He tweeted that the video was the handiwork of chief minister Jagan who, he said, was resorting to "stone throwing and circulating a distorted version of my conversation," out of fear of the YSRC losing the Tirupati bypoll. "Nobody can spoil my relationship with Lokesh," he said.

Taking potshots at Atchannaidu, municipal administration minister Botsa Satyanarayana said he could have openly announced that TD would be shut very soon, but "he being the president of the AP unit, he may have limitations and could share his anguish only with his own party leaders."

The conversation begins with Venkat Rao complaining to Naidu that Lokesh was neglecting his repeated request to help him get Rs 3 crore from builder K.L. Narayana, though Chandrababu Naidu and film actor Balakrishna had promised to help him out.

When Rao said Lokesh did not receive him properly when he went to meet him, the TD state president was seen saying, "ippudu andariki ante. Yevvariki vinadam ledi. Evvari badhalu vallavi" (Lokesh is not listening to anyone. We are all having issues).

Reacting to Rao repeatedly complaining against Lokesh, the TD state president said, "aa manishulu baagunte party ki ee parishithi enduku vunundi"

It was an open secret in political circles that Atchannaidu and Lokesh have strained relations and the latter tried to halt the appointment of the several-time MLA from Srikakulam district as party president for AP.

Atchannaidu had been arrested by the Jagan-led state government in a corruption case a few months ago.

NOTICES SERVED TO GOVT FOR FAILING TO IMPLEMENT RTEDC CORRESPONDENT
VIJAYAWADA, APRIL 13

A notice under Section 166 of IPC was served to the state government for failing to implement the Right to Free and Compulsory Education Act, 2009, resulting in deprivation of access to quality education to nearly one lakh children belonging to the poor and vulnerable sections in private schools every academic year in AP.

Advocate Thandava Yogesh served the notices under Section 166 of IPC recently, dealing with a public servant disobeying the law with an intent to cause injury to any person and shall be punished with simple imprisonment for a term which may extend to one year with or without fine. The notices were served to the Chief Minister, minister for education, school education principal secretary, commissioner of school education and to all the district education officers in the state.

Earlier, the advocate filed a PIL in 2017 in the High Court seeking direction for implementation of section 12 (1)(C) of Right to Free and Compulsory Education Act, 2009, read with AP RTE Rules, 2010, Rule 14.15 and 16.

The act deals with provision of reservation for admission in private schools for children belonging to the poor and vulnerable sections in Class I at least 25 per cent in an academic year.

However, in 2010, a private school management obtained a stay order from the High Court on implementation of RTE, 2009 Section 12 (1)(C). In 2012, the Supreme Court adjudicated the RTE, 2009 Section 12 (1)(C) as valid.

In 2014 also, the Supreme Court Constitution Bench declared the same Act as valid. The SC also issued direction in a case that any stay order issued by a court to be valid for six months only.

Despite such an order, the AP government has been maintaining that a stay order has been there on implementation of the Act and is failing to ensure implementation of the Act by the private educational institutions for several years.

Advocate Yogesh said, "As the state government failed to ensure the Act to be implemented by the private schools for several years, I served notices to the government under Section 166 of IPC.

My objective is to ensure social justice to the children by enabling them to get quality education in private schools under the Act."

Naidu is politicising hurling of stones: Suresh

Minister says TD supremo was trying to damage healthy relations between people and governmentDC CORRESPONDENT
NELLORE, APRIL 13

Education minister Adimulapu Suresh accused TD national president N. Chandrababu Naidu of trying damage the healthy relations between people and the state government.

Addressing a public meeting at Manubolu on Tuesday as part of his campaign in favour of YSRC Tirupati Lok Sabha byelection candidate M. Gurumoorthy, the minister said the former CM is playing politics by raising a hue and cry over hurling of stones on his road-show at Tirupati on Monday night.

He charged that the stones were hurled by TD people themselves to gain sympathy. Maintaining that TD will be forgotten soon, he called upon people to ensure a thumping majority for Gurumoorthy.

Stressing that Naidu was trying to do politics with stones, Suresh sarcastically said that the TD supremo got patent rights for the culture of throwing chappals and stones on own party leaders.

"Chandrababu Naidu is yearning for public sympathy through shortcuts. Women are certain to reprimand him if he continues to blabber about Amma Vodi benefits are going for Ayya buddi (father liquor)," the minister said.

Speaking on the occasion, Venkatagiri legislator Anam Ramanarayana Reddy took pot shots against nominees of BJP, Congress and TD contesting the Tirupati Lok Sabha seat. He said they had supported the TD nominee for 15 years but she shifted to Telugu Desam.

He pointed out that the BJP nominee lives in Karnataka and speaks only Kannada. Congress nominee Dr. Chinta Mohan used to stay in Kerala. But it is only YSRC nominee Gurumoorthy who is the most accessible among all others, he said while appealing to people to vote for Gurumoorthy.

Government whip Prabhakar Reddy, legislators Kakani Govardhan Reddy, Silpa Chakrapani and K. Parthasarathy also spoke.

Meanwhile, the YSRC leaders under the supervision Anam Ramanarayana Reddy making arrangements for a huge rally at Venkatagiri town on Wednesday at 8 am.

The rally will commence at Kasi Viswanadha Swamy temple after offering prayers to the presiding deity. It will pass through Kasipeta Centre, Dwaraka Hotel Centre, Rajavari Veedhi, Vinayaka temple, Poleramma temple and conclude at MRO Office Centre.

CHINTA VOWS TO MAKE VENKATAGIRI AS AP'S CAPITALDC CORRESPONDENT
NELLORE, APRIL 13

Former MP and Congress nominee for Tirupati Lok Sabha bypoll Dr Chinta Mohan surprised the residents of Venkatagiri town with a peculiar promise that he would put all his efforts to make Venkatagiri as capital of Andhra Pradesh if they vote for the Congress.

Addressing the gathering during a public meeting at Venkatagiri on Tuesday, he accused TD chief N. Chandrababu Naidu of taking away the capital to Thullur (Amaravati) even when 1 lakh acres of government land was available between Venkatagiri and Yerpedu.

He maintained that Venkatagiri has all the qualities necessary for a state capital while hinting that a major part of AP was under Venkatagiri when it was ruled by kings.

Referring to the popularity of handloom saris produced at Venkatagiri all over the country, he said it should have been considered as the capital city of AP but unfortunately TD supremo Chandrababu Naidu opted for Tulluru, probably due to its proximity to Guntur and Krishna districts.

He lamented over disregarding the availability of a huge chunk of government lands near Venkatagiri and the potential of the region.

"Besides one lakh acres of land, the area is close to Kandaleru reservoir, national highway, and the international airport at Tirupati. The area is also safe from earthquakes and floods, yet the region has been neglected. If Congress is supported, I will try to make Venkatagiri the Capital city of the state," said Chinta Mohan.

Opposition leader and former Chief Minister Nara Chandrababu Naidu has alleged that he is being targeted by "hawala ministers and gambler ministers" of the YSR Congress. Naidu stated this on Tuesday as he addressed a roadshow in Gudur as part of the campaign for TD nominee Panabaka Lakshmi in the Tirupati by-election.

Referring to the stone-pelting incident while he held a roadshow in Tirupati a day ago, Naidu alleged that the police were seeking evidence rather than arresting the culprits.

Stressing that the state of affairs in AP was often shocking him, Naidu said, "Stones were hitting us. There were those who were injured, there was blood too. After all these, the police are unmoved and simply seeking evidence from us."

The former chief minister said, "Am I afraid of being stoned after being Chief Minister for 14 years? Militants used 24 claymore explosives to kill me. Nothing happens to me as long as Tirupati's Lord Venkateswara is with me. No one can do anything on me."

Naidu assured the people that there would not be any corruption, threats, false cases, and exploitation of natural resources if the Telugu Desam Party candidate is elected for the Tirupati Lok Sabha seat.

Naidu said the ruling party, out to win the election, is trying to misuse the police at times of attacks on the opposition leaders.

Telugu Desam senior leader and former minister K Kala Venkatrao has alleged that the incident of "stone-pelting" on former chief minister and TD national president Nara Chandrababu Naidu is proof of the anarchic "Raja Reddy Rajyngam" prevailing in Andhra Pradesh.

He said here on Tuesday that the YSRC is realising that defeat is inevitable. "Its rowdy mob pelted stones at Naidu at the instigation of chief minister Jagan Reddy. The culprits must be arrested and adequate protection provided to the TD chief," he said.

The stone-pelting allegedly took place during the road show of Chandrababu Naidu in Tirupati on Monday. "This is a direct proof of the Rajareddy Rajyngam. This mirrors the undemocratic style of governance prevailing in the state," Venkatrao said.

He said Jagan Reddy is terrorizing voters and weakening the Opposition.

Venkatrao alleged that there was no development during the two-year rule of the YSRC. "What was evident were the YSRC's attacks and the government's partisan attitude towards the Opposition.

"On the other hand, the Opposition leaders who questioned mafia rule of Jagan Reddy have been charged with aggravated assault, murder and physical threat."

Satyanarayana said the police and his friendly TV channel made it clear that there was no trace of attack on Naidu with stones during his public meeting in Tirupati. Yet, he abused the police and the Chief Minister. Later, he staged a dharna.

"He called out a party worker and told him to bring the stone and the worker brought a small pebble. Naidu is still resorting to stone-age gimmicks," the minister said and added that such gimmicks were common to Naidu.

Summer tourism in Araku valley draws blank for the second consecutive year with a handful of locals visiting attractive places like Borra caves, Ananthagiri, Araku Valley and Chaprai.

"Only a few hundreds of local people are visiting the valley, and they are not staying overnight. The second wave surge has scared many outsiders, and for the second consecutive year, no tourist from West Bengal visited the Agency," said the divisional manager of AP Tourism Development Corporation, Giri Prasad Reddy.

Talking to DC on Tuesday, Reddy said APTDC hotels and resorts were booked till Ugadi as three holidays preceded the festival, but no fresh enquiries were received. Rajdhani Hotel, the best

He said though the agency is free from the virus since last November, only young couples visit the valley and return by 4 pm. He added that this would hit hard on the people who depended on tourism for gainful employment.

Covid hits Ugadi celebrations

DC CORRESPONDENT
KAKINADA, APRIL 13

The tilling of the lands with bullocks have almost disappeared and also traditional forms of entertainment are also gradually vanishing from the villages.

The traditional Ugadi celebrations remained muted in Godavari districts because of the surging cases of Covid-19 disease.

The state government used to celebrate Ugadi as an official festival by arranging Panchanga Sravanam (citation of the Telugu new almanac calendar) programme, recitation of poetry and other cultural activities.

The government could not celebrate the festival officially due to Covid-19 lockdown last year. This year also the Ugadi celebrations were low-profile and officials did not take up any culture programmes due to the second wave of Covid scare. Though there was no lockdown this year, the state culture department has not given permission or issued any instructions to the district administrations to hold the festival.

Many poets and artists who were eagerly waiting for the fete to prove their talent and also receive awards, were disappointed.

Sources, however, said the shortage of funds at the culture department is another reason for the muted celebrations.

"We welcome the government's decision to suspend the official celebration of traditional festivals like "Ugadi" to prevent gathering at one place. But the government did not ban other programmes which led to overcrowding. For example, the government has held felicitation functions to volunteers, which was attended by thousands of people", said Chinta Gopi Sarma Siddanti, an almanac writer and also Bhuvaneswari Peetham chief at Peddapuram.

DC CORRESPONDENT THIRUVANANTHAPURAM, APRIL 13

Kerala higher education minister K.T. Jaleel who was indicted by Lokayukta for nepotism, abuse of power and breach of oath of office, resigned here on Tuesday.

Jaleel sent his resignation to Chief Minister Pinarayi Vijayan and the latter forwarded it to Governor Arif Mohammad Khan.

In an emotional Facebook post Jaleel said that those who were baying for his blood could find some relief now. The minister's resignation came hours before the Kerala High Court was scheduled to hear his plea challenging the Lokayukta damning report.

In his petition Jaleel had contended that the Lokayukta findings were not based on evidence or proper investigations, hence the ruling should be set aside by the high court. The Lokayukta had indicted him of appointing his close relative K.T. Adeeb by altering the educational qualifications needed for the post of general manager, state minorities development finance corporation.

The division bench of Lokayukta had ruled that the charge of abuse of power, favouritism and nepotism against Jaleel had been proved.

Says experiences, expertise, resources must in the fight against pandemic

SRIDHAR KUMARASWAMI | DC NEW DELHI, APRIL 13

The Covid-19 pandemic has presented us an opportunity to reshape the world order and we must think of the entire humanity and not merely of those who are on our side of the borders, Prime Minister Narendra Modi said on Tuesday, adding that “we in India have tried to walk the talk (and) have tried to protect our own 1.3 billion citizens from the pandemic” but that despite many constraints, India had still “supplied vaccine to over 80 countries”.

Acknowledging that “the supplies have been modest” and the “demands huge”, he said it would “be a long time before the entire humanity can be vaccinated”.

Advocating that that “humanity as a whole must be at the centre of our thinking and action”, PM Modi promised that

Congress, Sena fear Kumbh returnees may worsen crisis

SONU SHRIVASTAVA | DC MUMBAI, APRIL 13

Senior Congress leader and Maharashtra Cabinet minister Asalam Shaikh criticised the BJP led-Uttarakhand government for not enforcing the Covid related norms in Kumbh Mela. Shaikh stated that these were the same people who alleged that Tablighi Jamaat had spread the virus. Shiv Sena Rajya Sabha MP

Sanjay Raut also expressed apprehension that the people returning from Kumbh mela in Haridwar will turn out to be potential carriers of Covid.

Without taking the name of the BJP, Shaikh said that the same people who accused the Tablighi Jamaat of spreading Covid in the country have allowed lakhs of people to gather at Kumbh Mela in Haridwar.

He claimed that the number of Coronavirus patients are increasing by four times in Haridwar. The Congress leader said that Uttarakhand Chief Minister Tirath Singh Rawat should be held accountable for Covid spread. “When many states are invoking section 144 to avoid the gathering of more than five people, the Uttarakhand CM is giving opportunity to gather lakhs of people,” Shaikh said.

Frames of crematorium furnaces melt due to rush of bodies in Guj.

Surat, April 13: Metal structures of furnaces at some crematoriums in Surat have started melting or breaking as they are being used round-the-clock due to the rush of bodies amid the Covid-19 pandemic, officials said on Tuesday.

Since the past one week, around 16 gas-based furnaces at the Kurukshetra Crematorium and Ashvini Kumar Crematorium here in Gujarat are operating 24X7 to cremate bodies, hence maintenance issues are cropping up, they said.

The metal frames of gas furnaces, on which the bodies are kept, and chimneys are melting or breaking because of overheating and excessive use, the official said. In the last couple of days, Surat city reported 18 to 19 deaths due to Covid-19 every day.

MP GOVERNMENT TAKES OVER ALL CREMATORIUMS IN RAIPUR DISTRICT

RABINDRA NATH CHOUDHURY | DC RAIPUR, APRIL 13

The Raipur district administration on Tuesday took over all the 18 crematoriums and burial grounds falling under Raipur Municipal Corporation for performing funeral rites of the deceased Covid-19 victims. Earlier, two crematoriums were used for cremation of the bodies of the Covid-19 victims.

“Before the Coronavirus outbreak last year, around 20 bodies were cremated at the Kurukshetra Crematorium every day. Now, there is a sudden rush of bodies. At present, we are handling about 100 bodies per day,” tor S. Bharathidasan took stock of the situation in a video conference with officers concerned and ordered use of all the 18 crematoriums and burial grounds falling under Raipur Municipal Corporation for performing funeral rites of the deceased Covid-19 victims. Earlier, two crematoriums were used for cremation of the bodies of the Covid-19 victims.

Kamlesh Sailor, president of a trust which manages the crematorium, said. Sailor said six gas furnaces at their facility are now being operated 24 hours and hence, the temperature there reaches up to 600 degrees Celsius.

As a result, the iron frames and chimneys have started melting and breaking due to the heat, he said, adding that mechanics are being called to replace those parts.

The Ashvini Kumar Crematorium, the oldest such facility in Surat, is also facing similar issues and its management has decided to increase the number of traditional wood pyres to manage the rush of bodies in case of maintenance issues in the gas furnaces.

“We operate 10 gas furnaces and three wood pyres. Earlier, we used to cremate about 30 bodies every day. Now, the number has gone up to 90-95,” the crematorium’s manager, Prashant Kabrawala, said. Since the furnaces are being operated round-the-clock, some of their iron frames have melted due to overheating.

Maha govt imposes stern curbs till May 1

SONU SHRIVASTAVA | DC MUMBAI, APRIL 13

Maharashtra Chief Minister Uddhav Thackeray on Tuesday announced imposition of prohibitory orders — the section 144 of CrPC (sanchar-bandhi) from 8.00 pm on Wednesday to 7.00 am May 1 in order to break the chain of the Coronavirus.

Public transport will continue to function only for essential workers and for essential activities for general public.

“Nobody would be allowed to use the public transport without a valid reason excluding the people notified under essential services in an order issued by the disaster management unit of the Relief and Rehabilitation department,” Thackeray said in his video address to people.

Stating that the situation is very grim in Maharashtra, Thackeray said that the government would use this 15 days period to scale up its health infrastructure.

The Maharashtra on Tuesday reported 60,212 new cases taking total positive cases to 5,93,042. The state also reported 281 deaths on Tuesday.

Underlining the shortage of oxygen and Remdesivir injection among other things, Thackeray said, “at present, 1,200 MT oxygen is being produced in our state. Of these, 950 to 1,000 MT oxygen are being used daily. The demand for Remdesivir injection is also increasing.”

The Chief Minister also said he will speak to Prime Minister Narendra Modi to request him to provide the Indian Air Force’s assistance in the supply of oxygen for medical use from nearby states.

Petrol pumps, financial institutions associated with SEBI, ATMs, and construction work would also continue. Hotel and restaurants would remain closed and only take-away/home deliveries would be allowed.

Thackeray also appealed to retired nurses, doctors and health workers to extend their help during the Covid crises.

Didi calls off Dharna as EC acts against three BJP leaders

RAJIB CHOWDHURI | DC KOLKATA, APRIL 13

West Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee on Tuesday wrapped up her dharna in protest against the Election Commission’s “undemocratic and unconstitutional” ban on her campaign for 24 hours in the Assembly election within few hours after the Election Commission ordered similar steps, in a balancing act, against three Bharatiya Janata Party leaders — Rahul Sinha, state chief and Midnapore MP Dilip Ghosh and Nandigram candidate Suwendu Adhikari — over their controversial remarks.

Though the Trinamul Congress supreme had announced she would sit on dharna from 12 noon, she reached the Gandhi Statue at the Maidan, which falls under the authority of the Army’s Eastern Command as it is defence land, quite early.

From 11.45 am Banerjee, in her wheelchair, began her silent protest, also a rare scene, sitting there alone.

As she was seen talking on her mobile before getting busy at painting, it came to light that her party’s application to the defence ministry for permission for her demonstration at the venue was yet to be cleared.

Eastern Command spokesman Wing Commander Mandeep Huda said: “We have received the application from the Trinamul Congress for a no objection certificate for the Gandhi statue protest. It was received at 9.40 am today. It is under process. We have not yet issued the NOC for that. We are processing it as per laid down procedures and guidelines.”

Meanwhile the Election Commission, in wake of the TMC’s questions on its impartiality, ordered a 48-hour campaign ban, starting from 12 noon on Tuesday, on Habra Bharatiya Janata Party candidate Rahul Sinha for his inflammatory remarks on the killings of four persons by the Central paramilitary forces at Shitalkuchi in Cooch Behar during the fourth phase of the polls.

“Not four, eight people should have been shot dead by the Central forces there! The Central forces should be issued a show-cause notice asking why they killed only four and not eight. Goons are trying to deprive people of their democratic rights. Central forces responded appropriately. If it happens again, they will answer again,” the former state Bharatiya Janata Party president had claimed at a campaign rally on Monday.

After the order, he however said: “I hold the Election Commission in high respect. But it is a severe punishment to me.”

The Election Commission also served a showcause notice to Ghosh directing him to explain his recent threat to “repeat the Shitalkuchi-style killings at many places” during the polls by 10 am on Wednesday.

The poll panel also warned and advised Adhikari, after getting his reply to its notice on his “begun” remark, in a veiled reference to Banerjee, and his assertion that voting for his political opponent would imply voting for a “mini-Pakistan”, “to desist from using such statements while making public utterances during the period when the Model Code of Conduct is in force”.

Five hours before the end of the ban on her campaign, Banerjee cut short her dharna at around 3 pm and headed for home at Harish Chatterjee Street in Kalighat.

Resuming her campaign on Tuesday evening, Banerjee said: “On one hand the Bharatiya Janata Party leaders will keep campaigning while on the other hand I cannot campaign. You be the judge... I will leave it to the masses to judge... I fail to understand why there has been an all-round attempt to stop me from campaigning,” the chief minister said at Barasat in North 24 Parganas.

India, Pak are religiously observing ceasefire pact since Feb.

J&K: Marriage feast returns along LoC

Jammu, April 13: As India and Pakistan adhere to ceasefire agreement after years of cross-border shelling, marriage celebrations have silently returned to villages along the Line of Control (LoC) in Jammu and Kashmir.

Director General of Military Operations (DGMOs) of India and Pakistan agreed to uphold ceasefire along the borders in the Union Territory from the night of February 24 and 25, bringing respite to the residents who were reeling under the constant threat of shelling from across the border.

The original ceasefire agreement was reached between the nations in November 2003 but it virtually lost its relevance after 2006 due to frequent ceasefire violations that touched an all-time high in 2020 with over 5,000 incidents of firing and shelling being recorded.

The latest decision brought relief to the border residents who resumed activities like farming and schooling that were the worst-hit by Pakistani shelling.

With both countries observing the ceasefire agreement religiously since February, people have also started celebrating weddings in their own houses instead of moving the events to safer places outside the villages, the officials said.

They said brightly illuminated wedding houses are a common sight on the borders these days in both Poonch and Rajouri districts as are people dancing to drums and accompaniments, a sight which many have forgotten due to the constant fear of shelling and the practice of observing complete darkness to escape being attacked during the hostilities.

“We are happy to witness such celebrations after a very long time,” Parvez Ahmad, a groom from village Gagriya along the zero line in Sawian area of Poonch said.

Vatican probe: U.S. Bishop quits

Rome, April 13: A Minnesota bishop who was investigated by the Vatican for allegedly interfering with past investigations into clergy sexual abuse has resigned.

The Vatican said Tuesday that Pope Francis accepted the resignation of Bishop Michael Hoeppner and named a temporary replacement to run the Crookston diocese. Hoeppner is 71, four years shy of the normal retirement age for bishops. The Vatican did not say why Francis accepted the resignation, but the Vatican in 2019 authorised an investigation into claims that Hoeppner had engaged in "acts or omissions intended to interfere with or avoid civil or canonical investigations of clerical sexual misconduct."

The Vatican tasked St Paul-Minneapolis Archbishop Bernard Hebda with conducting the investigation. Hoeppner is accused of stating that a priest was fit for ministry despite allegedly knowing the priest had abused a 16-year-old boy.

HK's LEGISLATIVE POLL TO TAKE PLACE IN DEC.

Hong Kong, April 13: Hong Kong leader Carrie Lam said Tuesday that the semi-autonomous Chinese territory's legislative elections will take place in December, more than a year after they were postponed by authorities citing public health risks from the coronavirus pandemic.

Lam also said that laws will be amended so that inciting voters not to vote or to cast blank or invalid votes will be made illegal, although voters themselves are free to boycott voting or cast votes as they wish. "When a person willfully obstructs or prevents any person from voting at an election, we will consider it corrupt conduct," said Lam.

Lam said that the elections will take place on Dec. 19. The elections were initially slated to be held last September. Lam was speaking a day ahead of the first reading of draft amendments to various laws in the city's legislature, to accommodate Beijing's planned changes to the city's electoral system. Beijing in March announced changes to Hong Kong's electoral system, expanding the number of seats in the legislature while reducing the number of directly-elected seats from 35 to 20.

The move is part of a two-phase effort to rein in political protest and opposition in Hong Kong, which is part of China but has had a more liberal political system.

Iran to enrich uranium to highest level

Dubai, April 13: Iran will begin enriching uranium to 60 per cent purity, higher than the programme ever has before though still short of weapons grade, after an attack on its Natanz nuclear facility, an Iranian negotiator said Tuesday. The announcement marks a significant escalation after the sabotage, suspected to have been carried out by Israel. It could result in further action by Israel, whose Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu has vowed never to allow Tehran to obtain a nuclear weapon, and further raise tensions across the Mideast. Nuclear negotiator Abbas Araghchi's comment, quoted by the state-run IRNA news agency, came after Iran's foreign minister warned that the weekend assault could hurt ongoing negotiations over its tattered atomic deal with world powers.

Those talks are aimed at finding a way for the United States to re-enter the agreement, the goal of which is to limit Iran's enrichment of uranium in exchange for relief on sanctions. Iran had been enriching up to 20 per cent. That is a short technical step to weapons-grade levels of 90 per cent.

The International Atomic Energy Agency said it was aware of the media reports but had no comment at the time. Press TV, the Iranian state television's English-language

500 troops to be added by US in Germany: Austin

Berlin, April 13: Defence Secretary Lloyd Austin announced on Tuesday that he is expanding the US military presence in Germany by 500 troops, suggesting he will not carry out a Trump administration order to withdraw thousands of them.

"This planned increase in US personnel underscores our commitment to Germany and the entire NATO alliance," Austin said in a notable counterpoint to the Trump administration's repeated complaints that Germany is a weak partner on defence and security.

Austin made the announcement after talks with German Defence Minister Annegret Kramp-Karrenbauer on his first tour of Europe since becoming Pentagon chief in January. Kramp-Karrenbauer welcomed the announcement as a "strong signal" of a healthy US-German relationship. They also discussed a pending decision by President Joe Biden on whether to withdraw completely from Afghanistan by May 1, a deadline the Trump administration pledged to the Taliban militants.

Germany is a key part of the US-led coalition in Afghanistan. Austin said at a joint news conference with Kramp-Karrenbauer that the extra 500 US troops will be stationed permanently in Germany's Wiesbaden area as early as this fall.

"These forces will strengthen deterrence and defence in Europe. They will augment our existing abilities to prevent conflict, and, if necessary, fight and win," Austin said in prepared remarks. "This move will also create more space, more cyber, and more electronic warfare capabilities in Europe," he added, and he said it will "greatly improve our ability to surge forces at a moment's notice to defend our allies."

Last year, President Donald Trump ordered the withdrawal of 12,000 troops from Germany as retribution for what he considered Germany's refusal to spend more on its own defence. Austin suspended that move shortly after taking office. He said decisions on troop levels would be made as part of a comprehensive review of the US military presence around the world, including in Europe.

Austin's announcement on Tuesday is the first concrete indication that he may not carry out the Trump decision, which included moving US European Command headquarters from Germany to Belgium.

The US currently has about 35,000 troops in Germany. Asked by a reporter whether the decision to add 500 troops means Washington will not carry out Trump's move, Austin said the Pentagon has "ceased planning" for troop reductions. The German minister said she had Biden's word that "there will be no troop reduction as was previously planned."

US suggests 'pause' in use of J&J vax over blood clot fears

Recommendations by health authorities is blow to immunisation campaign

Washington, April 13: US health authorities recommended a "pause" Tuesday in the use of the Johnson & Johnson Covid-19 vaccine "out of an abundance of caution" over potential links to a rare type of blood clot, in a blow to the country's immunisation campaign.

The disorder appears similar to that observed in rare cases of people who received the AstraZeneca vaccine in Europe — and the shots by both companies are based on adenovirus vector technology.

The US Food and Drug Administration and the Centers for Disease Control are assessing the "potential significance" of six reported cases of a type of clot in the brain called cerebral venous sinus thrombosis (CVST) in combination with low levels of blood platelets (thrombocytopenia).

All the cases involved women between the ages of 18 and 48, and symptoms occurred six to 14 days after vaccination.

As of Monday more than 6.8 million doses of the single-shot J&J vaccine had been administered in the US — meaning that the rare effect appears to have been detected in around one in a million cases.

"People who have received the J&J vaccine who develop severe headache, abdominal pain, leg pain, or shortness of breath within three weeks after vaccination should contact their health care provider," the FDA said.

The CDC will convene a meeting of a top expert committee on Wednesday to further assess these cases and their significance, and the FDA will also carry out its own investigation. "Until that process is complete, we are recommending this pause out of an abundance of caution," it said, to ensure the medical community was aware of the development and could develop appropriate treatment plans.

The pause deals a hit to the United States' Covid vaccination campaign, which has so far administered 45 percent of the adult population at least one dose — among the most rapid rates in the world.

The J&J vaccine was celebrated for the fact it can be stored at fridge temperature and requires just one dose — unlike Pfizer and Moderna that need two and require freezing.

But even before the pause, the company was affected by supply problems after a contractor spoiled 15 million doses that never

J&J delays Europe vax rollout

Berlin, April 13: Johnson & Johnson said Tuesday it is delaying the rollout of its Coronavirus vaccine in Europe amid a US probe into reports of rare blood clots in some recipients.

The announcement came after regulators in the United States said they were recommending a "pause" in administration of the single-dose shot to investigate reports of potentially dangerous blood clots. "We have been reviewing these cases with European health authorities," Johnson & Johnson said.

"We have made the decision to proactively delay the rollout of our vaccine in Europe." The delay is a further blow to vaccination drives in European nations, plagued by supply shortages, logistical problems and concerns over unusual blood clots in a small number of people who received the AstraZeneca vaccine. The blood clot reports prompted several countries to limit the vaccine to older age groups.

Nonetheless, with Pfizer and Moderna continuing to deliver their hundreds of millions of promised doses on time, the US is likely to maintain a high vaccination pace.

The FDA said that normally, an anticoagulant drug called heparin is used to treat these blood clots, but in this case administering heparin might be dangerous.

UN: MYANMAR MAY SEE HUGE CONFLICT

Geneva, April 13: The UN rights chief warned Tuesday of possible crimes against humanity in Myanmar and said it seemed to be heading towards a massive conflict like the one ravaging Syria.

In a statement, the UN rights office urged countries to take immediate and decisive action to push the military leaders behind a February 1 coup in Myanmar to stop their "campaign of repression and slaughter of its people."

"I fear the situation in Myanmar is heading towards a full-blown conflict," Michelle Bachelet, the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights, said in the statement.

"States must not allow the deadly mistakes of the past in Syria and elsewhere to be repeated," Myanmar is in chaos and its economy paralysed since the military seized power from civilian leader Aung San Suu Kyi on February 1.

A junta crackdown against dissent has resulted in the civilian death toll reaching at least 710 as of late Monday including 50 children, according to a local monitoring group.

US, Nato turning Ukraine into 'powder keg', accuses Russia

Moscow, April 13: Moscow on Tuesday accused the United States and other Nato countries of turning Ukraine into a "powder keg," after the West sounded the alarm over Russian soldiers massing on the border.

"The United States and other Nato countries are deliberately turning Ukraine into a powder keg," Deputy Foreign Minister Sergei Ryabkov was quoted as saying by Russian news agencies, adding that countries were increasing their arms supplies to Ukraine.

Clashes between Ukrainian forces and Moscow-backed separatists in eastern Ukraine have escalated in recent weeks, upending a ceasefire brokered last year. Following an uptick in violence, Russia has built up troops along the border, raising fears of a major escalation in the long-running conflict in Ukraine's mainly Russian-speaking east.

"If there is any aggravation, we of course will do everything to ensure our security and the safety of our citizens, wherever they are," Ryabkov said.

US TO LEAVE TROOPS IN AFGHANISTAN BEYOND MAY

Washington, April 13: President Joe Biden has decided to leave American troops in Afghanistan beyond the May 1 deadline negotiated with the Taliban by the Trump administration, and has set the 20th anniversary of the Sept. 11 attacks as the new goal, US officials said Tuesday.

Biden has been hinting for weeks that he was going to let the deadline lapse, and as the days went by it became clear that an orderly withdrawal of the remaining 2,500 troops would be difficult and was unlikely. US officials provided details on Biden's decision on condition of anonymity, speaking ahead of the announcement. His decision risks retaliation by the Taliban on US and Afghan forces, possibly escalating the 20-year war. And it will reignite political division over America's involvement in what many have called the endless war.

Protest after chief says cop meant to use Taser

Brooklyn Centre (US), April 13: Police clashed with protesters for a second night in the Minneapolis suburb where an officer who authorities say apparently intended to fire a Taser, not a handgun, fatally shot a PoC man during a traffic stop.

Brooklyn Centre Police Chief Tim Gannon described Sunday's shooting death of 20-year-old Daunte Wright as "an accidental discharge." The shooting sparked protests and unrest in an area already on edge because of the trial of the first of four police officers charged in George Floyd's death.

Hundreds of protesters faced off against police in Brooklyn Centre after nightfall Monday, and hours after a dusk-to-dawn curfew was announced by the governor. When the protesters wouldn't disperse, police began firing gas canisters and flash-bang grenades, sending clouds wafting over the crowd and chasing some protesters away.

A long line of police in riot gear began slowly forcing back the remaining crowds.

Vaccine crisis intensifies, scale up production now

The decision of the subject expert committee of the Central Drugs and Standards Control Organisation (CDSCO), the country's drugs regulatory agency, to recommend Russia's Covid vaccine Sputnik V for emergency use authorisation is a welcome, if not belated, step. The CDSCO cleared the Sputnik V for use, making it the third such product available in the country. The vaccine, developed by Russia-based Gamaleya National Research Institute of Epidemiology and Microbiology, is based on the human adenoviral vector platform and has a proven efficacy rate of 91.6 per cent in the interim analysis of phase 3 clinical trial. It may be remembered that the CDSCO panel had in February deferred its decision on the emergency licence seeking additional data on immunogenicity from the Indian company that was conducting the bridge study in the country.

The Russian vaccine is expected to join India's fight against the virus at a time when the country is facing two crises — one, an unprecedented spike in the daily caseload of Covid-19, and two, short supply of the two vaccines manufactured locally. Data on every single parameter, from the number of new infections to total active cases to test positivity rate and fatality rate, show a new high, putting the nation on the edge. There are reports from several states including Maharashtra and Uttar Pradesh of the healthcare infrastructure coming under extreme strain as we had witnessed in the United States and Italy last year when the first wave of the pandemic hit the world. On top of it, India is facing a shortage of vaccines with several states complaining about being compelled to close down many vaccination centres. The Union government and the Prime Minister had lost no opportunity in going to town with the story of the two made-in India vaccines going to help the world contain the pandemic but the reality at home is starkly different from the claims.

It must not go unsaid that the government did little planning on both upgrading the healthcare infrastructure and on rolling out an inoculation programme despite it getting almost a year since the pandemic arrived here. Several state governments relaxed the restrictions imposed during the lockdown even on social, political and religious gatherings without recognising the fact that the virus had not gone. And the nation now is made to pay a price for it. There was little planning on the manufacturing and distribution of the vaccines either. Both the companies that manufacture the vaccines in India are finding it difficult to meet their targets due to a variety of reasons, which include shortage of funds and even raw materials. The government's lackadaisical approach has landed them in a vicious circle. The Serum Institute of India (SII), which manufactures Covishield, has been served a notice by its foreign partner AstraZeneca for reneging on its obligation of exports, which hit the company's cash flow. SII and Bharat Biotech, which manufactures Covaxin, have both reportedly approached the Centre for funds. The government must immediately consider their request and facilitate ramping up production. Plucking the low-hanging fruits is easy, but going for the ones at the top is tough. The government must realise it.

Winners and losers

In what must rate as one of the finest IPL innings seen in a big run chase came the lesson that sometimes even the most valourous must bow to the dictates of Lady Fortune. Success and failure are not the same as victory and defeat as there will always be valiant sportsmen who shine as winners like Sanju Samson even if he did end up on the losing side. A gifted cricket writer used to describe the limited-overs game as "a perfumed harlot" who bestowed her favours one minute and dashed your hopes the next. Samson must have felt the weight of such an allegory as he took it upon himself to keep the strike and aim for that one more lofted drive for victory on a night of inspired stroke

Golf must seem even more of a perfumed harlot in the bestowing of favours as there can be many a slip between the ball and the lip of the cup that makes the hole.

play and keen reading of the cricket compass. As it transpired, a yard or so made all the difference between victory and defeat as Rajasthan Royals' skipper Samson was caught on the line to leave the Punjab Kings the victors. It was clear enough though who the star gladiator of the night was. It was a similar story but one with the happiest ending for another sportsman at the other end of the world as Hideki Matsuyama of Japan held on to his lead to earn the right to wear the coveted Green Jacket at the Masters in Augusta, Georgia. Golf must seem even more of a perfumed harlot in the bestowing of favours as there can be many a slip between the ball and the lip of the cup that makes the hole. No victory could have been more dramatic and more inspiring than that of a Japanese journeyman golfer scaling Olympian heights. Eyebrows may rise at the sight of international sportsmen minting millions while billions cower in fear of the virus. But IPL has the money to create a safe bio-bubble for players while viewers are entertained in these grim times. It is Japan's wish then that Matsuyama headline the Olympics while the Games go on to show the world that humanity can emerge from the life-and-death fight against the virus.

India's isolation likely to grow in the entire region

K.C. Singh

Some recent diplomatic events, many of them flowing from shifting global power equations, hold much significance for India. The overlapping visits by Russian foreign minister Sergey Lavrov and US special presidential climate envoy John Kerry raised eyebrows. India frets over the growing Russian proximity to the China-Pakistan axis. Mr Kerry met Prime Minister Narendra Modi to discuss India's Paris Agreement commitments. But Mr Lavrov could not, either due to Mr Modi's preoccupation with the Assembly elections or India conveying a subtle snub as Mr Lavrov, unmindful of Indian sentiments, combined his Indian trip with one to Pakistan. Also, when Russia hosted an intra-Afghan meeting, India was not invited. To shape events in post-transition Afghanistan, Russia has now repositioned.

Russian President Vladimir Putin's India visit later this year will be against this background. India wants to retain Russian goodwill while enhancing America's role as arms supplier and strategic partner. Thus, India retains its order for Russia's S-400 air defence system, despite US warnings about the inevitable US sanctions under the Countering America's Adversaries Through Sanctions Act (CAATSA). External affairs minister S. Jaishankar termed India-Russia ties as time-tested and warm. Mr Lavrov listed areas of cooperation ranging from combating the Covid-19 pandemic, to nuclear energy, peaceful uses of space and infrastructure projects, in the Far East and the Arctic. Afghanistan, Syria, Iran and the Gulf were also discussed.

Russia strongly supported the Russia-India-China grouping (RIC), besides the East Asia Summit. A Russian role in the Sino-Indian de-escalation in Ladakh has been speculated about. Russia realises that India-Russia ties will get impacted if Russia's burgeoning engagement with China is accompanied by China-India tensions. Both ministers emphasised the centrality of Asean in developing cooperative ventures in East Asia. This addressed Russian concerns, which China shares, about the "Quad", of which India is a member alongside Australia, Japan and the United States.

During his media interaction, Mr Lavrov spoke on many issues. Asked about a possible military alliance between Russia and China, he said though their relations have "reached the best level ever", such an alliance was not envisaged. In turn, he asked if a Middle Eastern or Asian Nato was possible, thus indirectly raising India's membership of the Quad. Russia's primary preoccupation is with the European theatre and Nato, with Ukraine as the friction point. China's focus is on the Indo-Pacific, including South and East China Seas, Taiwan and the shoals and islands that its neighbours control or claim. In Central Asia, their interests diverge, as Russia will resent any Chinese consolidation of its influence via Belt and Road Initiative projects. India cannot veto Russia's outreach to Pakistan but must have warned it against defence cooperation. On Afghanistan, Mr Lavrov argued that he "Taliban members are a part of Afghan society", and thus any settlement must include all groups. This mirrors the Pakistan-China approach. India views the Taliban with suspicion, if not hostility.

Then news broke about USS John Paul Jones sailing 130 nautical miles west of India's Lakshadweep Islands, without New Delhi's permission. Being within 200 nautical miles of the island baseline, it fell in India's Exclusive Economic Zone (EEZ). The US is not a signatory to the UN Convention on Laws of the Seas (UNCLOS) and asserts its freedom of navigation through such zones, unilaterally declared by some nations, under customary international law. UNCLOS Articles 55-75 outline EEZs and the rights and obligations of coastal states. But Article 51 allows "other legitimate activities" of non-coastal states in the EEZ. Indian law prescribes prior approval for military exercises and manoeuvres in its zone. It's not clear why the US publicised the issue at this stage, but it also underscores the contradiction in India joining its Quad partners in asserting that right in the Indo-Pacific while, like two score other nations, restricting it in its own EEZ. The US objects to any unilateral delimitation of the high seas as it impacts its naval operations. For India, the interpretation is important as otherwise the naval vessels of China and Pakistan can manoeuvre near India's mainland and islands, the territorial waters, where UNCLOS allows full sovereignty, extending to just 12 nautical miles.

Two other important developments are underway in India's western neighbourhood. The intra-Afghan dialogue to be hosted by Turkey, tentatively on April 16, faces uncertainty. The Taliban demands issues like the withdrawal of American troops by May 1 be settled before they name their delegation. The Kabul government's vision, as spelt out by President Ashraf Ghani at the Heart of Asia conference in Tajikistan, calls for a negotiated political settlement and ceasefire before a presidential election and establishment of a "government of peace".

Simultaneously Iran and P-5+1 prepared to meet in Vienna to restore Iranian conformity with the nuclear deal, called the Joint Comprehensive Programme of Action. Negotiated during Barack Obama's presidency, it was abandoned by the Trump administration. Israel, stumbling through more post-election uncertainty, took credit for a cyber-attack on Iran's nuclear enrichment facility at Natanz, causing a power failure. It may have set back the plant by a year. It was intended to undermine the Vienna talks and may do so as the Iranians favouring talks are isolated by such attacks.

In both these developments, India is just a spectator. On March 26, the China-Iran 20-year $400-600 billion "comprehensive partnership" was announced. Typical of Iranian tactics, a foreign ministry official later called it a "non-binding agreement". Iran was using the China deal to lure the US and European interlocutors to the dialogue table, preferably with sanctions relief in hand. Iran realises that an India unwilling to defy Washington is of marginal use to its strategy of retaining its strategic gains in West Asia and advancements in its nuclear programme while normalising relations with Europe, if not also the US.

Similarly, in Afghanistan, India can't help Ghani government retain power or even negotiating influence when the Taliban are gaining on the ground and the US keen to cut and run. Iran and Russia, India's steadfast allies during the 1990s to counter the Taliban's rise, are now positioned differently, with one leg in Taliban camp. India is perceived to be in the Saudi-Emirati-US corner, with marginal gains like calibrated deescalation with Pakistan. The fragility of that and the trio's ineffectiveness in restoring even partial trade between India and Pakistan indicates that Pakistan is recovering its mojo as the master of serial diplomatic blackmail. If India cannot quickly get on top of the pandemic respite, its diplomatic isolation in the neighbourhood will only grow.

A SAD STORY

The sad story that tormented not only India but the entire world in 2020 is repeating. It is mainly because of the people disregarding pandemic protocol. The authorities too relaxed. USA, Europe, Brazil and Argentina together with a population of about 135 crores are unable to handle the pandemic despite being developed, educated and rich enough. Unfortunately poor planning by the authorities (obviously so because of a shattered economy) and utter disregard to the protocol by the people led the country into a rather severe second wave.

THE RESURGENCE

The unabating resurgence of Covid-19 in several states has stepped up the demand for the life saving drug remdesivir (Demand for remdesivir picks up as Covid resurges, DC, April 13). Banning the export of remdesivir medicine by the Centre for the present is also welcome and appreciated. Further, it needs to revise its vaccination policy and plan for the inoculation of all categories of people in order to control the transmission of virus. Expanding vaccination coverage is the best way to limit the pandemic.

Ambedkar's way: It was education that helped him make a difference

Babasaheb Bhimrao Ambedkar is the greatest exemplar of the belief that education enables a man to overcome all obstacles in life, be they social, cultural or economic in nature.

Born on April 14, 1891, Ambedkar, whose 130th birth anniversary we are celebrating today, was the 14th and last child of soldier Subedar Ramji Maloji Sakpal and Bhimabai Sakpal, daughter of Laxman Murbadkar. Born into the Mahar (dalit) caste, he experienced caste discrimination and humiliations early in life. But his life is an inspiration to everyone, especially the subaltern wishing to rise in life. With 26 degrees and titles, including PhDs, associated with his name, Ambedkar believed education can alone pave the way for change in society. "Cultivation of the mind should be the ultimate aim of human existence," Ambedkar said.

Ambedkar holds the distinction of being the first Indian to pursue a doctoral degree in economics abroad. He was the first PhD in economics and the first double doctorate holder in economics in South Asia.

Ambedkar experienced discrimination since he was a child. Two incidents had a huge impact on him. Once, while returning home with a cousin after school, they alighted at the railway station in scorching heat and found no one had come to receive them from their village. They managed to hire a bullock cart to travel to their village but on learning the boys were Mahars, the driver forced them to get down from the cart. Babasaheb offered to double the price and even offered to drive the cart himself but the owner refused. On the way, no one allowed them even to drink water. In another incident, Ambedkar went to drink water from a roadside tap. He was beaten up.

Despite the Bole Resolution passed by the Bombay legislature in 1923 called for opening of public places and public water reservoirs to untouchables, there was no change in the plight of the dalits. Ambedkar conceived the Mahad Satyagraha in 1927 to highlight the issue of untouchability and caste discrimination. Surendranath Tipnis, president of Mahad municipality declared public spaces open to dalits and invited Ambedkar to hold a meeting in 1927. After the meeting, they proceeded to Chavadar tank. A riot broke out following a rumour that Ambedkar and his followers were planning to enter a Hindu temple in town. In December 1937, the Bombay high court ruled that untouchables have the right to drink and use water from the tank.

With the Kalam temple entry movement, Ambedkar led a protest outside the temple on March 2, 1930, asserting the right of dalits to enter temples. It was a nonviolent movement attended by over 15,000 people, who squatted before the temple and sang bhajans.

Throughout his life, Ambedkar fought for securing human rights for the downtrodden and the oppressed. He was the first labour minister of India and also our first law minister. On August 29, 1947, he was appointed chairman of the drafting committee of the Constitution. He studied the salient features of constitutions of over 60 countries and distilled the best features that suited the Indian context. He is recognised worldwide as the maker of the Indian Constitution.

The Constitution drafted by Ambedkar ensures justice and equality to each and every citizen of India. Civil liberties, freedom of religion, abolition of untouchability, reservation and prohibition of all forms of discrimination are the gifts of Ambedkar to Indians. Ambedkar championed economic and social rights for women and advocated affirmative action for the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes.

Not many people are aware that Ambedkar refused to draft Article 370 that gave special status to Jammu & Kashmir on grounds that it was discriminatory and against the principles of unity and integrity of the nation. The article was finally drafted by Gopalswamy Ayyangar, former Diwan to Maharaja Hari Singh.

Ambedkar's commitment to equality and justice is best established by his resignation as law minister when the Hindu Code Bill was dropped by Parliament. He had introduced the bill to elevate the social status of Hindu women. Most labour laws protecting the interests of workers are his contribution. He made provisions for maternity benefits for working women.

In 1990, he was posthumously awarded the Bharat Ratna, India's highest civilian honour. His birth anniversary is celebrated as a day to reflect upon the progress made in achieving social equity and ending oppression.

As a nation, we are going to celebrate the 75th anniversary of our Independence in 2022. But even today, all evils against which Ambedkar fought have not been eradicated. The worst of these is communal hatred. The real tribute to Babasaheb would be to establish social and economic justice.

China's March exports rise 30.6% as demand revives

China's exports rose 30.6 per cent over a year ago in March as global consumer demand strengthened and traders watched for signs of what President Joe Biden might do about reviving tariff war talks with Beijing. Exports rose to 241.1 billion, decelerating from the dramatic 60.6 per cent rebound in the first two months of 2021, customs data showed. Imports rose 38.1 per cent over a year ago to 227.3 billion in a sign of reviving Chinese activity.

■ Dues to Centre, states, staff extinguish with plan passage SC: Dues not payable if not part of IBC resolution plan

New Delhi, April 13: In an important judgement, the Supreme Court on Tuesday held that all dues, including statutory ones, payable by ailing companies to the Centre, states and their tax authorities shall stand extinguished if they are not part of approved resolution plan to revive firms under the Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code (IBC).

The apex court said the principal objects of IBC is to provide for revival of the Corporate Debtor and to make it a going concern and remedied the mischief by which tax and other authorities used to keep pursuing such companies to pay their dues leading to a situation which made resolution plans for their revival unworkable.

A bench comprising justices R. F. Nariman, B. R. Gavai and Hrishikesh Roy, deciding a batch of pleas against several orders of the National Company Law Appellate Tribunal, held that the 2019 amendment made to a provision of the IBC is clarificatory and declaratory in nature and so will be effective from the date on which IBC has come into effect in 2016.

As per the amendment made in 2019 in section 31 of IBC, any debt in respect of the payment of dues arising under any law for the time being in force, including the ones owed to the Central Government, any State Government or any local authority, which does not form a part of the approved resolution plan, shall stand extinguished.

Once a resolution plan is duly approved by the adjudicating authority, the claims as provided in the resolution plan shall stand frozen and will be binding on the Corporate Debtor and its employees, members, creditors, including the Central Government, any State Government or any local authority, guarantors and other stakeholders, Justice Gavai, who wrote the 139-page judgment, said.

It said on the date of approval of the resolution plan, all claims, which are not a part of the resolution plan, shall stand extinguished and no person will be entitled to initiate or continue any proceedings in respect to a claim which is not part of the revival package. Consequently all the dues, including the statutory dues owed to the Central Government, any State Government or any local authority, if not part of the resolution plan, shall stand extinguished and no proceedings in respect of such dues for the period prior to the date on which the Adjudicating Authority grants its approval under Section 31 could be continued, the bench held.

The top court was faced with the question whether any creditor, including central or state governments, was bound by the Resolution Plan once it is approved by an adjudicating authority under IBC.

The other issue was as to whether after approval of the resolution plan a creditor is entitled to initiate any proceedings for recovery of any of the dues from the corporate debtor, which are not a part of the Resolution Plan. — PTI

FB, Instagram users can now appeal to Oversight Board

New Delhi, April 13: An independent board set up by Facebook to look into hate speech and other undesirable content on the platform on Tuesday said it will now accept cases from Facebook and Instagram users who believe the company wrongfully allowed such content to remain on these social media platforms. Facebook, which has faced flak in many parts of the world over various issues, including data breaches and handling of hate speech, had set up the Oversight Board last year.

The board includes former judges, journalists and human rights activists, who review appeals from users on material that has been taken down from Facebook and Instagram, and make binding content decisions for the social networking platforms.

"Enabling users to appeal content they want to see removed from Facebook is a significant expansion of the Oversight Board's capabilities," Thomas Hughes, director of the Oversight Board Administration, said in a statement.

The Oversight Board said this new capability represents an important step toward delivering a more principled and transparent model of content moderation. — PTI

Indirect taxes up 12% in FY21

SANGEETHA G
CHENNAI, APRIL 13

Helped by a 59 per cent increase in excise duties, the country's indirect tax collections went up 12.3 per cent in the pandemic-hit FY21.

Indirect tax collections--which include GST, customs, central excise and service tax arrears--for FY21 stood at Rs 10.71 lakh crore against the actual collections of Rs 9.54 lakh crore in FY20, as per the provisional figures published by the Ministry of Finance. The collections are 8.29 per cent higher than the revised estimates of Rs 9.89 lakh crore.

Central excise and service tax arrears in FY21 grew 59 per cent to Rs 3.91 lakh crore compared to Rs 2.45 lakh crore in the previous fiscal. Diesel and petrol are the biggest contributors to excise duties and the multiple hikes in petrol and diesel prices throughout the fiscal supported the increase in excise duties despite lower consumption.

Net customs duty collections too registered a growth of 21 per cent to Rs 1.32 lakh crore compared to Rs 1.09 lakh crore in the previous fiscal.

However, net tax collection on account of GST of the Centre, which includes CGST, IGST and compensation cess, was down 8 per cent to Rs 5.48 lakh crore against Rs 5.99 lakh crore in the previous financial year. Considering the subdued economy, the revised estimates of net GST collection was kept at Rs 5.15 lakh crore.

The GST collections were severely affected in the first half of the financial year on account of the Covid-led disruptions. However, in the second half, the GST collections registered a good growth and collections exceeded Rs 1 lakh crore in each of the last six months.

INDIA-EU TRADE TALKS TO RESUME

Finance minister Nirmala Sitharaman said resumption of formal negotiations on India-EU trade deal during the leadership summit next month in Porto, Portugal, would

Star-studded field for India Open

Marin, Momota among top entries as badminton action returns to India

New Delhi, April 13: Olympic champion Carolina Marin and World No. 1 Kento Momota will headline a star-studded field of international shuttlers when the India Open Super 500 event is held here from May 11 to 16, albeit behind closed doors due to the raging Covid-19 pandemic.

The $400,000 tournament, one of the last few qualification events for the 2020 Tokyo Olympic Games, has attracted 228 (114 men and 114 women) entries from 33 different national associations, including China.

However, the Badminton Association of India (BAI) said "due to the rapidly rising Covid-19 cases in the country, the tournament will be contested in a bio-secure bubble without spectators and media while implementing strict Covid-19 safety protocols."

"All the players and officials coming from South Africa, Brazil, Middle East and European countries including UK will be serving a 7-day quarantine period and have to report in the capital city on May 3," BAI said in a release.

"... Players and officials from rest of the world can arrive on May 6 and undergo a 4-day quarantine period."

On the court, three-time world champion Marin will lead the women's singles category along with other Top-10 shuttlers such as Akane Yamaguchi, 2019 world

SA WOMEN CRICKETERS STUCK IN BANGLADESH AFTER POSITIVE TEST

Dhaka, April 13: Five members of a South African women's cricket team have become stranded in Bangladesh after testing positive for Covid-19, officials said Tuesday.

Seventeen other members of the South Africa Emerging team left Bangladesh late Monday, before the country imposed a ban on international flights over a surge in new cases there.

The five remaining have been put into isolation in Dhaka, said Shafiqul Alam Nadel of the Bangladesh Cricket Board.

"All members of the South African team gave Covid-19 test samples before their departure from Sylhet. Five of them tested positive," said Himangshu Lal Roy, deputy director of the Osmani Medical College in the northeastern city.

The team's fifth match was due to start on Tuesday in Sylhet.

But they cut short the tour because of the flight ban, which will last from Wednesday until April 14, as part of efforts to combat the new spread of infections in the South Asian nation.

The five in isolation will be tested again and if the results are negative "we will send them back home at the earliest possible time," said Nadel.

Documents sent by AFP indicated that team manager Matshipi Marcia Letsoalo and players Sinalo Jafta, Leah Jones, Nobulumko Baneti and Robyn Searle had been left behind. — AFP

No fans at torch relay in Osaka

Tokyo, April 13: The torch relay for the Tokyo Olympics ran through a mostly empty Osaka city park on Tuesday, showing the risks of trying to hold the postponed games during a pandemic.

It came on the same day that the government said new coronavirus cases in Osaka hit 1,099, a single-day record for Japan's second-largest metropolitan area.

The torch relay began three weeks ago in northeastern Japan, attempting to navigate around the pandemic with a total of 10,000 runners crisscrossing the country and bound for the opening ceremony on July 23 in Tokyo.

Osaka, which announced plans last week to take the relay off city streets and bar the public, became the first detour since the relay began. Organizers warned beforehand there may be more.

Wednesday's second leg in Osaka — the day the Tokyo countdown clock hits 100 day to go — will be in the same park under the same closed-doors conditions.

residents have been vaccinated in very slow rollout. Japan has attributed about 9,500 deaths to Covid-19, far fewer than many countries but higher than most neighbours in Asia.

Osaka, Tokyo and other parts of Japan have declared "quasi-emergency" conditions until early May with bars and restaurants being asked to close by 8 pm.

Many runners arrived in Osaka's Expo '70 Commemorative Park by bus and ran short legs carrying the torch alongside metal barriers or in empty park space.

They were accompanied by security officials who jogged or walked alongside, and followed by an "escort" or "promotional" vehicle festooned with logos of major Olympic sponsors Coca-Cola and Toyota. — AP
