The court was managed... But another case was filed later. It is yet to bear any outcome."

Militants kill cop, his wife and daughter

SPO's son is in the Army; IGP says perpetrators of this 'act of cowardice' could be foreign militants

YUSUF JAMEEL | DC SRINAGAR, JUNE 28

A special police officer (SPO) was shot dead, and his wife and daughter critically injured by suspected militants in J&K's Pulwama district late on Sunday night.

The mother-daughter duo succumbed to their injuries in hospital later. The SPO's son is reportedly serving in the Army.

The police said two to three gunmen barged into the house of SPO Fayaz Ahmed at Hariparigam village of Awantipora area of Pulwama and started indiscriminate firing, resulting into the on-the-spot death of the police official and grievously injuring his 45-year-old wife Raja Banoo and daughter Rafia Jan, aged 23.

Local sources said the SPO's wife and daughter had tried to save him from the assailants' bullets.

The trio was rushed to a nearby healthcare facility, where doctors declared Ahmed brought dead while as his wife and daughter were shifted to the Government Medical College Hospital in Anantnag district.

However, Banoo succumbed to her injuries within a few hours, the police and hospital sources said.

As the condition of the SPO's daughter deteriorated, she was brought to Srinagar's Sher-i-Kashmir Institute of Medical Sciences for specialised treatment, but she too died around 4 am on Monday, the hospital said.

Reports said Ahmed's son is serving in the Territorial Army and was on duty when the attack took place.

IGP (Kashmir range) Vijay Kumar, who with other police officers visited the family on Monday, said the perpetrators of this "act of cowardice" could be foreign militants of Jaish-e-Muhammad.

"The J&K police will soon identify and neutralise the terrorists involved in this barbaric act soon. We are saddened by this incident. There is a movement of Jaish-e-Muhammad in this area, and it must be them," he told reporters, adding: "Targeting the wife and daughter of a policeman is an act of cowardice."

New generation Agni Prime missile test fired successfully

AKSHAYA KUMAR SAHOO | DC BHUBANESWAR, JUNE 28

India on Monday successfully test-fired new generation nuclear capable Agni Prime, an advanced version of Agni-1 missile off the Odisha coast.

The surface-to-surface short-range ballistic missile was fired at 10.55 am from the Abdul Kalam Island in Bhadrak district. Various telemetry and radar stations positioned along the eastern coast tracked and monitored the missile, Defence Research and Development Organisation (DRDO) official sources said.

The nuclear-capable missile has been designed and developed by the DRDO.

With a range of 1,000 km to 2,000 km, Agni-Prime can carry a payload of 1000 kg. The missile is lighter and much sleeker than Agni-1.

Agni 1, 2, 3 and Prithvi are already in the arsenal of armed forces. All these missiles which have a strike range of over 3,000 km have given India an effective deterrence capability.

On September 30, 2020, India had successfully test-fired an extended version of surface-to-surface supersonic cruise missile BrahMos. The missile was tested from Chandipur Integrated Test Range in Odisha's Balasore district.

BrahMos is capable of hitting targets at more than 400-km range. Source said that the airframe and booster of the missile have been developed indigenously.

BrahMos Aerospace is a joint venture between India's DRDO and Federal State Unitary Enterprise NPO Mashinostroyeniya of Russia.

The missile can be launched from submarines, ships, aircrafts, as well as from land platforms. BrahMos is regarded as the fastest supersonic cruise missile in the world. It is operational with Indian Army, Navy and Air Force.

On November 17, 2020 when India was facing border tension with China, the DRDO had flight-tested indigenously-developed Quick Reaction Surface to Air Missile (QRSAM) air defence system from the same ITR.

Twitter shows J&K, Ladakh outside India

New Delhi, June 28: Amid a stand-off with the Indian government over compliance with new IT rules, the Twitter website is displaying a wrong map of the country that shows Jammu and Kashmir, and Ladakh as separate country.

The glaring distortion, which appears on the career section of Twitter website under the header 'Tweep Life', has triggered a heavy backlash from netizens who are demanding strict action against the microblogging platform.

This is not the first time that Twitter has misrepresented India's map. Earlier, it had shown Leh as part of China.

A mail sent to Twitter on the issue did not elicit a response.

The US digital giant has been engaged in a tussle with the Indian government over the new social media rules. The government has confronted Twitter for deliberate defiance and failure to comply with the country's new IT rules, despite repeated reminders.

Notably, the microblogging platform has lost its legal shield as an intermediary in India, becoming liable for users posting any unlawful content.

On Monday, social media users slammed Twitter's gross misrepresentation of India's map, that appears on its career section. The global map, showing Jammu and Kashmir, and Ladakh outside India, triggered angry responses from netizens who are demanding stringent action be initiated against the microblogging platform that has flouted rules on multiple occasions in the past.

In October last year, Twitter came under heavy criticism and faced backlash after its geotagging feature displayed "Jammu & Kashmir, People's Republic of China" in a live broadcast from Leh's Hall of Fame, a war memorial for fallen soldiers in the Union Territory of Ladakh.

India has issued a stern warning to Twitter that time, making it clear that any disrespect of the country's sovereignty and integrity is totally unacceptable.

In November, government issued a notice to Twitter for showing Leh as part of Jammu and Kashmir instead of the Union Territory of Ladakh, as Centre lambasted the platform for disrespecting the territorial integrity of India by showing an incorrect map.

Twitter's apparent heavy handedness has come under government scrutiny when the microblogging platform did not fully complied with the new rules, called intermediary Guidelines, that mandate setting up a robust grievance redressal mechanism and appointing officers to coordinate with law enforcement.

TIES | VITAL Lieutenant Governor asks cops to speed up probe into suspicious interfaith marriages

Lens on interfaith marriages in Valley

DC CORRESPONDENT SRINAGAR, JUNE 28

The Jammu and Kashmir police has stepped up investigation into alleged manoeuvring in a recent case of interfaith marriage which has caused considerable suspicion and mistrust between the majority Muslim and minority Sikh communities of the Valley.

An 18-year-old Sikh girl from Srinagar's Chatti Patshahi, Rainawari area who, the community leaders suspect, was forcibly converted to Islam and then married to a Muslim man almost thrice of her age has been restored to her parents.

But the Sikh leaders are wary of the police's role in this case and a similar marriage reported earlier from the city's Mehjoor Nagar. They are unhappy also at the silence being maintained by Kashmir's Muslim leadership and the civil society vis-a-vis such happenings.

The official sources said that Lieutenant Governor Manoj Sinha, has asked senior police officers to hold fast investigation into the incidents. The police officers - Inspector General of police, Vijay Kumar, and SSP Srinagar, Sandeep Chaudhary - were present at a meeting of joint delegation of Delhi Sikh Gurdwara Management Committee and members of several Sikh

Members of Jago Party stage a protest outside J&K House over the abduction of a Sikh woman in Srinagar, in New Delhi on Monday. — PTI

Gurdwara Management Committees of Kashmir had had with Sinha to raise the issue.

The delegation led by DSGMC president, S. Manjinder Singh Sirsa, in the backdrop of the latest and previous incidents of Sikh women's embracing Islam either before or after marrying Muslim men demanded official ban on conversions in J&K. While the Sikh community leaders allege that these women were converted to Muslim men in "suspicious manner" and the police and other authorities "appeared to be part of such manipulations rather apparently acted as facilitators", some couples and their families have publicly claimed that these interfaith marriages were solemnised at the own sweet will of these Sikh women.

The Sikh leaders said that in the latest incident the police made the parents of the girl sit at the outer gate of a court here while the judge was hearing the case.

"Not only that, the police made the parents of the girl married to a 50-year-old man who has already been through two divorces to sign some papers which caused suspicion not only in the couple but the entire community," said a Sikh leader.

Former CM Omar Abdullah tweeted, "Any move to drive a wedge between Sikhs & Muslims in Kashmir will cause irreparable harm to J&K. The two communities have supported each other through thick & thin, having withstood countless attempts to damage age old relationships."

1 DEAD, 13 HURT
IN TWO CHICAGO
SHOOTINGS

Chicago: Two separate shootings left one person dead and at least 13 others injured on Sunday night in Chicago, police said.

A woman died, and four men and a teenager were wounded when an SUV drove by and shots were fired in the South Shore area just before 9 pm, news outlets reported. The group of six was standing outside when the gunfire erupted. The woman was shot six times and taken to a hospital where she was later pronounced dead, police said. The four men and a 15-year-old boy were taken to hospitals where their conditions were said to be stable.

About two hours later, a separate shooting in the Marquette Park area wounded eight people, Chicago fire officials said. A vehicle collision was also reported nearby in which two people were injured.

It was not immediately clear how the shooting and the crash may be related.

UKRAINE, U.S.
BEGIN BLACK SEA DRILLS

Kiev: Ukraine and the United States launched joint naval exercises in the Black Sea on Monday in a show of Western cooperation with Kiev as it faces off with Russia.

The drills come just days after the British navy's HMS Defender passed near Russian-annexed Crimea in the Black Sea, with Moscow saying it fired warning shots at the destroyer to ward it off.

The Sea Breeze drills — which have taken place 21 times since 1997 — will involve some 5,000 military personnel from more than 30 countries. The exercises will last two weeks and involve around 30 ships, including the missile destroyer USS Ross.

Ukrainian navy commander Oleksiy Neizhpapa said during an opening ceremony in Odessa that the exercises would send a "powerful message to maintain stability and peace in our region." Russia said it fired warning shots last Wednesday at the HMS Defender after what it said was a violation of its territorial waters.

U.S. NORTHWEST,

Ottawa: Swathes of the United States and Canada endured record-setting heat on Sunday, forcing schools and Covid-19 testing centers to close and the postponement of an Olympic athletics qualifying event, with forecasters warning of worse to come.

The village of Lytton in British Columbia broke the record for Canada's all-time high, with a temperature of 46.6 degrees Celsius (116 Fahrenheit), said Environment Canada.

And in Eugene, Oregon, a temperature of 43.3 degrees Celsius (110 degrees Fahrenheit) forced organisers to postpone the final day of the US Olympic track and field trials, moving afternoon events to the evening.

On Sunday in Seattle, Washington state, the temperature hit 40 degrees Celsius (104 degrees Fahrenheit), a record that surprised residents not used to warmer climes.

SWEDISH PM
RESIGNS AFTER
NO-TRUST VOTE

Stockholm: Sweden's Prime Minister Stefan Lofven resigned on Monday, one week after he lost a vote of no confidence, leaving it up to the speaker of parliament to begin the search for a replacement.

Lofven could have either called a snap election or resigned following the no-confidence vote last week.

He told a press conference that a snap election was "not what is best for Sweden", pointing to the difficult situation the Covid-19 pandemic posed, coupled with the fact that the next general election — which would go ahead regardless — is a year away.

"With that starting point, I have requested the speaker to relieve me as prime minister," Lofven said.

The Social Democrat leader — a master of consensus for some, a dull and visionless party man for others — had seven days after the confidence vote to contemplate his options and try and secure a parliamentary majority for a potential reforming of his government.

Air strike marks Biden admin's second military action in region

Iraq slams air strikes by US
on pro-Iran armed groups

Washington, June 28: The US military, under the direction of President Joe Biden, conducted air strikes on Sunday against what it said were facilities used by Iran-backed militia groups near the border between Iraq and Syria.

Pentagon Press Secretary John Kirby said that the militias were using the facilities to launch unmanned aerial vehicle attacks against US troops in Iraq.

Kirby said the US military targeted three operational and weapons storage facilities — two in Syria and one in Iraq.

He described the air strikes as defensive, saying they were launched in response to the attacks by Iran-backed groups.

The United States took necessary, appropriate, and deliberate action

Baghdad, June 28: Iraq on Monday condemned overnight US air strikes against Iran-backed armed groups on the Syrian-Iraqi border that killed at least seven fighters and sparked calls for revenge from Iraqi armed factions.

The second such raid on pro-Iran targets since US President Joe Biden took office, described by the Pentagon as "retaliatory", led to fears of a new escalation between Tehran and Washington and came despite faltering efforts to revive a key deal over Iran's nuclear programme.

Iraq's Prime Minister Mustafa al-Kadhemi condemned the attack as a "blatant and unacceptable violation of Iraqi sovereignty and Iraqi national security".

"Iraq reiterates its refusal to be an arena for settling scores," Kadhemi added in a statement, urging all sides to avoid any further escalation.

The Hashed, an Iraqi paramilitary alliance that includes several Iranian proxies and has become the main power broker in Baghdad, said the strikes killed four of its fighters in the Qaim region, some 13 kilometres (eight miles) away from the border.

The fighters were stationed there to prevent jihadists from infiltrating Iraq, the group said, denying that they had taken part in any attacks against US interests or personnel.

Iran yet to finalise on camera deal

Tehran, June 28: Iran has not made a decision yet about whether to extend an agreement with the UN atomic watchdog over access to surveillance footage at its nuclear sites, the country's foreign ministry said on Monday.

The remarks by Foreign Ministry spokesman Saeed Khatibzadeh come after a three-month deal between Tehran and international nuclear inspectors to its nuclear sites earlier this year, part of a pressure campaign on the West over its tattered 2015 nuclear deal with world week, following a one-month extension. "No decision, either negative or positive has been made," Khatibzadeh told reporters. "Neither the continuation of the deal nor the erasure (of data). We are in the previous position for the time being."

Iran began limiting the access of UN atomic watchdog inspectors to its nuclear sites earlier this year, part of a pressure campaign on the West over its tattered 2015 nuclear deal with world powers. Tehran was trying to push European powers to provide relief from oil and banking sanctions imposed three years ago when then-President Donald Trump withdrew America from the landmark accord. As part of that effort, Iran abandoned the accord's enrichment limits and is now enriching uranium to 60 per cent purity, its highest ever levels, although still short of weapons grade 90 per cent.

In order to limit diplomatic damage amid ongoing negotiations in Vienna to resurrect the nuclear deal, Iran and the International Atomic Energy Agency reached a last-minute February agreement over Tehran's newly imposed limits on inspections.

The move to erase the surveillance footage would steeply escalate tensions, complicating diplomatic efforts to find a path for America to lift sanctions and Iran to reimpose curbs on its nuclear program.

Russia, China extend 20-yr-old friendship ties

Moscow, June 28: The leaders of Russia and China on Monday hailed increasingly close ties between their countries and announced the extension of a 20-year-old friendship treaty, a show of unity amid their tensions with the West.

Speaking in a video call with Chinese President Xi Jinping, Russian President Vladimir Putin said that the treaty signed in July 2001 in Moscow helped take relations between Moscow and Beijing to an "unprecedented height" and would be extended for another five years. The Russian leader noted that the coordination of foreign policy efforts by Russia and China has played a "stabilising role in global affairs."

Xi in his opening remarks emphasised the importance of a "strategic cooperation" between Moscow and Beijing in defending their common interests on the global stage. He added that Russia and China have worked to uphold a "true multilateralism and global justice."

Putin and Xi have developed strong personal ties to bolster a "strategic partnership" between the two former Communist rivals as they vie with the West for influence and face soaring tensions in relations with the US and its allies. While Moscow and Beijing in the past rejected the possibility of forging a military alliance, Putin said last fall that such a prospect can't be ruled out entirely.

During Monday's call, Putin congratulated Xi on the 100th anniversary of the Communist Party of China celebrated Thursday, saying that China is marking it with "new achievements in the country's social-economic development and on the international stage" and recalling Soviet support for the Chinese communists.

Moscow marked the CPC's centennial by sharing historic documents on Soviet-Chinese links with Beijing.

China launches hydropower stn

Beijing, June 28: China is marking the centenary of its ruling Communist Party this week by heralding what it says is its growing influence abroad, along with success in battling corruption at home.

Party officials on Monday heaped praise on President Xi Jinping, who has established himself as China's most powerful leader since Mao Zedong, and has eliminated any limits on his term in office. China has seen huge improvements in living standards over the past four decades, accompanied by rising international economic and political heft. Yet, while many countries have benefited from that relationship, China is also seen eroding democracy and human rights in nations over which it holds economic sway.

"The Chinese Communist party's international influence, appeal and attraction have continually increased, placing it at the forefront of world politics," Guo Yezhou, deputy head of the party's external liaison department told reporters at a news conference held at

Current vax less effective against
Beta variant: Study

Boston, June 28: A study of the spike protein of SARS-CoV-2, the virus which cause Covid-19, suggests that current vaccines may be less effective against the Beta variant first identified in South Africa.

Present on the surface of SARS-CoV-2, spike proteins enable the virus to attach to and enter our cells, and all current vaccines are directed against them. The study, published in the journal Science on June 24, used cryo-electron microscopy (cryo-EM) to compare the spike protein from the original virus found in China in 2019, with that of the Beta variant, and the Alpha variant first identified in the UK.

Cryo-Em is an imaging technique used to determine the biomolecular structures at near-atomic resolution. The findings led by researchers at Boston Children's Hospital in the US indicate that mutations in the Beta variant, also known as B.1.351, change the shape of the spike surface at certain locations. As a result, neutralising antibodies induced by current vaccines are less able to bind to the Beta virus, which may allow it to evade the immune system even when people are vaccinated.

"The mutations make antibodies stimulated by the current vaccine less effective," said Bing Chen, from the division of Molecular Medicine at Boston Children's.

"The Beta variant is somewhat resistant to the current vaccines, and we think a booster with the new genetic sequence can be beneficial for protecting against this variant," Chen added. The researchers also found that mutations in the Beta variant make the spike less effective in binding to ACE2 — suggesting that this variant is less transmissible than the Alpha variant.

Jammu drone attacks carry ominous signals

Did India see its first terrorist attack through the use of drones, in the early hours last Sunday, when the technical area of Jammu airport — namely the Air Force Station — saw two explosions go off? The picture is not clear yet. Fortunately, the explosions caused only very minor damage. Fighter planes were parked at a different location, but even Indian Air Force helicopters, in hangars nearby, not were affected. This is a matter of relief.

Had a helicopter been damaged, the consequences by now are likely to have been kinetic, sparking anxieties and fears of a wider military conflagration. It is to be borne in mind that the Air Force Station is barely 14 kilometres from the India-Pakistan border. However, the presumption of drones cannot be ruled out and will remain the working hypothesis until the investigators have had time to examine the episode from every possible angle and rule out the possibility. At any rate, the presumed dropping of two improvised explosive devices from “an aerial platform” does raise the spectre of drones coming into play in the India-Pakistan dynamics even if investigations eventually discount the possibility that drones were indeed used in the Jammu explosions.

Had a helicopter been damaged, the consequences by now are likely to have been kinetic, sparking anxieties and fears of a wider military conflagration.

In recent years drones — unmanned air vehicles (UAVs) which are barely 20 kilogram in weight and can fit into a small space — have carried deadly military payloads. In September 2019, the Houthis rebels of Yemen attacked oil processing plants in Saudi Arabia, causing an international geo-strategic scare. More recently, in May this year, the Houthis claimed to have dropped bombs just inside the Saudi border using drones. From the Afghan theatre, the Americans were sending out military drones into the tribal areas of Pakistan to target fighters of extremist factions.

Drones from Pakistan are known to have airdropped cargos of arms and ammunition for use by terrorists inside J&K as well as in Punjab. But the Jammu incident suggests that the authors of the airdropping of explosives near high-value military targets are playing a game of brinkmanship, if they have the sanction of a government. In case the unloading of explosives from the air was done by terrorist elements, then the exercise puts at risk the tenuous calm that obtains in J&K. In that event the political processes under consideration in the Union Territory can potentially be derailed as the security grid is intensified manifold by the government and overt oppression of the populace once again becomes the norm. In that case, the military-to-military agreement of February 25 between the defence establishments of India and Pakistan, which had led to the sincere observance of ceasefire, is likely to come under serious strain.

The June 27 airdropping of explosive devices in Jammu could conceivably be a trial run, with better targeted attempts to follow. At any rate, India would do well to refine its tactics in neutralizing this new technique being used by terrorists or an unfriendly power. When attack drones come into play, putting more troops on the ground and the use of anti-aircraft guns are not the answer. The electromagnetic spectrum warriors will need to step up to neutralise the GPS fittings on the hostile drones. A new dimension in counter-terrorism measures, even warfare, is at hand.

Who spied on UK minister?

UK health secretary, Matt Hancock, had to go. Political authority needs legitimacy and his actions in an extramarital affair in which he was seen hugging an aide in his office were the very epitome of flagrant disregard of normal rules of morality as well as poor timing. In a democracy that prides itself on very old foundations even within a ceremonial monarchy, there can't be one rule for the suffering public and another for privileged rulers.

Hancock, who had had the unenviable task of leading the battle against waves of the Coronavirus pandemic, had imposed such severe lockdown restrictions on the British public that they could not even hug their near and dear ones, not even at a funeral, which they were in most cases forbidden to attend anyway. The pressure that was brought upon the “hugging” Tory minister to do the decent thing and hand in his papers was impressive and succeeded despite Prime Minister Boris Johnson being inclined towards keeping him in the job.

Hancock's authority to lead the NHS and decide on health policies and order Covid restrictions had been eroded. But the real issue is who ordered the placing of spy cameras inside Whitehall, the seat of UK government. Was the camera, which was hidden inside a smoke detector, placed there by spy agencies like MI 5 or MI 6 without the authority of the bosses? That brings us back to whether these spy games are being played without the knowledge of the leaders of a democratically elected government.

The thought that Big Brother may be watching everyone all the time, especially in CCTV camera-obsessed Britain which has one of the world's highest density in cameras placed in public places, gains greater currency in the light of l'affaire Hancock involving aide Gina Coldangelo. It is strange that UK authorities are probing how the footage from the CCTV device was leaked to The Sun rather than how a minister's office came to be spied upon like this. The acceptance at this level that secret taping is going on appears ludicrous and it is by no means restricted to the UK.

After J&K olive branch, will Pak ties normalise?

K.C. Singh

Prime Minister Narendra Modi reaffirmed the absence of “dil ki doori” between his government and 14 Kashmiri mainstream leaders at his first meeting with them after August 2019, when his government had revoked Jammu and Kashmir's special status under Article 370 and downgraded and divided the state into two Union territories. Questions naturally arise about what lies behind this softening of the Modi government's approach, far removed from the demonising of traditional political parties over the past two years.

While the foreign policy of any democracy gets impacted by its domestic politics, it is more so with this Indian government. After Mr Modi's convincing re-election in 2019, the government decided to pursue its core agenda with vigour. The Jammu and Kashmir decision was taken in August 2019, followed in December by the Citizenship Amendment Act's passage, creating discriminatory, religion-based and nation-specific exceptions for refugees to gain Indian citizenship. In February 2020, US President Donald Trump visited India on a highly calibrated visit to massage his ego. To avoid appearing partisan, such visits are not usually scheduled when the incumbent faces re-election in nine months. Prime Minister Modi had in the preceding years personally cultivated relations with the rulers of Saudi Arabia and the United Arab Emirates, besides of course the United States.

Thus, when implementing its majoritarian BJP agenda domestically, the government calculated that Pakistan's protests over J&K's rejig could be contained without too much diplomatic damage. Similarly, the friendly government of Bangladesh could be appeased to ensure that it ignored the rhetoric of senior BJP leaders dubbing illegal immigrants as “pests”. The US under President Trump was also expected to downplay the issue, as he demonstrated by ignoring the communal incidents in New Delhi on the last day of his visit in February 2020.

However, the US as well as its Gulf allies Saudi Arabia and UAE had been closely watching developments in South Asia. The escalation of tensions after the Pulwama terror attack and India's airstrike on Balakot in Pakistan, followed by Pakistan's retaliatory strike and dogfight resulting in the capture of an IAF pilot, saw the behind-the-scenes role played by these three nations. The fact that the Indian pilot was handed back almost immediately, giving a filip to Mr Modi's popularity just two months before the Lok Sabha election, earned these three nations goodwill and possible leverage in India-Pakistan affairs. C-Voter polling data found that between January 1 and March 7 the net approval rating of the Modi government rose from 32 per cent to 62 per cent. While some of the bump came after the Budget, the real spike was after Balakot. The popularity of Rahul Gandhi fell from 23.3 per cent to 8.2 per cent, while that of Mr Modi rose from 32.4 per cent to 63.2 per cent.

However, the BJP's assessment about the international reaction to its domestic agenda getting easily manged came up against unforeseen factors. First, the outbreak of Covid-19, beginning soon after Mr Trump's India visit, distracted India and even affected India's image abroad after the poor handling of its second wave. Second, China protested strongly after the J&K changes, claiming that India could not alter the status quo unilaterally as China was a party to the dispute. Thus, India should have been alert to Chinese mischief at the Line of Actual Control (LAC), especially as China had quickly managed to contain the epidemic. Instead of showing contrition for letting the virus escape and cause a global health and economic crisis, China chose to push its People's Liberation Army at multiple points in Eastern Ladakh up to its claim lines, upsetting the status quo. While it has agreed to a mutual withdrawal in the Pangong Tso and Kailash Hills sectors, its intrusions remain in Depsang Plains, Gogra and Hot Springs, etc.

The third unforeseen factor was the defeat of President Donald Trump in November 2020. After Joe Biden assumed the presidency, India realised that his Democratic Party's left wing had evangelistic interest in human rights and freedom of faith and expression. Ironically, two Indian-origin members of Congress, Pramila Jayapal and Ro Khanna, are among the strongest critics of the BJP majoritarian agenda, including its draconian Kashmir policy. President Biden too strongly advocated an alliance of democracies to counter the challenge from the strategic convergence of Russia and China. It was because of this that at the recent G-7 summit in Cornwall, four democracies were invited as “guests” — Australia, India, South Korea and South Africa.

Critics would say US foreign policy rests on pragmatic considerations, often ignoring its own advocated values of democracy and human rights. However, the times have changed, and Cold War arguments may now be inapplicable, particularly after Mr Trump's attempt at undermining US democracy itself. Moreover, China presents a different challenge from the one the former Soviet Union held. It posits a hugely successful model resting on restricted political and personal freedoms in exchange for prosperity, material growth and economic security. To challenge its lure, liberal democracies are being compelled to argue the relevance of their own model. Thus, the US and other Western democracies cannot ignore the continued debasement of liberal democracy in Asia, and certainly in India as they look towards this country as a role model.

The PM's session with the Kashmiri political leaders is a recognition that the government's Kashmir policy has yielded poor results at home and abroad. The restoration of Article 370 seems unlikely as its revocation has been a core BJP demand and which has popular support. That leaves delimitation, elections and statehood. Views on their sequencing differ, but the road to statehood is clear. This clears the path for a calibrated resumption of normal relations with Pakistan. Pakistan's Prime Minister Imran Khan in an interview has sought “civilised relations” with India. He also interestingly argues that even Pakistan doesn't want the Taliban to continue its onslaught in Afghanistan to depose the government as a civil war will only have more refugees streaming into an already economically challenged Pakistan. The national security advisers of India and Pakistan will both be at the coming Shanghai Cooperation Organisation meeting. Hopefully, the Indian government has realised that its Pakistan policy should be delinked from electoral considerations and strategically its Kashmir policy has only deepened Sino-Pakistan relations. If Pakistan too realises that terror is a dangerous instrument to wield against India as it begets global condemnation, besides singing the user, the region might actually stand to gain.

TRAGIC MISHAP

It was a tragic mishap (Elderly man crushed between 2 RTC buses, DC, June 28). Since there is a road divider and the carriageway on the other side is so narrow, buses from Rathifile that need to take a right turn through a gap in the median find it very difficult to do so in one go. 50 YEARS AGO IN DECCAN Chronicle

India may take Bangla issue to UN

NEW DELHI, JUNE 28.

The Minister of External Affairs, Mr. Swaran Singh, told the Lok Sabha today that India had already initiated consultations with various Governments and depending upon the support we get, we will definitely raise (the issue of) Bangla Desh at an appropriate United Nations body. But these efforts would be “ancillary and supplementary to our main effort to realise our objectives” — to secure a political settlement acceptable to the elected representatives of Bangla Desh. Led by Sheikh Mujibur Rahman and return of the six million Bangla Desh citizens to their hearths and homes.

As world keeps growing, India's sinking, going back to the past

Will four years ago, the Indian government would use the phrase “fastest growing economy”. Prime Minister Narendra Modi would repeat the phrase “one bright spot in the global economy” to describe the country, and used it last at 8 pm on Tuesday, November 8, 2016, when he gave us the demonetisation speech.

Since then, we have not heard much about the fastest growing bright spot. There is not much talk about the economy and has not been for the past four years. When it looked like India's economy had run into trouble, the boasting paused. Now that it is clear that India's economy has been ruined, we have stopped speaking about it entirely. Of course, just because the government does not speak about something does not mean that the problem does not exist. It does and we must try and understand what has happened to India.

According to the government data, our economic growth began braking sharply before January 2018. From here, for some reasons which we need not speculate about today, we fell into a decline which we could not pull out of. For the four quarters of 2018 and for the next four quarters of 2019 and for the first quarter of 2020, we fell. This was before the Covid-19 pandemic and by the time the nationwide lockdown was announced, we had stopped growing completely.

The government did not tell us why our economy had imploded. The PM simply stopped speaking on the subject. On October 14, 2019, the Hindu published a piece written by Parakala Prabhakar, who is finance minister Nirmala Sitharaman's husband. Assessing the economy, he wrote: “There is anxiety all over about the economic slowdown in the country. While the government is still in denial mode, data flowing uninterruptedly into the public domain show that sector after sector is staring at a seriously challenging situation. Private consumption has contracted and is at an 18-quarter low of 3.1 per cent; rural consumption is in a deep southward dive and is double the rate of the urban slowdown; the credit offtake by micro and small industries remains stagnant; net exports have shown little or no growth; GDP growth is at a six-year low with the first quarter of FY20 registering just five per cent; and unemployment is at a 45-year-high. The government, however, is yet to show any signs that it has come to grips with what ails the economy. Much less evidence is available to believe that it has a strategic vision to address the challenges.”

This was 20 months ago and before the pandemic, and before the recession of 2020 and before the second wave of Covid-19. I received a newsletter from a business daily this week which listed what the position was for the last financial year, which ended a few weeks ago in April. Consumer spending had contracted by nine per cent and investments contracted by more than 10 per cent. Manufacturing, services and construction lost value somewhere in the range of eight per cent. What happened in the last financial year was that we went back to the past. We slowed down, then we stopped growing and then we started going back. The rest of the world kept growing and left us behind.

The reason the average Indian is today poorer than the average Bangladeshi is to be found in the last 48 months. By April 2021, manufacturing, trade, transport and communications was down at the same level that it was in 2018. That is three years of growth lost. Construction has lost two years.

The output of core industries such as cement, refineries, steel is the same as it was in March 2017. That is four years India lost while the rest of the world produced more. The sales of passenger vehicles, including cars, have gone back to their 2016 levels. That's a loss of five years. This is not an anomaly. The auto sector has been hammered for many years now and it is clear that the middle class has stopped growing. Two-wheeler sales are today at the same point that they were 10 years ago. The sales of commercial vehicles, meaning the trucks that carry around goods, are today below where they were when Narendra Modi first became Prime Minister.

Is this some new data that I am referring to? No, this is publicly available and has been known to all who are part of the sector. If some of us have not known that the situation is this grim, it is purely because it has not featured in a “Mann Ki Baat” yet.

If you don't acknowledge a problem, as Dr Manmohan Singh said about the economy in an interview last year, then you cannot begin to solve it. This is why we will not solve this problem. India's leader has too much pride to admit to us that he has failed us on the economy. His Cabinet of chamchas dare not say it either. His finance minister's husband must write an article in one of India's most reputable newspapers to bring to the notice of the world that we are sunk.

The impoverishing of Indians and the wrecking of our economy is happening at the same time when the concentration of our wealth is being skewed towards a few. The two richest men in Asia are not from China, whose economy is six times bigger than India's. They are two Gujarati men who represent the model of “growth” in India.

Paediatric care gets ₹23,220-cr funds Focus on health infra for children

FC BUREAU NEW DELHI, JUNE 28

Making a proactive move, finance minister Nirmala Sitharaman on Monday provided Rs 23,220 crore of additional funding for setting up paediatric care/paediatric beds at hospitals to prepare healthcare infrastructure to deal with any emergency in the event of the next Covid wave affecting children.

Experts have warned that a third Covid wave in the country may affect children more than adults.

Announcing a set of measures for reviving the economy battered by the severe second Covid wave, Sitharaman also unveiled a Rs 50,000-crore credit guarantee scheme for setting up of medical or health infrastructure by private hospitals in cities other than eight metropolitan cities.

"We are now providing Rs 23,220 crore more, primarily focussing on children and paediatric care. This Rs 23,220 crore will be spent this financial year itself.

"It will also focus on funding of HR augmentation so that medical students, interns, nurses can also be brought in for helping in such emergencies, ICU beds will be made available, oxygen supply at central, district and sub-district level will be ensured and also making sure that equipments and medicines, tele-consultation and ambulance service... all of that will be taken care of with primary focus on children. So paediatric care is the emphasis," Sitharaman said at a press conference.

Game streaming startup Loco gets funds from PUBG firm

SARITHA RAI JUNE 28

Loco, an Indian streaming platform for video games, received $9 million from investors, including South Korean gaming company Krafton Inc in its first fundraising effort to capitalise on the growing popularity of games-based entertainment in the South Asian nation.

The Mumbai-based startup was also backed in its seed round by Lumikai Ltd, India's first gaming media fund, London-based Hiro Capital and early stage investors including 3one4 Capital and Axilor Ventures.

Loco will use the funds to upgrade its technology and content, the startup said in an announcement on Monday.

Livestreaming of games has been popularised globally by the likes of Amazon.com Inc's Twitch in the US and DouYu International Holdings Ltd and Huya Inc in China. In India—which has no legacy of gaming on consoles or desktops—the genre received a boost during the pandemic, as the hundreds of millions locked indoors turned to their smartphones for entertainment. Krafton's PUBG Mobile, previously distributed in India by Tencent Holdings Ltd, had been among the most popular games in the country before it was banned last year and is now re-entering the market.

"Cheap data and inexpensive phones brewed a perfect situation in India, creating a completely new category of entertainment," co-founder Anirudh Pandita said in an interview. "Over 100 million monthly active users in India engage with these games, imagine a 100 million people playing a sport that no one's watching—that's what Loco set out to solve for."

Loco Interactive Pte, as the startup is officially called, was founded by Pandita and Ashwin Suresh, who met as engineering undergraduates at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign. The duo went on to work on Wall Street before starting Pocket Aces Pvt Ltd, a digital studio creating streaming content to provide an alternative to traditional television entertainment. The gaming startup will be spun off from Pocket Aces with this funding, the statement said.

Loco has expanded rapidly in the past year, with monthly active users growing six times and monthly active streamers increasing 10 times. Its main competitor is YouTube, the startup said.

Loco has a roster of the country's most best-known streamers playing popular games such as Clash of Clans, FreeFire and Call of Duty Mobile. It also hosts top esports teams. It also hosts top esports teams and their tournaments, though the genre remains a niche in India.

CENTRE WANTS BANKS TO GIVE SMALL LOANS TO BORROWERS

This is additional to the ₹3 lakh crore announced under the scheme last year. "The new credit guarantee scheme will give loans to small borrowers, through Micro Finance Institutions (MFIs), where the maximum loan to individuals will be ₹1.25 lakh at an interest rate below two per cent — as prescribed by the RBI. Our focus will be new loans, stressed borrowers except NPAs to be covered and the loan duration of three years under the scheme," she said.

The finance minister also announced job benefits, extending the Atmanirbhar Bharat Rozgar Yojana and loan guarantees for Covid-affected sectors such as tourism.

For the tourism sector, the finance minister unveiled a new scheme to revive the sector. "Financial support will be extended to more than 11,000 registered tourist guides and travel & tourism stakeholders (TTS). These TTS will receive up to ₹10 lakh loan, while licensed tourist guides will get up to ₹1 lakh loan," Sitharaman said.

"In the tourism scheme, free tourist visas will be offered to five lakh tourists. This scheme is applicable till March 31, 2022, or till the first five lakh tourist visas get covered, whichever is earlier. One tourist can avail benefit only once," she added.

She also announced an extra ₹23,220 crore for short-term emergency preparedness with an emphasis on paediatrics care.

Indians invest nearly $40 bn in crypto assets

SUVASHREE GHOSH & RONOJOY MAZUMDAR JUNE 28

The cryptocurrency aficionados' mantra that Bitcoin is equivalent to digital gold is winning converts among the world's biggest holders of the precious metal.

In India, where households own more than 25,000 tonnes of gold, investments in crypto grew from about $200 million to nearly $40 billion in the past year, according to Chainalysis. That's despite outright hostility toward the asset class from the central bank and a proposed trading ban.

Richi Sood, a 32-year-old entrepreneur is one of those who swerved from gold to crypto. Since December, she's put in just over Rs 10 lakh—some of it borrowed from her father—into Bitcoin, Dogecoin and Ether.

And she's been fortunate with her timing. She cashed out part of her position when Bitcoin smashed through $50,000 in February and bought back in after the recent tumble, allowing her to fund the overseas expansion of her education startup Study Mate India. "I'd rather put my money in crypto than gold," Ms Sood said. "Crypto is more transparent than gold or property and returns are more in a short period of time."

She's part of a growing number of Indians—now totalling more than 15 million—buying and selling digital coins. That's catching up with the 23 million traders of these assets in the US and compares with just 2.3 million in the UK.

The growth in India is coming from the 18-35 year old cohort, says the co-founder of India's first cryptocurrency exchange. Latest World Gold Council data indicated Indian adults under age 34 have less appetite for gold than older consumers.

"They find it far easier to invest in crypto than gold because the process is very simple," said Sandeep Goenka, who co-founded ZebPay and spent years representing the industry in discussions with the government on regulation. "You go online, you can buy crypto, you don't have to verify it, unlike gold." One of the biggest barriers preventing wider adoption is the regulatory uncertainty. Last year, the Supreme Court quashed a 2018 rule banning crypto trading by banking entities, resulting in a trading surge.

However, authorities show no signs of embracing cryptocurrencies. The nation's central bank says it has "major concerns" about the asset class and six months ago the Indian government proposed a ban on trading in digital coins—though it has been silent on the topic since.

"I am flying blind," said Ms Sood. "I have a risk-taking appetite, so I'm willing to take a risk of a ban." It's not the only country where regulators are cracking down. The UK's financial watchdog has just banned Binance Markets Ltd from doing any regulated business in the country.

The official hostility though means many bigger individual investors are reluctant to speak openly about their holdings. One banker Bloomberg spoke to who invested more than $1 million into crypto assets said with no clear income tax rules at present he was concerned about the possibility of retrospective tax raids if he was publicly known to be a big-ticket crypto investor.

He's already got contingency plans in place to move his trading to an offshore Singapore bank account if a ban was to be introduced.

To be sure, the value of Indian digital asset holdings remain a sliver of its gold market. Still, the growth is clear, especially in trading—the four biggest crypto exchanges saw daily trading jump to $102 million from $10.6 million a year ago, according to CoinGecko. The country's $40 billion market significantly trails China's $161 billion, according to Chainalysis.

Second wave impact milder: CEA

FC BUREAU HYDERABAD, JUNE 28

The impact of the Covid-19 second wave on the economy was much milder than the first wave because of its shorter duration and the resilience of Indian businesses to adapt to the situation, said India's chief economic adviser, Krishna-murthy V. Subramanian.

Speaking at a virtual conference organised by FTCCI on Monday, he said, "The second wave had impacted the economy in April and May. But it peaked very fast and also declined at the same pace. So it impacted the economy for a much shorter duration. Unlike the first wave when the national lockdown was imposed, restrictions were asynchronous during the second wave and have impacted only 30 per cent of the economy."

He also observed that the interstate movement of goods was never stopped during the second wave, which allowed companies to continue functioning.

Though he admitted that small companies were impacted by the pandemic more than larger companies, he said the macro-economic impact of second-wave would not be large during the current financial year.

K. V. Subramanian

fidence that the Indian economy would be one of the top high-growth economies of the decade because of the reforms undertaken by the government.

Claiming the government's policy is on enabling and empowering the private sector, Subramanian said the government would meet its target of raising Rs 1.75 lakh crore through disinvestment of public sector companies.

"Remember that of Rs 1.75 lakh crore, a good part of it will be from LIC's IPO (initial public offering). The second is the privatisation of Bharat Petroleum (BPCL). And these two together can account for a large part of disinvestment target," he said.

He also rejected concerns about the government crowding out the borrowing space with a higher fiscal deficit. He called the crowding-out concept as an old and incomplete argument.

Dr Subramanian said the government is working with RBI to get Indian government bonds included on the global bond index, which would allow the government to raise money directly from foreign investors.

SKODA PRICES KUSHAQ SUV AT ₹10.49 LAKH

MICHAEL GONSALVES PUNE, JUNE 28

Skoda, the Czech car maker, on Monday entered the mid-size SUV space by introducing the 'made-in-India for the world' model Kushaq with the starting price of Rs 10.49 lakh at pan India showroom.

The Kushaq is Skoda's determined effort to make a solid mark in the mid-size SUV space that is dominated by Hyundai Creta and Kia Seltos.

"The SUV market in India is growing and we are here for a long haul," Zac Hollis, brand director at Skoda Auto India told FC, adding that bookings for the Kushaq were coming strong. "The new Kushaq's design, uncluttered lines, quality and safety elements are strong to deliver numbers in the competitive market," he said, targeting 60,000 sales annually.

ALGORITHMS | RULE Machines are often the boss; hiring, rating and firing with no human oversight

How does it feel to be sacked by a bot?

SPENCER SOPER JUNE 28

Stephen Normandin spent almost four years racing around Phoenix delivering packages as a contract driver for Amazon.com Inc. Then one day, he received an automated email. The algorithms tracking him had decided he wasn't doing his job properly.

The 63-year-old Army veteran was stunned. He'd been fired by a machine. Normandin says Amazon punished him for things beyond his control that prevented him from completing his deliveries, such as locked apartment complexes. He said he took the termination hard and, priding himself on a strong work ethic, recalled that during his military career he helped cook for 250,000 Vietnamese refugees at Fort Chaffee in Arkansas.

"I'm an old-school kind of guy, and I give every job 110 per cent," he said. "This really upset me because we're talking about my reputation. They say I didn't do the job when I know damn well I did."

Normandin is a twist on the decades-old prediction that robots will replace workers. At Amazon, machines are often the boss—hiring, rating and firing millions of people with little or no human oversight. Amazon became the world's largest online retailer in part by outsourcing its sprawling operations to algorithm-sets of computer instructions designed to solve specific problems. For years, Amazon has used algorithms to manage the millions of third-party merchants on its online marketplace, drawing complaints that sellers have been booted off after being falsely accused of selling counterfeit goods and jacking up prices.

Increasingly, the company is ceding its human-resources operation to machines as well, using software not only to manage workers in its warehouses but to oversee contract drivers, independent delivery companies and even the performance of its office workers. People familiar with the strategy say CEO Jeff Bezos believes machines make decisions more quickly and accurately than people, reducing costs and giving Amazon a competitive advantage.

Amazon started its gig-style Flex delivery service in 2015, and the army of contract drivers quickly became a critical part of the company's delivery machine. Typically, Flex drivers handle packages that haven't been loaded on an Amazon van before the driver leaves. They ensure the packages are delivered the same day. They also handle a large number of same-day grocery deliveries from Amazon's Whole Foods Market chain. Flex drivers helped keep Amazon humming during the pandemic and were only too happy to earn about $25 an hour shuttling packages.

But the moment they sign on, Flex drivers discover algorithms are monitoring their every move. Did they get to the delivery station when they said they would? Did they complete their route in the prescribed window? Did they leave a package in full view of porch pirates instead of hidden behind a planter as requested? Amazon algorithms scan the gusher of incoming data for performance patterns and decide which drivers get more routes and which are deactivated. Human feedback is rare. Drivers occasionally receive automated emails, but mostly they're left to obsess about their ratings, which include four categories: Fantastic, Great, Fair or At Risk.

The $1,00,000 Hyderabad Open was slated to be held from August 24 to 29. Brief scores: South Africa 166/7 (Reeza Hendricks 42, Temba Bavuma 46; Obed McCoy 3/25) bt West Indies 150/9 (Andre Fletcher 35, Fabian Allen 34; Kagiso Rabada 3/37).

Shot putter Toor hits a purple patch

Patiala: Olympic-bound shot putter Tajinder Pal Singh Toor continued his impressive form as he produced yet another big throw while winning gold on the fourth and penultimate day of the National Inter-State Athletics Championships here on Monday. The Olympics direct qualifying mark is 21.10m, exactly the same distance he cleared on Monday, which meant that he has produced 21m-plus throw twice in a week. — PTI

Hazard strikes as Belgium knock Portugal out of Euro

Seville (Spain), June 28: A rocket from Thorgan Hazard knocked reigning champions Portugal out of Euro 2020 on Sunday and earned Belgium a blockbuster quarter-final with Italy.

Hazard's swerving shot before half-time sealed a 1-0 win for Belgium and settled a scrappy contest in Seville that never really lived up to its billing as the stand-out tie of the last 16.

But it could prove a statement victory for Belgium, whose chief concern now will be the fitness of Kevin De Bruyne and Eden Hazard, who both hobbled off injured and will undergo scans on Monday.

De Bruyne suffered an ankle injury while coach Roberto Martinez said Hazard's problem was "more of a muscle feeling".

Cristiano Ronaldo tested Thibaut Courtois with a dipping free-kick in the first half but the 36-year-old neither broke the international goals record nor added to his five for the tournament.

Raphael Guerreiro went closest to a late equaliser when his shot came back off the post, one of 29 shots Portugal had, six of them on target.

But before the late rally, Belgium were the braver, more fluid team and Martinez hailed his side's fighting spirit to hold on.

"We showed our talent in the first half and in the second half we showed an aspect that wasn't there two or three years ago," said Martinez. "This is what a winning team needs."

For all the superstar names on the pitch, it was Eden Hazard's less heralded brother Thorgan who proved decisive, the Borussia Dortmund winger who Eden once said had even more talent than him.

"In these games if you have a chance you have to have a go," Thorgan said. "It went in, with a bit of luck and it was the goal that got us through. It's a dream for me."

Eden Hazard started in Belgium's front three again after playing 90 minutes against Finland on Monday. Portugal's Diogo Dalot came in at right-back for the injured Nelson Semedo.

Hazard skied an early shot over after a neat exchange with Romelu Lukaku while Diogo Jota skewed wide, slipped in down the left by the impressive Renato Sanches.

The closest Ronaldo came to an all-time record 110th international goal was a dipping free-kick from 30 yards which Courtois parried away.

England, Germany to renew age-old rivalry

London, June 28: When you train on the Sir Bobby Charlton Pitch, it's hard to escape the burden of past glory. And when Gareth Southgate is your coach, it's even harder for the England players to escape the anguish that can come from playing Germany at a tournament. It was Southgate's penalty miss in a shootout against Germany that prevented England from reaching the 1996 European Championship final at the old Wembley Stadium.

There had already been the loss to Germany on penalties at the 1990 World Cup. Twenty years later came more World Cup agony against Germany, laced with the injustice of a wrongly disallowed goal.

No wonder the renewal of the rivalry with Germany on Tuesday in the round of 16 at this year's Euro is rousing so many memories of past meetings in England. But it can seem to be a lop-sided rivalry.

There's little sense in Germany about righting any wrongs of the past, despite the still inconclusive debate over whether Geoff Hurst's decisive goal really did cross the line before Charlton and Co. lifted the World Cup in 1966 at Wembley.

SWEDISH CHALLENGE FOR UKRAINE

Andriy Shevchenko's Ukraine might be disappointed by the fact that they only reached the knockout phase of the Euro for the first time thanks to good fortune.

But ahead of Tuesday's last-16 game against Sweden, the 44-year-old coach may draw inspiration from a past encounter against the same opponents, the swansong of his career as a player. — Agencies

INDIAN TEAM TOUCHDOWN AT COLOMBO

Colombo, June 28: The India white-ball team led by Shikhar Dhawan, featuring as many as six uncapped players, arrived here from Mumbai for their four-week tour which will feature six limited overs games against Sri Lanka, starting July 13.

All-rounder Hardik Pandya shared an Instagram story captioned: "Touchdown, Sri Lanka, Colombo."

The Dhawan-led team will play three ODIs and three T20Is in the island nation. The BCCI had named a 20-member squad for the tour that has the senior spin duo of Kuldeep Yadav and Yuzvendra Chahal. — PTI

UAE to host T20 World Cup

New Delhi, June 28: The T20 World Cup scheduled to be held in India is being shifted to the UAE owing to the health safety concerns posed by Covid-19, BCCI President Sourav Ganguly said on Monday, ending weeks of speculation surrounding the mega-event in October-November.

"We have officially intimated the ICC that the T20 World Cup can be shifted to the United Arab Emirates. The details are being chalked out," Ganguly said.

"The decision was taken keeping health safety concerns of all stakeholders in mind," he added.

The BCCI will, however, remain the hosts of the showpiece.

date of the tournament, Ganguly said: "We will be able to finalise itinerary details in some days. October 17 start hasn't yet been finalised."

Even an ICC spokesperson confirmed that the global body is yet to zero in on a final schedule.

The ICC, at the start of the month, had given BCCI a four-week window to decide and inform whether India could host the marquee event considering the Covid-19 situation in the country.

This was after the pandemic forced the postponement of IPL, the second part of which is also being held in the UAE in September-October.

BCCI secretary Jay Shah, in a letter to all state units, said that the decision was taken keeping in mind that "safety of players and other stakeholders is of paramount importance..."

"It was not an easy decision and we mullied over it for months, constantly keeping an eye on Covid situation all along.

"However with the second wave causing such devastation, the decision ultimately boiled down to the safety and well being of the players and organizers," Shah admitted.

"There is nothing more that we could have wanted than to host this prestigious tournament in India, but it was not to be."

It was a foregone conclusion that India will find it difficult to host a 16-country tournament across nine cities with so many layers of health security concerns being there. — PTI

Greek tragedy: Tsitsipas bows out

London, June 28: Novak Djokovic overcame an early wobble before getting his bid for a sixth Wimbledon and record-equalling 20th Grand Slam title off to a winning start on Monday and then saw potential semi-final opponent Stefanos Tsitsipas crash out.

One year after the 2020 tournament was cancelled due to the coronavirus pandemic, defending champion and world number one Djokovic claimed a 4-6, 6-1, 6-2, 6-2 win over Britain's 253rd-ranked Jack Draper.

Third seed Tsitsipas, however, beaten by Djokovic in the French Open final just two weeks ago, slumped to his third first round defeat in four visits to the tournament.

America's Frances Tiafoe, ranked 57, stunned the Greek star 6-4, 6-4, 6-3.

ed. "I probably had one of the best serving performances that I can recall on any surface," said Djokovic who fired 25 aces and 47 winners.

With the Australian and French Open titles under his belt, the Serb is bidding to become only the third man in history to claim a calendar Grand Slam.

His match was preceded by a standing ovation for Professor Sarah Gilbert, one of the key scientists behind the Oxford AstraZeneca Covid-19 vaccine who was a special guest in the Royal Box.

Tiafoe won a second-tier grass court Challenger event in Nottingham this month before making the quarter-finals at Queen's Club. He made that match hardness pay against Tsitsipas, playing only his 16th match on grass. It was the first time in 12 attempts that 23-year-old Tiafoe had beaten a player ranked in the top five. — AFP

CR7 proud of Portugal effort

Lisbon, June 28: Captain Cristiano Ronaldo said on Monday he was "proud" of holders Portugal's efforts despite bowing out of Euro 2020 after the weekend's 1-0 last 16 loss to Belgium.

"We did not get the result we wanted and we leave the competition sooner than expected," the 36-year-old Juventus star and five-time Ballon d'or winner admitted as his side failed to match their 2016 exploits.

"But we are proud of our showing. We did everything we could to retain the title of European champions and this group proved it could still give the Portuguese people much joy," the former Manchester United and Real Madrid attacker posted on social media after Sunday's loss.

"Congratulations to Belgium and good luck to all the teams left in. As for us, we shall return stronger," vowed the veteran who at least could console himself with having matched the 109 international goals record of Iran's Ali Daei during the tournament.

Ronaldo scored five times during the competition to take his European Championship tally to a record 14, matching Daei's achievement with his goal in the 2-2 group game draw with world champions France.

Portugal coach Fernando Santos said his players were crying in the changing room after their "unfair" defeat.

"I think it's an unfair result but they scored and we didn't," said Santos after the game.

ECUADOR HOLD BRAZIL TO ENTER COPA QUARTERS

Goiania, Brazil, June 28: An Ecuador side fighting to keep their Copa America hopes alive managed to hold a previously perfect Brazil — playing without a resting Neymar — to a 1-1 draw Sunday and reach the quarter-finals.

Seeking to extend a 10-match winning streak, Brazil came out pressuring in Goiania on the group's final match day.

Sarnobat clinches gold in 25m pistol

Osijek, June 28: Olympic-bound Rahi Sarnobat displayed sensational form to clinch the women's 25m pistol gold medal at the ISSF shooting World Cup here on Monday but teen sensation Manu Bhaker ended seventh in the same event.

Sarnobat's gold is India's first in the ongoing edition after the country secured one silver and two bronze medals earlier in the tournament.

The 30-year-old Sarnobat fired a final score of 39 after qualifying second with a total of 591. Her stupendous performance in the final included perfect scores in the third, fourth, fifth and the sixth series.

"After I got assurance about the gold, it was more about technicalities for me in the last few series as I wanted to try out a few things so I was doing that," she said.

"This competition was absolutely not about performance or medal because I was trying out a few things which I am going to do in the Olympic Games and this is the final competition before that.

"It was more about trying out things and finalising every thing before the Olympics for the last time and that was just that," she added.

Nonetheless, winning a gold here has given Sarnobat the belief that her preparations are on the right track for the Tokyo Games.

"I have to keep working on this up to and after the Olympic as well." — PTI

Japan ups health controls

Japanese Prime Minister Yoshihide Suga pledged on Monday to strengthen health controls at airports after a Ugandan Olympic team member tested positive for Covid-19 at the town hosting their training camp, triggering concerns that the upcoming games will spread infections. A Ugandan team member, reportedly a coach, tested positive on Saturday at Tokyo's Narita airport and was quarantined there.

USA Basketball reveal roster

Experience mattered to USA Basketball when putting together a roster for the Tokyo Olympics. The Americans formally revealed their roster on Monday, one that will be third-oldest U.S. men's team in Olympic history for the Tokyo Games. The 12-man list includes five players — Kevin Love, Kevin Durant, Jrue Holiday, Damian Lillard and Draymond Green — already in their 30s.
