New norms for MBBS colleges

New Delhi: In a major move, the newly constituted National Medical Commission has removed the provision of requirement of minimum five acres of land for setting up a medical college and its affiliated teaching hospitals. The NMC has come out with a detailed list of requirements applicable for setting a new college, and for established medical colleges proposing to increase their annual MBBS intake from 2021-22, the health ministry said. The requirement for the number of beds in a medical college hospital was reduced from 530 to 430 for a 100-seat college, and from 930 to 830 for a 200-seat college.

IIM Calcutta girl found dead

Kolkata: A student of IIM Calcutta was found dead inside her hostel room on Saturday, police said. The body of 28-year-old Payel Khandelwal was found hanging from the ceiling of her room on the third floor of the hostel building on the institute's Joka campus, they said. The door was bolted from inside and had to be broken open, a police officer said. Though no suicide note was found, all angles, including the possibility of the student killing herself, are being explored, he said. The body was sent for post-mortem examination, the officer said.

PM: Pak boast on Pulwama exposes Oppn

Kevadiya (Gujarat), Oct. 31: Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Saturday said the truth of last year's Pulwama terror attack, in which 40 CRPF personnel were killed, has been accepted in Pakistan Parliament.

His statement comes two days after Pakistan's science and technology minister Fawad Chaudhry admitted his country's role in the Pulwama attack during a debate in their National Assembly (Parliament).

Modi also said that when the entire nation was mourning the brave soldiers' death in Pulwama attack, some people indulged in "dirty politics" for their political gains.

Without mentioning China, the prime minister said that Indian soldiers are giving a befitting reply to those eyeing to grab the country's land. He was speaking at Kevadiya in Gujarat's Narmada district after paying tributes to Sardar Vallabhbhai Patel at the Statue of Unity on his 145th birth anniversary.

"The country cannot forget the unwarranted statements made after the Pulwama attack. Dirty politics laced with selfishness and arrogance was at its peak when the country was suffering from immense pain," Modi said. "But the real face of such people has been exposed after the truth was accepted in the Parliament of our neighbouring country," he said in his address on the occasion of Rashtriya Ekta Diwas.

During a debate in Pakistan's National Assembly on Thursday, Chaudhry had said, "Humne Hindustan ko ghus ke maara (We hit India in their home). Our success in Pulwama, is a success of this nation under the leadership of Imran Khan. You and we are all part of that success." The PM said he remained silent despite all the "accusations and filthy words" used against him after the Pulwama terror attack.

AMIT SHAH TO TOUR BENGAL, NADDA VISIT CANCELLED

RAJIB CHOWDHURI | DC KOLKATA, OCT. 31

On getting an adverse report on the law and order situation in West Bengal from Governor Jagdeep Dhankhar, Union home minister Amit Shah will embark on a two-day visit to the state from November 5 to take stock of the ground realities and review the party's preparations for the Assembly elections next year.

With this, the West Bengal tour of BJP chief J.P. Nadda has been cancelled. Shah's move comes a day after Dhankhar briefed him in New Delhi on October 29 about the poor state of affairs under Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee's rule.

On the Governor's role behind Shah's visit, Bengal BJP general secretary Sayantan Basu said, "Shah is one of the senior most leaders in our party. He was our party president for a long time. Guided by him, we became successful in the state."

He added, "But it is also a fact that Shah is the Union home minister. He is getting complaints of daily killings of our workers while the police acting at the behest of the TMC. It is likely he wants to understand the situation. His visit is to do a reality check."

Last minute rush on Dubbak bypoll

S.A. ISHAQUI | DC HYDERABAD, OCT. 31

The high-voltage campaign for the Dubbak Assembly by-elections, scheduled for November 3, will conclude Sunday evening. Counting of votes would be taken up on November 10. The campaign was marked by aggressive blitzkrieg by the Telangana Rashtra Samithi (TRS) and Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP), while Congress too left no stone unturned to make it a triangular contest. Finance minister T. Harish Rao, who is known as a byelection specialist in the TRS, handled the campaign of party nominee Solipeta Sujatha. The death of her husband, party legislator S. Ramalinga Reddy, death necessitated the byelection.

A galaxy of leaders from BJP and the Congress went full throttle in their respective campaigns. The BJP, which lost its deposit in the previous election here, remained aggressive throughout the campaigning, which witnessed rallies by Union minister of state G. Kishan Reddy, party's OBC Morchha Dr K Laxman, state president Bandi Sanjay Kumar, national vice-president D.K. Aruna, sitting and former MPs of the party.

HYDERABAD OCT. 31

The Nacharam police arrested two couples for trading in a newborn boy through a mediator on Saturday. They had been booked on Friday. The boy, who was rescued on Friday, was handed over to the child welfare committee for care.

According to Nacharam inspector T. Kiran Kumar, even before the baby was born, his parents, Meena and Venkatesh, entered into an agreement with Rajeshwar, a GHMC outsourced employee, and his wife Nageeni, through one Janaki, a GHMC sweeper to give away the infant immediately upon delivery for ₹1 lakh.

Meena had given birth to girls in her first two deliveries, both of whom had died soon afterwards. Fearing that she would deliver another girl child, the couple decided in the fourth month of her pregnancy to sell the baby. "Meena delivered the boy in June. As per the agreement, the baby was handed over to Rajeshwar and Nageeni. A few days later, Meena and Venkatesh wished to take back their child and approached them," said the police. Meena had posed as Nageeni during the delivery at ESI Hospital.

The issue came to light when the boy's parents approached Rachakonda police, requesting to get their child back from the couple. They alleged that they were forced to sign on blank paper and given ₹40,000. Nacharam police on Saturday arrested the two couples and the mediator.

The Food Corporation of India (FCI) directed states to buy grain for only ₹1,888 per quintal, the Minimum Support Price (MSP) fixed by the Centre.

It also warned against procuring produce from the states if purchased at a higher price, he said.

The Chief Minister said that due to the provision imposed by the FCI, it was not possible to provide a higher price for the fine variety of paddy immediately and that it would surely work out a way that brings higher profits to farmers, who cultivated fine paddy.

Rao said that the Centre's new agriculture law was anti-farmer.

He was incensed that the Bill was passed undemocratically despite the absence of a majority in the Rajya Sabha.

He made it clear that the Telangana Rashtra Samithi (TRS) and Telangana state were totally opposed to the new agriculture laws. He called on the rythu vedikas to play their part to protect themselves from this evil law.

He said that a special plan for the development of Dalits and tribals would also be prepared and implemented, adding that residential schools were already being set up to provide better education.

Flood victims up in arms as civic body stops ₹10K relief

Victims lay siege to municipal offices, residences of elected representatives

MADDY DEESKITHI | DC
HYDERABAD, OCT. 31

The immediate stoppage of door-to-door disbursal of ₹10,000 cash aid to flood victims in the Greater Hyderabad Municipal Corporation (GHMC) area has led to a major public uproar. The disappointed flood victims lay siege to municipal offices, residences of elected representatives and some attempted suicide amid several dharnas on Saturday.

The flood victims alleged that corporators were distributing money only to a select few, and those who were close to the ruling dispensation. Many corporators were allegedly taking anywhere between ₹2,000 and ₹5,000 of the ₹10,000 that the state government had promised affected families.

A person committed suicide in Singatikunta, another person attempted suicide in front of Amberpet MLA Kaleru Venkatesh's house for being denied the compensation amount, Congress leader Konda Vishweshwar Reddy staged dharna along with 2,000 protesters at Serilingampally zonal office, some protesters lay siege to the Secunderabad zonal commissioner office, residences of corporators and other elected representatives.

Protests were reported across the city, including Malakpet, Chandalanagar, Uppal, Patancheru and Saroornagar. Disappointed at not having received the led to rasta rokos at Madanapet main road in Saidabad, Dattanagar Basti victims gheraoed Himayatsagar corporator Hemalatha Yadav's office and Chandalanagar corporator Navatha Reddy's house.

Residents from Rajivnagar staged a protest on Balanagar-Medak road demanding financial aid. Similar scenes were witnessed in Abids, Rajendranagar, Karmanghat and Nampally. GHMC's sudden decision to stop door-to-door distribution of flood relief has come as a big shock to locals from East Anandbagh and other areas where people were waiting for the compensation.

More than 10 streets in the ward bore the brunt due to unprecedented rain on October 13 with floodwater from Banda Cheruvu entering many houses on the ground floor. The flood relief distribution was held in various streets for more than a week here. While some of the affected families were able to get the compensation amount, others were a dejected lot as they did not get it.

One such area is NMDC Street 5 or Sri Ramachandra Enclave. The floodwater from nala overflowed directly into the colony inundating houses on the ground floor damaging household appliances, articles, clothes and utensils, electric motors, and vehicles.

According to G. Venkateshwar Reddy and AS Subramanyam, president and general secretary of the colony's association, they were awaiting the visit of GHMC teams for distribution for more than a week before the Saturday morning body-blow.

"A majority of streets that were far away from the nala were covered, but ours which had been severely impacted was left in the lurch. Most of the residents in this street are retired persons and we call upon the authorities to look into our case and do the needful," they said.

₹225.50cr advance reliefDC CORRESPONDENT
HYDERABAD, OCT. 31

The Central government has cleared the pre-release of ₹224.50 crore to Telangana state under Union State Disaster Response Fund for carrying out rescue and rehabilitation works in flood-ravaged Hyderabad. The amount will also be used to support farmers who have lost their crops due to heavy rains in mid-October.

The money was scheduled to have been released only in February-March of 2021. But the Centre agreed to release the funds in advance following the initiative of Union minister of state for home G. Kishan Reddy, who represents Secunderabad Lok Sabha constituency in the Lok Sabha. He had been holding discussions with Central officials and sent a detailed report to the Prime Minister's Office explaining the situation in Hyderabad and other parts of Telangana state, seeking early access to funds.

The Centre, according to Kishan Reddy's office, had already sanctioned ₹202 crore towards repair and maintenance of roads in the state following the heavy rains and floods. Once the Central team, which visited the state to check rain and flood damage, submits its report, the Union government will consider a comprehensive flood-relief package for the entire state, Kishan Reddy said.

The Secunderabad MP thanked Prime Minister Narendra Modi and Union home minister Amit Shah for the early release of disaster management funds to Telangana state. He said he will continue to work towards ensuring maximum possible support to the state for meeting immediate exigencies and achieve the state's long-term goals.

GHMC demolishing houses along the sides of the nala at Al-Jubail colony, in Hyderabad on Saturday.

HYDERABAD, OCT. 31

The GHMC has started demolition of houses which came up over the years on the sides of the nala at Al-Jubail Colony in Bahadurpura constituency.

During the recent rains, water from the blocked nala had caused flash floods over a vast area in and around Al-Jubail Colony. Hundreds of houses on the two sides of the nala were inundated within hours. Many lanes that were flooded after the mid-October rains are still under water and mud.

Surging floodwaters washed away eight members of a family in this area, apart from causing damage to household goods in the entire area.

The GHMC has identified 28 houses for demolition of which more than 20 have been brought down. Work to desilt the nala is also in progress. Locals claimed that the nala was originally a small watercourse meant to discharge excess water from the Bandlaguda pond. The nala was converted into a gutter which was widened by the civic authorities who acquired land for the purpose.

Some landowners approached the court against the compensation amount, due to which widening of the nala could not be completed.

HYDERABAD, OCT. 31

Senior Congress leader Konda Vishweshwar Reddy on Friday slammed the state government for the haphazard and biased manner in which compensation was distributed to the flood-affected victims.

He told Deccan Chronicle that the government was behaving as if they were paying the amounts from their pockets.

Vishweshwar Reddy said that contrary to claims of having distributed amounts to the tune of ₹300 crore, there was no uniformity in the ex gratia amounts paid. He said he had visited and observed the situation at Osmannagar, Jalpally municipality and Maheshwaram.

He alleged that after obtaining signatures from illiterate residents, the leaders had distributed a meagre ₹1,000 as against the assured amount of ₹10, 000 to each victim.

He pointed out that the situation was equally bad in Rajendranagar and Serilingampally, where only ₹5,000 compensation was paid to those affected by floods while those close to the TRS members or corporators minted money.

Vishweshwar Reddy accompanied around 4,000 people who had not received any compensation to the Serilingampally GHMC zonal commissioner's office. In the absence of the official, the assistant commissioner assured that the amounts will be paid as promised.

BJP leaders and cadres held a dharna at the GHMC's Uppal circle office on Saturday demanding ₹10,000 ex gratia to all the poor whose houses were flooded during the rains recently.

Addressing the protestors, former BJP legislator N.V.S.S. Prabhakar alleged that a lot of discrimination is being shown while distributing the amounts. Officials, particularly TRS leaders, were giving only ₹5,000 though the government had announced ₹10,000. He demanded a detailed inquiry into the irregularities in distribution of ex gratia and an immediate relief package for the damaged vehicles and for the poor who lost their livelihood.

HYDERABAD, OCT. 31

Nearly 600 junior doctors working at Gandhi Hospital and about to complete their third and final year of post-graduate internships may finally get to work on non-Covid-19 cases soon.

Health minister Etala Rajendar on Saturday evening, assured a delegation of Telangana Junior Doctors Association (TJUDA) of Gandhi Hospital that non-Covid-19 services will begin soon at the hospital, a demand that the junior doctors have been making for nearly two months now.

The assurance came only after the TJUDA issued a strike notice warning that its members at Gandhi Hospital, numbering around 600, will stay off duty starting Sunday.

Following Rajendar's assurance, the junior doctors announced that they were holding back on their decision to stay away from work for 10 days.

Before the meeting with the health minister, Gandhi Hospital TJUDA president Dr Shashidhar Reddy said that the junior doctors, in their third year of residency, had so far put public good before their own academics as the state battled Covid-19.

"The last time we went on a strike, we suspended our stir as the state was facing a serious crisis on the Covid-19 front. At that time, we decided that serving the public and combating Covid-19 was the priority. Now, there are barely 300 Covid-19 patients in the hospital on any given day and much of the hospital is just lying empty," he said. It is time that the health department restarts regular across the board services in the hospital so the junior doctors, whose residency period ends this coming February, will have at least some experience of treating non-Covid-19 cases and gain valuable training in treating patients with various ailments at the super-specialty hospital, he said.

HYDERABAD OCT. 31

A unique online tool which will be able to identify and detect interstate criminals who operate in remote parts by using their fingerprint data is slated to go live by February 2021.

Announcing this, S. Prabhakar Rao, director of the Fingerprints Bureau of the CID said the NAFIS (National Automated Fingerprint Identification System) will be a revolutionary tool in identifying criminals.

"NAFIS will enhance the ability to analyse crime patterns and modus operandi of criminals across states, and communicate with the state police departments to assist in crime prevention."

"The repository will hold data of criminals throughout the country, making it easy for the cops to identify them," said Prabhakar Rao.

If not for Covid, the website would have been live by now, he said. Telangana state data has already been shared with the Centre, Prabhakar Rao said.

The police forces pan-India will be able to access the benefits of the real-time criminal identification system through NAFIS, which will be gathering fingerprints of over 80 lakh criminals and put in place a web-based system to identify them.

■ THE POLICE forces pan-India will be able to access the benefits of the real-time criminal identification system through NAFIS, which will be gathering fingerprints of over 80 lakh criminals and put in place a web-based system to identify them.

"This is a tie-up with the National Crime Records Bureau (NCRB) and will provide a segregated space for each state at the NAFIS centre," Prabhakar Rao said.

Read-only permission will be given to other states accessing it.

NAFIS will be installed at the NCRB and the Crime and Criminal Tracking Network and Systems (CCTNS) connectivity will be used to provide access to all the users.

Fingerprint analysis and Clues team have helped the cops in detecting and investigating crime scenes since 2017. "Digitisation of records and fingerprint data is an important step forward in documenting and tracking crime and criminals and expressed his confidence that the fully computerised NAFIS would soon become functional and benefit the police forces," said Prabhakar Rao.

Bodhan circle inspector Palle Rakesh was caught rehanding by Anti-Corruption Bureau (ACB) officials while he taking a bribe of ₹50,000 and a cellphone worth ₹1.04 lakh from a realtor on Saturday.

ACB officials arrested CI Rakesh and seized the cash and mobile phone.

ACB in-charge DSP Ravi Kumar said that realtor Mohammad Sajid of Bodhan approached them on October 6 and complained that Rakesh had demanded a bribe from him in the case of a land dispute with one Sudarshan Goud.

Reportedly, Goud had vandalised Sajid's motorcycle during a quarrel. Sajid lodged a complaint with Bodhan police, but CI Rakesh and sub-inspector Mogulaiah threatened to file a false case against Sajid instead of the accused.

They also demanded bribe of ₹70,000 cash and a costly cellphone but later agreed to accept ₹50,000 cash and the cellphone. ACB officials then laid a trap and caught the CI when he was accepting the bribe.

Ravi Kumar said that they are verifying the role of sub-inspector Mogulaiah and the CI's driver Gajender in the incident.

WARANGAL, OCT. 31

Chief Minister K. Chandrasekhar Rao on Saturday said that the government was working with the primary objective of strengthening the farming community and empowering them so that they can emerge as a strong force.

He was speaking after inaugurating the Rythu Vedika in Kodakandla village of Jangaon district.

After the inauguration, the Chief Minister inspected the Palle Prakruthi Vanam set up in Ramavaram village, Kodakandla mandal.

Later, addressing around

● KCR CALLED upon members of the Rythu Bandhu Committee to play a key role in the development of the farming community and coordinate with authorities in regard to crops in demand in the market so that farmers can cultivate those crops.

5,000 farmers, he said that the government will work with determination to make the state's agricultural practices a role-model for the country.

Rao recalled that the farmers in the undivided Andhra Pradesh had suffered many hardships and were struggling for irrigation water despite Godavari and Krishna rivers flowing through the state as motors and transformers were burning out due to poor quality power supply every season.

The Chief Minister said that if farmers unite, they will be able to achieve amazing results and earn good profits by cultivating crops that are in demand.

He said that in order to mobilise farmers and discuss the benefits and harms of using pesticides, the market demand, regular movement of the crop were all possible with rythu vedikas.

He called upon members of the Rythu Bandhu Committee to play a key role in the development of the farming community and coordinate with authorities with regard to crops in demand in the market so that farmers can cultivate those crops and achieve good prices for their produce.

Rao said that farmers in Raipur work together as a voluntary association, talk to the companies directly about fertilisers and tractors and buy them at a cheaper price.

"It is by dream for these Rythu Vedikas to provide that kind of result to farmers," he said.

HYDERABAD, OCT. 31

Nearly 600 junior doctors working at Gandhi Hospital and about to complete their third and final year of postgraduate internships may finally get to work on non-Covid-19 cases soon.

Health minister Etala Rajendar on Saturday evening, assured a delegation of Telangana Junior Doctors Association (TJUDA) of Gandhi Hospital that non-Covid-19 services will begin soon at the hospital, a demand that the junior doctors have been making for nearly two months now.

The assurance came only after the TJUDA issued a strike notice warning that its members at Gandhi Hospital, numbering around 600, will stay off duty starting Sunday.

Following Rajendar's assurance, the junior doctors announced that they were holding back on their decision to stay away from work for 10 days.

Before the meeting with the health minister, Gandhi Hospital TJUDA president Dr Shashidhar Reddy said that the junior doctors, in their third year of residency, had so far put public good before their own academics as the state battled Covid-19.

"The last time we went on a strike, we suspended our stir as the state was facing a serious crisis on the Covid-19 front.

At that time, we decided that serving the public and combating Covid-19 was the priority.

Now, there are barely 300 Covid-19 patients in the hospital on any given day and much of the hospital is just lying empty," he said. It is time that the health department restarts regular across the board services in the hospital so the junior doctors, whose residency period ends this coming February, will have at least some experience of treating non-Covid-19 cases and gain valuable training in treating patients with various ailments at the super-specialty hospital, he said.

JAGTIAL, OCT. 31

Welfare minister Koppula Eshwar inaugurated procurement centres in Narasimhuni, Myak Venkaiahpally and Ramnagar villages of Pegadapalli mandal in Jagtial district on Saturday.

Mr Eshwar said that this season, the yield of various crops increased. In Jagtial district alone the production of foodgrains increased this Kharif season to 1.2 lakh metric tonnes.

Farmers are going to reap good yield and benefits this season.

The government will purchase all the foodgrains through the Markfeds.

Officials have to take the necessary steps to procure foodgrains from the farmers by opening procurement centres across the district, he ordered. The money for the foodgrains will get deposited in the bank accounts of the farmers at the earliest, he assured.

train protection system and has been developed by Indian Railways in association with Indian manufacturers.

This system is designed to prevent train accidents caused due to 'Signal Passed at Danger' by trains or disobedience of train speed restrictions. It triggers automatic application of the brakes should a train driver fail to do so. The system includes a real-time display of signalling related information in the locomotive pilot's cab.

The system uses radio frequency identification pads installed on the sleepers along the tracks at regular intervals to remotely apply brakes on the trains to bring them to a stop to prevent possible collisions.

Gajanan Mallya, SCR general manager, said that safety in the train operations is the foremost priority for the Railways and SCR will always be at the forefront in implementing safety enhancement procedures.

He congratulated officials of SCR's Hyderabad division and the signal and telecommunication department for their dedication in execution of the project.

JODEGHAT (KUMARAMBHEEM ASIFABAD), OCT. 31

On the 80th death anniversary of Kumaram Bheem, the TRS MLAs along with Adilabad MP Soyam Bapurao took part in the foundation laying ceremony of 30 2BHK houses at Jodeghat on Saturday.

The event went off peacefully. Due to the Coronavirus pandemic, the traditional darbar did not take place. Police personnel in large numbers were deployed along the road to Jodeghat from Hatti to avoid any untoward incidents.

Chief Minister K. Chandrasekhar Rao had promised the villagers of Jodeghat allocation of 2BHK in the same place they are residing. He kept his promise.

Kumaram Bheem had fought for Jal, Jangal, Jameen and the self-rule of the Adivasis, and sacrificed his life.

Adivasis organised events at various places across erstwhile Adilabad district and paid rich tributes to him.

Satyawati Rathod and minister for forest Allola Indrakaran Reddy did not attend the event due to security reasons.

Jodeghat is in the Maoists affected interior area. Adivasis had also announced that would obstruct Satyawati Rathod's tour to Jodeghat if she came.

Asifabad MLA Atram Sakku, Zilla Parishad chairperson Kova Laxmi, Sirpur (T) MLA Koneru Konappa, Adilabad MP Soyam Bapurao and Asifabad collector Sandeep Kumar Jha and Integrated Tribal Development Agency (ITDA) project officer Bhavesh Mishra and Kumaram Bheem's grandson Sonerao and district tribal welfare officer Dilip Kumar paid rich tributes to Kumaram Bheem and garlanded his statue. Leaders of the Thudumdebba organised an event at the Kumarambheem guda New Housing Board on the Adilabad town outskirts.

Adilabad Jogu Ramanna, former Adilabad MP Godam Nagesh and Adilabad market committee chairman Mettu Prahlad paid rich tributes to Kumaram Bheem there. Adivasis appealed to Jogu Ramanna to allocate the Kumaram Bheem guda land to poor Adivasis, who had been living in huts in the area, till officials removed them.

Jogu Ramanna promised to allocate lands to the Adivasis who have a ration and Aadhaar card.

Adivasi Pardhan Samaj also organised an event and paid rich tributes to Kumaram Bheem near the bus stand.

Asifabad district officials have prepared proposals to take up development works at Jodeghat.

They will utilise the remaining ₹5 crores of the total ₹25 crores sanctioned by the state government.

The state government had sanctioned ₹25 crores towards construction of a Tribal museum and Komaram Bheem memorial along with developing Jodeghat village in Kerameri mandal as a Tribal cultural hub and tourism centre under the Tribal Sub-Plan (TPS) funds provision for the financial year 2014-15.

Chief Minister K. Chandrasekhar Rao had announced funds for the Tribal museum on Komaram Bheem's 74th death anniversary event.

KCR hits bullseye with story of the Rama baan

That Chief Minister K. Chandrashekar Rao can weave a story is well-known. After quite a long gap, KCR was in full flow while speaking at the launch of the Dharani portal. He started off by mentioning kirikiri gallu (troublemakers), his favourite term for Opposition leaders and anyone he takes a dislike to. Then he paused and asked the audience at Mudu Chintalapalli whether they wanted him to narrate a tale of kirikiri gallu. The crowd roared back in anticipation, thinking he would take off on political leaders. But KCR tracked back to the Ramayana. He told them that Lord Rama, in the battle against Ravana, had used the Rama baan to quell the demonic forces. The weapon lay the enemy low, and the battle was won. When it was all over, KCR told his audience, a group of demons appeared before Lord Rama. They told him that they had been given a life of 100 years, but it was cut short by Rama using the baan. They asked Lord Rama to bless them so that they could live out the rest of their life. KCR continued with a smile: Lord Rama blessed them that in Kaliyuga, three or four of them would be born in each village.

These are the kirikiri gallu, he said, even as the audience burst out in laughter, and advised them against falling into the trap of the troublemakers.

Lokesh's teetering tractor gives traction to trolls

Rahul Gandhi and Nara Lokesh are perhaps two politicians worst-hit by their image portrayal on social media as being less efficient among the contemporary politicians. They are badly trolled and, to their bad luck, land up in situations from time to time where their rivals can keep making fun of them. The other day Lokesh, criticised for remaining indoors in Hyderabad fearing the Coronavirus, added a few places to his itinerary other than Amaravati. He went to West Godavari district to console the farmers who had been affected by rains. As is a common feature among leaders and cadre to hype such visits to impress their bosses, a huge tractor rally was organised. Lokesh got tempted by the possibility of a photo op, as he would be wading through floodwaters, and took the wheel of a tractor. He suddenly lost control and the tractor slid into the drain. The alertness of M.L.A. M. Ramaraju, who was sitting with him, in applying the brakes and controlling the tractor averted a mishap. Within minutes of the incident, social media was abuzz with memes and jokes on Lokesh. Ruling party leaders made fun asking him to first learn how to steer a tractor before trying to do the same with his party.

HYDERABAD, OCT. 31

The state health department is bracing itself for a possible surge in Covid-19 cases following Bathukamma and Dasara that saw people gather in groups, sometimes in large numbers, across the state as they celebrated the festivals earlier in October. A meeting of top department officials chaired by health minister Etala Rajendar on Saturday concluded that with people coming out and meeting in large numbers, it was likely that Covid-19 might have spread faster and among more people.

The meeting reviewed the rapid increase in cases in Kerala and Delhi and the way these surges occurred in the two states. The meeting also discussed the possibility of Coronavirus spreading further among the people with the winter slowly setting in over the state. There was no option other than people maintaining physical distance and wearing masks while out in public areas, the meeting concluded. It urged the people to follow these norms strictly to save themselves and others around them from Covid-19. Rajendar said that, so far, Telangana state had done a good job in containing

HC DENIES BAIL TO SA WOMAN FOR DRUG SMUGGLING

VUJJINI VAMSHIDHARA | DC
HYDERABAD, OCT. 31

The Telangana High Court declined bail to a South African national in judicial remand for the last five years for offences committed under the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act, 1975.

The allegation against her was that she was carrying about 427 grams of cocaine, concealed within her body. On 30 August, 2015, she had arrived at the Shamshabad airport and was intercepted by the authorities. On inquiry, she had admitted that she was carrying some narcotic drugs concealed within her body.

Doctors of Osmania General Hospital examined her and retrieved several capsules from her body through a medical procedure. The main capsules were 15x7 cm in size, containing a white powder. The capsules, with their covers, weighed around 199 grams. The powder was cocaine. The other small capsules measuring 5x4 cm, retrieved from her body each weighed 13.5 gm, including the cover. The total weight of all 20 small capsules recovered from the body of petitioner was around 270 grams.

NCB officials recovered a total of around 427 grams of cocaine from her. The cocaine was seized under the panchnama and she was sent to judicial custody.

As five years lapsed and no trial was concluded at the court, she approached the High Court for regular bail until the case was finalised. The court rejected her petition stating that the allegations against her were most heinous and asked the trial court to complete the trial as soon as possible.

The Odisha government on Saturday announced its Unlock 6 guidelines which allowed partial reopening of schools and certain relaxations for marriage ceremonies and conduct of last rites of a deceased.

As per the new guidelines, all schools will remain closed till November 30. However, classes for Class IX to X will be allowed with a Standard Operating Procedure which will be announced later.

“Secretary of the school and mass education department has been asked to prepare an SOP. As per the SOP, schools will reopen for Class IX and X,” said school and mass education minister Sameer Ranjan Dash.

The minister added that all required steps will be taken for ensuring that Covid-19 infections did not happen to students and teachers.

As regards opening of the temples and religious shrines, the new guidelines said all places of worship will open with permission from the local administration. The local administration will grant permission considering the Covid-19 conditions in the locality.

The guidelines allowed gathering of 200 people in a marriage ceremony and permitted participation of 50 persons in the last rites of a deceased person.

Nirmala wanted me out of finance ministry, says Garg

Ex-finance secy says she had some pre-conceived notions about him

New Delhi, Oct. 31: Subhash Chandra Garg, the former finance secretary who was shunted out of the finance ministry within three weeks of Modi-2.0 government's first budget last year, on Saturday alleged that new Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman got him transferred out.

Garg, who took voluntary retirement soon after being moved from the finance ministry — where he handled the Department of Economic Affairs — to power ministry, said Sitharaman, unlike her predecessor Arun Jaitley, had “a very different personality and knowledge endowment”.

Both Ministry of Finance and Sitharaman's office refused to comment on the blog Garg wrote on the day he said he would have in normal course retired from the government service but for the VRS.

Garg said he “did not share a good and productive working relationship” with Sitharaman, who came to the finance ministry “with some pre-conceived notions about me”.

“She did not seem to have confidence in me. She was not quite comfortable working with me as well,” he said adding differences over surplus RBI should give as dividend to the government and dealing with problems of non-banks had surfaced within months of her takeover.

“Serious difference also developed on some key issues like economic capital framework of RBI, a package for dealing with problems of non-banks, resolution of non-banks, partial credit guarantee scheme, capitalization of non-banks like IIFCL and other financial entities and the like.

“Very soon, not only had our personal relationship soured, but the official working relationship also became quite unproductive,” he wrote.

Sitharaman wanted him out in June 2019, ahead of the July 5 budget presentation, he said but did not say why her request wasn't immediately accepted by the government.

Garg was transferred out on July 24, 2019, as Secretary, Ministry of Power and he applied for voluntary retirement within half an hour of receiving the order.

“Mrs. Sitharaman asked for and insisted on my transfer from the Ministry of Finance in June 2019 itself, within one month of her taking over as FM,” wrote Garg, who exited the government after serving the mandatory notice period on October 31, 2019.

Praising her predecessor Jaitley for his deep knowledge and understanding of the economy, he said his successor “Mrs. Nirmala Sitharaman, has a very different personality, knowledge endowment, skill-set and approach for economic policy issues and also for the officers working with her.

“It became quite apparent very early that working with her was going to be quite difficult and it might not be conducive to undertaking necessary reforms for the attainment of the objective of building a USD 10 trillion economy of India.”

The former finance secretary alleged that Sitharaman, for reasons not very clearly known to him, came with some pre-conceived notions about him. “Very soon, not only had our personal relationship soured, but the official working relationship also became quite unproductive.”

Garg recalled he made up his mind in June 2019, much before the Budget was presented, that he would take voluntary retirement from the service to be able to work on the wider economic reform agenda outside the government. “I drafted my months' notice for voluntary retirement sometime in the fourth week of June after going through the rules relating to voluntary retirement and decided to seek it from October 31, 2019,” he said.

Garg also said that he had discussed with the then Additional Principal Secretary in the Prime Minister's Office, PK Mishra about his relationship with Sitharaman on a few occasions.

“Both of us agreed that the best course would be for me to make way for the new FM to ‘function smoothly’. Mishra offered me to choose any job in the government or outside the government in regulatory bodies or elsewhere,” Garg said. The former finance secretary, however, informed Mishra that he had already made up his mind to seek voluntary retirement.

“I filed for voluntary retirement on July 24, the day I was transferred to the Ministry of Power instead of October 31, 2019, the date I had originally intended,” he recalled.

Garg, however on July 26, 2019, had asserted there is no connection between his transfer from the high profile Finance Ministry and decision to take voluntary retirement, saying he had already discussed the retirement matter with the Prime Minister's Office on July 18.

The 1983 batch IAS officer of Rajasthan cadre, Garg came to the Center in 2014 and was appointed Executive Director in the World Bank where he stayed till 2017 when he was appointed DEA Secretary in June 2017. In March 2019, he was elevated as the Finance Secretary.

Jaitley, he said, was “a mastermind with an uncanny ability to sift through massive amounts of information and government files to discover the pith and substance of the public policy issue involved. He also had the right temperament and ability to forge consensus.”

Indo-Nepal
border to have
‘laser walls’VIKRAM SHARMA | DC
HYDERABAD, OCT. 31

As India is fast-tracking the construction of its border infrastructure in view of increasing threats from hostile neighbours, the 1,751 km long Indo-Nepal border will soon have ‘laser walls’ or infrared fencing to maintain effective vigil.

The infrared fencing will be in place around the Sonauli checkpoint on the Indo-Nepal border in Uttar Pradesh and will be extended to the border areas in Uttarakhand.

The Sashastra Seema Bal (SSB) that guards the Indo-Nepal border, has taken a cue from the Border Security Force (BSF) which has installed infrared fencing along the India-Pakistan international border in Punjab to keep an effective vigil on terrorists and narcotics.

Sources in the SSB told Deccan Chronicle that though the work to install infrared fencing was supposed to commence early this year and completed, the project could not take off due to the Covid-19 induced lockdown. Now that the lockdown has eased, the work is likely to commence soon.

Since the India-Nepal border is open under the international friendship treaty, it witnesses hectic activity as people do not require a visa or other documents to cross it. All that they need is an ID proof which facilitates easy movement. The porous border also enables hassle-free entry and exit to illegal immigrants, terrorists, human traffickers and those involved in narcotics smuggling.

The blueprint was prepared a couple of years ago and senior SSB official were given a demonstration of infrared fencing and other state-of-the-art electronic surveillance gadgets at the SSB headquarters in New Delhi.

“The India-Nepal border is porous and there is a need to have effective surveillance mechanisms. The growing friendship between Nepal and China has a huge bearing on our internal security,” they said.

Explaining its functioning, sources said that the invisible laser walls has sensors that are monitored through a satellite-based signal command system. It also has night and fog operability tools.

“It can detect intrusions and relay information to the border guarding force. The latest laser walls can monitor large swathes of territory,” they said adding that the force was looking for non-obtrusive checking mechanisms.

Besides laser walls, the SSB personnel will also be provided with the state-of-the-art explosive-cum-narcotic detectors, fibroscope (a flexible fibre optic bundle with an eyepiece on one end and a lens on the other which is used to examine and inspect small, difficult to reach places like the insides of machines) besides other equipment to check smuggling.

Raj tables Bills to negate impact of Centre’s farm laws

Jaipur, Oct. 31: The Rajasthan government on Saturday introduced three Bills in the Assembly to negate the impact of the farm laws enacted by the Centre recently.

The move comes after the Punjab Assembly earlier this month adopted a resolution against the farm laws and unanimously passed four Bills to counter the Centre's contentious legislations.

Rajasthan's Parliament Affairs Minister Shanti Dhariwal introduced the Essential Commodities (Special Provisions and Rajasthan Amendment) Bill 2020, the Farmers (Empowerment and Protection) Agreement on Price Assurance and Farm Services (Rajasthan Amendment) Bill 2020 and the Farmers Produce Trade and Commerce (Promotion and Facilitation and Rajasthan Amendment) Bill 2020. He also introduced the Code of Procedure (Rajasthan Amendment) Bill 2020 on the first day of the Assembly session.

A number of provisions to protect the interests of farmers, including sale or purchase of a crop under farming agreement on a price equal or greater than minimum support price and imprisonment of three to seven years for harassment of farmers, have been included in the Bills.

The Congress leadership has suggested that states where it is in power should pass laws of their own to counter the central legislations that had triggered farmers' protests in several parts of the country.

Tejashwi alleges scam in Bihar,
shares Prime Minister’s old videoNAYEAR AZAD | DC
PATNA, OCT. 31

RJD leader Tejashwi Yadav, who is contesting Bihar polls as the face of grand alliance on Saturday targeted Chief Minister Nitish Kumar led government alleging that in the past 15 years there have been over 60 scams in the state.

To prove his point he also shared an old video of Prime Minister Narendra Modi on the social media listing over 30 scams linked to his government.

“Over 60 scams happened during Nitish Kumar's tenure as Chief Minister. Out of these 33 scams were mentioned by Prime Minister Narendra Modi five years ago”, RJD leader Tejashwi Yadav said in a tweet while sharing Prime Minister's five-year-old speech.

However, it's not clear where the Prime Minister was speaking and which government he was referring to in his speech.

When asked about the video, RJD leaders in Patna said that the Prime Minister's old video being circulated by Tejashwi Yadav on the social media is of 2015 assembly elections when Nitish Kumar was part of the grand alliance and contested against the BJP.

Besides, Tejashwi Yadav and the other grand alliance partners, LJP Chief Chirag Paswan had earlier created a flutter in Bihar politics by alleging a major scam in state government's ‘Saat Nischay’ (seven resolves) scheme and promised to send all those found guilty to jail including Bihar CM Nitish Kumar if his party is elected to power.

He had also targeted Chief Minister's pet project liquor prohibition by calling it a breeding ground of mafias and corruption in the state.

The opposition coalition has been trying to reach out its voters in Bihar with unemployment, poor law and order and development as an agenda against Nitish Kumar.

Blaming the state government of being involved in scams may heat the poll scenario in the state ahead of the crucial second and the third phase of polls.

While responding against the NDA's “15 years of good governance versus 15 years of jungle raj” narrative being built against his party RJD, Tejashwi Yadav said that “We want to make our present and future better, but it seems that our Chief Minister wants to keep referring to the past”.

He further blamed Nitish Kumar of avoiding real issues like “Padhayi (education), Kamai (employment), Sicha (irrigation), Dawai (health)” during his public meetings and said that the election being fought in Bihar is a movement to wipe out unemployment, inflation and poverty.

Off the beaten track

Winter upon us, so's the 'season of scapegoating'

Winter is coming." Long before Game of Thrones Ned Stark starkly uttered this now famous line, the almost-as-famous William Shakespeare had put a rather more poetic spin on it, "Now is the winter of our discontent". Or, season of smogs and frigid fruitlessness, as Keats might have added, had he lived to write his Ode to Winter.

Here, in Sherwood Forest, it's already arrived, with the snuffing out of the fading autumn sun, as British Summertime ends and clocks go back, reducing daylight to a flash in the midday pan. In creeps the icy damp, searching for the elderly to chill to the bone, to find them already gone in this year of devastating loss. No season of cheer for the depressed either, huddled around their UV lamps, waiting for the lifting of the black fog. Only mildly depressed currently. I have eschewed mine for cake, Coke (the drinking kind, and my lockdown addiction- please send barrels) and my capering kids who keep my spirits high.

But this hard-hit year, there will be five million fewer English children frolicking, because going hungry instead, as the greedy Tory government denies them food aid, will keep them on their toes. If you've been following British news however, you'll know there's a streak of silver lining called Marcus Rashford, Manchester United striker, who has come to their aid once more, with a raft of British organisations and individuals rallying around him to feed impoverished children in their school holidays because the UK government won't.

Yet how many Marcuses will it take to change the planet? With winter's approach, we have more to worry about than George R.R. Martin's White Walkers. We have a pandemic. Coronavirus was not just the sting in last winter's tail, but the seasonal gift that keeps on giving. On its march across the globe, it has infected 44.5 million, killed 1.17 million, and left legions jobless, grieving, physically wasted, and mentally ill. In arriving in India later, it lulled many into a false sense of security, but now shows no signs of abating, with a predicted peak early next year when the deadly winter smog has the country in its grip, quickening the spread of the virus and increasing its severity to sufferers.

If it ever went away in Europe, with our chance to catch our breath, as infections and death tolls fell, briefer even than the English summer, it is back with coldblooded vengeance. In much of England, the contagion is now more widespread than at its zenith in late spring, forcing us to return to a harsh lockdown with its attendant hardships again. But BoJo's government is too busy lining its pockets to care, handing out crucial pandemic-constraining contracts worth millions to their friends and family, as they deflect, distract, spin and scapegoat their way out of scandals, when caught red-handed again and again.

What better time of the year for that than winter? 'Tis the season for scapegoating. For fake news and whitewashing. If Herod spreading heresies so he could get his nippers on his nemesis Baby Jesus wasn't enough, Ravana and Guy Fawkes are victims of spin too. For Dussehra, we burn giant effigies of the demon Ravana to symbolically slay evil and side with good, while in Britain, huge bonfires are lit on Bonfire Night, to commemorate the capture and execution of Guy Fawkes, alleged ringleader of the Gunpowder Plot to blow up the English parliament.

Yet modern interpretations of the history of Ravana, the Dravidian King of Lanka, suggest it wasn't as black and white as the legend would have us believe. Sita may not have been abducted, and Ravana, not the villain of the piece after all. Apparently a feint by the Aryans to start a war for new territory, the ten-headed, snarling Ravana might well be the ancient world's first fake news victim. Because history is, of course, written by the victors, and when they aren't whitewashing, they are wasp-white Anglo Saxon Protestant-ing. As Catholic Guy Fawkes discovered when, despite being neither assassination plot kingpin nor even conspirator, he was executed by King James I in 1606, as a cautionary example to Catholic opponents of Protestant power.

Not only do we gleefully revisit their torment every year, we are still being duped into hounding the wrong people. This summer, India concentrated all its energies on harassing an innocuous young actress called Rhea Chakrabarty, even as its government failed to contain the pandemic, salvage the economy, or keep women and children safe, while Britain after Corbyn continued its search for a suitable fall guy. You'd think it would be tax-dodging, law-breaking, extra-constitutional authority Dominic Cummings, but it will, as always, be immigrants instead.

Persecuting minorities is not a seasonal activity anywhere in the world, but a perennial favourite. In the US, Donald Trump's return to power this month will see scapegoats dragged in the mud behind him. Many of them immigrants, with "filthy" (as he called us recently) Indians amongst them. Will Democratic veep candidate, half-Indian, half-black Kamala Harris face the full force of his monstrously immature wrath when she's vanquished? That derision and degradation reserved for women when they challenge mainstream male power? Would that shock you, or that Trump might regain the White House, considering these nationalist demagogues, these selfish crooks, think nothing of twisting the law to their own ends?

Winter is nearly here, and will be a long litany of horrors, unless we act to prevent them.

India must set example of pluralism, tolerance

Pavan K. Varma

Chanakya's View

Two weeks ago, an 18-year-old Chechen beheaded a teacher in Paris for having shown to his students caricatures of Prophet Mohammad. He was taking a class on freedom of expression. Just days ago, a knife attack inside a church in the French city of Nice by a 21-year-old Tunisian, brutally killed three people and injured several more. The gruesome attacks rightly created worldwide outrage. French President Emmanuel Macron vowed to fight this mindless terrorism. India did the right thing in supporting his stand. Ruthlessly violent organisations like the Al Qaeda and the ISIS, which misuse religious sentiment to justify the worst form of violence, are a scourge that the world must defeat. Terrorism in any form is unacceptable, and must be unambivalently condemned.

Turkish President Recep Erdogan, Pakistan PM Imran Khan, and Malaysia's former PM, Mahathir Mohamad, however, attacked Macron for unleashing 'Islamophobia'. Erdogan is seeking to wrench the leadership of the Islamic world by adopting radical Islam. Imran Khan, facing rising unpopularity within Pakistan, is falling back on the old card of catering to the conservative domestic mullah lobby. And, Mahathir, is somehow trying to keep himself relevant. Nothing can justify their failure to categorically denounce such violent cruelty in the name of religion. Not Macron, but the fundamentalist Islamic elements that plan and execute such despicable crimes, should have been decried by them.

France has the largest number of Muslims in Europe. They constitute the 'ethnic debris' that floated over the years to French shores from the countries they had earlier colonised and subjugated. The French colonial empire included many Muslim countries, especially in Northern Africa. Many European countries, who had once enslaved large parts of the world, now have to face the challenge of adopting a multiculturalism that assimilates different ethnic, religious and cultural groups from their colonies.

Different countries have adopted different strategies to deal with this task, but it is not an easy one, and religious fealty is an emotive issue for people of all faiths. The West was right in opposing — in the name of freedom of expression — the ban on Salman Rushdie's The Satanic Verses, and India was wrong in imposing the ban. But, many Western countries have showed great intolerance to the derogatory display of Jesus. Filmmaker Scorsese's irreverent The Last Temptation of Christ provoked public outrage unprecedented in the history of religious films. Militant Christians castigated Universal Pictures, abused Lee Wasserman, chairman of the company, and forced movie chains not to show the film. Similarly, they took to the streets when Christ was portrayed as a charlatan in The Passover Plot. The film was hounded out of cinema halls and never seen again. It is also perhaps less known that while the Danish newspaper Jyllands-Posten published a dozen cartoons of Prophet Muhammad in 2005, its editor had earlier turned down cartoons of Jesus as too offensive.

The French president Nicolas Sarkozy actually took up with then PM Manmohan Singh, when the latter was on an official visit to France in October 2008, his "anguish" about the "massacre of Christians in India". Over 40 Indians of the Christian faith had been killed when suspected Hindu extremists resorted to violence in the states of Odisha and Karnataka, ostensibly to protest against perceived missionary activism in converting Hindus to Christianity. The reprehensible killings were condemned by every political party, including the BJP. Police reinforcements were sent to the disturbed areas; the chief ministers of both states, as well as national leaders, personally met with the heads of the Church to reassure them about their safety and that of their flock. And yet, Sarkozy, the head of a country that prides itself in keeping matters of religion out of matters of state, considered it fit to take up an aberrational incident about the well-being of Christians in India during a summit political meeting. On its part, France does not allow the wearing of turbans by Sikh children and headscarves by Muslim girls. However, there is no ban on the wearing of the Christian cross.

For India, both as a Republic where the Constitution expressly espouses religious harmony, and as a civilisation that has completely rejected violence on religious grounds, radical and violent Islam is abhorrent. In fact, India's civilisational history presents the best example of a plural society. Hinduism was never a proselytising religion; it did not conduct crusades. In ancient times, Hindu kings patronised both their own temples and Buddhist viharas. The Jews lived peacefully in India before they did anywhere else. Muslim traders from the Arab countries practiced their faith undisturbed in Kerala more than a thousand years ago. The Parsis came in the seventh century and the Christians in the fourth to harmoniously become a part of the national fabric.

While supporting President Macron in his stand against the savage bigotry of certain fundamentalist Islamic groups, and renewing its commitment against all kinds of terrorism, India can and should strive to present to the world its own civilisational legacy of respect for all religions, and the ability of people of different faiths to live in harmony and peace. Our condemnation of what happened in France recently will resound even more globally when we ourselves reiterate and demonstrate afresh that India is the best example of a plural and tolerant society.

TERROR IN FRANCE

It is sad to see Muslim radicals beheading innocent people in France. It was more disgusting to note that some Muslim groups in India are protesting against the French government instead of condemning the beheading. India should watch out for Muslim radicals and take necessary precautions. No Muslim leader in India condemned the killings.

STREET CELEBRATION

Celebration of Prophet Muhammad's birth on streets is neither decreed nor permitted in Islam. Instead, the devout must recite Durood to Prophet, feed the poor, help the needy, listen to sermons in the mosque. However, gathering of crowds running berserk on streets, disrupting traffic, is certainly forbidden.

ELECTRIC VEHICLES

The Telangana state government must be complimented for promoting electric vehicles by offering several incentives (2 lakh e-vehicles to get tax sops, DC, Oct. 31). It is also necessary to plan for after sales service and on road charging facilities without which electric vehicles cannot become popular.

STATE RTC BUSES

The TSRTC has been incurring losses and the situation worsened due to Covid-19. Festival season fetches good revenue but due to internal differences with the APSRTC, the TSRTC failed to ply buses during Dasara and passengers were compelled to pay heavily to private operators. One wonders why CM K. Chandrashekar Rao who vowed to bring TSRTC into profits, is maintaining silence?

13 killed, 83 injured near Madras

MADRAS, OCTOBER 31

Thirteen passengers were killed and 83 others injured when the Madras-Mangalore Mail rammed into the rear of the stationary Madras-Cochin Mail at Perambur station, near here, tonight.

Fifty-eight of the injured passengers were removed to the Perambur Railway Hospital and six other to the Government General Hospital. The Mangalore Mail, which left Madras Central station at 20-00 hours, rammed into the rear of the stationary Cochin Mail at 20-10 hours. A medical relief special train has left for the scene. Southern Railway sources said as a result of collision the rear-most coach of the Cochin Mail, a composite first and third class compartment, from Madras to Coimbatore, and the next coach derailed and capsized.

Gehlot 'friend' Nath picks Pilot; RJD hope rests on savarna pitch

Rashtriya Janata Dal's chief ministerial candidate Tejashwi Yadav has made a concerted effort in the ongoing Bihar Assembly polls to expand the support base of his party beyond its core Muslim-Yadav vote bank. Not only has the RJD given a large number of tickets to upper caste candidates but Tejashwi makes it a point to hammer home this point during his campaign. The RJD leader ensures he is flanked on either side by the party's Bihar chief Jagdanand Singh and Rajya Sabha MP and party spokesperson Manoj Jha at his major rallies. Singh is a Rajput — in fact, he was the first upper caste leader to be given charge of the RJD's state unit. Jha is a Brahmin and is said to be Tejashwi's right-hand man. The upper castes in Bihar have never voted for the RJD as they have a special aversion to Lalu Prasad Yadav's brand of politics. It is to be seen if the course correction attempted by Tejashwi will work to his party's advantage.

Former Madhya Pradesh chief minister Kamal Nath enjoys a good rapport with his party colleague and Rajasthan chief minister Ashok Gehlot. But when it came to picking a campaigner for the Madhya Pradesh bypolls, Nath chose Sachin Pilot, who is not exactly Gehlot's favourite person. Nath apparently made several phone calls to Pilot requesting him to campaign in the Gwalior region which has a large Gujjar population. The veteran leader is also believed to have told Pilot that he was the only one who could do justice in this belt. Pilot has since addressed several election rallies in Madhya Pradesh but if Nath was hoping to pit the young Congress leader against his bete noire Jyotiraditya Scindia, he must have been disappointed. Pilot avoided attacking his former colleague Scindia in his speeches and instead went full throttle against Madhya Pradesh chief minister Shivraj Singh Chouhan. As for Pilot, this invitation is an opportunity to send out a message to his detractors that he has national appeal and cannot be ignored.

Candidates who were hoping to be nominated by the Bharatiya Janata Party for the Uttar Pradesh Rajya Sabha elections spent several sleepless nights last week because of the delay in the announcement of the final list. Urban development minister Hardeep Puri was among those who went through some tense moments before the official list came out. His staff worked the phones endlessly to find out the status of the nominations. Puri had a truncated first stint in the Upper House as he was elected two years ago in place of Manohar Parrikar who resigned his seat when he went back to Goa as chief minister. Though there was no doubt that he would be re-nominated, Puri was on tenterhooks primarily because there was a buzz that another former diplomat, known to be the Prime Minister's favourite, was likely to be inducted into the government. In the end, all's well that ends well as Puri was very much among the eight candidates on the BJP list.

Punjab chief minister Amarinder Singh contemplating an early Assembly poll? Though the next election is only due in 2022, there is a growing view in the Singh camp that it might be a good idea to dissolve the Assembly and call for an early poll, preferably along with the Assam and Kerala elections next year. This section believes that Singh is currently on a strong wicket, especially after the tough stand he took on the farm laws passed by the Centre. His detractors in the party are currently in no position to pose any serious challenge. Similarly, the Shiromani Akali Dal, which recently parted company with BJP, is still in the process of putting its house in order. Not only were the Akalis mauled in the last Assembly election but they have also been facing serious internal dissensions. Given more time, there's every possibility that the Akali Dal will recover lost ground while Amarinder Singh's stock may slump by then.

A seemingly minor bye-election in the Assembly segment of Baroda in Haryana has acquired immense significance as political pundits believe the result will reflect the popularity or otherwise of the BJP-led state government. Several disgruntled legislators from the Dushyant Chautala-led JJP do not want their party to continue its alliance with the BJP because of its stand on the farm laws which are being opposed by farmers in the state. They have been mounting pressure on their party leadership to snap ties with the saffron party but to little avail. These legislators are looking for greener pastures but they have decided to await the bypoll result before upping the ante. However, their defiance could well come to a nought if the BJP wins this election.

Saudi rams car into Mecca Masjid

Riyadh: A Saudi man rammed a car at high speed into the outer walls of Mecca's Grand Mosque, Islam's holiest site, authorities said on Saturday. Guards chased the driver as he crashed through two barriers before hitting one of the southern entrances of the mosque late Friday, according to officials in the holy city and videos on social media. Mecca authorities did not name the man but said he appeared to be in an "abnormal condition". He was referred to the public prosecutor to face possible charges, they added. Earlier in October, Saudi Arabia opened the Grand Mosque for prayers for the first time in seven months, and expanded the umrah pilgrimage to accommodate 15,000 worshippers from within the kingdom as it relaxed coronavirus curbs.

2 killed in blast at pipeline in Iraq

Baghdad: An explosion targeting a gas pipeline in southern Iraq killed two children Saturday after a blast in the north this week forced the closure of another pipeline, authorities said. An investigation had been launched into the latest explosion in Muthanna province, south of Baghdad, that killed "two children and wounded 28 people", state media said. The attack came after a blast targeted an oil pipeline in the north of the country, according to a statement by the Kurdistan Regional Government released late Friday. The statement said oil exports had been suspended after "terrorists" attacked the pipeline crossing the autonomous region to the Turkish port of Ceyhan on Wednesday evening.

New Berlin airport officially opens

Berlin: Nine years late and far above its original budget, Berlin's new airport is finally opening on Saturday with little ceremony and, thanks to the Coronavirus pandemic, few passengers. Construction of the Berlin Brandenburg Airport Willy Brandt, named after the former West German chancellor though better known as BER, started in 2006 and it was initially slated to open in October 2011. But a string of technical and planning problems forced officials to abandon six opening dates, most embarrassingly, in 2012, just four weeks before flights were supposed to start. That propelled the project to the status of a national joke as airport managers struggled to get a grip on various problems, including a complex fire safety system that long caused headaches. The airport has cost some 6 billion euros (USD 7 billion), about three times what was originally planned. It is finally opening at a time when air traffic has been hobbled by the pandemic.

MILLION TONS OF U.S. PLASTIC TRASH GO ASTRAY

Washington, Oct. 31: More than a million tons a year of America's plastic trash isn't ending up where it should. The equivalent of as many as 1,300 plastic grocery bags per person is landing in places such as oceans and roadways, according to a new study of US plastic trash. In 2016 — the last year enough data was available and before several countries cracked down on imports of American waste — the United States generated 46.3 million tons (42 million metric tons) of plastic waste, by far the most in the world. Between 2.7 per cent and 5.3 per cent of that was mismanaged — not burned, placed in landfills or otherwise disposed of properly, according to a study in Friday's journal Science Advances. Between 1.2 million and 2.5 million tons (1.1 million to 2.2 million metric tons) of plastic generated in the US were dropped on land, rivers, lakes and oceans as litter, were illegally dumped or shipped abroad then not properly disposed of, the study found. If you took nearly 2.5 million tons (2.2 million metric tons) of mismanaged plastic waste — bottles, wrappers, grocery bags and the like — and dumped it on the White House lawn, "it would pile as high as the Empire State Building," said co-author Jenna Jambeck, an environmental engineering professor at the University of Georgia.

Record surge in Coronavirus pushes hospitals closer to brink of capacity

Washington, Oct. 31: A record surge of Coronavirus cases in the United States pushed hospitals closer to the brink of capacity and drove the number of infections reported on Friday to an ominous new daily world record of 1,00,000, four days before the US presidential election.

The United States also documented its 9 millionth case to date on Friday, representing nearly 3% of the population, with almost 2,29,000 dead since the outbreak of the pandemic early this year, according to a Reuters tally of publicly reported data.

With the country facing the final stretch of a tumultuous presidential campaign dominated by the coronavirus pandemic, US health authorities on Friday also confirmed that 1,00,233 more people had tested positive for Covid-19 over the past 24 hours.

Friday's tally set a new single-day record in US cases for the fifth time in the past 10 days, surpassing the previous peak of 91,248 new infections posted a day earlier.

It also represented the world's highest national daily toll during the pandemic, exceeding India's 24-hour record of 97,894 set in September.

The accelerating pace of US infections continued as data trickled in on Friday, with at least a dozen states individually reporting a record number of new daily cases.

Serious cases of Covid-19 were on the rise as well, as hospitals in six states reported having the most patients suffering from the disease since the pandemic started. The number of hospitalised Covid-19 patients has risen over 50% in October to 46,000, the highest since mid-August.

Among the hard-hit states are those most hotly contested in the campaign between Republican President Donald Trump and Democratic challenger Joe Biden, such as Michigan, North Carolina, Ohio, Pennsylvania and

700km traffic jam in France ahead of second lockdown

Paris, Oct. 31: Parisians fleeing for the countryside jammed the roads ahead of France's lockdown to slow the spread of resurgent Coronavirus infections, and there was only a sprinkling of people hurrying along city sidewalks on Friday as the nationwide restrictions went into effect.

Dystopian images of logjams that stretched for 435 miles (700 kilometers) at one point on Thursday evening — exacerbated by the upcoming long holiday weekend — were a grim sign of a return to the dark days of the spring, when virus cases first swelled in Europe and many countries kept their citizens inside for weeks on end. With infections hitting record levels in some countries, many are now resorting to severe restrictions again.

In France, concerns were growing that rising infections would swamp the country's health system, so authorities ordered another four-week lockdown beginning on Friday.

Many areas of the French capital resembled a regular lazy weekend morning — on what would normally have been a bustling weekday. Those who were out frequently clutched permission forms proving they had an exemption that allowed them to be on streets.

The only places that were busy were grocery stores and markets as people stockpiled food and other necessities.

All of France's 67 million people have been ordered to stay at home at all times with no visitors, or risk steep fines or prosecution. There are a handful of exceptions, such as being allowed out for one hour of exercise a day within a half-mile (1 kilometer) of home, to go to medical appointments, to a place of work, or to shop for essential goods. Restaurants and cafés are shuttered, apart from those that offer takeout.

WHO: OFFICIALS MET WITH CHINA FOR FIRST TIME

Geneva, Oct. 31: The World Health Organization said on Friday that international experts had held their first meeting, albeit virtually, with their Chinese counterparts in order to investigate the animal origins of the Covid-19.

The WHO has for months been working to send a team of international experts, including epidemiologists and animal health specialists, to China to help probe the animal origin of Covid-19 and how the virus first crossed over to humans.

WHO chief Tedros Adhanom Ghebreyesus told a virtual press briefing Friday that the UN agency was continuing "to establish the origins of the virus to prevent future outbreaks." "Today, a group of international experts had their first virtual meeting with their Chinese counterparts," he said.

Trump, Biden chase votes in Midwest finale

Des Moines, United States, Oct. 31: President Donald Trump and challenger Joe Biden waged pitched battles for the American Midwest on Friday, chasing every last vote with four days to go in a region that propelled the Republican to victory in 2016.

Trump and Biden are each barnstorming three heartland states, with a resurgent Coronavirus passing the alarming milestone of nine million cases as they hit the stump — highlighting their differences in a race overshadowed by the pandemic.

Trump, heralding a "big day" of campaigning as he left the White House, held a rally in Michigan before heading to Wisconsin and Minnesota.

"We just want normal," Trump told supporters — many of them unmasked — at an outdoor "Make America Great Again" rally near Detroit as he pushed states to relax public health restrictions and resume daily life.

He again bucked his own administration's health experts as he downplayed the Covid-19 threat, saying "if you get it, you're going to get better, and then you're going to be immune." Covid-19 has killed 2,30,000 people in the US, which is experiencing worrying surges in most states as the winter flu season threatens to throw kerosene on the fire.

while there have been signs of recovery, millions remain jobless.

Biden was also stumping in Wisconsin and Minnesota, after the Democratic rat's first stop of the day, in Iowa, where he flayed Trump over his handling of the pandemic.

"Donald Trump has given up (and) waved the white flag," Biden told a drive-in rally with more than 300 cars in Des Moines.

Biden, tailoring his speech to the Iowa crowd, also bashed the president for saying America's farmers were "doing better now than when they had a farm," after Trump's administration began paying billions of dollars in federal subsidies to farmers amid a trade war with China.

It is his first time in Iowa since his inauspicious campaign start in February, when he finished a dismal fourth in the opening Democratic nominating contest.

Crowd joins LGBT pride rally in Taiwan

Taipei, Oct. 31: Tens of thousands of revellers joined a gay pride rally through the streets of Taiwan's capital on Saturday in a colourful celebration of equality made possible by the island's successful vanquishing of the Coronavirus.

Taiwan is at the vanguard of the burgeoning gay rights movement in Asia and became the first place in the region to allow same-sex marriage in May 2019 after a bruising political fight.

It has also achieved remarkable success against the Coronavirus, recording more than 200 days in a row without a single local infection.

As a result there are few of the social distancing measures currently in place across much of the globe, allowing crowds to gather on the island.

Rainbow coloured flags and balloons were carried through Taipei under blue skies on Saturday afternoon.

Drag queen Wu Po-sung was wearing a hand-crafted red "wedding banquet" dress — the traditional colour of marriage in Taiwan — complete with table settings.

"Gay marriage is now in its second year," Wu said. "I was hoping to be able to attend all of my friends' wedding banquets and that's why I am dressed like a wedding banquet."

Saturday's parade came a day after two same-sex couples joined a mass wedding hosted by the military for the first time in another gay rights landmark in Asia.

Over 4,000 gay couples have registered their marriages since the law change took effect last year when Taiwan became the first place in the region to allow same-sex nuptials.

Macron seeks to calm tensions over cartoons

Paris, Oct. 31: President Emmanuel Macron said that he could understand if Muslims were shocked by cartoons of the prophet Muhammed, as French authorities on Saturday sought to ascertain if a young Tunisian suspected of killing three people in a knife rampage inside a Nice church had outside help.

France is on edge after the republication in early September of cartoons of the prophet Mohammed

ORTHODOX PRIEST HURT IN FRENCH SHOOTING, ASSAILANT FLED: POLICE

Paris, Oct. 31: An orthodox priest has been injured in a shooting in the French city of Lyon and the assailant has fled, a police source said on Saturday.

The priest was fired on twice at around 4pm local time as he was closing the church, and was being treated on site for life-threatening injuries, the source said.

by the Charlie Hebdo weekly, which was followed by an attack outside its former offices, the beheading of a teacher and now the attack in Nice.

Macron sparked protests in the Muslim world after the murder earlier this month of teacher Samuel Paty — who had shown his class a cartoon of Mohammed — by saying France would never renounce its right to caricature.

But in an apparent bid to reach out to Muslims, Macron gave a long interview setting out his vision to Qatar-based TV channel Al-Jazeera, seeking to strike a softer tone.

"I can understand that people could be shocked by the caricatures but I will never accept that violence can be justified," he said. "I consider it our duty to protect our freedoms and our rights," he added in an extract of the interview to be broadcast from 1600 GMT.

France is still reeling from the latest attack in Nice which Macron has already described as "Islamist" terror.

SCREEN ICON

World of entertainment mourns loss of global sensation who passed away in sleep

Tributes pour in for Scottish James Bond actor

Commanding screen presence for 40 yrs

A commanding screen presence for some 40 years, Connery was in his early 30s and little known when he starred in the first Bond thriller, 1962's Dr No, based on the Ian Fleming novel.

Condemned as immoral by the Vatican and the Kremlin, but screened at the White House for Bond fan John F. Kennedy, Dr No was a box office hit and helped Bond become a franchise that long outlasted its Cold War origins.

For decades, with actors from Connery to Daniel Craig in the leading role, filmmakers have loved the outrageous stunts, vicious villains and likable, roguish hero who enjoyed a life of carousing, fast cars, gadgety weapons, elegant clothes and vodka martinis (always shaken, not stirred).

For many, Connery was the definitive James Bonds, his character's introduction among the most famous in movie history. He is seated at the blackjack table of an upscale casino, seen first from the side and the back. After he wins a couple of hands against a glamorous young woman, she asks for more money to gamble. "I admire your courage, Miss, uh ...," we hear him tell her as the camera shows his hands removing a cigarette from a slender case. She introduces herself as "Trench, Sylvia Trench," tells him she admires his luck and asks his name. His reply remains a catchphrase decades later. "Bond," he says, his face finally revealed as he lights a cigarette. "James Bond."

United Artists couldn't wait to make more Bond movies, with ever more elaborate stunts and gadgets, along with more exotic locales and more prominent co-stars, among them Lotte Lenya and Jill St. John.

Connery continued as Bond in "From Russia With Love," "Goldfinger," "Thunderball," "You Only Live Twice" and "Diamonds Are Forever," often performing his own stunts.

INTERESTING FACTS ABOUT SCOTTISH JAMES BOND ACTOR

THE FOLLOWING ARE SOME OF THE LITTLE KNOWN FACTS OF THE LEGENDARY STAR SEAN CONNERY, ACCORDING TO THE SCOTSMAN NEWSPAPER. CONNERY EPITOMISED AUTHOR IAN FLEMING'S SUAVE 007 AGENT IN SEVEN JAMES BOND MOVIES. THE ACTOR DIED ON SATURDAY AGED 90.

25-08-1930 TO 31-10-2020

● Despite being known as Sean, the actor's first name is Thomas, and he was referred to as Tommy in his youth.

● His first job was as a milkman with the St Cuthbert's Co-Operative Society in Edinburgh.

● He reportedly was placed third in the Mr Universe contest in 1953 although there is some dispute over whether he finished third in the Junior class, or failed to place in the 'Tall Man' classification.

● He turned out for Edinburgh junior side football Bonnyrigg Rose in his youth.

● He has a tattoo reading 'Scotland forever' which he got at the age of 16 when he enrolled in the Royal Navy.

● He donated his $250,000 salary from his role as King Richard in 1991 film Robin Hood: Prince of Thieves to charity.

"When I last spoke to him it was clear even then that his health was failing but the voice, the spirit and the passion that we all loved so well were still there. I will miss him. Scotland will miss him. The world will miss him. My thoughts and condolences are with Micheline, their children and all the family. RIP Sir Sean Connery," she added.

In a statement, posted on Twitter, Bond producers Michael G. Wilson and Barbara Broccoli said they are "devastated" by Connery's death.

"He was and shall always be remembered as the original James Bond whose indelible entrance into cinema history began when he announced those unforgettable words.

"The name's Bond... James Bond" — he revolutionised the world with his gritty and witty portrayal of the sexy and charismatic secret agent. He is undoubtedly largely responsible for the success of the film series and we shall be forever grateful to him," they said.

The family of actor Roger Moore, who had succeeded Connery as James Bond, also condoled the actor's death.

"How infinitely sad to hear the news Sir Sean Connery has passed away. He and Roger were friends for many decades and Roger always maintained Sean was the best ever James Bond. RIP," read the tweet from Moore's official account, which is run by his family.

Hollywood stars Hugh Jackman and Sam Neill also paid tributes to the veteran actor.

"I grew up idolizing #SeanConnery. A legend on screen, and off. Rest In Peace," tweeted Jackman.

Neill, who starred with Connery in 1990 spy thriller "The Hunt for Red October", reminisced about working with the Scottish star.

SHORT TAKES

Amit, Sanjeet bag gold in France

New Delhi: World silver-medallist Amit Panghal (52kg) and Sanjeet (91kg) struck gold in their first competition after a coronavirus-forced break, claiming the top honours at the Alexis Vastine International Boxing Tournament in Nantes, France. Amit defeated American Rene Abraham 3-0 with a dominating performance on Friday night. Sanjeet, a former India Open gold-medallist, too put up a clinical show to get past Frenchman Soheb Bouafia in his summit clash and secure a gold. In the 75kg category, Asian silver-winner Ashish Kumar also claimed a gold after his opponent, American Joseph Gerome Hiks, gave him a walkover due to injury. — PTI

Bottas clinches Imola GP pole

Imola, Italy: Valtteri Bottas snatched pole position for Sunday's Emilia Romagna Grand Prix from his Mercedes team-mate Lewis Hamilton with a dramatic late lap in qualifying at Imola on Saturday. The Finn, who is 77 points adrift of series leader and six-time champion Hamilton with five races remaining in this year's title, grabbed the prime grid position by a tenth of a second. Hamilton, who was fastest in the only practice in the morning, had been on top through most of the qualifying session and took provisional pole on his first run in Q3 before Bottas beat him in the final seconds. Sonego upsets Djokovic in Vienna

Vienna: Novak Djokovic won just three games in a lackluster quarterfinal performance at the Erste Bank Open, losing 6-2, 6-1 to 42nd-ranked Lorenzo Sonego. It was only Djokovic's third loss of the year, after being disqualified for hitting a line judge with a ball at the U.S. Open and losing the French Open final to Rafael Nadal. "I came here with the intention to try to earn more points and secure the No. 1 in the end of the year. I have done that, so I move on," Djokovic said. "I am happy, I am pleased, I am healthy, and hopefully I can have a strong finish (at the ATP finals) in London." Djokovic lacked power in his groundstrokes and produced a string of mistakes from the start. He soon dropped 4-0 behind, winning just five points on Sonego's serve in the opening set. — AP

Gayle fined 10 per cent of match fee

Abu Dhabi: Chris Gayle has been fined 10 per cent of his match fee for breaching the IPL's code of conduct during KXIP's match against RR here. The IPL did not specify the exact incident for which he was penalised but it is understood the Jamaican was penalised for throwing his bat away in disgust after getting out for 99 on Friday night. Gayle has admitted to the offence and accepted the sanction. Requiring a run to complete his century, Gayle was cleaned up by a Jofra Archer yorker in KXIP's last over and reacting to his dismissal, he tried to hit his bat on the ground in frustration but the willow slipped from his hand and landed a few metres across the pitch. — PTI

MI thrash Delhi by nine wickets, ensure top-two spot

Dubai, Oct. 31: Mumbai Indians ensured a top-two finish in the IPL league table with a clinical nine-wicket decimation of an already battered Delhi Capitals, who wilted under relentless pressure from Trent Boult and Jasprit Bumrah. While Boult (3/21 in 4 overs) dealt telling opening blows, Jasprit Bumrah (3/17 in 4 overs) broke the backbone of the Delhi Capitals middle-order, choking them to 110 for 9. The defending champions coasted to victory in 14.2 overs, taking their points tally to 18 and will have two shots in the play-offs to get into the final. Delhi Capitals, who had won seven out of their first nine games, have now lost four on the bounce and with a match left are in danger of missing out on the play-offs with an ever deteriorating net-run rate of minus 0.159. While batting, Delhi Capitals consumed 62 dot balls, which effectively meant that more than half of their stipulated 20 overs had gone without scoring. A target of 111 can't be defended nine out of 10 times and the pocket dynamo Ishan Kishan scored 72 not out off 43 balls to make the chase look like a walk in the park.

Not for once did Delhi Capitals looked like being in control as they made the Dubai strip and the Mumbai Indians bowling attack look doubly menacing with some of the best batsmen abdicating their responsibilities of playing fearless cricket.

Boult was brilliant upfront removing openers Shikhar Dhawan (0) and Prithvi Shaw (10 off 11 balls) in the powerplay which pegged the Delhi Capitals back.

Captain Shreyas Iyer (25 off 29 balls) and Rishabh Pant (21 off 24 balls) then compounded their team's worries as they failed to regain the lost momentum.

The duo, for the umpteenth time, looked like playing for themselves and the intent was missing which affected the morale of the batsmen coming down the order. — PTI

Royals look to ride momentum

Dubai, Oct. 31: They have just given their play-offs qualification hopes a lift and Rajasthan Royals will look to sustain the momentum against Kolkata Knight Riders in another must-win IPL game here on Sunday.

Besides a victory in their last league game, the inaugural edition winners will also need other results to go their way if they are to make the playoffs of the lucrative event, in its 13th edition now.

The best-case scenario for RR would be Kings XI Punjab losing their last match and Sunrisers Hyderabad winning no more than one in their last two outings.

In that case, RR will go through with 14 points, without net run rate coming into play.

However, RR's first task is to do what is within its control — win the match against the Knight Riders and then hope for the best. Given the tight situation, the bigger the margin of win, the better it will be for the Steve Smith-led side.

Ben Stokes

The Royals can certainly look forward to their batting at the Dubai International Stadium. Their talismanic England all-rounder Ben Stokes has just won a man-of-the-match award, having made a breezy half century after picking up two wickets, in the team's win over KXIP on Friday.

The 2019 World Cup final hero getting his mojo back, at such a crucial juncture of the tournament, is great news for the Royals. And, needless to say, a bad one for KKR as the leading all-rounder can singlehandedly influence the outcome of a game.

Sanju Samson rediscovering his touch must have also gladdened the hearts of the RR team management.

The wicketkeeper-batsman had started the tournament on an explosive note before going off the rails midway, only to come back all guns blazing

KINGS XI FACE CHENNAI IN A DO-OR-DIE TIE

Abu Dhabi, Oct. 31: Their play-off chances hanging in balance, KXIP will leave no stone unturned as they take on CSK in a must-win IPL game here on Sunday.

KXIP's chances of a top four finish took a serious hit after RR handed them a seven-wicket loss, snapping their impressive five match-winning streak.

The defeat means KXIP's fate is not solely in their hands as even a win against CSK will not ensure them a play-off spot. The Punjab outfit will need other results to go their way.

On the other hand, CSK, already out of the reckoning for the first time ever, will aim to end their dismal campaign on a positive note.

SRH stay alive in play-off hunt

Sharjah, Oct. 31: Sunrisers Hyderabad defeated Royal Challengers Bangalore by five wickets to stay in the race for the IPL play-offs, here on Saturday.

Chasing 121, SRH reached the target in just 14.1 overs with Wriddhiman Saha (39), Jason Holder (26 not out) and Manish Pandey (26) guiding them home.

Opener Josh Phillip top-scored for RCB, making 32 runs while Sandeep Sharma and Holder took two wickets apiece for SRH.

Earlier, SRH produced a brilliant bowling effort to restrict a batting-heavy Royal Challengers Bangalore to a modest 120 for seven.

SRH strangled RCB by picking up wickets at regular intervals after opting to bowl.

Young Devdutt Padikkal (5) and skipper Virat Kohli (7) departed in quick succession, falling to Sandeep (2/20). Sandeep has now dismissed Kohli seven times in IPL.

AB de Villiers made a run-a-ball 24 before perishing and then Josh Phillippe (32) again got a start but failed to capitalise. He was caught by Manish Pandey off Rashid Khan (1/24) in

Proliferation of English players add more glitter to IPL

Ayaz Memon
Over The Top

On Friday, a tweet by @englandcricket, the "official home of all of the England Cricket teams on Twitter", caught my attention. The tweet read, "Good luck to our lads in today's huge IPL game!" and accompanied a photograph of Ben Stokes and Jofra Archer in Rajasthan Royals colours.

Former England captain Kevin Pietersen (@kp24) retweeted this tweet with a pithy observation. "Just imagine, IMAGINE, this tweet 8/9 years ago...I'm so happy these guys are benefitting positively from the IPL".

Pietersen, was derided for chasing mammon when he embraced the IPL with unbridled enthusiasm about a decade back, starting with Delhi Daredevils and later representing Royal Challengers Bangalore and Pune Rising Super Giants.

He was among the most highly paid overseas professionals in the league, and his public appreciation of the IPL did not sit too well with fellow players and critics back home.

English players were few in the IPL, one part because the second half of the league's season coincided with the start of their home season, but secondly also because of snobbery.

There are 10 top English players in IPL2020: Eoin Morgan, Sam Curran, Tom Curran, Jos Butler, Johnny Bairstow, Chris Jordan, Moeen Ali, Tom Banton, Jofra Archer, Ben Stokes.

Had Chris Woakes not pulled out at the last minute, it would have been 11 of the best white ball players from the country, a far cry from the times when Pietersen's participation in the IPL was seen so skeptically.

The mainstreaming of the IPL was, of course, not dependent on how many English cricketers played the league.

From inception, the best Australian, Kiwi, South African, West Indian, Sri Lankan, Bangladeshi — and in the first couple of years even Pakistani — players were seen in action.

The proliferation of English players, however, makes the IPL's influence in the sport comprehensive.

Importantly, English players are now negotiating with their counties to give them larger 'windows' for playing in this league.

Just how significant and influential the IPL has become for players, member countries of the ICC is evident from how things have panned out in 2020, year of the Covid pandemic.

Just the other day I read a report about how Steve Smith has decided to skip this year's Big Bash League because he did not fancy spending more time in the bio-secure bubble.

David Warner, the other Australian batting stalwart and pace ace Pat Cummins are similarly inclined. The mental toll that being in the bio-secure bubble is taking of players is becoming an important issue.

But it is pertinent to note that none of these players decided to miss the IPL, having been in the bio-secure bubble in England for bilateral ODI and T20 series before the league commenced in the UAE.

All three Aussies are high value acquisitions for their franchises. The lure and attraction of playing in the IPL, however, is not just the money though that undoubtedly plays a huge part.

It is also about rubbing shoulders and competing with the best players in the world and reaching out to the largest audience. In all three aspects — money, talent, audience — the IPL is several times larger than any other T20 league.

Size of the audience defines the revenues for the IPL. Since inception in 2008, these have been super normal, making not just the BCCI very rich, but consequently also helping make the coffers of other boards heftier.

This allowed the BCCI to leverage the IPL even against the ICC's T20 World Championship which was scheduled for October this year, and finally scrapped in August-September with host country Australia tilting in favour of the Indian league.

The pandemic disrupted the calendar for most sports. However, IPL2020 survived on demand from various stakeholders — players, boards, broadcasters — even if played six months later than usual.

Widely touted as the fifth or sixth most valued sports property in the world, the IPL has the potential to get into the top three if the huge audiences (TV only) for this season are anything to go by.

This will not come only by hosting the tournament, and milking profits though. The BCCI has to be proactive, perhaps add a few more teams (12-16 to allow for two groups), with a relegation/promotion system in place to make it more competitive, and thereby more compelling to watch.
