All is not well with AIADMK alliance

G. BABU JAYAKUMAR & D. SEKAR | DC
CHENNAI, MARCH 1

DMDK, the party founded by actor Vijayakanth, is seemingly angry with the AIADMK, in whose coalition it has been so far, and sends out signals of a possible break-up by calling for applications from its cadre to contest all over the State.

Though the announcement of the schedule for the Assembly elections has led to hectic activity in the political sphere with leading parties trying to wrap up the alliances and start campaigning, allies of the AIADMK are seemingly playing truant demanding seats more than what was offered to them by the coalition leader.

After the PMK, the ally with the biggest vote bank in northern Tamil Nadu, accepted the 23 seats that the AIADMK gave it, alliance talks with the BJP and DMDK are said to have gone south, particularly the parleys with BJP top honcho Amit Shah in Chennai on Sunday night.

The talks, in which both Chief Minister Edappadi K Palaniswami and Deputy Chief Minister O

FRIENDS, FOES & FRENEMIES

In Sunday's discussions, the demand placed by DMDK for over 20 seats was rejected by the AIADMK.

Panneerselvam took part, went on late into the night as Shah's scheduled arrival to Chennai by road was delayed a bit. Since the BJP did not make any announcements on the finalisation of the alliance which he had promised to do on Monday did not happen, there were doubts about whether the talks yielded substantial results.

Negotiations with the DMDK, however, ran into a cul de sac clearly with the party leaders not meeting AIADMK leader and Minister P Thangamani at his residence on Monday. In Sunday's discussions, the demand placed by DMDK for over 20 seats was rejected by the AIADMK. ■ P2

The BJP has identified certain constituencies where it sees a greater prospect for its candidates and has asked for them. But those constituencies, many of them from the Western Kongu belt, are said to be AIADMK citadels which the party does not want to lose.

DMK firming up ties, seat deals

CHENNAI, MARCH 1

DMK President MK Stalin announced his grand plan for unveiling a 10-year vision document for the State in its public meeting to be held on Sunday even as his party started finalising seat sharing with its allies, one after the other. Though the talks with the Congress ran into rough weather over the numbers, the DMK leaders assigned to hold talks with the alliance partners managed to bring around the MMK and IUML by offering them two and three seats respectively.

Delegations from the VCK and DMDK held talks on Monday and have agreed to return to the table after holding discussions with their leaders. But insiders say there was no big hitch on finalising the agreement though again the bone of contention is the numbers and the question of which symbol they will be contesting under. ■ P2

Tejashwi offers Mamata support

Kolkata, March 1: TMC supremo Mamata Banerjee and RJD leader Tejashwi Yadav Monday discussed the evolving political scenario in poll-bound West Bengal but there was no clarity yet about seat sharing. Emerging from a meeting with Banerjee, Tejashwi, the Leader of the Opposition in the Bihar assembly, said his first priority was to prevent the BJP's forward march in West Bengal.

He appealed to Biharis domiciled in the state to rally behind the West Bengal chief minister in the elections.

He parried questions by journalists after the meeting at the state secretariat about whether the RJD will be contesting a few seats in West Bengal in alliance with the ruling TMC, merely saying "when Mamataji is fighting, it is we who are fighting. We will put in all efforts to ensure that she wins. Our full support is with her and her party." Tejashwi urged the people from Bihar living in West Bengal to stand with the ruling TMC, which is facing a stiff challenge from the BJP in its bid for a third straight term in office. — PTI

HC to monitor Rajesh Das case

Chennai, March 1: The Madras high court will monitor the probe into the sexual harassment case against a Special DGP rank official in Tamil Nadu, saying it has to do so to ensure that the fundamental rights of the victim to a free and fair investigation is not reduced to an empty ritual. The court said there is a "faulty gene" in men which sometimes makes them think that a woman is subordinate to them and that at times she can even be treated like "chattel."

"If an officer, due to the power he wields, thinks that he can get over with his power and connections, from any act, this Court is not going to be a mute spectator and this Court will step in and ensure that the rule of law is preserved," Justice N Anand Venkatesh said.

In his interim order, the judge also directed that the names of both the accused and the victim shall not be publicised and also expressed concern over a woman officer being forced to undergo such an experience. The court took up on its own the case against the Special DGP level official, now placed under "compulsory wait," after the CB-CID filed an FIR, slapping sections including sexual harassment and criminal intimidation. — PTI

MNM founder Kamal to contest from Alandur

DC CORRESPONDENT
CHENNAI, MARCH 1

Makkal Neethi Maiam (MNM) founder Kamal Haasan is all set to take his maiden electoral plunge from Alandur Assembly constituency in Chennai as former Chief Minister MG Ramachandran (MGR) had entered the hallowed precincts of the State Assembly for the first time in 1967 by winning the Parangimalai seat, which was subsequently merged with Alandur.

Haasan, who had been invoking the name of MGR and trying to project himself as one following the AIADMK founder's political steps, will also start his campaign for the coming March 6 elections to the Assembly from Alandur constituency after paying homage to MGR's statue at Ramavaram Gardens. The predominantly middle-class locality of Alandur has also been chosen by Haasan and his party honchos, probably in view of the support the actor enjoys among urban educated people. ■ P2

PM kicks off round 2 with Covid vaccine shot in Delhi

DDCORRESPONDENT with agency inputs
NEW DELHI, MARCH 1

The second phase vaccination drive to cover the general population above 60 years and those above 45 with co-morbidities began Monday with Prime Minister Narendra Modi and some of his Cabinet ministers taking the first dose of the anti-Covid jab. The 70-year-old PM took the first dose of the indigenously made Covaxin at New Delhi's AIIMS to launch the second phase drive.

"Took my first dose of the Covid-19 vaccine at AIIMS. Remarkable how our doctors and scientists have worked in quick time to strengthen the global fight against Covid-19. I appeal to all those who are eligible to take the vaccine. Together, let us make India Covid-19 free!" the PM tweeted after taking the vaccine shot.

The decision to take the Covaxin shot by the PM was intended to quell the apprehensions and suspicion over the India-made vaccine as several Opposition leaders have questioned its safety and efficacy. The government has given emergency use authorisation to Bharat Biotech, which has developed Covaxin in collaboration with the Indian Council of Medical Research-National Institute of Virology.

"He took the Made in India Bharat Biotech Covaxin, vaccine and showed that both vaccines are safe and efficacious. We must come forward and take whichever vaccine is available. There has been controversy comparing one vaccine to the other, that has also been laid to rest today," said Dr Randeep Guleria, the director of AIIMS. ■ P4

Washington/Beijing, March 1: Amidst the tense border tension between India and China, a Chinese government-linked group of hackers targeted India's critical power grid system through malware, a US company has said in its latest study, raising suspicion whether last year's massive power outage in Mumbai was a result of the online intrusion.

DC CORRESPONDENT
VELLORE, MARCH. 1

An MGR statue was burnt during the celebrations held to observe DMK president M.K.Stalin's birthday on Monday, near Tirupatur. Police have registered a case.

Sources said that the MGR statue at Kejalnayakkanpatti near Kandili in Tirupatur district was covered with a cloth in compliance to the poll code. On Monday morning, a few DMK workers celebrated their party president M.K. Stalin's birthday near the statue, and lighted up firecrackers.

In this, the cloth around the statue was totally burnt and the statue got charred, triggering tension in the area for a short while.

On learning about this, some AIADMK cadres had also gathered there. Kandili police rushed to the spot. The DMK workers explained that none had purposely set on fire the statue. Police have registered a case against the local DMK leader, and are investigating.

DMDK functionary held for cheating

DC CORRESPONDENT
CHENNAI, MARCH.1

The city police on Monday arrested a DMDK functionary on the charges of cheating a woman of Rs 16 lakh.

The arrested person has been identified as Sarath Kumar alias Sarath (28). He used to be DMDK'S Madipakkam Divisional Secretary, the police said.

According to the police, the victim identified as, Mohana, (28) a resident of Periyar Street in Madipakkam had known Sarath for a few years. Sarath had told Mohana that he knew a person in Chennai Customs and that he could sell him smuggled gold for a low price.

Believing him, in 2019, Mohana gave Sarath Rs 30,000 for the gold and within a few days, he gave gold worth Rs 50,000 to Mohana. Subsequently, Mohana paid Rs 16 lakhs to Sarath for the next batch of gold. However, this time Sarath reportedly spent her money lavishly. When the victim asked him to repay her money, he allegedly refused.

She then lodged a complaint with the Madipakkam police. It is said that due to police inaction in the case, Mohana approached St.Thomas Mount AC. Following this, Sarath was arrested on Monday. He was produced in Alandur court and lodged at Puzhal prison.

DMK files contempt against Union and TN govts

DC CORRESPONDENT
CHENNAI, MARCH.1

The Madras high court has ordered notice to the Union Ministry of Health and Family Welfare Secretary, State Health and Family Welfare Secretary, Tamil Nadu Chief Secretary and 6 others in connection with a contempt of court case.

The first bench comprising Chief Justice Sanjib Banerjee and Justice Senthilkumar Ramamoorthy posted to last week of April, further hearing of the contempt petition filed by DMK represented by its Press Relation secretary TKS Elangovan.

In his petition, Elangovan sought to punish the nine officials for their alleged willful failure to implement the orders of the court dated July 27, 2020. The court had on July 27, 2020 directed the Union of India through the Director General of Health Services, Ministry of Health and Family Welfare, to convene a meeting along with the Health Secretary, Government of Tamil Nadu and the Secretaries of the Medical Council of India and the Dental Council of India in order to finalize the manner in which the facilities of Other Backward Class (OBC) reservation are to be provided for against All India Quota seats in the UG/PG (medical) courses with effect from the next academic year.

When the case came up for hearing on Monday, senior counsel P.Wilson, appearing for the petitioner submitted that the issue relating to granting of reservations in All India Quota State surrendered seats was settled by the first bench on July 27, 2020 and this court directed to form a committee with Director General of Health and Family Welfare, Health Secretary, MCI and DCI secretaries and to take decision on the basis of reservations prevailing in the state. The Tamil Nadu government filed an appeal before the Supreme Court and the Supreme Court also reiterated the same while rejecting the appeal of Tamil Nadu government, he added.

He said despite directions, the committee so formed without the Director General of Health and Family Welfare and without the state health secretary. It has not implemented its decision of reservations for this academic year 2021-2022, which was apparent from the MDS-2021 prospectus. The order of this court was flouted and hence, there was a clear case of contempt. The admissions for PG for 2021-2022 prospectus was issued without the reservations for state contributed seats as directed by this court and MBBS prospectus for admission 2021 may be released and if there were no reservations implemented for 2021-2022 students life will be doomed, Wilson added.

Plea to restrain TN from transferring Returning Officers

DC CORRESPONDENT

DMK MP and its Organisation secretary R.S.Bharathi has approached the Madras high court to restrain the state government from making any further transfers or change of Returning Officers or Assistant Returning Officers, unless any specific complaint is made against a particular Returning Officer or Assistant Returning Officer.

In his petition, Bharathi submitted that several Returning Officers have been transferred by a G.O dated February 3, 2021 issued by the Revenue and Disaster Management department and another G.O dated February 11, 2021 issued by the Public (Special-A) department without any consultation with the Election Commission of India and Chief Electoral Officer. Furthermore, the information available in the Public (Elections) department website shows the lack of knowledge about transfer of the notified Returning Officers. A bare perusal of the list of officers, who have been transferred and the constituencies involved like Avadi, Kolathur, Dr.Radhakrishnan Nagar, Velachery and Jayankondam gives the notion that these transfers have been made with ulterior motives and were nothing but colourable exercise of power. There were also vacant positions of Returning Officers which were not yet notified. As such, these actions were arbitrary and were likely to vitiate the sanctity of the entire electoral process, he added. He sought to stay the operation of the said two G.Os and to quash the same.

The first bench comprising Chief Justice Sanjib Banerjee and Justice Senthilkumar Ramamoorthy, before whom the petition filed by Bharathi came up for hearing on Monday, adjourned it to March 3.

Stalin to release vision statement for TN

From P1

Since the DMK would like its smaller allies to contest in its popular 'Rising Sun' symbol, most of the parties seem to have a different view on that. The IUML has already made it clear it would face the elections in its 'ladder' symbol, the MMK is yet to decide on what symbol to go for.

The two Communist parties are expected to hold talks in the next couple of days and the Congress, too, whose State leaders were camping down south in view of Rahul Gandhi's visit to the southern district, will resume negotiations this week itself.

DMK is said to be keen on finalising the alliance by next week as the party is keen on making use of the ground that it levelled at Siruganur in the outskirts of Trichy for a magnificent State conference, earlier scheduled for March 14.

While the DMK had a grand plan to bring together the party's booth committees to Siruganur and brief them all on how to approach the coming elections to the Assembly, the announcement of the poll schedule and the kicking in of the Model Code of Conduct had led to the abandoning of the conference.

Now the ground would witness a massive public meeting, almost on the lines of a conference, on March 7 where Stalin would unveil his vision for the next 10 years. The vision document would give details of the targets that Stalin had set to push the State up to the top post position in all areas of growth.

Stalin, who made the announcement on his vision document at Anna Arivalayam on Monday after acknowledging the spate of greetings he received from various people, cadre and leaders on his 68th birthday on Monday, said that the preparation for the party's manifesto was also on. He also mentioned that alliance talks had started in earnest.

MNM pins hopes on educated voters in urban areas

Since the middle-class voters are likely to relate to the corruption issues that Haasan tries to raise, he might get more supporters in the Alandur area.

As such the constituency has voted both DMK and AIADMK candidates alternately with Panruti S Ramachandran clinching the seat as a candidate of the DMDK in 2011. Interestingly there is a possibility of the DMDK joining hands with MNM to form the Third Front for the elections.

With its relationship with the AIADMK souring after alliance talks ran into trouble the DMDK may drift towards MNM as actor Sarathkumar did. Sarath Kumar had complained that the AIADMK didn't even invite his party. Samathuva Makkal Munnetra Kazhagam, for talks.

As alliance talks shift to overdrive in the coming days in both the DMK and AIADMK camps there could be small parties that feel being short changed and move to the MNM camp. That was the hope that Haasan himself had expressed in the past.

Meanwhile, Haasan has also announced the dates of holding interviews for ticket seekers. As announced earlier even those who have not enrolled as members of the party can apply for a ticket to contest the election.

DMDK drifting towards MNM?

From P1

Perhaps if the DMDK breaks off, as the indications are now, the BJP might be offered a few more seats by the AIADMK but the dispute between the two parties could not be easily solved since it is the demand for particular seats that the coalition leader is not able to accede to.

The BJP has identified certain constituencies where it sees a greater prospect for its candidates and has asked for them. But those constituencies, many of them from the Western Kongu belt, are said to be AIADMK citadels which the party does not want to lose.

Also it is rumoured that the BJP would like to accommodate the TTV Dhinakaran's AMMK in the alliance, which the AIADMK leaders were totally opposed to for various reasons. While some sections of the BJP feel that by keeping Dhinakaran's party with them, they could add their vote tally, the AIADMK feels that it would weaken their party.

Meanwhile, Vijayakanth issued a statement, after his party delegation gave a miss to its meeting with Thangamani, announcing interviews for those aspiring to contest the elections from all the districts. The interviews would be held between March 6 and 8, the statement said.

Though Vijayakanth's present posturing indicates the party is willing to go it alone, there was also talk that the DMDK might drift towards Kamal Haasan's Makkal Neethi Maam (MNM) that is open to the idea of forming a third front in the State.

Rahul: TN should show way in keeping out BJP, oust CM .. foresees a second freedom fight

DC CORRESPONDENT WITH AGENCY INPUTS
NAGERCOIL, MARCH 1

Tamil Nadu should show the way to India in keeping away the forces that are inimical to language and culture and those projecting "one culture, one nation and one history" concept, Congress leader Rahul Gandhi said on Monday. History has shown that nobody can rule Tamil Nadu other than the Tamil people, he said during a public address here as part of his three-day tour of poll-bound Tamil Nadu.

"This election will show the same thing that only a person who truly represents the Tamil people can be a chief minister of Tamil Nadu," he said addressing the huge crowd in Nagercoil, in the southern Kanyakumari district. "Tamil Nadu chief minister (K Palaniswami) who bows to Prime Minister Narendra Modi will never be able to do this. The chief minister should bow to the people of the state," he said. The RSS and Modi "insult Tamil language and culture", he said, adding the people should not allow them to gain a foothold.

Rahul said it was his responsibility to protect Tamil culture, language and history. Taking a dig at the Narendra Modi led Union Government and the RSS of insulting Tamil culture, language and history, Rahul said, "As an Indian, it was his duty to protect Tamil culture, language and history, just as it was his responsibility to protect all religions and culture, language and history of all the states in the country.

He also said that he could not accept the RSS spreading hatred and division among the people, triggering hatred and contempt among the people. Earlier, Rahul visited the cemetery of former Kanyakumari MP and Congress leader H Vasantha Kumar, at Agastheeswaram, and laid the foundation stone for a memorial there.

Showcasing himself as a sports aficionado, Congress leader Rahul Gandhi, performed some 'Aikido' steps on stage before school children in Kanyakumari district on Monday, amidst his hectic election campaign for the last three days.

Interacting with the students, Rahul said "Having our freedom of expression get hurt, we need another freedom fight. The second freedom fight should be non-violent and affectionate, in a manner to ward off fear, anger and hatred prevailing among Indian citizens."

He also declared before the students that Neet was not at all beneficial to medical aspirants, as it was implemented without consulting the students and the teachers.

The fit-looking 50-year-old leader was quizzed by the students of St Joseph's Matriculation Higher Secondary school in many areas. Rahul told his student friends that he used to run, swim and cycle regularly to keep himself fit and healthy. He also advised them to follow his routine of avoiding much sugar, eating less carbohydrate and taking more proteins and fat to maintain their health.

Rahul said he himself was a black belt holder in 'Aikido' and showed off his martial art talents by performing a wrist-grab technique with a student, a state Judo champion. Rahul quickly put him on the mat. He also accepted a challenge of a girl student, a kho-kho champion, besides performing double handed and single hand push-ups on stage, to the great applause of both students and teachers.

In a very relaxed manner, Rahul interacted with the students of the private matriculation school at Mulagumoodu, in Kanyakumari district. He also danced to the tune of a students' dance sequence, along with his senior party colleagues Dinesh Gundu Rao, the party-in-charge for Tamil Nadu and K.S. Azhagiri, president, Tamil Nadu Congress Committee (TNCC).

Earlier, answering a student's query about what would he ask Prime Minister Modi if he happened to meet him personally, Rahul Gandhi said, "Why don't you listen to the people and try to understand the aspirations of the people?"

Tough fight for AIADMK in Nilgiris

B. RAVICHANDRAN | DC
OOTY, MARCH 1

As the recently appointed top level district-level functionaries of the AIADMK party in the Nilgiris are young and inexperienced, the battle between the young AIADMK team and the highly experienced DMK team in Nilgiris. Of course, the Nilgiris is considered to be a DMK bastion.

Post-emergency with the emergence of AIADMK in state politics saw the AIADMK dominating the assembly elections. But, in contrast, it is the DMK and its alliance dominating the election scenario here, which has three assembly segments namely Ooty, Coonoor and Gudalur(reserve).

While the AIADMK and its alliance trounced the DMK in the 1984, 1991 and 2001 assembly elections, the DMK and its alliance dominated the proceedings in 1977, 1980, 1989, 1996, 2006, 2011 and 2016 elections.

The AIADMK party here saw four district secretaries in the past seven years, which explains that all is not that well in the party which is mired by groupism and internal rivalry.

Kappachi D. Vinoth (38), district secretary, who made his way to this post only last July, gradually made way for other youngsters to decorate the other district-level posts in the party to give it a youthful look. But, this team is certainly inexperienced for the polls.

Whereas B.M. Mubarak, the old guard and veteran politician in the hills who has over four decades of political experience, has been in-charge of the DMK since 2013. He returned to that post after being sidelined for a decade. But, from the word 'go', he had been steering the DMK in a laudable manner, which saw the DMK alliance emerging the top here in the 2016 assembly elections and 2019 panchayat polls. One is yet to see the outcome of the labour of both parties in the election.

BHOPAL, MARCH 1

An allocation of ₹30 crore has been made in the annual budget of Chhattisgarh for 2021-22 towards the development of places in Chhattisgarh visited by Lord Ram during his 14-year-exile.

This was announced by Chhattisgarh Chief Minister Bhupesh Baghel while presenting annual budget for 2021-22 in the Assembly on Monday. Chhattisgarh government in August last had unveiled a ₹137.45 crore ambitious project envisaging development of "Ram Van Gaman Tourism Circuit" linking 75 sites in Chhattisgarh, said to be visited by Lord Ram during his 14-year-exile.

Baghel has earlier written a letter to the Union tourism minister Pralhad Patel urging him to sanction the project under the Centre's scheme, Ramayan circuit of swadesh darshan. The letter cited various researches in the field which suggested that Lord Ram spent 10 years out of his 14-year-exile period at various places in Chhattisgarh. Folk songs of Chhattisgarh also establish this, the letter said.

Research work in the field suggests that Lord Ram spent some time in 51 places out of the 75 sites he had visited in Chhattisgarh during his exile, according to the letter. The state government plans to develop nine out of these 75 sites in the first phase at a cost of ₹30 crore.

NARCO TERRORISMDC CORRESPONDENT
SRINAGAR, MARCH 1

National Investigation Agency (NIA) on Monday arrested four persons from Jammu and Kashmir allegedly involved in smuggling of heroin and other narcotic drugs worth million of rupees from across the Line of Control (LoC).

The money obtained through the sale of the contraband locally and in other parts of the country would be transferred to a major militant outfit to help it in carrying out "terrorist activities" in the Valley, the agency claimed.

A statement issued by the NIA here said that the case of "narco-terrorism" was registered by it in June last after the J&K police seized 21 kilograms of heroin and cash amount of ₹1,35,89,850 from the members of a drug syndicate operating in the Union Territory.

The accused who were formally arrested by the agency in Srinagar have been identified as Altaf Ahmed Shah, Showkat Ahmad Parray, Mudasar Ahmad Dar and Amin Allaie alias Hilal Mir—all residents of Kashmir Valley.

The NIA said that the case was initially registered under an FIR filed at a police station in Handwara area of frontier Kulwara district on June 11, 2020.

MUMBAI, MARCH 1

A magistrate court in Mumbai on Monday issued a bailable warrant against Bollywood actor Kangana Ranaut, as she failed to appear before it despite issuance of summons in connection with a defamation complaint filed against her by lyricist Javed Akhtar.

Metropolitan Magistrate R.R. Khan had issued summons to Ranaut on February 1, with a direction to appear before the court on March 1.

On Monday, when the matter was called out for hearing, Ranaut was not present in the court following which the court issued a bailable warrant against her. With issuance of the warrant the court deferred hearing on this matter till March 22.

After hearing Akhtar and his lawyer Niranjan Mundargi the Magistrate court had ordered the Juhu police to file a report in December 2020.

The police had sought further time to submit the report and the court had ordered Juhu police to file the report by January 18, 2021, however, they had sought further time.

Finally, the police submitted the report in February and in the report police stated that the offences alleged against Kangana are made out for further investigation.

BJP trying to woo Christian voters ahead of Assembly polls in Kerala

Saffron party had secured close to 15 per cent votes in the last Assembly polls in 2016

GILVESTER ASSARY | DC

The BJP in Kerala is hoping to improve its electoral fortunes with the help of Christian votes in the coming Assembly elections.

The party which had secured close to 15 per cent votes in the last Assembly polls in 2016, believes that the support of Christians is crucial to convert the votes into seats. Two prominent leaders of the BJP called on Cardinal Mar George Alanchery who is the Major Archbishop of Syro Malabar Church in Kochi on Monday.

BJP state president K. Surendran who arrived in Kochi as part of his statewide Vijay Yatra, met the cardinal at the Kerala Catholic Bishops Conference headquarters in Kochi. Though the BJP leader maintained that it was only a courtesy call, sources said the issues related to Assembly elections also figured in the discussions.

Soon after Surendran left, Karnataka deputy chief minister C.N. Ashwath Narayan who is also in charge of Assembly elections in Kerala, drove straight to the Catholic Bishops Conference headquarters and held discussions with Cardinal Alanchery and other leaders of the Syro Malabar Church. The BJP has deputed Narayan who is known to have close ties with Christian denominations running educational institutions in Bengaluru and other parts of Karnataka.

Though Narayan also said that it was a courtesy visit, he admitted that political issues also came up for discussions during the meeting which went on for more than 30 minutes. He told media persons that the BJP was hopeful of getting a sizeable Christian vote in the coming elections. The party is focussing on Christian dominated constituencies in central Travancore, he said and added that a good number of Christian candidates will figure in BJP's candidate list this time.

More central leaders of the BJP are expected to meet Church leaders in Kerala in the run up to the polls.

The BJP which had only one member in the outgoing 140 member Kerala Assembly has been working assiduously to woo the Christians. Senior Kerala BJP leader and Mizoram Governor P.S. Sreedharan Pillai had taken the initiative to resolve the dispute between Jacobite and Orthodox factions in the state. The two churches are engaged in a decades old battle regarding the ownership of various Churches and associated properties.

Christians form about 19 per cent of the state's 3.5 crore population. The Christian vote is decisive in Pathanamthitta, Kottayam, Idukki, Ernakulam, parts of Kannur, Malappuram and Wayanad. Latin Catholic population plays a key role in the outcome of polls in coastal districts.

Congress leader Rahul Gandhi eats ice apple from a roadside stall during his election campaign for the forthcoming Tamil Nadu Assembly polls, in Kanyakumari district on Monday. He tweeted about "three alternatives" that the Centre has given to people as he went on to suggest that consumers have been left with no choice. "Prices of LPG cylinders hiked yet again. For people, these are Modi government's alternatives – Wrap up businesses, throw away cooking stoves and eat up jumlas (false promises)," his tweet said.

Abdullakutty who was a former firebrand leader of CPM was elected to parliament twice. After quitting CPM he joined Congress and became an MLA. Now he is one of the main faces of BJP.

Former union minister Alphons Kannanthanam who was also once CPM MLA, had joined the BJP and made a central minister during the previous Modi ministry. Now he is a Rajya Sabha member.

CPM may relax criteria for senior ministersDC CORRESPONDENT
THIRUVANANTHAPURAM,

Though the CPM had decided to strictly enforce the norm of not repeating MLAs who have won back to back elections, there are enough indications on the ground that this criteria would be relaxed in the case of senior ministers of the outgoing Pinarayi Vijayan Cabinet.

The Alappuzha district secretariat of the CPM has recommended the names of finance minister Thomas Isaac and PWD minister G. Sudhakaran for one more time from Alappuzha and Ambalapuzha constituencies respectively considering their high chances of victory. If approved by the state leaders the coming election would be Sudhakaran's eighth and Isaac's fifth electoral battle.

With the CPM aiming for a repeat, the party does not want to take any chances by keeping its popular leaders out of electoral contests in the name of norms. Party sources said if the norms are enforced strictly then at least 28 sitting MLAs of the CPM including 7 ministers will have to stay out of contest. As per norms finance minister Thomas Isaac, PWD minister G. Sudhakaran, fisheries minister J. Mercykutty Amma, local bodies minister A.C. Moideen, general education minister C. Raveendranath, higher education minister K.T. Jaleel, industries minister

E.P. Jayarajan and Law minister A.K. Balan should not be in the fray. Besides, Speaker P. Sreeramakrishnan will also have to sit out.

The party feels that it would be suicidal to keep the ministers, especially those who have performed well, out of electoral fray in such a crucial election. However, the final decision on fielding the ministers will be taken at the state committee meeting to be held later this week.

Meanwhile, the seat sharing talks of ruling LDF remained inconclusive on Monday. The CPM top leadership had a one on one meeting with the leaders of the alliance partners at the party headquarters AKG Centre in Thiruvananthapuram.

20,000 troops on
stand-by for WBDC CORRESPONDENT
NEW DELHI, MARCH 1

Even as Union home ministry will deploy between 80,000-1,00,000 security personnel for the eight phase West Bengal Assembly polls, sources said an additional 20,000 troops will be kept on standby in case reinforcements need to be rushed at a short notice. All senior para-military forces officers deployed in Bengal have been directed to also co-ordinate with local SSPs and Election Commission observers for deployment and maintaining law and order during the poll process.

Home ministry sources said that they had received intelligence inputs from multiple agencies that large-scale violence was expected especially during elections in West Bengal in anticipation of close contest between Trinamul Congress and the BJP. These intelligence inputs have also been shared with the Election Commission following which tight security arrangements are being made.

However, as a precautionary measure addition 20,000 para-military personnel will be kept on standby in case of an emergency situation. Bengal will witness an unprecedented eight phase polling starting March 27.

Similarly, the state will have an unprecedented security deployment for the polling as well as on counting day on May 2.

CHINA REFUTES ATTACKS AGAINST
INDIA'S POWER GRID

New Delhi, March 1: China on Monday reacted angrily to US media reports—that cited a US cyber-security firm as saying that Chinese hackers carried out malware attacks on Indian power grids last year to warn India on the border issue—with Beijing describing the allegations as "fabrication" and adding that it is "highly irresponsible to accuse a particular party with no sufficient evidence around". The Chinese Embassy spokesperson in New Delhi quoted the Chinese Foreign Ministry spokesperson in Beijing as saying, "As a staunch defender of cyber security, China firmly opposes and cracks down on all forms of cyber attacks. Speculation and fabrication have no role to play on the issue of cyber attacks. It is highly irresponsible to accuse a particular party with no sufficient evidence around."

PATNA, MARCH 1

Bihar Chief Minister Nitish Kumar received the first dose of the Covid-19 vaccine on his 70th birthday on Monday and urged people to get vaccinated as per the central government guidelines. He also announced his government's decision to provide the vaccination free of cost including at private hospitals in the state.

"Our government has decided to provide vaccination free of cost for the people of the state. This facility will also be made available at private hospitals. I, therefore, urge all those who are eligible to get vaccinated", he said.

The announcement comes on the day country started the second phase of its nationwide vaccination drive. The decision to provide free vaccination was taken on Sunday during a meeting chaired by the Chief Minister.

Free vaccination for Covid-19 was one of the key promises made by the NDA during the Bihar Assembly elections.

Kumar who took the vaccine at the state-run super speciality hospital Indira Gandhi Institute of Medical Sciences (IGIMS) in the presence of health minister Mangal Pandey said that "I am in good health after taking my first dose. Doctors have fixed March 31 for the second dose of vaccination for me".

He further said that arrangements for vaccination for members of the state legislature have also been made at the hospital.

Later, while responding to the state government's announcement, Bihar BJP in a statement said, "The state is ready for vaccination of elderly and people above 45 years of age. The cost of vaccination in private hospitals of ₹250 will also be borne by the NDA government. The largest vaccination drive in the world is progressing in the country as well as in the state".

Ahead of the second phase of the vaccination drive, Bihar health minister had released data on Twitter claiming that "the total number of healthy patients in the state reached 2,60,594 and recovery rate is 99.26 per cent. There are 398 active corona patients in the state".

Other judges on the bench included Justice A.S.Bopanna and Justice V. Ramasubramanian. The top court was hearing a plea filed by the accused against the Bombay High Court's February 5 order cancelling the anticipatory bail granted to him by the trial court in January last year.

Describing it as "atrocious", the Bombay High Court had set aside the trial court order granting anticipatory bail to the accused who has moved the top court against the High court order.

The accused had repeatedly raped the victim when she was 16 year and studying in 9th standard. However, when things came to light, the accused mother dissuaded the victim's mother from reporting the matter to police.

She assured that when the victim will turn 18 she will be married to the accused. But that did not happen and a complaint was filed after a gap of two years.

He has also been accused of offences punishable under the Protection of Children from Sexual Offences (POCSO) Act.

In his plea filed in the top court, he has referred to the Maharashtra Civil Services (Discipline and Appeal) Rules 1979 and said it pointed out that if a government servant is detained in police custody under criminal charges for a period of 48 hours, then he shall be deemed to have been placed under suspension by an order of appointing authority.

Along with the PM, top political figures including vice-president M. Venkaiah Naidu, home minister Amit Shah, external affairs minister S. Jaishankar, NCP patriarch Sharad Pawar, his daughter and MP Supriya Sule, Rajasthan governor Kalraj Mishra, Odisha CM Naveen Patnaik and Bihar CM Nitish Kumar also got vaccinated. The vice-president took the jab at the Government Medical College in Chennai. Supreme Court judges and their family members will get the vaccine jabs on Tuesday. Health minister Harsh Vardh an also announced he will take the shot on Tuesday.

During his brief stay at the hospital, the PM chatted with the nurses and other staff and even cracked jokes with them. One of the nurses who administered the vaccine to him, P. Niveda, said the PM, after getting the vaccine shot, remarked: "Laga bhi diya, pata bhi nahin chala" (Already done? I didn't even feel it).

Mr Modi also used humour to put at ease the medical staff during the inoculation and asked the nurses administering the vaccine whether they planned to use "some special thick needle" as politicians are known to be "very thick-skinned", drawing laughter.

"When PM Modi arrived, it was natural that the medical staff at AIIMS were perhaps a bit overawed", a source said.

MBS PUNISHED

Istanbul: The Turkish fiancée of slain Saudi journalist Jamal Khashoggi said on Monday that Saudi crown prince Mohammed bin Salman should be “punished without delay” over the murder. The United States on Friday declassified a report that publicly accused the crown prince of approving Khashoggi murder in the kingdom’s Istanbul consulate in 2018.

But the United States stopped short of applying sanctions against the 35-year-old de facto leader, known by his initials MBS.

“It is essential that the Crown Prince, who ordered the brutal murder of a blameless and innocent person, should be punished without delay,” Khashoggi’s fiancée Hatice Cengiz said in a statement posted on her official Twitter account in English and Arabic.

Geneva: The first woman and first African to lead the World Trade Organisation on Monday welcomed an apology from a Swiss newspaper that had dismissed the seasoned international professional as a grandmother.

“It is important & timely that they’ve apologised,” Ngozi Okonjo-Iweala said in a tweet.

The development economist took over as the new WTO chief on Monday after a long, high-powered career serving as minister of finance and foreign affairs in her native Nigeria and 25 years at the World Bank.

CUOMO AGREES BEHAVIOUR SEEN
AS ‘FLIRTATION’

Albany: New York Gov. Andrew Cuomo acknowledged for the first time Sunday that some of his behaviour with women had been “misinterpreted as unwanted flirtation,” and said he would cooperate with a sexual harassment investigation led by the state’s attorney general.

In a statement released amid mounting criticism from within his own party, the Democrat maintained he had never inappropriately touched or propositioned anyone. But he said he had teased people and made jokes about their personal lives in an attempt to be “playful.” “I now understand that my interactions may have been insensitive or too personal and that some of my comments, given my position, made others feel in ways I never intended. I acknowledge some of the things I have said have been misinterpreted as an unwanted flirtation. To the extent anyone felt that way, I am truly sorry about that,” he said.

AUSSIE CABINET
OF RAPE

Sydney: Australia’s Prime Minister rejected calls on Monday to suspend a cabinet minister accused of rape, saying the unnamed official “vigorously denied” allegations that have now been referred to police.

Scott Morrison — already under mounting public pressure to tackle what has been called a toxic sexist culture in Canberra politics — insisted the minister was innocent until proven guilty.

“Allegations of criminal conduct should be dealt with by competent and authorised agencies,” Morrison said, adding it was a “matter for the police.” Morrison recently received a letter detailing allegations that a man currently serving in the cabinet raped a 16-year-old girl in Sydney in 1988.

The woman took her own life last year. The man not been named publicly due to Australia’s defamation laws. Morrison said he had raised the issue with the minister “who absolutely rejects these allegations.”

“It is the police, in a country where you’re governed by the rule of law, that determine the veracity of any allegations of this nature,” Morrison said in a testy exchange with journalists on Monday. “The police have had this matter referred to them. The individual involved here has vigorously rejected these allegations. And so, it’s a matter for the police.” Police said they had “received a complaint relating to an historic sexual assault,” but “will not be making further comment.”

Covid vaccine IP rights divide WTO

India, South Africa lead calls to waive rights, notion rejected by pharmaceutical giants

Geneva, March. 1: The World Trade Organisation faces calls led by India and South Africa to waive intellectual property rights for Covid-19 vaccines — a notion fiercely rejected by pharmaceutical giants and their host countries.

The WTO will thrash out the divisive issue at its general council meeting on Monday and Tuesday as its new head Ngozi Okonjo-Iweala takes up her post. Some countries see the waiver as a short-cut to ending the novel coronavirus that has hobbled the global economy.

The IP plan was filed by India and South Africa on October 2 and garnered support from a host of developing countries which — correctly — anticipated being left behind in the vaccination race.

The text proposes a temporary exemption from certain obligations under the Agreement on Trade-Related Aspects of Intellectual Property Rights (TRIPS), so that any country can produce vaccines without worrying about patents.

The waiver would also cover “industrial designs, copyright and protection of undisclosed information”, and would last “until widespread vaccination is in place globally, and the majority of the world’s population has developed immunity”.

More than 80 countries support the proposal, including Argentina, Bangladesh, the DR Congo, Egypt, Indonesia, Kenya, Nigeria, Pakistan and Venezuela. Backed by NGOs including the medical charity Doctors Without Borders (MSF), they think it would facilitate timely access to affordable medical products for all countries in need.

and technologies should be true global public goods, free from the barriers that patents and other intellectual property impose,” said Sidney Wong, MSF’s co-director for access to medicines.

The idea also has the backing of World Health Organization chief Tedros Adhanom Ghebreyesus. “If not now, then when?”

Tedros said of the scheme on Friday, condemning the “serious resistance” against it. The International Federation of Pharmaceutical Manufacturers and Associations is strongly against the proposal.

“Taking away patents now or imposing a waiver wouldn’t give you a single dose more,” IFPMA chief Thomas Cueni told reporters last week.

“It wouldn’t empower you to get the vaccine because you still wouldn’t know how to roll them out on a large scale,” The United States, the European Union and Switzerland — home to major pharmaceutical firms — oppose the idea, along with other wealthy nations including Australia, Britain, Japan, Norway and Singapore. — AFP

SELL ASTRAZENCA VACCINE SAFETY

Paris, March. 1: Already facing a daunting Covid vaccination challenge, French and German authorities are fighting to convince more people that a jab from the pharma giant AstraZeneca is just as effective as others.

Stocks of the vaccines from the British-Swedish firm are going unused in both countries, depriving officials of a crucial tool to help end a pandemic that has sparked a social and economic calamity on a scale not seen since World War II.

Only 273,000 AstraZeneca doses have been administered in France out of 1.7 million received as of end-February, according to health ministry figures.

The poor take-up comes even as the target group for the jabs, health workers over 50 and people with other serious health risks, can get the vaccine directly from their doctor instead of waiting for appointments at vaccination centres.

Experts say it is also cheaper to produce than the two other vaccines approved for Europe, from Pfizer-BioNTech and Moderna, and does not require ultracold storage, making it easier to deploy. — AFP

French ex-prez Sarkozy guilty of graft, to be jailed

Paris, March. 1: Former French president Nicolas Sarkozy was found guilty of corruption on Monday and handed a three-year prison sentence, in a ruling that deals a major blow to any lingering political ambitions.

The sentence includes two years suspended and the remaining one year would be converted into a non-custodial sentence, meaning it is unlikely Sarkozy will end up behind bars over this case.

He is almost certain to appeal and remains free, with no arrest warrant issued, but he faces several other corruption investigations over campaign financing and alleged influence peddling.

The sentence for seeking to illegally influence a judge is the latest twist in the tumultuous political career of the 66-year-old who remains a favourite for many on the right for his combative style and tough talk on crime and immigration.

The conviction is likely to undermine any attempted comeback to frontline politics, an ambition he has denied, but which has been promoted by many supporters ahead of 2022 presidential elections.

Wearing a dark suit and tie, Sarkozy showed no emotion as the sentence was read out and he left court without commenting to waiting journalists before heading to his private office in central Paris.

“What a senseless witchhunt, my love Nicolas Sarkozy,” his wife, former supermodel and singer Carla Bruni, posted on Instagram, next to a picture of the couple embracing. “The fight goes on, the truth will come out. #injustice.” — AFP

Trump hints at Prez re-run in 2024

Washington, March. 1: In his first public speech since leaving the White House, former US president Donald Trump has raised the climate issue while criticising his successor Joe Biden for rejoining the “very unfair” Paris Agreement, saying what good does it do when America is “clean” but China, Russia and India are not.

Speaking at the Conservative Political Action Committee in Orlando, Florida on Sunday, the 74-year-old leader, who left the White House on January 20, came down heavily on the Biden administration for putting the “United States back into the very unfair and very costly Paris Climate Accord without negotiating a better deal.”

“First of all, China does not kick in for 10 years, Russia goes by an old standard which was not a clean standard... but we get hit right from the beginning when it costs us hundreds of thousands and millions of jobs, it was a disaster... but they go back in.

“We have the cleanest air and cleanest water... and what good does it do when we’re clean, but China is not and Russia is not and India is not, so they are pouring fumes... you know the world is a small piece of the universe and we’re trying to protect everything,” Trump said amidst applause from his supporters.

On February 19, the US officially returned to the historic Paris climate accord, 107 days after it left at the behest of former president Trump. UN Secretary-General Antonio Guterres had termed that decision as a “major disappointment for global efforts to reduce greenhouse gas emissions and promote global security.”

In the past also, Trump has criticised China, India and Russia for pollution. In October last year, he accused China, India and Russia of not taking care of their “filthy air” as he justified America’s withdrawal from the landmark Paris climate agreement. “Look at China, how filthy it is. Look at Russia. Look at India. The air is filthy,” Trump had said during the final presidential debate with his Democratic challenger Joe Biden in Nashville, Tennessee. Days earlier while speaking to his cheering supporters at an election rally in North Carolina.

Donald Trump told conservatives Sunday he was considering running for president again in 2024, as he reasserted dominance over the Republican Party and warned of a “struggle” for America’s very survival. Echoing the grievance politics of his 2016 campaign and the harsh rhetoric of his one-term presidency, the 74-year-old fired up an enthusiastic crowd at the Conservative Political Action Conference in Orlando.

Virtual screenings, gender-neutral awards and Tina

SUPARNA SHARMA | DC NEW DELHI, MARCH. 1

Berlinale, the world’s biggest film festival which usually attracts close to 5,00,000 film fans to the German capital, opened quietly on thousands of laptops across the world on Monday morning and for five worthies at the plush Berlinale Palast theatre.

Sitting at a safe distance from each other in the 1,600-seater theatre were five former Golden Bear winners (the festival’s top prize which goes to the best film) who will pick this year’s winner from 15 films in the festival’s Competition section.

The sixth jury member, Iranian director Mohammad Rasoulof, could not make it. Rasoulof, who won the Golden Bear last year for There Is No Evil, a film on capital punishment in Iran, has been found guilty of making films that are a “propaganda” tool “against the system” and is under a travel ban. He will be watching films on his laptop.

Usually held for 10 days in February every year, the 71st edition of the International Film Festival of Berlin is a hybrid affair that’s been cut short and split into two. From March 1-5, Berlinale will run virtually for film critics and industry across the world. The winners will be announced on the last day, but the Golden and

A still from the documentary Tina

Silver Bear trophies will be presented in person, in June, when organisers hope to invite stars for red carpet events and screen films for the public.

Another departure from the past is that this year the festival has gone “gender neutral” in terms of awards. Berlinale is the first international film festival that has replaced best actress and best actor prizes with awards for best lead and supporting performance. The jury is, quite literally, out on whether this will be a unique way to showcase women’s talent or whether it will end up robbing actresses of yet another chance to be celebrated on the world stage.

Berlinale’s artistic director Carlo Chatrrian, speaking about this year’s Competition section, has said that these are “deeply personal films that reflect the disruption brought on by the events of 2020.”

The films competing for the top prize this year are from Germany, France, Romania, Hungary, Mexico, South Korea and Japan. They were either shot or were in post-production during the pandemic.

Films outside the Competition section that are set to have their world premiere at Berlinale include director Azazel Jacobs’ French Exit starring Michelle Pfeiffer, and the real-life thriller The Mauritanian, which stars Jodie Foster and Benedict Cumberbatch.

PROTESTS GO ON

DESPITE DEADLY
CRACKDOWN

Yangon, Mar. 1: Police in Myanmar’s biggest city on Monday fired tear gas at defiant crowds who returned to the streets to protest the military’s seizure of power a month ago, despite reports that security forces had killed at least 18 people around the country a day earlier. The protesters in Yangon were chased as they tried to gather at their usual meeting spot at the Hledan Center intersection. Demonstrators scattered and sought to rinse their faces with water in vain attempts to ease the irritating effects of the gas. — AP

DENOUNCE
PRISON DEATH

Dhaka, March. 1: About 300 student activists rallied in Bangladesh’s capital on Monday to denounce the death in prison of a writer and commentator who was arrested last year on charges of violating a sweeping digital security law that critics say chokes freedom of expression.

The protesters marched through the Dhaka University campus and Dhaka’s streets toward the country’s Home Ministry to also demand the annulment of the digital security law and the release of seven student activists arrested during recent protests denouncing the death of 53-year-old Mushtaq Ahmed.

G-23's Jammu conclave
exposes Cong faultlines

The Jammu conclave on Saturday of the 23 Congress dissidents (G-23) who wrote to interim party president Sonia Gandhi in August demanding a “full-time and effective leadership”, as well as proper internal party elections, now appears to have fully emerged as a caucus reminiscent of the ginger group that the late V.P. Singh had formed with disgruntled Congressmen to take on then Prime Minister Rajiv Gandhi.

The difference is that the anti-Rajiv dissidents challenged a PM, using the same ammunition as the rest of the Opposition, and in time became the principal Opposition. In the Lok Sabha polls that followed, Mr Singh ended up as PM through political stagecraft. This time the circumstances are very different. The Congress is in Opposition and is facing a very determined ruling party under the leadership of Prime Minister Narendra Modi. But, in Jammu, the G-23 have played their real hand.

This can be seen to be in two parts. First, Ghulam Nabi Azad, the former J&K chief minister who days ago retired from the Rajya Sabha, where he was the designated Leader of the Opposition, was projected as Congress president by one of the most important dissidents, Kapil Sibal. Two, in his own remarks, Mr Azad did not fail to make a favourable mention of Prime Minister Modi, a reference to the PM, teary-eyed, marking out the retiring Congress leader for praise in the Upper House recently.

He was critical of the BJP government at the Centre only to the extent of questioning the Modi government's move to constitutionally reduce J&K from a state to a Union territory. He did not question the ending of J&K's autonomy, setting himself apart from the position taken by the Gandhis in Parliament.

It's not clear if all the G-23 leaders will be in the Azad camp for Congress president when the party elections take place. Some of them apparently also see themselves as contenders. But what became evident was that the thrust of the Jammu conclave was against the Congress leadership, though names were not mentioned. The Jammu meet leaders noted that the Congress had become weak and they had come together to strengthen it. Their other objective was to campaign against the BJP. But not much was said about the BJP at the forum.

The G-23 had launched themselves through a letter to the interim chief (which arrived in newspaper offices before it landed with Mrs Gandhi) not long before the Bihar Assembly election. They held their first formal meet in Jammu weeks before Congress will be up against formidable challengers in the Assembly elections in West Bengal, Assam, Kerala, Tamil Nadu and Puducherry, where the Congress government was practically toppled through the BJP's manoeuvring recently.

After the Congress' below par showing in Bihar, the caucus leaders sharply questioned the leadership. They would doubtless have the opportunity to do so again if their party fares poorly in the upcoming state polls and may even pray for the opportunity. However, it hardly behoves an official Congress spokesman in New Delhi, Abhishek Singhvi, to be critical of G-23's Jammu show. The party election has been pushed from January-February this year to June — no doubt with the Assembly polls in view. But this was an executive decision, rather than one formally made consensually, including with the dissidents.

Biden lets Saudis off the hook?

America's strategic interests seem to have prevailed even as US President Joe Biden reprimanded Saudi Crown Prince Mohammed Bin Salman by releasing an intelligence report saying the assassination of critic Jamal Khashoggi was carried out with the prince's tacit approval. Mr Biden stepped back after suspending some arms sales, drawing criticism from his own party that he didn't go the whole hog and sanction MBS, who goes scot-free for the sinister actions of his Rapid Intervention Force lackeys which pursues and silences dissidents at home and abroad.

In calling out the Crown Prince, who is the real power behind his ailing father King Salman, who still occupies the throne, Mr Biden merely sent out the political signal that he is different from Donald Trump and that Saudi Arabia can't expect the same kind of cosy ties it enjoyed with the White House through Mr Trump's son-in-law Jared Kushner, especially if it breaches human rights as brazenly as, say, Russia did with Alexei Navalny.

The Saudi-US pact goes back eight decades to the Franklin D. Roosevelt era when Americans gained access to cheap Saudi oil in exchange for protection under a bizarre security covenant between the world's oldest democracy and the epitome of an Islamic monarchy. The tensions that came with the release of the intelligence report may only help push the kingdom further towards Russia and China, the latter already Saudi's biggest trade partner.

The prince's actions, which included detention of hundreds of princes and businessmen at a luxury hotel in 2017 aimed at consolidating his power base, may not have endeared him to a more liberal America with its faith in personal freedoms. Mr Biden's moves since moving into the White House has been to reset America's ties with many countries with the focus on first stamping out Mr Trump's erratic and personalised style of handling foreign relations. Can Mr Biden propel America quickly enough into cherishing democratic values and human rights once again? That remains the key question.

New online, digital code fails to empower usersShashidhar
Nanjundaiah

The new Information and Technology (Intermediary Guidelines and Digital Media Ethics Code) Rules 2021 under Section 79 of the IT Act has created a flutter. The news media has paid extraordinary attention, space and time to it as it unfolded, and with good reason. Few people dispute the need for some kind of regulation of the digital media. But the debate is over whether it does what is needed. How empowering a tool are the new rules for the public, who are the ultimate users?

From the press statements of minister for information and broadcasting Prakash Javadekar and minister for information technology Ravi Shankar Prasad, it seems that the new rules seek to rein in the online media and the social media platforms by intervening in their content, and that the overarching objective is to get the digital platforms to be enveloped into “the law of the land”. (I draw a technical distinction between “online platform” from “digital platform” — the first is an unbundled series of news stories released across time, while the latter is a package, similar to a printed newspaper.)

Because the interpretations of sensitive laws of the land by government agencies — in regard to the freedom of expression versus sedition, for example — in recent years have been disputed, a certain amount of scepticism with regard to Rules 2021 should be expected. Experts have questioned whether the new rules even pass the test of constitutionality — in terms of rationale, purpose, proportionality, necessity, and possible impingement on people's basic rights.

First, to tease out what is new in the rule. In its articulation, the rule seeks to empower the user's voice, especially in case content is objectionable to them. The new rule changes the privacy protection norms that the social platforms seek to exercise by drawing a line between acceptable messaging and spreading objectionable messages. The mandating of age-appropriateness in the rule for the over-the-top (OTT) content certainly ensures that parents have the right to monitor which content is available to their child and which content could be abhorrent. International OTT channels do declare the customary caution about the nature of the content. The rule attaches online news to the conventional definition of news, making online-only news platforms adhere to the same Press Council of India and the Cable Act norms as the conventional media do. The rules mandate a self-regulatory mechanism, like the National Broadcasters' Standards Association (NBSA). A three-tier redressal mechanism entails inter-ministerial oversight. Social media companies, or “intermediaries”, would need to disclose the originator of a “mischievous” message.

I would like to take a media literacy point of view here. In a social media world, the user is also a producer of messages. Media literacy has increasingly gained popularity in school and college curricula in several countries after the alarming rise and opiate-like popularity of fake news. Recently, the Walter Cronkite School of Journalism at the Arizona State University introduced a degree programme in media literacy that takes a train-the-trainer approach and teaches journalism students to further educate society. It empowers the user through an understanding of messages, modes and meanings. Among other functions, media literacy unlocks the user's understanding of how to decode media messages — including what is omitted and unstated.

Fake news is a significant reason that media literacy has emerged strongly in the education curricula around the world. Facts and fiction are distinguishable quite simply — if you mix facts with fiction, the concoction can still be called fiction, but the other way around should not be acceptable. One would have expected the Rules 2021 to draw that distinction in an effort to stem fake news. In the long run, its mandate to identify — and punish, presumably — objectionable content may act as a threat and thereby a deterrent to fake news mongers. Handing itself the authority to know who the originator of an objectionable message is does empower the government to act against such individuals. But it misses the point on educating the user. The tiered approach of redressal would only empower users to the extent that social media platforms already allow — through complaints about content that one may find objectionable. There is no real way in which to prevent fake news or intimidation or national security threats because there is no scope for prior restraint in the current technology adoption.

The word “media” in the term “social media” is totally misleading — it is merely media in a technology sense of the term. Yet it is an empowering tool like none other in recent history. People tend to use the social media as a public square, mixing facts and fiction, public and private. Other users exposed to the public discourse have been consuming and re-producing it, essentially dismissing the need for credible information, or for doing any kind of fact check. The new rule does not take care of this problem. How does a user distinguish between the credible and non-credible platforms?

If the government's intent is to provide more rights to its people, it must help soothe the nerves of people who are now confused about what to say on the social media.

So, the proposed rule on the social media “intermediaries” seems both perfunctory and off the mark. Is it because the real intent is to rein them into a more government-controlled content environment in the name of the “law of the land”, which are being adhered to anyway? In an ideal world, strengthening the hands of the user and empowering the government should be the same thing. But is it possible for a government to use the former as a front for the latter? The decryption-on-demand mandate is a powerful indicator that this could be the result, providing access to the government to whether what people are saying — and perhaps thinking — can be punished if found to be politically inconvenient.

The exemplary and now routine arrests of seemingly ordinary individuals who are seen to be endangering the nation's sovereignty have spooked a large number of citizens. If the government's intent is to provide more rights to its people, it must help soothe the nerves of people who are now confused about what to say on the social media. If the government seeks to make genuine efforts through the Rules 2021, it must decontrol, not control, the information flow, but in parallel also launch a national drive to make the user more aware of the importance of real information, drawing a distinction between certified, credible platforms and opinionated individuals pretending to be the disseminators of information.

PM'S REGRET

Prime Minister Narendra Modi has regretted that he could not make much efforts to learn Tamil. One feels that even now it's not late for him to learn the language. Life, after all, is a continuous learning process. Be that as it may, the Prime Minister should speak in English in international meetings to put his points across well, or in other words, to communicate effectively to the peoples of various nations.

S. Ramakrishnasayee,
Chennai

THE PRIME Minister Narendra Modi has replied to a question in his ‘Mann ki Baat’ programme (in Hindi) that he felt his inability to learn Tamil - a beautiful old language rich in literature and poetry - as a ‘shortcoming’. This comment being said just weeks ahead of assembly elections in Tamil Nadu is nothing short of opportunism to garner votes. He has also said that India is a country with several languages which “symbolise our pride and culture”. But it is an irony that all said and done the BJP government is going all out to impose Hindi on non-Hindi speaking states! Let us watch and listen to what he would say (about Bengali language) when he canvasses for votes in West Bengal!

PRIVATISATION ISSUE

RECENTLY OUR Prime minister has stated that “it is not the government's business to do any business”. Well said. But whose business it is to manage the public sector projects? Does it imply that his government intends to privatise public sector projects by selling out to the rich industrialists? For example the Vizag steel plant is spread over 20,000 acres out of 33,000 acres land acquired from the public 50 years back. What is the fate of 13,000 acres of excess land? Even the plant is deliberately closed quoting losses, but how can the buyer be allowed to get away with the unused land which costs rupees lakhs of crores at present market value? And they gave all that land only for the steel plant. If privatised, the land should be returned to the owners. As PM has rightly said “the government should not do any business”, the Centre or the state government should not do real estate business, selling public property in the name of privatisation.

As democracy
endangered, India's global reputation hit

The Washington Post's editorial board has written that India's claim of being a democracy should be put in question. This headline came after it summed up what was happening in India accurately across the spectrum of governance, from the farm laws being passed without voting in Parliament to young women being jailed because they edited an open-source document.

India's ministry of external affairs did not put out a brave response to this, as it did earlier when a pop star that almost nobody in India had heard of wrote six words (“Why aren't we talking about this?”) over a CNN headline on February 2. India's brave soldiers like Akshay Kumar and Sachin Tendulkar did not respond to the Washington Post either, as they had done to Rihanna. Presumably the Prime Minister did not instruct his minions to react because he does not care about what the Washington Post writes, whereas the pop star has millions of followers.

The Economist, which is the world's most respected magazine, has carried a headline in its latest issue which reads: “The Indian government's pursuit of its critics is not just unfair, but hypocritical.”

Like the Post, this magazine is well-informed about what is going on in India. It says that the Narendra Modi government's actions have made it globally look “mean and silly”.

The government had not responded to this either, though presumably it will have to do something. One reason is that The Economist has referred to the Indian government's promotion of Gurujit Golwalkar through an official tribute earlier in February. The magazine told its readers that “Mr Golwalkar believed that Nazi Germany's management of its Jewish problem represented a good lesson for us in Hindustan to learn and profit by”.

Let us examine what the Washington Post has claimed, that we are not a democracy. The West doesn't see democracy beginning and ending at the polling station. It has to be accompanied by civil liberties, fundamental rights and access to justice. All of these ingredients together form what the government structure, which they consider democracy.

In our case, we believe elections are democracy. But there is a problem here. India achieved freedom at the group level in 1947. Independence meant that control of the State was transferred from a set of people led by foreigners to Indians entirely. This gave Indian citizens the space to determine how to govern themselves and write their own laws to enjoy individual freedoms and civil liberties.

Freedom at the group level meant essentially the right to vote. This was available, but restricted, in the British period too. Freedom at the group level liberated India from a system that already included voting rights, legislatures and lawmaking ability for Indians. It was on limited subjects, however.

After 1947 India should have focused on individual freedoms so that the exercise could be deepened. Here India stumbled. The State (meaning, the apparatus of government) did not relinquish its rights to citizens. It contested the space and asserted itself over citizens on essential freedoms.

The rights — to freedom of speech and expression; practice any profession or occupation; peaceful assembly; to form associations; freely practice and propagate religion; not to be deprived of life and liberty — do not exist in India today. These rights are fundamental, which enjoy a high degree of protection from encroachment by the State. But they are not available to Indians today despite what the Constituent Assembly wanted. The State has taken them away and many never existed in the first place.

There are so many laws that regulate and criminalise free speech that it is difficult to know where to start. Sedition, criminal defamation and criminal contempt are a start. They don't exist in the nations where our laws are derived from (India's Constitution isn't based on Manu Smriti, but the constitutions of other nations).

The Supreme Court in the 1950s ruled while the Constituent Assembly guaranteed freedom to practice “any” profession or “carry out any occupation”, it could not allow butchery of cows because that offended Hindus; and while the Constitution was supreme, Hindu sentiment was more supreme.

Protest (peaceful assembly) has been criminalised, right to propagation has been criminalised and so has the right to occupation. The freedom of speech is criminalised with sedition, criminal defamation and criminal contempt laws.

The State sought to regulate these freedoms by so-called “reasonable restrictions”, which overturned the rights themselves. This was always the case in India. However, this government has pushed the rights of the State over the rights of Indian citizens to the point where it will crush individuals who stand up to the State. This is what the Washington Post and Economist are writing about. The reason the Indian government is silent on these accusations is that they are true.

We can tell a pop singer to shut up because she is a young woman. It's slightly more difficult to tell the Washington Post and Economist to get lost, so silence is the next best option. What is left unsaid is that this is not something that will pass over. The Indian government's continued actions and its refusal to reverse what it is doing to its citizens has come at a cost to India's global reputation. We are too close to the story as it unfolds before us in real time today to be able to calculate what this cost is. But it is substantial, and entirely avoidable. It's a different matter that the Indian government today does not care what it does to Indians as long as it can continue on its path.

Mfg PMI stays in expansion zone

NEW DELHI, MARCH 1

Strong demand and increased output helped India's factory activity to stay in expansion for the seventh straight month in February. Although the Nikkei Manufacturing Purchasing Managers' Index, or PMI, compiled by IHS Markit, eased slightly to 57.5 in February from 57.7 in January, it remained well above the 50-level separating growth from contraction.

"Better demand conditions and successful marketing campaigns reportedly underpinned a further increase in new orders during February. Although easing from January, the pace of growth remained sharp in the context of historical data," IHS Markit said.

Pollyanna De Lima, economics associate director at IHS Markit, said, "Indian goods producers reported a healthy inflow of new orders in February, a situation that underpinned a further upturn in output and quantity of purchases. This was evident from a quicker rise in outstanding business and another decline in inventories of finished goods."

₹77K crore bids for spectrum on Day 1

New Delhi, March 1: India's first auction of spectrum in five years attracted Rs 77,146 crore of bids on the opening day on Monday, with Reliance Jio, Bharti Airtel, and Vodafone Idea participating in the bidding process—a response that the government said was better than expected.

There were, however, no takers for spectrum in 700 MHz and 2500 MHz bands on the first day, and the auctions will conclude on Tuesday.

About 2,308.80 MHz of spectrum, that carry telecom signals, in seven bands worth nearly Rs 4 lakh crore at the reserve or start price, was offered for bidding in the auction that began on Monday.

Communications minister Ravi Shankar Prasad said Rs 77,146 crore worth of spectrum was bid on the first day but there were no takers for the airwaves in the premium 700 MHz as also 2500 MHz bands. The response from players and the bids received surpassed government's internal estimates that had anticipated bids worth Rs 45,000 crore.

"The winning bids that have come till 6 PM today is Rs 77,146 crore. We thought since there are only three players, and spectrum replacement is happening...our estimation was that the bids will touch about Rs 45,000 crore, but it is a matter of assurance that it has gone as high as Rs 77,146 crore," Prasad said.

The bidder-wise details were not available immediately. A total of 2,308.80 MHz spectrum is being put to auction, out of which there have been bids for 849.20 MHz so far, an official release said.

Bids were received in 800 MHz, 900 MHz, 1800 MHz, 2100 MHz and 2300 MHz bands, as players gave the prized 700 MHz band a miss on the first day of auctions.

"Total value of spectrum put to auction was about Rs 4 lakh crore. In this, 700 MHz band was a costly band, and that cost itself is Rs 1.97 lakh crore," the minister said adding that the government will take a call on 700 MHz band, used for 5G, in case it remains unsold in the ongoing auctions.

Excluding 700 MHz and 2500 MHz bands, the bidding accounted for 60 per cent of the spectrum that was put to auction.

The 700 MHz band went unsold during the 2016 auctions, too. During 2016, when there were seven bidders, the spectrum sold was 41 per cent by quantity and 12 per cent by value of the total spectrum put to auction. The corresponding figures in the 2021 spectrum auction so far are 37 per cent and 19 per cent respectively, with three participants.

THOUGHT

Ambrose Bierce wrote, "I think I think; therefore, I think I am." Most bridge players think, but how often is it along the wrong lines? (Has your partner ever taken ages before making the wrong play?) Today's deal highlights one unthinking error. In the auction, South pushed hard to reach six diamonds despite his partner's values apparently being in clubs.

West led the heart ace and continued with another heart. South won in hand with the king, played a diamond to dummy's jack, ruffed a low club in hand and played off all of his trumps. He crossed to dummy's heart queen, cashed the two top clubs, discarding spades, and took the spade finesse: down one.

The declarer grumbled about his bad luck, unaware that he had made a mistake. There were two main chances for the contract: clubs 4-4 or the spade finesse working. As the latter could wait, South should have thought more about a possible even club split. To benefit from that, South had to ruff two low clubs in his hand and still have a dummy entry left.

At trick one, South must unblock his heart king under West's ace. He wins the heart continuation in the dummy, ruffs a low club, plays a diamond to dummy's jack, ruffs another low club and draws trumps. He enters dummy with a heart and cashes the top clubs. When they break evenly, South claims. But if the clubs are not 4-4, he takes the spade finesse. Watch those entries.

Varun, Malvika win in Uganda

New Delhi: Indian shuttlers Varun Kapur and Malvika Bansod registered hard-fought wins to clinch the men's and women's singles titles respectively at the 2021 Uganda International in Kampala. Varun had to sweat it out to get the better of seventh seeded Sankar Muthusamy 21-18, 16-21, 21-17 in the men's singles final, while second seed Malvika notched up a come-from-behind 17-21, 25-23, 21-10 victory over compatriot Anupama Upadhyaya in the women singles summit clash.

The junior world no. 2 Varun, who has been a consistent performer on the junior circuit and clinched his sixth title earlier this year, won the first game convincingly before losing the second. However, the 17-year-old looked in complete control in the decider and wrapped up the match comfortably in his favour. — PTI

Sayali clinches sub-junior TT title

Indore: Sayali Wani of Maharashtra outwitted Haryana's Suhana Saini 4-3 to emerge champion at the 82nd Cadet & Sub-Junior National Table Tennis Championships here on Monday. Top-seeded Suhana led 3-2 but goofed it up in the crucial sixth game, allowing her Nasik rival to inch ahead. Sayali courageously saved a match point at 9-10. And when she made it 10-all, she grabbed the first chance to go 11-10 up before finishing the game and match in style. — PTI

Kohli & Co. back in nets ahead of final Test

Ahmedabad, March 1: Big guns Virat Kohli, Rohit Sharma and Ajinkya Rahane went full throttle at the nets as the Indian cricket on Monday trained in earnest for the upcoming fourth and final Test against England.

The fourth Test starts here on Thursday.

Captain Kohli, his deputy Rahane and senior opener Rohit were seen batting at the nets in a video posted by the BCCI on Twitter.

The three senior players drove, pulled and flicked against the fast bowlers and spinners at the Narendra Modi Stadium here.

Head coach Ravi Shastri was seen interacting with Rohit and Kohli before the two star batsmen sat together for a discussion.

Left-arm spinner Axar Patel, who bagged 11 wickets in India's thumping win in the pink ball third Test at the same venue, was seen rolling his arms over at the nets against some of the world's best batsmen.

They were also seen fielding with Rahane, standing next to Rohit in the second slip position, taking a one-handed diving catch to his right.

The Kohli-led Indian team lost the first Test in Chennai by 227 runs, but bounced back with a 317-run hammering of the visitors in the second Test. In the previous match, India shot out England for 112 and 81 to wrap up the Test inside two days on a challenging Motera track. The Indian team had a full-fledged practice session here on Sunday as well. Leading 2-1 in the series, India will be without top pacer Jasprit Bumrah in the final Test. — PTI

TRESCOTHICK IS ENGLAND'S NEW BATTING COACH

London, March 1: England on Monday appointed former opener Marcus Trescothick as the new batting coach of the national team, besides roping in Jon Lewis and New Zealand's Jeetan Patel as bowling and spin bowling coaches on permanent basis. These three are part of the four new appointments to England's coaching set-up, which is being headed by chief coach Chris Silverwood. The team is currently touring India and is down 1-2 in a four-match Test series.

Trescothick will take over from Jonathan Trott, who replaced South African Jacques Kallis in the ongoing tour. Kallis had played the role of a batting consultant for England in Sri Lanka.

Trescothick, who scored over 10,000 international runs across formats, is expected to take up his new role in mid-March after stepping down from his position as assistant coach at Somerset. — PTI

Hogg bats for Ashwin's ODI return

Sydney, March 1: Former Australia all-rounder Brad Hogg has called for Ravichandran Ashwin's inclusion in India's ODI squad, saying the senior off-spinner is a wicket-taker who also adds depth to batting.

Replying to a tweet by a fan, Hogg said Ashwin would be a great addition to Indian side in the 50-over format.

"I think it is a great option, gives the batting line up extra depth allowing the top order to be more aggressive at the top," Hogg said in reply to a tweet by a fan asking if Ashwin can make a comeback to ODI cricket.

"And he is a wicket taking option with the ball, as well as economical. Get him back in. #INDvENG #Cricket," Hogg tweeted.

Ashwin, who has featured in 111 ODIs and 46 T20Is, besides 77 Tests, has been out of India's limited overs side for a few years now. He last appeared in an ODI game in June 2017.

The 34-year-old played a major role in India's historic Test series victory in Australia earlier this year:

In the third Test against England last week, he became the fourth Indian to take 400 Test wickets.

The fourth and final Test between India and England begins on Thursday in Ahmedabad. The hosts lead the series 2-1. After the Test series, the two teams are scheduled to play five T20Is and three ODIs. — PTI

Stop moaning over pitches: Viv

New Delhi, March 1: West Indian batting legend Viv Richards is not amused with past and present English cricketers "moaning and groaning" about the spin-friendly pitches in India and said the visitors did not prepare well for the challenge.

The newly-laid Motera track in Ahmedabad became a subject of debate after India crushed England inside two days in the third Test to go 2-1 up in the four-match series. The severe criticism came from former England captains like Michael Vaughan and a section of the British media.

All the chatter has not gone down well with Richards, whose incredible range of strokes and fearless approach to the game terrorised the best of bowlers in his prime in every corner of the cricketing world. "I've been asked questions recently about the Test match that was played in India, the second and third Test match against England. And I am a little confused about the question really because there seems to be a lot of moaning and groaning about the wicket that they were playing on," Richards said. — PTI
