KCR is firm on new revenue law

S.A. ISHAQUI | DC HYDERABAD, SEPT. 4

Chief Minister K. Chandrashekar Rao is said to be keen on introducing the new Revenue Act in the monsoon session of the Assembly, which commences on Monday. Though Rao has tried his best to introduce the legislation last year, it could not materialise in view of the changed circumstances that emerged in the backdrop of RTC employees strike. The Cabinet had last October given its in-principle nod to the draft of the Bill. Rao has been saying that the government intends to bring out a stringent Act to weed out corruption in the revenue department and to provide corrupt-free and transparent services to the people. He indicated that the abolition of certain systems in the revenue department, which has left the staff a worried lot. However, in a recent statement, Telangana VROs Association office-bearers G. Upendra Rao, H. Sudhakar Rao, Vijaya Rama Rao and K. Prasad appealed to their members to work hard for improving their image. Sources in the government revealed that Rao was contemplating to either reorganise or merge certain wings in the revenue department under the new Revenue Act. It will also pave the way for the government to shift around 20,000 staff from revenue to departments that are facing a staff crunch.

Guard reinfected with Coronavirus

DC CORRESPONDENT TIRUPATI, SEPT. 4

In a shocking development, a case of recurrence of Covid-19 in a patient, who had recovered has been reported from Piler town in Chittoor district. According to health officials, a 53-year-old man from Piler, who is said to be a security person in TTD, tested positive for Covid-19 for the second time in two months. This would probably be a rare case from across the country. It may be noted that though this is not an isolated case. It goes against the popular belief that one cannot contract the Covid-19 once antibodies have developed. Several studies have found that people can be re-infected with the virus despite their full recovery from coronavirus. DM & HO Dr M. Penchaliah confirmed the development with Deccan Chronicle. He said that the recovered person from Piler has once again been infected with the virus. The case was reported earlier this week. Officials informed that the security person had tested positive on June 27 and was admitted to the Covid hospital in Tirupati. After receiving treatment for two weeks, he tested negative and was discharged, subsequently. The patient has now again approached the health authorities when he had a mild fever earlier this week and subsequently tested positive for the virus.

BIGG BOSS STAR ARRESTED FOR TONSURING DALIT

K.M.P. PATNAIK | DC VISAKHAPATNAM, SEPT. 4

The police arrested Telugu Bigg Boss star N. Nutan Naidu in connection with the tonsuring of a 20-year-old Dalit youth, Parri Srikanth, and allegedly impersonating P.V. Ramesh, retired additional chief secretary to the AP government, to protect his wife N. Priya Madhuri, the prime accused in the case. On August 29, the city police had arrested seven persons, including Madhuri, on charges of assaulting and tonsuring Srikanth the previous day in Naidu's house. Vizag city police chief Manish Kumar Sinha said that their investigation revealed Naidu made video calls to Madhuri twice from Hyderabad and also threatened and abused Srikanth in casteist terms. On August 29, a person posing as retired IAS officer P.V. Ramesh called medical officers and asked them to give a medical certificate to six of the seven arrested in the tonsure case.

UK's deal with 'dubious' AMTZ raises eyebrows

N. VAMSI SRINIVAS | DC HYDERABAD, SEPT. 4

The United Kingdom government entering into a memorandum of understanding with the "dubious" Andhra Pradesh Medtech Zone for a manufacturing support programme to fight the Covid-19 pandemic raised many an eyebrow. A recent British Deputy High Commission press release said the UK government had joined forces with AMTZ to plug the gap between demand and supply of ventilators and other medical equipment. But, it failed to answer queries raised by Deccan Chronicle on why the UK government had picked AMTZ as partner when the latter's ventilators had failed clinical trials due to sub-standard quality. The Centre, after giving an advance of ₹14.5 crore, did not include AMTZ in the list of recommended suppliers post clinical evaluation. AMTZ also failed to fulfil its commitment to supply 30,000 ventilators to AP. What is more intriguing is that the manufacturing support programme, which British Deputy High Commissioner Andrew Fleming described as "exciting", is worth just ₹56 lakh.

People seek accountability after row over protection of jewels, expenditure

Demand to get TTD under RTI gathers pace

AVINASH P. SUBRAMANYAM | DC TIRUPATI, SEPT. 4

The demand for the implementation of Right to Information (RTI) Act in TTD has picked up pace and has become a topic of discussion among various quarters, particularly after the temple trust board's recent decision — to place a request before the state government to entrust the audit of TTD accounts to the CAG, came to light. The TTD, which is the official custodian of Lord Venkateswara temple at Tirumala, was established in 1932 and operated by a board of trustees. It has an annual budget of over ₹3,300 crore and a workforce of 23,000 permanent and outsourced staff, with 97 independent divisions. The TTD is mainly dependent on the offerings made by devotees and the trust board is entrusted to spend those funds for the sake of devotees, temple development, charitable activities and salaries, among other things. For the past few years, the TTD has been facing criticism regarding protection of temple jewels, archaeological matters and expenditure. Dr Ramana Deekshitulu, who worked as the chief priest in Tirumala temple for quite some time before he was unceremoniously sacked in 2018, also alleged that some precious jewels were missing and alleged financial irregularities in TTD. Prior to this, one B.K.S.R. Ayyangar also filed an RTI application with the PMO in 2017, seeking information on ornaments donated by 16th century ruler Sri Krishnadevaraya. He then approached the Central Information Commission (CIC) in April 2017, as he was unsatisfied with the reply. Subsequently, an interim order was issued by CIC, recommending TTD to provide information to RTI applicants. The TTD, however, moved the High Court against the CIC orders and said that it does not come under RTI, since it is not a public organisation. Meanwhile, the Hyderabad High Court in a 2018 order held that religious institutions that are not funded by the government do not fall within the purview of the RTI Act. "We welcome the decision taken by the present TTD trust board seeking audit of TTD accounts to CAG. In a similar way, TTD has a moral right to share information as the temple is receiving funds from only the public," said P. Naveen Kumar Reddy, senior Congress leader from Tirupati.

THRUST ON CYCLING TO CURB POLLUTION

DC CORRESPONDENT
HYDERABAD, SEPT. 4

To reduce pollution, the state government has decided to promote cycling, making use of the Centre's 'India Cycle4Change (C4C) challenge' under the Smart Cities Mission of the Union urban affairs ministry.

Three cities — Hyderabad, Warangal and Karimnagar — are among the 95 across India that have registered for the C4C challenge. For the GHMC area, the Hyderabad Unified Metropolitan Transport Authority (HUMTA) and HMDA are providing technical advice. HUMTA and GHMC have decided to implement the C4C in Khairatabad as a pilot project where officials have identified around 23 km of road on each side of the thoroughfares, totaling 46 km, where cycle tracks can be laid. Initially, the project will be implemented on 10 km. The cycle tracks will have signage, road marking, temporary barricading and bollards. The traffic police will ensure the safety of cyclists. Available space at Metro Rail stations, RTC terminals and depots and MMTS stations will be used for station public bicycle sharing (PBS) docks. It is proposed to build cycling tracks of 450 km covering Cyberabad, Kukatpally, Dilksukhnagar, Charaminar, Mehdiapatnam, Financial District, Hyderabad Knowledge Centre and Kokapet.

Govt saving pvt hosps: HC

Court had sought report on action taken against erring pvt hospitals

VUJJINI VAMSHIDHARA
| DC
HYDERABAD, SEPT. 4

The state government faced a volley of questions from the Telangana High Court over action taken against private hospitals which were fleecing Covid-19 patients, unclear reports provided by officials and the death toll due to the disease.

A division bench of Chief Justice Raghavendra Singh Chauhan and Justice B. Vijayen Reddy was dealing with 20 PILs complaining about the lack of infrastructure in state-run hospitals, the government conducting few tests and private hospitals overcharging patients.

Three weeks ago, the court had sought a detailed report about the action taken against erring private hospitals, and the progress on issuing of circular like the Delhi government which had taken control of 50 per cent of beds in private hospitals.

The government submitted a 130-page report just three minutes before the PILs came up for hearing. The report did not contain the information that the court sought. Furious at this, the bench cautioned officers to not misguide the court. "We are not here to say 'okay' to whatever you submit," the bench stated.

Regarding the deaths due to Covid-19 listed in the health department's daily bulletin, Chief Justice Chauhan said: "I refuse to believe only 9 or 10 people are dying due to Covid-19 daily, whereas positive cases are between 2,000 and 3,000. Look at your reports of the last one month... regularly it was the same by adding or reducing one or two numbers. It is to be suspected that something is being hidden and somebody is not coming out with true figures."

"An advocate had asked us to appoint a committee to find out the correct number of deaths. Do you want this court to appoint a committee at every cremation ground to find out the number of deaths due to Covid," the Chief Justice asked.

The bench was outraged that the government did not reveal the names of corporate hospitals which had been given government land on concession, on the condition that they render free medical services of the poor to some extent. The government also did not name hospitals which had been issued notices on complaints of overcharging.

The report only stated that three hospitals had been given land on concession. Complaints against 211 hospitals were received, notices issued to 161 and show-cause notices to 38. Permission to treat Covid patients had been revoked for three hospitals.

The court observed that the government was trying to protect these hospitals. Reacting to the submissions by the medical director the government had conducted a meeting with private hospitals over taking over 50 per cent beds, the Chief Justice observed. "What has happened since we issued directions 17 days ago to issue a circular? On the same day, your health minister made a statement on this. No action yet was taken, why are you delaying?"

The court asked the government to submit its state and district disaster management plans along with a fresh cohesive report and explain whether or not it was going to take over 50 per cent beds in private hospitals. The court sought the report by September 22 and adjourned the hearing to September 24.

DC CORRESPONDENT
HYDERABAD, SEPT. 4

Fewer Covid-19 cases showed up in the Greater Hyderabad Municipal Corporation (GHMC) area on Thursday, with the health department reporting 247 cases in its Friday bulletin. This past week, beginning August 28, the GHMC area was reporting cases in the mid 300s and 400s.

While the number of people who recovered from the disease were 1,02,024, the active cases were 32,994 of whom 25,730 were in home and institutional isolation, according to the bulletin. A total of 62,543 tests were conducted between Wednesday and Friday. LION UNDERGOES MINOR OPERATION AT NEHRU ZOO

HYDERABAD, SEPT. 4

A female Asiatic lion at the Nehru Zoological Park on Friday successfully underwent a minor surgery to correct a rectal prolapse, the procedure turning out to be a little more challenging for the veterinarians than expected.

The seven-year old lioness, Harika, could not be put under general anesthesia as she was weak and doing so could have resulted in unforeseen complications, according to Dr Madhusudhan, assistant director of the animal husbandary department who performed the surgery.

"Because we could not tranquilise the lioness due to her weak condition, it took a while to give her local anesthesia and restrain her before the surgery could be performed," he said.

The surgery, he said, was performed in the afternoon; by evening, the lioness was in a better shape and the pain from its condition would have also come down. "The lioness is also suffering from multiple organ conditions involving its heart, liver and kidneys for the past six months so the zoo's veterinary staff and we had to be very very cautious and careful in performing the surgery with the least amount of stress for the animal," he said.

Hyderabad, Secunderabad and Chevella — where he reviewed constituency wide development works.

He also asked them to refer Madhuri to hospital, citing health issues.

Suspecting that the call was not from the retired IAS officer, Dr Sudhakar called Ramesh and came to know that someone had impersonated him. Dr Sudhakar informed Sinha about the phone call. Sinha said that the imposter set his name in True Caller as 'chief secretary, Andhra Pradesh Chief Minister's office'.

The police said that Naidu travelled to Bengaluru from Hyderabad and later went to Mangaluru. He was taken into custody at Udipi railway station with the help of the Karnataka police. The police also recovered four mobile phones from Naidu.

Naidu tried to throw away the mobile phone he used to impersonate Ramesh during the arrest. The phone number matched with the seized mobile phones from Naidu. The police said that Naidu will be brought to the port city.

Sinha said that their preliminary investigation had revealed that Naidu, posing as Ramesh, cheated some people in the past.

RTI TO BRING TRANSPARENCY IN TTD

Speaking to Deccan Chronicle, Naveen recalled that TTD has shared information in the past under the RTI Act until 2012, but an order was issued later and the temple body was taken away from public scrutiny under RTI Act.

"Any institution utilising people's money would fall under the law. TTD runs on people's money, so the latter have every right to know how their donations are being spent. The implementation of RTI also brings transparency in transactions," he remarked and demanded the trust board to pass a resolution to this effect.

SPEAKER: NO MASK, NO ENTRY FOR LEGISLATORS INTO ASSEMBLY

S.A. ISHAQUI | DC
HYDERABAD, SEPT. 4

Assembly Speaker Pocharam Srinivas Reddy and Legislative Council Chairman Gutha Sukhender Reddy on Friday said they will strictly impose the 'no mask no entry' rule for members, staff and journalists during the Monsoon Session of the Legislature commencing on Monday. All of them will have to undergo Covid-19 tests from Friday and only those who test negative will be allowed for the session.

Addressing a press conference in the Assembly committee hall along with legislative affairs minister Vemula Prashanth Reddy on arrangements being made for the session, they said all steps had been taken for safe conduct of proceedings. Guidelines given by Parliament will be strictly implemented.

Srinivas Reddy said the six-foot distance will be maintained. Only one member will be seated at a bench. For the purpose, 40 additional seats in Assembly and eight in the Council have been arranged. A kit, which contains an oximeter, sanitiser and mask, will be provided to each member of both Houses.

NLSIU-B'luru opts out of CLAT, triggers row

● THE UNIVERSITY opened the application process on Thursday and will run till September 10. The exam will be conducted on September 12 in an online home-based mode. Students have blamed the CNLU for the constant postponements in CLAT.

We have no choice now but to prepare for this last stretch."

With the introduction of a new entrance test, students who wish to study in an NLU will have to take three exams — All India Law Entrance Test (AILET) for NLU Delhi, NLAT for NLSIU and CLAT for the rest. Students complain that all three have different exam patterns.

Law aspirant Samaa said that considering that NLAT will be a 45-minute home-based exam, it has closed the opportunity for several students who may not have access to proper internet connectivity or a set-up at home. "It has gone against the idea of uniformity and accessibility for students, that is part of the CLAT," she said.

Meanwhile, the governing body of the consortium in an emergency meeting held on Friday resolved to request the NLSIU to reconsider its decision of holding its own test. The governing body resolved that the decision is in violation of Rule 15.3.3. of consortium bylaws as all members of the consortium are duty-bound to admit students only through CLAT.

CM to open cable bridge by Sept. 15

MADDY DEEKSHITH | DC
HYDERABAD, SEPT. 4

Chief Minister K. Chandrashekar Rao will inaugurate the cable-stayed Durgam Cheruvu bridge, which has already garnered wide attention. The bridge will be opened to the public by September 15. Only minor electrical works remain to be completed on the structure.

According to GHMC officials, the inaugural was delayed because the electrical material had to be brought in from New Delhi. The material would reach the city by Saturday afternoon and work would resume 24/7. About 98 per cent of the construction work has been completed.

The bridge will be inaugurated upon getting the CM's appointment, which could even be prior to the Legislative Assembly session beginning September 7. However, it would be opened to the public only by the middle of the month.

Durgam Cheruvu bridge will be the world's longest-span extradosed cable-stayed bridge.

Carriageway width: 2X9 m (2X3 lanes) Footpath: 2X1.5 m	₹184 cr Cost	Builder L&T Construction

It is stated that the Durgam Cheruvu bridge will be the world's longest-span extradosed cable-stayed bridge at 233.8 metres, once inaugurated.

Traffic will not be allowed on Saturdays and Sundays and public holidays, and the bridge would be opened to tourists on those days.

The bridge would offer a 2 km shorter route between Jubilee Hills Road No 45 and Mindspace and Gachibowli. It will provide a traffic conduit between Hitec City, Mindspace and Gachibowli to other parts of the core city.

It is expected to will relieve congestion on Jubilee Hills Road No. 36 and Madhapur road. This road which has a number of sharp curves and causes frequent accidents.

The cables being used for the bridge have been tested in a lab in Germany for fatigue and have received approval. Generally, fatigue tests are done to determine the behaviour of the materials under different conditions. The idea was to ensure safety and security of the structure with high precision.

The use of extradosed technology helped in reducing the pylon height from 75 metres to 57. This ensures that the structure does not dominate the local ambience.

Rowdy-sheeters must mend their habits and live peacefully in society. If they display good conduct, as per orders issued by the higher officials, rowdy sheets will be removed.

Many parents are not showing interest in the online classes because of technical problems while some parents are keen on teaching their children.

Interestingly, the education department officials are saying that they will take action against the managements if parents lodge a written complaint against them. However, parents, fearing the future of their kids, are not coming forward. There are 115 private schools in Bhadradi-Kothagudem district and online classes are underway in only 40 per cent of them.

Some of the parents are approaching management seeking relief in the fee amount. N. Someswara Rao, a parent said, "The management should give relief to all the students by collecting only 25 per cent fee. The government should intervene and set things in the right perspective."

"More than the money, the tag of the UK government is what AMTZ managing director Dr Jitendar Sharma desires to have," sources pointed out.

Earlier, Dr Sharma sought to involve Niti Ayog CEO Amitabh Kant and K. Vijay Raghavan, principal scientific adviser to the PM, to project his clout whenever financial frauds or failures were exposed; the latest addition to the list is the British Deputy High Commission.

The High Commission also evaded questions on how the MoU was entered into with Dr Sharma, who has been facing serious allegations of misappropriation of funds allotted to AMTZ and was stripped off the powers to deal with financial matters by the AP government.

The AP government's investigating agencies prima facie established financial irregularities running into several crores of rupees against Dr Sharma following which the government removed him as MD. Buckling under pressure from a lobby at the Centre, Chief Minister Y.S. Jagan Mohan Reddy reinstated Dr Sharma.

All that a High Commission spokesperson said was "all projects supported by the UK government require the completion of prior due diligence checks and implementation of strict measures to prevent against any misuse of funds, including no advance payments and accurate records of expenditure."

The spokesperson, however, chose to remain silent on how the prior due diligence missed out core factors like lack of expertise of AMTZ to make ventilators, its ventilators failing clinical trials and its head Dr Sharma indulging in financial frauds.

The Coronavirus pandemic has changed the way business is being done, especially by medium and small traders.

Earlier people used to invest large sums of money to set up a clothing store or showroom. This has now changed, as people are not interested in visiting markets or showrooms to buy clothes.

To ensure that business continues as usual, cloth merchants and traders have found a unique way to display their merchandise and ensure that sales happen too.

Recently, autorickshaws with mannequins displaying clothes were sighted zipping through the colonies, bylanes, towns and villages in Adilabad district. Through these mobile clothing stores, traders are able to reach out to their customers during the Covid-19 times.

Some traders from Hyderabad have also engaged the local youth from the areas to market the clothes. The mannequins attract the attention of all irrespective of

HARASSMENT PROBE AGAINST
JUDGE STAYED

New Delhi, Sept. 4: The Supreme Court on Friday stayed the disciplinary inquiry against a district judge into the sexual harassment allegations levelled by a woman judicial officer and sought a response from the Registrar General of Madhya Pradesh High Court on his plea. This has become a "practice now" when someone comes under "zone of consideration" for elevation as a judge of superior courts, said a bench headed by Chief Justice S.A. Bobde.

The top court stayed the High Court's order that had given a go ahead to the sexual harassment inquiry against the judge, who was in the zone of consideration for elevation as a high court judge.

The Madhya Pradesh High Court on August 14 had dismissed the plea of the district judge and had given the go ahead to the Gender Sensitisation Internal Complaint Committee to proceed with the disciplinary enquiry against him.

A woman judicial officer of the Subordinate Judicial Service had filed a complaint on March 7, 2018 against the district judge alleging sexual harassment at work place.

Vantage points along LAC converted into 'kill zones'

For the PLA, dealing with kill zones readied by Indian forces will be a first

VIKRAM SHARMA | DC
HYDERABAD, SEPT. 4

Several vantage points along the Line of Actual Control (LAC) in Ladakh — particularly the ridge-lines, hilltops and other strategic heights towards the north and south of Pangong Tso, which are in complete control of the Indian Army — are being turned into 'kill zones' to kill or capture the enemy.

Sapper units of the Army are said to have been tasked with creating multiple obstacles for the adversaries, should they resort to any misadventure. Laying anti-personnel mines every few metres is one of the key obstacles.

For the Indian Army, which has been "playing with landmines" along the Line of Control with Pakistan since decades to deter infiltrators and enemy action, the move at the LAC was necessitated to tame the People's Liberation Army (PLA) of China, which has turned a habitual offender when it comes to trans-

- THE INDIA-PAKISTAN border is one of the most mined zones in the world
- INDIAN ARMY considers the use of mines as essential
- INDIA AND CHINA are not signatories to Ottawa Convention which calls for complete ban on use of landmines
- MINE-LAYING OPERATIONS is a highly risky affair and has claimed hundreds of lives in the last few decades

gressing into Indian territory. For the PLA, though, dealing with kill zones being readied by Indian forces will be a first as, unlike Pakistan, they are not used to encountering deadly obstacles on the borders with India.

Well-informed sources told Deccan Chronicle that with the Army taking full control of many strategic heights around Pangong Tso from where they are keeping a close watch on the movements of the PLA, tactical measures are being taken to thwart the enemy designs. It is here that the vast experience the Indian Army gained over the decades while dealing with Pakistan along the LoC came in handy. The LoC is one of the most heavily mined zones in the world.

As for the PLA, it has been found that they have planted landmines around their posts, a measure Indian troops were also taking, as a precautionary measure.

"Now with the LAC hotting up like never before, there is a need for creating multiple obstacles, should the need arise," sources said, adding that the only period when PLA soldiers have dealt with kill zones is during training, not on battlefield.

Sources said that non-metallic (NMM-14) plastic anti-personnel mines are most preferred by the Indian forces while plans are afoot for creating more obstacles using claymore mines and anti-tank mines among other explosives to lay traps. "The LAC will remain hot for a long time. Therefore, all preparations are being made to ensure that there are no more incursions," sources said.

The Indian Army had placed the single largest order for landmines last year.

The NMM-14 has a shelf life of 10 years and is difficult to locate as it is made of plastic and contains less than 30 grams of explosive, enough to blow both legs once any one steps on it.

At the moment, around 20 soldiers of Indian Army are manning each post, which has two to three bunkers where more number of soldiers, including the Special Frontier Force personnel have positioned themselves.

Customs to probe links between Kerala gold scam, B'lore drug case

Kochi, Sept. 4: The Customs department has decided to investigate the alleged links between a key accused in the Kerala gold smuggling case and a prime accused in the Bengaluru drug trafficking, even as a political slugfest erupted between the Congress and CPI(M) over the issue.

Sources said one of the arrested people in the gold smuggling is suspected to have links with a prime accused in the Bengaluru drug trafficking case.

They said the Customs will move an application in Court seeking to further investigate the man, who is currently in judicial remand, in view of his alleged contacts with the key drug trafficking case accused.

"We would like to know the nature of contacts between the arrested persons in the two separate cases," an official said.

Senior Congress leader Ramesh Chennithala demanded an investigation into CPI(M) state secretary Kodiyeri Balakrishnan's son's alleged link with a key accused in the Bengaluru drug trafficking.

Stepping up his attack against CPI(M) over the issue, Leader of Opposition in the Kerala Assembly, Chennithala, on Friday said it was reported that drug trafficking accused Mohammed Anoop and gold smuggling accused Ramees had contacted over phone several times.

Addressing a press conference in Thiruvananthapuram, he claimed Kerala CPI (M) secretary Kodiyeri Balakrishnan's son Bineesh Kodiyeri has admitted that he had connection with Anoop.

"It is a serious issue. What is the link between the gold smuggling case and drug trafficking case and how is the drug trafficking case accused connected with Balakrishnan's son? All these things should be investigated," Chennithala said.

Reacting to Chennithala's allegations against his son,

Balakrishnan said efforts were on to create a smokescreen on the issue and it would not succeed.

He said Bineesh would not enjoy his protection, if he has any role in any crime.

"Let the central agencies probe everything related to the case. Chennithala should hand over to the investigating agencies if there is any evidence in his possession," Balakrishnan told reporters.

He said if Bineesh is found guilty of any crime, he should be punished. "He should be hanged, if he deserves to be hanged. Nobody is going to protect him if he has done anything unlawful," Balakrishnan said. — PTI

SSR case: NCB arrests Showik, Miranda

MUMBAI, SEPT. 4

After the Bandra-based drug peddler's revelation of arranging drugs for Rhea Chakraborty's brother Showik, the Narcotics Control Bureau (NCB) arrested him along with late actor Sushant Singh Rajput's house manager Samuel Miranda after grilling them throughout the day on Friday.

The arrests came close on heels with raids conducted at their residences earlier in the day by the NCB from where the officials seized electronic gadgets and scores of documents.

The officials had summoned Showik and Miranda for questioning after completing searches at their residences. The action came after peddler Abdul Basit Parihar revealed he supplied narcotics substances to Showik. Parihar was earlier arrested and produced before the Esplanade court and sent to NCB custody till September 9 for further investigation. The NCB first arrested Zaid Vilatra, who is also a Bandra-based peddler. Vilatra's links with Rhea and Showik are being probed.

The officials said that his questioning revealed Parihar, whose direct connection with Showik has now come to the fore.

"The data from seized gadgets will be retrieved to dig deeper into the suicide probe. The documents will be scanned to understand if any of them are related with the case," said an officer privy to the probe. Statement of Parihar and Vilatra has revealed some

HC seeks NIA's reply on Navlakha's bail plea

DC CORRESPONDENT
MUMBAI, SEPT. 4

The Bombay high court on Friday issued a notice to the National Investigation Agency (NIA), seeking its response to a bail plea filed by activist Gautam Navlakha, an accused in the Elgar Parishad-alleged Maoist links case. The HC directed the NIA to file its reply by September 15. A bench of Justices S.S. Shinde and M.S. Karnik was hearing a plea filed by Navlakha, challenging a special court order of July 12 this year that rejected his plea for statutory bail.

Navlakha had sought statutory or default bail before the special court on the ground that he had been in custody for over 90 days, but the prosecution had failed to file a chargesheet in the case within this period.

The NIA, however, had argued that his plea was not maintainable. It had also sought an extension for filing of chargesheet and the special court had at the time accepted the NIA's plea seeking extension of 90 to 180 days to file the chargesheet against Navlakha and his co-accused, activist Dr Anand Teltumbde.

Navlakha, lodged in Navi Mumbai's Talaja jail, had surrendered before the NIA on April 14 this year. Between Aug. 29 and Oct. 1 in 2018, Navlakha had been kept under house arrest.

According to police, the activists had made inflammatory speeches and provocative statements at the Elgar Parishad meet held in Pune on December 31, 2017, which it said triggered violence the next day at Koregaon Bhima in the district.

The police also alleged that they were active members of banned Maoist groups.

MAHATHIR SEES
NEW ROLE AS POWER BROKER

Kuala Lumpur, Sept. 4: At 95, former Malaysian Prime Minister Mahathir Mohamad isn't yet done with politics. The veteran politician, who had returned to power in 2018 but lasted only 22 months, is not giving up fight against what he said was a return of corrupt practices and a roll-back of reforms under his successor, Muhyiddin Yassin.

In August, Mahathir formed the Pejuang (Fighters) party, months after his reformist government was ousted in a political coup and he was sacked from his own party. He said in an interview on Friday that Malaysia's governing coalition isn't likely to call for early elections due to political infighting and foresees his new ethnic Malay party to be the powerbroker in the next polls.

"We will not form a government by ourselves... we are the third party. We believe that we are not very big but we are big enough to play a middleman role in the country; the two-time prime minister said. Mahathir said he believed that neither Muhyiddin's new coalition nor the opposition led by Anwar Ibrahim can obtain more than 50% of votes. If Pejuang can win just 30 seats, it can be the kingmaker and will then decide which side it will support, he said.

RUSSIA VACCINE
'PASSES EARLY
TRIAL TEST'

London, Sept. 4: Patients involved in early tests of a Russian coronavirus vaccine developed antibodies with "no serious adverse events", according to research published in The Lancet on Friday, but experts said the trials were too small to prove safety and effectiveness.

Russia announced last month that its vaccine, named "Sputnik V" after the Soviet-era satellite that was the first launched into space in 1957, had already received approval.

This raised concerns among Western scientists over a lack of safety data, with some warning that moving too quickly on a vaccine could be dangerous.

Russia denounced criticism as an attempt to undermine Moscow's research.

In the Lancet study, Russian researchers reported on two small trials, each involving 38 healthy adults aged between 18 and 60, who were given a two-part immunisation. Each participant was given a dose of the first part of the vaccine and then given a booster with the second part 21 days later.

They were monitored over 42 days and all developed antibodies within the first three weeks.

The report said the vaccine was "safe, well tolerated, and does not cause serious adverse events in healthy adult volunteers".

HK SECURITY LAW
BREACHES CITY'S FREEDOMS: UN

Geneva, Sept. 4: China's national security law for Hong Kong poses a serious risk to the city's freedoms and breaches international legal obligations, UN special rapporteurs on human rights have warned.

Beijing has faced a barrage of criticism over the law, which was imposed in late June after pro-democracy protests rocked the semi-autonomous city last year.

The law, which criminalises secession, subversion, terrorism and colluding with foreign forces, carries a maximum life sentence and has intimidated many protesters into silence.

In a letter made public on Friday, the UN advisers warned parts of the legislation "appear to criminalise freedom of expression or any form of criticism" of China.

"The National Security Law... poses a serious risk that those fundamental freedoms and due process protections may be infringed upon," the rapporteurs said.

The letter warned the legislation may "impinge impermissibly on the rights to freedom of opinion, expression and of peaceful assembly." The rapporteurs urged China's "reconsideration" of the legislation and for a fully independent reviewer to be appointed to ensure it complies with China's international human rights obligations.

They also expressed concern over one of the most controversial points of the law — which allows cases can be transferred from the jurisdiction of Hong Kong to mainland China — and warned it could undermine the right to a fair trial.

off Lanka, 1 dead

Colombo, Sept. 4: A Panamanian-registered oil tanker burned out of control for a second day off Sri Lanka on Friday as authorities confirmed a Filipino crew member was killed in an explosion in the Indian Ocean.

Sri Lankan navy and Indian coastguard vessels fired water cannon at the blaze on the New Diamond, which issued a distress call on Thursday after its engine room exploded.

The fire had not spread to the 2,70,000 tonnes of crude and 1,700 tonnes of diesel the tanker is carrying, Sri Lanka's navy said. "Preliminary information from the ship's crew confirmed that a Filipino seaman on board had died in a boiler explosion," the navy said in a statement. All but one of the 23-member crew — 18 Filipinos and five Greek nationals — were rescued. The tanker was about 60 km from Sri Lanka's east coast when it sounded the alert and during the night drifted 10 km closer. Sri Lanka on Friday thanked India for its support. "We are receiving support from India and thankful to them," Sri Lanka's Army chief Lieutenant General Shavendra Silva told reporters.

Rear Admiral Nandana Jayaratne, the Director General, Operations, of Sri Lankan Navy, said there was no threat of an oil spill. "The Indian Coast Guard saw a crack right under the superstructure of the ship, but that does not mean the ship is falling apart and there will be an oil spill," Jayaratne said. "We will need international support in the event of a spill," Jayaratne said.

He said, "the worst case scenario now would be that intense heat of the fire cannot be controlled, in 5, 6 to 7 days, the hull cracks, ship snaps and starts tilting, you then have to do what is called boom laying to stop the spill, we will need international support to clean in that case." —AFP, PTI

NEW ZEALAND RECORDS FIRST
COVID-19 DEATH IN OVER 3 MONTHS

Wellington, Sept. 4: New Zealand recorded its first Covid-19 death in more than three months on Friday when a man in his 50s succumbed to the virus.

Health officials said the man was part of a second-wave cluster of infections that emerged in Auckland last month, ending a spell of 102 days free of community transmission in the South Pacific nation.

The death at Auckland's Middlemore Hospital on Friday afternoon takes New Zealand's death toll from the virus to 23, with the most recent previous fatality on May 24.

"I acknowledge the anxiety New Zealanders may be feeling about today's news, both in the wider community and also for the family and whanau (relatives) grieving over this death," health chief Ashley Bloomfield said in a statement.

"Our thoughts are with his family and community at this time of loss and grief." The man was reportedly the youngest to die from Covid-19 in New Zealand.

Health authorities did not say whether he had a pre-existing medical condition. The Auckland cluster emerged in a family of four and has since grown to 152, including three new cases recorded on Friday.

It has proved difficult to eliminate despite a two-and-a-half week lockdown in Auckland that ended on Sunday night.

"We have always recognised that further deaths linked to Covid-19 were possible," Bloomfield said. —AFP

Fallen US Marines
are 'losers': Trump

Washington, Sept. 4: US President Donald Trump referred to US Marines buried in a WWI cemetery in France as "losers" and "suckers" for getting killed in action, according to a report Thursday in the Atlantic magazine.

The report, penned by the magazine's editor-in-chief Jeffrey Goldberg, said Trump had refused to visit the Aisne-Marne American Cemetery near Paris in 2018 because "he feared his hair would become disheveled in the rain," although the official explanation offered by aides was that the helicopter due to take him there could not fly due to weather.

"In a conversation with senior staff members on the morning of the scheduled visit, Trump said, 'Why should I go to that cemetery? It's filled with losers,'" the article said.

"In a separate conversation on the same trip, Trump referred to the more than 1,800 marines who lost their lives at Belleau Wood as 'suckers' for getting killed," the Atlantic added, citing four unnamed people it said had firsthand knowledge of the discussions. Trump slammed the report late Thursday, after his aides earlier called the allegations "disgusting, grotesque, reprehensible lies."

"Somebody makes up this horrible story that I didn't want to go," he told reporters after returning from a campaign rally in Pennsylvania. "If they really exist, if people really exist that would have said that, they're low lifes and they're liars. And I would be willing to swear on anything that I never said that about our fallen heroes," he said. "No animal, nobody, what animal would say such a thing?"

However, some critics pointed to Trump's denigrating comments about late senator John McCain, who was captured in Vietnam and was widely regarded as a war hero. —AFP

Biden vows that US will address racism, slavery

Prez candidate met Blake's family ahead of his Wisconsin trip

Portland protest suspect shot dead by police during arrest

Kenosha (US), Sept. 4: Joe Biden told residents of Kenosha, Wisconsin, that recent turmoil following the police shooting of Jacob Blake, a person of colour, could help Americans confront centuries of systemic racism, drawing a sharp contrast with President Donald Trump amid a reckoning that has galvanised the nation.

"We're finally now getting to the point where we're going to be addressing the original sin of this country, 400 years old... slavery and all the vestiges of it," Biden said at Grace Lutheran Church, where he met with community leaders after a private session with Blake and his family.

The visit marked the former vice president's first trip to the battleground state of Wisconsin as the Democratic presidential nominee and was a vivid illustration of the contrast he offers to Trump. While Biden spent more than an hour with the Blake family, Trump didn't mention Blake during his own trip to Kenosha on Tuesday. Where Biden traced problems in the criminal justice system back to slavery, Trump refused to acknowledge systemic racism and offered his unwavering support to law enforcement, blaming the recent violence on "domestic terror."

The man, identified in US media reports as Michael Forest Reineohl, was killed as he ran from four officers on Thursday evening, a spokesman for the Thurston county sheriff's office, southwest of Seattle, said on Friday.

A regional task force was watching the apartment of a "homicide suspect", who left the building and approached a vehicle "as officers attempted to apprehend him", Lieutenant Ray Brady said.

The man appeared to be armed and officers fired several shots into the vehicle before the man fled, Brady added. Several more shots were then fired.

The presence of a weapon has not been confirmed, Brady said.

The US Marshals Service confirmed officers fired at Reineohl, who was pronounced dead at the scene, according to the Washington Post.

The Oregon city of Portland has seen more than three months of rolling protests against police brutality and racism that were sparked by the killing of George Floyd in Minneapolis in May. —AP

"I can't say if tomorrow God made me president, I can't guarantee you everything gets solved in four years," Biden said. But "it would be a whole better, we'd get a whole lot further down the road" if Trump isn't re-elected. "There's certain things worth losing over," he concluded, "and this is something worth losing over if you have to — but we're not going to lose." Blake remains hospitalised after being shot in the back seven times by a white Kenosha police officer while authorities were trying to arrest him on August 23. —PTI

PULSE SPARKS HUNT FOR SURVIVORS
ONE MONTH AFTER BEIRUT BLAST

Beirut, Sept. 4: Rescuers resumed a search on Friday for possible survivors under rubble in Beirut, buoyed by faint hopes of a miracle a month after a monster blast ripped through the city's port.

The cataclysmic August 4 explosion killed 191 people, making it Lebanon's deadliest peacetime disaster. One month on, seven people are still missing.

Hopes emerged on Thursday that one of them could be found alive after a specialist sensor device detected a heart beat under the debris of a collapsed building. "I was not aware I needed a miracle that much. Please God, give Beirut this miracle it deserves," said Selim Mourad, a 32-year-old filmmaker.

Chilean and Lebanese rescuers on Friday lifted chunks of rubble from the site between the hard-hit districts of Gemmayzeh and Mar Mikhael, an AFP photographer said.

"We have excavated rubble but we haven't reached a conclusion yet," said George Abou Moussa of Lebanon's civil defence. —AFP

Macron defends blasphemy, slams 'Islamic separatism'

Paris, Sept. 4: French President Emmanuel Macron criticised on Friday what he called "Islamic separatism" in his country and those who seek French citizenship without accepting France's "right to commit blasphemy."

Macron defended satirical newspaper Charlie Hebdo, which published caricatures of the Prophet Muhammad that helped inspire two French-born Islamic extremists to mount a deadly January 2015 attack on the paper's newsroom.

The weekly republished the images this week as the trial began of 14 people over the attacks on Charlie Hebdo and on a kosher supermarket.

Speaking at a ceremony on Friday celebrating France's democratic history and naturalising new citizens, the French president said, "You don't choose one part of France. You choose France... The Republic will never allow any separatist adventure."

Emmanuel Macron

Freedom in France, Macron said, includes "the freedom to believe or not to believe. But this is inseparable from the freedom of expression up to the right to blasphemy." Noting the trial that opened on Wednesday he said, "To be French is to defend the right to make people laugh, to criticize, to mock, to caricature." The 2015 attacks killed 17 people and marked the beginning of a wave of violence by the Islamic State group in Europe. —PTI

IRAN: REISSUE OF
PROPHET CARTOONS
IS 'PROVOCATION'

Tehran, Sept. 4: Iran has condemned as a "provocation" French magazine Charlie Hebdo's republication of cartoons of the Prophet Mohammed to mark the opening of the trial into a 2015 attack on its offices by Islamist extremists.

In a statement issued on Thursday, the foreign ministry said the reissue of the cartoons, first published by a Danish newspaper in 2005, was an "insult" to more than one billion Muslims around the world.

"The offensive act by the French publication... is a provocation," the ministry said. "Any insult or disrespect towards Islam's holy prophet... or the other prophets of God is absolutely unacceptable," it added. —AFP

LIVING | HELL 57-yr-old draws attention to situation of terminally ill patients after euthanasia plea rejected

Frenchman to livestream his death in right-to-die case

Dijon, Sept. 4: A Frenchman who is suffering from an incurable condition said on Friday he plans to livestream his death on social media as he refuses to take food, drink or medicine after President Emmanuel Macron turned down his request for euthanasia.

Alain Cocq, who suffers from a rare condition where the walls of the arteries stick together, said he believed he had less than a week to live and would livestream his death on Facebook from Saturday morning.

He had written to Macron asking to be given a substance that would allow him to die in peace but the president wrote back to him explaining this was not allowed under French law.

Cocq, 57, has used his plight to draw attention to the situation of terminally-ill patients in France who are unable to be allowed to die in line with their wishes.

"Because I am not above the law, I am not able to comply with your request," Macron said in a letter to Cocq, which the patient published on his Facebook page.

"I cannot ask anyone to go beyond our current legal framework... Your wish is to request active assistance in dying which is not currently permitted in our country," said Macron.

In order to show France the "agony" caused by the law in its current state, Cocq said he would broadcast the end of his life on his Facebook page which he believed would come in "four to five days".

He said he hoped his struggle would be remembered and "go down in the long term" as a step forwards in changing the law. He would halt all feeding, drinking and treatment from Friday night.

Macron said in his letter that "with emotion, I respect your action." And the president added a handwritten postscript, saying: "With all my personal support and profound respect."

An Elysee official said that Macron wanted to hail Cocq's commitment to the rights of the handicapped.

Right-to-die cases have long been an emotive issue in France.

Most polarising was the case of Vincent Lambert who was left in a vegetative state after a traffic accident in 2008 and died in July last year after doctors removed life support following a long legal battle.

The case divided the country as well as Lambert's own family, with his parents using every legal avenue to keep him alive but his wife and nephew insisting he must be allowed to die. —AFP

Ladakh flare-up: Only way out is diplomacy

The fresh Chinese provocations in eastern Ladakh made a region already tense over the past four months even more volatile, as troops of the People's Liberation Army attempted fresh incursions on the southern banks of Pangong Tso but had to retreat as the Indian Army put up stiff resistance. The Army occupied most of the area's hilltops and dominant heights to deter future misadventure by the Chinese forces, that have moved in thousands of additional troops in the Chusul sector, which Army Chief Gen. M.M. Naravane visited on Thursday as part of his tour of forward areas. With both armies having deployed thousands of troops, tanks and armoured vehicles, Ladakh is more of a tinderbox than ever, and cooler heads are needed to ensure it doesn't erupt again. Despite a lot of talk about the Army being given a "free hand" and of the "military option not being ruled out", the realisation seems to be dawning on both governments that a political or diplomatic solution may be the only way out. With defence minister Rajnath Singh in Moscow for a Shanghai Cooperation Organisation meeting, his Chinese counterpart Wei Fenghe has sought a one-to-one discussion on the sidelines, which might take place late on Friday. New Delhi hopes such a meeting, which would be the highest-level physical encounter between the two countries since the crisis erupted, might pave the way for a faster de-escalation process on the ground.

While the external affairs ministry's spokesman on Thursday squarely blamed Beijing for the current stand-off, saying it was a "direct result" of China trying to "unilaterally change the status quo" at the LAC, foreign minister S. Jaishankar categorically said the "way out" of the current "difficult" situation is "through diplomacy". Acknowledging while India and China had a long history which was "very good in some parts, very indifferent in some parts and very difficult in some ways", he added that "this was not the easiest of times in the relationship", given the "seriousness of the current situation or the actual challenges of the boundary question". Perhaps responding to China's overtures to keep trade and commerce on track, after India's intensified ban on Chinese-linked apps and entities, Mr Jaishankar emphasised that "the reality is that whatever happens on the border will impact the relationship, you cannot separate it". He will have a chance to take the process further as he meets Chinese foreign minister Wang Yi in Moscow next week when the two attend a SCO meeting. In a signal to Beijing to stick to the path of dialogue, Mr Jaishankar said at the launch of his book The India Way on Thursday: "Both sides must understand that it's in their own interest to reach an accommodation." With Chief of Defence Staff Gen. Bipin Rawat, among others, emphasising a bigger role for the Quadrilateral, which includes the US, China hit back over US deputy secretary of state Stephen Beigum's reference to Beijing's "outsized" claims in the Galwan Valley, and said: "China and India have the ability to resolve their border disputes bilaterally. We don't accept countries outside the region pointing fingers." If it is really serious, New Delhi and Beijing should be able to move forward.

Facebook's clean-up act

Under fire for promoting hate speech, Facebook has baffled the government and the Opposition locked in a two week long battle by its swift damage control with twin deft manoeuvres — a confident, if anodyne, statement proclaiming its non-partisan ethic and a quick ban on T. Raja Singh, the Telangana MLA and gau rakshak who is a known offender — he has followers numbering in lakhs and has opined Muslims are "traitors" and Rohingya immigrants "should be shot" while threatening to destroy mosques. Hailed as a win by secular citizens, this apparent U-turn by Facebook goes against its own earlier line trotted out by its executive Ankhil Das who said this action risked losing users and would damage business prospects. Facebook has backed Das' freedom of opinion following revelations that she shared anti-Muslim content even if she later apologised for it post the exposé. That had led to the Congress accusing Facebook of interfering in India's democratic process and going soft on ruling party members. By not iterating a policy change while sidestepping specific accountability, Facebook leaves the door open for future violations even as it turns a blind eye to countless ongoing ones — even as this controversy raged, in West Bengal, Murshidabad MP Arjun Singh was claiming on the same platform that a Kali temple deity had been burnt by "members of a particular community" though the priests asserted that the fire was an accident. It is fortunate that the MP has been named and shamed.

Parliament thus lost the chance to make Mark Zuckerberg answer to its people as the US Congress did post the 2018 Cambridge Analytica data mining scandal that resulted in Facebook paying a US $5 billion fine following a year long investigation. Facebook banned Cambridge Analytica. Most recently, it has committed to restricting political advertisements in the week preceding the US presidential elections and will remove misinformation related to voting. It is even going to pay users to deactivate their accounts ahead of the polls. New Delhi surely missed that bus.

Subhani

Chana Kisney Khaaya.. Rasode Mein Kaun Tha?

Shobhaa De

I am in my most aggro Kokilaben mood. Rewind to a highly successful 2010 TV soap titled Saath Nibhana Saathiya, which featured a ma-in-law from hell — Kokilaben. Along came Yashraj Mukhate, an engineer and music producer from Aurangabad, who picked up a line from the serial and turned it into a Kokilaben rap that attracted 2.8 million views on Instagram. Voila — Rasode mein kaun tha? went viral. And I watched it over and over again to distract myself from the blah during Mumbai's most loved Ganesh Festival, which was a total washout this year, because of the Covid-19 restrictions. This is the aftereffect of the GDP debacle, which has set India back by a staggering 24 per cent. Oooooops! I find myself oscillating between Kokilaben screaming "Mein thi? Tu thi?" to mouthing the demented rantings of a television anchor, "Mujhe drugs do, drugs do, charas do, ganja do..." These are the two unchallenged champions of last week's meme fest. I am not the only citizen under unbearable stress right now. Going by the disastrous state of affairs in India right now, citizens across the board are in urgent need of mind-numbing drugs — bring them on! How much more can they cope with, while also coping with Covid ka bhayanak crisis?

I am looking for some soothing peacock therapy. You know what that means, right? If Prime Minister Narendra Modi can seek solace in the company of a beautiful peacock and a couple of geese, hey... maybe that's the solution to India's myriad and insurmountable problems. In the concrete jungle called Mumbai, finding the elusive national bird poses a challenge. Most of us, cooped up in cramped spaces, do not have the luxury of pampering hungry peacocks strolling across our vast lawns. Our beloved Prime Minister lives the grand life worthy of his grand position, in a grand mansion where stunning peacocks and well-fed geese roam. A few kilometres away, there may be undernourished children of jobless parents wondering where their next meal is coming from. There is nobody to feed their open mouths or care about their emaciated frames. Different strokes for different folks.

Our trendsetting PM has already unveiled his many masks. The Covid masks, I mean. He prefers to cover his mouth and nose with colour coded, handwoven angavastrams, that change daily. It's possible that they have been commissioned and sourced from master weavers across India. The same weavers who are staring at their silent looms, with no orders to keep them from starvation. Their livelihoods have been doubly hit, now that our wise and wonderful PM has disbanded the Indian handicrafts and handloom boards, which so far had been doing a stellar job of providing steady incomes and finding markets for our weavers. Without those committed office-bearers to manage the weaving communities spread across our 28 states, one wonders what the future holds for these gifted people? I guess, there is no cause for worry. Our stylista PM can keep countless weavers in business just by himself, going by his frequent costume changes while feeding birds on his property. The elaborately staged photo shoots have enchanted his fans across continents who cannot get enough of his sartorial statements. The professionalism invested in getting the camera angles and lighting are being admired as well. When I first saw the pics, I assumed it was a fashion shoot for the leading men's lifestyle/fashion magazine GQ — the theme being, "Where peacocks gather..." But no! These shots were from our dynamic PM's personal album, to be generously shared with his fawning followers. An apt comparison between this shoot and the one which was widely shared by Haile Selassie, the Ethiopian Emperor, feeding lions while his country faced famine. This comparison was pointed out in a brilliant critique ("Compliant and Complicit" by Sankarshan Thakur, which was published in The Telegraph). The wonderfully written essay made me sigh with longing for those days when journalists and political commentators did what they are supposed to do — write ferociously. And make readers think.

At a dinner for eight (with Covid protocols in place) this week, I found myself sharing a table with some bhaktis, who kept saying they were not bhaktis but genuine admirers of our fabulous Prime Minister. These are successful Gujarati businesspeople, living in tony neighbourhoods. It emerged during the course of the conversation that they read nothing! Knew little about history. And were culturally illiterate to boot. But did they have opinions! All it needed was a few pointed questions about the tattered state of our economy, to get them to start frothing at the mouth. I figured — why waste my precious breath... and switched to a topic they were eager to pounce on — the sensational Sushant Singh Rajput investigation. One of the men present did not know what "ED" stood for! So even that topic was a dead loss. When I mentioned an article in an American scientific publication which stated badly that India "was in denial about the Covid-19 crisis..." these folks changed the topic and spoke about how expertly and ably our Prime Minister was steering India towards new goals, new horizons. It's great to stay optimistic during a crisis — but for that to be termed "optimism" one has to first admit there is a crisis! The same people had sons and daughters in America (their high dollar salaries were disclosed in awe-struck terms by proud parents), who had declared their intention of never coming back to the country of their birth! If our future was this amazing, why were their children turning their backs on India? Jawab hai?

The reason why that silly dialogue Rasode Mein Kaun Tha went viral is simple. At a time when citizens are struggling to come to terms with India's desolate and arid financial landscape, and no salve has been offered by the Prime Minister after the minus 24 per cent GDP drop, all that we have is humour. Black humour! But jokes and memes and birds and masks cannot fight the biggest battle confronting us — a harsh, unforgiving winter of our discontent.

TIBETANS UPSET

It is true that dead Special Frontier Force personnel, whether Indian or Tibetan, do not get military honours (Tibetans upset, say didn't get due credit from India, DC, Sept. 4). But they do get the benefits of a regular soldier. It is for their own safety that they are not 'soldiers'. Foreign-made India maps viewed seriously

NEW DELHI, Sept. 4 The Lok Sabha took serious note of the wrong depiction of Indian territory in maps published by several foreign countries and recommended "to ban all such maps where Indian territory is shown as either disputed or in China or Pakistan."

After debating a motion by Mr. Kal Gupta, which disapproved the action of the Government in "not sending protest note in writing to the USSR Government for showing large chunks of Indian territory as part of China in Russian encyclopedia," the House rejected it and in its place accepted a substitute motion moved by Mr. S. M. Banerjee.

Early childhood education is hit the worst during pandemic times

The Covid-19 pandemic, unprecedented in its spatial extent, has hit every aspect of human life across the world. Political and geographic boundaries have lost their meaning, and even the remoteness of islands have not deterred it from marching ahead. As long as the fury of the calamity lasts, unabated and unchallenged, its effect will keep rattling all mankind. While the divide based on income differentials will continue to determine the gravity of its impact on individuals, however temporary that impact may be in some cases, young children all over are turning out to be the worst sufferers, as recent reports suggest.

According to a Unicef report released in June, there are 28 million children who otherwise could have gone to anganwadis but for their closure due to the pandemic health risk and have been at home for the past six months. These children, in general, belong to the economically disadvantaged sections of society, but it's also true that those enrolled in private institutions, mostly in urban and semi-urban areas, such as nursery or KG schools, are not better off either. What early childhood education intends to impart is to develop social and emotional skills of compatibility and conflict, which won't happen except in the company of other children. Instead of technology-leveraged remote learning, it requires a physical environment which grows listening, speaking and interacting for the healthy mental growth of a child. Digital accessibility and affordability, to some extent, can compensate for proficiency in literacy and numeracy but the overall growth of a child happens best in the company of peers. Why early childhood learning is so important in the growth of children and its effect on lifestyles has been documented in various studies and reports that show that it is directly linked to a child's seamless and confident migration to primary school and further transition to secondary education, a reduced probability of being school dropouts and attaining life skills and higher education. That's the reason why deprivation of early childhood development carries a risk on the lives and future of children cutting across the economic divide or digital divide. On the extent of deprivation of early childhood care and education, another Unicef report says that worldwide nearly 40 million children, of which 22 million are from South Asia alone, have missed out on learning in the critical pre-primary school year as Covid-19 has shuttered all early education facilities.

The new National Education Policy document that was released last month, amid the pandemic crisis, undoubtedly emphasises the government's resolve to give renewed focus to this critical aspect of child development. Though the report candidly admits that crises of children, and more so those belonging to socio-economically disadvantaged sections, are deprived of quality early childhood care, it provides a roadmap on curriculum design, infrastructure development, technology use and capacity infusion. But these are long-term solutions with primary focus on achieving sustainable development goal SDG 4.2, which is about a commitment to ensure that by 2030 all girls and boys have access to quality early childhood education so that they are ready for Class 1 as a stepping stone for primary education.

Every species survives because it cares for its offspring. This is true for human beings as well. A solution to the obstruction posed by the current pandemic is not easy to find. The strategy, therefore, must be on mitigating the effects of this obstruction. On the education front, countries across the globe are grappling with back-to-school plans. Many in Western countries are seriously considering it as a viable choice as they are worried about the loss to society due to missing childhood. In a vast country like India, one solution may not fit all. There will be different solutions for rural areas, urban areas and metropolises for the purpose of restoring early childhood learning. In rural areas, where open spaces are available, active community support will help in organising small groups of neighbourhood children to keep them engaged with day-to-day activities like listening, speaking and learning while maintaining a safe distance. Home-based technology tools such as smartphones, radio, television and cable networks can be used, depending upon digital accessibility and affordability. In urban and metro setups where open spaces are hard to find, the neighbourhood grooming of one or two children by an older person can be adopted for this purpose. Though group activities may be difficult to perform, such grooming will keep children engaged and save them from neglect due to the closure of pre-schools.

Like all other pandemics in the past, Covid-19 will also become history one day, thanks to human ingenuity. But young children who have lost their formative years of learning should not become victims. This needs to be pre-empted by early action. Anything done too late will be too little. The lack of finance should not be allowed to come in the way. A study by James Heckman, a Nobel laureate in Economics and an expert in the economics of human development, shows that investment in early childhood yields better returns and offers a cost-effective strategy even during a budget deficit.

The writer, a serving IAS officer, is director in the department of women and child development of the Delhi government. The views expressed here are personal.

₹1,350-cr buyout routed via MTR Foods

Norway's Orkla to take over Eastern

Mumbai/Bengaluru, Sept 4: The Meeran family that runs leading spices maker Eastern Condiments has agreed to sell its majority stake to Norwegian packaged food major Orkla for over Rs 1,350 crore, the family said in a statement. The Kochi-based Eastern Condiments sells a variety of spices, pickles and veg and non-veg ready-to-eat items under the brand name of Eastern and is the largest exporter of spices from the country.

Under the agreement, the Meeran brothers—Firoz and Navas Meeran—who now own 74 per cent in the company, will sell 41.8 per cent to Orkla, which owns MTR Foods. The acquisition will be done through MTR, and the Norwegian company will also buy out the McCormick Ingredients SE Asia, the foreign investor in Eastern that owns 26 per cent. It will take the ownership in the first step of the transaction to 67.8 per cent for Rs 1,356 crore, valuing Eastern at Rs 2,000 crore.

Later, when Eastern is merged with MTR, the Meerans will exit Eastern by selling their remaining 32.2 per cent and in return will get 9.99 per cent of the merged entity, the statement said.

The deal completion or merger is expected to be over in 15 months.

The domestic spices industry is around Rs 22,000 crore and has been annually clipping at 13 per cent over the past eight years ended March 2020.

After the deal, Eastern will be merged with MTR, and Orkla hopes to double its sales in India with the Eastern deal. MTR, under Orkla, has grown five-times since 2007.

"Following the completion of these transactions, a merger application will be filed with the intention of merging Eastern into MTR," the statement said. It added that "the merged company will be jointly owned by Orkla and the two brothers Firoz and Navas Meeran and will own 90.01 per cent and 9.99 per cent, respectively."

Eastern has seven production facilities in four states and employs close to 3,000 people.

Orkla is a leading supplier of branded consumer goods and concept solutions to the consumer, out-of-home and bakery markets in the Nordics, Baltics and selected markets in central Europe and India.

Listed on the Oslo Stock Exchange, Orkla employs 18,350.

The acquisition expands Orkla's already strong presence in the country's food and spices segment through MTR Foods, which it had acquired in 2007 and is a fully owned subsidiary now. With this move, Orkla hopes to double its sales in the country.

Navas Meeran, chairman of Eastern, said, "Orkla is known for its strong, local brands and holds leadership positions across multiple FMCG categories in several markets. Together with MTR, and as part of Orkla, we will have a stronger platform for our successful operations."

Anshul Agarwal, executive director at Avendus Capital, said Eastern and MTR combined have significant synergy potential in terms of product portfolio and geography.

Auto industry needs govt support: Maruti's Ayukawa

New Delhi, Sept. 4: The Indian auto industry is facing one of the toughest times in history and needs government support through reduction of GST and incentive-based scrapage policy, Maruti Suzuki India managing director and CEO Kenichi Ayukawa said on Friday.

Ayukawa, who is the president-elect of auto industry body SIAM, said the sector has been "set back by many years" by a combination of the coronavirus pandemic and the slowdown that has been going on since last fiscal.

As the global health crisis broke out, he said, the auto industry in India also played its part by getting into manufacturing of ventilators, personal protective equipment (PPEs) and importing testing kits from abroad to fight the virus although sales have been hit hard.

"In August we can say we just came back on our feet to achieve performance comparable to last year. Also last year is not a good comparison as the industry saw negative growth of 15-25 per cent. This negative growth has set back the industry by many years," Ayukawa said at the 60th annual convention of the Society of Indian Automobile Manufacturers (SIAM) conducted online.

Reiterating the long pending demand of the auto industry to reduce goods and services tax on automobiles by 10 per cent, Ayukawa said, "we are facing one of the toughest times in history. The industry needs your support".

"We are eagerly waiting for GST reduction and scrapage incentive scheme. We believe that taxes on the increasing turnover will be more than the government expenditure on the scrapage scheme and GST reduction," he said.—PTI

Voda Idea to raise ₹25,000 cr

New Delhi, Sept. 4: Beleaguered telecom operator Vodafone Idea on Friday approved plan to raise up to Rs 25,000 crore through a combination of equity and debt instruments to keep the company afloat.

The decision came days after the Supreme Court directed telecom operators to pay 10 per cent of total adjusted gross revenue (AGR)-related dues this year, and rest of the payments in 10 instalments, starting next fiscal year.

The fund-raising will throw a lifeline to cash-strapped VIL, which has suffered massive losses, as it has been losing subscribers and average revenue per user and faces outstanding AGR dues of about Rs 50,000 crore.

In a filing on Friday, Vodafone Idea said its board has approved raising of funds through a combination of equity and debt instruments and that the total fund-raising will not exceed Rs 25,000 crore. The company will consider fund-raising through global depository receipt-pts, American depository receipt-pts, foreign currency convertible bonds, convertible debentures or warrants.

The fund-raising plans are subject to shareholders' nod and other statutory approvals. The proposals will be taken up at the company's annual general meeting on September 30.

The filing mentioned, "issuance of unsecured and / or secured, non-convertible debentures up to an aggregate amount of Rs 15,000 crore, by way of public offering or private placement basis or otherwise, in one or more tranches".

Recent reports had suggested that Verizon and Amazon may invest over $4 billion into the company, but Vodafone Idea had on Thursday clarified that there is no such proposal currently before the board at yet.

Vodafone Idea's overall AGR dues stood at over Rs 58,000 crore, of which the company has paid Rs 7,854 crore to the Department of Telecom so far —PTI

Startups come under priority lending

FALAKNAAZ SYED MUMBAI, SEPT. 4

In a bid to incentivise credit flow to specific segments like clean energy, weaker sections, health infrastructure and credit deficient geographies, the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) on Friday included them as fresh categories eligible for finance under priority sector lending (PSL) guidelines.

"Bank finance to start-ups up to Rs 50 crore, loans to farmers for installation of solar power plants for solarisation of grid connected agriculture pumps and loans for setting up compressed bio gas plants have been included as fresh categories eligible for finance under priority sector," the RBI said in a release.

The priority sector guidelines have been comprehensively reviewed and revised to align it with emerging national priorities and bring sharper focus on inclusive development, after having wide ranging discussions with all stakeholders.

Priority sector loans refer to loans that banks need to mandatorily lend to economically weaker sections of the society. With the change in definition in 2015, the performance of banks in achieving PSL targets has significantly improved. In FY20, all the bank-groups (public, private and foreign banks) have been able to achieve the overall target of 40 per cent lending (public 41.05 per cent, private banks 40.32 per cent and foreign banks 40.81 per cent).

The revised PSL guidelines will enable better credit penetration to credit deficient areas; increase the lending to small and marginal farmers and weaker sections; boost credit to renewable energy, and health infrastructure. The revised guidelines also seek to address regional disparities in the flow of priority sector credit. As a result, higher weightage have been assigned to incremental priority sector credit in 'identified districts' where priority sector credit flow is low.

Retail loses over ₹20 L cr business

SANGEETHA G. CHENNAI, SEPT. 4

Unorganised retail has lost Rs 19 lakh crore of business in the past five months of lockdown restrictions. Organised retail too has lost almost Rs 1.3 lakh crore during the period.

The retail trade has been going through a rough path in the past five months. Two months of lockdown was followed by unlock restrictions. Further, lower appetite for non-essential purchases amidst economic uncertainty, minimal footfalls and customer preference of online channel has led to a loss of Rs 19 lakh crore for the unorganised trade.

According to the Confederation of All India Traders, the unorganised retailers lost about 5 lakh crore of business and Rs 4.5 lakh crore in the lockdown months of April and May. Unlock-1 from the month of June did not bring any respite as the loss still stood around Rs 4 lakh crore. By July it was Rs 3 lakh crore and in the month of August it came down to Rs 2.5 lakh crore. Cait had conducted a survey of retailers in 20 cities.

Similarly, organised retail has met with a loss of around Rs 1.3 lakh crore in the past five months as 55 per cent of the business has been lost. These are largely non-essential items, which hardly have any takers in the post-Covid times, said Kumar Rajagopalan CEO, Retailers Association of India. Closure of malls too has hit the business of organized retailers.

Praveen Khandelwal, secretary general of Cait, said, "Many shops have already closed and we expect at least 20 per cent or 1.4 crore retailers may end up winding up."

AI job searches double in a year

FC BUREAU CHENNAI, SEPT. 4

Artificial Intelligence job searches have doubled in the past one year and have been rising in the Covid-hit months as well, finds job search portal Indeed.

Job searches in AI have risen 106 per cent in the past year between June 2019 and June 2020. Despite Covid-19 hindering business operations across sectors and leading to massive job losses, searches for AI-related jobs have seen a 20 per cent increase in the last 6 months from March 2020 to July 2020.

In the wake of the global pandemic, industries across the board are witnessing an accelerated adoption of AI-led technologies in order to ensure business continuity during the changed circumstances. Further, an increasing number of functions is being automated. This has boosted the creation of jobs in the space.

During the one year period between June 2016 and June 2017, AI-related job searches had grown by 53 per cent. In 2017-18, it went up by 82 per cent, 80 per cent in 2018-19 and 106 per cent in 2019-20.

Denial of health cover still rampant

MADHUSUDAN SAHOO NEW DELHI, SEPT. 4

Amit Kumar (27), a corporate executive from Bengaluru, says that when his father got hospitalised three years ago, he had to pay a hospital bill of Rs 150,000. The health insurer reimbursed the money later but after a deduction of Rs 40,000, citing pre-existing disease (PED). Amit blames his lack of awareness for accepting this illegal deduction.

Many, like Kumar, face similar problems across the country, despite the regulator framing clear guidelines on risk coverage with waiting period or exclusions.

As per the Insurance Regulatory and Development Authority of India (Irdai) norms, a pre-existing disease means any condition that is/are diagnosed by a physician within 48 months prior to the effective date of the policy issued/reinstated by the insurer, or for which medical advice is recommended by a physician within 48 months prior to the effective date of the policy or its reinstatement.

However, insurers are reluctant to provide health cover for those suffering from PEDs. They rather advise subscribers to enroll for a health insurance policy early in life, as health issues develop as one ages.

"Health insurance proposals are underwritten based on the health parameters and the health status of individuals. Proposals with highly adverse health status or serious health conditions are commonly not accepted due to underlying high risk. As per the Irdai guidelines, the PED definition is standardised. However, underwriting guidelines are decided by the respective insurance company within the framework of health regulations," said Dr Rashmi Nandargi, head-health retail underwriting, Bajaj Allianz General Insurance.

"In many countries, health insurance is provided by the government and private insurance is opted over and above the mandatory insurance provided by the government. However, wherever private insurance is prevalent, underwriting guidelines are decided by the insurer," Nandargi pointed out.

In fact, the condition on PEDs is another grey area where people have to face difficulties while buying a policy or at the time of claim settlement. Insurers are putting the lives of sick and disabled at risk even during the Covid19 pandemic through claim denials and obfuscations. There are many instances where policy-holders' grievances are either ignored or not even being heard by the regulator.

Abishek Muthian, a start-up coach from Coimbatore, says the Irdai's grievances cell is biased towards insurers and doesn't really do anything when it comes to policy rejections. He was denied a top-up on his basic policy when he needed it most, despite knocking at Irdai's doors.

SHORT TAKES

Hami dominates second practice

Monza, Italy: Championship leader Lewis Hamilton topped the times ahead of team-mate Valtteri Bottas as Mercedes continued their emphatic domination in Friday afternoon's second practice for this weekend's Italian Grand Prix.

The six-time champion responded to the Finn's quickest lap in opening practice in the morning by clocking a best lap in one minute and 20.192 to outpace him by 0.262 seconds. Lando Norris grabbed third place for McLaren with a late flying lap that was nearly nine-tenths adrift of the leading pace, ahead of Pierre Gasly, who was fourth for Alpha Tauri, both men having overcome reliability issues during the session. Behind the top four, Max Verstappen was fifth for Red Bull ahead of Carlos Sainz in the second McLaren and Daniil Kvyat, in the second Alpha Tauri. — AFP

Anunoby rescues champs Raptors

Miami: OG Anunoby drained a buzzer-beating three-pointer as the Toronto Raptors resuscitated their NBA title defense Thursday with a 104-103 victory over the Boston Celtics. Kyle Lowry, tasked with inbound the ball with half a second on the clock and the Raptors down 103-101, lofted a perfect arcing pass over Boston's towering Tacko Fall to Anunoby on the opposite sideline.

Anunoby set his feet and fired, and the Raptors narrowed the deficit in the best-of-seven Eastern Conference semi-final series to 2-1. "I expected to make it. I don't shoot trying to miss ... I wasn't surprised," said Anunoby, who was mobbed by his teammates. — AFP

Babar says no to alcohol brand logo

Karachi: Pakistan's white-ball cricket captain, Babar Azam has told his English county, Somerset that he would not display the logo of any alcohol beverage company on his shirt during the ongoing T20 Blast event in England. Babar, who joined Somerset after Pakistan's tour ended on Tuesday, was seen wearing a shirt which had the logo of an alcohol company on his back. Not surprisingly, it led to some backlash in the social media but a source close to the Pakistan captain confirmed he had made it clear in his contract with Somerset he would not promote any alcohol company logo. "Apparently the logo was on the back of Babar's shirt by mistake and the county has assured him it will be removed for the next match," the source said. — PTI

England set for Iceland match

London: Iceland will forever bear a scar for English football after an embarrassing exit at Euro 2016 to a country with a population of less than one percent than the pool on offer to the Three Lions. Four years on, the nations meet on Saturday in the Nations League for the first time since that fateful night in Nice with the visitors in Reykjavik much changed in personnel and mentality. Only six of the squad from Euro 2016 remain. Among them captain Harry Kane, 27, and Raheem Sterling, 25, are now the senior figures in a squad filled with youth, flair and far less fear than the side that were wracked by self-doubt after falling 2-1 behind just 18 minutes into that famous defeat to Iceland. — AFP

MUM'S THE WORD

Serena among three mothers in US Open third round

New York, Sept. 4: Serena Williams, Victoria Azarenka and Tsvetana Pironkova made up a 'Band of Mothers' who marched into the third round of the US Open on Thursday.

Williams, Azarenka and Pironkova were part of a cluster of nine mums who started this week's women's singles tournament here.

Six of the nine — Kim Clijsters, Vera Zvonareva, Tatjana Maria, Katerina Bondarenko, Patricia Maria Tig and Olga Govortsova — have been eliminated.

But unranked Bulgarian Pironkova — playing her first tournament in three years after a break to have her first child — prolonged her participation with a 7-5, 6-3 upset of Spanish 10th Garbine Muguruza.

Former world No. 1 Williams also advanced later Thursday with a 6-2, 6-4 win over Russia's Margarita Gasparyan.

Williams and Pironkova were later joined by Azarenka, another former world number one who beat Belarussian compatriot and fifth seed Aryna Sabalenka 6-1, 6-3. Pironkova, who gave birth to her son Alexander in April 2018, says motherhood has given her a new perspective on her tennis career.

Only three women — Belgium's Clijsters and Australians Evonne Goolagong and Margaret Court — have won Grand Slam singles titles in the Open era after having children. — AFP

NAGAL LOSES TO BIRTHDAY BOY THIEM

New York, Sept. 4: Sumit Nagal's trademark fighting spirit was on display throughout but it was not enough to get past world number three Dominic Thiem, who notched up a straight-set victory over the Indian in the US Open men's singles second round here.

Nagal lost 3-6, 3-6, 2-6 to the second-seeded Austrian, who celebrated his 27th birthday with a commanding performance at the Arthur Ashe Stadium here on Thursday.

Thiem, this year's Australian Open finalist, had said that he has seen videos of Nagal's game and knew that he has a ripping forehand. Well prepared, he came out with a clear strategy of not giving many balls on the forehand side of the Indian.

"Thank you 2020 US Open. Lots to learn. Going to keep working hard! Thanks for all the support everyone," Nagal later tweeted.

Nagal came into the contest after giving India a rare singles main draw match win at a Grand Slam but it was always going to be a daunting task for him to challenge someone who has made two French Open finals.

Slow off the blocks, Nagal was broken early but the slogger that he is, he kept Thiem under pressure, creating as many as five chances to break back in the fifth game that lasted 10 minutes. — PTI

Murray makes early exit

New York, Sept. 4: Andy Murray said he would keep trying to win Grand Slams after crashing out of the US Open second round in straight sets to 15th seed Felix Auger-Aliassime on Thursday.

The former world number one was demolished by the 20-year-old Canadian 6-2, 6-3, 6-4 inside Arthur Ashe Stadium in 2hr 8min.

But Murray said he was pleased with how his metal hip coped in his first Grand Slam outing since the 2019 Australian Open, when there was talk of him retiring.

"I'm more positive about what I can do in Grand Slams before I came over here," said Murray, who rallied to a win thrilling five-set match against Japan's 49th-ranked Yoshihito Nishioka in the first round on Tuesday.

The Scotsman is trying to rebuild his career after an injury-ravaged three years, and currently sits 115th in the world rankings.

"I feel like I'm back at square one having not played Slams for a few years," Murray, a three-time Grand Slam winner, said.

"I need to build up my body and my physical conditioning so that, you know, I have the ability to back up five-set matches. That takes a bit of time, unfortunately."

DIMITROV TUMBLES OUT

Fourteenth seed Grigor Dimitrov tumbled out of the US Open at the second-round stage on Thursday.

The 29-year-old Bulgarian fell to 66th-ranked Hungarian Marton Fucsovics in five sets.

Fucsovics downed Dimitrov 6-7 (5/7), 7-6 (7/4), 3-6, 6-4, 6-1 in 4hr 50min.

Dimitrov became the second-highest men's seed to exit the tournament after Chile's Cristian Garin, seeded 13th, lost in five sets on Wednesday. — AFP

TITLE HOLDERS TRIDENTS BOW OUT OF CPL

Tarouba, Sept. 4: Defending champions Barbados Tridents crashed out after suffering a six-wicket loss to Guyana Amazon Warriors, while St. Kitts & Nevis Patriots too exited the Caribbean Premier League even before finishing their quota of ten leagues matches here.

While the Warriors secured their semi-final berth outplaying Tridents, the match between Patriots and Jamaica Tallawahs was washed out after just five overs on Thursday. With three teams yet to play two games each and two of them with one match each in hand, the four semi-finalists have been finalised. Trinbago Knight Riders, Guyana Amazon Warriors, St. Lucia Zouks and Jamaica Tallawahs are assured of a last four berth with final positions dependant on the games left.

Tridents' poor run continued as they failed to get to three figures once again, posting a paltry 89/9 after being asked to take first strike. Tridents were never allowed to settle down once Romario Shepherd (3/22) came on as the first change following the first two overs by Chris Green (1/17) and Kevin Sinclair (1/23). — PTI

Messi to stay at Barcelona

Barcelona, Sept. 4: Lionel Messi ended speculation about his future at Barcelona by announcing on Friday that he would reluctantly stay for another season rather than tackle his career-long club in court.

A week after saying he wanted to leave the Liga side, and with a contract row still raging, the 33-year-old six-time player of the year gave the news Barca fans were hoping for.

In doing so, however, the Argentine forward took a big swipe at the club's hierarchy.

"I wasn't happy and I wanted to leave. I have not been allowed this in any way and I will STAY at the club so as not to get into a legal dispute," he was quoted as saying by Goal.Com.

"The management of the club led by (president Josep Maria) Bartomeu is a disaster.

"I told the club, the president in particular, that I wanted to leave. They knew this since the start of the past season. I told them during all (of the) last 12 months. But I will stay here because I don't want to start a legal war."

By remaining at the Catalan club for the fourth and final year of his contract Messi is in line for a 63 million pounds ($83.38 million) loyalty bonus and will be able to leave without a transfer fee.

Earlier on Friday, Messi's father and representative Jorge had insisted in a letter to La Liga that a 700 million euros ($828.03 million) release clause in the player's contract was not valid and his son could leave for free.

However, despite the standoff between the Messi camp and Barcelona and La Liga, the player has ended the impasse and will see out his contract with the club with whom he has won more than 30 major trophies and scored over 600 goals.

CLUBS DISAPPOINTED

The news that Messi will be staying at the Nou Camp, albeit reluctantly, will disappoint the clubs who were hoping to sign the iconic forward, including Premier League Manchester City, managed by his former Barca boss Pep Guardiola.

Argentine pay TV station TYC Sports, which has close links with Messi, had reported earlier on Friday that Messi was poised to stay with the Catalan club he joined as a teenager.

Enrique's boys deny Germany

Paris, Sept. 4: Jose Luis Gaya's late goal gave Spain a 1-1 draw away in Germany on Thursday as the start of the UEFA Nations League marked the return of international football in Europe following a hiatus of 10 months due to the coronavirus pandemic.

Valencia defender Gaya was on hand to score from close range in the sixth minute of added time in Stuttgart after Rodrigo Moreno had nodded down a Ferran Torres cross, in a dramatic ending to the League A, Group Four encounter.

Earlier, new Chelsea striker Timo Werner had given Germany the lead just after half-time in an entertaining contest between two of the last three World Cup winners.

It was Luis Enrique's first game of his second spell as Spain coach, despite being re-appointed in November 2019 just after their last game in Euro 2020 qualifying.

"This team is full of faith and hunger. We didn't deserve to lose and we kept fighting to the end," said Spain captain Sergio Ramos.

These two teams will hope to feature prominently in the European Championship.

RONALDO DOUBTFUL AS PORTUGAL FACE CROATIA

Lisbon, Sept. 4: Cristiano Ronaldo is a doubt as Portugal start the defence of their Nations League title against Croatia on Saturday in Porto and Sweden on Tuesday in Solna. Ronaldo is with the Portugal squad but has a toe infection and did not train on Wednesday or Thursday. He was instead doing "gym work", the Portuguese football federation (FPF) said.

Ronaldo has 99 goals in 164 international matches but the FPF, which has closed its training camp to the press citing health protocols, gave no indication whether he will be fit for either game.

Ronaldo has not played since early August when Juventus was knocked out of the Champions League by Lyon.
