3 silver lion idols missing from Durga temple chariot

MD ILYAS | DC VIJAYAWADA, SEPT. 16

Even as untoward incidents in temples are haunting YSR Congress government, a new incident has been reported. Three decorative silver lion idols have been found missing from the silver chariot in Kanaka Durga temple at Vijayawada. The four-lion idols-silver chariot is used during the Ugadi celestial ride of the Goddess. Three decorative lion idols worth of ₹15 lakh were found removed from the chariot while the fourth is damaged during forcible removal.

The temple officials tried to hide the incident by covering the chariot with plastic tarpaulin cover but it came to light when Endowments Minister Velampalli Srinivas and AP BJP president Somu Veerraju visited the temple to view the chariot separately on Wednesday. Veerraju gave an ultimatum to the government to take action on the missing of idols within two days.

The chariot was constructed using 70 kg of silver 20 years ago at a cost of ₹50 lakh and was parked near the temple's information center on the hilltop Indrakeeladri near the sanctum sanctorum of Durga. Nearly eight kgs of silver was used for each Minister for endowments Velampalli Srinivas Rao announced that a committee was appointed to probe how three decorative silver lions were missing from the silver chariot at Durga temple.

DRL will make Russian Covid vaccine for India

Firm to conduct phase 3 trials and seek Indian approvals

KANIZA GARARI | DC HYDERABAD, SEPT. 16

Sputnik V, the Russian vaccine for Covid-19, will be manufactured by Dr Reddy's Laboratories Ltd in Hyderabad after clearance from regulatory authorities.

If the regulatory authorities in India approve of the vaccine, it can be made available in India by the end of 2020. There will be 100 million doses of the vaccine supplied to India.

G.V. Prasad, co-chairman and managing director of Dr Reddy's Laboratories, said "The phase 1 and 2 results have shown promise and we will be conducting phase 3 trials in India to meet the requirements of Indian regulators."

Sputnik V is based on an adenoviral vector platform and the phase 3 human trials are to be carried out by the country that takes the vaccine from Russia. Different populations in the world react differently to the vaccine. Hence each country will have to take it and experiment on their own.

In phase 1 and 2 trials carried out on primates, Syrian hamsters and transgenic mice, it was found to be 100 per cent protective. The phase 3 trials in Russia were carried out on 76 participants. of which most were men.

In these trials, according to the science journal Lancet on September 4, it

Covid-19 fighters, high risk persons to get vaccine first

DC CORRESPONDENT HYDERABAD, SEPT 16

Who will get the Covid-19 vaccine first? This is the question in medical circles as frontline workers insist that they must be the first ones to be provided the vaccine as they are in the highest risk zone.

With the vaccine development to be completed, and there being a possibility of availability soon, it is clear that priority must be given for those who are in high risk zones.

A scramble for the vaccine is anticipated and there will be influential people and also black marketers who will exploit the situation.

Like the injections of Remdesivir, there is also a possibility of the marketing of vaccines at exorbitant prices by private players. VVIPs or affluent people might be able to procure the vaccine at the earliest which will create problems.

Experts urge that vaccines must be sold on a no-profit-no-loss basis as it is important that everyone must avail it.

According to sources, there is a lot of hope on indigenous vaccine development. There are nine vaccine candidates in late stages of trials according to the World Health Organization and one candidate is going to be successful. Sanjay Reddy, member of Telangana state pharmacy council and pharmacologist, said, "The Centre must set up a Covid-19 vaccine distribution ethical committee, which should distribute the vaccine among the public through proper channels. It must be first given to frontline healthcare professionals. The vaccine must also be prioritised for those rural and urban areas where the infection rate is high."

In the initial phases, there is bound to be scarcity of vaccines as access to crores of people is not possible. Dr Sudhir Kumar, senior consultant neurologist at institute of neurosciences, Apollo hospitals said, "We have to ensure that the most vulnerable and high risk groups get access to vaccines first. Frontline workers and immune compromised patients and the elderly must get it first."

Centre, Solicitor General Mehta suggested that even the High Courts should decide the matter coming before them involving the trial of lawmakers in a time-bound manner, ideally in a month's time.

Justice Surya Kant sought the details of the status of cases being investigated by the central agencies including CBI where there is no stay. Earlier, the court was told that in the cases involving politicians, there was delay at every stage including the change of public prosecutors and the transfer of judges forcing a de novo trial.

In the course of the hearing of a PIL by BJP leader Ashwini Upadhyay seeking setting up of a special court in every district to try lawmakers facing criminal cases, Justice Ramana said they will pass directions to ensure an expeditious trial of criminal cases against MPs and MLAs including former lawmakers.

BJP seeks intervention of Guv for safety of temples

DC CORRESPONDENT
VIJAYAWADA, SEPT. 16

A delegation of BJP led by state party president Somu Veerraju met Governor B.B. Harichandan at Raj Bhavan here on Wednesday and submitted a memorandum on the attacks on Hindu temples in AP.

They apprised the Governor of the recent burning of the chariot at Antarvedi, theft of three idols of lions at Kanaka Durga temple. Mr Veerraju told the Governor that the incidents were happening because of indifferent attitude of the government to protection of temples in the state.

He also complained to Mr Harichandan that 37 persons were arrested on non-bailable sections for protest against chariot burning at Antarvedi.

Mr Veerraju said the 'oppressive' attitude towards Hindus appeared to be part of the state government's policy of appeasing the church and some tantric ritual, robbery of Goddess Durga sarees and jewellery that took place during TD regime, the minister stated that TD leaders have exploited and ruined the sanctity of temples and even went to the extent of demolishing temples.

Botsa Satyanarayana alleged that fearing the involvement of TD leaders in the Amaravati land scam, Naidu has started a mind-game by raising the temple issue.

sections of the Christian community. He requested the Governor to direct the state government to forthwith release all those arrested in a 'high-handed' manner involved in the scam, but the court didn't seem to consider them on the plea of the petitioner that the government was vindictive. "We are not vindictive towards opposition party leaders and thus we requested for fair investigation by CBI, which is a Central Government institution. The High Court orders were surprising," he said, adding that the public started to believe that justice differs from a common man to influential persons.

Mr Ramakrishna Reddy said that the stay came on another petition filed by TD leaders Varla Ramaiah

Counselling for MBBS, BDS first year likely by Oct-end

SAMPAT G. SAMRITAN | DC
VIJAYAWADA, SEPT. 16

Counselling for admission into MBBS and BDS first year in both government and private colleges is likely to commence by October-end in AP.

The State has 6,470 MBBS first year seats in 11 government and 28 private medical colleges and also 1,740 BDS first year seats in two government and 16 private dental colleges in the current academic year.

Dr NTR University of Health Sciences authorities say that the cut-off marks vary from year to year and in case the exam papers are easy, the cut-off marks will be high and vice-versa. Based on the feedback from students, who appeared for NEET, the exam papers were found to be relatively easy and they are expecting the cut-off marks to be high in the current academic year. The seats will be filled up in compliance with the rule of reservation and accordingly, students from SC category will get reservation up to 15 per cent, ST-six per cent, BC-25 per cent and BC-E-four per cent.

In private colleges, 50 per cent of seats will be filled up under management quota and students, who join in such quota cannot avail government fee reimbursement scheme benefits.

Fifteen per cent of seats in the state will be filled up under all India quota.

The University's Registrar Dr K. Sankar said "Once the NEET merit list is announced, we will start the counselling process for admission in all permitted colleges in the state."

University sources maintain that NEET ranks are expected to be issued by September 28 and counselling for admission may start by the end of October. They point out that once the national ranks are announced, state-wide ranks will also have to be announced to fill up seats in colleges with state ranks getting preference.

AP Higher Education Regulatory and Monitoring Commission will fix fee structure for MBBS/ BDS courses in government and private medical and dental colleges in the state for the ensuing academic year.

KRISHNA-GODAVARI BASIN HAS 9.55 BILLION TONNES OF HYDROCARBONS

D. SIVA RAMI REDDI | DC
KURNOOL, SEPT. 16

Dharmendra Pradhan, minister of petroleum and natural gas has said Hydrocarbon Resource Re-Assessment Project (HCRAP) has estimated that 9.55 BToE is available in Krishna-Godavari (KG) basin in AP.

The project brought out that most prospective onland areas in AP for oil and gas exploration are East Godavari, West Godavari and Krishna district.

In a written reply to Rajya Sabha MP T.G. Venkatesh, the minister said HCRAP was undertaken in 2017. The project assessed total un-risked conventional hydrocarbon in-place volume of 42 billion Ton Oil Equivalent (BTOE) as compared to earlier estimate of 28 BTOE.

Further, the minister said National Seismic Programme was launched in 2016 to carry out 2D seismic survey in un-appraised on land areas. Till 31.07.2020, data for 44916 line kilometer has been acquired.

Terming the gag order on the FIR in the Amaravati land scam as unfortunate, Ramakrishna Reddy said that there was no need for the government to be vindictive and even if that was the case, it can be challenged after the investigation. However, stalling it at the bud stage is something beyond our comprehension.

Speaking to the media here on Wednesday, he said, Chief Minister Y.S. Jagan Mohan Reddy has been raising the Amaravati land scam even while he was in the Opposition and the investigation was done by an independent agency on the basis of which the FIR was registered.

Mr Ramakrishna Reddy said, "No sooner was the FIR registered, the court was moved immediately and the gag order was passed in quick succession which seems that influential people are at work. While our plea for a CBI probe was rejected, TD leaders could get a stay on GOs and surprisingly the Telugu Desam leaders had foretold the stay even."

Mr Ramakrishna Reddy stated that they will move the apex court against the stay order of HC. He claimed that a known TD activist turned Advocate General and kin of an influential person must have figured on the merits of the investigation but stalling the probe in the initial stage is unprecedented. He said that the national media has reacted by tweets on the issue. He lamented that this is not just a gag on the media but it is a gag on institutions, and gag on the system.

Mr Ramakrishna Reddy clarified that the FIR was filed by an independent body upon having conclusive evidence against the accused and those

DIP IN CORONA POSITIVE CASES IN VIZAG

K.M.P. PATNAIK | DC
VISAKHAPATNAM, SEPT. 16

Vizag witnessed a drop in the number of Covid positive cases. On Wednesday, only 338 positive cases were reported in the district.

The number was hovering between 1,500 and 2,000 till last week. The total positive cases were put at 45,291 and of them 5,940 were active cases. Of them 3,441 were under home isolation and rest under treatment in various hospitals.

Citing the reason for the drop in the positive cases, district medical and health officer Dr Vikayalakshmi said there was an increased awareness among the people in the post localities and among the middle class.

Areas like Lawson's Bay Colony, East Point Colony, Pandurapuram, MVP Colony and Dasapalla Layout are reporting less and less number of cases since the last 10 days.

"People are preferring to stay back at home and waiting for the situation to improve," the DM HO said.

Health officials said the problem was with the slums which comprise 40 percent of the population in the city. There are no individual toilets and on average one toilet is shared by at least 10 persons in the city.

The district administration has to control the fish market at harbour where more than 5,000 people are jostling every Sunday and other markets. Recently heavy rush of people were seen at RK Beach and Tenneti Park on Sundays.

"If Sunday markets are curbed, the number of cases could further drop," said a health volunteer K Rama Rao.

Covid patients opting for home isolation on the rise

AVINASH P. SUBRAMANYAM | DC
TIRUPATI, SEPT. 16

The number of Covid patients opting treatment in home isolation has been increasing day by day in Chittoor district since late August. Highlighting this trend, some of Covid-19 hospitals are reporting vacant beds and shortened waiting time for admissions.

At the beginning of this week, the district had over 4,000 of the total 9,225 recorded patients undergoing treatment in home isolation, though there has been no respite in Covid-19 cases.

The health department officials, too, confirm that an increasing number of patients are opting for home isolation.

Initially, the district administration did not allow home isolation even to asymptomatic cases. As the bed shortage in government hospitals and care centres has become a constant problem, the administration allowed asymptomatic patients and those aged below 50 years to opt for home care, which has now provided a much-needed alternative for critical patients to get better care.

"After we decided to allow patients to opt for home isolation, a team composed of senior doctors and medical experts have been appointed to monitor their health condition over phone on a daily basis. At present, home isolation option is being given to only asymptomatic patients, who are not comorbid and aged below 50 years," district collector Narayan Bharat Gupta told Deccan Chronicle.

Joint collector V. Veerabrahmam is heading the district telemedicine unit comprising six doctors, who are available for consultation in three-shits. Additional DMHO Dr C. Aruna Sulochana Devi and senior doctors from IMA are also in the monitoring team.

Rapid response teams have also been constituted in each ward with ASHA workers and local body officials, who personally monitor patients, and if required, they immediately shift patients to nearby Covid care facilities. A call centre has been set up in Tirupati, from where doctors monitor the health condition of each Covid patient over phone.

"Around 4,000 patients are in regular contact with our doctors. They have to answer our queries regarding their health. Being in home quarantine can be a better choice for asymptomatic patients, but they will have to be cautious and remember to give correct info to doctors," the collector said.

Though Corona positive cases are on the decline from last one week much to the relief of health officials, death rate of 4 to 10 patients per day has been causing worry to everyone concerned.

The cases which were hovering around 1000 to 1200 per day one week back came down to 500 to 800 now.

The number of cases recorded on Wednesday was 562 after testing 5071 samples and the virus has claimed the lives of 7 patients.

The positive cases were 520 and deaths were 4 on Tuesday. Similarly, the cases detected were 456 and deaths were 3 on Monday whereas 7 patients died and 844 cases detected on Sunday.

Medical and Health Officer Dr S. Rajyalakshmi said they can be relieved if the same trend continues with respect to decline in the number of positive cases for next two weeks.

She said the death rate has come down to single digits during the last one week and patients can be saved if they are admitted to the hospital soon after the detection of Covid. "Most of the patients turn up to the hospital after they face breathing problems" lamented Dr Rajyalakshmi.

Blood banks urged to get licence for plasmapheresis

SAMPAT G. SAMRITAN | DC
VIJAYAWADA, SEPT. 16

Though Andhra Pradesh has 262 blood banks, including in public and private sector, only a few of them have licence for plasmapheresis.

Given a good rate of recovery from Covid-19 after undergoing plasma therapy, the state government has been encouraging the recovered patients to donate their plasma after the mandatory period, so that it helps other patients to survive. It is even offering ₹5,000 as a financial incentive to each plasma donor.

However, most blood banks are without the mandatory licence from the Drug Control Administration to take up plasmapheresis which means collection of

■ Many blood banks in Vijayawada have licence for plasmapheresis while several in other districts are not coming forward to obtain the legally mandated licence plasma from Covid-19 infected and recovered patients and their transfusion to patients. A reason for this is there was no need for plasmapheresis until the outbreak of coronavirus and only few blood banks obtained the licence only for plateletpheresis, which means collection of blood from voluntary donors and separating it into different components like platelets, fresh frozen plasma and others and transfusing it.

Interestingly, the same machine can be used for both plateletpheresis and also for plasmapheresis and each machine costs over Rs 10 lakh depending upon its capacity. As the Drugs and Cosmetics Act, 1940 clearly mentions that blood banks are supposed to obtain licence to conduct plasmapheresis, Drug Control Administration authorities are advising blood banks to apply for the licence by paying a fee of ₹300 and avoid legal issues. The authorities hope to ensure more number of blood banks equipped with licence to collect plasma and bolster more patients to go in for plasma therapy.

A senior official from DCA said "We advise managements of blood banks to obtain the licence for plasmapheresis as they are having licence only for plateletpheresis."

J&K parties contradict MHA claim on house arrests

Kishan Reddy told House that 223 people in J&K are under detention

YUSUF JAMEEL | DC
SRINAGAR, SEPT. 16

Various mainstream and separatist parties in Jammu and Kashmir have ridiculed the Home Ministry's claim that no leader in the Union Territory (UT) is currently under house arrest.

While former minister and senior People's Democratic Party (PDP) leader, Naem Akhtar, claimed that he and as many as 35 other mainstream leaders stayed under house arrest till Wednesday morning, a statement issued by separatist All Parties Hurriyat Conference here said that its chairman and Kashmir's chief Muslim cleric Mirwaiz Umar Farooq continued to be under house detention since August 5 last year.

"On that day, police vehicles were parked on both the gates of his house compound and since he is not being allowed to move out and even go to Jama Masjid (Grand Mosque) where he would deliver customary sermons on Fridays," the amalgam faction said.

Minister of State (Home) G. Kishan Reddy, in a written reply to a question raised by Trinamool Congress MP Saugata Ray said in Lok Sabha on Tuesday that no leader in J&K is currently under house arrest. He, however, admitted that 223 people in J&K are under detention.

He said, "As on the 11 September, 223 persons are under detention. No person is under house arrest in the UT of Jammu and Kashmir."

"The situation on the ground is contrary to what the Home Ministry has claimed. After the authorities revoked my detention under the Public Safety Act (PSA) in the third week of June, I was placed under house arrest. I'm not being allowed to go out,"

said Mr. Akhtar.

Soon after ending his ten and half month long detention under the PSA, he was asked to vacate his government accommodation or face forcible eviction.

He said, "I've just travelled one distance from that house to this new rented one and that too under police escort. However, I was allowed some days ago to go out to get an ultrasonography test done on the advice of my doctor and again policemen accompanied me." Mr. Akhtar said that the policemen continued to be deployed at the gate of his house who did not allow him even to attend a PDP leaders' meeting called by his general secretary Ghulam Nabi Lone Hanjura at the party headquarters here on September 3.

"We have to see it in the larger construct of the situation in Kashmir. This is part of the entire new system which has been introduced here that the politicians should be at the mercy of the security establishment. They have to apply for and inform them (police) of their every activity," Mr. Akhtar who also served as the chief spokesman of the PDP-BJP coalition government in the erstwhile state told this newspaper.

He said that earlier the J&K politicians categorized as "protected persons" and provided security cover would only inform the concerned authorities before visit-

PDP ACCUSES CENTRE OF 'BRAZEN DUPLICITY'

DC CORRESPONDENT
SRINAGAR, SEPT. 16

People's Democratic Party (PDP) on Wednesday accused the Central government of "brazen duplicity" over Jammu and Kashmir and said that such behaviour will not be tolerated. It also said that its "fight" against "bulldozing J&K's identity and rights will continue uncompromisingly".

A statement issued after a meeting of the party's youth wing, the first since August 5 last year, the PDP said, "On one hand, BJP government is participating in dialogue with Taliban, talking reconciliation with PLA who have invaded Ladakh and discussing with Nagaland insurgents desperate constitution and Flag, but at the same time, it is using anything but dialogue to deal with the mess created by them after illegal scrapping of special status if Jammu and Kashmir. This is unacceptable."

The statement also said, "The party has reaffirmed its pledge to continue fighting for the aspirations and rights of people of Jammu and Kashmir and resist by all democratic ways the onslaught by the Central government".

"In the first ever meeting of its youth wing after August 5, 2019, the party emphasized that the constitutional fraud perpetrated on the people of Jammu and Kashmir and the subsequent bulldozing of constitutional rights will always remain unacceptable."

Sangma bats for Gorkhaland in North Bengal

MANOJ ANAND | DC
GUWAHATI, SEPT. 16

In what is said to be an attempt to spread the reach of National Peoples' Party to West Bengal, its president and Meghalaya chief minister Conrad K. Sangma has advocated the formation of Gorkhaland in North Bengal.

Reminding the Centre that the Gorkhas too are rightful Indian citizens who deserve to have their own identity and Bas Bhoomi (homeland) Mr Sangma, in a letter written to union home minister Amit Shah on September 4, said, "Sir, you are aware of the long pending constitutional demand of the Gorkhas for a separate state of Gorkhaland."

Flagging and justifying the demand of separate state, Mr Sangma said, "The Gorkhas have made India their home for a very long period. The contribution of Gorkhas towards India and their motherland has been immeasurable and they have made supreme sacrifices in protecting this beloved country."

He also highlighted the contributions of Gorkha freedom fighter Durga Malla, members of constituent assembly Damber Singh and Ari Bahadur Gurung and Captain Ram Singh Thakuria, a prominent Gorkha freedom fighter and musician who composed the music of the inspiring National Anthem.

Pleading the Centre to offer an honourable and lasting political solution to the Gorkhas, the chief minister said, "As stated the Gorkhas have contributed immensely to the fabric of Indian society and as with other citizens of India, the Gorkhas too are rightful Indian citizens who deserve to have their own identity and Bas Bhoomi (homeland)."

He said, "The NDA government under the leadership of Prime Minister Narendra Modi has passed several landmark decisions in the interest of people of this country. I urge your good office to kindly give a patient hearing to the legitimate demand of Gorkhas of North Bengal and offer an honourable and lasting political solution at the earliest."

The letter was made public when the monsoon session of Parliament was in progress and there were growing demands by NDA allies in Darjeeling for finding a permanent political solution. Meanwhile Akhil Bharatiya Gorkha League (Pratap Khati camp) has thanked Mr Sangma for extending his support to their long pending demands. Mr Sangma is the second chief minister to lend support to the Gorkhaland demand. When Mr Pawan Chamling was the Sikkim chief minister, he got a resolution adopted in the state Assembly on March 29, 2011, terming Gorkhaland as a genuine and legitimate demand of the people of the hills.

President Ram Nath Kovind will visit Srinagar on Sunday to address a one-day session on the implementation of the new national educational policy in the country.

It would be his first visit to Jammu and Kashmir after the state was stripped of its special status and split up into two union territories on August 5, 2019.

The President had on August 7 last year signed the Article 370 gazette, revoking the special status to J&K. The move came after both Houses of Parliament passed a resolution in this regard.

According to a statement issued here, the University of Kashmir in collaboration with the J&K government is organizing the one-day "brainstorming session" on the implementation of the National Education Policy at Srinagar's Sher-i-Kashmir International Convention Centre September 20.

The NEP-2020 was approved by the Union cabinet on July 29, and, as per the government, it is meant to provide an overarching vision and comprehensive framework for higher education across the country.

The statement said that President and Prime Minister, Narendra Modi, have suggested that the universities and higher education ministries across the country shall hold brainstorming sessions involving all the stakeholders for deliberating upon the strategies regarding the smooth implementation of the NEP-2020 in the country.

"It is in this context, that the University of Kashmir is organizing a brainstorming session on Sunday here which shall be addressed to by the President and also J&K Lieutenant Governor," the statement said.

Why CPM stands behind Jaleel

GILVESTER ASSARY | DC
THIRUVANANTHAPURAM, SEPT. 16

Even in the face of state wide protests by opposition parties seeking Kerala higher education minister K.T. Jaleel's resignation, the ruling CPM has stood solidly behind him. The protests which turned violent in many parts of the state have not been able to force the government or the ruling party to change its position.

Chief Minister Pinarayi Vijayan and CPM state secretary Kodyiyeri Balakrishnan have repeatedly defended Jaleel terming Opposition charges as "totally baseless."

"Quit Jaleel" demand had gained momentum after the Enforcement Directorate questioned him five days ago on the allegations of violating Foreign Contribution (Regulation) Act, 2010 (accepting foreign aid without Centre's permission) and accepting consignments of Holy Quran brought from UAE through diplomatic channels.

To understand Jaleel's importance in Kerala politics, one has to trace his journey thus far. From a firebrand leader of SIMI to a poster boy of ruling CPM, the 53-year-old's political journey has been remarkable in many ways.

After his sting with SIMI, Jaleel joined the Muslim League and went on to become the state president of Muslim Youth League in 2004. But he was thrown out of the League in 2005 for questioning leadership on misuse of Tsunami funds. The CPM which was waiting for a popular face in Malappuram district to take on the League, seized the opportunity and fielded Jaleel as LDF backed independent in 2006 Assembly polls. As they say the rest is history. Riding on the popularity of his anti-corruption crusade, Jaleel trounced Muslim League general secretary P.K. Kunhalikutty scripting one of the stunning victories in state's electoral history.

Jaleel who has a PhD on the topic related to 1921 Malabar rebellion is known for his fiery speeches and clean image, and has remained loyal to LDF since then. He won elections in 2011 and 2016.

Rajnath disappoints: A lot left unanswered

Defence minister Rajnath Singh's much-awaited statement in both Houses of Parliament on Tuesday on the situation in eastern Ladakh was disappointing on several counts, as the country sought clarity from the highest quarters on one of its biggest crises. The minister, however, told us very little we didn't already know, and though he put the current confrontation between the two sides in the historical context of the fractured India-China relationship, beyond acknowledging the obvious fact that this standoff was qualitatively different from earlier ones, in the scale of the troops involved and the number of friction points, and that India was "facing a challenge", we were none the wiser. He told us due to the two sides' differing perceptions of the Line of Actual Control, India and China needed a common perception of the LAC to avoid emergence of new friction points, a process China has been stalling since 2003 as it sees advantage in the continuing ambiguity. All this is well known. There were expressions of hope. If the Moscow agreement between external affairs minister S. Jaishankar and Chinese foreign minister Wang Yi was "sincerely implemented" by the Chinese, peace would return! Did we not know that already? Mr Singh offered a timeline of the border standoff since early May but left out one crucial bit: the September 7 incident in which shots were fired at the LAC for the first time in 45 years.

Unlike many of his Cabinet colleagues, Mr Singh enjoys a well-deserved reputation for plain speaking, of telling it like it is, as he demonstrated earlier during this crisis while visiting the troops in Ladakh. Therefore, while speaking at Parliament's first meeting after the crisis broke, more was expected of him: that he would share with the country the real story of what was happening, of what had gone wrong. No one expected him to share operational details of ongoing or future Army operations. Despite Prime Minister Narendra Modi's truly puzzling declaration at the virtual all-party meeting on June 19 — days after the Galwan incident in which 20 Indian soldiers, including a commanding officer, and an unknown number of Chinese troops were killed — that no Chinese forces were on Indian soil, the Indian Army and others have acknowledged, before and afterwards, that all-out efforts were on to ensure that the People's Liberation Army goes back to its side of the de facto border. Mr Singh could have shed more light on this. His statement made no mention of the 20-km-deep intrusion by the PLA in the Depsang Plains at all. Many such questions, on which the country was hoping for clarity, remain unanswered.

Mr Singh urged MPs to pass a resolution expressing confidence in the armed forces in these difficult times. There is no doubt that all sections of the nation are united on that issue. But in not responding to questions raised by the Congress and others, the government may inadvertently have missed a great opportunity. It has often been said that the India-China competition will define our "Asian century". Here was a chance to show the huge difference between democratic India and the Communist Party oligarchy that runs the People's Republic. An endorsement by a legislature that asks searching, critical questions of the executive would have sent out a message to the world that Xi Jinping's rubber-stamp National People's Congress simply cannot.

A welcome ruling

The Supreme Court order on Wednesday prohibiting Sudarshan TV from telecasting the future episodes of a TV show portraying the entry of Muslims into the civil service as an attempt to infiltrate it is welcome for more than one reason. First, the apex court thought it fit that an early intervention to stop the programme which it found "insidious" was warranted and waiting for the statutory authorities to consider the complaints against it would make "irreversible damage". Second, it showed there are existing legal ways to confront such programmes that make use of the fundamental right to speech and expression and create animosity among sections of society. Third, the existing constitutional institutions are still able to assert their independence and decide the fine line between the use and abuse of the right to free speech, thereby obviating the creation of another government mechanism to regulate the media.

The bench while hearing the petition read out Clause 6 (c) of the programme code the ministry of information and broadcasting framed under the Cable TV Network (Regulation) Act, 1994, which prohibited the transmission of programmes that contain attack on religions or communities or visuals or words contemptuous of religious groups or which promote communal attitudes. This clause makes it incumbent on the part of the government to act and ensure that peace and harmony prevailed in the country and people with vested interests are stopped in their course before weakening the nation's social fabric through such TV programmes. It is curious that the Union government was seen in the court fighting for media freedom. The court's insistence that "no freedom is absolute, not even journalistic freedom" was met with a comment by the solicitor-general that the freedom of a journalist is supreme and any regulation of the same would need extensive debates. Debates are fine, the government must remember, but insidious programmes are not.

Freedom and bias: How Facebook comes of age

Shashidhar Nanjundaiah

What a year it is turning out to be for Facebook!

Its sway over voters has made incumbent governments in several countries seek to exact their pound of flesh. As a self-proclaimed proponent of free speech with limited control over content, the social media company now finds itself stuck in both legal and moral conflicts in many countries such as Thailand, the Philippines, Australia and elsewhere.

The ongoing deposition before India's parliamentary standing committee on information technology was always going to be a perfunctory but important attempt to raise questions of Facebook's influence over societies and their behaviour. The committee is multi-partisan, but the original agenda — whether Facebook has systematically favoured the BJP — was so politically divisive that such a panel could have never found a consensus unless the agenda was broadened to a generalisation.

Potentially, the deadlock in the deposition heralds some independence for Facebook. The Congress Party and the Trinamul Congress say Facebook has displayed a pro-BJP stance, while the government claims the contrary, even accusing Facebook's employees of abusing the Prime Minister. In the end, Facebook can claim that since both sides are claiming bias, they cancel each other out and that there is no real bias. That is why it was important that the parliamentary committee work pragmatically towards a united, non-partisan and achievable public goal — helping to independently curb hate.

WHO IS 'WE'?

Economic and political power makes great negotiators. But for Facebook, this is a battle of identity. Three recent episodes are of relevance:

1. Facebook will soon add additional text to its terms of use to consolidate its position. In effect, Facebook has emerged from the shadows to stake its claim as a private company with full authority to tweak its rules, not as the public service that it can be mistaken for.

2. Union minister Ravi Shankar Prasad shot off a strategically timed letter — coinciding with the parliamentary committee deposition — accusing Facebook's staff in India of colluding to discredit the government.

3. Following Facebook India MD Ajit Mohan's deposition, its global leaders Neil Potts and Mark Zuckerberg have issued statements that assure the world that Facebook is a neutral carrier and that hate speech will not be tolerated on it.

On September 1, Facebook forewarned its users of an impending addition of a self-protective clause to its section (3.2): "We also can remove or restrict access to your content, services or information if we determine that doing so is reasonably necessary to avoid or mitigate adverse legal or regulatory impacts to Facebook." As many digital business experts point out, this is an overdue survival clause. But it underlines the arrival of a more proactive approach to censorship — with larger implications on who gets to influence it.

On the face of it, the additional clause should provide comfort to those who may view it as a sort of social media garbage disposal. But if there is one word that's ambiguous in the otherwise crystal-clear message, it is "we". As much as its use in legalese is well-understood, who is this unseen hand in digital practice that restricts access, service, information or content? It could be the content desk, fact check desk, and standards-and-practices desk. However, given that algorithms are partly in control, is Facebook telling us that it will take more responsibility to rein them in?

Communicating on social sites like Facebook is both public and permanent. In the absence of proper (self-)regulation, it is at once a personally empowering and socially debilitating tool. Unlike edited content on the mainstream media, the free-flowing content on social media had accepted little accountability. That may be changing.

To prove the point, on the heels of the first day of the deposition, Facebook barred a known hatemonger, BJP's T. Raja Singh. If that is supposed to be exemplary somehow, it does not make the cut. Many people in our circles have abandoned the platform to avoid the mentally draining intensity and abuse. Removing the hundreds and thousands of trolls and others who indulge in hate speech alone can bring back public confidence in social media and in humanity in general.

ACCOUNTABILITY GAME

Facebook has turned its attention over the past two years to issues pertaining to privacy and complications arising from its business-to-government deals. While governments seek a piece of the content action, is Facebook's government business jeopardising its founding principles?

It is clear that many, even quasi-democratic, governments want more control over social media content and content in general. In Thailand, a constitutional monarchy, the government asked that access to a group of voices against the government be blocked, and Facebook is suing the government to dispute such a restriction. Philippines President Rodrigo Duterte's supporters are known to have peddled fake news on the platform. The country's largest news network had to shut shop recently, thanks to governmental machinations. In Australia, the battle is to make social media accountable for borrowed content. Facebook has threatened to block news from Australian newspapers in retaliation over an impending pay-per-use law that seeks to shield its news media and requires Facebook to share revenues for news items taken from the newspapers.

Platforms such as Facebook face the consequences of not having thought through risks and challenges and pay the price of democratising processes. As a free marketplace of relationships and ideas — "the digital equivalent of a town square", as co-founder Mark Zuckerberg wrote in 2019 — Facebook needs better control over credibility. A growing number of people with Facebook accounts have chosen to stay away because they are dismayed at what they see in that ecosystem. Facebook can help by making its users media literate. As the social media grows and as we become more social media literate, the distinction between satire and fake news, between claims and opinions, and between facts and myths grows on us. Organically, media literacy is a longitudinal process. But intervention can accelerate the education.

This year, and not 2016, when Facebook was first accused of gerrymandering, marks its growth from innocence to experience. How the company pivots this experience will determine its future.

The writer has led reputed institutes of higher education and is the founder of "Being Responsible", which does media literacy programmes for schools

HARD PROOF NEEDED

15 months in power, the YSRC is still groping in the dark to nail N. Chandrababu Naidu and all his henchmen. While in Opposition the YSRC brought out a 'fat' booklet on corruption by the former CM during 2014-19 and successfully brainwashed the electorate to vote the TD out of power. It is a shame that the YSRC is unable to come up with solid evidence against the TD chief and his cronies so that no court could stop investigation. Mere allegations won't suffice. At least the Fibernet issue should be pursued to its logical conclusion so that all the accused are convicted.

Asif Jahi flag comes down

HYDERABAD, SEPT. 16.

The Asif Jahi Flag, which had been flying over the palaces the Nizam in the city for about 225 years, was lowered yesterday.

The Flag on the Nizam's car and the red number plates were removed.

The State Government had communicated the instructions received from the Union Home Ministry in this connection to the Nizam, Mir Barkat Ali Khan, on Friday.

The police guard at the King Koti Palace in the heart of the city would, however, continue as the Nizam had been paying for them. He was not enjoying his privilege of having a free guard, a police spokesman said. — PTI.

PM Modi plugs 'Karmayogi' in pep talk to IPS probationers

A total of 131 IPS probationers, including 28 women, who completed 42 weeks of basic course phase-1 training at the prestigious Sardar Vallabhbhai Patel National Police Academy in Hyderabad had a rare opportunity to interact with Prime Minister Narendra Modi through a video conference. He is known to do this infrequently, but it thrills those who chance into one.

During the basic course training at SVP NPA over two segments, probationers are imparted training in various indoor and outdoor subjects like law, investigation, forensics, leadership and management, criminology, public order and internal security, ethics & human rights, modern Indian policing, fieldcraft and tactics, weapons training and firing. This was their final training before field postings in their respective state cadres.

In his address to the 2018-batch of IPS probationers, the Prime Minister urged them to excel in their careers. He also used the opportunity to plug the government's new theme "Mission Karmayogi", a scheme for capacity building of civil servants, a task which the National Police Academy has been performing quite ably since its inception back in 1948. The theme immediately got national attention, way beyond police lines, as expected. The academy director, Atul Karwal, a 1988-batch IPS officer from Gujarat cadre, presided over the Dikshant (convocation) Parade and addressed the probationers.

MESSAGE TO J&K BASUS

The message is loud and clear from the Modi sarkar that no anti-national rhetoric, especially by government employees shall be tolerated at any cost. One year after the abrogation of Article 370 and 35A, the Jammu and Kashmir administration has constituted a six-member committee, headed by J&K chief secretary B.V.R. Subrahmanyam, to look into cases related to government officials allegedly indulging in anti-national activities.

The high-level committee has been empowered to scrutinise cases and recommend action against those officials involved in anti-national activities under Article 311(2)(c). Apart from the J&K chief secretary, the others members of the high-level committee include administrative secretary of the Home department, J&K DGP, administrative secretary of the general administration department, additional DGP, CID and administrative secretary of the department of law, justice.

Experts say any government official, including IAS and IPS officers if found guilty by the committee for "anti-national" activity can be dismissed from service without an inquiry.

According to sources, it is rumoured that many government officers are under the scanner in Jammu and Kashmir for their involvement in 'anti-national' activities.

MEDIA AND MUMBAI POLICE

What made seven former DGPs and a police commissioner approach the Bombay high court in the Sushant Singh Rajput case?

The media's obsession with the Sushant Singh Rajput death case has overridden the raging corona pandemic, our stalled economy and the Chinese threat on the border. After the CBI, Enforcement Directorate and sundry agencies have been brought in by the Centre, the Mumbai Police has been forced into a corner. It has been accused of political bias and for botching up the investigation, though in the freestyle mud wrestling that the nation has seen, it is hard to determine who is cleaner.

Now, the former IPS officers have urged the court to put an end to the "media trial" and the "unfair, malicious and false media campaign" against the Mumbai police in the case. The petitioners include former Maharashtra DGPs M.N. Singh, P.S. Pasricha, D.K. Sivanandan, Sanjiv Dayal, Satish Mathur, K. Subramanyam and former additional DGP K.P. Raghuvanshi, and former Mumbai police commissioner D.N. Jadhav. According to the petition, the adverse media campaign "appears to have been designed with sinister motives to tarnish the fair image of the Mumbai police".

Significantly, the petition urges courts to frame rules or guidelines which would help media cover investigations that are sub-judice. But, for now, it is a no-holds-barred approach as far as some sections of the media are concerned.

IN BRIEF

Wartime killings:
7 held in Bosnia

Sarajevo: Authorities in Bosnia on Wednesday arrested seven Bosnian Serb former military officers and troops suspected in the killing of 44 Bosniak civilians during the 1992-95 war. In all, nine people are suspected of the September 1992 crime in the area of Sokolac, in southeastern Bosnia, Bosnia's prosecutor's office said in a statement. Bosnian Serbs separated men from women in the Bosniak village of Novoseoci before taking the men away to a nearby waste dump where they were killed.

Philippine copter crash kills four

Zamboanga: A Philippine air force helicopter on its way to airlift troops wounded in a recent suicide bombing crashed on a southern island Wednesday, killing all four crew members on board, officials said. The Sikorsky S-76A took off from southern Zamboanga city for a flight to nearby Sulu province and crashed midway in rainy weather in the hilly village of Upper Manggas on Basilan island. The two pilots and two other crew members were killed. They were bound for Jolo town to airlift troops who were wounded in two Aug. 24 bombings.

Quake shakes
Kathmandu

Kathmandu: A strong earthquake of 6 magnitude shook Nepal's capital Kathmandu and surrounding areas on Wednesday, forcing people to rush out of their houses. According to the National Seismological Center, the 6 magnitude quake occurred in the country's Sindhupalchowk district near Tibet border at 5.19 am. The epicentre of the earthquake was Ramche village in the district, 120 km east of Kathmandu. A mild tremor of 3.8 magnitude was also felt at the same place at 6.10 am, it said.

Greek camp fire:
13 detained

Athens: Thirteen people have been detained on the Greek island of Samos after a fire threatened the local migrant camp, police said Wednesday, days after another blaze destroyed Europe's largest migrant camp on Lesbos. "We are examining the possible participation of these suspects in the incident," a Samos police source said. The officer declined to identify the nationalities of the suspects. It broke out in a forested area near the Samos camp late on Tuesday, but firefighters were able to place it under control. The Lesbos fire at Moria camp on September 8 left over 12,000 asylum seekers homeless.

3 FATF-RELATED BILLS PASSED IN PAK, 1 BLOCKED

Islamabad, Sept. 16: A joint sitting of Pakistan's Parliament on Wednesday passed three crucial Financial Action Task Force-related legislations, as part of the government's efforts to escape from being black-listed by the global money laundering and terrorist financing watchdog.

President Arif Alvi called the joint sitting of both houses of Parliament on Wednesday evening after Senate earlier in the day rejected the Anti-Terrorism Act (amendment) Bill, 2020, making it the third FATF-related legislation to have been blocked by the Opposition-dominated upper house.

Last month, the Anti-Money Laundering (Second Amendment) Bill and the Islamabad Capital Territory (ICT) Waqf Properties Bill, were rejected by Senate. The three legislations were part of efforts by Pakistan to move from the FATF's grey list to the white list. Under the 18th Amendment, if a bill passed by one house of Parliament is rejected by the other, it can become a law only if it is passed by a joint sitting of the two houses.

Prime Minister Imran Khan attended the joint session which was chaired by National Assembly Speaker Asad Qaiser. The opposition staged a walk out after most of their proposed amendments to the bills were rejected and they were not allowed to speak.

Khan thanked lawmakers who voted in favour of the legislations for "standing with their country". He said that the opposition's "attitude" on the bills showed that the "interests of [opposition parties] and their leaders were the opposite of Pakistan's interests".

Sally pummels Alabama with heavy rain, outages

Pensacola (US), Sept. 16: Hurricane Sally made landfall Wednesday near Gulf Shores, Alabama, as a Category 2 storm, pushing a surge of ocean water onto the coast and dumping torrential rain that forecasters said would cause dangerous flooding from the Florida Panhandle to Mississippi and well inland in the days ahead.

Moving at an agonisingly slow 3 mph, Sally finally came ashore at 4:45 a.m. local time with top winds of 105 mph (165 kmh), the National Hurricane Center said. Sally's northern eyewall had raked the Gulf Coast with hurricane-force winds and rain from Pensacola Beach, Florida, westward to Dauphin Island, Alabama, for hours before its centre finally hit land.

Some 150,000 homes and businesses had lost electricity by early Wednesday, according to the poweroutage.us site. A curfew was called in the coastal Alabama city of Gulf Shores due to life-threatening conditions.

● SOME 150,000 homes and businesses had lost electricity by early Wednesday, according to the poweroutage.us site. A curfew was called in the coastal Alabama city of Gulf Shores due to life-threatening conditions.

Escambia County, Chief Sheriff's Deputy Chip Simmons vowed to keep deputies out with residents as long as physically possible.

The county includes Pensacola, one of the largest cities on the Gulf Coast. "The sheriff's office will be there until we can no longer safely be out there, and then and only then will we pull our deputies in," Simmons said at a storm briefing late Tuesday. This for a storm that, during the weekend, appeared to be headed for New Orleans. "Obviously this shows what we've known for a long time with storms — they are unpredictable," Pensacola Mayor Grover Robinson IV said. Stacy Stewart, a senior specialist with the hurricane centre, said the rainfall will be "catastrophic and life threatening" over portions of the Gulf Coast, Florida panhandle and southeastern Alabama, and will continue well after landfall, with the storm producing heavy rainfall Wednesday night and Thursday over portions of central and southern Georgia.

Sally was a rare storm that could make history, said Ed Rappaport, deputy director of the hurricane center. "Sally has a characteristic that isn't often seen and that's a slow forward speed and that's going to exacerbate the flooding," Rappaport said. He likened the storm's slow progression to that of Hurricane Harvey, which swamped Houston in 2017. Up to rears) of rain could fall in some spots, and "that would be record-setting in some locations," Rappaport said in an interview Tuesday night. — AP

EU: UK cannot change withdrawal agreement

Brussels, Sept. 16: European Commission President Ursula von der Leyen said Wednesday that the United Kingdom cannot unilaterally change the EU-UK bilateral withdrawal agreement without destroying global trust in the country.

Insisting that chances for a future trade deal are slipping away by the day, von der Leyen told the European Union's legislature that plans by British Prime Minister Boris Johnson to renege on parts of the withdrawal agreement signed by both of them dimmed those hopes even further.

What's more, she insisted that Britain is throwing its good name to the wind by not respecting a deal it signed and approved last December. "It cannot be unilaterally changed, disregarded or disciplined. This is a matter of law and trust and good faith," she said in her State of the Union address. She rubbed it in by quoting from a 1975 speech by British conservative icon Margaret Thatcher.

"Britain does not break treaties. It would be bad for Britain, bad for our relations with the rest of the world and bad for any future treaty on trade," von der Leyen quoted from Thatcher. Johnson has called his plan to unilaterally rewrite Britain's divorce deal with the EU an insurance policy against the bloc's unreasonable behaviour.

Johnson said a planned law designed to override portions of the Brexit withdrawal agreement he agreed to was needed because the EU might "go to extreme and unreasonable lengths" in its treatment of former member Britain.

NEW DELHI, SEPT. 16

Woman, aged 69, raped by a 29-year-old man.

We often read this sort of headline in newspapers. But where do we pause? At rape, or at 69 and 29?

South Korean writer-director Lim Sun-ae's film, An Old Lady, asks that question, and then she wants us to consider: Is there an age limit to being raped? An Old Lady, which is playing at TIFF, opens to a black screen. We hear two people talking. It seems one is a nursing assistant, and he is with a female patient who has come for physiotherapy for her frozen shoulder.

"No one would guess your age," he says. "Do you swim? Your legs... you don't look old at all." He puts the infrared lamp on. "How long will it take?" she asks. "Nine minutes."

The screen lights up and we stare at a row of curtained cubicles. There's a loud beep and in one of them and the red light goes off. We are left with the feeling that something has happened. But the patient, Hyo-jeong (Ye Su-jeong, known for her role in Train To Busan), seems normal as she chats with Mr Nam (Ki Joo-bong) who has come to pick her up. He owns a small book store, and she works for him. She was once his nurse.

At home, Hyo rubs her wrists. He notices a bruise on her arm. The nursing assistant was clumsy with the needle, she says. Later she says to him, "I should report it to the police."

Trump: Vaccine could be ready in a month

Philadelphia, Sept. 16: US President Donald Trump said Tuesday that a Coronavirus vaccine may be available within a month — an acceleration of even his own optimistic predictions — but added that the pandemic could go away by itself.

"We're very close to having a vaccine," he told a town hall question-and-answer session with voters in Pennsylvania aired on ABC News.

"We're within weeks of getting it you know — could be three weeks, four weeks," he said.

Only hours earlier, speaking to Fox News, Trump had said a vaccine could come in "four weeks, it could be eight weeks". Democrats have expressed concern that Trump is putting political pressure on government health regulators and scientists to approve a rushed vaccine in time to help turn around his uphill bid for reelection against challenger Joe Biden on November 3.

Experts, including top US government infectious diseases doctor Anthony Fauci, say vaccine approval is more likely toward the end of the year.

At the ABC town hall Trump was asked why he'd downplayed the gravity of the Covid-19 pandemic, which has now killed close to 200,000 people in the US.

Trump replied by saying: "I didn't downplay it. I actually, in many ways, I

SOCIAL DISTANCING WILL NOT HELP COMBAT COVID-19, SAYS UNGA PREZ

United Nations, Sept. 16: Social distancing at the global level will not help as no country could combat Covid-19 alone, President of the UN General Assembly's 75th session Volkan Bozkir has said, asserting that multilateralism is the "panacea" to all the problems in the world.

Bozkir, addressing the UN ambassadors and delegates, said that since the beginning of the crisis earlier this year, critics of multilateralism have become more vocal and the pandemic has been used to justify unilateral steps and weaken the rules-based international system. "In the past six months, our plans for the 75th year of the United Nations have changed. Today, we have other urgent priorities. Our masks remind us of the very serious threat we face... They remind us we are in this together," Bozkir said as the 75th session of the General Assembly commenced on Tuesday.

Wearing masks, UN diplomats and envoys sat socially distanced in the iconic General Assembly Hall as the high-level annual session begins in a largely virtual format this year due to the Covid-19 pandemic.

"International organisations have been reproached and the need for international cooperation has been questioned. These criticisms are not baseless but their conclusions are misguided," the veteran Turkish diplomat said.

Giving a clarion call for strengthening multilateralism to combat the pandemic, Bozkir said, "Make no mistake: No state can combat this pandemic alone. Social distancing will not help at the international level."

up-played it in terms of action." But Trump himself told journalist Bob Woodward during taped interviews for the new book "Rage" — published Tuesday — that he had deliberately decided to "play it down" to avoid alarming Americans.

Returning to one of his most controversial views on the virus, that has ravaged the economy and which government scientists say will remain a danger for some time, Trump insisted "it is going to disappear". "It would go away without the vaccine but it's going to go away a lot faster with it," he said.

Challenged about how the virus would go away by itself, he said "you'll

Israel hits Gaza after rocket fire during US ceremony

Jerusalem, Sept. 16: The Israeli military struck Hamas militant sites in the Gaza Strip early Wednesday in response to rocket fire toward Israel the previous night that coincided with the signing of normalisation agreements between Israel and two Arab countries at the White House.

The barrage against Israel began Tuesday night just as the ceremony in Washington was getting underway to formalise the new agreements with the United Arab Emirates and Bahrain. Two Israelis were lightly wounded. The rocket fire continued overnight, with sirens sounding across southern Israel. The military said five projectiles landed in open areas with the rest intercepted by Israel's rocket defence system. In response, the military said it struck about 10 sites belonging to Gaza's militant Hamas rulers, including a weapons and explosives manufacturing factory, underground infrastructure and a military training compound.

The renewed exchange offered a stark reminder that the festive events in Washington would likely do little to change Israel's conflict with the Palestinians. In addition to the bilateral agreements signed by Israel, the UAE and Bahrain, all three signed a document dubbed the "Abraham Accords" after the patriarch of the world's three major monotheistic religions.

The Palestinians are opposed to the agreements with the United Arab Emirates and Bahrain, viewing them as a betrayal of their cause by the Arab

IRAN SAYS UAE, BAHRAIN WILL BEAR 'CONSEQUENCES' OF ISRAEL DEALS

Tehran, Sept. 16: Iran's President Hassan Rouhani said on Wednesday that the United Arab Emirates and Bahrain will be responsible for any "consequences" resulting from their normalisation of relations with Tehran's arch-foe Israel.

The remarks came a day after Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu and the foreign ministers of Bahrain and the United Arab Emirates signed agreements establishing full diplomatic ties at a ceremony at the White House.

Speaking at a cabinet meeting, Rouhani said Israel was "committing more crimes in Palestine every day".

"Some of the region's countries, their people are pious Muslims but their rulers neither understand religion nor (their) debt... to the nation of Palestine, to their brothers speaking their language," he said in televised remarks.

"How could you reach out your hands to Israel? And then you want to give them bases in the region? All the severe consequences that would arise from this are on you."

US President Donald Trump said that similar Washington-brokered deals were close to being signed between Israel and several Arab countries, including Iran's regional rival Saudi Arabia.

"After decades of division and conflict we mark the dawn of a new Middle East," Trump said.

countries, which agreed to recognise Israel without securing territorial concessions. They vow that the agreements, and any others that may follow, will not undermine their cause. Neither President Donald Trump nor Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu mentioned the Palestinians in their remarks at the signing ceremony, but both the UAE and Bahraini foreign ministers spoke of the importance of creating a Palestinian state. Upon his departure back from Washington, Netanyahu said he was not surprised by the rocket attack or the timing of the militants.

"They want to take pe-ce backwards but they won't succeed," he said. "We will strike hard against all those who seek to harm us and reach out a hand in peace to all those whose hand is reached out to peace with us."

The Islamic militant group Hamas has ruled Gaza since 2007, when it seized power from the internationally-backed Palestinian Authority. Israel and Egypt have imposed a crippling blockade on the coastal territory since then. A number of Palestinian militant groups operate in Gaza, but Israel holds Hamas responsible for all attacks and typically responds to rocket fire with airstrikes on militant targets.

develop like a herd mentality," apparently meaning the concept of herd immunity, when enough people have developed resistance to the disease to effectively stop transmission.

"It's going to be herd developed and that's going to happen. That will all happen but with a vaccine, I think it will go away very quickly. But I really believe we're rounding the corner," he said.

The president, who is rarely seen wearing a mask in public and long refused to push Americans to adopt the habit, said "a lot of people don't want to wear masks and people don't think masks are good." Asked what people he meant, Trump answered: "Waiters". "They come over and they serve you and they have a mask," he said. "I saw it the other day when they were serving me and they're playing with the mask. I'm not blaming them. I'm just saying what happens: They're playing with the mask. So the mask is over, and they're touching it, and then they're touching the plate, and that can be good." Polls show that a majority of Americans disapprove of Trump's handling of the health crisis.

The latest NBC News SurveyMonkey Weekly Tracking poll Tuesday found that 52 percent of adults do not trust Trump's statements about an upcoming Coronavirus vaccine, compared to 26 percent who do. — AFP

Yoshihide Suga

SUGA IS JAPAN PM, RETAINS MOST MINISTERS

Tokyo, Sept. 16: New Japanese Prime Minister Yoshihide Suga, elected by parliament on Wednesday after pledging to pursue his predecessor Shinzo Abe's policies, formed a 20-member Cabinet that retains many ministers.

Here are some key appointees: Defence Minister: Nobuo Kishi (new) — Former Prime Minister Shinzo Abe's younger brother, he was adopted soon after birth by his mother's brother, who was childless. His grandfather, Nobusuke Kishi, was a deeply conservative former prime minister. He has close ties to Taiwan and its president, Tsai Ing-wen.

Foreign Minister: Toshimitsu Motegi (retained) — A trade minister in Abe's earlier Cabinet, Motegi was a key figure in reaching a toughly negotiated US trade deal following demands from President Donald Trump that Japan narrow the trade imbalance.

Deputy PM and Finance Minister: Taro Aso (retained) — A governing party heavyweight who served as prime minister for one year, Aso was an influential lawmaker in the Abe government. — AP turbing her: The bruise on her wrist is fading, but it still aches.

Director Lim Sun-ae has said that she was riled up to make An Old Lady by a real-life case in which the warrant dismissal letter said, "There is not much reason for a young man to rape an old woman."

An Old Lady ends on an empowering note, with a nod to the MeToo movement. But it leaves you wondering how many women must still be keeping their sexual assault, rape a secret because they are scared they'll be asked, "Who will rape an old lady?"

Hari in joint lead after three rounds

Chennai: Indian Grandmaster P. Harikrishna claimed a share of the top position with Armenian GM Levon Aronian after posting two wins and a draw in three rounds of rapid competition in the St Louis Rapid and Blitz online chess tournament.

The India No.2 started with a win over US Grandmaster Leinier Dominguez, before settling for a draw with Iranian prodigy Alireza Firouzja in games played late on Tuesday. In the third round, Harikrishna pulled off a victory over experienced Russian Alexander Grischuk in 41 moves. World champion Magnus Carlsen was fifth with three points. After a win over Hikaru Nakamura in his opener, the Norwegian went down to Russia's Ian Nepomniachtchi in the second round. A draw with Wesley So in the third left the world no.1 in fifth spot.

Harikrishna outwitted the American in 51 moves with black pieces, to begin his campaign in the elite 10-player event. — PTI

Bernal bows out of Tour de France

Grenoble, France: Last year's winner Egan Bernal withdrew from the Tour de France on Wednesday with the defence of his title already in tatters. The 23-year-old Colombian's team Ineos announced he was dropping out ahead of the key 17th stage. Bernal came into the Tour with a back injury and missing key allies and two of his team then suffered injuries before Bernal himself suffered a meltdown on a tough ascent on Sunday that effectively ended his 2020 campaign as he fell eight minutes behind the pace.

"This is obviously not how I wanted my Tour de France to end, but I agree that it is the right decision for me in the circumstances," Bernal said in a statement from Ineos. Slovenian rider Primož Roglič leads the Tour, riding for the Jumbo team that has eclipsed Ineos this year. — AFP

Tiger gears up for US Open golf

New York: Tiger Woods returns to the US Open at Winged Foot this week with a score to settle against a course he regards as one of the three toughest in the world.

During more than a decade of dominance between Woods' first major victory in 1997 and his 14th major at the 2008 US Open, the former world number one played in 46 consecutive majors. That streak of 46 tournaments included only one missed cut — at the 2006 US Open held at Winged Foot. Woods, who collected the 15th major of his career at last year's Masters, is preparing for another demanding assignment in New York this week.

The 44-year-old believes only Oakmont in Pennsylvania and Carnoustie Links in Scotland run Winged Foot close in terms of difficulty.

"It's right up there next to Oakmont and I think Carnoustie as far as just sheer difficulty without even doing anything to it," Woods said Tuesday. — AFP

Djoker behaves better, in 3rd round

Rome: Novak Djokovic behaved better Wednesday in his first match since being defaulted from the US Open. The top-ranked Serb was mostly courteous with the chair umpire and had no interaction with the line judges during a 6-3, 6-2 win over local wild-card entry Salvatore Caruso in his opening match at the Italian Open. The performance came in sharp contrast to the scene in New York 10 days ago, when Djokovic was disqualified for unintentionally hitting a line judge in the throat with a ball. Djokovic said earlier this week that the incident taught him "a big lesson."

"I was actually looking forward to (playing again) as soon as possible after what happened in New York," Djokovic said. "Because I feel like the sentiment on the court needs to be positive, and I need to kind of remove anything that can possibly cause any kind of issues to me — if there is something." After winning, Djokovic laughed to himself as he performed his usual on-court celebration, waving his arms toward all four sides of the Campo Centrale stands. — AP

BEAT THE HEAT

Adapting to UAE climate biggest challenge, says ABD

Dubai, Sept. 16: South African star AB de Villiers believes the biggest challenge for all teams in the upcoming Indian Premier League will be adjusting to the prevailing hot and humid conditions in the UAE.

Most games will be played in the night but the conditions would still be challenging.

"I am not really used to these kind of conditions to be honest. It's very hot, it reminds me of a Test match we played in July in Chennai once where Viru (Virender Sehwag) scored 300. It was one the hottest weather conditions I have experience in my life," he said in an interview posted on RCB's Twitter handle.

"The humidity is similar to that, even at 10 at night. When I arrived here I checked the weather conditions of a few months and it seems to be getting better. It is definitely going to play a part and you have to make sure you have the energy for the backend of the innings or last 5 overs of your bowling spell," he added.

De Villiers said he would also miss playing in front of packed crowds in India with the event to be played behind closed doors in UAE due to the Covid-19 pandemic.

De Villiers said young Australian wicketkeeper batsman Joshua Philippe is an exciting cricketer and he would love share his knowledge with the Australian opener in RCB dressing room.

The 36-year-old dashing cricketer, said not just him, every player is just happy to be back on the field after international cricket came to a halt in mid-March because of the pandemic.

De Villiers' first foray into the cricket field amid the pandemic was the inaugural 3TC Solidarity Cup organised by Cricket South Africa in July.

Waiting for Dhoni delight: Viru

Mumbai, Sept. 16: Virender Sehwag expects this year's IPL to be "extra special" and a major reason for that is Mahendra Singh Dhoni getting back on the pitch after announcing his international retirement following a year-long sabbatical from the game.

"I think this tournament will be extra special for everyone — the players as well as the audience... watching Dhoni back on the pitch is sure to be a delight. There's so much in store, need I say more?" Sehwag, who will be co-hosting a show 'Power Play with Champions' on Flipkart Video, said.

Dhoni, who surprised everyone with his decision to call it quits from international cricket in mid-August, will be back in action when he leads the Chennai Super Kings in the IPL.

Sehwag said cricket is an integral part of an Indian's life and the fans have waited long for the sport to return. Meanwhile, former Australian cricketer Dean Jones reckons Suresh Raina's absence from the IPL would be a major concern for Chennai Super Kings.

"Raina's absence is a major concern this time and he is in the top 5 run getters in IPL. He is a left hander and plays spin very well and the weakness for CSK could be that majority of their players are right handed," Jones told Star Sports. — PTI

BOOM BEST T20 BOWLER, SAYS AUSSIE PACER

Abu Dhabi, Sept. 16: Mumbai Indians' Australian recruit James Pattinson has called Jasprit Bumrah the best T20 bowler in the world and said he was looking forward to work alongside the India pace spearhead in the upcoming IPL.

"Personally, it's just fantastic to work with some of the best bowlers in the world. Obviously, Bumrah is probably the best T20 bowler in the world. And Boult (Trent Boult) is up there as well. So, for me it will be a great experience to be around those guys," Pattinson said.

BALE MAY MAKE SPURS RETURN

London, Sept. 16: Gareth Bale is "close" to a sealing a sensational move back to Tottenham but the deal is "complicated", Bale's agent Jonathan Barnett said.

The Wales international has been frozen out by Real manager Zinedine Zidane and he said earlier this month he was open to returning to the Premier League.

When asked about Tottenham's move for Bale, Barnett said: "It's close but not done. It's a complicated deal." — AFP

Ex-athletics head gets 2-yr jail term

Paris, Sept. 16: Former track federation president Lamine Diack was sentenced Wednesday to two years in prison for his role in a scheme that allowed Russian athletes who paid hush money to keep competing when they should have been suspended for doping.

The guilty verdict in a Paris court represented a spectacular fall from grace for the 87-year-old Diack, who was the powerful head of the IAAF from 1999-2015.

The court also sentenced Diack to another two years of suspended jail time and fined him $590,000.

Diack was found guilty of multiple corruption charges and of breach of trust but acquitted of a money laundering charge. At Diack's trial in June, prosecutors requested a four-year jail term and a fine of $590,000. The judge, Rose-Marie Hunault, detailed his role in the payoff scheme, dubbed "full protection," that squeezed Russian athletes suspected of doping of about $3.74 million in hush money. "The money was paid in exchange for a program of 'full protection,'" she said, adding the scheme allowed athletes who should have been suspended "purely and simply to escape sanctions."

The court also handed guilty verdicts to five other people, including Diack's son, Papa Massata Diack, who worked as an IAAF marketing consultant. — AP

FIRST VACCINE TO OLY BOUND ATHLETES: AFI

New Delhi, Sept. 16: Athletics Federation of India (AFI) on Wednesday said it has requested the government to give priority to Olympic-bound athletes when a Covid-19 vaccine is available.

Several countries, including India, are trying to develop a Coronavirus vaccine. The Indian government is considering inoculating the front line workers, army personnel and certain categories first.

"We have already discussed this with the government and told them we will need it (vaccine) for our athletes going to the Olympics," AFI President Adille Sumariwalla said during a webinar.

"We need to make sure once the vaccine comes out, they (Olympic-bound athletes) should be amongst the first batches to get it and the discussion regarding that has already happened," he further added.

Asked if any player is apprehensive about getting inoculated, like tennis star Novak Djokovic, or if the vaccine could cause problem with dope control, national badminton coach Pullela Gopichand said the athletes are looking forward to it. — PTI

Murray puts LA through wringer

Los Angeles, Sept. 16: Jamal Murray scored a game high 40 points and Nikola Jokic had a triple double as the Denver Nuggets stunned the Los Angeles Clippers 104-89 in game seven to reach their first Western Conference finals in 11 years.

The underdog Nuggets became the first team in NBA history to rally from a 3-1 series deficit twice in the same postseason.

Jokic completed his triple double by the third quarter of Tuesday night's contest in the NBA's quarantine bubble in Florida, finishing with 16 points, 13 assists and 22 rebounds.

His rebound count is the most by a Nuggets player in an NBA playoff game, breaking his old record of 19.

Denver will once again be the underdogs when they face LeBron James and the Los Angeles Lakers in the conference finals beginning Friday.

Meanwhile, in the Eastern Conference finals, Bam Adebayo made a clutch block with 2.5 seconds left in overtime as the Miami Heat beat the Boston Celtics 117-114 in the opening game of the series. Adebayo leapt high to take what appeared to be an easy dunk away from Celtics star Jayson Tatum to preserve the Heat's slim lead, 116-114. Adebayo then capped the scoring by sinking a free throw at the other end. — AFP

BCCI tightens grip on fraudsters

New Delhi, Sept. 16: The BCCI has tied up with UK-based company Sportradar, which will offer its "integrity services" to prevent betting and other corrupt practices during the upcoming IPL through its Fraud Detection Services (FDS).

With the 13th Indian Premier League being held behind closed doors, the challenge for the Board's Ajit Singh-led Anti-Corruption Unit is very different as there has been a surge in betting-related frauds and it's expected to increase manifold during the lucrative event.

"Yes, BCCI has inked a deal with Sportradar for this year's IPL. They will be working closely with the ACU and offer their integrity services," an IPL source confirmed.

The BCCI ACU, in recent times, tracked unusual betting patterns during the state T20 leagues, including the Tamil Nadu Premier League (TNPL).

According to Sportradar, Fraud Detection System (FDS) "is a unique service that identifies betting-related manipulation in sport. This is possible due to the FDS's sophisticated algorithms and constantly maintained database of odds which are leveraged for the purpose of detecting match-fixing."

It is believed that the company tracks the odds and movements of at least 600 independent bookmakers to detect anomalies in betting patterns. It processes around 5 million data sets per day. — PTI

Palace lose kickathon

London, Sept. 16: Bournemouth beat Crystal Palace 11-10 in an unusually long penalty shootout to advance to the third round of the English League Cup after the game ended at 0-0 after 90 minutes.

As the sides remained deadlocked after five penalties each, even both goalkeepers had to take spot kicks and they both missed.

Eventually David Brooks scored his second penalty for Bournemouth and Luka Milivojevic's second was saved by goalkeeper Asmir Begovic to knock out the Premier League side.

Bournemouth, which was relegated from the Premier League in July, plays Manchester City in the next round.

Meanwhile, Jack Grealish celebrated his new contract at Aston Villa by scoring the decisive goal in a 3-1 victory over Burton.

The match looked to be heading for a penalty shootout after Ollie Watkins had scored Villa's equaliser late in the first half to cancel out Colin Daniel's opener for the third-division team after only 68 seconds.

But Grealish struck a volley from the edge of the area to put Dean Smith's team in front in the 88th minute.

Also, Sebastian Haller scored twice before Felipe Anderson added a late third as West Ham advanced past Charlton 3-0. — AP
