Thousands party at Wuhan water park without masks

Wuhan, Aug. 17: Thousands of partygoers packed out a water park over the weekend in the central Chinese city of Wuhan, where the coronavirus first emerged late last year, keen to party as the city edges back to normal life.

The popular Wuhan Maya Beach Water Park was filled with people frolicking in swimsuits and goggles for an electronic music festival, many perched on rubber dinghies or wading up to their chest in water.

The water park reopened in June after Wuhan gradually opened up after a 76-day lockdown and strict restrictions to try and control the virus.

The park -- which local media says has capped attendance at 50 percent of normal capacity -- is offering half price discounts for female visitors.

A performer in a stage show at the front of the water waved at the crowd, packed close and waving their arms back, some snapping photos on phones protected in plastic pouches round their necks.

Another performer on a water jet board entertained his audience by hovering above them with sparks shooting from his back.

Some of the crowd had donned life jackets, but none of the tightly-packed partygoers were seen to be wearing face masks as a DJ in bright yellow headphones played on stage.

City bustles on easing of e-pass curbs in day of 24 virus deaths

DC CORRESPONDENT
CHENNAI, AUG. 17

It was more than just a manic Monday in the city. With the easing of e-pass curbs, more than the regular working day traffic was witnessed at toll plazas.

Thousands of people who had been stranded in their hometowns after leaving Chennai to avoid the spike in Covid-19 -19 cases were seen returning to the city through the Paratur toll plaza. Tamil Nadu Chief Minister Edappadi K Palaniswami had announced that from August 17 anyone who applies for an e-pass for inter-district travel during the lockdown would receive it instantly without any delay. E-passes were earlier issued only for weddings, medical emergencies, and funerals.

On Monday morning, there was a long line at the Paratur toll plaza near Chengalpattu, with vehicles lined up for at least a kilometre. Similarly, thousands of vehicles were clogging the Vandalar checkpoint in Chengalpattu and Sholvaram checkpoint in Tiruvallur and Sriperumbudur checkpoint on the Bengaluru-Chennai National highway.

Chennai airport also saw a surge in passenger movement as a result of e-pass relaxation by the TN government.

Official death toll crosses 50,000

New Delhi, Aug.17: India's death toll from the coronavirus hit 50,000 on Monday, with more than 900 new fatalities reported in 24 hours, health ministry data showed.

The country last week overtook Britain with the world's fourth-highest number of deaths, behind the United States, Brazil and Mexico, and has recorded 2.6 million infections.

India's death toll from the pandemic now stands at 50,921, an increase of 941 from the previous day, according to the health ministry's website. The world's second-most populated country, home to some of the world's biggest cities and largest slums, is already the third-most infected nation behind the US and Brazil.

Many experts however say the real numbers may be far higher due to low levels of testing and because deaths are often not properly recorded in India's chronically under-funded health system. Despite the rising death toll, the health ministry tweeted on Sunday that India's virus mortality rate was "one of the lowest globally" at below two per cent.

'CAREERS CAN'T WAIT ONE YEAR'

Supreme Court won't defer Neet and JEE

PARMOD KUMAR | DC
NEW DELHI, AUG. 17

The Supreme Court on Monday refused to interfere with the conduct of medical and engineering entrance exams — Neet and JEE — scheduled to take place in September saying that life must go on and students can't lose a precious year in the wake of Covid pandemic.

Dismissing a plea by one Sayantan Biswas seeking direction to National Testing Agency (NTA), which conducts both the Neet and JEE exams, to postpone them, Justice Arun Mishra, heading a three-judge bench, said that there was "absolutely" no merit in the plea. "Life cannot be stopped. We have to move ahead with all safeguards and all... Are students ready to waste one whole year? Education should be opened up. Covid may continue for a year more. Are you going to wait another year? Do you know what the loss to the country and peril to the students is?" Justice Arun Mishra said.

The court took on record assurance by the NTA that all necessary precautions will be taken in view of Covid-19 pandemic.

The Institute of Chartered Accountants of India (ICAI) had on July 13 informed the Supreme Court of its decision to scrap the examination for chartered accountants scheduled to be held in July-August in the wake of worsening Covid pandemic.

Similarly, the CBSE and ICSE had on June 25 told the court about their decision not to hold examinations of remaining papers and award marks to students on the basis of their last three best papers they have already appeared for.

2020 published in the Wall Street Journal. In her complaint, Das stated she has been receiving threats ever since. "The content, which even includes my photograph is evidently threatening to my life and body and I fear for my safety as well as that of my family members. Das alleged that she was intentionally vilified by the accused due to their "political affiliations" and are now engaging in online and offline abuse, subjecting her to "criminal intimidation and making sexually coloured remarks".

The comments came as the ruling BJP and opposition Congress traded barbs over Facebook's alleged bias towards the ruling dispensation. SR: No foul play in RRB recruitmentsA. ARUL PALANI | DC
CHENNAI, AUG 17

Reacting to the protests against alleged appointment of more than 450 persons, belonging to North India, at Ponnmalai, Tiruchy, the Southern Railway has denied any foul play in the recruitment conducted by the Railway Recruitment Board(RRB).

The railway said reservations were not based on the origin of state or state of residence. The candidates belonging to Tamil Nadu were not only opted for RRB/Chennai but in other RRBs too. During the last few years about 2.2 lakh candidates from Tamil Nadu have applied for RRB/Bengaluru which caters to South Western Railway. The authorities have stated that in recently, there have been protests by railway apprentices in front of Ponnmalai workshop seeking permanent jobs in Railways. It was alleged that there was discrimination against candidates from Tamil Nadu from being recruited for job vacancies in Southern Railway.

Stating that there is a misconception in the minds of public, the Southern Railway stated there are 21 RRBs across the country. The RRB recruits the technical and non-technical working and supervisory staff (group 'C').

All the RRBs call for applications for various posts through a common centralized employment notification. At the time of applying for any post a candidate has the option to choose any of the 21 RRBs. A candidate is allotted a particular zonal railway based on the RRB he had opted. For example, when a candidate opts for RRB/Chennai at the time of application and after selection he would be allotted railway divisions of Chennai, Trichy and Salem, Southern Railway headquarters and ICF.

On February 3, 2018, a notification was published by RRB for the post of Assistant Loco Pilot (ALP) and technicians. The RRB, Chennai, had confirmed that of the total candidates applied 51 per cent were from Tamil Nadu. A total of 3,218 candidates were selected for the post of ALP and technicians. 17 per cent are from Tamil Nadu. 541 candidates for technicians posts were allotted to Ponnmalai workshop in Trichy. Candidates were called for certificate verification from August 4, 2020 at Ponnmalai workshop.

Meanwhile, protests were conducted by former Act Apprentices, who had undertaken training at Ponnmalai workshop, demanding employment in the Railways. The railways engage apprentices in workshops and production units and impart them technical training. Employment in Railways is not guaranteed on completion of apprenticeship. However, in 2016 it was decided by Railway Board that 20 per cent of the vacancies in case of direct recruitment to posts in Level-1 shall be filled by giving preference to course completed Act Apprentices. In pursuant to this new rule, 597 vacancies were earmarked for apprentices.

A total of 3,627 applications were received from apprentices and 2,839 appeared for the examination. Of the candidates appeared, 272 were short-listed for physical efficiency test (PET). At the end of PET, 54 candidates were selected based on merit.

Plea to transfer Nalini to Puzhal prisonDC CORRESPONDENT
CHENNAI, AUG 17

Alleging ill-treatment meted out to her daughter by the prison officials, S. Padma, the mother of S. Nalini, serving life sentence in Vellore prison for her involvement in Rajiv Gandhi assassination case, has approached the Madras high court, seeking a direction to the authorities to transfer her daughter Nalini, wife of Sriharan alias Murugan from the special prison for women at Vellore to the special prison for women, Puzhal, Chennai.

A division bench comprising Justices N.Kirubakaran and V.M.Velumani before whom the habeas corpus petition filed by S.Padma came up for hearing on Monday, adjourned it by a week.

According to petitioner, her daughter Nalini having been convicted in Rajiv Gandhi assassination case under section 120-B read with section 302 IPC has been undergoing imprisonment for more than 29 years. She was perhaps the longest serving woman prisoner in the country. She used to meet her daughter in prison in the past twice a month. Now, she has been allowed to talk to her daughter via video calls as per rules, she added.

She said her daughter had on February 22, 2020, made a representation to the superintendent of prison, Vellore, asking for her transfer from the special prison for women, Vellore, to Puzhal on the ground that they would be in a position to meet each other once a week in the event of her transfer from Vellore to Chennai. During the pendency of the said representation, national lockdown was announced with effect from March 25, 2020, and the lockdown continues even today, she added.

She said during lockdown, her daughter was ill-treated by the prison officials and she was not even allowed to talk to her lawyer through WhatsApp video whereas, other prisoners were allowed to talk to their lawyers over WhatsApp video. While talking to her daughter over video, she was informed by her daughter that her life in prison was miserable because of continuous ill-treatment perpetrated on her by certain prison officials and that she was suffering in prison beyond words. She was also informed that she should take immediate steps to have her daughter transferred from Vellore to Chennai. Due to such torture, her daughter's life was in danger. Therefore, she made a representation dated July 21, 2020, to the authorities praying that her daughter be transferred on humanitarian grounds to Puzhal. Her representation has not so far been considered and decided by the authorities. Hence, she filed the present petition, she added.

Reopening Tasmac: Cash register rings louder than alarm bells?

Sanjay Pinto

If we thought breaching the psychological barrier of a thousand Covid cases everyday in Chennai was a minor setback, we now need to pray that another cluster does not emerge as the golden goose — Tasmac is set to cackle again. The Tamil Nadu government's decision to reopen the booze floodgates in the city 5 months after the first lockdown and a fortnight before the present restrictions are slated to end, is, in my opinion, ill advised, hasty and disappointing.

Public health which is state subject under the Constitution, gives the Tamil Nadu government unfettered power to take decisions. Article 47 of the Constitution is a directive principle to the state to "endeavour to bring about prohibition of the consumption, except for medicinal purposes, of intoxicating drinks and of drugs which are injurious to health." This is under normal circumstances.

During a pandemic, with cases rising each day, is the sale of alcohol — a known immuno suppressant, a priority? In an issue of 'Alcohol Research: Current Reviews' the researchers summarize "the evidence that alcohol disrupts immune pathways in complex and seemingly paradoxical ways. These disruptions can impair the body's ability to defend against infection." So is the ring of cash registers louder than the sound of alarm bells? Whatever happened to the doctrine of 'Res Extra Commmercium' or 'things beyond commerce'? Or the Supreme Court's scathing reference to businesses that are "inherently pernicious or injurious to health, safety and welfare of the general public" in Khodad Distilleries Ltd Vs State of Karnataka? Kabasura Kudineer in one hand and alcohol in the other?

That parks where people can walk and get fresh air to stay fit remain closed but booze outlets reopen is a telling commentary on our priorities. Churches and temples will remain shut, funerals must have not more than 20 mourners and weddings not more than 50 people, but 500 folks can trudge to each shop, for their 'elixir' of life. Whether the timings are staggered or the customers walk out staggering, time will tell!

The attempt to regulate sales through 500 tokens daily may be well intentioned. In its affidavit before the Supreme Court in Tasmac Vs B.Ramkumar Adityan, the liquor retail behemoth referred to G.O. No.223 and enumerated 6 precautions like 6 feet distance between customers, and not more than 5 persons allowed at a time. But if scenes reported in the past of crowds outside Tasmac outlets in other districts were any indication, the expectation of social distancing and proper wearing of masks by local tipplers may seem naive. Is this a risk worth taking?

About 2,000 police officers in Chennai alone have tested positive. Their families are in turn at risk. As the men in khaki would have to ensure compliance with the safety guidelines in the seven hundred odd shops in the city is it fair to expose them further?

The lockdown has led to a peculiar situation where perpetrators and victims of domestic violence have had to be boxed in together. The city witnesses considerable cases. With earnings depleted in most homes and job losses, is this the time to bring back this social evil? Where does it leave the State's duty to ensure "adequate means of livelihood" to its citizens and the "opportunities and facilities" for children to "develop in a healthy manner" and the "protection of childhood and youth" from "moral and material abandonment", contained in Articles 39 (a) and (f) of the Constitution? Before anyone argues that these are only directive principles of state policy and are not enforceable, let me remind them that Article 37 makes it clear that these principles are "fundamental in the governance of the country."

If the Supreme Court in state of Tamil Nadu Vs K.Balu could, based on Para 92(2) of the Union government's 'model policy/taxation/act/rules for alcoholic beverages and alcohol' bar liquor sales 100 metres from schools, hospitals or religious places or 220 metres from the middle of the state/national highways, what about domestic violence and its cascading effect on the entire family? I rest my case.

‘TN NOT EXECUTED PRECAUTIONARY MEASURES’

Chennai, Aug 17: The Madras high court was informed that in past five months of Covid crisis, nowhere the government has executed the precautionary and preventive measures under the

OOTY, AUG 17

While e-pass obtaining facility has been eased since Monday, there has been an increased flow of vehicles resulting in traffic snarls at Burliar, the inter-district border of the Nilgiris and Coimbatore on the Ooty NH.

Also, health care staff have begun the arduous work of lifting swab samples from travelers entering the hills through the inter-district borders, both at Burliar and at Kunjapannai near Kotagiri. Restrictions on e-passes since July had almost brought private vehicle transport to a standstill on the Ooty - Burliar - Coimbatore NH, as well as the Ooty - Kotagiri - Kunjapannai - Coimbatore road, on the south-east side of the hills, both busy roads connecting the hills with the plains. This also made things easy for cops and health care workers at the inter-district check-posts on these two roads, to relax a bit as only a few vehicles crossed the border a day.

KERALA GOVT TAKES OVER CHURCH

Kochi, Aug. 17: The Kerala government took over a church in Mulanthuruthy in the wee hours on Monday amid strong resistance by followers of the Jacobite church, as part of implementing a 2017 Supreme Court order granting possession of over 1,100 churches to the rival Orthodox faction, police said here.

Police entered the ancient Cathedral in Mulanthuruthy, armed with a recent Kerala High Court order directing to take over it on a contempt of court petition filed by the Orthodox vicar.

In a significant move to resolve the decades old problem of Nagaland, the Centre has started discussion with the governments of Manipur and Arun-achal Pradesh to sort out certain administrative problems in formation of two Naga autonomous councils that the government has agreed to create after the signing of the Naga peace accord.

Pointing out that central government had fixed the deadline of October 31, 2019 to conclude the Naga peace talks, security sources said that on request of NSCN (IM) which wanted more clarity on some rhetorical issues like flag, constitution and greater Nagaland comprising Naga dominated parts of Assam, Arunachal Pradesh and Manipur, it was extended further.

Informing that then it was decided that the final peace agreement would be signed in the first quarter of this year, security sources, however, said that due to the outbreak of Covid-19 pandemic, it was delayed further.

Asserting that it was unlikely that the September deadline set by Prime Minister Office (PMO) is going to be extended again, authoritative security sources in the ministry of home affairs told this newspaper that the government of India was keen and firm on taking all stakeholders on board. Pointing out that there is hardly any possibility of changing the interlocutor at this stage, security sources said negotiation on substantial issues have already concluded on October 31, 2019 and NNPGs (Naga National Political Groups) along with all the tribal groups of Nagaland are ready to sign the peace accord.

16 killed in hotel attack in Somalia

Mogadishu: At least 16 people were killed in an attack on Sunday by al Shabaab on a seaside hotel in Somalia's capital Mogadishu, a government spokesman said, as the Islamist group launched a similar assault on a Somali military base. Sunday's toll includes 11 victims and five assailants, Ismail Mukhtar Omar said in a tweet late on Sunday, adding: "Security forces lost one, 18 people were injured." Militants stormed the high-end Elite Hotel in Lido beach, detonated a car bomb and then opened fire with assault rifles, the latest attack by al Shabaab, which has been battling the country's central government since 2008. Al Shabaab wants to topple the central government and establish its own rule based on its own strict interpretation of Islamic sharia law.

Harris picks Indo-American as her press secy

Washington, Aug. 17: Senator Kamala Harris has roped in Indian-American Sabrina Singh, who previously was the spokeswoman of two Democratic presidential candidates, as press secretary for her Democratic Vice-Presidential campaign.

Singh, 32, headed the press shop of New Jersey Senator Cory Booker and former New York mayor Mike Bloomberg. Last week, Democratic presumptive presidential nominee Joe Biden, 77, picked 55-year-old Indian-origin Harris as his running mate.

Singh was earlier spokesperson of the Democratic National Committee. She is the granddaughter of Sardar J.J. Singh of the India League of America, a non-profit organisation which champions the interests of Indian-American community in the US.

In the 1940s, J.J. Singh along with a small group of fellow Indians mounted a nationwide campaign against racial discriminatory policies of the US. This culminated in the then president Harry Truman signing the Luce-Celler Act on July 2, 1946.

Four-day convention will be held online due to Covid-19 pandemic

Milwaukee, Aug. 17: As Democrats on Monday open an unprecedented virtual convention, the party's disparate factions are projecting a united front behind Joe Biden, brought together by their common determination to oust Donald Trump in November's election.

"It is absolutely imperative that Donald Trump be defeated," Bernie Sanders, a former Biden rival and a keynote speaker on the event's opening night, said on Sunday. Adding to the drama, the four-day convention — originally planned for the Midwestern city of Milwaukee but forced online by the Covid-19 pandemic — takes place amid a furor over Trump's efforts to limit mail-in voting.

The president, insisting without proof that mail-in voting fosters fraud, has threatened to block extra funding that Democrats say is urgently needed to allow the US Postal Service to process millions of ballots.

In normal election years, nominating conventions are a raucous scene, attended by tens of thousands of party faithful and designed to inspire the party's base and lure independents and the undecided.

Democrats had picked Milwaukee for its location in the important swing state of Wisconsin. The

Don will get dirty: Kamala

Washington, Aug. 17: Indian-American Democratic Vice-Presidential nominee Kamala Harris has said that President Donald Trump and his campaign will "engage in lies" and "dirty tactics" to distract from the real issues that are impacting the American people.

She was responding to President Trump's promotion of the conspiracy theories about her eligibility to serve as the vice president and president.

On Saturday, Trump said that he would not be "pursuing" questions about Harris' eligibility, but did not dismiss the conspiracy theories as false. Trump on Thursday said he heard on "social media" that Harris could be ineligible. "I heard today that she doesn't meet the requirements,"

Trump said, referring to John Eastman, the lawyer and Chapman University professor who raised the issue in a Newsweek op-ed, as "very highly qualified."

Responding to Trump's remarks, Harris, 55, said on Sunday that the president and his campaign will engage in deception. "They're going to engage in lies. They're going to engage in deception. They're going to engage in an attempt to distract from the real issues that are impacting the American people. And I expect that they will engage in dirty tactics. And this is going to be a knockdown, drag-out. And we're ready," she said.

Democratic presidential candidate Joe Biden scripted history on Wednesday by selecting Harris, an Indian-American and an African-American, as his running mate in the election on November 3. Born to a Jamaican father and an Indian mother, California Senator Harris, if elected, would be the first woman Vice-President ever for the country.

"What's at stake right now is that we've had over 160,000 people die in the last few months and many of them needlessly ... tens of millions of people who have lost their jobs ... we're in the midst of a hunger crisis in our country. The media isn't covering it so much," she said.

"I'm prepared to fight because this is a fight that is for something, not against something. This is a fight for where we need to be ... We need to focus on what can be unburdened by what has been," Harris said. Harris is no stranger to accusations about her race.

EU calls for emergency summit over Belarus polls

Minsk, Aug. 17: European Council President Charles Michel on Monday convened an emergency summit of EU leaders to discuss the presidential election in Belarus and the crackdown in the wake of the polls.

Noting that the video conference would take place on Wednesday at 1000 GMT, Michel tweeted that "the people of Belarus have the right to decide on their future and freely elect their leader." "Violence against protesters is unacceptable and cannot be allowed," he said.

The 27 EU foreign ministers said on Friday that the elections were neither free nor fair and that they refuse to accept the results of the polls, as announced by the Belarus electoral commission.

of authoritarian Belarusian President Alexander Lukashenko. It was the ninth straight day of protesting against the results of an election that extended his 26-year rule. Nearly 5,000 workers from the Minsk Tractor Works plant, which has been on strike since Monday morning, marched down the streets of Minsk, demanding that Lukashenko step down and cede his post to Sviatlana Tsikhanouskaya, the leading opposition candidate.

The official results of the August 9 vote gave Lukashenko 80 per cent of the votes and Tsikhan-ouskaya only 10%, but the opposition claimed the vote was rigged.

"Lukashenko is a former president, he needs to go," Sergei Dylevsky, the leader of the protest at the Minsk Tractor Works plant, said on Monday.

"Sveta (Tsikhanouskaya) is our president, legitimate and elected by the people," Tsikhanouskaya, a 37-year-old former English teacher, entered the race after her husband's jailing in Belarus. She managed to galvanize nationwide support, drawing tens of thousands to her campaign rallies. Large-scale protests against the vote results continued even after she left the country for Lithuania last week, a move her campaign said was made under duress.

The protests have posed the biggest challenge yet to Lukashenko's iron-fisted rule of the ex-Soviet nation of 9.5 million.

NZ delays election as Covid cases rise

Wellington, Aug. 17: New Zealand's Prime Minister postponed the country's general election on Monday by a month to October 17 as the city of Auckland remains in lockdown due to a growing Coronavirus outbreak.

Prime Minister Jacinda Ardern bowed to pressure to delay the polls after parties complained they could not campaign with nearly a third of New Zealand's 5 million people under lockdown in Auckland. "Ultimately, the 17th of October... provides sufficient time for parties to plan around the range of circumstances we will be campaigning under," Ardern said at a news conference.

The election was scheduled for September 19 and New Zealand law requires it to be held by November 21. Advance voting will now start on October 3.

The Prime Minister ruled out delaying the polls any further, as her Labour Party maintains a strong lead over the conservative National Party in opinion polls. "We are all in the same boat. We are all campaigning in the same environment," Ardern said.

New Zealand on Monday recorded nine new cases of Covid-19, taking the number of active cases to 78.

CHINA GRANTS 1st VIRUS CURE PATENT TO CANSINO

Beijing, Aug. 17: China's vaccine specialist CanSino Biologics Inc has won a patent approval from Beijing for its Covid-19 vaccine candidate Ad5-nCoV, state media reported, citing documents from the country's intellectual property regulator.

It is the first Covid-19 vaccine patent granted by China, state reports. The paper cited documents published by China's National Intellectual Property Administration saying that the patent was issued on August 11. Saudi Arabia said this month it plans to begin Phase III clinical trials for the CanSino vaccine.

Pak Army chief visits Saudi to revive ties

Riyadh, Aug. 17: Pakistan's Army chief arrived in Saudi Arabia on Monday amid a row between the two countries that has threatened Riyadh's financial lifeline to Islamabad. General Qamar Javed Bajwa's visit was "primarily military-affairs oriented," a Pakistani Army spokesman said.

But Pakistani military and government officials have said that Gen. Bajwa would use his good offices to try to calm the situation that if not reversed could badly hurt Pakistan's central bank foreign reserves.

A traditional ally, Saudi Arabia gave Pakistan a $3 billion loan and $3.2 billion oil credit facility to help its balance of payments crisis in late 2018.

Irked by Islamabad demands for Riyadh to convene a high-level meeting to highlight a r c h - rival India's alleged human rights violations in the disputed Kashmir region, Saudi Arabia has forced Pakistan to pay back $1 billion prematurely and is demanding another $1 billion of the loan.

Riyadh has also responded to Pakistani requests to extend the oil facility, military and finance ministry officials said.

The head of Pakistan's Inter-Services Intelligence (ISI), General Faiz Hameed, was accompanying Bajwa, a Pakistani military source said.

Aussies could lose free search services, warns Google

Canberra, Aug. 17: Google warned on Monday that the Australian government's plans to make digital giants pay for news content threatens users' free services in Australia and could hand users' data to media organisations.

The US-based company's warning, contained in what it called an "Open letter to Australians," comes a week before public consultations close on Australian draft laws that would make both Google and Facebook pay for news siphoned from commercial media companies.

"A proposed law... would force us to provide you with a dramatically worse Google Search and YouTube, could lead to your data being handed over to big news businesses, and would put the free services you use at risk in Australia," Google Australia and New Zealand managing director Mel Silva wrote. Google owns YouTube, a video-sharing platform.

Both Google and Facebook have condemned the proposed legislation, which was released last month and aims to succeed where other countries have failed in making them compensate media businesses for news content.

Australian competition watchdog Rod Sims, chair of the Australian Competition and Consumer Commission, which drafted the laws, said Google's letter "contains misinformation."

"Google will not be required to charge Australians for the use of its free services such as Google Search and YouTube, unless it chooses to do so," Sims said in a statement.

"Google will not be required to share any additional user data with Australian news businesses unless it chooses to do so," he added.

Australian Treasurer Josh Frydenberg, the minister responsible for the consumer watchdog, said in a statement that the draft law "remains open for consultation, providing an opportunity for media companies and digital platforms to provide feedback" until August 28. Swinburne University senior lecturer on media Belinda Barnet described the Google letter as a "cynical exercise" designed to "scare Google users," she said.

CHINA READY TO WORK WITH INDIA

Beijing, Aug. 17: China on Monday said it is ready to work with India to enhance political mutual trust, properly manage their differences and safeguard the long-term development of bilateral ties.

Chinese Foreign Ministry spokesman Zhao Lijian said this at a regular briefing when a Western media journalist sought China's reaction to Prime Minister Narendra Modi's remarks that the Indian armed forces have given a befitting reply to those challenging the country's sovereignty. Modi, in his 74th Independence Day address to the nation from the ramparts of Red Fort, said the armed forces have given a befitting reply to those challenging the country's sovereignty "from LoC to LAC", in a veiled reference to Pakistan and China.

Misuse of social media a threat to democracy

Democracy and the life it seeks to assure its stakeholders are under increasing threat of being undermined by the reckless use of social media by vested interests. The threat includes the issue of external forces making a charade of the electoral process. Allegations ran thick and fast about how such media undermined the 2016 United States presidential elections. There are also instances of violence breaking out based on misinformation or deliberate and provocative messages, claiming lives and disrupting normal life of unsuspecting innocent people. The recent riots in Bengaluru is the latest example.

It is against this background that the demand of the Congress party for a joint parliamentary committee to investigate the allegations that social media platform Facebook has been violating its own policy to favour the rabble-rousers and hate-mongers of the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) gains relevance. The allegation is based on a report that appeared in The Wall Street Journal which alleged a "broader pattern of favouritism" towards the BJP by Facebook. The report named BJP leaders who posted hate-filled messages against Muslims on several occasions, including before the Delhi riots. The company's top public-policy executive opposed the application of the hate speech rules of the company against at least four BJP leaders and groups who were "flagged internationally for participating in violence", saying it "would damage the company's business prospects in the country". The report said the company "acknowledged that the official had raised concerns about the political fallout that would result from designating the BJP leader a dangerous individual".

The business model of social media is directly and instantly proportional to the reach of their contents. This will be best served by pandering to and often engaging extremist elements in society and polity who will ensure such stuff gets widest publicity. With little checks and balance in place, the social media has the power to break into smithereens the social fabric that has been woven for decades or even centuries.

The allegation, though denied by Facebook, is not about partisan politics; it's about the sanctity of the country's democracy and democratic processes, which should be a matter of concern for the government as well as the Opposition. The response of the government, however, has been less than forthright. Instead of addressing the issue, Union law minister Ravi Shankar Prasad has sought to level personal allegations against former Congress president Rahul Gandhi and advance a whataboutery that the Opposition was in the dock during the Cambridge Analytica scandal. This denial is not enough. Mr Prasad and the government must understand that no mature democracy would allow outsiders to violate the law and manipulate systems. The heads of social media organisations, including Mark Zuckerberg of Facebook, had been hauled up before the US congressional committee for alleged unethical business practices. India, priding itself to be a global leader, must do whatever it takes to protect the sanctity of the democratic process. Giving in to the Opposition demand would reinforce our democratic processes and enhance the national prestige.

Covid strikes cricket

Cricketer, cricket administrator and politician Chetan Chauhan has created a distressing record as the first Test player to die of Covid-19. The death of a son of an Indian Army doctor is illustrative of the insidious power of the coronavirus to inveigle itself into the human body despite all the precautions a person of knowledge might take against it. His case is a tragic reminder that the battle against Covid-19 is far from over in India and that complications the virus creates in multiple organs in some people, especially in the most vulnerable 70-plus section of the population, are not easily fought off even with specialised medical care.

Born just a few weeks before independence was attained, Chauhan became famous as the diligent yet stodgy other half of an opening partnership with the world record breaking Sunil Gavaskar that helped erase the memories of eras symbolised by the retreating back foot in the face of hostile fast bowling, without the benefit of protective gear of course. Chauhan was the unglamorous but sincere second fiddle who was reluctant to stage the walkout in Melbourne in 1981 just because Gavaskar was given out Leg Before Wicket (LBW), perhaps wrongly. India went on to stage a remarkable comeback victory in the Melbourne Test to square the series.

Having experienced life in Australia for a few years, Chauhan felt the tug of his homeland and returned to daringly step into the politics of Delhi cricket, which is a kind of crash course before real politics of the electoral kind. With his engaging quality of having time to listen to everyone, Chauhan fared well as an MP and became a UP minister too. He may have helped overturn the belief that there is no place for a decent man in the quagmire of UP politics. To serve in public life was Chauhan's credo. As a batsman he was a cricket tragic in the sense that he never managed a Test century, 97 being his best. But he tried for India in every sense under all the hats he wore.

Kishwar Desai
London Diary

Of 'staycations' & cheap meals: Will Christmas be merry again?

Only those who were sensible enough to opt for a staycation did not get their holidays wrecked. Oh, to think that just a year ago we could fly endlessly around the globe. And now taking even a short holiday is like a complicated military manoeuvre, where every possibility has to be measured and prepared for. Just a fortnight ago, people were told to travel abroad to European countries with which the UK had "air bridges". As holidays typically end by the beginning of September, Brits rushed off to Italy, Greece, Spain and France. Now comes the ruling that France is a no-go, as is Spain, which has seen a second wave of infections. If you have been or are in France and get delayed in returning, then you face a fortnight of quarantine at home upon return.

This means kids will miss opening days of school. That is, in case the schools open at all. The Teachers Union is not sure if their members or their pupils will be safe. But not to worry. Pubs are open and restaurants have been cheered up by Rishi Sunak's scheme of meals at half-price if you eat out. As the old rock song said: "We need no education". Cheap meals is all we need! But whether this will be enough to ensure that restaurants will survive is difficult to say - as the subsidies cannot last for too long.

Each society has its own way of dealing with Covid-19. In India we have families bonding even more and the sale of noodles and pasta is shooting up as people home-cook. And many feel it is time to bring back the joint family. But in London it is difficult to keep anyone at home while the pubs continue to overflow.

Like others, the royal family too have opted for a staycation. The Queen, 94, and the Duke of Edinburgh, 99, headed off to Balmoral, their Scottish castle where the weather is, if anything, more severe than in Windsor, where they were isolating themselves. Prime Minister Boris Johnson has also chosen Scotland for his holidays but that is more because he knows that there is yet again a rising demand in Scotland for independence. Nicola Sturgeon, the Scottish First Minister (like chief minister) managed the Covid episode much better than Boris did for England and is likely to win the elections in Scotland. So we are bracing for yet another referendum on Scottish independence.

Even so the government in Scotland did not do better than England when it came to exam results of school leavers waiting to go to universities. Teaching was disrupted due to lockdowns. Schools tried teaching online but as usual the private schools did better than state funded schools. Proper examinations could not be held. So they had mock exams in many parts of the country. The students also have teachers' assessments to send forward with their university applications. With no proper exams, what would the final grades be? If anything worse than the pandemic policy can be imagined, we have had it. The Scottish Education Authority used an "algorithm" which resulted in massive downgrading of students. There was such a furore that the minister had to apologise and rescind the results. Better decisions are awaited and students feel cheated and angry. So they will appeal. With only four weeks left before the university admissions are decided, an unhappy holiday is what students can look forward to. For young people all over the world, 2020 has brought huge uncertainty.

There are many reasons to celebrate or commemorate August 15 — which is also Victory over Japan (VJ) Day, but it gets celebrated much less than the Victory in Europe (VE) Day. In India it is rarely mentioned, though one of the most crucial land battles, that in Kohima, took place in India, which Japan lost and then retreated from Southeast Asia. It means a lot in Australia and New Zealand but not in other places which should commemorate it.

The one good news among many sad ones is that theatres are about to reopen. In a dramatic gesture, Andrew Lloyd Webber volunteered to be a test case for the Covid-19 vaccine because like many, he thinks that until there is a vaccine the problem of social distancing will trouble theatres. He had to close the long-running Phantom of the Opera (which I saw it for the first time 20 years ago), but no doubt he will rebound with something else. But even with their capacity reduced to one-third of normal, venues like Bridge Theatre and the National will open in the autumn. Bridge would show a new play by David Hare and later it will revive Talking Heads by Alan Bennett. The National will open only the Olivier Theatre with a new one-person play Death of England: Delroy. It is an unusual play about racism written by two black playwrights. Art galleries are also reopening. Tate Modern has opened as has the National Gallery. The British Museum and the British Library are back but with limited capacity. Perhaps by Christmas, life may, finally, be merry again.

PM's 'creative solution' for Nagas floundering?

Mohan Guruswamy

The so-called Naga peace talks are now floundering. National Socialist Council of Nagaland leader Thuingaleng Muivah reiterated on August 14 from New Delhi that going by the 2015 Framework Agreement signed between his outfit, the NSCN(I-M), and the Government of India: "Nagas can co-exist with India, but will not merge with it. We are not asking (for a) Naga national flag and constitution from the Government of India. Recognise them or not, we have our own flag and constitution. Flag and constitution are ingredients of our recognised sovereign entity and the symbols of Naga nationhood."

Not long ago I had a conversation with an RSS figure conversant with the Naga issue. He was confident Narendra Modi would soon find a "creative solution" to this vexed problem. I asked him if it meant the dismemberment of Manipur, as the dominant Tangkhul faction of the NSCN (I-M) was mostly based around Ukhrul in Manipur? And the dismemberment of Arunachal Pradesh as the Konyak Nagas, who mostly owe allegiance to the NSCN's Khaplang faction, are mostly in Tirap and Changlang divisions of that state? He didn't answer, except saying wait and see - Modiji has a "creative solution".

Whatever it was, the "creative solution" is now clearly unravelling. The NSCN(I-M) has now demanded that Prime Minister Modi's longtime Naga interlocutor R.N. Ravi, now Nagaland's governor, must be removed from the talks. The severely ailing 86-year-old Isak Muivah is now in New Delhi for health reasons and is also in talks with the powers that be. What can they now offer him after scrapping Article 370 and dismembering J&K and putting Jammu and Kashmir under Central rule as a Union territory? How far removed is Article 371 from Article 370?

The Naga quest for a separate identity independent of India burst into an armed conflict in January 1956 when A.Z. Phizo assumed full control of the Naga National Council, which was championing the Naga cause. Immediately after Phizo took over, the Naga Hills was declared a disturbed area and put under the Indian Army's control.

At that time eminent Indians like Jayaprakash Narayan chastised Jawaharlal Nehru for sending the Army to "pacify" the Naga Hills. Nehru assured critics that the Army would be in the area for just a few months. The Indian Army is still deployed in the region and 3 Corps is permanently headquartered in Dimapur. From time to time news would filter out that the contours of a settlement were visible, but nothing of consequence came out. On August 3, 2015 the Narendra Modi government announced that an agreement was concluded and that its details would be kept secret. Why the details of the accord must be secret is best known to it, and what exactly it is has been the subject of much speculation.

While the details of the "historic agreement" are still shrouded in secrecy, it is believed the immediate deal only covered the territory of Nagaland. It seemed agreed that the question of the other areas of "Greater Nagalim" would be resolved consensually via dialogue with Manipur and Arunachal Pradesh. It was thought the deal would pave the way to an election where the NSCN (I-M) or a successor political party would be facilitated to secure power through polls, as done in Mizoram.

In a paper published on March 30, 2017 in a widely read blog "Indian Security Affairs" maintained by Maj. Gen. P.K. Mullick (Retd), Lt. Gen. J.R. Mukherjee (Retd), a former corps commander with extensive experience and connections in Assam and the Northeast, wrote: "Unauthenticated leaks from reliable sources indicate that points agreed are: A separate constitution? Flag for Nagaland, separate currency and passports for Nagas. Nagaland would have a UN representative, foreign affairs and defence will be a joint subject; a pan-Naga government to cover all Naga-inhabited areas." This is why Manipur is agitated, as it will leave it with just the Imphal Valley. The unabashed misuse of the office of governor following the recent elections to install a BJP-led government lends credence to a certain urgency to implement the deal, as the talks have been going on for almost two decades.

We constantly worry about the Chinese hand at play since the days when Mowu Angami went to Yunnan. But what we need to worry more about is the American hand at work. The first missionaries went there in 1836, when Rev. Miles Bronson set up a mission in Namsang, now in Arunachal Pradesh's Tirap subdivision. But the real impetus to Christianity came after the advent of an American Baptist missionary, Rev. E.W. Clarke. The Baptists never looked back since then and now maintain over 800 churches and have a majority of Nagas under their fold. While it must be acknowledged the missionaries played a pioneering role in establishing modern health-care and educational facilities, we must not remain unaware of the Baptist Church's role in creating a new awareness and sense of oneness among the Naga tribes.

While the armed forces may have learnt from their experience, our political and bureaucratic leadership never seemed to have learnt anything, or worse, forgotten anything. We have since Nagaland's formation in December 1963 lurched from one compromise after another. Consequently, the Naga Hills region - Nagaland, Manipur and Arunachal - have had the most uncaring and corrupt state governments with little to show on the ground despite India's highest per capita development expenditures.

India's long-term security interests, and the steady expansion of Chinese influence in Myanmar in the areas abutting our borders, equally require our military and administrative presence in the Naga Hills as it does a general stability. The answers to these can only be found in new and innovative political and administrative arrangements that factor not just the culture of Naga tribes but the geography of the Naga Hills. Article 371A of the Constitution does offer some safeguards, but clearly these do not satisfy the Nagas.

But a separate constitution, flag, currency and UN membership might be going a bit too far. Will this not have consequences in other parts of the country like Jammu and Kashmir, where a secessionist war is raging, and even in states like Tamil Nadu where regional nationalism is extremely strong?

The writer, a policy analyst studying economic and security issues, held senior positions in government and industry. He also specialises in the Chinese economy.

DEADLY DECISIONS

The decision of the Tamil Nadu government to issue e-passes to everyone who applies is not in the right direction. It will increase the spread of coronavirus in Chennai in the coming days. The opposition parties too are to be blamed for putting pressure on the government to issue e-passes to everyone. The argument by the opposition parties, especially the DMK, that there are no restrictions on issue of passes in other states is absurd as Tamil Nadu stands second in the list of most infected cases in India. The decision to open Tasmac shops from August 18 in Chennai seems to be another blunder by the insensitive TN government. There will be a reverse trend and infections in Chennai will zoom in the coming days when compared to the other districts.

GENTLEMAN CRICKETER

THE PASSING AWAY of former Indian cricketer Chetan Chauhan is a huge loss not only to the cricketing fraternity, but also to Indian politics, as he served as a minister with distinction in UP, associating with the illustrious Sunil Gavaskar, Chohan, with his patience and dogged determination, stitched many century partnerships. As his longest serving partner in Tests, Gavaskar, in his tribute to the gutsy opener, has said, "It's so hard to believe that his laughter and cheerful banter won't be there the next time I go to Delhi." The past few days somewhat have been gloomy for Indian cricket, as it witnessed a brilliant and a gentleman cricketer leaving the game after serving it with distinction and a former opener succumbing to Covid-19 related complications.

Ronnie wraps up sixth World title

Washington: Ronnie O'Sullivan became world snooker champion for the sixth time and at the age of 44 by beating fellow Englishman Kyren Wilson 18-8 in the final.

O'Sullivan moved to within one of the all-time record of world titles, held by Stephen Hendry, and tied the number won by Steve Davis and Ray Reardon.

Regarded as the most talented player ever, O'Sullivan had a tough run to the final, beating Chinese star Ding Junhui in the second round, former world champion Mark Williams in the quarterfinals, and then three-time winner Mark Selby in a spectacular semifinal that went to a decider.

The best-of-35-frame match against Wilson, a first-time finalist, ended up being a procession after O'Sullivan won seven straight frames in Sunday's afternoon session from 10-8 up. Returning for the evening session at the Crucible Theatre in Sheffield, O'Sullivan needed just one more frame for the win and sealed it with a break of 96. — AP

Nagal in Prague pre-quarterfinal

Prague: India's Sumit Nagal advanced to the pre-quarterfinals of the Prague Challenger tennis tournament after his opponent Jay Clarke of Britain retired hurt here on Monday.

Nagal, ranked 127 in the world, was leading 6-3, 5-7, 4-1, when Clarke decided to call it quits in the second round match after playing for over two hours.

The 22-year-old Indian, playing his first competitive match since his Davis Cup encounter against Croatia's Marin Cilic in March, had received a bye in the opening round.

Nagal, seeded sixth in the tournament that also features three-time Grand Slam winner Stanislas Wawrinka, will face local favourite Jiri Lehecka in the Round of 16.

Other Indians in the fray include Divij Sharan and N. Sriram Balaji, who will be competing in the doubles events with separate partners.

Sharan will partner Dutchman Robin Haase and they were seeded number one. Balaji will join hands with Belgium's Kimmer Coppejans. — PTI

Alex grabs points at Austrian GP

Spielberg, Austria: A trying day at the Red Bull Ring with a red-flag interrupted race, but Alex Marquez salvaged points to continue his top 15 run in the MotoGP. Stefan Bradl's participation in next week's Styria GP is now confirmed as Marc Marquez continues his recovery.

Weather forecasts were once again proven wrong as glorious sunshine beat down on the Red Bull Ring for the fourth MotoGP race of the year. Both Repsol Honda Team RC213Vs shot off the line, Alex Marquez and Stefan Bradl immediately gaining positions and joining the group battling for the top ten. But a red flag for a dramatic crash at Turn 3 saw the race stopped, restarted and run over 20 laps.

Alex made another strong start from 13th on the grid with the restart, immediately moving into the top 10 as the field roared through the opening corners. The fighting was fierce in the first laps and the MotoGP rookie found himself shuffled down the order after his light-near start. But Alex's consistency saw him stay free of trouble afterwards and benefit from the mistakes of others, moving back into the points.

United they fall again
Manchester lose another semifinal, this time in Europe

Cologne (Germany), Aug. 17: Manchester United made it an unwanted hat-trick of semifinal defeats this season after losing 2-1 in the Europa League to Sevilla. After losing in the last four of the FA Cup and EFL Cup, United failed to convert a string of chances before Luuk de Jong scored the winning goal for Europa League experts Sevilla.

The Spanish club has won all five of the finals it's reached in Europe's second-level cup competition. Sevilla has the chance to win a record-extending sixth title on Friday in Cologne when its opposition will be either Inter Milan or Shakhtar Donetsk, who play Monday.

Sevilla goalkeeper Yassine Bounou kept his team in the semifinal at 1-1 with crucial saves either side of halftime, before de Jong won it.

With the game at 1-1 and heading for extra time, Sevilla substitute de Jong made the breakthrough in the 78th minute. A cross by Jesus Navas fell kindly for the tall Dutch forward to score his first European goal of the season from close range.

United had taken the lead in the ninth minute with yet another penalty in a season packed with them. Diego Carlos tangled with Marcus Rashford as the United forward had his shot saved, and then Bruno Fernandes stepped up to send the penalty into the top-left corner.

Paris giants train guns on Leipzig

Lisbon, Aug. 17: The similarities between Paris Saint-Germain and Leipzig end with both clubs trying to reach the Champions League final for the first time.

The French powerhouse will head into Tuesday's semifinal match with its high-profile squad, while the German club comes with a team of mostly untested players.

At the Stadium of Light in Lisbon, it will be Neymar, Kylian Mbappé and his teammates taking on a Leipzig squad with little Champions League experience.

Leipzig have almost nothing to lose. For PSG, anything short of the title will feel like a disappointment for a club where a priority aim has been to break through with the European title after years of dominance in France.

Leipzig reached the Bundesliga in 2016 and the Champions League a few years later. In their second Champions League appearance, the German club eliminated Tottenham in the Round of 16 and Atletico Madrid in the quarterfinals.

PSG, managed by German coach Thomas Tuchel, got past Borussia Dortmund in the Last 16 and Atalanta in quarterfinals.

PSG enter the semifinals with the feeling that this finally could be the time they triumph in Europe.

PSG was eliminated in the Round of 16 in the last three seasons, and in the quarterfinals four straight times before that.

Its last semifinal appearance was 25 years ago, when they lost to AC Milan.

"We don't talk about history, we live at the moment. We are here because we played a great Champions League season," Tuchel said. — AP

CHAUHAN LAST RITES WITH FULL HONOURS

New Delhi, Aug. 17: Former India cricketer and Uttar Pradesh cabinet minister Chetan Chauhan, who died of Covid-19 related complications, was on Monday cremated with state honours in Garhmukteshwar, Hapur.

Chauhan was 73 and breathed his last at a Gurugram hospital after battling the dreaded infection for over a month. His body was first taken to his residence in Mayur Vihar before the last rites were performed in Garhmukteshwar.

Chauhan was serving as the Minister of Sainik Welfare, Home Guards, and Civil Security in the Uttar Pradesh cabinet. He is survived by his wife and son Vinayak, who lit the pyre after arriving from Melbourne on Sunday.

"He was cremated with full state honours. The funeral was attended by several bureaucrats and a sizeable crowd gathered to pay their last respects," a Delhi and Districts Cricket Association official, who attended the funeral, said.

Chauhan was the legendary Sunil Gavaskar's longest serving opening partner and together the duo scored more than 3,000 runs, including 12 century stands.

He played 40 Tests for India and was the first Test cricketer to finish his career with over 2,000 runs but without a century.

RAINA TOLD BCCI HE QUIT, A DAY LATE

New Delhi, Aug. 17: Suresh Raina communicated his retirement decision to the BCCI a day after he made it public, the Board said on Monday, lauding the former India all-rounder for being a key player in the limited-overs format.

Minutes after the iconic Mahendra Singh Dhoni announced his international retirement on August 15, 33-year-old Raina followed his mentor in doing the same, surprising many.

"Attacking left-hand batsman Suresh Raina officially communicated to BCCI on Sunday about his decision to retire from international cricket," said the BCCI in a statement.

The usual norm is players informing the BCCI before announcing retirement.

Raina represented India in 18 Tests, 226 ODIs and 78 T20Is in an international career spanning 13 years. He also had the honour of captaining the team briefly.

"Under his captaincy, India registered a 3-2 series victory in West Indies and a 2-0 win over Bangladesh in ODIs and a 2-0 T20 International series win in Zimbabwe," the statement added.

Raina, who scored a century on debut in Tests, is also the first Indian to slam hundreds in all three formats of the game and his centuries were scored outside India.

Dhoni's fan from Pakistan will quit watching cricket

New Delhi, Aug. 17: In Karachi-born Mohammad Bashir Bozai's vow to give up watching India-Pakistan play at ICC events, obsessive fandom follows Mahendra Singh Dhoni into retirement, adding to things like jersey number and disciples such as Suresh Raina.

Travelling the world to watch the arch-rivals in action doesn't make sense anymore to Bashir, aka 'Chacha Chicago', who endured abuses from Pakistani fans while cheering for Dhoni.

The well-known 'chacha', instead, plans to visit Ranchi to meet the man whose sphere of influence spreads far and wide.

"Dhoni has retired and so have I. I don't see myself travelling for cricket again with him not being around. I loved him and he loved me back," Bashir said from Chicago, where he runs a restaurant.

"All great players have to call time one day but his retiring makes me sad and brings back a lot of precious memories. He deserved a grand send-off but again he is beyond that," he added.

The unspoken bond between Bashir and Dhoni blossomed after the 2011 World Cup semifinal between India and Pakistan. A ticket for arguably the biggest game of the Cup in Mohali was a precious commodity but Dhoni arranged it for the 65-year-old, enough for him to "unconditionally love" the World Cup-winning captain for life.

For someone who survived three heart attacks and cris-crossed the globe to see Dhoni in flesh and blood, cricket will never be the same. Now that he is done attending live games, his next stop is Ranchi. "I will go to his house in Ranchi when things get normal (post Covid-19 pandemic). That is the least I can do to wish him all the best for the future. I will also ask Ram Babu (another super fan, from Mohali, to come with me). I would have travelled to see him in the IPL but there are travel conditions and with my heart condition, it is not safe to do so," said Bashir, whose wife hails from Hyderabad (India). — PTI

Marksman MS may just shoot a surprise

New Delhi, Aug. 17: Enquiring about importing a rifle, he once sent a mail at 2 am, got it delivered at his Ranchi home, went to the range and did what he does in anything he tries his hand at.

Mahendra Singh Dhoni hit the bull's eye, fuelling an interest that would see him visit innumerable shooting ranges in the country over the next few years and display his skills in the sport.

The Walther rifle imported by Dhoni, who retired from international cricket on Saturday, is the same model (LG300XT Walther Carabonte) which Abhinav Bindra had used to win a historic gold medal at the Olympics.

This was 10 years ago, when Indian shooters were starting to dominate on the world stage and Dhoni, who is now also a life member of National Rifle Association of India (NRAI), was bracing up for what would culminate into his second World Cup title triumph.

Recently, during an interaction with cricketer Suresh Raina, shooter Manavadiya Singh

● A life member of National Rifle Association of India, M. S. Dhoni owns a LG300XT Walther Carabonte, the model Abhinav Bindra had used to win gold at the 2008 Olympics.

Rathore, who is the son of Olympic silver-medallist Rajyavardhan Singh Rathore, revealed that Dhoni is a pro when it comes to shooting as well. Manavadiya recalled how impressive Dhoni was when the cricketer visited his house. "He has a lot of interest in shooting also. I think he hit the target all the time," Manavadiya had said.

Dhoni has exhibited his shooting skills in the past. In 2017, when a team training session was cancelled due to rain in Kolkata, Dhoni headed to the Kolkata Police Training School and tried his hand at pistol shooting. "His accuracy is breathtaking," Kolkata Police was quoted as saying at the time.

He had also shared a clip of him trying his hand at pistol shooting in 2018.

"He has had love for guns and shooting since a very long time. Now that he is done with cricket, shooting could be his next sport. I have seen many professional athletes shifting to shooting after retiring from their sport and go on to become Olympic champions. Unlike other sports shooting and golf can be played till a very long time," Shimon Sharif, a top importer of equipment for leading shooters, said. — PTI

Simona says no to Grand Slam

New York, Aug. 17: Wimbledon champion Simona Halep will skip the US Open, saying she is putting her health first and prefers to stay in Europe amid the Coronavirus pandemic.

Halep, a former top-ranked player who is currently No.2, won the title in Prague on Sunday.

"After weighing up all the factors involved and with the exceptional circumstances in which we are living, I have decided that I will not travel to New York to play the (at)usopen," Halep wrote on Twitter.

"I always said I would put my health at the heart of my decision and I therefore prefer to stay and train in Europe," she wrote.

Rafael Nadal, the men's defending champion, has also withdrawn from the tournament, but Novak Djokovic has said he will play. The US Open is scheduled to start at Flushing Meadows on Aug. 31.

NISHIKORI TESTS POSITIVE FOR VIRUS

New York, Aug. 17: Japan's Kei Nishikori, the 2014 US Open runner-up, said he has contracted Covid-19 and has withdrawn from an ATP event in New York with this year's US Open only two weeks away.

World number 31 Nishikori said he took the test and received the positive result on Sunday in Florida and will isolate himself despite few symptoms. He and his team plan more tests.

"I have some unfortunate news. This morning, while still in Florida, I got tested for Covid-19 and tested positive," Nishikori said in a statement posted on social media.

Boxer Sarita Devi is Covid positive

Back in India, former world champion boxer L. Sarita Devi on Monday tested positive for Covid-19 along with her husband Thoiba Singh but both of them are asymptomatic. The couple are based in Imphal. "Me and Sarita have tested positive. We are right now moving to a Covid-19 care facility in Imphal. Both of us have no symptoms at all," Thoiba said. — PTI

BRADY BAGS BRAGGING RIGHTS AT LEXINGTON

Lexington (Kentucky, USA), Aug. 17: Wearing a pandemic-appropriate mask, Jennifer Brady walked over to accept the first WTA trophy of her career, making sure to apply hand sanitiser before raising the new hardware overhead.

Brady claimed her initial tour-level title at the Top Seed Open on Sunday, overcoming some shaky serving and using a five-game run to seize control for a 6-3, 6-4 victory over Jil Teichmann in the final.

It was the first professional tennis event in the United States since the start of the Coronavirus outbreak, and no spectators were allowed. The unusual circumstances did not bother Brady at all.

She did not drop a set throughout the hard-court tournament and ceded only 24 games in all. It was a perfect way to prepare for the US Open, which begins August 31 in New York. — AP

Bucks, Lakers in focus at playoffs

Miami, Aug. 17: An NBA season unlike any other shifts into high gear with the start of the playoffs in the league's quarantine bubble in Orlando, Florida.

In a season reshaped by the Coronavirus pandemic, home court advantage is just a memory.

Fans are banned from the campus where the league has so far successfully operated without a positive Covid-19 test. But the price is that players know that the deeper their teams' playoff run the longer they remain isolated from their families and friends.

"This is going to be the toughest championship you could ever win," Milwaukee Bucks star Giannis Antetokounmpo, the reigning Most Valuable Player, had said.
