‘China crisis most serious since 1962’

SRIDHAR KUMARASWAMI
NEW DELHI, AUG 26

The current crisis in Sino-Indian relations “is surely the most serious situation after 1962”, External Affairs Minister (EAM) S. Jaishankar has told a news website, while acknowledging that “the quantum of forces currently deployed by both sides at the Line of Actual Control (LAC) is also unprecedented”. The EAM also said that the “difficulties” in Sino-Indian ties “may well undermine” the Asian Century.

The two countries had fought a border war in 1962. The EAM’s comments come amid continued Chinese military intransigence in withdrawing to the positions of April this year in the Ladakh sector. The EAM’s remarks also seems at odds with recent comments made by Chinese Ambassador Sun Weidong who had described the dead-website ahead of the formal launch of his book—“The India Way: Strategies for an Uncertain World”, EAM Jaishankar said, “This is surely the most serious situation after 1962. In fact, after 45 years, we have had military casualties on this border. The quantum of forces currently deployed by both sides at the LAC is also unprecedented.”

Mr. Jaishankar added, “I am not minimising either the seriousness or the complex nature of the current situation. Naturally, we have to do what it takes to secure our borders. ... But when it comes to finding a solution, this must be predicated on honouring all agreements and understandings. And not attempting to alter the status quo unilaterally. ... That is why we tell the Chinese side clearly that peace and tranquillity in the border areas are the basis for the relationship.”

TN students exempted from exam arrears

DC CORRESPONDENT
CHENNAI, AUG 26

Chief Minister Edappadi K. Palaniswami has exempted all college and university students in the State from clearing the arrear papers that they might have been waiting to appear for after paying the examination fee.

Students of higher education would have to sit for examinations only for the final semester papers. Already the government had exempted students other than those in the final year of their courses from writing their examinations.

Now, based on the guidelines of the UGC and AICTE the exemption has been extended to those having arrears also.

CM said he has directed the Higher Education Department to issue a detailed Government Order on the matter. UG students in their first and second year pursuing polytechnic, arts and science and those in first, second and third year of their engineering courses were exempted from writing their semester exams and allowed to move on to the next academic year by an order on July 23.

Similarly, first year post-graduate students of arts, science and engineering streams and first and second year MCA students were also given the exemption and allowed to advance to the next year.

Do away with NEET: health minister

Meanwhile, Health minister C. Vijayabaskar requested Union health minister Harsh Vardhan to do away with Neet for admissions to medical and dental courses and allow the state to follow the earlier pattern of taking into consideration marks obtained in the plus-2 examinations.

In a letter to the Union minister on Wednesday,

Vijayabaskar referred to Chief Minister Edappadi K. Palaniswami writing to Prime Minister Narendra Modi and also the Union health minister on the issue of doing away with Neet in view of the pandemic situation and how conducting the medical entrance examination would endanger the lives of students.

Vijayabaskar wanted Harsh Vardhan to direct his ministry to promulgate an ordinance to facilitate the admission to medical and dental courses on the basis of plus-2 marks. Earlier in the day, DMK president M. K. Stalin asked the government if it would join the seven states that have decided to move the Supreme Court seeking postponement of Neet and JEE this year in view of the coronavirus crisis.

Welcoming the move by the states of Punjab, Rajasthan, Chhattisgarh, Puducherry, West Bengal, Jharkhand and Maharashtra to approach the Supreme Court, Stalin, in a statement, thanked Congress chief Sonia Gandhi for taking the initiative.

‘BSY’s son is functioning as Super CM’

We must fight together against Centre: Sonia

■ GST and dates of JEE-NEET unite opposition

DCCORRESPONDENT

NEW DELHI, AUG. 26

The chief ministers of seven non-BJP-ruled states hit out at the Centre on its decision to hold the Joint Entrance Exam (JEE) and the National Eligibility cum Entrance Test (NEET), and decided to jointly move a review petition in the Supreme Court urging it to reconsider its recent order rejecting the deferral of the exams due to the raging coronavirus pandemic.

This was decided at a virtual meeting called by Congress president Sonia Gandhi and West Bengal chief minister Mamata Banerjee. Parties like the DMK and the AAP, who were not part of the meeting, also joined the growing chorus against the holding of the JEE and NEET.

Ms Banerjee said: “Let us go to the Supreme Court. Let us talk about this matter. This is mental agony for students. I have not seen so many atrocities in a democracy. The situation is very serious. We have to speak up for the children.”

At the meeting which she had convened to discuss a range of issues ahead of Parliament’s Monsoon Session, due to begin on September 14, Mrs Gandhi raised the subject of Centre-state relations and also the GST compensation issue.

She said: “I thought we should have an interaction so that we can have a coordinated approach. GST compensation seems to be a big issue. GST compensation being paid to the states on time according to laws passed by Parliament is crucial. But it is not happening. Dues have accumulated and the finances of all the states are badly affected.”

Maharashtra CM

Refusal to compensate states on GST is nothing short of betrayal by Modi govt of states, people. We have to work and fight together against Central government:

—Sonia Gandhi, Congress President

This will be my request to all the state governments, let us do it together, let us go to the Supreme Court and postpone the exam for the time being until and unless the situation allows students to appear for the exams. — Mamata

We should decide whether we have to fight or fear the Central govt: —Uddhav Thackeray, Maharashtra CM

All chief ministers should collectively approach the PM and apprise him of the revenue situation in states: —Amarinder Singh, Punjab CM

Seven non-BJP CMs plan to move Supreme Court against Centre’s decision to hold JEE (Sept 1), NEET

Uddhav Thackeray said: “We have to decide whether we want to fear or fight the government. The people who elected the BJP at the Centre also elected all of us. But if we do something it is paap (sin) and if they do anything then it is punya (virtuous)?” He also noted while his state was gradually emerging from the lockdown, schools were shut.

Four Congress CMs -- Amarinder Singh (Punjab), Bhupesh Baghel (Chhattisgarh), Ashok Gehlot (Rajasthan) and V. Narayana Sanyal (Puducherry) -- who attended the meeting claimed several of them had written to Prime Minister Narendra Modi but there was no response. Even Ms Banerjee said she had written to the PM. Jharkhand chief minister Hemant Soren was, however, of the view that a meeting should first be sought with the Prime Minister before moving the court.

The Congress president reportedly wanted to invite Kerala CM Pinarayi Vijayan to the meeting, but there was strong opposition from the Congress in Kerala. An invitation did go to Delhi CM Arvind Kejriwal, but sources said he had declined. The JEE is due to be held September 1 to 6 and the NEET exam is to be held on September 13. The Supreme Court had last week rejected a petition by 11 students from 11 states who had asked for the exams to be deferred. Mrs Gandhi requested the West Bengal chief minister, who had first proposed a joint appeal by the states in the Supreme Court, to work out with Capt. Amarinder Singh and other CMs on the legal issues. She said whatever steps had to be taken in the interest of students should be taken unitedly.

Batting for the students demanding postponement of the exams due to Covid-19, Congress leader Rahul Gandhi urged the Centre to listen to their grievances and find an amicable solution. “NEET-JEE aspirants are worried about their health and future. They have genuine concerns: fear of Covid-19 infection, transport and lodging during the pandemic and the flood mayhem in Assam and Bihar,” Mr Gandhi said on Twitter.

The Congress also announced protests by its state units on August 28 in front of Central government offices at state and district headquarters, besides a nationwide online campaign, #SpeakUpForStudentSafty.

Delhi deputy CM Manish Sisodia separately said that the NEET and JEE exams should be postponed and the Centre should work on alternative methods for selecting students. “They (Centre) are saying protocols will be followed. Following the same protocols that the Centre wants 28 lakh students to follow, lakhs of Indians have tested positive,” the AAP leader told reporters.

“How can we take the risk of sending 28 lakh students to exam centres and be assured they will not be infected,” Mr Sisodia asked.

DMK chief M.K. Stalin welcomed the decision of the seven CMs to appeal to the Supreme Court and thanked Mrs Gandhi for her efforts.

Crucial GST meeting today on States’ share

New Delhi, Aug 26: The GST Council meeting on Thursday is likely to be a stormy affair as opposition-ruled states unite to pressure the Centre to give them the promised compensation for loss of revenue arising from the implementation of GST.

The 41st meeting of the Goods and Services Tax (GST) Council, to be held via video conferencing, has just one agenda for discussion -- making up for shortfall in states’ revenues, sources said.

The options being explored are market borrowing, raising cess rate or increasing the number of items for levy of compensation cess. Discussion on correction in inverted duty on certain goods like textiles and footwear is also likely, they said.

The COVID-19 crisis has further compounded the state’s fiscal problems. In a tweet, Kerala Finance Minister Thomas Isaac said, “The solution to GST embroglio is Central Govt to empower GST Council to borrow for meeting the compensation requirement, if necessary through an ordinance, on the strength of future receipts of an extended levy of compensation cess beyond 5 years by an appropriate notification.”

INTEREST WAIVER

Don’t hide behind RBI: SC

PARMOD KUMAR
NEW DELHI, AUG. 26

The Supreme Court on Wednesday asked the Centre to clearly state its position on waiving interest on loans during the lockdown-related moratorium, starting from March 1 to August 31, 2020, while saying that it “cannot hide” behind the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) when the Centre, through solicitor general Tushar Mehta, submitted that its stand is not different from that of the Central bank.

The court, while giving the government time till September 1 to respond, reacted sharply to the Centre’s comment that the move to waive interest on loans would hit businesses and banks.

“You cannot be interested only in business and not sufferings of the people... The problem has been created by your (Centre’s) lockdown. This is also not the time to consider about the business. The plight of people has to be considered also. You have to tell us your stand on two things: Disaster Management Act and if the interest on interest will be accounted for,” said Justice Ashok Bhushan who is heading a three-judge bench also comprising Justice R. Subhash Reddy and Justice M.R. Shah.

The court said the Centre has “ample powers” under the Disaster Management Act to grant the waiver.

The top court’s direction to the Centre came in the course of the hearing of a PIL by one Gajendra Sharma who has sought waiver of interest on loans for the six-month moratorium period, including the lockdown period, as every activity — commercial and otherwise — has been affected adversely.

Assembly session at Kalaivanar Arangam?

DC CORRESPONDENT
CHENNAI, AUG. 26

The Legislative Assembly, which should meet before September 24 according to norms, is likely to be convened at the sprawling hall in Kalaivanar Arangam, incidentally located at one end of the Omandurar Government Estates where the MLAs hostel is also situated.

Since the Assembly Hall in Fort St George has restricted space, maintaining social distancing would not be possible if the MLAs were to meet there. So the government had been looking for alternative venues to convene the next session.

The visit of Chief Secretary K. Shanmugam and Assembly Secretary K. Srinivasan to Kalaivanar Arangam, along with PWD officials, gave rise to the speculation that the government had zeroed in on the hall there, which has a seating capacity of 1,000 otherwise.

Earlier, Assembly Speaker P. Dhanapal, accompanied by the Assembly Secretary, had inspected the hall a few days back.

The officials would convey their opinion on having the session in Kalaivanar Arangam to Chief Minister Edappadi K. Palaniswami, who would take the final call, official sources said.

In view of the Covid-19 situation the next session of the Legislative Assembly is likely to be held in Kalaivanar Arangam on Wallajah Salai in the city to ensure better enforcement of physical distancing norms among legislators' seating arrangement. The House was adjourned sine die on March 24 and the next session is due next month.

R. VALAYAPATHY | DC
PUDUKKOTTAI, AUG. 26

The BJP will be a major player in forming a government in Tamil Nadu after next year's assembly elections, according to BJP's national secretary H. Raja.

Addressing a press conference at Gandarvakottai near Pudukkottai on Wednesday, he claimed that without BJP no political front can form the new government in the state. Although the NDA alliance is continuing at the centre, regarding the alliance in Tamil Nadu, he said it will be finalised at the appropriate time, during assembly elections.

Raja said Neet is unavoidable and we should prepare the students to face it. He added that 'boycotting Neet will become a bottleneck for the students' future.

He said the BJP is growing fast in Tamil Nadu and the people of the state are aware of the political gimmicks in forming a political front against the BJP Government at the centre during the last year's Lok Sabha elections.

He expressed concern over the malpractices in the Union Government's direct assistance to the farmers through its Kisan Vikas Yojana and said the persons behind it should be punished severely.

Sterlite to redeploy staff in other Vedanta firms

DC CORRESPONDENT
THOOTHUKUDI, AUG. 26

The Sterlite Copper, which went for an appeal against the Madras high court order in the Supreme Court on Wednesday as its last chance, has opted to depute its permanent employees in other Vedanta group companies.

According to Sterlite sources, the decision was taken as the administration does not want to pay salary keeping its permanent workforce idle until the apex court gives its final order in the case.

Among around 1,000 permanent employees, when Sterlite was running in full swing till it was shut down by the state government on May 28, 2018, around 200 employees left the company during the two years till date. Further, 20 per cent of the permanent employees were deputed in various other companies in the Vedanta group.

However, as the company got a negative order from the high court last week, the management is of the opinion that it may take few more months for the Supreme Court to decide on the case.

Hence, the Sterlite administration is said to have formulated a plan of deputing or transferring its permanent employees to companies like Sesa Goa, the company engaged in exploration mining and processing of iron ore in Goa and Karnataka, Vedanta's subsidiary, Bharat Aluminium Company (Balco) in Chhattisgarh and Odisha, to its power generation company, Talwandi Sabo Power Limited (TSPIL) in Punjab and to Cairn Oil & Gas company in Rajasthan, Andhra Pradesh and Gujarat.

Around 500 permanent employees now with the Sterlite Copper have been asked for their willingness for deputation or transfer to any one of the abovementioned Vedanta group companies as per their project requirement.

Employees sent on deputation, however, will be taken back by the copper major, if the final order comes in its favour, sources said.

But, the fate of more than 1,000 contract employees and the local material suppliers continues to be at stake.

CHENNAI, AUG. 26

Chief Minister Edappadi K. Palaniswami and Deputy Chief Minister O. Panneerselvam were among those who paid tributes to Mother Teresa on her 110th birth anniversary.

Both Palaniswami and Panneerselvam, in their tweets, referred to the special love that former Chief Minister J. Jayalalithaa had for the Mother.

By showing mercy Mother Teresa proved to the world that she could be the mother to a 1000 children, the Chief Minister said.

She brought succor to the sick and destitute through her service and following her path let us sow only love, Panneerselvam said, adding 'whomever hates, let's show love.'

Former bureaucrat M. G.

Stalin's questions on gutka scam

DC CORRESPONDENT
CHENNAI, AUG. 26

DMK president M. K. Stalin raised a slew of questions on the way in which CBI investigations into the gutka scam were carried out, wondering as to what was uniting the Chief Minister Edappadi K. Palaniswami and the BJP government at the Centre in protecting some of the high profile accused in the case.

In the case involving a bribe of over Rs 40 crore, given for alleged evasion of Rs 250 crore tax, the documents presented to the Chief Secretary by the income tax officials had reportedly gone missing, Stalin said in a statement on Wednesday.

A question raised with regard to the investigations that led to the state government giving permission to the CBI to file cases against two of its employees, Sivakumar and Senthil Murugan, in July 2020, though the CBI had sought the permission for it in November 2018, was what happened to the other accused.

The Supreme Court had given permission to the CBI to investigate health minister C. Vijayabaskar, two former DGPs T. K. Rajendran and George, which led to raids in 35 premises and the filing of FIR against six persons.

Prior to that, when the Madras High Court had ordered a CBI probe into the scam, it was contested in the Supreme Court by a Group Four official of the government, Sivakumar. Stalin wanted to know how the government gave permission for the official to engage a lawyer in the Supreme Court for the appeal.

Also he wanted to know why the government took 20 months to give the permission for filing cases against the two. His other questions were how was T. K. Rajendran promoted and allowed to retire when the case was against him and why was ADGP Manjunath who was probing the case initially transferred.

The cestrum plant is also good in absorption of atmospheric carbon thus acting as a natural carbon sink. Those who rear cattle uses this plant for bedding purpose in the cattle sheds. The cattle urine and the dung mixes well with the leaves of this plant to convert it into a compost to be used as a bio-fertilizer. Some farmers grow this plant as a bio-fencing material to attract bees for beekeeping purposes in the farmlands, he explained.

IIT-D DIRECTOR
OPPOSES PUTTING OFF NEET

New Delhi, Aug. 26: Any further delay in conducting entrance exams JEE and NEET will have “serious repercussions” on not only the academic calendar but also career of bright students, IIT Delhi Director V. Ramgopal Rao said.

Rao’s comments come in the wake of growing clamour for postponing the two crucial exams in the wake of rise in Covid-19 cases.

“The consequences of postponing these exams any further can have serious repercussions on IIT academic calendars and for candidates. I fail to see how we can run two batches together. It will become a zero academic year for lakhs of students. Our academic calendars are too packed already and linked to too many other things. The delays can impact the careers of so many bright students.

“We have already lost six months. If we conduct the exams in September, we can at least start the sessions in Indian Institutes of Technology (could be online) in December. Tinkering with the examination pattern or admission processes will also be detrimental and unfair for everyone,” Rao said in a social media post. He said Coronavirus is not going to go away for at least a year.

GORAKHPUR

Gorakhpur, Aug. 26: A Class 7 student was allegedly raped by a manager of her school, who also made a video of her and threatened to post it on social media if she reported the matter to anyone, police said here on Wednesday.

Police said the incident took place on July 30 when school manager Harendra Yadav (38) called the 15-year-old girl to his house.

The accused is on the run and police have registered a case against him.

The police station in-charge of the area was removed from the post and attached to the Police Lines for failing to take the case seriously and not informing high officials regarding it.

According to police, the accused made a video of the student and started blackmailing her. He threatened to post it on social media if she disclosed the incident to anyone, police said.

The manager blackmailed her saying her father would kill her if she told him about the incident. Police said the accused asked the girl to live at his house in the city and study from there.

After a few days, the girl, however, disclosed it to her family. The girl’s father informed the police but the accused could not be nabbed. Later, the girl’s father met SSP Joginder Singh. A case was lodged against the school manager for rape and under provisions of the POCSO Act, but due to the elapse of time after the incident, the accused managed to escape.

Gorakhpur’s Gola Circle Officer Shyamdev said the girl complained to police that she was raped on July 30 by the manager at his home.

Earlier on August 16, a teenage girl was reportedly raped and singled with cigarette butts by two men in the Gola area.

Two male volunteers were administered the vaccine at Pune’s Bharti Vidyapeeth Medical College and Hospital at around 1pm.

The SII has selected 15 sites in India to conduct the phase-2 trial of the vaccine. “Doctors at the hospital administered the first shot of the ‘Covishield’ vaccine to a 32-year-old man after his reports of Covid-19 and antibodies tests came out negative,” said medical director of Bharti Vidyapeeth’s Medical College, Hospital and Research Centre, Dr Sanjay Lalwani.

BJP MLAs SAY
BSY’S SON IS

MYSURU, AUG. 26

The Congress on Wednesday said that a few BJP MLAs have written to the BJP high command levelling serious allegations against the Karnataka Chief Minister’s son.

KPCC spokesperson M. Lakshman released copy of the letter to the media which is reportedly sent by seven BJP MLAs to their party high command. The letter alleges that B.S. Yeddyurappa’s son B.Y. Vijayendra is functioning as “Super CM”.

The BJP MLAs have reportedly accused him of indulging in corruption involving ₹5,000 crore by raising 15 per cent commission or VST (Vijayendra Service Tax) to get government work done.

Lakshman did not reveal the names of those seven BJP MLAs. He, however, released a list of 31 people who are working as B.Y. Vijayendra’s team.

Addressing a press meet in Mysuru, Lakshman said that in that letter, the BJP MLAs have stated, “78-year-old Yeddyurappa has only been a constitutional and “technical” Chief Minister. Taking the advantage of his old age, his son and BJP vice-president Vijayendra is functioning as ‘Super Chief Minister’. Vijayendra and his family members, their children, grand children and others are running a parallel, alternate 4G (fourth generation) state government like a private limited company in corporate style by forming a club of 31-members. And they are getting government work done for commission.”

“Prime Minister Narendra Modi and Amit Shah had termed Congress-led Siddaramaiah government as 10 per cent government, but now Vijayendra is raising 15 per cent commission for getting government work of contractors, brokers, middlemen done. While the Chief Minister says that they are not getting expected GST share to state from the Central government to take up certain developmental works, he has maintained silence on this VST (Vijayendra Service Tax),” he said.

"We need a full, transparent investigation into what happened. The perpetrators must be held accountable and the UK will join international efforts to ensure justice is done," he said. Christchurch: Brenton Harrison Tarrant told a New Zealand judge Wednesday he will not speak in his defence at his sentencing hearing for the mass shooting of worshippers at two Christchurch mosques. Tarrant had the opportunity to speak Thursday, the final day of a hearing which has seen 90 survivors and family members talk about the pain of the March 2019 attacks. Earlier Wednesday, a woman speaking about her beloved father brought many people in the courtroom to tears. Sara Qasem said she wonders if, in his last moments, her father was frightened or in pain, and wishes she could have been there to hold his hand.

Islamabad: Pakistan's Opposition-dominated Senate has rejected two bills related to the tough conditions set by the FATF, jeopardising the government's efforts to escape from being blacklisted by the global money laundering and terrorist financing watchdog. The move drew a strong reaction from Prime Minister Imran Khan who accused the Opposition leaders of trying to save their illegal money. The Anti-Money Laundering (Second Amendment) Bill and the Islamabad Capital Territory (ICT) Waqf Properties Bill, passed by the National Assembly a day before, were rejected through a voice vote by the Senate on Tuesday.

SUMMERS MAY BE TOO HOT FOR HUMANS

London, Aug. 26: Many live in developing countries, and do jobs that expose them to potentially life threatening conditions. These include being out in the open on farms and building sites or indoors in factories and hospitals. Global warming will increase the chances of summer conditions that may be "too hot for humans" to work in. When we caught up with Dr Jimmy Lee, his goggles were steamed up and there was sweat trickling off his neck. An emergency medic, he's labouring in the stifling heat of tropical Singapore to care for patients with Covid-19. There's no air conditioning — a deliberate choice, to prevent the virus being blown around — and he notices that he and his colleagues become "more irritable, more short with each other". And his personal protective equipment, essential for avoiding infection, makes things worse by creating a sweltering 'micro-climate' under the multiple layers of plastic. "It really hits you when you first go in there," Dr Lee says, "and it's really uncomfortable over a whole shift of eight hours — it affects morale." One danger, he realises, is that overheating can slow down their ability to do something that's vital for medical staff — make quick decisions.

Belarus summons Nobel Laureate

Nobel Literature Prize winner for 2015 and the opposition's Coordination Council's presidium member Svetlana Alexievich, who was summoned for questioning as a witness in a criminal probe over the setting up of the council that seeks to oversee a peaceful transition of power, arrives at the Investigative Committee in Minsk on Wednesday. Alexievich said she refused to answer investigators' questions. "I am completely calm. I do not feel guilty. Everything we are doing is legal and necessary," she said after arriving at the Committee's headquarters with other members of the presidium. She left shortly afterwards, saying she had invoked her right not to testify against herself and that the council's only goal was "to unite society".

Kin laud Don achievements, urge voters to re-elect him

New York, Aug. 26: US President Donald Trump's family took centre stage at the Republican Convention, passionately rallying behind him and highlighting his political, economic and foreign achievements as they urged American voters to re-elect him for a second term.

So far, first lady Melania Trump, president's sons Donald Trump Jr and Eric Trump and daughter Tiffany Trump have addressed the Republican National Convention. His another daughter and senior adviser Ivanka Trump, 38, will speak on Thursday, the last day of the convention.

President Trump and Vice President Mike Pence will be challenged by the Democratic Party's presidential nominee Joe Biden and his Indian-American running mate Senator Kamala Harris.

"Donald is a husband who supports me in all that I do. He has built administration with an unprecedented number of women in leadership roles and has fostered an environment where the American people are always the priority. He welcomes different points of view and encourage thinking outside of the box."

"I know I speak for my husband and the family when I say we are so grateful that you have trusted him to be your president and we will be honoured to serve this incredible country for four more years," the First Lady said in her

Pompeo: Only Prez can tackle China's 'predatory aggression'

Washington, Aug. 26: President Donald Trump is the only person who can take on China and its "predatory aggression", US Secretary of State Mike Pompeo has told the American people.

He also said that President Trump has taken bold initiatives in nearly every corner of the world. "In China, he has pulled back the curtain on the predatory aggression of the Chinese Communist Party. The president has held China accountable for covering up the China virus and allowing it to spread death and economic destruction in America and around the world. And he will not rest until justice is done," the top American diplomat said.

In his address to the Republican National Convention from Jerusalem, Pompeo, who is leading the Trump administration's vocal attack on China and its aggressive moves in recent times against India and in the strategic Indo-Pacific region, said that President Trump has taken bold initiatives in nearly every corner of the world.

"In China, he has pulled back the curtain on the predatory aggression of the Chinese Communist Party. The president has held China accountable for covering up the China virus and allowing it to spread death and economic destruction in America and around the world. And he will not rest until justice is done," the top American diplomat said.

2 Oppn lawmakers arrested in Hong Kong

Hong Kong, Aug. 26: Hong Kong police arrested 16 people Wednesday on charges related to anti-government protests last year, including two opposition lawmakers.

Pro-democracy legislators Ted Hui and Lam Cheuk-ting announced their arrests on social media. Posts on Lam's Twitter account said he had been arrested on charges of conspiring with others to damage property and obstructing justice during a protest in July 2019.

The tweets said he has also been accused of rioting on July 21, 2019. That was the day a group of more than 100 men clad in white attacked protesters and passengers with steel rods and rattan canes in a subway station. Protesters and many from the opposition camp have accused the police of colluding with the attackers, as they arrived late to the scene and did not make arrests that night.

A post on Hui's Facebook page did not make clear the exact charges he was facing. The chairman of the Democratic Party in Hong Kong, Wu Chi-wai, called the arrests of Lam and Hui "ridiculous". Lawmaker James To said the arrests amounted to political persecution. The two were arrested along with 14 others - aged between 26 and 48 years old — in relation to protests last year, according to a police official who spoke on condition of anonymity because he was not authorised to talk to the press before an official statement had been released.

The semi-autonomous

Chinese city saw months of protests after the government announced its intent to pass an extradition bill that would have allowed criminal suspects to be sent to the mainland to stand trial.

Anger over the bill, seen as an infringement on the former British colony's freedoms, sparked huge demonstrations that at times descended into violence between police and protesters, and rallies continued even after the bill was shelved. China later passed a sweeping national security law, which has been viewed as an attack on the "one country, two systems" framework under which the city has been governed since its return to China in 1997.

Since the start of the protests in June 2019, Hong Kong police has made more than 9,000 arrests. Prominent pro-democracy figures who have been arrested include activists Joshua Wong and Agnes Chow, as well as media tycoon Jimmy Lai, who is an outspoken advocate for democracy. — AP

Oil spill: Japan must wean ships off fossil fuels

Port Louis, Aug. 26: Japan's Wakashio oil spill in Mauritius was an entirely avoidable tragedy.

On July 25, the bulk carrier vessel, owned by Nagashiki Shipping and chartered by Mitsui O.S.K. Lines, grounded off the coast of the small island nation of Mauritius. Fuel oil from the ship started to leak on August 6 and is now destroying one of the most beautiful places on Earth, along with the livelihoods of the people who live there. The spill has put the biodiversity within Mauritius lagoons at risk, including the mangrove forests, coral reefs and many unique and endangered species.

Kiyooki Nagashiki, CEO of Nagashiki Shipping and Junichiro Ikeda, CEO of Mitsui O.S.K. Lines have publicly apologised for the environmental disaster. But apologies will not take back the damage done to the people and ecosystems of Mauritius. As long as ships are powered by oil, there will be spills.

To make right on this tragedy, Prime Minister Shinzo Abe should accelerate the drive to get all Japanese owned ships off fossil fuels entirely and lead the international community in shipping's clean energy transition.

Impossible? Not at all. Most of Japan's largest shipping lines are already members of the Getting to Zero coalition, a global alliance of 110 maritime companies working to get zero-emission, non-fossil fuel, cargo ships into commercial operation by 2030. Mitsui O.S.K. Lines is one of them.

Under the leadership of Kazuyoshi Akaba, Japan's Minister of Land, Infrastructure, Transport and Tourism is aiming to launch a zero-emission ship even earlier, by 2028. The Infrastructure, Transport and Tourism, or MLIT, is exploring several viable clean energy options, including "green" hydrogen produced with renewable energy — hydrogen produced from fossil fuels has no benefit for the climate.

Last month, Japan's container shipping line Nippon Yusen, also known as NYK Line, joined the Hydrogen Council a global CEO-led coalition. In February, Japanese automaker Toyota Motor delivered a fuel cell system to the Energy Observer — the first boat to sail around the would using hydrogen generated on board from solar and wind power. The University of Tokyo is leading a project on automated wind-assisted propulsion on cargo ships. And other Japan-based maritime companies are developing solar and wind propulsion, and hydrogen on cargo ships. What's holding back all this private sector innovation from widespread commercialisation is the lack of an ambitious, clear, comprehensive zero-emission shipping regulatory framework from the Japanese government.

Former Indian athlete kills wife, mom in US, held

Washington, Aug. 26: Iqbal Singh, a former Asian Championship bronze medalist for India, has been charged with murder in the US after he chillingly admitted to killing his wife and mother, according to media reports. Singh, 62, from Delaware County in Pennsylvania called police on Sunday morning to admit his crime, The Philadelphia Inquirer quoted officials as saying.

When police arrived at Singh's home in Newtown Township, they found Singh covered in blood, suffering from self-inflicted stab wounds. Inside were the bodies of the two women, the report said.

Singh was charged on Monday with first- and third-degree murder, court records show, and remained in custody, denied bail given the nature of the charges.

There was no indication that he had hired an attorney, it said. The former shot-putter won a bronze medal at the 1983 Asian Athletics Championship, which was held in Kuwait. This remained the biggest achievement of his sporting career before he moved to the US. He was working as a taxicab driver, US media reports said.

Singh was taken to an area hospital for the treatment of self-inflicted injuries, where he remains in police custody, NBC News reported. At Singh's home on Rockwood Road, police found his mother, Nasib Kaur, lying unresponsive on the first floor with her throat slit. Singh's wife, Jaspal Kaur, was found upstairs, similarly wounded. Both women were pronounced dead at the scene, according to the affidavit of probable cause for his arrest. The motive in the slayings was unclear.

"At this point, there's been no previous criminal contact with this individual and so the mystery of why this happened is still a mystery." CBS Local quoted Delaware County District Attorney Jack Stollsteimer as saying.

CAMBRIDGE UNIV'S VACCINE RACE TO FIGHT ALL CORONAVIRUSES

London, Aug. 26: The University of Cambridge on Wednesday confirmed plans to begin trials of a potential new vaccine not only against Covid-19 but all coronaviruses that may spill over from animals to humans in the future. The new vaccine candidate, DIOS-CoVax2, uses banks of genetic sequences of all known coronaviruses, including those from bats, believed to be the natural hosts of many relatives of human coronaviruses.

A vaccine that clears all trials can then be delivered pain-free without a needle into the skin through a spring-powered jet injection.

"Our approach involves 3D computer modelling of the SARS-CoV-2 (Covid-19) virus' structure. It uses information on the virus itself as well as its relatives SARS, MERS and other coronaviruses carried by animals that threaten to spill over to humans again to cause future human epidemics," said Professor Jonathan Heeney, head of Laboratory of Viral Zoonotics, University of Cambridge.

"We're looking for chinks in its armour, crucial pieces of the virus that we can use to construct the vaccine to direct the immune response in the right direction," he said.

Kenosha shooting: 2 people shot dead

Kenosha, Aug. 26: Two people were shot to death and another was wounded during a third night of protests in Kenosha over the police shooting of a Black man, Jacob Blake, and authorities Wednesday hunted for a possible vigilante seen on cell-phone video opening fire in the middle of the street with a rifle.

The gunfire was reported just before midnight, and Sheriff David Beth said one victim was shot in the head and another in the chest, the Milwaukee Journal Sentinel reported. The third victim's wounds were not believed to life-threatening. He said that investigators had reviewed footage of what happened and that he was confident a man would be arrested soon. Beth told the Journal Sentinel that armed people had been patrolling the city's streets in recent nights, but he did not know if the gunman was among them.

Economy in freefall, govt must act quickly

Ever since the coronavirus pandemic broke out in India, there have been two board suggestions to deal with its economic fallout — one, the government should increase its spending to keep demand alive, and two, a highly indebted government should merely remain a facilitator and let the demand improve gradually. The Narendra Modi government chose the second option and announced debt-based initiatives to provide immediate succour to people.

Economists like Raghuram Rajan and others have suggested the government to open its purse strings to support the demand. Similarly, this newspaper too had argued for immediate cash support to people. An official report released by the Reserve Bank of India on Tuesday lends its weight to the argument for the creation of demand by the government spending as private non-discretionary expenditure has all but collapsed.

According to the RBI, private spending has taken a hit particularly for transport services, hospitality, recreation and cultural activities. Behavioural restraints, the central bank claims, may prevent the normalisation of demand for these activities. Since these sectors contribute in a big way to the job creation, a contraction in private spending in these activities would deprive livelihood of lakhs of people which, in turn, would impact the overall consumption and demand in the country.

While noting that rural demand has fared better, the RBI has attributed it to the government's initiatives like Pradhan Mantri Garib Kalyan Rojgar Abhiyaan which helps in generating employment in rural areas, and increased wages under the Mahatma Gandhi National Rural Employment Guarantee Act (MGNREGA). A similar protective cover, however, was absent for the poor in urban areas, which have been affected the most, both by coronavirus and its economic fallout.

The RBI report also highlighted that a cut in corporate tax announced by the government in September 2019 has also failed to serve its stated purpose. The saving in corporate tax, the central bank said, was utilised by the companies to service debt and build up cash balances rather than restart the capital expenditure cycle. This fear was expressed by many who suggested a cut in income tax instead of corporate tax to address the economic slowdown last year. The government, however, turned a deaf ear to their suggestions. The statements in the RBI report have now come as a vindication for them.

To raise money for crucial public investment, the RBI suggested sale of government assets in steel, coal, power, land, railways and major ports. However, the government's intent to privatise state-run non-strategic enterprises has remained only on paper for various reasons. We must recall that the Jawaharlal Nehru government had entered into business to set up mega-industries because the private sector of the day lacked the wherewithal to fund such projects. Her political motives aside, Prime Minister Indira Gandhi had nationalised banks to provide institutional credit to poor — a purpose that is already served. Now it is high time the government reorients its thinking and becomes a catalyst for economic growth 3.0.

Begging to forgive

The Supreme Court judges, hearing the arguments in the contempt case against civil rights lawyer Prashant Bhushan the other day, were at their generous best when they advised the latter to apologise for his tweets critical of the Supreme Court and the Chief Justice of India (CJI), for which he has been found guilty and awaiting his punishment “cheerfully”.

Justice Arun Mishra, heading the bench, suggested to Mr Bhushan that he utter the “magical” word “apology” and go to the category of Mahatma Gandhi. The judge was apparently not satisfied with either of the two statements of Mr Bhushan: in the first, he quoted Mahatma Gandhi and said he sought no mercy and no magnanimity of the court while in the second he said he will be committing contempt of his conscience and the Supreme Court if he tendered an insincere apology.

Ordinary mortals are not supposed to question the judicial wisdom of the learned judges but one wonders if it is true about historical factors, too, and whether Justice Mishra got the traits of the Mahatma and Hindutva icon V.D. Savarkar mixed up when it comes to apologising. Isn't it that Mahatma Gandhi used to go on fasts doing penance not for his sins but for what he thought were the sins of others, as mentioned by Justice B.R. Gavai who sat alongside Justice Mishra and Justice Krishna Murari on the bench? Or did the judge mean that Mr Bhushan must apologise for the sins of perhaps the CJs who, he alleges, watched as Indian democracy got weakened? On the other hand, archival documents show that Savarkar, jailed by the British for his role in the freedom movement, went on an apologising spree and got himself freed from the cellular jail in Andaman. Justice Mishra will hopefully set the record straight while pronouncing the order sentencing Mr Bhushan, for we can't take too many liberties with history.

Glib and bland: Liberalism's illiberal legacy

In case you thought that Joe Biden's election — as it looks now — was going to save the world by getting rid of the reckless but also unfocused authoritarian Donald Trump, then you probably need a small dose of reading from the collection of Pankaj Mishra's essays, Bland Fanatics: Liberals, Race and Empire. It's pretty clear that despite adoption of some of his party's progressive wing's platforms — on health or on student loans, for instance — Biden and team remain committed to returning to the normalcy of the liberal Anglo-American project, as Mishra might call it. Which means returning to the very normalcy that created our post-liberal tribalism in the first place: a liberalism that deviates far from what John Stuart Mill enunciated in On Liberty, and evolved to a globalism that built upon imperialism and slavery (and its descendent modern-day racism) and that demands, in the name of individual freedom, an atomised slave of corporate-capitalist free-marketers. That does not solve the problem, only postpones it till we get a crueller version of Trump or his local counterpart.

This is why it is important to read Mishra, though these 16 essays, written over the decadal span of the 2010s, is not something you can imbibe in the course of a sitting (you'd need 16 sittings, at least). It's an at-times enjoyable intellectual stone-throwing at liberalism and some of its icons since Fukuyama's so-called “end of history”, such as Niall Ferguson or the Economist, a 175-year-old weekly that is consistently wrong in its predictions despite its comprehensive Oxonian chronicling of the planet. To be clear, Mishra does not lob his Molotov cocktails at liberalism from the right, even though he is not a communist. Yet if ever a new framework is to arrive, the first step is to dismantle the ideology that pretends to be humanity's saviour at the “centre” of things, and that is liberalism.

The title comes from something that cold warrior and theologian Reinhold Niebuhr wrote in 1957: “Among the lesser culprits of history are the bland fanatics of western civilisation who regard the highly contingent achievements of our culture as the final form and norm of human existence.” Mishra, of course, intends to promote these “bland fanatics” from the status of lesser culprits.

The first guilty party is Niall Ferguson who, after all, justified the 2003 Iraq War as an effort not just to “make the world safe for capitalism and democracy”, but also proposed an “Anglobalisation” of the world to civilise the natives. “I am a fully paid-up member of the neo-imperialist gang,” Ferguson said, as he called upon the Americans to ensure the sun never set on the Anglo-American empire. It was an intellectual midwifing of the White Supremacy movement — which had been lingering in the shadows for several post-WWII decades. For his troubles he was given a position at Harvard University.

Then Mishra goes on to eviscerate “intellectual Islamophobia”, a project in which standard-bearers from the Financial Times to Martin Amis have participated, constantly raising fears of “Eurabia”, unmindful of the fact that for most Muslims in Europe, choices are dictated not by their readings of the Holy Book, but by their experience of globalised economies and cultures. Mishra asks us to keep remembering that the most meaningful reason for World War I: “the religion of Whiteness”. He eviscerates Salman Rushdie for rejecting, post the publication of The Satanic Verses, the very mix of politics and literature that his 1989 novel had exemplified, where “the personal is the geopolitical”.

Mishra writes about Woodrow Wilson, credited with pushing global peace and the creation of the now-defunct League of Nations, and how that US president's ideas were driven by a need to preserve white supremacy both in his own nation and in the globe throughout (ironically his rhetoric spawned many a freedom fighter in Asia). He decries colonialism and modern globalism for expecting the Third World to adopt the ways and means of Europe and America without experiencing their stages of development.

Mishra loves Katherine Boo's Behind the Beautiful Forevers and its depiction of the social darwinism in Mumbai's largest slum; this same social darwinism has now been formalised in India's polity, in the way that White Supremacy has been in the USA's, reminding us that all the social turmoil and cruelty that have horrified us in the past few years are things that were always already there — things we politely, as liberals, shut our eyes to.

There is a well-deserved take-down of Jordan Peterson. And so on, till the essays wind up with “England's Last Roar”: how a moment of reckoning has long been postponed, of an “ex-imperialist country with dwindling material” but “an antique assumption of power and self-sufficiency”, that is broken. Mishra quotes Orwell: “A generation of the unteachable is hanging upon us like a necklace of corpses.” Hmm. Perhaps liberalism is the last revenge of the colonised.

After Covid devastation, India to need rebuilding

Sunanda K.
Datta-Ray

Reflections

India Post has just delivered two bank statements posted in late May. This is not the only instance of delay and/or damage caused by the coronavirus pandemic. Its devastation recalls Rabindranath Tagore's deathbed despair about British rule in India: “When the stream of their centuries' administration runs dry at last, what a waste of mud and filth they will leave behind!”

If the pandemic does end in two years, as World Health Organisation director-general Tedros Adhanom Ghebreyesus predicts, it will leave behind a ramshackle India. This week's suicide of a five-member Madhya Pradesh family is another tragedy highlighting the despondency that grips much of India. Most social and welfare institutions were already creaking on March 25 when India ground to a halt. Everything has deteriorated since then, with the government too busy scoring points against China and Pakistan to bother with ordinary folk. Covid-19 is no respecter of rank, but as Raghuram Rajan, the Reserve Bank's former governor, says, it is “an ‘anti-Robin Hood’ that hits the poor even harder on every front”.

The first charge on the government is to improve a scandalously decrepit healthcare system. Better infrastructure would have mitigated the worst effects of the pandemic. Instead, the suspicion is that the facts have been brushed under the carpet to conceal the derelict state of rural hospitals, the acute shortage of doctors, enlistment of ayahs as nurses and sweepers and bearers as paramedics. Medicines and equipment are in short supply. No wonder Microsoft's Bill Gates bluntly rejected the official figure for Indian (and African) fatalities, saying: “The true number... is probably much higher.” He expects millions more in India and Africa to die and thinks more than 90 per cent of those deaths will be caused by the knock-on effects.

The reason is that people are expendable for our political masters. They will spend money for the greater glory of what they see as India but not for the ordinary run of Indians. Outsize statues, massive temples, ostentatious religious rituals, state-of-the-art fighters and luxury aircraft for VIPs matter more than the millions of impoverished Indians. Few, if any, good schools are run by the government. The best of them are either Christian missionary institutions or private enterprises.

Understandably, spending on healthcare was low in colonial times; but the colonial norm becomes criminal negligence when governance is by a supposedly nationalistic Bharatiya Janata Party whose leader swears by “Atma Nirbhar Bharat”, or self-reliant India. Within the abysmally small pie of medicare spending, the government's share is a shameful 26 per cent, 74 per cent being provided by private investors who are in it for what they can get out of it. The charges have gone up in a once-smart, expensive and superbly professional foreign-managed nursing home that is now Indian-owned while the food, cleanliness and staff care have deteriorated. Amenities like toilet paper and towels are no longer provided. The owners themselves fly to Switzerland or the United States for treatment.

Since much of the investment in healthcare is left to market dynamics, private medical facilities proliferate only where people can pay. State expenditure is confined largely to areas where it can benefit the rich and influential or impress foreigners. The need for a healthcare delivery system that is available, accessible and affordable to all is ignored. So are the need for healthcare infrastructure, healthcare education, manpower, workforce, health insurance and medical equipment.

India's bed density is under one while China, with its much larger population, provides more than three beds per thousand. Despite the highest number of medical colleges, India has the lowest number of doctors per thousand of population and is in the middle - fifth out of seven - in the number of nurses per 1,000 people. India also has the lowest number of care providers — 1.9 per thousand.

Medical equipment is another problem that the pandemic has exposed and highlighted. Personal protective equipment is sometimes charged for without being provided. The government's claim of adequate imports supplemented by a spurt in the domestic manufacture of nearly 4.5 lakh PPE kits per day does not seem to meet the needs of all frontline workers,

Many other aspects of decline deserve attention. India has slipped to 150th place in the health and survival list, to 149th in terms of economic participation and opportunity, and to 112th place for educational attainment.

while nearly one-third of respondents in a recent survey reported that N-95 masks were not available. “One of the surprising and important findings is the lack of formal training on PPEs”, a leading doctor is quoted as saying. Over half these workers had not received any training at all, while a fifth reported that they had taught themselves.

Of course, many other aspects of decline deserve attention. India has slipped to 150th place in the health and survival list, to 149th in terms of economic participation and opportunity, and to 112th place for educational attainment. It has also fallen four places to 112th in terms of the gender gap, now grovelling among the bottom five in terms of female participation in economic life.

Underlying it all is an erosion of confidence; confidence in the self (atma-vishwas), and confidence in the elected government's ability to deliver. A survey shows that 62 per cent of parents will not send their children to schools even if they were to reopen next week. The survey also found that only six per cent of respondents would visit a theatre. There is obviously little faith in the government's ability to check infection in schools and theatres.

The challenges are on a variety of fronts. A beginning can be made with healthcare for that bears closely on the peril that still threatens to decimate the nation. But there can be no cure without official recognition of all that is wrong, of the extent to which policy has fallen short of public expectations. Alas, our leaders remain blissfully complacent that they have not failed the country because the colonial-style culture of governance does not say that the rulers owe anything to the ruled.

NAMMA CHENNAI

The historic Madras city is celebrating its 381st birthday. A stretch of no-man's land in 1639, which was rechristened as Chennai in 1996, is now a major industrial, business and cultural metropolis. It was in Madras that virtually everything in modern India began — the first municipality, the first engineering college (Guindy Engineering), the first shopping mall — Spencer's, the first big library — Connemara, and the first major book store — Higginbothams. Five years ago when floods ravaged Chennai, the people of the city showed to the rest of the world what humanity and solidarity are all about. Perhaps, Chennai is the only city in the entire world where everyone claims it as not “mine”, but proudly “ours.”

VINAYAKA'S KAMANDAL

ONE OF HIS followers had asked ‘Could not you convince your mother that Vinayaka is not a Tamil god?’ Mr Udhayanidhi's brigade should know that there are Vinayaka temples in every nook and corner of Tamil Nadu. According to puranas, it was Vinayaka who had facilitated the Cauvery river to flow into the then Dravida Desam which was starving for water. The sage Agasthya, in deep thapas on the Pothigai hills (Agasthiyar mountain), had kept holy water in his kamandal. When the thirsty populace cried for water, the celestials approached sage Narada who told them if anyone could tilt his Kamandal the water from it would flow out and become a big river. When the celestials sought Lord Vinayaka's help he had dared, without fear of sage's curse, to tilt the Kamandal and water flowed out and it became the holy River Cauvery.

Charges only on net liability from Sept.
GST: Govt foregoes
₹46K cr in interestSANGEETHA G
CHENNAI, AUG. 26

The government has decided to forego Rs 46,000 crore of unpaid interest on delayed GST payment by notifying on Wednesday that the interest will be charged on net tax liability, and not on gross liability, with effect from September 1. Now it will have to be seen whether the government would refund those businesses which have already paid the interest on gross liability for the last three years.

The Central Board of Indirect Taxes and Customs (CBIC) has notified September 1, 2020 as the date from which interest would be charged on net tax liability. Industry had earlier this year raised concern over the board's directive for recovery of about Rs 46,000 crore of unpaid interest on delayed GST payment, based on gross tax liability.

"... no recoveries shall be made for the past period as well by the Central and State tax administration in accordance with the decision taken in the 39th Meeting of GST Council. This will ensure full relief to the taxpayers as decided by the GST Council," the CBIC statement had said.

A decision on charging the interest on net tax liability was taken by the 39th GST Council meeting in March. It was then decided that the amendment will be effective from July 1, 2017, and law would be amended retrospectively.

However, the CBIC has now said that the notification has been issued prospectively due to certain technical limitations.

"If the government is not recovering the unpaid interest of some businesses, it becomes imperative to refund to those who have already paid, from an equity point of view.

But we will have to see whether the government will refund the interest already paid or not," said Abhishek Jain, tax partner, EY.

It is possible businesses might seek a refund of the interest paid by them for the past three years based on the gross tax liability.

"Businesses are expected to approach the courts on this unjustified and illegal demand of interest basis the 'principle of estoppel,'" said Rajat Mohan, senior partner, AMRG & Associates.

In 2019, the Telangana High Court had upheld CBIC's stance that the interest was payable on gross tax liability. An interest of 18 per cent is levied on delayed tax payment. Net GST liability is arrived at after deducting input tax credit from gross GST liability. Hence, calculating interest on gross GST liability increases the payout burden on businesses.

According to Jain, the government will have to pay the refund if the court awards a judgement in favour of the businesses.

Rahul Bajoria, chief India economist, Barclays, said the government should look at simplifying the tax system than forcing businesses to take legal recourse for smaller tax components.

GST cut hopeRAVI RANJAN PRASAD
MUMBAI, AUG. 26

Auto stocks rallied, led by the two/three-wheeler manufacturers Bajaj Auto, Hero MotoCorp and TVS Motors expecting cut in GST rate as the finance minister acknowledged the need to bring down the goods and services tax rate on two-wheelers, currently at the highest slab rate of 28 per cent.

The largest two-wheeler maker, Hero MotoCorp, gained 6.43 per cent on the BSE. Other gainers included Bajaj Auto (2.42 per cent), TVS Motor (4.88 per cent), Eicher Motors (1.47 per cent), Kinetic Engineering (4.55 per cent) and Atul Auto (2.96 per cent).

On Tuesday while addressing CII members, finance minister Nirmala Sitharaman responding to a question about the need for lowering GST rates on two-wheelers, had said that this category is neither a luxury nor a sin good and hence merits a rate revision and this will be taken up with the GST Council.

Rajiv Bajaj, managing director, Bajaj Auto said that if the GST rates are lowered to 18 per cent from 28 per cent, the price of two-wheelers would fall by Rs 8,000 to Rs 10,000.

Overregulation has led to 30-35 per cent increase in price, Bajaj said.

Need to grow at 8.5%, create 90 mn jobs
by 2030 to avert stagnation: McKinseySANGEETHA G
CHENNAI, AUG. 26

India's GDP will have to grow by 8 to 8.5 per cent annually and the country should create jobs for 90 million workers by 2030, else will risk a decade of economic stagnation, says a McKinsey Global Institute report.

Over the decade to 2030, India needs to create at least 90 million new non-farm jobs to absorb the 60 million new workers who will enter the workforce based on current demographics. An additional 30 million workers could move from farm work to more productive non-farm sectors.

For that to happen, India's GDP needs to grow by 8 to 8.5 per cent annually over the next decade or about double the 4.2 per cent rate of growth in fiscal year 2020.

If India fails to introduce measures to address pre-pandemic trends of flat employment and slowing economic growth, and does not manage the shock of the crisis adequately, its economy could make a decadal growth of just 5 per cent and absorb only about six million new workers. This will mark a decade of lost opportunity.

In order to recover to a high-growth path, India's sectoral mix would need to move toward higher-productivity sectors that also have the potential to create more jobs. Within individual sectors, a move toward new business models that harness global trends could drive productivity and demand.

McKinsey finds that the manufacturing and construction sectors could achieve the largest acceleration in sector GDP growth relative to the past. In the coming decade, manufacturing productivity has the potential to rise by about 7.5 per cent per year, contributing more than one-fifth of the incremental GDP. Construction could add one in four of the incremental gross jobs. Both labour-intensive and knowledge-intensive sectors will have to sustain and improve on their past strong momentum.

India will also have to work now to grab opportunities presented by rising wages in other parts of Asia and trade conflicts to produce and sell more manufactured goods and services.

India would need to raise its competitiveness in high-potential sectors like electronics and capital goods, chemicals, textiles and apparel, auto and auto components, and pharmaceuticals and medical devices, which contributed to about 56 per cent of global trade in 2018.

It needs to eliminate inefficiency in areas such as power, logistics, financial services, automation, and government services and look at value-creating market-based models. Automation of work and Industry 4.0 could bring greater efficiency.

The country also needs more large companies with revenues exceeding $500 million that are significant drivers of growth and innovation. India has about 600 such firms.

The government has to introduce sector-specific policies to raise productivity in manufacturing, real estate, agriculture and food processing, retail, and healthcare. India has the potential to reduce land costs by 20 to 25 percent and increase the supply of land available for construction. The government could also consider reviewing the various laws on the books and examine options to improve labor-market flexibility.

Michel de Montaigne, who was a 16th-century essayist and philosopher, wrote, "When I am attacked by gloomy thoughts, nothing helps me so much as running to my books."

For a bridge player, nothing helps so much as turning to a deck of cards. But you need to think clearly to play well. Just pulling the card nearest your thumb will rarely work.

This deal was declared thoughtfully by Ilana Barnes from Israel. How did she plan to make four spades after a club lead? What was West's more effective opening salvo? That South hand had only four high-card points, but it included two five-card majors and a void. Barnes realized that if she could find a good fit with her partner, she would win a lot of tricks.

Declarer knew that when you have a two-suited hand, you should play on the side suit first. So, after discarding a diamond on dummy's club king, Barnes continued with the ace and another heart. East returned a club, declarer pitching a second diamond. Now came the spade king, East dropping the jack. Barnes knew that this was more likely to be a singleton than from the doubton queen-jack. So she abandoned trumps. Instead, she cashed dummy's diamond ace, ruffed a club, ruffed a heart, ruffed a club and ruffed a heart. There were three cards left. West having only trumps. Declarer led a diamond from the dummy and discarded her winning heart 10. West ruffed but had to lead away from her spade queen-nine into declarer's ace-10. The only winning opening lead was the diamond king, but how could West have found that?

Manchester United defender Harry Maguire was found guilty of assault at a trial on Tuesday and handed a 21-month suspended sentence following his arrest after a brawl last week on the island of Mykonos, court officials in Greece said. Two other defendants — including Maguire's brother Joe — were also found guilty on similar charges and handed 13-month sentences. The sentences for all three defendants were suspended for three years. Maguire issued a statement saying he will appeal. "I remain strong and confident regarding our innocence in this matter," Maguire said. "If anything, myself, family, and friends are the victims," he added. — AP

Serena succumbs, Djoker in quarters

New York: An out-of-gas Serena Williams crashed out of the Western & Southern Open on Tuesday, losing in three sets to 13th seeded Maria Sakkari 5-7, 7-6 (7/5), 6-1 in New York. The 23-time Grand Slam winner finished with a whimper at the end of the two-hour, 17-minute match as Sakkari clinched the victory with a backhand down the line. Sakkari, of Greece, advances to the quarterfinals of the no-spectator event where she will face Johanna Konta who cruised past Vera Zvonareva in straight sets 6-4, 6-2. Meanwhile, on the men's side, world No. 1 Novak Djokovic won his 20th straight match of 2020 with a hard-fought 6-2, 6-4 victory over Tennyis Sandgren. Djokovic, who captured the Australian Open in February, needed six match points to tough out the straight sets victory and reach the quarterfinals of the hardcourt tournament. Phil extends lead in his PGA debut Ridgedale, USA: The hole Phil Mickelson considered the most important in the second round of his PGA Tour Champions career was not any of the eight he birdied but rather the only one on which he made bogey. He was 5 under after the front nine Tuesday at Ozarks National when he hit driver at the par-4 10th. The ball wound up in such heavy rough that Mickelson couldn't find it, forcing him to take a penalty stroke. He still wound up making a long putt to salvage bogey, and that gave him some momentum for the rest of the round. I was able to get right back to even par on the back side with a birdie on the next hole, and then I made a couple more coming in," said Mickelson, whose 7-under 64 left him 17 under. That was good for a four-shot lead over Tim Petrovic and Rod Pamplung, who will be his playing partners for the final round. — AP

MESSY AFFAIR

Lionel says enough, wants to quit Barcelona

Barcelona, Aug. 26: After dozens of titles, hundreds of goals and countless records, Lionel Messi's spectacular career at Barcelona could be coming to an abrupt end. The divorce may turn ugly, too.

Messi told Barcelona on Tuesday that he wants to leave after nearly two decades at the club, having grown unhappy after a trophy-less season ended with a humiliating loss to Bayern Munich in the Champions League.

Barcelona confirmed that Messi sent the club a document expressing his desire to leave. But the club hinted that a legal battle could be coming and said it won't automatically grant the Argentine a great wish.

Barcelona said it told Messi in response that it wants him to stay and finish his career at the club.

The dispute centers around a clause in Messi's contract.

Barcelona said the document sent by Messi referenced a clause allowing him to leave for free at the end of the season. However, the club said the deadline for triggering that clause expired in June and that it would seek legal advice.

Messi's contract also includes a 700 million euro ($826 million) buyout clause.

"If Messi is to leave Barcelona by activating a release clause, then I hope the club (tries) to help, not hinder him," former England and Barcelona striker Gary Lineker said on Twitter.

If Messi can leave for free, he will have no shortage of suitors. However, only a handful of clubs could realistically afford to pay his wages even without a transfer fee with mega-rich Paris Saint-Germain and Manchester City widely seen as perhaps the most likely destinations.

The 33-year-old Messi has won a record six Ballon d'Or awards during his time at Barcelona as the top player in the world, and has helped the club win 10 Spanish league titles and four Champions League crowns. Messi's announcing came 11 days after Barcelona's humiliating 8-2 loss to Bayern in the Champions League quarterfinals, one of the worst defeats in the player's career and in the club's history.

The defeat capped a difficult season for Barcelona the first without a title since 2007-08 and ignited one of its worst crises ever.

Messi had been outspoken about his dissatisfaction with some of Barcelona's decisions this season, talking about the team's problems and contesting club directors. Sporting director Eric Abidal, who was criticised by Messi, left the club last week. Messi had been silent since the loss to Bayern, though, raising doubts about his future. The defeat may have been the tipping point for the playmaker. He and his teammates faced furious Barcelona fans who confronted them and criticised the team at the club's training centre after the squad returned from Portugal.

Club president Josep Bartomeu had said he was confident that Messi would finish his career with Barcelona, and that he was a crucial part of incoming coach Ronald Koeman's plans for the team. Koeman met with Messi last week and the player reportedly told the Dutchman that he saw himself more out than in at the club at that moment.

The coach reportedly had already told other key pieces of the squad that they were not in his plans, including Luis Suarez, Arturo Vidal, Samuel Umtiti and Ivan Rakitic.

After the loss to Bayern, Barcelona announced it would make profound changes to the first team and a wide-ranging restructuring of the club. The changes began with the firing of coach Quique Setin a few days after the Champions League defeat in Lisbon, and new presidential elections were called for March. — AP

MIFFED MESSI SAYS NO TO TRAINING

Madrid, Aug. 26: Lionel Messi informed Barcelona coaches he was not going to turn up to training on Wednesday, according to Barcelona's newly-appointed sporting director Ramon Planes.

Messi asked Barca Tuesday to leave the club he has been with for 20 seasons, since he was 13 years old.

"Messi informed us that he was not going to show up to training," Planes said during the official unveiling of Portuguese striker Joao Trincão.

"Messi, Planes insisted, in the first official club reaction to the Argentinian's want-away demand, was 'important news. But what we think, and we've said it many times, is that we see Messi as a Barca player."

"Today Trincão arrives and we hope he will triumph alongside Messi," he added. — AFP

CLUB FROM DOWN UNDER WANTS LIONEL

Sydney, Aug. 26: Footballing minnows Adelaide United issued a long-shot bid to entice superstar Lionel Messi to join its ranks Wednesday, touting the remote South Australian city as a coronavirus safe haven for playing and raising his family.

Writing a "Dear Lionel" letter Adelaide United Director Ian Smith cited his state's "brilliant" schools, tourist attractions and world-class wines as reasons the Argentine should head Down Under. He also noted South Australia's success in containing the pandemic saying the state would be "safe for your young family". — AFP

Messi joined Barcelona as a 16-year-old.

Lionel Messi was the teenage prodigy who blossomed into Barcelona's record scorer and is still operating at the highest level at 33. Here are the career highlights of one of football's all-time greats.

Barca academy

Messi, from Rosario in Argentina, was a diminutive 13-year-old and suffering from growth hormone deficiency when he joined the academy at Barcelona, who agreed to pay for his $1,000-a-month treatment. Despite severe homesickness at the outset, Messi rose through the ranks and made his first-team debut aged 17 in 2004, becoming Barcelona's youngest goal-scorer later that season.

Olympic gold

Messi helped Argentina to their second straight men's football gold at the 2008 Beijing Olympics, winning all six of their games and conceding just two goals.

A FOX IN THE BOX

Messi, playing in a team that included Javier Mascherano and Angel di Maria, later described it as his most cherished title. The Olympic title remain's Messi's biggest achievement with Argentina, despite being their all-time top-scorer with 70 goals.

Ballon d'Or

Messi eclipsed Cristiano Ronaldo, then newly arrived at Real Madrid, to be named the world's best footballer by a record margin in 2009.

It capped a brilliant campaign where he inspired Barcelona to the Champions League trophy, scoring nine goals and sealing the 2-0 final victory over Manchester United with Barca's second goal. Guardiola's Barcelona also won the Copa del Rey and La Liga, claiming the first treble in Spanish history. Messi picked up his sixth Ballon d'Or, another record, last December.

Muller time

Messi enjoyed a sensational 2011-12, setting a La Liga record of 50 goals in a season and scoring 73 in all competitions, breaking Gerd Muller's European record of 67.

Messi was just 24 when he broke Cesar Rodriguez's 57-year-old club record of 232 goals, smashing a hat-trick past Granada in March 2012.

He has gone on to amass 634 for his club, including a record 444 and unsurpassed 36 hat-tricks in La Liga. Messi also scored his 700th goal for club and country in June.

However, highlights have been in short supply this season for Messi and Barcelona, who finished without a trophy for the first time since 2007. — AFP

Can Jimmy reach the 700-mark?

Southampton, Aug. 26: James Anderson is far from being done after becoming the first pacer to amass 600 Test wickets and he sees no reason why he can't enter the 700-club alongside Shane Warne and Muttiah Muralitharan even though he has hit 38.

Anderson is the fourth-highest wicket-taker in Tests and reached the 600-wicket milestone by dismissing Pakistan captain Azhar Ali in the third Test here on Tuesday.

Indian spin great Anil Kumble has 619 wickets to his name behind Muralitharan (800) and Warne (708). Speaking after the drawn game, the 38-year-old made his intentions clear.

"I've chatted to Joe about this a little bit and he has said he would like me to be in Australia (for the Ashes next year). I don't see any reason why I can't be. I'm working hard on my fitness all the time. I'm working hard on my game," he was quoted as saying by 'ESPNCricinfo'.

"I didn't bowl as well as I'd have liked for the whole summer. But in this Test I was really on it and I feel like I've still got stuff to offer this team. As long as I still feel like that I think I'll keep going. I don't think I've won my last Test matches as an England cricketer yet. Can I reach 700? Why not?"

Anderson claimed his 29th five-wicket haul in the third Test and only the great Richard Hadlee has more among seam bowlers.

He said his hunger to perform has not diminished and that is what keeps him going. "We're still in the Test championship. There are still series ahead of us and Test matches to win. That's all I'm really interested in. I still love turning up every day at training, putting in the hard yards and being in the dressing room with the lads trying to forge a win for England. — PTI

Cricketers rain praise on James

New Delhi, Aug. 26: "Welcome to the club," said Anil Kumble, while Sourav Ganguly marvelled at the "greatness" as English pacer James Anderson's 600 Test wickets earned him a unanimous round of applause from some of the biggest names in Indian cricket.

Anderson touched the milestone on the fifth day of the drawn third Test against Pakistan when the 38-year-old dismissed rival skipper Azhar Ali.

"Congratulations @jimmy9 on your 600 wickets! Massive effort from a great fast bowler. Welcome to the club," Kumble tweeted.

Anderson, speaking after the match, said he is bullish about crossing the 700-wicket mark.

Former India skipper and BCCI President Ganguly was among the stalwarts to laud Anderson's achievement, calling it an inspiration for younger fast bowlers. — PTI

"Well done James Anderson @jimmy9.. this milestone is just greatness ..156 test matches as fast bowler is just unthinkable..u will make every young fast bowler believe that greatness is achievable," he tweeted.

India skipper Virat Kohli joined his illustrious compatriots to praise Anderson.

"Congratulations @jimmy9 for this outstanding achievement of 600 wickets. Definitely one of the best bowlers I've faced," he tweeted.

Anderson also claimed his 29th five-wicket haul in the third Test in Southampton and only the great Richard Hadlee has more among seam bowlers.

Talking about his 600 wickets, Anderson said: "I have worked really hard with my skills over the years and I am fortunate enough that I get to do it at the top level playing for my country." — PTI

KINGS XI AND ROYALS KICK OFF NET SESSION

Dubai, Aug. 26: All Kings XI Punjab and Rajasthan Royals squad members, who arrived here last week, will have their first proper training session in months on Wednesday evening, having tested negative for Covid-19 thrice during their mandatory six-day quarantine.

To beat the searing Dubai heat, teams have opted to train in the evening. KXIP and Royals, who are based in Dubai, and Kolkata Knight Riders, who are in Abu Dhabi, were among the first batch of teams to arrive on Thursday.

Following the players' arrival, they were tested on day 1, 3 and 6 as per the BCCI Standard Operating Procedure (SOP) and having cleared three tests, KXIP and Royals players are all set to resume training.

During the six-day quarantine, the players were not even allowed to step out of their rooms. — PTI
