YSRC wins 80.51% seats in GP polls

Leaders give credit to Jagan's good governance; Ruling party confident of record win in ZPTC pollsDC CORRESPONDENT
VIJAYAWADA, FEB. 22

The ruling YSR Congress attributed credit to the good governance of Chief Minister Y.S. Jagan Mohan Reddy for witnessing overwhelming victory in the recently concluded gram panchayat as their party-supported candidates won 80.51 per cent of seats while the Opposition Telugu Desam was confined to just 16.05 per cent in the state.

Panchayat raj minister Peddireddy Ramachandra Reddy told the media here on Monday that the YSRC supported candidates swept all four phases of gram panchayat polls indicating the support base to their party in the state and said that the TD was reduced to ignominy. He rejected the TD's claim that it won 41 per cent seats.

Referring to the claims of the TD that it won 41 per cent of seats in the gram panchayat polls, the minister slammed the party for trying to come up with distorted figures to mislead the people and said that though the TD supremo N. Chandrababu Naidu tried to manage the system during the polls, the people rejected the party and predicted that it would soon vanish.

In a separate development, minister for water resources P. Anil Kumar Yadav said that the Telugu Desam might have got single-digit seats in the polls if they were having no party rebels. On TD chief Naidu's claim that their party won 41 per cent of seats, he challenged him to prove it and asked him to step down if he failed to prove it. He said that the TD secured only eight seats on Naidu's native village and so was the case in the Kuppam segment. On Naidu's remarks that their party suffered defeat due to police atrocities, the minister castigated him for saying so.

The minister predicted that their party would continue the winning trend in the ensuing urban local body polls and also in MPTC/ZPTC polls in the state.

In the Nellore district, the YSRC bagged 205 gram panchayats while TD got only 29 and the JS and BJP combo managed to get just two gram panchayats out of 236 gram panchayats went for polls in Sarvepalli, Kovur, Venkatagiri and Nellore rural segments in the district.

1st time in Anantapur, no violence in GP polls

DC CORRESPONDENT
ANANTAPUR, FEB. 22

For the first time in the history of Gram Panchayat polls, all the four phases went off peacefully without a single poll-related violence in Anantapur district this time.

No case of murder, murder-attempt or rioting came up in the 63 mandals. These are historically faction-fight areas since the time of Palegars. Further, the decades-old faction rivalries in Penukonda, Tadipatri, Dharmavaram Rapthadu and Kambadur areas appeared to be a thing of the past as the polls this time were incident-free.

During all previous elections, gram panchayat polls were hotly contested and these had an adverse impact on the polling in a majority of villages in the Rayalaseema region.

While the Palegars had tried to maintain their hold on villages through booth-captures and attacks, historian Dr. Harinath Reddy observed that the gram panchayat polls demonstrated a similar culture. The factionists had proven their existence in many past gram panchayat polls and created a tense situation to capture polling booths. This time, no such incident took place.

Special efforts made by SP Satya Esubabu by deploying additional forces in sensitive villages along with support from striking forces helped prevent any poll-related violence.

Police and the district administration jointly succeeded in holding the polls in an orderly manner even as the Telugu Desam was having a strong hold on many areas including the faction-hit villages of Rapthadu, Tadipatri, Penukonda and Kalyanadurgam.

Sources said only four cases of injuries in clashes were reported in the entire four phases of polling in 63 mandals in the district. There was no incident of murder or attempt-to-murder, or riots. Police kept a close watch on the ground situations from the time when nominations were filed.

In the last gram panchayat polls, there were cases of one murder, 14 attempt-to-murder, 12 riots and 25 incidents of violence, police records revealed.

Collector Gandham Chandrudu said this time there was sincere efforts from both the district administration and the police in conducting the gram panchayat polls in a free and fair manner.

He said voters actively participated in all the four phases of polling as 84 per cent polling was recorded in the fourth phase and an average of 82 per cent across phases.

Private operators seek state's help to allow boating

VIJAYAWADA, FEB. 22

Tourist boat operators have urged the state government to allow boating on River Godavari to carry tourists to the popular holiday destination of Papikondalu.

The private operators say that ever since the boat tragedy on Krishna river in November, 2017 and two more mishaps on Godavari river claiming lives, boating operations have been seriously affected in these rivers. This also meant a loss of livelihood to hundreds of people.

Though some of them got their boats overhauled as per norms to ensure more safety and thus spent nearly four to seven lakhs for each boat, they are yet to get the permission to operate the services.

The operators said the water resources authorities meanwhile gave temporary permission to a film crew including mega star K. Chiranjeevi, his actor son Ram Charan, popular villain Sonu Sood, director Koratala Siva and others for shooting a big budget film, Acharya, for use of a punt and a boat to ply on Godavari river from Singanapalli to Mantur.

They say the authorities have carried out a temporary survey on the navigation route in the river spread over a distance of 14 km and permitted operation of the punt belonging to APTDC and a boat.

Water resources authorities explained that they accorded temporary permission for operation on a specific route with instructions to follow all safety norms, including police escort as also presence of fire personnel and other safety equipment on board.

Godavari river conservator R. Mohan Rao said, "We have given the film crew only a temporary permission."

Water resources authorities said an agreement was entered into by it with a Pune-based firm for a bathymetric survey on the Godavari river to prepare a navigation route map for boats and launches to operate for a distance of 60 km at a cost of ₹35 lakh. The survey would start from March first week and be completed in a month's time.

The authorities say that once the map is ready, boats will be allowed to operate, carrying tourists to Papikondalu and to tourist places along the river course from April second week.

Boat owner PV Ramakrishna Rao said, "We appeal to the state government to expeditiously permit operation of boats and launches on Godavari river as we were losing our only source of livelihood for so long. We also appeal to the authorities to give clarity on safety norms for launches also."

FERTILE LAND AP ranks first in area and production of fruits and spices

Horticulture has high potential: ICAR

KAKINADA, FEB. 22

The total horticulture production in the country is estimated to be 320.11 million tonnes this year, which is higher than the previous year's production. The area under horticulture crops in Andhra Pradesh is of 17.48 lakh hectares with an annual production of 301.73 lakh metric tonnes.

The horticulture sector has become a key driver for economic development and contributes to 30.4 per cent of GDP of Agriculture. Indian Council for Agriculture Research (ICAR) helped in this process through its research works.

Secretary to the department of agriculture research and education and director general of ICAR Dr Trilochan Mohapatra stated this while participating via online in the fourth convocation of YSR Horticulture University at Venkatramannagudem in West Godavari district on Monday.

Dr Mohapatra said India's horticulture industry is expected to grow by leaps and bounds. The current turnover from horticulture is around ₹13.2 lakh crore. The investment in horticulture sector is expected to triple in the coming years to meet the increasing demand from a burgeoning global population.

"The country is set to emerge as a major exporter of fresh and processed fruits and vegetables and an important hub in Asia with heavy investment and entry of major players from the horticulture industry," he said and added that currently the agriculture sector employed 50 per cent of the population. In order to enhance productivity, it is imperative to encourage rural industries to go for value addition to their products, as also to processing and packaging, he said.

This will help India not only cater to the needs within the country but also enhance its export earnings. It will also minimise the post-harvest loss, which is about 30-40 per cent in horticultural crops.

Dr Mohapatra said Andhra Pradesh stood first in production of chillies, cocoa, lime, oil palm, papaya and tomato. It stood second in cashew, mango and sweet orange. Andhra Pradesh ranks first in area and production of fruits and spices and second in micro irrigation area coverage. Hence it deserves an institution like the Dr YSR Horticulture University, the second horticultural university in the country, he said.

He said the university is playing a pivotal role in enhancing the horticultural production in AP and the neighbouring states. The central government has, for the first time, brought about a shift in agriculture strategy from doubling farmers' income by 2022. A comprehensive framework has been set for the purpose, like increasing productivity and reducing losses, increasing market access through market reforms, reducing input cost through a balanced use.

A couple did a ‘wedding’ photoshoot in a government chopper in Raipur triggering a security scare, officials said on Monday.

A video of the couple posing for a photoshoot in the helicopter on Monday went viral, causing flutter in the security establishment in Raipur.

Director of aviation department of Chhattisgarh government Nilam Namdev has constituted a 3-member committee headed by chief pilot Pankaj Jaiswal to probe the incident.

The committee has been asked to submit its report within a week.

“A 3-member committee has been constituted to probe the incident. Information available till now suggests that a driver in the state aviation department had opened the state hangar for the couple to do the photoshoot. He has been placed under suspension. Accountability will be fixed on the officers found responsible for the security lapse leading to the incident after the probe”, Namdev said.

One Sanket Sai and his wife, the newly married couple, had done photoshoots in wedding attire in the chopper on Sunday. The couple posed for the photoshoot inside and outside the helicopter.

Sanket is sarpanch of Dhandi Bahar village in Jashpur district in Chhattisgarh and is said to be a relative of the driver in the state aviation department Yogeswar Sai who allegedly led the couple to the hangar.

GUJARAT RS BYPOLLS: BJP WINS BOTH SEATS

Ahmedabad, Feb. 22: BJP nominees Dineshchandra Anavadiya and Rambhai Mokariya were on Monday declared elected unopposed to the Rajya Sabha from Gujarat as the opposition Congress did not field candidates for the two vacant seats, one of which was held by its veteran leader Ahmed Patel.

The two seats had fallen vacant following the demise of the sitting MPs belonging to the Congress and the BJP.

One of the seats was held by veteran Congressman Ahmed Patel since 1993 till his death on November 25 last year due to complications related to Covid-19. The other seat fell vacant as BJP’s Abhay Bharadwaj, a first time MP elected to the RS in 2019, too, died on December 1 due to the Coronavirus infection.

Returning C.B. Pandya declared Anavadiya and Mokariya as elected uncontested from the two seats on Monday, which was the last date of withdrawal of forms.

Two dummy candidates of the BJP, Rajnikant Patel and Kirit Solanki, withdrew their nominations on Saturday.

With the bypoll to the two seats scheduled to be held separately, the Congress, decided not to field any candidate.

Mamata kin gives CBI 4 hours to grill her at residence today

Narula claims to be in dark about purpose of summons, her link to the probe

DC CORRESPONDENT KOLKATA, FEB. 22

A day after getting summons to face grilling in the coal smuggling case, wife of West Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee’s MP nephew Abhishek Banerjee Rujira Banerjee Narula gave the Central Bureau of Investigation a window of four hours on Tuesday to question her at her South Kolkata residence.

Narula, suspected by the CBI for her role in overseas financial transactions relating to the illegal trade, however, claimed herself to be in dark about the purpose of the summons to her and her link to the probe while replying to the CBI on a day her sister Menaka Gambhir faced its marathon questioning for her suspected link to the financial transactions.

ED issues summons to TMC minister’s daughter

RAJIB CHOWDHURI | DC KOLKATA, FEB. 22

After the Central Bureau of Investigation’s heat on West Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee’s family in the coal smuggling case, another Trinamul Congress heavyweight’s kin has come under the scanner of a different central agency and also got its summons to face questioning over a suspected link to overseas financial transactions.

The top leader is state urban development and municipal affairs minister and outgoing Kolkata Mayor Firhad Hakim who is also a trusted lieutenant of the Trinamul Congress supremo. His daughter Priyadarshini Hakim has reportedly been called by the Enforcement Directorate to face grilling this week at its office in CGO Complex in Salt Lake on the overseas financial transactions.

ED sources claimed that a huge amount of money was sent abroad to a bank account during multiple foreign tours by Priyadarshini’s husband Yasir Haider in the last couple of years.

The Union finance ministry’s agency has also come across a link of a foreign actress’ name with Yasir’s overseas visits, sources added.

Priyadarshini works at corporate communication department of the CESC. She was not available for comments. It is also not clear whether she would face the ED or not. Hakim, however, claimed, “I have neither heard nor do know anything about it.”

and 3 pm tomorrow, i.e. 23 February 2021. You are requested to kindly inform me your schedule.”

In the afternoon a drama, however, unfolded when Kumar and his team went to grill Gambhir at her flat in an upscale housing complex at Anandapur off EM Bypass in the city but were denied entry by the security guards keeping the giant gate closed.

The CBI officers were seen waiting in their cars outside for almost an hour before they were allowed to go inside only by walking after parking their cars outside the residential complex.

Later, the CBI team questioned Gambhir for three hours and recorded her statement on ₹36 lakhs which used to be deposited by Anup Majhi alias Lala, the absconding kingpin of the coal smuggling case, monthly to the Kasikorn Bank account at Bangkok in Thailand and another bank in London.

Gangrape accused held after 22yrs

AKSHAYA KUMAR SAHOO | DC BHUBANESWAR, FEB. 22

In a breakthrough in the 1999 Anjana Mishra gangrape case that largely contributed to the end of the Congress rule in Odisha, the state police with the help of its Maharashtra counterparts has apprehended prime accused Vivekananda alias Biban Biswal, who was absconding for 22 years.

The accused was held on Sunday from Lonavala where he was working as a plumber, the Odisha police said on Monday.

Briefing media persons here, Bhubaneswar-Cuttack Twin City Commissioner of Police

Dr Sudhanshu Sarangi on Monday said the accused had changed his name to Jalandar Swain and was staying in Aamby Valley in Lonavala near Mumbai.

“Biban had mentioned Naranpur (Cuttack) in his permanent address. When we initiated an inquiry, we found out that no such person belongs to Naranpur. He had a permanent job, Aadhaar card and bank account there. He was in contact with his family members and had asked his family to get a death certificate in his name to avoid police detention in future,” the CP informed.

Dr Sarangi said that a special mission under the title of ‘Operation Silent Viper’ was launched three months ago with a team of three police personnel, including Cuttack deputy commissioner of police (DCP) Prateek Singh. On February 19, a special team led by Badambadi police station inspector Rashmi Ranjan Mohapatra left for Mumbai to arrest the accused.

“Odisha police with the help of Maharashtra counterparts launched operation ‘Aamby Valley.’ The cops got to know that a person named Swain works in Aamby Valley as a mechanic and stays in a staff quarters two and a half km away. Seeing the police, the accused tried to escape. However, the cops managed to arrest him and brought him here,” Dr Sarangi said.

After the witnesses recognised the accused Biban Biswal, he was produced before the Special CBI Court here which sent him to judicial custody.

“The accused has been handed over to the Central Bureau of Investigation which investigated the case. The next course of action will be taken by the investigating agency,” the senior cop added.

On the intervening night of January 9-10, 1999 Anjana was gang-raped by three persons near Baranga while she was going to Cuttack from Bhubaneswar along with a journalist-friend in a car.

4G services likely to be suspended in J&K in March, April

DC CORRESPONDENT NEW DELHI, FEB. 22

Security agencies are once again likely to recommend suspension of 4G services in J&K during March-April in view of specific Intelligence inputs that Pakistan-based terror outfits were planning “major infiltration and terror attacks” in the Valley and along the Indo-Pak border areas.

The Centre had decided to restore 4G services in J&K last month after a gap of nearly a year. These 4G services were restricted by the Centre, on recommendation of security agencies, after Article 370 was revoked in J&K in August 2019. Anticipating that the decision to scrap Article 370 could trigger large-scale unrest in the Valley it was decided to restrict usage of 4G services.

So though these services have now been restored security and Intelligence agencies are closely monitoring the situation in the Valley. Intelligence agencies said that though the situation as of now was under control but could deteriorate during the coming season.

pads along the Indo-Pak to infiltrate into India with onset of summer. Cell phone serves, particular messaging plays a crucial role in terror activities hence security forces are skeptical that 4G services may once again have to be suspended in case violence in the Valley escalates in the coming days.

“There is concrete information with us that major infiltration and terror attacks are being planned during March-April. Cell phones play a major role in terror operations so if security situation deteriorates in the coming days then we will have suspend these 4G services again,” a senior Intelligence official said.

Kashmir Valley witnessed a relatively peaceful winter this year with a sharp drop in number of terror incidents. But things, security official feel, could change with the onset of summers for which adequate preventive measures like strengthening anti-infiltration grid along the border areas and increasing deployment with the Valley were being done.

Rahul: Centre will not roll back farm laws unless forced

GILVESTER ASSAY | DC THIRUVANANTHAPURAM, FEB. 22

Congress leader Rahul Gandhi on Monday called for intensifying the farmers’ agitation saying that the Narendra Modi led-BJP government at the Centre was not going to roll back the three farm laws unless it is forced.

The Congress leader who was addressing a public meeting held as part of Tractor Rally held in his constituency Wayanad, said there was a reason why Modi was not withdrawing the three laws. “The reason is clear. These three laws are designed to destroy the agricultural system in India and give the entire business to two or three of Narendra Modi’s friends,” he said.

Gandhi said the world is watching the farmers struggle very closely. Even international pop stars have commented on the farmers’ stir. But the government in Delhi is unable to feel the pain of the farmers.

“Agriculture is the only business that belongs to Bharat Mata and the government wants to snatch this from the farmers,” he said.

Earlier, Rahul Gandhi led a tractor rally from Thrikaipetta to Muttill in Wayanad to protest against the farm laws.

At a separate meeting of Kudumbasree women self help groups, Rahul Gandhi took a dig at Prime Minister for ridiculing MGNREGA. When he took office in 2014 he ridiculed MGNREGA. But later he was forced to accept that the rural job guarantee scheme held the poor in good stead during Covid pandemic.

Gandhi who was addressing the meeting of the self help groups Poothadi grama panchayat, said the self help groups and MGNREGA were brought by the UPA government to empower the people of the country.

TOOLKIT | CASE

Court told Nikita, Shantanu may be arrested in future if there is a requirement

Disha Ravi remanded to one-day police custody

New Delhi, Feb. 22: A Delhi court on Monday sent 21-year-old climate activist Disha Ravi, arrested in connection with allegedly being involved in sharing a “toolkit” on social media related to the farmers’ protest, to one-day police custody (PC) to be confronted with co-accused in the case.

Chief Metropolitan Magistrate Pankaj Sharma sent Ravi for custodial interrogation after police said she was required to be confronted with co-accused in the case which has transnational ramifications. However Ravi, who was produced before the court on expiry of her three-day judicial remand, through her lawyer opposed the plea of the investigators, saying “why should I (Ravi) be in police custody while those I have to be confronted with are on bail?”

Police only got one day custody of Ravi, though it had sought five days of custodial interrogation contending that during her interrogation, she shifted entire burden on two co-accused — Nikita Jacob and Shantanu Muluk — who “cannot be arrested because they are currently on transit bail.

“They need to be confronted with Ravi. Nikita was served with a notice to join the probe but she did not join the interrogation. “It is a case which has transnational ramifications, with involvement of those who has expressed their disaffection for this country,” prosecution told the court.

The probe agency told the court that they may arrest Nikita and Shantanu as well in future if there is a requirement. “There was involvement of all three accused persons. We have to confront all three. We only have seven days more to seek custodial interrogation,” the prosecution told the court referring to the provisions of the law under which the case has been lodged that mandates custodial interrogation only upto 15 days post his/her arrest.

Ravi’s counsel opposed the police plea saying that other two accused are on bail and “why should I be in police custody for the purpose of confrontation?”

Defence counsel also questioned as to why police did not summon the co-accused persons earlier. “I (Ravi) was already in their custody for five days. Prosecution is talking in a manner as if they got to know all the information about the case today itself. What is new there to seek fresh PC. If investigating officer wants to meet Ravi beyond 15 days, what he will do? Two people already on transit bail, why should I be in police custody,” the counsel questioned. — PTI

TRY TO RESCUE
40 WHALES

Wellington, Feb. 22: Volunteers in New Zealand were trying to save 40 stranded whales Monday evening by refloating them on the high tide. Nine more whales had already died.

The pod of 49 long-finned pilot whales beached themselves on Farewell Spit, a remote beach on the South Island, the Department of Conservation reported. The whales were first noticed by a tour operator on Monday morning, the department said. About 65 conservation rangers and volunteers worked throughout the day to help the whales by keeping them cool and wet until the water was deep enough to refloat them.

The nonprofit whale rescue group Project Jonah was helping coordinate efforts. Farewell Spit has been the site of previous mass strandings.

Angry youth rattle Spain in support of jailed rap artist

Demand roll back of Public Security Law passed by the previous admin

Barcelona, Feb. 22: The imprisonment of a rap artist for his music praising terrorist violence and insulting the Spanish monarchy has set off a powder keg of pent-up rage this week in the southern European country. The arrest of Pablo Hasél has brought thousands to the streets for different reasons. Under the banner of freedom of expression, many Spaniards strongly object to putting an artist behind bars for his lyrics and tweets. They are clamoring for Spain's left-wing government to fulfil its promise and roll back the Public Security Law passed by the previous conservative administration that was used to prosecute Hasél and other artists.

Hasél's imprisonment to serve a nine-month sentence on Tuesday has also tapped into a well of frustration among Spain's youths, who have the highest unemployment rate in the European Union. Four in every 10 eligible workers under 25 years old are without a job. "I think that what we are experiencing now with the cases of Pablo Hasél (...) and other rappers politically detained by this regime is a brutal attack against the freedom of speech," 26-year-old student Pablo Castilla said during a protest in Barcelona. "The protests are being brutally repressed by the allegedly progressive national government and the Catalan government. 'They are attacking us youngsters because we are showing our anger."

For many, Hasél's case also represents what they perceive as a heavy-handed reaction by a state whose very structure is in need of deep reform. Hasél's lyrics that strike at King Felipe VI and his father, King Emeritus Juan Carlos I, have connected with a growing public debate on the future of Spain's parliamentary monarchy. Unquestioned outside fringe circles of the Left until the past decade, the royal house has been plagued by financial scandal that has reached Juan Carlos himself. Many Spaniards were agast when the former monarch left Spain for the United Arab Emirates amid a court investigation into his alleged fiscal improprieties. As well as shouting its support for Hasél, a crowd that gathered in Madrid on Saturday chanted "Where is the change? Where is the progress?" and "Juan Carlos de Borbón, womaniser and thief." The debate has caused tensions inside Spain's left-wing coalition government.

While Prime Minister Pedro Sánchez and his Socialist Party back the parliamentary monarchy Spain has had since the end of Francisco Franco's dictatorship in the 1970s, their minor partner, the upstart United We Can party, wants to get rid of the monarchy and has supported this week's protests for Hasél despite their violent turn.

The anti-monarchic streak in the protests cuts across Spain. But in Hasél's home region of Catalonia, an already tense political climate appears to be magnifying the uproar.

Italian envoy killed in DR
Congo attack

Kinshasa, Feb. 22: The Italian ambassador to Congo, an Italian carabinieri police officer and their Congolese driver were killed Monday in an attack on a UN convoy in an area that is home to myriad rebel groups, the Foreign Ministry and local people said. The ambush occurred as the convoy was travelling from Goma, Congo's eastern regional capital, to visit a World Food Programme school feeding project in Rutshuru, the UN agency said in a statement. WFP said it was seeking information from local authorities, as the ambush occurred on a road that had previously been cleared for travel without security escorts.

Luca Attanasio, Italy's ambassador to the country since 2017, carabinieri officer Vittorio Iacovacci and their driver were killed. Other members of the convoy were injured, WFP said. The attack occurred in the territory of Nyiragongo, in North Kivu, the same area, known as the "three antenas," where two Britons were kidnapped by unidentified armed men in 2018, said Mambo Kaway, president of a local civil society group. "There were five people aboard the vehicle, including the Italian ambassador," Kaway said.

"The driver died after being shot with several bullets, and others were wounded," he said. "The situation is very tense," he added. The wounded were taken to a nearby UN hospital. The North Kivu governor, Carly Nzanu Kasivita, said that the vehicles were taken hostage and escorted into the bush and that when local people saw them, they alerted the authorities. The Congolese army and park guards for Virunga National Park came to the rescue, he said.

"There was an exchange of fire. The attackers fired at the bodyguard and the ambassador," the governor said, adding that the ambassador later died from his wounds. Attanasio, a 43-year-old career diplomat, leaves a wife and three young children. The attack, a few kilometres north of the regional capital of Goma, was just next to the Virunga National Park. Last month gunmen shot and killed at least six rangers in the Rutshuru area of the park.

Marie Tumba Nzenza, Minister of Foreign Affairs, sent her condolences and promised the Italian government that the Congolese government would do all it could to investigate and find out who is behind the killings. — AP

Protests swell
in Myanmar

Yangon, Feb. 22: Protesters gathered in Myanmar's biggest city on Monday despite the ruling junta's thinly veiled threat to use lethal force if people answered a call for a general strike opposing the military takeover three weeks ago.

Despite roadblocks around the US Embassy in Yangon, more than a thousand protesters gathered there, while 20 military trucks with riot police had arrived nearby. The crowds were gathering after supporters of the Civil Disobedience Movement, a loosely organised group leading the resistance, called for people to unite on Monday's date for a "Spring Revolution."

The junta warned against the general strike in a public announcement carried last Sunday on state television broadcaster MRTV. "It is found that the protesters have raised their incitement towards riot and anarchy mob on the day of 22 February. Protesters are now inciting the people, especially emotional teenagers and youths, to a confrontation path where they will suffer the loss of life," the onscreen text said in English.

Stop smearing CPC, halt support to separatist forces: China tells US

Beijing, Feb. 22: China on Monday urged the US to stop "smearing" the ruling Communist Party of China (CPC) and it's one-party political system, lift sanctions on trade and halt Washington's backing of "separatist forces in Taiwan, Tibet, Hong Kong and Xinjiang."

In his annual speech at the Lanting Forum, focusing on China-US ties, Chinese Foreign Minister Wang Yi said the Biden administration should adjust the headline policy pursued by former President Donald Trump towards Beijing to check its growing influence.

We have no intention to challenge or replace the United States. We are ready to have peaceful coexistence and seek common development with the United States, Wang said.

Likewise, we hope the United States will respect

We urge the United States to stop smearing the CPC and China's political system, stop conning at or even supporting the erroneous words and actions of separatist forces for 'Taiwan independence', and stop undermining China's sovereignty and security on internal affairs concerning Hong Kong, Xinjiang and Tibet, he said.

We hope that the US side will adjust its policies as soon as possible, among others, remove unreasonable tariffs on Chinese goods, lift its unilateral sanctions on Chinese companies and research and educational institutes, and abandon irrational suppression of China, he said.

The relations between China and the US are at an all time low. The two countries are currently engaged in a bitter confrontation over various issues, including trade, the origins of the novel Coronavirus pandemic, the communist giant's aggressive military moves in the disputed South China Sea and human rights. US President Joe Biden who spoke to his Chinese counterpart Xi Jinping for over two hours in his first phone call on February 11 later said there would be repercussions for China's human rights abuses and he made the message clear to his Chinese counterpart in his talks.

In a CNN town hall on February 17, Biden said he stressed to Xi during their long conversation that the US would continue to assert its role as a voice for human rights on the world stage, including at the United Nations and other international agencies.

We must speak up for human rights. It's who we are, the Hong Kong-based South China Morning Post quoted Biden as saying.

EU weighs troubled Russia ties

Brussels, Feb. 22: European Union foreign ministers on Monday will look at options for imposing fresh sanctions against Russia over the jailing of opposition leader Alexei Navalny, as the 27-nation bloc considers the future of its troubled ties with the country. The ministers will discuss possible names of Russian officials and whether to target them individually or whether to use a new system of measures aimed at human rights abuses.

But they appear unlikely to impose restrictions on oligarchs close to President Vladimir Putin, as Navalny has requested. "It's clear that Russia is on a confrontational course with the European Union," EU foreign policy chief Josep Borrell said.

"In the case of Mr Navalny, there is a blunt refusal to respect their engagements, including the refusal of taking into account the decisions of the European Court of Human Rights," Navalny, 44, an anti-corruption investigator and Putin's most prominent critic, was arrested in Moscow last month.

COSMIC | TRIP Hayley Arceneaux will launch later this year with a billionaire

Bone cancer survivor to go into orbit

Cape Canaveral, Feb 22: After beating bone cancer, Hayley Arceneaux figures rocketing into orbit on SpaceX's first private flight should be a piece of cosmic cake.

St. Jude Children's Research Hospital announced Monday that the 29-year-old physician assistant — a former patient hired last spring — will launch later this year alongside a billionaire who's using his purchased spaceflight as a charitable fundraiser.

Arceneaux will become the youngest American in space — beating NASA record-holder Sally Ride by over two years — when she blasts off this fall with entrepreneur Jared Isaacman and two yet-to-be-chosen contest winners. She'll also be the first to launch with a prosthesis. When she was 10, she had surgery at St. Jude to replace her knee and get a titanium rod in her left thigh bone. She still limps and suffers occasional leg pain, but has been cleared for flight by SpaceX. She'll serve as the crew's medical officer.

"My battle with cancer really prepared me for space travel," Arceneaux said in an interview with The Associated Press. "It made me tough, and then also I think it really taught me to expect the unexpected and go along for the ride." She wants to show her young patients and other cancer survivors that "the sky is not even the limit anymore."

"It's going to mean so much to these kids to see a survivor in space," she said. Isaacman announced his space mission February 1, pledging to raise $200 million for St. Jude, half of that his own contribution.

As the flight's self-appointed commander, he offered one of the four SpaceX Dragon capsule seats to St. Jude. Without alerting the staff, St. Jude chose Arceneaux from among the "scores" of hospital and fundraising employees who had once been patients and could represent the next generation, said Rick Shadyac, president of St. Jude's fundraising organisation. Arceneaux was at home in Memphis, Tennessee, when she got the "out of the blue" call in January asking if she'd represent St. Jude in space.

Her immediate response: "Yes! Yes! Please!" But first she wanted to run it past her mother in St. Francisville, Louisiana. (Her father died of kidney cancer in 2018.) Next she reached out to her brother and sister-in-law, both of them aerospace engineers in Huntsville, Alabama, who "reassured me how safe space travel is."

A lifelong space fan who embraces adventure, Arceneaux insists those who know her won't be surprised. She's plunged on a bungee swing in New Zealand and ridden camels in Morocco. And she loves roller-coasters. Isaacman, who flies fighter jets for a hobby, considers her a per-

Ground 777s with engines that blew apart, says Boeing

Chicago, Feb. 22: Boeing has recommended that airlines ground all of its 777s with the type of engine that suffered a catastrophic failure over Denver this weekend, as US regulators ordered United Airlines to step up inspections of those aircraft. United said Sunday it is temporarily removing the aircraft from service, a day after one of its planes made an emergency landing at Denver International Airport because its right engine blew apart just after takeoff.

Pieces of the casing of the engine, a Pratt and Whitney PW4000, rained down on suburban neighbourhoods. None of the 231 passengers or 10 crew on board was reported hurt, and the plane landed safely, authorities said. US Federal Aviation Administration Administrator Steve Dickson said in a statement Sunday that based on an initial review of safety data, inspectors "concluded that the inspection interval should be stepped up for the hollow fan blades that are unique to this model of engine, used solely on Boeing 777 airplanes."

The statement said that would likely mean some planes would be grounded — and Boeing said they should be until the FAA sets an inspection regime. Japan, meanwhile, also ordered the planes out of service, according to the financial newspaper Nikkei, while saying that an engine in the same family suffered trouble in Dece-

NIGERIAN PLANE
CRASHES, 7 DEAD

Lagos, Feb. 21: A military plane crashed in Nigeria on Sunday, killing all seven people on board, said officials. The King Air 350 plane had just taken off from the airport in Abuja, Nigeria's capital, when it reported engine failure and tried to return, said Ibikunle Daramola, a spokesman for the Nigerian Air Force in a tweet.

"First responders are at the scene. Sadly, all 7 personnel on board died in the crash," he said. Hadi Sirika, the minister of aviation, also tweeted that the crash "appears to be fatal," and urged calm as an investigation by the military is carried out.

The plane was headed to Minna city, approximately 100 kilometres (62 miles) northwest of Abuja.

U.S. HOSPITALS GRAPPLE WITH WATER CRUNCH

Houston, Feb. 22: Hospitals across the South grappled with water shortages as the region carried on with recovery efforts in the wake of a devastating winter storm, and the weather offered a balmy respite — temperatures as high as the mid-60s.

At the height of the storm on Sunday, hospitals were left scrambling to care for patients amid record cold, snow and ice that battered parts of the country more accustomed to going through winter with light jackets and short sleeves.

The icy blast ruptured water mains, knocked out power to millions of utility customers and contributed to at least 76 deaths — half of which occurred in Texas.

At least seven people died in Tennessee and four in Portland, Oregon.

Withdraw restrictions on academic webinars

In the pre-Covid-19 era, governments used the visa as a tool to prevent individuals from certain countries from taking part in educational, cultural or sporting engagements. India cut a sorry figure when it showed the world that it was ready to demonise an entire nation for political reasons. At other times, it was particular individuals who were targeted for the views they held, regardless of their country.

But what we have just seen is a whole new ballgame. A January 15 order by the education ministry that recently came to light asked all government entities, including publicly funded educational institutions and universities, to “seek approval” of the “administrative secretary” of the concerned department/ministry for organising any “online/virtual international conferences/seminar/training etc”.

On the other hand, those meant to confer approval were required to ensure that the subject matter of an event did not relate to the “security of the State, border, the Northeast states, UT (Union territory) of J&K, or any other issues which are clearly/purely related to India’s internal matters”.

Has the government gone totally insane? Or is this just a way of imposing thought control through the backdoor because we are not — last heard — a country with a totalitarian constitution in which the single ruling party or dictatorial agency (the military, for instance) must decide and control everything, including who hears what and who says what?

In the Covid era, webinars became the lifeblood of intellectual and scientific interactions and exchange of ideas among peers internationally, and it is this which is being sought to be curbed, forcing Indian scholars and students in all fields to be shut in without being able to take recourse to the latest findings and thinking in the various domains around the world. In short, the very idea of discussion is being pushed into a room and the door banged shut in order to please Big Brother.

It is no surprise that the scientific community is not pleased. In a letter to education minister Ramesh Pokhriyal (and others), the president of the Indian Academy of Sciences, Partha Majumder, had called the order “too constraining” for the advancement of science in the country. He has also raised the valid point that frequently, even for domestic webinars, foreign scholars of repute, including Nobel laureates, are invited as interlocutors and discussants as exchanges with them are of extraordinary benefit to our own scholars and students. Are such forums to be classified as foreign?

Besides, even if we shut the doors on international experts, will Indians, when they are discussing crucial issues of science and other fields of scholarship, be wholly free to talk about issues for which the sanction-giving authority must specially look out? The answer seems fairly clear. Indeed, it is likely that it won’t be before long that private institutions of knowledge too will be brought under the mischief of the order.

The instruction must be withdrawn lock, stock and barrel. Seeing that the heads of scientific institutions representing over 1,500 top scientists of the country reacted publicly, principal scientific adviser K. Vijayaraghavan and secretary (technology) Ashutosh Sharma have hinted at a modification of the order. That isn’t enough, the whole thing must be scrapped. It is odd that that the PSA, a man of science, is not repelled by the tone and the meaning of the entire directive.

Cyborgs of tennis

Novak Djokovic, one of the three knights of modern tennis, turned on his best game on the hard court at the Rod Laver arena he can call his own backyard for having won nine times and never having been beaten in an Australian Open final. His opponent Daniil Medvedev was so much in awe of the champion that he calls him a “cyborg of tennis” alongside Roger Federer and Rafael Nadal, who between them have won 58 Grand Slams and 15 of the last 16. And is there a more accurate yardstick than Grand Slam titles to measure who among the three is going to be judged as the greatest tennis player of the professional era?

The Serbian’s spotless returns of serve on a cool Melbourne night could be rated as his greatest weapon in the dismantling of a young challenger even as he played every ground stroke as if he were indeed armed with superhuman qualities. If tennis is all about eliminating errors, then Djokovic is just that champion. Not a crowd favourite because of the stand he has taken on various issues and because he called for leniency from the hard quarantine imposed on all visiting players before the Australian Open, Djokovic also had to battle many who were not chanting “Ole, ole, ole” in his support.

Naomi Osaka is the emerging great of the women’s game who won her fourth Grand Slam in a manner reminiscent of the dominating tennis of Serena Williams, who she beat in the semis before demolishing Jennifer Brady in the final. The youngster may have victories that favour the hard courts of the Australian and US Opens but, on the evidence of her Melbourne showing, she may need only an attitudinal change to win on grass and clay. Having once said that to become a tennis legend was her life goal, the 23-year-old is well on her way now with a polished game and a record of Grand Slams to lend greater weight to the voice to speak up on sensitive social subjects that she has never been afraid of.

Hashtag power: Twitter,
govt in fight for survivalShashidhar
Nanjundaiah

An Editors Guild of India webinar on February 12 on reporting from the Naxalite badlands featured song videos, pornography and abusive language. Now, why would an organised group of “unknown persons” like to cyber-bomb a seminar? Perhaps the theme was inconvenient? As the guild pointed out later, the seminar would talk about the excesses of the government and the struggles of the tribals — or Adivasis — at the hands of the left-wing extremists. Open webinars are vulnerable to mischief anyway, and this writer has himself faced tough, disruptive questions during them. But such is the nature of free speech. Where does free speech end? Would we consider the disruption of the guild’s webinar also free speech, or would we find it unreasonable enough to be restricted? Should the guild be held responsible for those who misused the platform?

Gatherings, virtual or physical, promote mobilisation of thought, and that can be problematic. That is why the recent spat between the Centre and Twitter has rich meanings for a researcher.

The Twitter-government conflict is a fight for survival. In Twitter’s constitutional framework, economic survival is founded on a business model of big numbers and a systematic process of ensuring openness and diversity of voices. Let us remember, to be fair, that Twitter’s understanding of freedom of speech is rather American. The courts there allow restrictions posed only from a clear and explicit call to violence or breach of national security.

A landmark judgment in the 2014 Elonis vs US case stated that an explicit threat includes one where “reasonable people hearing it will perceive it to be a threat”. No amendments were made, however, in what free speech meant on the social media. Of course, national security is a reasonable restriction in American law too. But the courts relentlessly uphold the free speech rights of an individual. Most courts also rule in favour of protecting the voices of minority groups, unless there is an explicit threat, but Twitter usually watch groups with historical problems more carefully.

Twitter’s country-specific censorship has disabled accounts that were clearly neo-Nazi and anti-Semitic. The site does not usually block accounts that are critical of regimes, whether or not a country is authoritarian. Governments then tend to take action against individuals who may use disagreeable or inconvenient language against a regime about its majority religion. Instances are replete from Turkey, Bahrain, Thailand, and several other countries — not exactly stellar examples of individual freedom-granters.

The social media has two broad roles — the organisational and the dialogic, and it is the former that is spooking nervous governments. By threatening Twitter officials with jail and publicly contemplating the application of media laws to the social media, the government is putting on public display how spooked, rather than concerned, it is. For the Indian government, in particular, irrespective of party, there are several historical precedents — most glaringly so over the last six years. To cry conspiracy on groups of like-minded people who use a convenient technological tool — the hashtag — to galvanise support and make claims is extremely thin-skinned.

People and political parties — many on Twitter, such is the delicious irony of the social media — have raised doubts about whether the Delhi police wittingly or unwittingly facilitated the Republic Day drama. Should we therefore assume that our government liberally allowed the virtual mobilisation to brew on Twitter, and then failed to protect a public monument where the real action was?

Certainly, history has shown us that mobilisation topples governments even through rhetorical intent. Organisational power can often translate into transactional power — and from Indira Gandhi to Narendra Modi, it poses a human challenge to professed development goals. The social media is just the latest galvanising force that transcends geography.

But can the social media enable a coup in India? But is it possible to argue that it can? Similarly, can a group of people hoist a private flag atop a public building as the police watch? But can the Centre argue that the breach was a security problem? That’s what matters. And the public display of anger is a warning to the rest of us not to rub the government the wrong way. Consider the potent words of BJP leader Anil Vij in Disha Ravi’s context: “Those who even think in anti-national terms must be eradicated”.

Let’s flip a question: Would the flag be hoisted atop Red Fort on Republic Day if the social media had not existed? This sounds like a rhetorical question. Like during the Arab Spring, “hashtag mobilisation” can indeed take on unimaginable, real proportions. But which political leader has not used it to campaign and discredit, proclaim and decay, often using clever but false equivalence?

But false narratives cannot be confused with fake news. It should worry us that instead of seeking to protect its citizens’ privacy (it took the Supreme Court to state recently that privacy is paramount), or protect conventional media businesses like Australia, Spain and several other countries are now doing, the Indian government and its agencies are seeking to use the social media to identify inconvenient people to fit into its narratives that can fuel pseudo-nationalistic frenzy. Disha Ravi’s arrest is only the latest example. As a former SC judge noted on a prominent news channel, it seems the new tendency is to arrest in a hurry, ask questions later — no wonder a judge has questioned the police on its “conjectures”.

Any government should be responsible for creating an ecosystem that enables its citizens to feel involved but secure, responsible but free. Knee-jerk reactions from the State and highly publicised arrests of people who are merely practising their rights tend to inhibit citizens from speaking up. As a medium, the social media does not represent — it merely amplifies.

Meanwhile, the home-grown Twitter, Koo (I understand the onomatopoeic word is a call that people in coastal Karnataka use to catch someone’s attention) has deftly built a base of political support and is a perfect platform for mobilisation. And as expected, the BJP government has taken the lead. Sure, Koo is no less dialogic, but fair dialogue depends on whether the government indeed ends up painting social media in the same brush as the editorial media — and if Koo can adopt editorial interventions that are fair and just to all.

Chief Justice Mr. H.R. Khanna dismissed the petition, observing that the petitioners had not proved any violation.

Who’s to blame for ₹100 petrol:
Nehru, Indira
or Modi Sarkar?

The price of petrol has crossed ₹100 in some parts of India for the first time. A parallel development is that of the total revenue that the government receives — 33 per cent, or one-third, now comes from the tax on fuel. India’s consumers pay the highest rate of tax on the petrol and diesel that they consume. The nations that follow India on the list of those with high taxes are all European nations, plus the United States and Japan. These are of course places where consumers are much better off than us and the government can in fact extract money from them without significant hurt.

In India, the majority of consumers are poor. And a tax on fuel affects all of us equally and hurts the poor disproportionately. The autorickshaw owner and the Uber driver pay the same to fuel up their vehicle as the corporate executive and or business tycoon. This makes very little sense. Ideally, taxation should be focused on those who can afford to pay more, and this is through direct taxes like incometax. But this has not happened in India for a variety of reasons. The base of people who file their income-tax returns has gone up, but the actual money that comes in as direct taxes has not gone up proportionately.

The other reason that taxes from fuel have gone up as a proportion of all taxes is what has happened to the Goods and Services Tax. This was meant to replace a series of other taxes and create a single market where more trade and more commerce would happen, expanding the economy. But the GST was not able to produce as much revenue as the taxes it replaced. And the market has not grown. Indeed, in the last 36 months, the Indian economy has slowed significantly, falling from around eight per cent growth in the quarter starting January 2018 to around three per cent in the quarter starting January 2020. And in the period after that, the economy has actually contracted for the first time in decades. And so, the short-term prospects for growth are not good, and the government must look around for immediate ways in which it can fund itself. The easiest way is through taxes on fuel.

Petrol and diesel had been deregulated before Prime Minister Narendra Modi took office. The logic of deregulation was that the Indian State kept subsidising the consumer even when the price of crude rose globally, putting the mostly state-run oil businesses here at a loss. The consumer was protected no matter what the price of crude was. But now the reverse has happened. The government is protected no matter what the price of crude is. If the price goes down it takes more profits and does not lower the retail rate of petrol and diesel. If the price goes up, it hikes up the rates further. This was not the purpose of deregulation.

The Prime Minister says that it is not his fault and previous governments are to blame for keeping India dependent on imported crude. But that is the case with all the world’s nations who do not have a reserve of oil that can be tapped. Alternative sources of energy are a recent phenomenon and their ability to match fossil fuels in terms of price is something even more recent. We should know that in the area of petrol and diesel in automobile use, this parity has still not come.

Petrol and diesel are very energy dense. About 50 kg of fuel or a full tank can take the car for about 700 km. For an electric car to do that, it needs a lithium ion battery pack that must be at least 45 or so kilowatt hours. The price of this battery alone is around $5,000, and so approximately ₹4 lakh. Add the rest of the car and the minimum cost of a vehicle that can do the same range as a petrol or a diesel-driven car can do today is around ₹10 lakh, which is out of the budget for three-fourths or more of India’s car buyers. This will change over time and the cost of battery packs will fall as more and more nations take to electric vehicles for environmental reasons. But it is wrong to assume that it could be done today and certainly wrong to assume it could have been done in the past.

The last aspect is that of infrastructure. Lithium ion batteries in cars take about 10 hours to charge at home, assuming all car buyers have a garage with access to electricity. America, Europe and China have tens of thousands of direct current fast chargers in networks that span their nations.

This enables cars to charge up in about half an hour or so. India does not have these networks because the government has not built them. Even if all cars today were to magically become electric and not dependent on fossil fuel, where would they be charged? That the Prime Minister did not say.

The reality is that no matter what Jawaharlal Nehru or Indira Gandhi or Atal Behari Vajpayee did, we would be dependent today on petrol and diesel. The question is whether the government should extract such a large share of tax from us. That is a question only Narendra Modi can answer and not Jawaharlal Nehru.

■ Covid fear, bond yields pull down stocks

MUMBAI, FEB. 22

The Sensex tumbled below the 50,000-mark on negative global cues, as bond yields and crude oil price rose globally. Besides, Covid concerns leading to localised shutdowns in parts of Maharashtra added to the market anxiety.

The Sensex fell 2.25 per cent, or 1,145 points, to close at 49,744 on sustained selling. Monday's fall is the biggest in the last two months.

The Nifty-50 Index also fell 2.04 per cent, or 306 points, closing at 14,675.

This is the fifth straight session the market has fallen over rising bond yields. BSE's market capitalisation dropped below Rs 200 lakh crore as investors suffered notional loss of over Rs 4 lakh crore in the Monday sell off.

"Global cues were weak as yields on the benchmark US 10-year Treasury notes rose to a one-year high, worrying investors that money might move away from emerging markets. Further, there were concerns over the risk of higher inflation due to sharp jump in commodity prices, which tempered optimism around a vaccine-led economic recovery," said Siddhartha Khemka, head-retail research, Motilal Oswal Financial Services.

SBI CALLS ON RBI TO MAKE SHORTING BONDS COSTLIER

SUBHADIP SIRCAR
FEB. 22

The RBI should consider steps to disincentivise short selling, which may have triggered the recent sell-off in the sovereign bond markets, according to the chief economic adviser at SBI Research.

Banks and primary dealers resort to such short-selling when they expect bond prices to fall, and this becomes a 'self-fulfilling prophecy' sometimes with traders borrowing securities from the repo market and rolling them over till yields rise, Soumya Kanti Ghosh wrote in a note to clients on Monday.

"The only way to break such self-fulfilling expect-tations is for RBI to conduct large scale open market operations to provide necessary steam to the bond market to rally and with the increase in price many short-sold positions will trigger stop losses and market players will scramble to cover open positions," he said.

Yields on the benchmark 2030 debt rose 14 basis points last week amid fears about how the RBI plans to manage the huge government borrowing programme and a rise in global bond yields. The 2030 yield was up 6 basis points to 6.20 per cent on Monday.

Kochi firm completes phase 2 trial of Covid drug

Kochi, Feb. 22: The city-based PNB Vesper Life Sciences has successfully completed phase 2 clinical trials of PNB-001 (GPP-Baladol), its proprietary drug to treat the coronavirus infection and said it will soon move the government for deploying the drug for emergency use.

The company, which has its labs in England, had in early September 2020 received the approval from the Drug Controller General (DCGI) to conduct the phase 2 clinical trial of GPP-Baladol in patients with moderate infection of the pandemic with oxygen support.

The company on Monday said the clinical trial was initiated in November at BJ Government Medical College and Sassoon General Hospital in Pune, and Victoria Medical College and Research Institute in Bengaluru on 40 patients.

"We will submit the clinical trial report to the DCGI on Monday itself," the company's promoter and chief executive P.N. Balam said, adding the trial protocol was designed in-line with the solidarity trial conducted by the WHO and other international clinical trials.

The Kochi-based was firm the first in the world to begin phase 2 trial for a new chemical entity.

SC halts NCLT okay for Future-Reliance deal

SANGEETHA G
CHENNAI, FEB. 22

The Supreme Court has on Monday halted regulatory approval by the National Company Law Tribunal for the Future-Reliance deal till further orders. While this comes as a relief to e-commerce giant Amazon, it is a setback for Future Retail, which has been maintaining that it will face liquidation if the deal collapses.

The Supreme Court ordered that the NCLT can continue reviewing the deal and overseeing the approval process, but cannot pass a final order till the court hears Amazon's concerns. The stock exchanges and the antitrust watchdog Competition Commission of India have already cleared the deal.

"In the meantime, the NCLT proceedings will be allowed to go on but will not culminate in any final order of sanction of scheme," the court said in its order. The court has given two weeks to file the counter-affidavit and another week for rejoinder affidavit, if, any. The case will come up for further hearing after five weeks.

Amazon had filed a special leave petition in the Supreme Court against the Delhi High Court's division bench order of February 8. The division bench had stayed the status quo order passed by a Single Judge of the court on February 2, asking Future Group and concerned authorities to maintain status quo in the Reliance-Future deal till it pronounces the final order.

The division bench had said that statutory authorities like NCLT and Sebi should not be restrained from proceeding in accordance with law on Future-Reliance deal.

Future Retail also said the NCLT can issue directions to convene meetings of shareholders and creditors of applicant companies, including Future Retail, to consider the deal.

Amazon had approached the Delhi High Court last month, seeking enforcement of the October 25 interim order of the emergency arbitrator (EA) at the Singapore International Arbitration Centre (SIAC) that had restrained Future Retail from going ahead with the deal with Reliance. Amazon alleges that the deal violates an earlier contract between the company and the Future Group.

As part of the agreement entered while buying 49 per cent stake in Future Coupons in 2019, Amazon would have a call option to acquire all or part of the promoters' shareholding of 47.02 per cent in Future Retail between the third and tenth year of the transaction and this would be subject to law. Amazon also claims that the 2019 agreement had categorically prohibited Future Retail from selling a stake to Reliance Industries.

the application amounts to Rs 5,381.90 crore towards outstanding principal, Rs 589.36 crore towards accrued interest and Rs 210.85 crore towards notional loss of interest on account of charging lower rate of interest," said the filing about the impact on the company. —PTI

Goldman sees Brent oil at $75 as supply response trails demand

SHARON CHO
FEB. 22

Oil prices will rally sooner and higher than previously thought as the global energy demand recovery outpaces the supply response from the Opec+ alliance, shale and Iran, according to Goldman Sachs Group Inc.

Consumption will get back to pre-virus levels by late July, while output from major producers is likely to remain "highly inelastic" to the rising prices, the bank said in a note. Goldman raised its Brent forecasts by $10 a barrel, to $70 next quarter and $75 in the following three months.

"This faster re-balancing during what was expected to be the dark days of winter will be followed by a widening deficit this spring as the ramp-up in Opec+ production lags our above-consensus demand recovery forecast," bank analysts including

COMMODITIES FLARING UP

Damien Courvalin said in the note.

Oil's rebound to levels last seen before Covid-19 wreaked havoc on the global economy has been driven by Saudi Arabia's unilateral output cuts together with the improving demand outlook. The rally has also been supported by investors using crude to position for a reflationary environment, Goldman said. Brent oil traded above $63 a barrel on Monday and is up around 22 per cent this year.

Supply will keep lagging behind demand for several reasons, the bank said.

Opec+ will fall behind the market rebalancing, especially as the pace of global drawdowns of stockpiles has accelerated;

There are no signs of more activity from most non-Opec+ producers outside of North America, creating a risk supply will fall 900,000 barrels a day short of the bank's estimates in the coming year.

Copper surges above $9,000 as deficit drives record rally

Feb. 22: Copper rallied above $9,000 a tonne for the first time in more than nine years on bets that increased demand driven by the recovery from the pandemic will spur a historic deficit, putting the economic bellwether on course for a record run of monthly gains.

Prices climbed more than 3 per cent on Monday and are heading for an unprecedented eleventh monthly rise in February. Base metals are on tear on expectations that post-crisis consumption will outstrip near-term supply, with raw materials like copper and nickel getting an additional boost from their importance to the clean-energy transition. The furious pace of the advance has market watchers debating whether a new commodity supercycle is now in the offing.

The metal's revival marks a turnaround from earlier in the month, when copper hit turbulence as investors signalled the need for more details about stimulus measures and on concerns about a softening in Chinese demand. But prices rose during China's Lunar New Year as factory production was more buoyant than usual. Expectations for a revival in inflation have helped, too

"Market sentiment is heated right now in anticipation of a new cycle of global inflation," Jia Zheng, an analyst with Goldtrust Futures Co, said from Shanghai. "Chinese investors returning from Lunar New Year holidays are waiting for more stimulus from the US and Europe. Fundamentally, Chinese demand has exceeded expectations, as travel restrictions boosted consumption."

Goldman Sachs Group Inc reinforced its bullish stance last week, saying that China's return from the week-long break had triggered another leg higher for prices. The market is facing the largest deficit in a decade this year, with a high risk of scarcity over the coming months, according to the bank.

There are already signs of emerging tightness on the London Metal Exchange, as spot contracts trade at a premium to futures. That pattern, known as backwardation, was a feature of the market during a record-breaking boom in Chinese demand last year, and suggests that spot demand is once again outpacing supply as exchange inventories run low.

Adding to concerns about a supply squeeze are possible production cuts at a top Chinese smelter. Inventories tracked by the Shanghai Futures Exchange are the lowest for this time of year in more than a decade.

Three-month copper traded at $9,110 a tonne on the LME at 9:58 a.m. in Singapore after hitting $9,187, the highest since 2011. In China, the Shanghai Futures Exchange contract hit the daily limit. Other metals rose, with LME tin at the highest since 2011, and nickel rallying toward $20,000 a tonne. —Bloomberg

Potash rally may prod India to cut imports

PRATIK PARIJA
FEB. 22

India would be buying less potash after a run-up in prices, according to the country's largest importer of the fertiliser, a move that may undercut expectations for global demand to hit a record this year.

Purchases in the fiscal year starting April may drop from about 5.5 million tonne the year before, said P.S. Gahlaut, managing director of Indian Potash Ltd, which accounts for almost 50 per cent of the country's imports. He declined to give a forecast, but said demand will weaken as India still has a sizeable stockpile.

"In India, consumption of potash is very price sensitive," Gahlaut said in an interview. "Whenever prices have gone up, there's an immediate effect on consumption."

Potash is a nutrient that helps plants withstand drought and diseases. Prices have risen amid a surge in agricultural commodities to multi-year highs as this implies farmers will be planting more acres and using more fertiliser. Bloomberg's Green Markets sees global potash demand at a record in 2021, while Morningstar Inc says it will likely set a new "high watermark."

Weaker India demand could put pressure on potash suppliers such as K+S AG, Uralkali PJSC and Canpotex Ltd as these companies may have to lower prices for new deals. India is the fourth-biggest user of potash.

India and China recently signed potash contract deals with Belarusian Potash Co at $247 a tonne. Although that's above 2020 prices, it caused a stir among some producers expecting even higher prices. Nutrien Ltd, the world's biggest fertiliser company, is selling potash in the US corn belt for about $350 a ton, while prices in Brazil rose $50 this year.

Stockpiles of Indian companies and traders still total more than 1 million tonnes, said Gahlaut. The proposed 11 per cent cut in subsidies for imported phosphatic fertilisers and potash will further dent demand and hurt the government's push for balanced use of fertilisers.

Gahlaut said India's potash consumption is already lower than what is required under the policy. The country promotes balanced fertiliser use to improve crop yields, boost profitability for farmers and reduce subsidy burden. Currently there's an excessive use of urea given the higher financial support. —Bloomberg

TATA MOTORS SEES DOUBLE-DIGIT GROWTH FOR CAR INDUSTRY THIS YR

MICHAEL GONSALVES
PUNE, FEB. 22

Tata Motors, India's biggest automaker by revenue, expects domestic passenger vehicles industry to grow in double digits in 2021-22 on account of continued robust demand momentum driven by shift towards personal mobility after the Covid pandemic.

Shailesh Chandra, president at Tata Motors Passenger Vehicles told a virtual media conference on Monday after the launch of its SUV, the new Safari, that sales growth for Tata Motors would be better than the automobile industry.

"There is a market momentum which continues on the demand side because of the shift towards personal mobility," Chandra pointed out, adding that this would remain till everybody gets vaccinated. "We don't know when everyone will get vaccinated."

He said by and large people are and will be cautious and, therefore, there is this gravity towards personal mobility.

As for Tata Motors, he said, "We would expect growth to be much better than the industry."

The new generation Tata Safari is sold in six variants, including options of manual and automatic transmission as well as 6/7-seat configurations.

The prices range from Rs 14.69 lakh for the entry-level XE variant to Rs 20.20 lakh for the top-end XZ+ (Adventure Persona edition) in the manual trims, while the automatic versions of the full-blown SUV cost between Rs 17.25 lakh and Rs 21.45 lakh at Delhi showroom.

ROOT FOR GRASS

Anderson happy with grass on Motera strip but says it won't be there on match day

Ahmedabad, Feb. 22: Veteran fast bowler James Anderson is pretty sure that the newly laid track at the Motera Stadium will be devoid of any grass for the upcoming Day/Night Test against India even though there is a nice green cover on it at the moment.

The third Test under lights will start from Wednesday and for England's premier fast bowler, he doesn't expect it to behave much differently from the second Test track at the Chepauk which India won by 317 runs.

"The pitch, it has got grass on it but I am pretty sure it's not going to be there when we turn up on the match day," Anderson said with a wry smile during a virtual conference on Sunday.

"So we have to wait and watch. As seam bowlers, we have to be prepared to bowl as best we can in any given condition. If it swings, it's great and if it does not, we still have a job to do," Anderson said. He felt that the pink SG Test ball that he bowled with during the net sessions, swung more than its red counterpart.

"Look this is the second pink Test in India and first in February so we don't know how it would behave."

He urged critics of the much-debated rotation policy to look at the "bigger picture", considering the massive amount of cricket to be played by the England team in the coming days.

England did not play Jonny Bairstow and Mark Wood in the first two Tests but have brought them back for the final two games as part of a rotation policy while first-choice keeper Jos Buttler is back home after the opening Test. The idea is to help players cop up with life inside the bio-bubble.

"You have got to try and look at the bigger picture.

The idea was if I missed that one, that would give me the best chance of being fit and firing for the pink-ball Test," Anderson said.

Former players, especially Kevin Pietersen, have criticised ECB's thought process, saying the board must play its best players in a big series like this against India.

Anderson, 38, himself played the series-opener where he took five wickets in England's victory but was rested for the second where India emerged triumphant by a massive 317-run margin.

"I am feeling good and fresh and ready to go again if called upon. It's frustrating to an extent but I can see the bigger picture with the amount of cricket that we have got." — PTI

Stokes ready to handle all conditions during Tests

Ahmedabad, Feb. 22: Brushing aside the incessant talk around spin-friendly pitches in India, big-hitting England all-rounder Ben Stokes has said that Test players should be proficient in handling all kinds of conditions.

Ahead of the day/night Test here starting Wednesday, Stokes wondered how the newly-refurbished Motera strip would behave but at the same time, stressed that top-flight cricketers should be able to deal with whatever they are faced with.

"The thing about being a Test batsman is that you need to be able to handle all types of conditions. India is one of the places where it is a lot tougher for overseas batsmen to come and be successful, but then so too is England," he wrote in a column for the Daily Mirror.

"And that is part of the game, the challenges and why we love it," he said.

The turning tracks in India became a talking point during the ongoing series when some former England players such as Michael Vaughan asked whether such strips were ideal for Test cricket.

The series is tied at 1-1 after India's brilliant 317-run win in the second Test in Chennai.

Stokes' bowling quota of just two overs in that game raised a few eyebrows but he said it was about

"Don't read too much into the fact that I didn't bowl a huge amount in the second game, I'm sure if it was a green seamer I would have bowled a lot more overs." — PTI

BAGAN SNATCH THRILLING DRAW AGAINST HYD

Vasco, Feb. 22: Trailing twice in a high-pressure clash, leaders Mohun Bagan fought their way back and played out a thrilling 2-2 draw against 10-man Hyderabad FC in the Indian Super League here on Monday.

Aridane Santana (8') put Hyderabad up ahead before Manvir Singh (57') restored parity for Bagan.

The Nizams once again took the lead through substitute Roland Aalberg (75') before Pritam Kotal (90+2') found the net late to help Bagan snatch a crucial point.

The result effectively means that Bagan will have to wait for either Mumbai City to drop points in their next game or deny the Islanders a win in their last game to secure the League Winners Shield.

A win in this match would have handed Bagan the title.

Hebbar's high as Andhra beat TN

Indore, Feb. 22: Ashwin Hebbar slammed an unbeaten 101 and powered Andhra to a seven-wicket win over Tamil Nadu in the second round of Vijay Hazare Trophy on Monday.

Andhra bowlers did very well to dismiss TN for 176 in 41.3 overs.

Hebbar was in cracking form and toyed with the opposition to attack to fashion a comfortable win.

Left-arm medium-pacer C. Stephen (3/46), off-spinner Shoaib Mohammed Khan (3/24) and right-arm medium-pacer Girinath Reddy (2/33) struck at regular intervals to restrict a strong Tamil Nadu batting line-up, led by Dinesh Karthik. Girinath Reddy struck an early blow by dismissing left-handed opener C Hari Naishaanth (4). The other opener N Jagadeesan (11), who scored a ton in the opening match, was bowled by Girinath to leave the team at 23 for 2.

Tamil Nadu, winner of the Syed Mushtaq Ali Trophy recently, never really recovered from the early setbacks.
