TN tops in vaccine wastage, tightens review mechanism

■ 12% vaccine is lost ■ Not enough people for last vial: health secy

T. SUDHEESH | DC
CHENNAI, APRIL 20

Reports of the high Covid-19 vaccine wastage in the state has forced the health department to launch strict district and site-wise review to avoid wastage of doses. An RTI reply revealed that Tamil Nadu, with 12 per cent, topped the table of states that had reported the highest vaccine wastage till April 11.

According to health department data, the State inoculated a total of 48.07 lakh doses till April 19. Health Secretary J. Radhakrishnan told DC that there was high wastage of vaccines in the state as vaccination centres were not getting enough people to finish the final vial which has at least 10 doses.

“It was difficult for the last set to be quantified with 4,000 vaccine centres across the state. So it became an issue. We are now very strict and started reviewing district and site wise to reduce it,” he said.

Health minister Dr Vijay Bhasker explained that it was not possible to keep people waiting for hours for the numbers to fill up for the final vial and that wastage became higher owing to this.

The state kickstarted its vaccine drive on January 16. As per the RTI reply, apart from Tamil Nadu, Haryana (9.74 per cent), Punjab (8.12), Manipur (7.8) and Telangana (7.55) topped the list of states with vaccine wastage. Over 44 lakh doses were wasted out of 10 crore doses used by states till April 11.

Lockdown last resort, micro containment zones key: PM

New Delhi, April 20: As more states went for lockdown-like restrictions to battle the raging second Covid-19 wave, Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Tuesday stressed that use of lockdown should be the “last resort” and that the focus should rather be on micro-containment zones.

Mr Modi’s remarks in his address to the nation where he also said the second wave has become a major crisis came on a day when India’s active Covid-19 cases crossed 20 lakh after 2,59,170 new coronavirus infections and a record 1,761 new fatalities.

“In the current situation, we need to save our country from a lockdown. I would also request states to use the lockdown as the last resort. We have to do our best to avoid a lockdown and our focus should rather be on micro-containment zones,” he said.

“If we all follow Covid-19 protocols, there’ll be no need to impose lockdowns,” Mr Modi added, as he urged the people to reduce their movement and take vaccination.

The Prime Minister said the country is again faced with a big battle against Covid-19 and that conditions will improve with the decisions taken in the recent days.

Mr Modi said people were undergoing suffering but “we need to fight it out with all our might” and expressed confidence that the coronavirus will be defeated with the combined efforts of the people.

SC clears ad hoc judges in HCs

New Delhi, April 20: Terminating pendency of around 57 lakh cases in high courts as docket explosion , the Supreme Court on Tuesday activated a dormant constitutional provision to pave way for appointment of retired high court judges as ad-hoc ones for a period of two to three years to clear backlog and came out with guidelines to regulate appointments.

Article 224A, used rarely, of the Constitution deals with appointment of ad-hoc judges in high courts and says the Chief Justice of a high court for any state may at any time, with the previous consent of the President, request any person who has held the office of a judge of that court or of any other high court to sit and act as a judge of the high court for that state.

A bench of Chief Justice S.A. Bobde and Justices S.K. Kaul and Surya Kant issued a slew of guidelines pertaining to issues such as the trigger point when the appointment process can be set in motion, tenure, procedure for appointment, salary, perks, maximum number of such judges and their role in adjudicating cases.

The court also said the appointment of ad-hoc judges would not be at the expense of the regular judges. “We may, however, hasten to add that the objective is not to appoint ad-hoc judges instead of judges to be appointed to the regular strength of the high court,” the bench said.

Referring to the Article, the verdict said, “The very provision makes it clear that it does not in any way constrain or limit the regular appointment process and consent of the retired judge is sought to sit and act as a judge of the high court. One may say that this largely a transitory methodology till all the appointment processes are in place, though that may not be the only reason to take recourse to the aforesaid Article.”

The CJI wrote the 37-page judgement on a PIL of NGO ‘Lok Prahari’ seeking appointment of ad-hoc judges in high courts under Article 224A in order to reduce pendency of cases. The bench said the guidelines, at the stage, cannot be exhaustive and sought a report from the ministry of law and justice as to how progress has been made on appointments and fixed the plea for consideration after four months.

SC stays HC fiat on curbs in UP

PARMOD KUMAR | DC
NEW DELHI, APRIL 20

The Supreme Court on Tuesday stayed the Allahabad High court’s order directing lockdown in five cities of Uttar Pradesh — Lucknow, Kanpur, Allahabad, Varanasi, and Gorakhpur.

A bench headed by Chief Justice Sharad A. Bobde and comprising Justice A.S. Bopanna and Justice V. Ramasubramanian passed the stay order on a plea by Uttar Pradesh government against April 19, 2021, order of the Allahabad High Court.

The High Court had ordered a week-long lockdown in the five cities that was to last till April 26 to arrest the rampant spread of Covid. Having ordered interim stay of the lockdown order by the High Court, the top court, however, directed that the Uttar Pradesh government shall immediately inform the HC within a week about the steps it has taken and to be taken in future to contain and curb the Covid. Issuing notice the court ordered, “Until further orders, there shall be an interim stay of the impugned order passed by the HC. However, the petitioner — state government shall immediately report to the HC about the steps it has taken and proposes to take in the immediate future within a period of one week in view of the current pandemic.” The Court appointed senior lawyer P.S. Narasimha as amicus curiae in the case.

TN exempts key units from curfew

DC CORRESPONDENT
CHENNAI, APRIL 20

Units manufacturing essential commodities and continuous process industries were given exemption for the night curfew and Sunday lockdown brought in from Tuesday with a view to protecting people’s livelihood and the economy.

Industries such as telecommunications and related activities, information technology and service organisations engaging staff in their offices, data centres and backend operations for medical, revenue and transport services and warehousing activities qualify for exemption.

Essential maintenance services relating to fire services, protection of machinery and labour protection would be exempted, the release said.

Those making medical, pharmaceutical and sanitary products, oxygen, medical equipment and textiles and related raw materials, growing chicken, pets, livestock and related food processing units, fertilisers and agriculture equipment are also exempted from lockdown.

Factories and organisations taking export orders, those making spare parts for the security department, vehicle manufacturing for security services, agriculture and health departments and packaging units for all these exempted manufacturing units will be exempted.

The exempted continuous process industries are refineries, TMT bar makers, cement, sugar, tyre and fertiliser factories, chemical industries, float glass plants, foundries, big paper factories, electronic factories dealing in mobiles and surface mount technology and vertically integrated large textile units.

Virus-filtering material for masks soon

New Delhi, April 20: Researchers at the Indian Institute of Technology (IIT), Mandi have developed a virus-filtering, self-cleaning and antibacterial material that can be used to make face masks and other PPE equipment to prevent the spread of Coronavirus.

The team claims that the developed nanomaterial can clean the mask by simply keeping it in bright sunlight and make it ready to wear again.

The results of the research have recently been published in the prestigious journal of the American Chemical Society — Applied Materials and Interfaces.

According to the researchers, face masks have become a default piece of apparel to be worn in public in these pandemic times. “Keeping the urgency of the pandemic situation and cost-effectiveness in mind, we have developed a strategy to repurpose existing PPEs, especially face masks, by providing an antimicrobial coating to these protective clothing and textiles. For this, the research team has used such materials that are a hundred thousand times smaller than the width of the human hair to confer antimicrobial properties to polycotton fabric.” Amit Jaiswal, assistant professor, School of Basic Sciences, IIT Mandi, said.

The team has incorporated nanometre sized sheets of molybdenum sulphide, MoS2, the sharp edges and corners of which act as tiny knives that pierce bacterial and viral membranes, thus killing them.

“The ‘nanoknife’-modified fabrics demonstrated excellent antibacterial activity even after 60 cycles of washing. Improperly disposed off PPEs are a serious secondary source of transmission, and having reusable antimicrobial masks can help circumvent this risk. The reusability of the fabric will also enable it to be integrated with homemade masks.

“The researchers have developed prototypes of a 4-layered face mask using the MoS2 modified fabric. They report that these masks, in addition to killing microbes and being light-cleanable, can also filter more than 96 pc of particles that are in the size range of the Covid virus (120 nanometres).

Don't believe rumours against vaccination: Min

From P1

He called upon the people not to believe the rumours against vaccination and urged them to take the vaccine, which was being provided free of cost in the government facilities. Action would be taken against the private hospitals that charge more than the government stipulated amount, he said.

Vaccination was being carried out through the special drive and during the three-day 'vaccine festival', 2,17,000 persons took the vaccine, he said.

On complaints of Coronavirus patients being shunted from one place to another, he said that some patients land at the King's Institute or the Government Hospital in the Omandurar Estate without any prior information.

When they are referred to the screening centres, where they could be assessed and then directed properly to the appropriate treatment centre, they complain of being made to run from pillar to post, he said, urging people to first approach the screening centres.

Trading community resents new restrictions

CHENNAI, APRIL 20

Implementation of the new restrictions, including a night curfew and Sunday lockdown, gave rise to a sense of overwhelming resentment among the trading community that is just keeping its fingers crossed hoping that the next government would provide them some succor from the curbs even as they prepared themselves for the immediate eventuality.

Traders at the Koyambedu market complex expressed uncertainty over their business prospects and night curfew would throw their operations of out of gear. Vegetables, fruits, flowers and other such goods are transported to the market at night to enable the start of trading by dawn.

will now have to shut down the unloading and loading operations as vehicles cannot enter or leave the premises at night hours, everything could run into disarray, fear the traders.

Even otherwise, the traders are badly hit by the pandemic as the 1800 retail shops are now opened on alternate days at the behest of the officials who wanted to cut down the crowding in the premises, which was once a cluster for Covid-19 spread. Armed with the threat of another shut down of the market, as it happened last year, Corporation officials were running roughshod over the traders, taking them to task for alleged violation of Covid-19 norms like face masks and social distancing.

How could traders be held responsible for violations committed by the customers?, wondered Koyambedu traders' union leader Rajasekharan. Whenever clients did not wear the mask properly or failed to maintain social distancing, the shopkeepers are taken to task, he alleged.

It was happening everywhere in Chennai, said V. P. Mani, additional secretary of the Tamil Nadu Federation of Traders Associations. Though the government had announced a fine of only ₹1,000 for such violations, the officials were collecting ₹5,000, he said, regretting that they had been given targets for fine collection.

Citing a couple of instances of harassment by officials, he said that at a shop in Triplicane the owner was fined because a couple of persons were sipping tea with their masks lowered and in another vessels shop 12 officials barged in at the same time, brushing aside the security at the entrance, and fined the shopkeeper ₹3,000.

Owners are film theatres, too, are worried over the night curfew as they had to cancel the night shows now. Even otherwise, the restriction on the seating had put a heavy strain on them and now with a crucial show gone, they are expecting more losses. Probably they might hold one more day show but are skeptical about the crowd turnout.

Revoke tourism ban: Ooty MLA to CM

B. RAVICHANDRAN | DC
OOTY, APRIL 20

MLA R. Ganesh (Congress), Ooty, has appealed to the Chief Minister Edappadi K. Palaniswami to relax Covid-19 norms on tourism to allow tourists to visit Ooty during the ongoing summer tourist season, to help tourism stakeholders in Ooty and other parts of Nilgiris earn their livelihood.

In a letter that Ganesh sent to the Chief Minister, he noted that it is a fact that Covid-19 second wave has been threatening the nation and the government has been taking various measures like night curfew and Sunday lockdowns to prevent its rapid spread.

In line with this, the government has announced the closure of tourist spots in hills like the Nilgiris, Kodikanal and Yercaud, that has already stymied tourist influx to the hill resorts during summer.

It is obvious that for tourism stakeholders in the hills, tourism is their life and livelihood. Their family economy and revenue solely bank upon tourism. As tourism is a major life line and part and parcel of the hill economy, any curbs on tourism will adversely affect their livelihood, especially hoteliers, small traders and other roadside vendors who constitute the bulk of the tourism stakeholders here.

While lockdown is considered to be a necessary measure for Covid-19 control activities, giving due consideration for the livelihood rights of the people, especially tourism stakeholders is also very important.

Since, the government has allowed cinema theatres and even Tasmac outlets to function with 50 per cent capacity, the government should also revoke the total closure of tourist spots, and instead allowed those tourist spots to function with regulated tourist inflow to ensure that the tourism sector continues to earn their livelihood, Ganesh stated.

Omni bus owners almost stopped the operations as it was impossible for them to adhere to the new norms, under which the buses had to reach their destinations by around 10 pm. An executive meeting of the bus owners association met to take stock of the situation and decided that they would have to stop running the buses.

Union leader Jayapandian said that passengers did not prefer to travel during the day time and there were no takers for the few services on offer. Though there was a rival union that had decided to operate omni buses to the districts, the timings are unlikely to help the owners get business.

The time schedule announced by the state transport corporation is proof of it. The last bus to Nagercoil would leave at 7 am and those for Tirunelveli, Thoothukudi and Paramakudi would leave at 8 am,

CHENNAI, APRIL 20

A meeting chaired by Harmander Singh, principal secretary (municipal administration and water supply), on Tuesday decided to set up 12,000 beds at 15 Covid Care Centres under the Greater Chennai Corporation (GCC) limits in view of spiralling Covid-19 cases in the city.

As part of intensifying the containment strategy, the volunteers appointed by the GCC will create door-to-door awareness on Covid-19 appropriate behaviour including wearing masks and maintaining social distancing.

Since cases are increasing in the city, the number of tests will be increased from 16,000 to 25,000. The number of fever clinics will be doubled from 200 to 400. The daily clinics will be conducted in all 200 wards of the corporation.

The other day the GCC introduced 12 advanced screening centres in the city so that they could reduce the patients who seek hospital and Covid Care Centre beds. Tamil Nadu Congress Committee (TNCC) has opened a Covid Help Centre at its headquarters, Sathyamurthy Bhavan, to help people affected by Coronavirus, TNCC president K S Alagiri said on Tuesday.

The 24-hour centre would be operated with the help of Congress leader Sashikanth Senthil and TNCC medical wing president Kaleel Rahim.

A team of medical professionals would soon be formed to run the centre that would help those affected by the virus to get treatment. The contact number for the centre is 9884466333.

Alagiri criticized the AIADMK government for letting the pandemic go out of control in the State and pointed out that the number of infected persons had gone up to 11,000 and the total number of infections had crossed 10 lakh. He said 44 deaths had occurred in a day due to Covid and that pointed to the government's indifference in handling the crisis.

In-laws cannot be left out in bride suicide cases: HC

Chennai, April 20: The Madras high court on Tuesday held that in-laws should not be allowed to go scot free in bride suicide cases, just because they did not live with the woman and refused to suspend a jail term imposed by a lower court on the parents of a newlywed groom.

"Since the in-laws are not residing with their son and the victim woman and they are seeking suspension of sentence on that ground...

Taking advantage of that, a wrong message has gone to society that the parents can easily escape from their liability and the alleged offence," Justice P Velmurugan has said.

The parents should not stop with providing shelter and good education to their children and motivate them to get a job alone.

Their first and foremost responsibility is that they should groom their children as responsible citizens, the judge added while dismissing a criminal miscellaneous petition from the parents of a person who were sentenced to two years' rigorous imprisonment in a dowry harassment case, where their daughter-in-law allegedly committed suicide.

The court said there has been an increase in instances of women committing suicide due to dowry harassment.

On the other hand, the in-laws were escaping from their liability, saying that they were not living with their son.

Even though they lived separately, they induced their sons to get dowry in the form of money or jewelry, two or four wheelers, the judge noted.

"Given the nature and gravity of offence committed by the accused, this court is not inclined to suspend the sentence," the judge said and posted the main appeal challenging the sentence to April 28.

High court directs state govt to form panel to curb pollution in rivers

Chennai, April 20: The Madras high court on Tuesday directed the Tamil Nadu government to constitute an expert body to ensure that rivers, their waterways and water bodies in the state do not get polluted either by discharge of effluents by industries or by sewage.

The first bench of Chief Justice Sanjib Banerjee and Justice Senthilkumar Ramamoorthy gave a direction to this effect while passing further interim orders on a public interest writ petition from Dhanasekaran, who prayed for a direction to clean river Amravathi and remove encroachments on its waterways.

The river water was so polluted that the same was not fit for irrigation or drinking by humans and animals.

The bench said that the panel, consisting of persons with impeccable credentials, should find the ways and means to maintain the purity of the river and waterways by curbing the discharge of effluents by industries or by way of relocating them to far off places.

HC upholds quashing of ryotwari patta

DC CORRESPONDENT
CHENNAI, APRIL 20

Observing that ryotwari patta in respect of water catchment lands was issued in a biased manner due to vested interests, the Madras high court has upheld an order of a single judge, which quashed the orders passed by the assistant settlement officer (ASO) and the tahsildar granting ryotwari patta to three persons for 4.85 acres, which is a catchment area, by cancelling the classification of Eri Ulvooy and reclassifying the same into ryotwari lands in Thiruvannamalai district.

A division bench comprising Justices M.M. Sundresh and R.N. Manjula dismissed the appeals filed by P. Haribabu, P. Chandrasekar and P. Lakshmi, challenging the order of the single judge.

Originally, the Malayampattu Eri Pasanadarar Sangam filed a petition to quash the orders passed by the ASO and tahsildar and consequently to forfeit the three individuals from interfering with the rights of the members of the petitioner Sangam and the villagers from having water for irrigation and water supply from the lands with survey numbers 70/5, 70/6, 70/7, 70/8 and 72/5 of Malayampattu village, Pungambadi Post, Arni taluk, Thiruvannamalai district. A single judge allowed the petition. Aggrieved, the trio filed the present appeals.

The bench said granting orders for Ryotwari patta was done behind the back of the villagers. The petitioner sangam was formed for protecting the local agriculturists and in that capacity filed the writ. Under these circumstances, the appellants cannot expect the sangam not a party to the enquiry, alleged to have been made by the ASO, to file an appeal before the appropriate revenue authority. Since the orders of the ASO and tahsildar were not in accordance with law and against the interest of the villagers, the sangam has rightly chosen to invoke the writ law remedy, the bench added.

SHRC seeks report on forced labour of 19 Odisha girls

DC CORRESPONDENT
CHENNAI, APRIL 20

The State Human Rights Commission (SHRC) has directed the commissioner, labour department, Chennai and the district collector, Tirupur, to file a detailed report in connection with 19 teenage Odisha girls allegedly forced to work against their will at a private garment company. They were rescued by the police two days ago.

Based on news reports, SHRC member Dr A. Chittaranjan Mohandoss initiated suo motu proceedings and directed the officials to file the report in two weeks.

According to the report, officials from the Tirupur district administration and Tirupur city police rescued 19 Odisha girls from a private garment factory at 15 Velampalayam two days ago. Hailing from Rayagada district in Odisha, they were working in the garment factory from December 2020. They reached the city for a three-month training programme. They were allegedly forced to stay back and work without adequate remuneration after the training period ended.

Recently, they alerted their parents and narrated their ordeal. Following this, their parents lodged a petition with officials in Odisha, who, in turn, alerted Tirupur city commissioner of police G. Karthikeyan. A team comprising officials from the revenue department, directorate of industrial safety and health and department of social welfare and local police was formed. They conducted an inspection at the garment company on Sunday midnight, rescued the 19 girls and provided them accommodation at a wedding hall in adherence to the Covid-19 safety protocol. The officials made the effort to send them back to Odisha from Tirupur.

Kamal Haasan complains to ECI

DC CORRESPONDENT
CHENNAI, APRIL 20

Makkal Needhi Maiam (MNM) founder Kamal Haasan submitted a memorandum to the Chief Electoral Officer Satyabrata Sahoo, listing a series of complaints and also suggestions on prevention of multiple voting and tallying the votes polled in the Electronic Voting Machines (EVMs) with the VVPAT slips.

He said that it had come to his attention that many people had more than one voter identity card and that they voted multiple times. By telling the officials at polling booths that they were allergic to the indelible ink marked in their fingers, those voters got only their nails inked and then removed it using chemicals.

Several such instances of people having more than one voter identity card had come to light, Haasan said in the complaint and suggested that the authorities do a proper check to prevent such irregularities in the interest of democracy.

Taking strong objection to the one month gap between voting and counting, he said that the reason given for the wait was unacceptable and also found several flaws in the manner in which the EVMs were protected in the counting centres.

Narrating four suspicious incidents that happened in the counting centres, three of them relating to vehicles entering the premises where the EVMs were being stored in strong rooms and another in which 31 persons armed with laptops entered the premises in Ramanathapuram, Haasan said they gave rise to doubts over the safety of the EVMs.

He said the conking out of CCTV cameras around the strong rooms and the mysterious vehicles that entered the campuses of Coimbatore Government College of Technology, Perumalpattu Sriram Engineering College and Chennai Loyola College added to doubts over the protection provided to the EVMs.

Demanding total protection to the strong rooms, he wanted a ban on entry of outsiders into the premises, installation of CCTV cameras showing the interiors and on all sides around the strong rooms and proper facilities for the agents of the political parties staying there.

Cops shoot man with 'handgun'

Dallas, April 20: Dallas police officers shot and killed a man Monday who pointed at them what turned out to be a replica handgun, authorities said.

Police responded about 4 p.m. Monday after receiving a call about a man walking along a residential street about one mile north of the US 75-Interstate 635 interchange. The man pointed at arriving officers what appeared to be a handgun before fleeing on foot. Shortly thereafter, officers responded to a report of an armed man stealing from a drug store. They tracked the man as he crossed all lanes of Interstate 635 on foot just west of US 75, then shot and killed him.

Dubai princess: UN seeks info

Geneva, April 20: Independent experts working with the UN human rights office on Tuesday called on the United Arab Emirates' government to provide more details about the fate of a daughter of Dubai's powerful ruler who has claimed she was taken hostage.

The experts called for the immediate release of Sheikha Latifa bint Mohammed Al Maktoum, who turned up in videos broadcast by the BBC two months ago in which she questioned whether she would survive.

They expressed concerns about alleged rights violations she has faced, and possible threats to her life.

40,000 displaced in Mozambique

Johannesburg, April 20: Some 40,000 displaced and urgently needing food, work suspended on a multi-billion-dollar gas investment, and scores of dead still being counted.

The damage caused by Mozambique's extremist rebels on the town of Palma continues to be assessed.

Four weeks after the rebels launched a three-pronged attack, which lasted at least five days, Mozambican police and relief agencies are working to help the thousands uprooted by the violence and restore the town to daily life.

Although the fighting has ended, Palma does not appear to be completely secure.

Egypt fires top railway official

Cairo, April 20: Egypt's transportation minister on Tuesday said he sacked the country's top railway official, following three train accidents in less than a month that left at least 29 people dead and some 320 injured.

The firing of Asharf Raslan, head of the railway authority, was part of a wide ranging overhaul of the rundown railway system's leadership amid public outcry over repeated train crashes.

Raslan, who headed the railway authority since July 2018, was replaced Mustafa Abuel-Makarm, the office of Transportation Minister Kamal el-Wazir said in a statement.

The changes included the main departments of the railway authority that manages train traffic in the Arab world's most populous country.

CHAD PRESIDENT KILLED AFTER 30 YEARS IN POWER

N'Djamena, April 20: Chadian President Idriss Deby Itno, who ruled the central African nation for more than three decades, was killed Tuesday on the battlefield in a fight against rebels, the military announced on national television and radio.

The stunning announcement came just hours after electoral officials had declared Deby the winner of the April 11 presidential election, paving the way for him to stay in power for six more years.

The circumstances of Deby's death could not immediately be independently confirmed due to the remote location of the battlefield. It was not known why the president would have visited the frontlines in northern Chad or participated in ongoing clashes with the rebels who opposed his rule.

Deby, a former army commander-in-chief, first came to power in 1990 when his rebel forces overthrew then-President Hissene Habre, who was later convicted of human rights abuses at an international tribunal in Senegal.

Over the years Deby had survived numerous armed rebellions and managed to stay in power until this latest insurgency led by a group calling itself the Front for Change and Concord in Chad.

WH mum on lifting export ban on vaccine raw material to India

The Serum Institute of India has urged President Biden to lift the embargo

Avoid travelling to India, US to citizens over Covid spike

Washington, April 20: The White House on Monday did not respond to questions on the request by Serum Institute of India to lift export ban on certain raw materials needed for ramping up production of Covid-19 vaccine. The question in this regard was asked twice on Monday—once during the morning White House briefing on Covid-19 and later during the daily news conference by White House Press Secretary Jen Psaki.

The Serum Institute of India has been saying that the Biden administration is blocking exports of raw materials that it needs to make Covid vaccines, and the Serum Institute has also urged President Biden to lift that embargo. So I wanted to ask which raw materials are at issue here? And do you have any plans to address Serum's concerns? asked a reporter during the morning news conference by the White House Covid-19 Response Team.

Both Dr Anthony Fauci, Director at the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases and Dr Andy Slavitt, the White House Covid-19 response senior advisor said they had no answer.

I don't I'm sorry. We could

Washington, April 20: The US has advised its citizens to avoid travelling to India, even if they are fully vaccinated as there is a 'very high level' of Covid-19 in the country.

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention's (CDC) on Monday released travel recommendations by destination. It uses science-based Travel Health Notices to alert travellers to health threats around the world and advise on how to protect themselves. The CDC has a 4-level system for COVID-19 and in that India is placed in 'Level 4: Very high level of Covid-19'.

In the note Monday, the department noted that "the Covid-19 pandemic continues to pose unprecedented risks to travellers."

The CDC has urged Americans to avoid all travel to India.

Travellers should avoid all travel to India. Because of the current situation in India even fully vaccinated travellers may be at risk for getting and spreading Covid-19 variants and should avoid all travel to India, the CDC said in a statement.

J&amp;J virus vaccine manufacturing halted at plant that ruined doses

Washington, April 20: The US Food and Drug Administration requested that production of the Johnson & Johnson coronavirus vaccine be halted at a factory that previously reportedly ruined about 15 million doses of the shot.

The pharmaceutical giant told AFP at the end of March it had identified a batch of doses at a plant in Baltimore run by Emergent BioSolutions "that did not meet quality standards," but did not confirm the specific number affected. The New York Times later reported the batch consisted of about 15 million doses.

Emergent BioSolutions said in a regulatory Securities and Exchange Commission filing on Monday that the FDA had requested a pause on April 16 in production of the single-shot vaccine pending an inspection at the Baltimore, Maryland facility.

Johnson & Johnson had said it was sending experts to the site to oversee vaccine production. — AFP

French envoy ouster plea in Pak parl

Islamabad, April 20: A resolution was tabled in the lower house of the Parliament on Tuesday for the expulsion of the French ambassador from Pakistan over the issue of blasphemous cartoons being published in the European country. Amjad Ali Khan of the ruling Pakistan Tehreek-e-Insaf (PTI) party presented the resolution in the National Assembly with Speaker Asad Qaiser in the chair.

Technically, it was not an official document as it was moved by a member in his private capacity but it was accepted for discussion. The resolution condemned the publication of blasphemous caricatures by French magazine Charlie Hebdo in September last year and expressed regret over the French's president "encouragement of the elements hurting the sentiments of the hundreds of millions of Muslims in the name of freedom of expression".

"The House condemns the publication of insulting sketches by the controversial French magazine Charlie Hebdo and Muslims around the world had also expressed outrage at the publication of the sketches," it added.

It stated that a debate should be held in the House on the expulsion of the French ambassador from Pakistan over the issue of caricatures. "This House also demands that the state should decide matters of international relations and no person, group or party can exert unnecessary illegal pressure," according to the resolution.

It also said that all European countries in general and France in particular should be made aware of the seriousness of this issue of blasphemy. The resolution said that the issue should be raised collectively on international forums. — PTI

Lanka Easter attack 2nd anniv today

Colombo, April 20: Sri Lanka's Catholic church will observe a two-minute silence on Wednesday morning to mark the second anniversary of the deadly Easter Sunday attacks in 2019 that killed 258 people, including 11 Indians. Malcolm Cardinal Ranjith, the Archbishop of Colombo, has requested people to observe a two-minute silence at 8.45 am on Wednesday in memory of the victims of the Easter Sunday attacks.

Nine suicide bombers belonging to local Islamist extremist group National Thawheed Jamaat (NTJ) linked to ISIS carried out a series of devastating blasts that tore through three churches and as many luxury hotels on April 21, 2019, killing 258 people, including 11 Indians. Cardinal Ranjith said that two main memorial services would be held at the St Anthony's Church in Colombo and the St Sebastian's Church in Negombo the two of the three churches devastated by the suicide attacks two years ago.

Cardinal Ranjith, who will be presiding the memorial service at the St Anthony's Church, said that it was at 8.45 am on April 21, 2019 when the first suicide bomber targeted a church.

The police said there will be a special security cover to all churches throughout the island nation.

Vaccination: Set realistic targets, don't pass buck

The Union government's decision to open up vaccination against Covid-19 for all those aged above 18 is a welcome step but the decision to halve its procurement of vaccines and let the state governments and private players do the rest of the job throws up uncomfortable questions. The demand for relaxing eligibility conditions for vaccination was voiced by many state governments, and was raised in the letter former Prime Minister Dr Manmohan Singh had written to Prime Minister Narendra Modi the other day. The decision makes more than 98 crore of the 136 crore Indians eligible for vaccination; inoculating them all would be a major step for the nation to return to business as usual.

The Centre needs to explain how its decision to let the vaccine manufacturers sell 50 per cent of the production to state governments and private players will make its vaccination targets more achievable. It seems to have little planning to augment production in a drastic way in a short period of time: Union health minister Dr Harsh Vardhan, in his uncharacteristically distasteful reply to Dr Singh, was silent on the former Prime Minister's practical suggestion to use the compulsory licensing route to do so. In effect, all that the Centre has done is to liberalise the sale of half of the production of the vaccine at a time when the nation is facing an acute shortage of it. The Centre refused to pay heed to the call of the two manufacturers for more financial aid all these days, and when it did, it also gave them a chance to make super profits. It's ad-hocism at its worst.

This is not the first time the Centre has been found wanting in the fight against the pandemic: From the Prime Minister's assurance last year to the nation that we shall defeat the virus in 21 days to launching the "world's largest vaccination programme" with little planning on this New Year Day, ad-hocism and chest-thumping have been its hallmark. And the data on the milestones India has covered reflects that of a poor performer: we do not talk about flattening the curve at all, and have inoculated fully only one per cent of the population in the last four months. It's incomprehensible that the health minister jeered at Dr Singh's suggestion to look at the percentage, instead of the absolute number of doses.

It is time that the Centre sets achievable targets and works hard towards them, coordinating the efforts of all the stakeholders. It must rescind the decision to earmark half of the vaccine produced locally to the channel other than its own; it is in effect handing over the responsibility of making the vaccine available to the larger chunk of the population to the state governments while still holding all the purse strings, including those of the PM-Cares Fund. The government must also explore all options, including easy imports and compulsory licensing, to jack up availability of the vaccines. Impulsive decision making and chest-thumping can hardly replace careful planning and resolute action.

Man's Ingenuity on Mars

When Wilbur and Orville Wright flew their motor-operated plane in 1903 it was airborne for 12 seconds only. When Neil Armstrong took his first step on the moon in 1969 it was a small one for man but it represented a giant leap for mankind. So too with Ingenuity, just 48 centimetres tall and weighing 1.8 kg and which was airborne for exactly 39 seconds after climbing to only three metres above the rugged Martian surface. But such a short flight on another planet — where the atmosphere of mostly carbon dioxide is thin (about a hundredth of that on Earth) and there is no air to push against — is symbolic of a technological breakthrough that comes only once in a few generations. Ingenuity needed a heater and thermostat to be kept warm to withstand up to the minus 100 degrees Celsius temperatures of Martian nights.

The short flight opens up exciting possibilities for the future of space exploration; which need not be limited to a rover on wheels needing a surface to move on. Ingenuity's chief engineer Dr Bob Balaram, an alumnus of IIT Madras, believes such flight capabilities could evolve and help explore the moons of Saturn in the future. Helicopters and fleets of drones with heavier payloads can spot the most interesting terrain for rovers to move to and explore. The conquest of technology might even lead to the designing of helicopters that can one day fly even in the rarefied atmosphere around Mount Everest.

A comparison, however bizarre, may help bring out the extent of man's ingenuity in handling the complexities of remote-controlling the helicopter's flight on Mars when you consider the failure just the other day of a self-driving Tesla car, running at high speed and not negotiating a turn on the road to crash into a tree and kill two occupants. The Perseverance rover was only 60 metres away recording the historic flight but just imagine the capabilities of flying machines that can capture images at close quarters of worlds millions of miles away from earth. Such breakthroughs may encourage men who envisage colonising planets in the solar system to dream on.

'Hindu politics' by Opp. is a sign of BJP's New India

Nilanjan Mukhopadhyay

What is common to West Bengal chief minister Mamata Banerjee and former Uttar Pradesh chief minister Akhilesh Yadav? Besides the latter being a joint recipient of her letter, written last month to 15 Opposition stalwarts asking them to join forces to fight assaults on India's constitutional federalism, both have also recently publicly displayed their Hindu identities.

Mr Yadav's efforts at projecting his Hindu identity was unfortunately followed by his testing Covid positive, possibly because he had bathed at Haridwar during the Kumbh Mela and met with a Hindu seer, who was perhaps infected with the coronavirus. Ms Banerjee demonstrated that she was not a lesser Hindu than her adversary-in-chief, Prime Minister Narendra Modi, when she recited the Chandi Path to launch her campaign in Nandigram several weeks ago.

Ms Banerjee, as well as Mr Yadav, in ways more than one, embody the majority of India's Opposition leaders who have since 2014, taken recourse to startling innovations to wear their hitherto invisible Hindu birthmarks on their sleeves. Rahul Gandhi's efforts to publicly display being a Dattatreya Brahmin in the run-up to the Gujarat Assembly polls are widely known and were commented upon adequately.

Alongside widely embracing their religious identity, the (Hindu) Opposition leaders now mask past commitment and efforts at increasing the political representation of religious minorities, especially Muslims. They also no longer promise minority-specific development programmes with the same gusto as they once did. Some years ago, Sonia

Gandhi had bemoaned that her party suffered electorally due to its "prominently" image.

The contagion of over-anxious display of one's Hindu identity is in complete contrast to the unanimity in the political class, at dawn of the republic in 1950, that India's majority community was obligated to make the religious minorities, especially the Muslims, feel secure, respected and instil in them the belief that the majority was sensitive to their faith and tradition.

The chief minister of Bihar, Nitish Kumar, drew strength from this unspoken agreement when he mocked Prime Minister Modi for his refusal to wear a skull cap offered by a Muslim cleric in 2011. It is useful to recall Nitish Kumar's didactic advice: "In a country as diverse as ours, symbols must be respected. In order to maintain harmony with everyone, sometimes one has to wear a cap and sometimes one needs to sport a tilak."

Barely eight years after this taunt, the fortunes have reversed. Mr Kumar is now a much-diminished executor of Mr Modi's policies, albeit with a baulk at times on matters related to hard Hindutva. The Prime Minister has also successfully politically coerced his opponents to become mindful of the ways of the "New India", where being merely sensitive towards the concerns of religious minorities is deemed a political handicap, or perilous.

The Opposition parties are driven by their assessment that in the people's perception, whatever may be shortcomings of Prime Minister Modi and his government's deliveries, he has one most important "accomplishment" beneath his belt — that he has "fixed" Muslims. The Opposition parties are driven by their perception of majoritarian elation and are now unwilling to risk loss of support among Hindus. In more states than one, the Opposition to the BJP is its veritable B-team. Take the Arvind Kejriwal-led Aam Aadmi Party for instance in Delhi.

This explains Akhilesh Yadav's conscious decision to refrain from critiquing Hindu nationalist politics in recent years, especially after 2017, the way his father Mulayam Singh Yadav, the Samajwadi patriarch, did three decades ago when he pledged in October 1990 not to allow even a single "bird to flutter" over Ayodhya's skies on the day of the Vishwa Hindu Parishad's promised commencement of the "kar seva" at the disputed site. The impression that there has a complete reversal is the outlook of large sections of Hindus towards Muslims is reflected in several of Mamata Banerjee's decisions too, most visibly in the significantly lesser number of Muslims she has nominated as candidates in these elections.

Ms Banerjee and Mr Yadav have another commonality. Prashant Kishor and his brand of ideological agnosticism is part of their campaign to return to power, the former's currently and Mr Yadav's in 2017. Since his advent in India's political space as an electoral strategist, first for Mr Modi and later for others, Mr Kishor has preached that political commitment to ideas and policies is redundant. Winning polls, he asserts, is all about reading the data right, an effective communication strategy and making the right moves at opportune moments. His philosophy enables him to move to one "client" party from another. Mr Kishor's belief in post-ideology politics is reflected in the weakened commitment to political beliefs of Ms Banerjee, Mr Yadav and several others.

His influence was visible in Ms Banerjee's letter to the Opposition leaders. It was an unambiguous effort at opening a door for a post-poll pact with the Congress while staking claim to a national role in the event of the Trinamul Congress returning to power in West Bengal. But Ms Banerjee chose not to criticise the BJP's corrosive ideology. Instead, she used the passage of the law that clipped the powers of the Delhi government and held it as evidence of the ruling side's objective of establishing "one party authoritarian rule in India".

Ms Banerjee's letter was silent on the abrogation of Article 370 and taking away Jammu and Kashmir's statehood, a precursor to the law clipping the Delhi government's powers. The letter listed the reasons why the Opposition parties must forge a common cause. But none of these were ideological. Ms Banerjee limited herself to listing instances showing that the BJP consistently undermines India's federal character; hang-handed governors, using investigative agencies to target political opponents, limiting fiscal independence of states, dissolution of consultative bodies, worsening Centre-state relations and so on.

Mamata Banerjee has not sought allies among the Opposition parties to protect India from a majoritarian onslaught. Instead, it is a call to unite to safeguard its federal character and autonomy. Although people in more than one hundred seats are still to vote, the letter is the final proof of the BJP winning this round politically. Whether it has secured West Bengal electorally too shall be known only on May 2.

COVID CRUELTY

It is really a matter of concern that more than 40 lakh doses of covid-19 vaccines have been wasted in India. Most of the above were in Tamil Nadu and Punjab. Kerala and West Bengal are reported to have fully utilised the vaccines. It is high time the people stopped blaming the governments (Central and State) for the shortages. People in Tamil Nadu have lost their chance of getting vaccinated when they were readily available due to various reasons (including ignorance) and are now scrambling and blaming the governments. They are trying their best to get vaccinated to escape from the clutches of coronavirus as realisation has dawned on them very late.

WRITING ON THE WALL

THE MUCH-VAUNTED aim of the central government to provide affordable and accessible universal health coverage to all our countrymen by 2022 now looks like a distant mirage. The onset of the second wave of the Covid pandemic has laid bare the glaring inadequacies in our wobbly healthcare infrastructure, which is literally on the verge of a major breakdown. The ever-widening chasm between promise and performance on the healthcare front does not bode well for a "Swastha Bharat". Budgetary allocation on the health sector warrants a quantum leap, for mere lip service won't suffice.

THOUGHTFUL MOVE

The request made by West Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee to the election commission to advance the dates of polling of the remaining constituencies in West Bengal to complete them in a single day or two days is a thoughtful one. The decision by her to cancel massive rallies to avoid crowd gathering is the right step. The cancellation of campaigning by the Congress leaders Sonia and Rahul is also a welcome move. The EC should realise the seriousness of the situation and arrange for polling of remaining phases in a single day. The Supreme Court which was against the postponement of Bihar elections, should intervene and issue necessary directions to complete the entire process of polling in West Bengal and counting of votes in all 5 states as expeditiously as possible. EC should realise that the life of people is more important than adhering to its schedule.

Bengal lesson: Drawbacks of a multi-phase state election

After various incidents of violence in the first four phases of voting in West Bengal, the Election Commission of India ordered the election campaign to end 72 hours before the fifth phase of polling. This order of bringing the campaign to an end, 24 earlier than the mandated 48 hours is an indication of EC not being in full command. The EC tried to send out a message of being tough by putting a 24-hour ban on Mamata Banerjee's campaign and another 48-hour bar on that by BJP leader Rahul Sinha, and issuing notices to BJP leader Suwendu Adhikari. These steps are welcome, but it can't possibly evade the question — why in spite of an eight-phase election, on grounds that it was necessary so that polling took place in a free and fair manner, has it not been able to curb violence in the earlier phases that resulted in the death of a few people?

The multi-phase election and few days of gap between different phases is aimed at facilitating movement of security forces from one location/district to another as an adequate number of forces are needed to be deployed at each polling booth for a free and fair election. But visuals from the ground especially at booths where violent incident took place clearly indicated that though security forces were deployed inside the polling booths, they were hardly seen outside them. It is a well-known fact that violence mostly take place outside the polling booth and hardly inside. The question that the EC actually needs to answer is this, was planning an eight-phase poll spread over a month, and during a pandemic too boot, wrong, after all? While there are advantages to holding a phased election, were there also challenges that it failed to take into account? Equally, was not deploying security forces outside polling stations in spite of visible signs of tension in many villages due to shortage? It so happened that more than 1,000 companies of central forces were deployed in West Bengal at the time.

As noted above, the huge gap between the different phases of polling in the 2021 West Bengal Legislative Assembly election was kept to facilitate comfortable movement of security forces between locations. The EC did the right thing following this protocol. However, it failed to assess that these days could also be used by anti-social elements for movement from one place to another. Thus, questions should also be asked for the rationale behind the eight-phase election. Why could the election not be planned over fewer phases?

Even though there is no data on the number of violent incidents in different phases, there is a general sense that violent incidents have increased in the later phases of the election compared to the earlier phases of voting. As we have noted before, a multiple-phase election does help in movement of security forces ultimately resulting in deployment of an adequate number at each polling station, but at the same time, spread over a month, it provides an opportunity for escalating violence, as workers of different parties fighting against each other get time to settle scores, right from one phase on to the next. Election in one phase could minimise this possibility, as they would not otherwise get the opportunity to organise themselves. Whatever violence takes place would then only be spontaneous. There may be some other disadvantages, but a single-day polling can certainly help in reducing the duration of tension between party workers.

A multi-phase election results in a very long period of election campaign. The campaign comes to an end 48 hours before the polling only in those constituencies where voting is scheduled to take place. There is no restriction on campaigning in constituencies where voting is scheduled at a later date. It has now almost become a rule that senior leaders of political parties will address rallies in constituencies where voting is to take place on a later date on the same day that voting is in progress in some other constituency. It has also become customary for these leaders to accuse leaders of their rival parties of their involvement in violent incidents in their speeches delivered during these rallies. This only raises the tempers of party workers that at times trigger violence in the said constituency on the voting day. A single-phase election or polling over fewer phases will certainly restrict the campaign period that will only help in keeping the political temperatures down, ultimately leading to less violence on the polling day.

Elections are due to be held in many states next year, Uttar Pradesh being a large one. Possibly, EC would think about a phased election. While so doing, it should keep the West Bengal lesson in mind.

Move part of efforts to boost supply Govt mulls duty cut on oxygen

MADHUSUDAN SAHOO NEW DELHI, APRIL 20

Anticipating a shortage of oxygen from the sharp spike in Covid-19 cases in many states, the government may encourage private companies to import oxygen to boost ramped up domestic supply. Besides, it is also expected that the Centre may relax the total import duty—which includes integrated GST—on medical oxygen by at least 10-12 per cent to boost private trade, a government source said.

The government move came soon after its decision on Monday to open vaccinations for all above 18 years of age from May 1.

A senior government official said, "We are closely looking into the development on oxygen supply and demand. If needed, we will allow private firms to import it with some duty relaxation. They may get a waiver of a minimum 10-12 per customs duty on oxygen if they intend to import."

As per industry estimation, the demand for the much sought-after liquid medical oxygen (LMO) has jumped manifold amidst the second wave of Covid-19. "During the first wave of Covid-19 last year, the demand for LMO increased four times to 2,800 tonnes per day. Further, with the second wave, the demand has gone up to more than 5,000 TPD," an industry source said.

STOP INDUSTRIAL USE OF OXYGEN: HC

New Delhi, April 20: The Delhi High Court on Tuesday said that economic interests cannot override human lives, and in view of hospitals in the national capital running low on oxygen, the Centre should immediately implement the ban on industrial use of oxygen instead of waiting till April 22.

A bench of Justices Vipin Sanghi and Rekha Palli said oxygen supply of various hospitals will run out in 4-8 hours and in such a situation there was no justification in implementing the ban from April 22 as the need was now.

The court directed the Centre to forthwith implement the ban and divert the oxygen to hospitals.

The court also issued notice to INOX Air Products, which produces oxygen, as to why contempt action be not initiated against it for not complying with court orders to supply oxygen and directed the presence of the company's MD on the next date of hearing on April 22.

The court also sought the presence of the Uttar Pradesh government on the next date.

The direction came after senior advocate Rahul Mehra told the bench that INOX did not supply oxygen as directed by the court claiming that doing so would lead to a law and order situation in UP from where the supply was to come.

The court also directed the Centre to issue appropriate orders and also meet the representatives of the steel and petrochemical industries to divert some portion of their oxygen. —PTI said the government is looking into all aspects of oxygen requirement.

"In order to save the lives of people now we are trying our best to meet the demand and boost supply. About the pricing, I think they could also be given the freedom to set pricing of their own," the official added.

BHARAT BIOTECH TO BOOST VACCINE OUTPUT

CHRIS KAY APRIL 20

Bharat Biotech International Ltd will ramp up production of its Covid-19 shot to about 700 million doses on an annual basis as the country struggles to contain a fresh and virulent coronavirus wave.

The planned expansion comes after the government last week gave the firm a Rs 65-crore grant. New Delhi has pushed Bharat Biotech to double its output by June and churn out 100 million doses of its inactivated Covaxin shot per month by September.

"Inactivated vaccines, while highly safe, are extremely complex and expensive to manufacture, resulting in lower yields compared to live virus vaccines," the firm said. —Bloomberg

DBS, StanChart weigh bids for Citi consumer business

ANSHUMAN DAGA, NUPUR ANAND & SUMEET CHATTERJEE APRIL 20

DBS Group, Mitsubishi UFJ Financial Group (MUFG), OCBC and Standard Chartered are set to bid for parts of Citigroup's consumer business in Asia, people with direct knowledge of the matter said.

The sale process will start within a couple of weeks, they added, declining to be named as they were not authorised to speak to media.

The move comes after Citi said it would exit from its consumer franchises in 13 markets, 10 of which are in Asia, as it refocuses on its more lucrative institutional and wealth management businesses in these markets.

Potential bids from the regional banks and StanChart, which makes most of its profit in Asia, underscores their growing appetite for businesses like credit cards and mortgages in a push to lock in long-term income growth.

The businesses Citi is exiting had $82 billion in assets and were allocated $7 billion in tangible common equity last year.

As Citi is not giving up its banking licences in most of the markets it is exiting, the sale of the consumer banking portfolios and branches will only appeal to lenders with existing presence in these countries, the people said.

Representatives at MUFG and StanChart, and Sumitomo Mitsui Financial Group, which the sources said was another potential bidder, declined to comment. "DBS has always been open to exploring sensible bolt-on opportunities in markets where we have a consumer banking franchise," Southeast Asia's biggest lender said.

In 2016, DBS bought ANZ's wealth management and retail businesses in five Asian markets for about $80 million.

Citi's sprawling India consumer business, comprising retail deposits, mortgages and credit cards, and its Taiwan business would be among the most valuable parts of its Asian consumer portfolio, the sources said.

DBS, the only big foreign bank with a fully owned Indian subsidiary, is eyeing Citi's India business, which is also set to attract StanChart and Kotak Mahindra Bank and Axis Bank, the sources said. SBI Cards and Payment Services is also weighing a bid for Citi's credit card portfolio. —Reuters

Container shortage eases but freight rates still high

SANGEETHA G CHENNAI, APRIL 20

While the hurdles in container availability, which troubled exporters for several months at a stretch, have eased, the freight charges are still ruling high, and are still 40 to 50 per cent higher than last year. Container shortage and demand issues had dragged down the consolidated cargo traffic at government-run ports to a three-year low in FY21.

The government on Tuesday claimed that the shortage of containers has been eased in the country. Around 58 per cent additional exports were handled in March and around one lakh empty containers were repositioned on Indian ports from across the world by the shipping lines. The Container Shipping Lines Association (India) said it has increased availability by more than 17-18 per cent compared to March 2019.

India is also targeting to manufacture containers domestically. State-run Concor has already issued an order of 2,000 containers to BHEL and Braithwaite. Discussions have been initiated with steel manufacturers, for producing corten steel in India at competitive prices, and railway wagon manufacturers like BHEL, DCM-Hyundai and Balmer & Lawrie to set up production lines for manufacturing containers.

Though containers are now available, exporters complain that freight charges are still high. Compared to last year levels, freight charges are 40 to 50 per cent higher, said A Shaktivel, chairman of the Apparel Export Promotion Council. Some exporters suspect shipping lines have formed a cartel and are controlling the rates.

Meanwhile, the total consolidated cargo traffic handled at the government-run ports—both major and non-major ports—in FY21 dropped to a three-year low and was 5.3 per cent lower than in FY20. In volume terms, the total cargo managed at 1,248 million tonnes was 70 million tonnes lower than in FY20 and 34 million tonnes less than FY19.

Achinta finishes 2nd at Asian meet

Tashkent: Indian weightlifter Achinta Sheuli finished second in the 73kg group B competition at the Asian Championship here on Tuesday. The Commonwealth Championship gold medalist lifted 309kg — 139kg in snatch followed by 170kg in clean and jerk. The Indian had the best snatch lift (139kg) in the four-man field. However, he failed to lift 174kg in his final clean and jerk attempt which would have seen him top the group. Kazakhstan's Sairamkez Akmoloda 310kg (130kg+180kg) finished first in the group. No request for pre-Oly vaccines

Tokyo: Tokyo 2020 organising committee said on Tuesday that they received no request from athletes to vaccinate them before the opening of the Olympic games. The vaccine rollout in Japan has been very slow with less than 1 per cent vaccinated, causing concern about the postponed Tokyo Olympics that are scheduled to open in just over three months. Naoko Takahashi, chairperson, Athletes' Committee, Tokyo 2020 said during a press conference that while athletes have questions about the Covid-19 vaccinations, they were not about whether athletes can get them or not. — AP

Curry, who scored 47 points in a defeat to Boston on Saturday, bagged his 11th straight game with 30 points or more to give the Warriors a crucial victory in their fight for a playoff berth. It was another spellbinding performance from the Warriors talisman, who is fast becoming the frontrunner for this season's NBA Most Valuable Player award with an average of 31.4 points per game. No change in WTC final dates

ICC confident big game will go ahead as planned despite India being 'red-flagged'

Dubai, April 20: The World Test Championship final between India and New Zealand will go ahead as planned in Southampton from June 18, the International Cricket Council (ICC) has assured after Britain added India to its travel 'red list' following a massive surge in Covid-19 case-load.

India's entry into the "red list" effectively bans all travel from the country and makes a 10-day hotel quarantine compulsory for UK residents arriving back home.

However, the ICC expressed confidence in staging the WTC final in a bio-secure environment.

"The ECB and other members have demonstrated how we can stage international cricket safely in the middle of a pandemic and we are confident that we can continue to do that and that the WTC Final will go ahead as planned in June in the UK," said the ICC in a statement on Monday night.

"We are currently discussing with the UK Government the impact of countries being on the red list," it added.

A BCCI source said that it's difficult to say anything at this point in time and the Board is hoping that India will not be in the 'red list' by the time the team leaves for UK in early June for the WTC final.

"We still don't know how the situation will pan out in June. The travel related

● India's entry into the British "red list" effectively bans all travel from the country and makes a 10-day hotel quarantine compulsory for UK residents arriving back home.

SOPs are always dynamic as per Covid situation. When India leaves for UK at the start of June, it might be that the country is not in red list which requires 10 days of hard quarantine.

"But, if it is needed, it would be done. The situation is too fluid right now," the source said on conditions of anonymity.

Media reports in the UK said that in case it is required, the Rose Bowl in Southampton and its on-site hotel could be cleared for 'red list' arrivals by reverting to the full bio-secure set up that saw it successfully stage international fixtures last season.

"We are currently discussing with the government the impact of countries being on the 'red list'. By working collaboratively we demonstrated how we can stage international cricket safely in the middle of a pandemic and hope to be able to do so again this year," an ECB spokesperson was quoted as saying by 'Guardian' newspaper. The Indian women's cricket team is also scheduled to tour UK in June while the men's team is to play five Tests in England starting August 4.

There is also concern about how the inclusion of India in the 'red list' will impact the England and New Zealand cricketers who are currently playing in the IPL and intend to fly to the UK for the two-match Test series between the two countries that starts at the Lord's on June 2. The IPL will conclude on May 30 with the summit clash scheduled in Ahmedabad. India has reported 2,59,170 new positive cases in last 24 hours, the highest single-day surge, taking the country's Covid-19 case-load past the 1.5 crore mark.

SA captains fear ICC suspension

Johannesburg, April 20: The ICC on Tuesday said it will not intervene in the governance crisis engulfing South African cricket till the country's board asks for it, after the three national team captains expressed concerns over possible suspension by the game's global governing body.

The three skippers Dean Elgar, Temba Bavuma and Dane van Niekerk have signed a joint statement expressing their concerns before the ICC statement came as a relief.

"The ICC encourages Members to work with governments to resolve issues. Not all government intervention is problematic and for the ICC to get involved it requires a formal complaint from our Members that it is unwanted," the apex body said in a statement.

"Should that happen we will evaluate the situation based on the facts provided and plan an appropriate course of action."

An ICC source said that Cricket South Africa (CSA) hasn't yet reached a situation that demands the apex body's intervention.

"ICC doesn't want to press the panic button yet and want them to solve the issue themselves," the source said.

Earlier, the players feared if the current impasse is not resolved soon, South Africa may not be able to take part in the ICC T20 World Cup, to be held in India in October-November. — PTI

FIFA vows 'consequences' for Super League clubs

Montreux (Switzerland), April 20: FIFA president Gianni Infantino on Tuesday warned that clubs involved in the European Super League could face "consequences", as the backlash built against the deeply divisive plans.

Infantino leant his support to European football's governing body as it attempts to quash an initiative that threatens its prized Champions League and the health of domestic competitions such as England's Premier League.

"It is our task to protect the European sport model, so if some elect to go their own way then they must live with the consequences of their choices," Infantino said at UEFA's congress in Switzerland.

"They are responsible for their choices."

Twelve powerful clubs — six from England, and three each from Spain and Italy — have signed up for the Super League, which offers guaranteed spots for its founding members and billions of dollars in payments. Liverpool, Arsenal, Chelsea, Manchester City, Manchester United and Tottenham Hotspur are the English clubs involved, together with Barcelona, Atletico Madrid and Real Madrid from Spain and Italian trio Juventus, AC Milan and Inter Milan.

Currently, teams have to qualify for the Champions League each year through their national competitions, and face a lengthy group phase before reaching the high-profile latter stages.

The Super League would guarantee a spot for its founding members every year, removing the uncertainty of qualification and the accompanying risks to revenue. The breakaway plan prompted a furious reaction from fans and officials, with UEFA president Aleksander Ceferin saying on Monday it was motivated by "greediness, selfishness and narcissism", and Liverpool manager Jurgen Klopp saying its closed nature was "not right".

On Tuesday, Ceferin implored club owners, particularly those of Premier League teams, to row back on the plans.

Indian boxers book seven semis berths

New Delhi, April 20: Babyrojisana Chanu outclassed defending European champion Alexs Kubicka as seven Indian boxers stormed into the semi-finals at the youth world championships for men and women in Kielce, Poland.

Along with Chanu (51kg), Arundhati Choudhary (69kg), Sanamacha Chanu (75kg), Ankit Narwal (64kg), Vishal Gupta (91kg), Bishwamitra Chongtham (49kg) and Sachin (56kg) assured themselves of at least a bronze by advancing to the last-four stage on Day 7 of competitions.

With the confirmation of seven more medals, the 20-member Indian contingent is now assured of 11 medals from the ongoing championship.

Earlier on Day 6, Vinka, Alfiya, Gitika and Poonam had advanced to the semi-finals. In a clash between two strong gold contenders in women's 51kg category, Asian youth champion Chanu put up a strong tactical performance. She did not allow her Polish opponent Kubicka to score any point, blanking her 5-0. The Manipuri boxer will now take on Lucia Ayari of Italy.
