Lokur panel to monitor stubble burning smog

PARMOD KUMAR | DC NEW DELHI, OCT. 16

The Supreme Court on Friday appointed a former judge of the court, Justice Madan B. Lokur, to monitor the implementation of various measures taken by Punjab, Haryana and Uttar Pradesh to curb stubble burning in agricultural fields, which is a major source of choking air pollution in Delhi-NCR during winter every year.

The appointment of the Justice Lokur committee, with him as the sole member, was opposed by the Centre, but the court rejected the Centre's attempts to stall the committee's formation.

The Centre's resistance to Justice Lokur's appointment appears rooted in his addressing seminars and writing articles on free speech and the importance of dissent in democracy, that is seen as under stress due to questionable State actions.

Saying they were not inclined to take an assessment of the effectiveness of measures taken by the three states to curb stubble burning, Chief Justice Sharad A. Bobde, heading a three-judge bench that included Justices A.S. Bopanna and V. Ramasubramanian, said: "Nonetheless, it is necessary there must be some monitoring of stubble burning with a view to its prevention before it assumes abnormal proportions." "We are only concerned about the citizens of Delhi NCR (national capital region) being able to breathe in fresh clean air," said Chief Justice Bobde in the course of the hearing.

AIADMK exhorts cadre to ensure 2021 poll victory

DC CORRESPONDENT with agency inputs CHENNAI, OCT. 16

The AIADMK on Friday exhorted cadres to take a vow to see that the party wins the 2021 Assembly polls for the third time in a row, a "historic feat," to ensure it holds the reins of power during its golden jubilee celebrations (2021-22) and work towards it from now on. Sounding the bugle for Assembly polls due next April-May, AIADMK top leaders O. Panneerselvam and Edappadi K. Palaniswami said, "2021 will be a very important year for all of us."

On the eve of the party's foundation day celebrations, the two of them, in a letter to party workers, recalled the electoral success reaped by party founder M.G. Ramachandran and late supreme J. Jayalalithaa and emphasised hard work to reprise victories. "Let us make the historic achievement of AIADMK remaining in the seat of power during its golden jubilee celebrations," they said and exhorted cadres to start work right from today.

Jayalalithaa had vowed in 2015 that the party would be in power during the centenary celebrations (2016-17) of party founder leader

MGR (1917-87) and she fulfilled her vow, they said and wanted party workers to take a similar pledge to see the party in power during the its jubilee fete.

Hailing the sacrifices of scores of cadres since its inception, Palaniswami and Panneerselvam said: "Let us start a new journey towards the golden jubilee year. Let us take a vow for continuance of the golden rule of the party."

The AIADMK was founded on October 17, 1972, by its iconic leader Ramachandran and the golden jubilee celebrations due between 2021 and 2022.

Popularly known as MGR, Ramachandran became the Chief Minister in 1977 and was in power till his death in 1987.

Govt will fix right age of marriage for girls: PM

DC CORRESPONDENT NEW DELHI, OCT. 16

Amid the alarming fact that India and China together contribute to 90 per cent of 1.2 million missing female births annually worldwide, mainly due to gender-biased sex selection, considered among the main reasons for the still prevalent child marriages in the country, Prime Minister Narendra Modi said Friday that the government will fix the "right age" of marriage as soon as a high-level panel submits its report.

"Discussions are underway to decide the right age for marriage of our daughters. From across the country, daughters have written to me asking why the concerned committee has not given its decision yet. I assure you that as soon as the report comes, the government will act on it," Mr Modi said at an event to release a commemorative Rs 75 coin to mark the 75th anniversary of India's long-standing ties with the Food and Agriculture Organisation of the UN.

He also spoke of the steps taken for women's health and hygiene. "We are taking appropriate actions for our daughters' well-being. Through Jal Jeevan Mission, work is going on to provide water to every

Sexual assault on girl: Parents get life term

Coimbatore, Oct. 16: A court here on Friday sentenced a man to life imprisonment for repeatedly sexually assaulting his minor daughter and also awarded life sentence to his wife for remaining silent over the incident.

Delivering the judgment, Pocco judge J. Radhika imposed a fine of ₹1,000 on the parents. The judge also directed the state government to pay a solatium of ₹5 lakh to the girl.

The prosecution case was that the 46-year-old man, working in a coconut farm, sexually assaulted his 14-year-old daughter repeatedly at Anamalai in the district.

Despite narrating the incident to the mother, she kept quiet, following which the man continued the sexual assault.

Now, Badagas in UN's Indigenous Peoples data base

Indigenous Mountain Peoples are defined by the UN based on the following criteria:

"The period they have been living in a specific territory; their cultural distinctiveness including exclusive language, social organization, religion and spiritual values, modes of production, laws and institutions; self-identification, as well as recognition by other groups, or by state authorities, as a distinct community and a history of struggle and exploitation. Their continued inhabitation, at least part of the year on a mountain, their continued use of traditional food systems around mountain ecosystems, and their clear connection to a particular mountain or range."

Based on these criteria, the Nilgiri Documentation Centre (NDC), a local research body with nearly four decades of work, submitted the case of the Badagas of the Nilgiris for inclusion in the World's Indigenous Peoples Data Base, with all necessary supporting evidence and documents. The UNMP has accepted the application of the NDC and included the Badaga community in their Data Base of World's Indigenous Peoples, he noted and added that UNESCO has already included the Badaga language (which has no script) as 'Definitely Endangered' in the Unesco atlas of the 'World's Languages in Danger'.

Passenger traffic increases at Chennai airport

P.A. JEBARAJ | DC
CHENNAI, OCT. 16

Five months after domestic flights resumed operation in the country during lockdown, the Chennai airport has seen an increase in the number of travellers.

Officials of the Airports Authority of India (AAI) said when domestic flights were resumed in the last week of May, an average of 1,500 passengers travelled a day. Only about 50 flights were allowed in a day as the state government had put a cap of only 25 Chennai-bound flights. In June and August, the flights to other cities within the state went up, and nearly 100 flights were handled at the airport daily.

In September, when the Central government lifted restrictions on e-passes across the country, the number of passengers arriving from other places in Tamil Nadu to the Chennai airport went up, with nearly 160 flights, incoming and outgoing. Thursday alone, Chennai airport had 15, 350 footfalls. This number is the highest since the resumption of flights. But passenger flow from other states decreased as the TN government made e-pass mandatory for the Inter-state travellers.

The AAI had been hoping the state government will cancel e-pass for Inter-state travellers as, it will increase the air traffic to some extent.

TAEI helps reduce trauma of road accident deaths

T. SUDHEESH | DC
CHENNAI, OCT. 16

The Tamil Nadu Accident and Emergency Care Initiative (TAEI), introduced by the state government for effective trauma care in hospitals, has been playing a crucial role in the target of the government to reduce road accident death toll by 50 per cent by 2023.

Introduced in 2016 after Tamil Nadu became one of the top states which reports high number of road accident deaths every year, TAEI has helped to bring down death toll from 17,500 in 2017 to 10,500 last year.

On the occasion of World Trauma Day on Saturday, DC takes a look at how effective are the trauma care centres in achieving the target.

M. Selvakumar, state head, VK EMRI, said 80 TAEI centres including 24 in medical college hospitals, are currently working effectively across the state. Apart from this, as many as 1,200 '108' ambulances are helping to make trauma care available to accident victims during the golden hour (first 60 minutes).

"We are working hard to achieve the goal. And we are seeing the results. In the first step, we identified the accident hotspots with the support of many departments in the government and institutions including IIT-M. The state 108 ambulances outsourced to GVK-EMRI picked at least 100 cases of trauma every day from across the state in the post-lockdown period."

An audit by the health department revealed that more than 70 per cent of accidents happened on 8 per cent of roads, particularly highways, and deaths happened because accident victims were not able to reach hospitals and receive first aid. To reduce travel time, the state has set up emergency and trauma centres equipped

TRAUMA CARE MANAGEMENT STEPS

1. Primary assessment – Diagnosis of life-threatening injuries.
2. Damage control resuscitation – Treatment of shock and severe injuries.

Both are performed together which avoids loss of valuable moments of the golden hour essential for the patient's survival.

Resuscitation should be initiated simultaneously as the primary assessment is done which includes replacement of the blood loss in the injury with blood, blood products or blood substitutes.

As the resuscitation process is done simultaneously the immediate life-threatening injuries including brain injury and bleeding are identified.

Cases of abdominal or chest injuries especially with internal bleeding will require immediate surgical intervention to save the life and consequence of prolonged hypovolemic shock.

Complications from shock may occur if the person is not managed appropriately and expeditiously in the golden hour.

with ventilators, defibrillators and other lifesaving equipment, besides doctors and nurses on duty round the clock. These centres within 10 minutes of the accident spot act as a hub before the patient is taken to a tertiary centre, he said.

At the tertiary care centre patients are given treatment free of cost. They can move to a private hospital empanelled under the state health insurance scheme and continue free treatment.

An official working with the TAEI centre agreed that only effective trauma care and increasing number of TAEI centres can bring down deaths.

"TAEI centres are working in a systematic manner. As per protocol, ambulance technicians must alert a staff nurse before arrival. This pre-arrival intimation helps us keep a team ready for the critically ill," he said.

Dr Ramprasad J, head and director of Trauma, MIOT Hospital, Chennai explained the significance of the golden hour and ways to provide effective emergency care to victims.

"It is an established fact that chances of survival of the injured person are higher if they receive emergency medical care in the shortest period. The golden hour after a traumatic injury is the most crucial period that determines the patient's outcome. But unfortunately, in India, victims are unable to reach the right hospital within the golden hour due to lack of awareness and proper rescue facilities. As a progressive society, it is our collective social responsibility to be aware of this 'golden hour concept' which includes field triage guidelines, emergency medical services and rescue and transportation of trauma victims to tertiary care centre within the golden hour. We as a community should partner and associate with trauma care providers to save as many lives of people in our country," he said.

The National Crime Records Bureau (NCRB) data states that a total of 4,21,104 people died in accidents in the country in 2019. During the same year, a total of 4,37,396

Gadkari lauds TN's efforts to reduce road mishaps

Amaravati, Oct 16: Lauding the Tamil Nadu government's efforts at reducing road accidents and related fatalities, Union minister for road transport and highways Nitin Gadkari on Friday asked other states to take it as an example and work on a mission mode to decrease the mishaps and deaths. Gadkari said five lakh road accidents were happening in the country, resulting in the death of at least 1.5 lakh people every year. "Give highest priority to saving the lives of people. We have to reduce the number of accidents. This is very important," he said, addressing a virtual event from New Delhi wherein he dedicated several road development projects in Andhra Pradesh to the nation. "I am personally very much sensitive and will support you in this mission," Gadkari observed. The Union Minister pointed out that the Tamil Nadu government successfully reduced the road accidents and deaths by 25 per cent. "If you plan and take measures...there is a good example of Tamil Nadu. At the same time, World Bank and Asian Development Bank are helping us. They are ready to sanction Rs 14,000 crore for improving road engineering for black spots," Gadkari said.—PTI cases of road accidents were reported which left 4,39,262 persons injured and caused 1,54,732 deaths. The highest deaths were reported in Tamil Nadu, Madhya Pradesh, Uttar Pradesh, Karnataka and Kerala among young adult males in the 15-39 age group.

A brief lowdown on Navarathri celebrations amid Covid scare

B. VIJAYALAKSHMI | DC
CHENNAI, OCT. 16

Not many enquiries were made about new model of Kolu dolls arriving for this Navarathri festival, say artisans.

Footfall of Kolu shoppers to places like Mylapore and Nanganallur fell drastically this year.

Only a limited number of dolls hit the market because production had been suspended for a few months due to Covid outbreak.

Sales of Kolu dolls average, say shop-keepers.

People, reluctant to visit stores, preferred buying dolls online.

Online sale of dolls, Thamboolam and return gifts picked up this time. Many have readied hand-made masks for their Kolu guests.

Chennaiites have decided to limit the number of invites to their Kolu and keep hand sanitizers at the entrance of their homes.

Virtual Kolu contests have been organised among family and friends with participants sharing their Kolu photos or videos on social media platforms.

In apartments and gated communities, special virtual meetings have been planned to showcase dolls to all residents.

Some people have scaled down their 7-step Kolu to five or three as they cannot invite all their family and friends this time.

United colours of a protest to protect Anna University

G. Babu Jayakumar

Just spamming

Just as distant drum beats for the electoral battle in the state wait in, a strange thing is happening. Political parties of various persuasions and hues have joined hands to fight for a single cause. Stranger still is the coming together of the ruling party and the Opposition parties, presenting a unique united colours that point to the state's quintessential political milieu in which reservation is sacrosanct.

The apparent objective of the loosely united league of political parties, which incidentally does not include the BJP alone, is to 'save Anna University' and their common bogeyman is the Vice Chancellor of the university M. K. Surappa. Of course, Surappa began his innings as the Vice Chancellor of the prestigious university in April 2018 on a note of public dissent.

There was widespread resentment in the state's political and academic circles over his appointment as he was from outside the state. Some political parties even wondered if there were no academics in the state fit for the job. He once again faced flak in September 2019 when he sought to include Bhagavad Gita and Upanishads in the curriculum for B. Tech students. Beating a hasty retreat after protests, Surappa, while justifying the inclusion of religious texts as subjects of study, said that it was only optional.

Whatever it was, the public perception about the Vice Chancellor of the biggest university in the state with 571 affiliated colleges is that he is an outsider. So when a news report appeared in an English daily broadly accusing him of trying to get the Institute of Eminence (IoE) status for Anna University without the state government's knowledge, all hell broke loose.

Political parties vied with one another to slam Surappa for trying to sell off the university to the Centre. Statements issued to the media by political leaders ran to pages. They

Whatever it was, the public perception about the Vice Chancellor of the biggest university in the state with 571 affiliated colleges is that he is an outsider. So when a news report appeared in an English daily broadly accusing him of trying to get the Institute of Eminence (IoE) status for Anna University without the state government's knowledge, all hell broke loose.

Political parties vied with one another to slam Surappa for trying to sell off the university to the Centre. Statements issued to the media by political leaders ran to pages. They all hit out at a man who was scheming, working in tandem with the Centre, going beyond his brief, endangering the educational prospects of future generations of students from Tamil Nadu and most importantly wrecking social justice.

Everyone who spoke about the purported indiscipline of the Vice Chancellor in not keeping the state government in the loop with regard to his communications with the Centre and Union human resources ministry with a view to elevating the university to an Institute of Eminence pointed to the possibility, or rather the certainty, of the 69 per cent reservation, now being followed by the university in admissions and recruitments, going away if Surappa has his way.

The bogey resonated well with the people in the state, who are watching the state's political parties wrangling with despair over getting OBC reservation in admissions for medical and dental courses on the seats given to the Centre for its 'All India Quota.' The Centre, at the slightest opportunity, would rob the Backward Classes of their privileges and rights is the public perception. So, the fear of Anna University going into the hands of the Central government was dreaded by one and all. Sensing the mood almost every political party jumped the bandwagon and expressed their displeasure over the way Surappa was conducting himself. In fact they all wanted him to be out. The DMK even held a protest with its Youth Wing and Students' Wing members raising slogans in front of Anna University and at venues across the state, demanding the ouster of Surappa.

But actually it is the ruling AIADMK that wants Surappa out. Not just because he went against conventions in corresponding with the Central government but because he played spoilsport on the bonanza that it offered to all students having arrears in their respective courses. The government announcement that was purportedly made as part of the concessions given to students in view of the lockdown exempted lakhs and lakhs of students who had failed in the examinations from clearing the papers.

The manner in which the announcement was received with posters hailing the Chief Minister and so on, the move would have definitely gone down well as a vote-getter for the ruling party. Students who did not have to burn the midnight oil to clear all those arrear papers that they had piled up over the years and their dear ones would have voted for the party in the next elections.

But the Vice Chancellor ensured that the All-India Council for Technical Education (AICTE) intervened and took a stand against letting students having arrears getting their degrees. Also there is a case pending in court against the government move. So the government was not happy with the Vice Chancellor's style of functioning.

Another irritant for the government, or the ruling party, is that the Bill passed in the state Assembly bifurcating Anna University has not been signed by the Governor. The process that would have created a unitary university with a few prestigious institutions attached to it and a separate affiliating university out of the present Anna University was against Surappa's liking.

There is reason to believe that Surappa put pressure on the Governor not to give his nod. So, the ruling party wanted to discredit him. But to its advantage all opposition parties took its line unlike normal instances when an official not liked by the government would be the Opposition's favourite. That is because the fear of losing reservation in Anna University was effectively evoked through the Institute of Eminence bogey.

Members of SFI and AISF stage a demonstration to 'save' Anna University in the city on Friday.

Don't want IoE status for Anna varsity: Minister

DC CORRESPONDENT
CHENNAI, OCT 16

Higher education minister K. P. Anbalagan said that action would be taken against Anna University Vice Chancellor M K Surappa based on the response to the explanation that had been sought from him on his correspondence with the Centre without the state governments' knowledge.

Speaking to the media at Dharmapuri, the minister made it clear that the government did not want the Institute of Eminence (IoE) status for Anna University as it would hamper the implementation of 69 per cent reservation in admissions.

Besides, going for the IoE status would tantamount to increasing the fee, entry of students from outside the state in large numbers and also the introduction of entrance examinations. The government did not want any of these things to happen.

If there could be another benefit to the university through the IoE status then the state government was prepared to provide them with its own funds, the Minister said.

He said the government was above the Vice Chancellor, whose term was for just three years, Anbalagan said.

Reacting to the minister's statement, DMK president M. K. Stalin urged the government to recommend to the Governor the immediate dismissal of Surappa.

In a Facebook post, Stalin said the government had made the announcement on not going in for the IoE only after the DMK organized a protest through its Youth Wing and Students' Wing members.

The decision should be conveyed to the Centre openly through a letter immediately, Stalin said.

₹82K, 150 paddy bags seized in DPC raid*R. VALAYAPATHY | DC TIRUVARUR, OCT 16

The Vigilance and Anti-corruption wing police seized unaccounted money of ₹82,000 and 150 bags of paddy from a TNCS Corporation-run direct purchase centre (DPC) at Kannaarappettai near Mannargudi in the district, on Thursday.

Kuruvai harvesting is going on full swing across the district and farmers who carried their paddy to the direct purchase centres alleged that TNCS officials who managed the DPCs were demanding ₹40 per bag as commission from farmers.

Based on the complaints of the farmers, vigilance and anti-corruption wing police led by Tiruvapur district DSP Nandagopal, raided the DPC at Kannaarappettai and seized unaccounted money of Rs 32,000 from the clerk and another ₹50,000 from a lorry driver who parked his vehicle inside the DPC. Police also seized 150 bags of paddy from the same lorry, which was allegedly taken from the open paddy storage point at Ashesam.

Police alerted the TNCS and food security officials in the district, who are now holding an enquiry with the DPC staff and at the open paddy storage point at Ashesam.

Meanwhile, a group of DMK men led by Tiruvapur district DMK secretary Poondi Kalaivanan MLA staged a demonstration in front of the DPC at Kannaarappettai on Friday, demanding immediate resignation of food minister R Kamaraj, owning moral responsibility of Thursday's cash seizure.

Kalaivanan told newsmen that in every DPC, 600 bags of paddy were being illegally snatched away from farmers per day, and the same brought to the DPCs for re-sale. Although thousands of paddy bags were stagnant across all DPCs in the district, DPC officials give priority for purchase of paddy from other districts, and also demand ₹40 as commission per bag of paddy from farmers.

Kalavanan appealed to Chief Minister Palaniswami to take action against food minister Kamaraj or at least change his portfolio, and take steps to purchase the stagnated paddy in the DPCs all over the region.

Is BJP planning to go it alone?*G. BABU JAYAKUMAR & D. SEKAR | DC CHENNAI, OCT 16

Is the BJP planning to contest the 2021 Assembly elections in the State on its own? This was the doubt one had after listening to the party national general secretary C. T. Ravi, who was in Chennai to attend a high-level meeting at the party headquarters on Friday. Prior to the meeting, Ravi told the media that the party was strong enough to contest in all the 234 constituencies in the state, which sounded more like an indication that it would try its luck by going it alone instead of fighting the election as a minor ally of the AIADMK that has already finalized its CM candidate.

Earlier, the BJP state president L. Murugan, speaking to the media at the party office, defended the actions of Anna University Vice Chancellor M K Surappa, thus taking a stand diametrically opposite to that of the AIADMK-run government. Murugan said that no one had the right to interfere in the work of Surappa as he had the powers to take his own decisions and also write letters and added that some people were preventing him from working independently.

Those statements put the BJP and AIADMK on a collision course since the latter has been making an issue out of Surappa's alleged insubordination to the State government and had even sought an explanation from him. Murugan also said that after obtaining Institute of Eminence (IoE) status, Anna University would not have to give up its 69 per cent reservation policy. It was a wrong inference, he said, contradicting the AIADMK's claim that the university would lose its rights on the reservation issue if it was elevated to the IoE level. Even Ravi touched about the reservation issue, attacking the DMK. He said the BJP was not against reservation as the DMK had been campaigning. Neither was the party against Tamil language and culture as the DMK claimed, he said.

Prime Minister Narendra Modi respected Tamil and Tamil people, Ravi said, adding that persons like Nirmala See-tharaman and Tamilisai Soundararajan had been respected and given opportunities by the BJP. The BJP meeting was attended by top leaders like Murugan, L. Ganesan, H Raja, Pon Radhakrishnan, C P Radhakrishnan, V P Duraisamy, Annamalai, Kesava Vinayagam, Nagarajan and K T Raghavan.

HC poser to govts on farmers' woes*J. STALIN | DC CHENNAI, OCT 16

In a bid to wipe off the tears of farmers and pointing out that the benefits, floated by the Central and state governments are not reaching the deserving farmers and it is taken away by the middlemen as well as by some of the officials and they have become the beneficiaries, which results in the suicide of the farmers, the Madras high court has posed as many as 10 queries to be answered by the Union and Tamil Nadu governments.

A division bench comprising Justices N.Kirubakaran and B.Pugalendhi posed the queries while passing interim orders on a petition filed by A.Sivaperumal of Dindigul district, which sought a direction to the authorities to take appropriate action against Theivendran, Assistant Agriculture Officer, District Agriculture Department, Vedasandur Taluk, Dindigul District, based on his representation dated August 12, 2020. The bench said the petitioner claims to be a resident of Thottanampatti, Nallamanarkottai Village, Dindigul District and is doing agricultural work at his native place.

The grievance of the petitioner is that though the government is providing subsidy loan for cultivating farmers, Theivendran, the Assistant Agriculture Officer, Dindigul District, got withdrawal slip from the farmers with the help of officials and took away the money and he is also not providing the benefits of the government schemes to the eligible farmers. Despite complaints made to the higher officials, no action is forthcoming. Hence, the petitioner has come forward to file this writ petition, the bench added.

The bench said, "The agriculturists have become orphans in this country. Nobody is bothered about the cultivation. However, they want rice and essential commodities at subsidized rates and nobody encourages the cultivation also. Agriculture is the only sector, where the producer has no say in fixing the price for their own produce. For cultivation, they have labour under the scorching sun and they have to work round the clock day and night. In spite of many schemes being implemented by the government, the benefits are not reaching the farmers and it is being diverted and looted by the officials in connivance with some of the people in power. Though benevolent schemes have been floated by the Central and State governments, the status of the agriculturists remain the same. No scheme is able to uplift the status of the agriculturists or empower them".

Suo motu impleading the Union and Tamil Nadu government as party respondents in the case, the bench ordered notice to them, besides to Theivendran and posted to October 28, 2020, further hearing of the case.

DHARMENDRA CLEARS AIR ON
PENDING GST DUESAKSHAYA KUMAR
SAHOO | DC
BHUBANESWAR, OCT. 16

Union minister and senior BJP leader Dharmendra Pradhan on Friday cleared the air on the pending Goods and Services Tax (GST) dues of Odisha saying that the Centre had cleared the entire compensation amount for the financial year 2019-20 and a part of the dues for the for FY 2020-21 was also released.

“₹5,122 crore has been released as an entire GST compensation to the Odisha government for FY 2019-20. Similarly, of the ₹2,258 crore allocated for Odisha as GST compensation for the FY 2020-21, ₹1,129 crore has been released,” the minister told reporters in New Delhi.

The minister’s clarification came in the wake of the state government raising the issue of non-clearance of the compensation on different occasions and platforms, ostensibly for scoring a few political brownie points.

The ruling BJD and BJP, though have supported each other on the floor of Parliament on passing many crucial Bills, are arch political rivals in state politics.

The minister’s clarification is seen as a tactical move to rob the BJD of the opportunity to raise the pending GST issue during the forthcoming by-polls in Tirtol and Balasore assembly constituencies and portray it as an act of apathy by the Centre.

The minister went on to add that Odisha was also permitted to borrow an additional ₹2,858 crore at 0.50 per cent of the Gross State Domestic Product for meeting the short-fall arising out of GST implementation.

Pradhan stated that the Modi government had provided ₹22,267.66 crore to the Odisha government in the forms of grants, materials and assistance to effectively fight the adverse situations caused due to the Covid crisis.

While the BJP is trying hard to retain the Balasore seat where its sitting MLA Madan Mohan Dutta died in July, the BJD is also working hard to defend its position in Tirtol. Tirtol’s sitting MLA Bishnu Charan Das died also in July.

GUWAHATI, OCT. 16

In a major breakthrough in the Assam Police job recruitment scam, the Criminal Investigation Department (CID) busted the entire racket by arresting serving IPS officer Kumar Sanjit Krishna who also happens to be the brother of Assam chief secretary Kumar Sanjay Krishna.

Pointing out that Sanjit Krishna was kingpin of recruitment scam as he was responsible for leaking question paper of the Sub-Inspector recruitment exams, security sources said that the CID sleuths have also succeeded in recovering more than ₹5.70 crore cash from the accused involved in selling the leaked question papers to aspirants.

Informing that Sanjit Krishna hatched the conspiracy to leak the question paper with a former DIG P.K. Dutta, security sources said that with his arrest one part of the investigation into the scam is complete.

Indicating that some more arrests were possible among those who were involved in selling the question papers, sources said that police have already re-created the crime scene from where question papers were leaked and circulated on the WhatsApp, a day before the state-level SI recruitment test on September 20.

Sanjit Krishna, who was holding the post of SP (Karimganj), was transferred as SP of Foreigner Regional Registration Office, Barpeta, on Sunday after his name surfaced in the scam. Subsequently, he was summoned by the CID.

Sanjit Krishna was questioned by the CID on Monday and his residence in Guwahati was also raided on Wednesday.

On Tuesday, the CID raided the officer’s Karimganj residence and interrogated five police personnel, including the driver of the former SP, the in-charge of the police guest house and the security guard of the SP’s official residence. After this, CID officials produced the five police personnel at a local court in Karimganj.

Police are also investigating the involvement of PK Dutta, an APS officer who served as Sanjit’s deputy in Karimganj. Meanwhile, Assam chief secretary Kumar Sanjay Krishna in social media post clarified that the law would take its course and his name should not be dragged in as his brother “is a mature, independent individual in a different profession”.

The police have so far arrested over 50 people in connection with the case including a ruling Bharatiya Janata Party leader Diban Deka (who has since been expelled from the party).

BHOPAL, OCT. 16

Bollywood stars Deepika Padukone and Jacqueline Fernandez have been given “employment” under Mahatma Gandhi National Rural Employment Guarantee Act (MNREGA) in a Madhya Pradesh village.

This may sound ridiculous but villagers in Piparkhedha Naka Panchayat in Khargone district have found to their shock that job cards carrying photographs of the actors have been issued by the local authorities under MNREGA scheme.

A job card issued to a member of the family of Monu Shivshankar carried Deepika Padukone’s photograph. Similarly, a job card issued to a woman beneficiary carried a photograph of Jacqueline Fernandez.

graphs of Bollywood stars and models have been issued in the panchayat under the anti-poverty scheme, enquiry by the local villagers have found.

The corrupt practices in the scheme have come to the fore when the local villagers started browsing the MNREGA site to know if wages under the scheme have been released to the beneficiaries, Sonu alias Sunil Singh, one of the beneficiaries of MNREGA in the panchayat said on Friday.

According to him, funds under the scheme have been siphoned off by issuing fake job cards as the website indicated release of wages to fake beneficiaries.

The villagers promptly took up the matter with the ‘zilla panchayat’ chief executive officer Gaurav Binal who ordered a probe into it. “Stringent action will be taken against the officers involved in the fake job card scam”, the CEO said.

CAN YOU CHECK TV
NEWS BEFORE DAMAGE
IS DONE: HC TO CENTREDC CORRESPONDENT
MUMBAI, OCT. 16

The Bombay High Court on Friday asked the Union government to explain if there is any mechanism in place for checking the content broadcast by news channels before the damage is done. The court also said that if the media crossed the line, it is for the legislature to act.

A division bench of Chief Justice Dipankar Dutta and Justice G.S. Kulkarni was hearing a public interest litigation (PIL) filed by several retired IPS officers alleging some media entities of maligning image of Mumbai police in Sushant Singh Rajput suicide case and simultaneously running media trials. Petition sought HC intervention to stop this practice.

The bench observed, “If public officers are removed for their wrong act, then same practice should be followed for private employment. Strict action needs to be taken for not behaving appropriately.”

Additional Solicitor General Anil Singh, appearing for the Union government, argued that the Supreme Court has said in several judgements that the government must not interfere with the freedom of press. Mr Singh also submitted judgements before the court. After perusing those judgements, Justice Dutta said “These judgments are from 2012-2013. Time has changed. This is the most misused freedom now.”

The bench also referred to the Chief Justice of India’s recent remark that freedom of speech is the most abused. The high court further said it was concerned with the efficiency of the present mechanism of regulation with regard to news channels. “Everyone seems to be having an unfettered license to say whatever they want....Before the so-called damage is done, is there any machinery to check that? Or do you act only when a certain news is disseminated and complaints are received?” the judges asked.

Conakry (Guinea), Oct. 16: Guinean President Alpha Conde, 82, is seeking a third term in office on Sunday, insisting his attempt to prolong his rule does not make him a dictator even as opposition protesters slam his candidacy as an illegal power grab.

The electoral campaign in this West African nation already has seen deadly protests, which some fear could explode after results are announced. More than 50 people have been killed in anti-Conde protests since October last year. Amnesty International said this month, urging the government to investigate.

Already the International Criminal Court at The Hague has said it is "deeply concerned" about the mounting tensions.

"These recurring episodes of election-related violence are deplorable," ICC Prosecutor Fatou Bensouda said.

POLICE GRILL
ANWAR OVER BID TO BECOME PM

Kuala Lumpur, Oct. 16: Malaysian opposition leader Anwar Ibrahim was grilled by police on Thursday over his bid to oust the government, in what he called "political harassment" to thwart his attempt.

Anwar met the nation's king on Tuesday to show evidence that he has majority support in Parliament to form a new government and unseat Prime Minister Muhyiddin Yassin, who has only a thin two-seat majority in the house.

Police summoned Anwar to give a statement Thursday after 113 complaints were lodged over a purported list of 121 lawmakers allegedly backing Anwar that has spread on social media.

Televised townhalls replace US Prez debate

Greenville (US), Oct. 16: US President Donald Trump and his Democratic challenger Joe Biden held simultaneous and separate televised town halls in lieu of the second presidential debate, taking questions from pre-selected individuals at sessions moderated by eminent television journalists.

While Trump's town hall was hosted by the National Broadcasting Company (NBC) in Miami, Florida, that of Biden was held in Pennsylvania, Philadelphia by the American Broadcasting Company (ABC) News. The second presidential debate had originally been scheduled for on Thursday night. However, it was cancelled after Trump refused to participate in a virtual format of the presidential debate as amended by the independent debate commission following the president's Covid-19 diagnosis.

A final debate is still scheduled for October 22 in Nashville, Tennessee. The first debate was held on September 29 in Cleveland, Ohio.

Trump, 74, has recovered from a brief spell of Covid-19 after he and First Lady Melania Trump, 50, tested positive for the deadly viral infection on October 1. Trump's doctors have now cleared him for his election campaigns. During the town hall, Trump defended his handling of the Coronavirus pandemic.

He also reiterated his stand on tax returns. However, Trump refused to denounce the QAnon conspiracy theory. According to QAnon, a far-right group that has been labelled a terror threat by the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI), Democrats are running a secret paedophilia ring. When asked by moderator Savannah Guthrie if he would denounce the QAnon theory and "just say it's crazy and not true", Trump said, "I don't know about QAnon." When pressed further on whether or not he believed that Democrats were running a pedophile ring, Trump said, "I have no idea."

Biden's during his town hall said he would soon express his position on court packing, an issue that he has avoided so far. The 77-year-old democrat presidential nominee said he will come out with a clear position before Election Day about where he stands on expanding the Supreme Court, depending how the rest of the confirmation process of Judge Amy Coney Barrett is handled. President Trump has selected Judge

Barrett to succeed Supreme Court Justice late Ruth Bader Ginsburg.

The Senate Judiciary Committee finished its confirmation hearings for Barrett earlier on Thursday. Judiciary Committee Chairman Lindsey Graham said that the committee will vote on Barrett's nomination on October 22. If the committee approves her nomination, which is expected, it would be sent to the full Senate floor.

At the town hall with ABC's George Stephanopoulos, Biden said he is "not a fan" of court packing. When asked by Stephanopoulos if he was open to increasing the number of judges on the court if Barrett is confirmed before the election, Biden said, "I'm open to considering what happens from that point on."

Republicans have repeatedly criticised Biden for not directly giving his view on court packing. "They do have a right to know where I'll stand and they'll have a right to know where I stand before they vote," Biden said, when asked whether voters had a right to know where he stands on the issue of expanding the court.

China warns Canada over asylum for HK protesters

Ottawa, Oct. 16: A top Chinese diplomat warned Canada on Thursday against granting asylum to Hong Kong democracy protesters, adding that doing so could jeopardize the "health and safety" of Canadians living in the southern Chinese financial hub.

The remarks by Cong Peiwu, Beijing's Ottawa envoy, prompted a rebuke from Canada's foreign minister, further escalating tensions between the two countries.

Cong was responding to reports that a Hong Kong couple who took part in last year's huge and sometimes violent protests had been granted refugee status.

The landmark decision makes it likely other Hong Kongers will be given sanctuary in Canada, which has emerged as a top destina-

CHINA DEFENDS CONFUCIUS INSTITUTES
NOW UNDER FIRE FROM TRUMP ADMIN

Beijing, Oct. 16: (AP) Following scathing political attacks from the Trump administration, China on Friday defended its Confucius Institutes as apolitical facilitators of cultural and language exchange.

The administration last week urged U.S. schools and colleges to rethink their ties to the institutes that bring Chinese language classes to America but, according to federal officials, also invite a "malign influence" from China. Foreign ministry spokesperson Zhao Lijian disputed that characterization and accused Secretary of State Mike Pompeo and US politicians of acting out of "ideological prejudice and personal political interests" and having "deliberately undermined the cultural and educational exchanges and cooperation between China and the US."

tion for those fleeing Beijing's crackdown.

"We strongly urge the Canadian side not (to) grant so-called political asylum to those violent criminals in Hong Kong because it is the interference in China's domestic affairs. And certainly, it will embolden those violent criminals," Cong said in a video press conference.

John Byrom, an English poet who coined the phrase Tweedledum and Tweedledee (in connection with what?), wrote, "The point is plain as a pike-staff."

In today's deal, the points pointed plainly to the best play for both sides -- how?

Against five diamonds, West led the heart nine. East overtook with his 10 and cashed the heart ace. What happened next?

In the auction, South's jump to three diamonds promised 9-11 points. North cue-bid three hearts in the hope that his partner could bid three no-trump with a heart stopper. When South could not, North went for game in the minor.

Suppose East shifts to a club at trick three. Declarer must find the diamond queen to make his contract. Whenever you buy the contract after an opponent opened the bidding, always count the high-card points. The dummy has 18 and declarer 10. That leaves only 12 for the opponents, but East opened the bidding: he must have the diamond queen. South plays a diamond to the king, then runs the diamond jack through East.

Now let East count the points. There are 18 on the board, and he has 12. That leaves only 10 for West and South. So West has at most the useless club jack. But there is one chance. At trick three, East should lead the heart three. When West ruffs with the diamond three, declarer must overruff with dummy's 10, and now East gains a trump trick. It is a knockout upruff.

Byrom was discussing the relative merits of composers George Handel and Giovanni Bononcini.

17 OCTOBER 2020

If PDP, others cohere, Centre will be afraid

Earlier this week PDP leader and former chief minister Mehbooba Mufti was freed from detention after 14 months. With this is raised the prospect of the coming together of every mainstream party in Kashmir — the regional parties as well as the Congress and the CPI(M) — on a common platform to confront the Centre.

This has not happened before and is a development of singular significance. It has the potential to prevent the ruling BJP from striking political roots in the Valley, the saffron party's thwarted decades old wish. To make this dream come true, the RSS-BJP, using its power at the Centre, sought to neuter Kashmir and impose a militaristic dispensation as a way to bulldoze its way through. If the Kashmir parties stick together in the foreseeable future, the BJP's pursuit could prove Sisyphean.

Kashmiri politicians are notorious for their inability to cooperate. Now they have the opportunity to turn this on its head. To remain accommodative toward one another until the next Assembly election in order to present a united face to the ruling party and its local hangers-on is the first practical challenge before them.

They have cleared the first hurdle by gathering at Ms Mufti's residence upon her release to reaffirm their commitment to the Gupkar Declaration, which enjoins them to unitedly work for the restoration of Article 370 of the Constitution that was abrogated on August 5, 2019, ending J&K's constitutional autonomy.

Unlike former CMs and National Conference leaders Farooq and Omar Abdullah, who spoke in a measured tone upon their release a few months before Ms Mufti, the PDP leader used direct language to criticise the Centre's action of last August, calling the step "illegal" and "unconstitutional". She has good reason to speak her mind. The BJP first befriended her party, permitted her to be the leader in a coalition government with it, and then stabbed her in the back, and in doing so stabbed the people of J&K in the back.

But more than using sharp language, the PDP, weakened through defections and desertions, and the others, have to show through their action whether they can summon the ability to cohere in the face of possibly renewed repression. If they can, it is the Centre that will be on the back foot.

Dr Abdullah's defiant recent interviews, including the one in which he speaks of going to any lengths for the restoration of Article 370, his bringing in the China factor (on account of the Ladakh situation), although clumsily phrased thus permitting the BJP the short-term joy of politically hammering him, is apt to unsettle the ruling dispensation. The NC leader's reminder that it was Prime Minister Narendra Modi who had cavorted on swings with Chinese leader Xi Jinping can hardly be a source of comfort.

The Modi government's tenure as bailiff in J&K will now be tested. The economy is practically finished, terrorism is back under central rule, and there is incipient political unity against the BJP.

GST: A win for states

The Union government's decision to borrow ₹1.10 lakh crores and end the impasse over the payment of compensation to state governments for the shortfall in the collection of Goods and Services Tax (GST) is welcome. The borrowing will be effected under a special window and the money will be passed to the states as back-to-back loans and will not impact the fiscal deficit targets of either governments. The Centre will service the loan and then repay it from the GST compensation cess, which will be extended beyond the scheduled term of 2022.

The GST Council was unable to find a way out of the dispute on how to bridge the estimated shortfall of ₹2.35 lakh crores in the GST collection for this fiscal. The Centre had suggested that the states borrow Rs 1.10 lakh crores, which it said was the share of the shortfall due to the implementation of the unified tax system, though it was mandated to bridge it as per the GST (Compensation to States) Act 2017. Union finance minister Nirmala Sitharaman's attempt to wash her hands off it blaming it as an "act of God" did not help the matter either.

That the change in stance will ensure better rates and easy administration of the process is only part of the deal. More noteworthy is the political victory of the states, ruled mostly by Opposition parties, who refused to play ball and asked the Centre to see reason; they had even contemplated moving the Supreme Court. The pandemic has affected both the Centre and the states and it would have been graceful on the part of the former to have made this announcement earlier. Still, better late than never. The Centre should now take a similar magnanimous approach and help the states bridge the shortfall of ₹1.25 lakh crores lost due to the pandemic and let the spirit of federalism thrive.

Bollywood joins forces, but for what exactly?

Shobhaa De

I am still trying to wrap my head around the news item announcing the joint effort of Bollywood Biggies (34 top production houses and four industry bodies) against two prominent English language television channels. The 1,069-page petition was filed in the Delhi high court earlier this week. The document said that after examining various articles online, it was felt that the defendants were publishing and circulating false, disparaging and malicious allegations against key Bollywood personalities. The latest statement, however, now says that the lawsuit is not targeted at any particular news channel but the entire media industry! My, my! Such a wide-spread gag order? My first response was: "What took you so long?" And the second: "How will the filing of such a lawsuit in change the narrative?" Then came the question of representation. It comes as no surprise or shock that hardly any women were among the joint petitioners. That in itself says a lot about the entertainment industry, not just in India, but across the world. Under-representation of women in showbiz is an important and troubling issue, which does not generate a sufficient level of comment and debate, either in this country or elsewhere. In this particular show of unity, the media coverage of the lawsuit was also slanted, focusing almost exclusively on the three Khans being on the same page, rather than on the contents of the lawsuit. While every industry is well within its rights to seek redressal, it is important to ask what exactly has miffed Bollywood? Is it just a question of being vilified? Or is there a bigger concern of business getting severely impacted? And why pick on just these two TV channels and their high-profile anchors? What about the muck that gets televised daily across the regional television channels, by equally out of control anchors? To say nothing of the cheap coverage on the dodgy websites? Why was Bollywood this shaken up now, and not earlier? The name calling is not new — describing Bollywood as "scum" and accusing actors of being "drugies" is also not a recent invention. My guess is that the impetus to go ahead and defend the territory through our courts came more from a sense of protectionism than any genuine outrage.

It can be argued, of course, that television coverage had hit new lows in the wake of the Sushant Singh Rajput tragedy, and there seems to have been a specific agenda to implicate certain stars, producers, directors and lobbies. Yes, the hourly hounding of the handpicked few was aggressive and highly selective. Bollywood started to squirm when the heat got a bit too much. The standard noises were made by the usual suspects, pointing out that not "everybody" in Bollywood is a druggie. Come on, that's as childish as that old chestnut, "Not every Muslim is a terrorist". But the fact remains, Bollywood was being cut down to size.

And that hurt. The big move to go to court against television tormentors was met by a tepid response from the public. The media too relegated the big news largely to an inside page report. Since the announcement, the public has lost interest in both — this case, as well as the SSR imbroglio. This is how the media manipulates and drives pet agendas. Seasoned players learn to live with the turbulence. At the moment, there is nothing but turbulence to deal with in any case. And Bollywood reckons that it is time to close ranks and hang in there together, if business has to thrive down the line. That's called hardnosed, practical strategising — nothing wrong with protecting one's flanks when attacked.

But one also wonders where this recent show of unity and solidarity had disappeared when one of their own had breathed his last on June 14. Or later, when his girlfriend was falsely accused by the very same television tormentors and spent more than a month in jail? Had the same people used their power and clout to stand up for a colleague (Sushant Singh Rajput) and his partner (Rhea Chakraborty), perhaps their petition would have received much more notice. And even sounded credible. At the moment, it reeks of self-righteousness, and appears self-seeking, instead of being a legitimate grievance and a call to arms.

Let's hand it to Bollywood for now. Perhaps this period has been the much-needed wakeup call to review everything — from its own standards of conduct, its dodgy representation of women and, of course, the way business is done. Drugs, booze and rock 'n roll — that's showbiz. Nobody sits in judgment over the private lives and consumption habits of movie folks. What would be wonderful (since Bollywood has come together on a common platform) would be to employ this newfound unity and togetherness to redress a few glaring inequalities, particularly when it comes to blatant discrimination, wage disparity, favouritism and yup — that dreaded word — nepotism. First get your own act together, and then try taming the press! The mediawallahs are not schoolchildren, and Bollywood does not rate as an exemplary class monitor or principal. It's going to be a huge challenge to the media in line. There will always be news stories that tickle and titillate — deal with it. Reputations get shredded in all walks of life, not just in the movies. Bollywood acting holier than thou and getting preachy with the press is a bit too twee! Listen, guys, you do your job and entertain the public, as you have all these many years. Leave the media to do its job. Errrrr... in future remember to stick up for one of your own when the going gets rough for that person. That's what family is for!

LETTERS

MISUSE OF GUV'S OFFICE

The letter of Maharashtra Governor Bhagat Singh Koshyari to Chief Minister Uddhav Thackeray, taunting the latter's decision to keep religious places in the state closed is nothing but a blatant transgression of the Governor into the executive's domain. The questions the Governor posed to the Chief Minister like "Have you suddenly turned secular yourself, the term you hated?" hardly behoves his status as a constitutional functionary. Citing breach of safety protocols during the recent Ganesh utsav celebrations, Uddhav Thackeray had decided against re-opening of religious places. It is a crucial matter as it needs to be guided by sound administrative protocols and scientific expertise.

TRUMP ACCUSES BIDEN

APROPPOS REPORT China, far Left desperate for Biden win (Oct. 15). Generally it is Indian politicians who suffer from 'foreign hand syndrome' accuse their opponents at the time of elections but Trump, heading the greatest democracy and militarist super power, has surpassed them. He blamed Joe Biden as "China will take over the US and he will surrender everything to it if he wins!" Albeit earlier the Dems faulted that the GOP had won and Trump became president courtesy the Kremlin which allegedly helped him. It looks the US politicians have learnt the art of grotesque political gimmickry from their Indian counterparts who talk through their hats, issue incoherent, unimaginable statements and lambast opponents just to outwit them at the hustings! Let the Yankees pray, not the god, but Moscow and Beijing sans interference, allow them to elect a president who hugs both the Polar bear and diabolical dragon of course without compromising on the national interests!

HATE SQUADS

IF A lie is repeated umpteen times, it will be believed to be true by gullible, volatile society (Hate squad's scary agenda, Oct. 16). With the availability of news 24x7 on TV and cellphones, people go through good, bad and ugly information and believing them to be authentic forward to all and sundry. Hate squad's agenda is to cause distrust among armed forces and weaken their morale by creating non-existent issues of paramount importance. People must know the difference between wheat and chaff of what they see and hear on the network, and react rationally. Our intelligence agencies must weed out such anti-national, divisive rumour mongers working amongst us clandestinely, before they cause irreparable chaos in armed forces.

Multi-ethnic casting rows nothing new, just look back

A question — if it is acceptable for a black actor to play Julius Caesar, is it just as acceptable for a white actor to play Othello? The answer, gentle reader, is "No"! In a recent performance of Shakespeare's Antony and Cleopatra, Caesar was played by a black British actor. The audience wasn't bothered. Caesar delivered his lines perfectly. Years ago, I saw Lawrence Olivier playing Othello with a blackened face. He spoke his lines with a melodramatic conviction which would have made a Bollywood villain blush. "Put out the light, and put out the light!" — with deep sobs inherent in the throaty delivery.

Olivier's hutzpah didn't elicit many comments. Times move on.

Before Olivier's principled disregard for blacking up, presumably on the grounds that actors are sui generis being somebody else, there was a public outcry against The Black and White Minstrel Show, in which white singers and musicians blacked up in costumes and caricatured African Americans, singing in peculiar accents and playing banjos. It was out of date and distasteful and did disappear from Britain's stages.

The reason for my answer to my earlier question is that Othello is a play in which race has a dramatic function. It matters that Othello is black. It doesn't matter whether Julius Caesar is black or white — as long as he doesn't speak in a Gujarati accent.

Last week a new film on Cleopatra was announced. The Egyptian queen is to be played by Gal Gadot, an Israeli star of Greek lineage. Her ethnicity has caused what the cliché appropriately calls a Twitter storm. One journalist, of ethnic origin herself, wrote something to the effect of "you steal Arab land and now you steal Arab roles in films".

This journalist is well within the flow of indignation, but a little investigation — Wikipedia is so good at providing the means — will tell the world that Cleopatra VI was a descendant of the General Ptolemy, one of Alexander the Damned's heirs. When Alexander the Macedonian vandal turned back from the Western bank of the Indus, fearing the might and armies of the Nanda empire of Maghada on the eastern bank, he retreated, landed in Egypt, and died there. His General Ptolemy stayed in what was subsequently called Alexandria and founded the Greek dynasty, whose sons were all called Ptolemy and whose daughters, princesses and queens, Cleopatra.

Was there any pre-Arab settlement, Berber blood mixed in with the Greek in Cleo's ancestry? No historian is certain. Nevertheless, the row progresses. My prediction is that the film will meet with protests, both well-meaning and misguided.

We live, gentle reader, in interesting times, but the era of ethnically blind casting didn't begin yesterday. I recall that in my schooldays in Poona (now Pune) an actor's company called Shakespeareana would perform in our schools and colleges. They were, when first I saw them perform, an all-white company, but as the years passed and their actors returned to Britain, the company recruited Indian actors who played Shylock, Bassanio or Oberon with panache and without any murmurs from the audience.

Also, which play of late Mumbai maestro Alyque Padamsee, borrowed from the Western stage, had European actors in it? "Integrated casting" was not a choice for Indian dramatic productions in English.

For Peter Brook, who in 1985 adapted the Mahabharat as a nine-hour stage epic, it was not a necessity but a choice. Impelled by liberal instinct, Brook cast Chinese, Caribbean, African, Japanese, French and British actors as Arjun, Karna, Duryodhan and the rest. His multi-ethnic universal cast was much applauded in the West.

At the time I was employed as a commissioning editor at Channel Four TV and one of my colleagues, Michael Kustow, proposed transforming Brook's stage play into a nine-hour TV serial. Michael approached me one morning and asked if I would accompany him and Brook to a meeting with Indian high commissioner P.C. Alexander (Indian, not Greek), whom they were approaching to propose a partnership with the Indian government in the project.

We went, and the high commissioner was very hospitable but was cagey when Brook asked him directly for funds and sponsorship. Alexanderji seemed to say that of course the government would support the venture by getting industrial houses and others to sponsor it. His commitment was designed to sound enthusiastic but was in fact very ambivalent.

As we stepped out, Brook and Kustow both grabbed me bodily. "Interpret!" Brook demanded.

"Buy me a drink at the pub and I'll tell you," I said.

They did and I said: "He was saying he welcomes the venture but won't commit the government to endorse or get close to a play which has different ethnicities playing Hindu gods and demi-gods. It will cause dissension amongst bigots, so the government will encourage private investors but won't commit to a direct association."

They understood. A year later, this meeting and theme suggested itself as the beginning of a novel which I wrote called Bombay Duck. I judiciously changed the Mahabharat to the Ramayana and called the Peter Brook character David Stream — but kept him white.

Rough imports grow, orders pick up Diamond hub busy again

SANGEETHA G. CHENNAI, OCT. 16

After a gap of seven months, rough diamond imports have seen positive growth in September. While the employment levels in polishing units are still lower than last year, import of polished diamonds by jewellery makers remains a worry.

Festive season orders from most key markets are coming at last year's levels, except from the US. The cutting and polishing industry imported Rs 9,905 crore worth rough diamonds in September against Rs 8,231 crore worth goods imported in the same month last year, thus, registering a positive growth of 20 per cent. In terms of carats, too, the imports were 7.5 per cent higher than the year ago month.

Imports have been declining from March. The nation-wide lockdown and the voluntary stoppage of imports by the industry to clear inventories have seen the imports declining for the past seven months. Even in August imports were down by 40 per cent. Easing of lockdown and an increase in festive season orders have supported imports in September.

According to Dinesh Navadiya, regional chairman, Gujarat, Gems and Jewellery Export Promotion Council, the units in Gujarat are operating with 70 to 75 per cent employees. Despite polishing activity recovering to similar lev-

DIESEL SALES ABOVE PRE-COVID LEVELS

NIDHI VERMA NEW DELHI, OCT. 16

India's diesel sales rose in October for the first time since March, signalling a pick-up in industrial activity.

Diesel sales by state-run fuel retailers rose 8.8 diesel year-on-year in the first half of October, provisional data compiled by IOC shows.

Sales of diesel totalled 2.65 million tonnes, up 24 per cent from September. An official at a state refiner, however, cautioned that diesel sales growth could be temporary.

"Typically, transportation of goods picks up ahead of festivals and dips during and after the key festivals. This year key festivals are towards the end of this month and early November; last year they were in October," he said.

els, imports of polished diamonds are still continuing. Import of cut and polished diamonds in September was 124 per cent higher than the same month last year and that by the SEZs were 244 per cent higher.

According to Colin Shah, chairman of GJEPC, jewellery manufacturing in SEZs has been happening with raw materials procured from overseas. The industry expects the import of polished goods to come down with the polishing activity picking up.

Another positive development is that festive season orders have started coming from the key markets. "Demand from China and Hong Kong has returned to normal levels. While orders are coming from the US, Europe and the Gulf region, the US demand is still down compared to last year," he said.

The industry expects the festive season sales to be 10 per cent lower than last year's. The total gems and jewellery exports for the year is expected to be 20 to 25 per cent lower.

Urban consumption sees worst fall in 2 decades

SANGEETHA G. CHENNAI, OCT. 16

Urban consumption has contracted more than 25 per cent between April and August, witnessing the worst decline in two decades due to massive job losses and reduction in income levels.

Real private consumption expenditure declined 26.7 per cent in the June quarter against the same period last year. While urban consumption contracted 34 per cent, rural consumption shrank only 4 per cent. In July and August, while urban consumption declined 18 per cent, rural consumption was almost flat, says brokerage Motilal Oswal Financial Services.

From an average growth of 8 per cent during FY17-19, urban consumption declined 0.6 per cent for the first time in two decades in FY20 before collapsing by more than a quarter during April-August 2020. Rural consumption, on the other hand, grew at an average of 6 per cent during FY17-19 before easing to 3.4 per cent in FY20 and shrinking 4 per cent in during April-August.

According to Motilal Oswal, revival in private consumption is unlikely without a recovery in urban consumption. Covid-19 has affected the urban sector disproportionately, it said.

Sanjeev Gupta targets Thyssenkrupp steel unit

CHRISTOPH STEITZ & TOM KÄCKENHOFF FRANKFURT/DUESSELDORF, OCT. 16

Liberty Steel, founded by commodities tycoon Sanjeev Gupta, on Friday said it had made a non-binding offer for Thyssenkrupp's steel unit, hoping to forge a European champion to master the transformation towards carbon-neutral production.

A deal would combine the continent's fourth- and second-largest steelmakers after a planned joint venture between Thyssenkrupp and Tata Steel was blocked in 2019.

"I truly believe in the future of European steel," Gupta told journalists during a call. "By investing in green steel I believe the industry can transform and thrive in the long-term."

He said that steel as a business needed time, adding that was one of the reasons why belonged in private hands. Gupta shied away from putting a number on expected synergies.

Essen-based Thyssenkrupp said it would carefully study the offer, details of which were not disclosed. —Reuters

Quinton cracks whip as MI thrash KKR

Abu Dhabi, Oct. 16: The Mumbai Indians juggernaut rolled on unabated as they recorded their fifth straight win with an eight-wicket mauling of Kolkata Knight Riders in the IPL here on Friday.

A tidy bowling effort by Mumbai Indians ensured that KKR were restricted to 148 for 5 after an unbeaten 53 by pace spearhead Pat Cummins.

Then, the defending champions rode on a blistering 44-ball 78 by Quinton de Kock, to chase down the target with 3.1 overs to spare.

De Kock, who struck nine fours and three sixes and skipper Rohit Sharma (35 off 36 balls), laid the foundation for the emphatic win with their 94-run first-wicket stand.

The two openers took the KKR attack to cleaners with de Kock being the more aggressive one. The South African notched up his fifty in just 25 balls, with a maximum over deep-square leg.

It rained boundaries for Mumbai as the two dominated the KKR bowling attack. Pacer Prasidh Krishna (0/30) faced their brunt, conceding three fours in the third over and de Kock followed that up by hammering Cummins (0/28) for two successive fours, both pull shots, in the next.

DK HANDS OVER KKR CAPTAINCY TO MORGAN

Abu Dhabi, Oct. 16: Wicketkeeper-batsman Dinesh Karthik on Friday stepped down as captain of the Kolkata Knight Riders team, handing over the reins to his English deputy Eoin Morgan hours before the IPL match against Mumbai Indians here.

Karthik told the KKR management that he wants to "focus on his batting and contributing more to the team's cause." Appointed skipper in 2018, the 35-year-old led KKR in 37 matches.

"We are fortunate to have leaders such as DK, who has always put the team first. It takes a lot of courage for someone like him to take a decision such as this," team CEO Venky Mysore said.

Morgan was widely tipped to take over at some point from Karthik given the topsy-turvy run. "...DK and Eoin have worked brilliantly together during this tournament and although Eoin takes over as captain, this is effectively a role swap and we expect that this transition will work in a seamless manner," Mysore said.

Virat & Co. take on reeling RR

Dubai, Oct. 16: Royal Challengers Bangalore would aim to get their strategy right after some inexplicable decisions during the loss to Kings XI Punjab when they take on an erratic Rajasthan Royals in an IPL match here on Saturday.

The Virat Kohli-led RCB has won five of its eight games on the back of all-round performances but seemingly blundered in the eight-wicket defeat to lagards KXIP on Thursday.

Against KXIP in Sharjah, AB De Villiers, who has been in fine form, was sent in to bat at number six, a baffling decision by the RCB. The experiment didn't work as all three batsmen struggled with the South African scoring just two off five balls. However, Kohli and his men will look to shrug off the defeat.

On the other hand, the Royals' campaign this season has been marred by numerous top-order collapses, forcing the lower half to pull them across the finish line.

After failing in his first match of the season, Ben Stokes hit 41 before he was run out against the DC.

Rejuvenated CSK face in-form DC

Sharjah, Oct. 16: Their campaign is back on track, courtesy Mahendra Singh Dhoni's smart captaincy but a stiff test awaits Chennai Super Kings when they face a dominant Delhi Capitals in their next IPL match, here on Saturday.

Every tactic that Dhoni employed against Sunrisers Hyderabad, worked, and they are expected to continue in the same vein as they battle to salvage the season.

Whether it was promoting Sam Curran to the opener's slot or finishing pacer Deepak Chahar's quota upfront while using seven bowlers to dry up runs, every move produced desired result.

The three-time champions will look to build on the win over Sunrisers Hyderabad as the league phase moves towards the business end. However, they are up against a team which is high on confidence and well-served by the South African pace duo of Kagiso Rabada and Anrich Nortje. —PTI
