NEW DELHI, JUNE 17

The Supreme Court on Thursday accepted the evaluation plan submitted by the CBSE and ICSE for awarding marks to students who are to appear for Class XII Board examination this year.

Based on results of Class XII, XI and X respectively, the CBSE has adopted a 40:30:30 formula to evaluate and mark students. The Council for the Indian School Certificate Examination (ISCCE) said that it would consider the performance of students for the last six classes in finalising the final board results.

According to the CBSE formula, the theory marks of each subject will be computed using 40 per cent from the marks they got in the subject pre-boards or mid-term exams held by their schools earlier this year, 30 per cent from their Class XI final exam marks, and 30 per cent from their Class X Board exam results. This will be added to the actual marks that they got in their Class XII internal assessments and practicals for that subject.

The results of XII stand board examination by CBSE and ICSE will be declared by July 31, 2021.

Each school will constitute a five-member result committee to be headed by the principal.

No further construction on any waterbodies, says HC

DC CORRESPONDENT
CHENNAI, JUNE 17

The Madras high court has made it clear that there should be no further construction on any waterbodies, though construction can be carried out on lands not indicated as waterbodies in the records or survey maps.

The first bench comprising Chief Justice Sanjib Banerjee and Justice Senthilkumar Ramamoorthy was passing further interim orders on a Public Interest Litigation filed by Iyarkai Valam Matrum Perumpalla Odai Pathukappu Nala Sangam, which sought a direction to the authorities to refrain from disturbing or altering the Perumpalla Odai at Kathirampatti village in Erode district in the name of Smart City scheme.

In order to protect the waterbodies in the state, the bench had earlier while passing interim orders in this PIL, directed the authorities to obtain satellite images of all taluks in the state and waterbodies earmarked so that in future it cannot be contended that there was no waterbody where there actually was one.

When the case came up for hearing on Thursday, the bench in its further interim orders said in view of the second surge of the pandemic, it was understandable that the high resolution satellite images that were required to be prepared of the water bodies together with the relevant survey numbers may not have been finalised. "This exercise is extremely important and should be completed within the next three weeks with soft copies of such high resolution satellite images and corresponding survey numbers being available with several authorities so that there can be no future desecration or depletion of water bodies anywhere in the state. The matter will appear four weeks hence. It is hoped that the exercise is taken up in right earnest and completed within such time," the bench added.

The bench said government advocate PMuthukumar, appearing for the state, has assured the court that every endeavour would be made to complete the exercise within the time permitted. It was submitted on behalf of the petitioner that in another matter connected to water bodies, an amicus has been appointed. Let such matter appear immediately after this matter on the next adjourned date. "It is submitted on behalf of the petitioner that there is ongoing construction work in the relevant waterbody in Erode. There should be no further construction on any waterbody, though construction can be carried out on lands not indicated as waterbodies in the records or survey maps", the bench added and posted to July 15, 2021, further hearing of the case.

Idols case diaries missing: HC directs TN govt to check it out

DC CORRESPONDENT
CHENNAI, JUNE 17

The Madras high court has asked the state government to look into the allegation that case diaries in some cases (relating to missing idols or jewellery belonging to the temples) have gone missing and investigation may have been stopped midway for extraneous considerations.

The first bench comprising Chief Justice Sanjib Banerjee and Justice Senthilkumar Ramamoorthy gave the directive while passing further interim orders on a Public Interest Litigation filed by R.Venkataraman.

The bench said the petitioner has brought some disturbing facts to the notice of the court. Indeed, upon being prima facie satisfied with the seriousness of the charges levelled, an order was passed on January 20, 2021 directing the authorities to coordinate with the DGP for ascertaining the temples from where idols or jewellery belonging to the temples may have gone missing. This court also

The bench said a counter affidavit has been filed and it does not appear that such counter affidavit can be taken too seriously. It cannot be the state's stand that idols or jewellery have not gone missing or that adequate or appropriate steps have been taken to recover the same required a road map to be prepared to recover the stolen jewellery and prevent the recurrence of such incidents, the bench added.

The bench said a counter affidavit has been filed and it does not appear that such counter affidavit can be taken too seriously. It cannot be the state's stand that idols or jewellery have not gone missing or that adequate or appropriate steps have been taken to recover the same. The petitioner complains that the master register has gone missing from the HR & CE department. The state should reconsider the stand indicated in the counter affidavit, particularly since there has been a change of government here. The state should also look into the petitioner's allegation that case diaries in some cases have gone missing and investigations may have been stopped midway for extraneous considerations, the bench added.

The bench said let a copy of this order be reached to the office of advocate general for the matter to be looked into at the highest level and upon deputing appropriate personnel before a status report was filed in court when the matter appears three weeks hence.

It will be open to the authorities to invite the petitioner since the petitioner appears to have sufficient material to indicate the particulars of the idols or the nature of the jewellery that may have gone missing, the bench added and posted to July 8, 2021, further hearing of the case.

(RTE) Act.

The Chief Minister also wanted the Centre to get certain things done with the Sri Lankan government. One was the retrieval of Katchatheevu and restoration of traditional fishing rights of Tamil Nadu fishermen and another was the protection of traditional fishing rights of Indian fishermen in the Palk Straits and ensuring their safety and security.

The other demand that Stalin placed before the Prime Minister under the 'Sri Lankan Tamils Issue' heading was to ensure that Eelam Tamils enjoyed equal civil and political rights in the island nation.

Besides, a slew of demands for the economic uplift of the State like sharing of proceeds of cess and surcharge, removal of bottlenecks in the supply of coal, expeditious release of funds under Special Liquidity Scheme Tranche II with liberalized terms for the power sector and release of pending dues on GST and shared schemes were raised.

Other finance related demands were to offset the setbacks due to the impact of 15th Finance Commission on State finances, releasing of pending grants relating to the 14th Finance Commission, setting right the shortfall in the disbursement of share in Central taxes from 1996-97 to 2014-15.

Mr Stalin also wanted early approval of externally aided projects, investment by the National Infrastructure Investment Fund (NIIF) in Tamil Nadu. Infrastructure Fund, increased allocation of SDRF release of custom milled rice subsidy, sanction of mega textile parks for the State, provision of the excess land for Salem Steel Plant for Defence Industrial Park and special relief package for micro, small and medium enterprises (MSMEs).

Other demands include establishment of a national commission for the welfare of fishermen, approval of Chennai Metro Rail phase II, priority in appointment of Union government officials and Central PSUs in Tamil Nadu to people from the state and declaration of 'Thirukkural as 'national literature.'

Vax certificate upload delay, dosage gap irk Chennaiites

B. Vijayalakshmi

Viewpoint

Even while the gap between Covishield's first and second dose came under the scanner this week, people in Chennai are worried over the delay in uploading vaccine certificates on the CoWin portal.

The ferocious second wave and shortage of vaccines led to the decision to administer one dose to as many people as possible. Besides, the opening up of vaccination to the 18-44 age group also led to an increase in vaccine demand.

With experts suggesting that the longer the gap, the higher the efficacy of the vaccine, the government increased the interval between vaccine doses from 6-8 weeks to 12-16 weeks based on scientific evidence after rounds of discussions with the National Technical Advisory Group on Immunisation (NTAGI) members.

Vaccination camps held by the Chennai corporation in UPHCs, residential areas and gated communities witnessed overwhelming response from residents. However, most of them are yet to find their vaccination status in the CoWin portal updated. Those who took their second dose a month ago have not got their vaccination certificates, but a SMS reminder from CoWin asking them to get their second dose!

Since the CoWin portal prescribes a 84-day gap between the vaccine doses, those who took their second jab as per the previous schedule, have also not got their vaccination certificate. The portal does not permit people to take the second dose before the prescribed interval. Dosage interval and delay in uploading certificates have badly hit those wanting to go abroad for education and work.

The Chennai corporation must recruit eligible candidates in all UPHCs and ensure vaccination details are uploaded in CoWin portal every day.

There is no cause to worry about the gap. NTAGI is likely to review the evidence and suggest an alternate course soon.

As the pace of vaccination is set to pick up in July, everyone eligible for vaccination must get their jab as per the schedule.

At the same time, the government must take immediate corrective measures to update vaccine info and clear the backlog as early as possible.

Injured wild jumbo caged without using tranquilisers

OOTY, JUNE 17

The forest staffers of Gudalur and Mudumalai Tiger Reserve (MTR) have scripted a success story by capturing an injured wild jumbo in the Gudalur limits near here without using the tranquillising darts. The pachyderm was shifted to the MTR.

The 27-year-old tusker was roaming around the human settlements in Gudalur, with a deep injury on its back, triggering panic among the residents. The officials in the Gudalur forest division made unsuccessful attempts to treat the jumbo in its natural environs. But on Wednesday evening, the forest teams captured the elephant inside a wooded zone in Maakamoola area in Gudalur. As the jumbo looked weak due to the injury, the forest teams avoided using tranquilisers and, instead, captured it by using the Kumki elephants. On Thursday afternoon, it was shifted to the Abhayaranyam camp in MTR.

K.K. Kaushal, the field director of MTR, stated that the MTR elephant camp team comprising Kumkis, caretakers and the veterinary unit joined the Gudalur forest division team and captured the wild tusker without giving sedation. There is an extensive chronic wound in the tail region and a swelling in the left hind leg. The tusker is highly debilitated. It is being treated as per the advice from experts of Tanuvas. It will be intensively treated inside the kraal in the coming days, he noted.

Meanwhile, in another incident at Kurinjinar area in Pandalur, a wild jumbo killed Balakrishnan(37), a casual labourer residing in the area, on Thursday early hours.

Sources said that when Balakrishnan was walking along a footpath there, a wild elephant which ventured out attacked and killed him.

Fringe group describes Vanchinathan 'casteist'

M. ARULOLI | DC
TIRUNELVELI, JUNE 17

Popular freedom fighter 'Veeran' Vanchinathan, who shot down then British collector of Tirunelveli William Escourt Ashe on June 17, 1911, who was instrumental in arresting V.O. Chidambaram Pillai for running the Swadeshi Steam Navigation Company and for leading the labour struggle in Coral Mill in Thoothukudi, has been demeaned as a casteist by the members of Adhi Tamilar Peravai, who paid tributes at the Ashe memorial in Palayamkottai English Church in Tirunelveli on Thursday.

Kalaikannan, a district functionary of Adhi Tamilar Peravai, hailed Ashe as one who dedicated his life to eradicate untouchability and also called Vanchinathan a casteist. Kalaikannan says, "Ashe's wife Mary Lillian Patterson was a social worker. One day during her visit to Shengottai, along with her husband, she took a Dalit woman having labour pain to a nearby hospital in a bullock cart through an agharam, infuriating the Brahmins residing there. Vanchinathan, a resident of the agharam, killed Ashe for the good deed done by his wife." Kannan added that it was Ashe who opened up the waterfalls in Sengottai region for all castes.

However, this version was trashed by Vanchi Makkal Iyakkam president P Ramanathan, who accused a local pastor, Stephen Ravi Kumar, of creating a malicious story to humiliate Vanchinathan.

"This story concocted by Stephen, however, has no date mentioned in it," said Ramanathan, who questioned the veracity of Kalaikannan's version as Shengottai in 1911 was a part of the Travancore province. Ramanathan added that Ashe, as collector of Tirunelveli during the British rule, did not have the power to pass any order in a princely state outside the British Indian territory.

Meenakshi Sundaram of Nagercoil, a retired history teacher, acknowledging Ramanathan's version, said, "It has been proved in the court trial that Vanchinathan, then an employee of the Travancore forest department, shot Ashe on the latter's way to Kodaikanal at the Maniyachi railway station to avenge the imprisonment of Chidambaram Pillai by the British rulers." Had Vanchinathan killed Ashe for his caste, his community would not have disowned him, said Meenakshi who added that Vanchinathan's father Raghupathy Iyer refused to perform the last rite for his son.

She added that if Vanchinathan had a caste motive, he would have killed Ashe's wife, not him, who, according to the new story, helped the Dalit woman. "But Vanchinathan did not harm Mary Lillian, who was in the same coach with Ashe," said Sundaram, who also remembered an email reconciliation message sent on June 18, 2011 by Ashe's grandson Robert W.D.E. Ashe to Harihara Subramanian, grandson of Vanchinathan's younger brother.

In his message W.D.E. Ashe called Vanchinathan an idealist political campaigner, whose zeal for freedom of his beloved India sent Robert Ashe to his early grave.

Authorities have sought the opinion of Thailand doctors on Thursday as Meenakshi Amman Temple elephant Parvathy has eye problems.

65 activists write to CM against 'Project Blue'

OP ARULN | DC
CHENNAI, JUNE 17

As many as 65 eminent civil and environmental activists and fisher folks have raised concern over 'Project Blue' a part of Singara Chennai 2.0 proposed by the Greater Chennai Corporation.

In an open letter sent to Chief Minister M.K. Stalin, they said the project should recognise and protect the livelihood rights of fishermen and hoped it will not be another plan that perpetuates the discriminatory policies of previous administrations.

The signatories include former Madras high court judge, Justice

Hariparanthaman, musician T.M. Krishna, writer and social commentator Nityanand Jayaraman, Chennai Solidarity Group, Ajit Menon, professor, Madras Institute of Development Studies, Aarthi Sridhar, Dakshin Foundation, Benisha -

Chennai Climate Action Group, Dr. Bala Sathiapalan - Institute of Mathematical Sciences, Tharamani, Durai Mahendran - state secretary - Tamil Nadu Meenava Sangam, Dhruv Gangadharan - Biodiversity Collaborative, Debi Goenka - Conservation Action Trust, Gowtham of Eegaikuzhu, G Rajasekaran, professor emeritus, Institute of Mathematical and G Sundararajan of Poovulagin Nanbargal.

Recalling the previous editions of similar urban beautification and renewal projects by successive regimes, they said in the name of river restoration, infrastructure and beautification, the poor and vulnerable people in the city have been targeted. Over the last few years, efforts were made to evict fish vendors from the Marina Loop Road. In 2009, an attempt was made to construct an elevated expressway from Nochikuppam to Kottivakkam across the Adyar estuary to cater to private vehicles. The plan was abandoned after public protests.

While details of the current project are not in public domain, the previous editions of similar urban beautification and infrastructure development projects give us cause for worry. "Contrary to this, we hope that Project Blue ensures the city is healthy and liveable for all of its residents, starting from the lives of the urban poor," they said.

Chennai's beaches are not just objects of beauty and recreation, they are first and foremost livelihood and living spaces for the city's fisherfolk. Even recreationally, the attraction of our beaches is the availability of open, unbuilt nature, not landscaped spaces and built infrastructure. Our beaches need to be kept clean, inclusive and safe, they said.

Launching an all-out attack on both the DMK government and V K Sasikala, the AIADMK leaders, through a multi-pronged strategy, are making a bid to keep the party relevant in the political scene and also to be heard and seen as a viable opposition in the State.

Apart from the joint statement by the two top honchos O Panneerselvam and Edappadi K Palaniswami accusing the DMK government of unleashing violence against the AIADMK's IT wing members, on Thursday, the party's district units are passing resolutions aimed at keeping Sasikala away from the party.

Palaniswami, who became the Leader of the Opposition in the State Assembly by virtue of the extraordinary support he enjoys among the party MLAs, also did his party by coming out with a separate statement urging the DMK not to give permission to the ONGC for hydrocarbon exploration in Ariyalur district.

In that he attacked the DMK for bringing a slew of hydrocarbon exploration projects to the Cauvery delta in 2010, claiming that it was J Jayalalithaa who put an end to those schemes by appointing an expert team to study the ill-effects of the explorations.

The joint statement, too, alleged that the DMK was targeting AIADMK IT wing members for exposing the government's inadequacies and inability to provide good governance while reiterating that the AIADMK was formed with a view to uplifting the poor.

Harping on the past 'achievements' of the party during the tenure of founder M G Ramachandran (MGR) and his successor Jayalalithaa, the statement said that the AIADMK was no pushover.

Similar sentiments were also expressed through the resolution passed by the Salem suburban district of the AIADMK at a meeting attended by Palaniswami. The resolution not only praised Palaniswami and also Panneerselvam for the good work they were doing but also lauded them for throwing out members who were in touch with Sasikala.

Making it clear that Sasikala was not a member of the party, the resolution described her and her family members as parasites who exploited the good work of Jayalalithaa and other party leaders. Similar resolutions are being passed by all the district units in a bid to ensure that the rank and file of the party remain under the leadership of Palaniswami and Panneerselvam and do not drift towards Sasikala.

The wording of the resolutions betray the desperation of the party leadership to keep their flock with them and not let them be led astray into the Sasikala camp. For their statements and the resolutions repeatedly sing the praise of MGR and Jayalalithaa and suggest that the party is marching ahead under the twin leaders of Palaniswami and Panneerselvam.

The repeated attempt to proclaim that the party lost the Assembly elections by a thin margin and has won considerable number of seats in the House - 66 individually and 75 by the alliance together - seems to be a counter to Sasikala's claim in all her conversations with the 'cadre' that she would come in to save the party.

Also to prove to the cadre that the present leadership is also capable of taking on the might of the DMK, the statements picking on the government are being released with regularity.

THANJAVUR, JUNE 17

On the fateful July 16 in 2004, 94 students perished in a massive fire that broke out at Krishna school at Kumbakonam in Thanjavur district. Eighteen students were injured.

Then district collector of Thanjavur Dr J. Radhakrishnan, now health secretary, rushed to the spot and organised rescue and relief operations. On that day and in the following months, he arranged for rehabilitation and counselling of the affected parents and injured students.

The children who survived the accident are now pursuing higher studies - thanks to the efforts made by the government and private philanthropists.

Seventeen years have rolled by. But Dr J. Radhakrishnan has not forgotten the parents who were orphaned when their children perished in the ghastly inferno.

He makes it a point to reach out to them whenever he visits Thanjavur district.

On this June16, he was here for a Covid-19 inspection along with health minister M. Subramanian. Taking a break, he visited Natham village near Kumbakonam. Thirteen of the 94 children who were killed in the accident belonged to Natham. He met the parents of the deceased children.

"It's touching to meet old grandmothers who shared their tales in the intervening period apart from enquiring about me and my family. An elderly lady has lost her eyesight. I have asked our team to organise vaccination camps and other health support", Radhakrishnan told DC after visiting Natham. "I met the mother of Muruganandam who died in the fire. My wife Krithika and son Arvind used to visit this village as part of psycho-social support in 2004 and subsequently thereafter," recalled Radhakrishnan.

New Delhi also said it had “noted the concerns that have been raised in Sri Lanka regarding several aspects of the framework for the Colombo Port City”.

In his weekly briefing on Thursday, MEA spokesperson Arindam Bagchi said, “Regarding the Colombo Port City project, we have been closely following recent developments from our security perspective. We have also noted the concerns that have been raised in Sri Lanka regarding several aspects of the framework for the Colombo Port City. We expect Sri Lanka will remain mindful of our excellent bilateral cooperation, including for mutual security in our shared environment, which includes the maritime domain.”

He added, “As regards our projects, India has a very extensive portfolio of partnership development projects in Sri Lanka and we are in regular contact with Sri Lankan authorities regarding their implementation.”

It may be recalled that Indian sources had last month said the Colombo port city project should be transparent and respect the sovereignty of Sri Lanka.

But New Delhi's official stand on Thursday clearly seems to reflect concerns about the increasing Chinese footprints in the island nation amid apprehensions from certain quarters that the project could also be utilised by the Chinese military at a later date. The Rajapaksa brothers-President Gotabaya and Prime Minister Mahinda—are seen as pro-China.

NIA OPPOSES
STAN SWAMY'S
BAIL PLEA IN HC

Mumbai, June 17 : The National Investigating Agency (NIA) has opposed the bail plea filed by Jesuit priest and activist Stan Swamy in the Bombay High Court, saying the Elgar Parishad case accused was a ‘Maoist’ who engaged in activities to spread Naxalism, and that he was part of a “deep rooted controversy to overthrow the government.”

The central agency urged the HC to dismiss the plea of Swamy (84), saying his allegations of fabricated evidence, his denial of having played any role in the said conspiracy and other charges against him, were all “endeavours to confuse truth with falsehood, and to create a mist around the evidence and reality.”

In an affidavit filed in the HC earlier this week, the NIA opposed the appeal filed by Swamy through his counsel, senior advocate Mihir Desai, in which the priest had challenged a special court's order denying him bail on health grounds as well as on merits in the Elgar Parishad-Maoist links case.

HC TALKS TOUGH,
3 STUDENTS WALK
OUT OF DELHI JAIL

The three student activists were not released from the prison on time over delays in verifying their addresses and sureties.

In its order for the immediate release of the trio, the Delhi court said the delay in the verification process by the police could not be a plausible reason for the accused to be kept imprisoned.

After securing bail from the high court, the activists had moved the trial court, seeking immediate release from prison.

When the trial court deferred the order on their plea for Thursday, they moved the Delhi High Court, which ordered the lower court to proceed with the issue with “promptitude and expedition”.

The three student activists were arrested in May 2020 and are accused of being the “masterminds” of the February 2020 violence, which left 53 people dead and more than 200 injured.

The high court, while granting them bail on June 15, had observed that “in an anxiety to suppress dissent, the state has blurred the line between right to protest and terrorist activity” and if such a mindset gains traction, it would be a “sad day for democracy”.

The Delhi Police has, however, moved the Supreme Court, challenging the high court judgement granting them bail in the case.

Paperwork completed for Roy's disqualification: BJP

Yet to submit documents to assembly secretariat: Suwendu Adhikari

Kolkata, Jun 17 (PTI) BJP leader Suwendu Adhikari on Thursday said the party has completed the paperwork to back its demand for the disqualification of Mukul Roy, who recently switched over from the saffron party to the TMC, from the West Bengal assembly. However, Adhikari said he couldn't submit the documents to the assembly secretariat during the day as the receive section was shut. The TMC, however, questioned whether Suwendu Adhikari has asked his father Sisir Adhikari, also a turncoat, to resign as the MP of the Kanthi Lok Sabha seat after joining the BJP. Mukul Roy returned to the TMC on June 11 after winning from the Krishnanagar North seat on a BJP ticket in the recently concluded assembly elections. He had joined the saffron party after quitting Mamata Banerjee's party in 2017. “We have readied all the documents to back our demand for the disqualification of Mukul Roy from the assembly, who had won on the BJP's lotus symbol. “The receive section of the House was closed today. If we find it shut again tomorrow, we will mail the documents and our letter seeking Roy's disqualification. We will do whatever is required to realise our demand,” Adhikari, the opposition leader in the assembly, told reporters. Responding to the demand, TMC state unit general secretary Kunal Ghosh said that law will take its own course but Suwendu Adhikari has no right to speak on the issue. “Suwendu must look at the mirror before raising such demands. Has he ever asked his father Sisir Adhikari to quit as the MP of Kanthi, which he had won on a TMC ticket?” he said. —PTI

surrendered security: CentreDC CORRESPONDENT
NEW DELHI, JUNE 17

The Home Ministry has clarified that security of senior TMC leader Mukul Roy has not been withdrawn but surrendered by himself. Mukul Roy has recently gone back to TMC from BJP following which he had written to the Union Home Ministry to withdraw his Z-category security which was being provided by CRPF.

Meanwhile, sources said CRPF has already started the process of handing over TMC leader Mukul Roy's security detail to the state police which will now provide him security cover which will be at par with what was being provided earlier by the CRPF.

The Home Ministry had provided security cover to Mukul Roy after he joined BJP from TMC in 2017.

“The earlier CRPF security to Mukul Roy was provided as he had faced threats from TMC after he joined BJP. But now that he is back with the TMC so we can presume that the threat no longer exists as he is now back with the same parent political outfit,” a senior Home Ministry official said.

The Home Ministry has already clarified that it will not review the security cover provided to all its 70-odd MLAs in West Bengal even though Roy has already surrendered his Z-category security.

It has been decided that as of now there would be no change in the security of other top BJP functionaries in the States, sources added.

“Even though Mukul Roy has surrendered his security cover it does not mean that threat perception of other BJP MLAs has reduced so there would be no change in their security status,” the official added.

The Centre had decided to provide security cover to all the newly elected BJP MLAs in Bengal in view of the unprecedented post-poll violence witnessed in the States after counting of votes on May 2.

scare-Hiran murder case

Mumbai, June 17 : The National Investigation Agency (NIA) on Thursday arrested former “encounter specialist” police officer Pradeep Sharma and two others in Mumbai for their alleged involvement in the ‘Antilia’ bomb scare case and the murder of businessman Mansukh Hiran, an official said.

Sharma is the fifth policeman to be arrested in the case by the NIA, which has so far held 10 persons in this connection. “An NIA team picked up Sharma at Aamby Valley in Lonavla hill station near Mumbai on Wednesday night, after which he was brought to the central agency's office in south Mumbai for questioning,” he said. The NIA also conducted a raid at his residence located in J B Nagar in Mumbai's Andheri (west) around 6 am, and the operation continued for several hours, during which some incriminating documents were recovered, the official added.

After questioning him for a few hours, the NIA placed him under arrest on Thursday, he said.

The NIA also arrested Satish alias Tanni bhai alias Vicky Baba and Manish Soni from Malad in Mumbai in connection with the case, he said.

They were presented in a special court here, which remanded them in NIA custody till June 28.

According to sources, Sharma's involvement came to light during the interrogation of two other accused - Santosh Shelar and Anand Jadhav, who were apprehended from Latur on June 11.

Both of them were arrested for their role in Hiran murder case, the sources said, adding that Shelar, who is in the redevelopment of Slum Rehabilitation Authority (SRA) projects, had links with Sharma.

Earlier, the agency had arrested police officers Sachin Waze, Riyazuddin Kazi, Sunil Mane. After their arrest, they were dismissed from service. It had also arrested former police constable Vinayak Shinde in this connection along with cricket bookie Naresh Gor. Sharma had allegedly helped Waze in destroying evidence in the case, the sources said, adding he was involved in hatching the conspiracy, and planning as well executing the murder of Hiran with the help of his men.

Around two months ago, the NIA had questioned Sharma at its office for two days after his name cropped up in the case.

BHUBANESWAR, JUNE 17

The Odisha police have recovered the severed body of a six-year-old girl who went missing on June 12 while playing on the courtyard of her house at Dhundugadia village in Nayagarh district.

The body was found at an isolated location near the village, nearly 400 metres away from the girl's house, Nayagarh superintendent of police Sidhartha Kataria informed on Thursday.

The autopsy of the body was conducted at Daspalla Hospital on Thursday afternoon and the report was awaited.

The SP said the body was traced following five days of intense interrogation of a suspect.

Sources in the police said the accused, a relative of the victim, killed the girl as he feared she would reveal to her parents about his sexual escapades.

Sources said the accused identified as Sagar Dalei had recently returned from Chennai where he worked as a daily-wage earner. As he had easy access to the girl's house, he used to visit her house very often everyday and allowed the girl to play games and view other contents on his mobile phone.

Defence minister says India is capable of responding to any aggression

India is advocate of world peace: Rajnath Singh

MANOJ ANAND | DC
GUWAHATI, JUNE 17

Defence Minister Rajnath Singh on Thursday said that though India is a peace loving country, it was capable of responding to any aggression.

Inaugurating 12 strategic roads constructed by the Border Roads Organisation (BRO), Mr Singh described India as a “priest of world peace” but warned any serious disturbance to peace and tranquillity in border areas would have adverse implications.

“We seek world peace. If someone shows us an aggressive attitude, we will respond to them in their terms,” said Mr Singh while pointing out as to how the new roads would help in securing international borders.

The defence minister who was here to dedicate strategic roads, mostly adjoining China, to the nation, also paid his tribute to Indian soldiers who displayed exemplary courage and valour in Galwan Valley in Ladakh a year ago.

“I salute all brave soldiers who laid down their lives fighting for the nation,” he said.

Mr Singh said that the 12 strategic roads including 10 in Arunachal Pradesh and one each in Ladakh and Jammu and Kashmir, inaugurated during the day, would not only give a boost in connectivity but would also facilitate faster movement of troops along the International Border.

“The capability of BRO in constructing world class roads despite challenges, in tough and hilly terrain underlines the mantra of Atma Nirbhar Bharat,” said Mr Singh.

He said the road projects are part of the Act East Policy, envisioned by Prime Minister Narendra Modi. “The budget for BRO has increased manifold since 2013 and today stands at ₹11,000 crore. The BRO since 2014 had developed a record 4,800 kilometres of border roads in the country,” the Defence Minister said.

He asserted that the country's defence sector in the last few years had witnessed major changes including appointment of a

Chief of Defence Staff for the first time. “Our vision is also to produce our own weapons and if necessary export them to other countries,” he said.

The defence minister also claimed that development work in North-East India had picked up pace under the Narendra Modi Government.

The development of the region remained stagnant after Independence. However, after the NDA came to power in 2014, the region witnessed accelerated development. There are many challenges due to its close proximity with international borders, Mr Singh said.

“North-East is the right hand of the country and its development will make India strong. Our government is committed to its all-round development,” he reiterated.

According to BRO officials, out of the 12 roads inaugurated on the occasion, ten road projects of total 285.32 kilometres, are in Arunachal Pradesh being constructed by the BRO at an estimated cost of ₹1,228.34 cr.

Of the ten road projects, three each are under Project Arunank, Vartak and Udayak while one is being executed by Project Brahmank, officials added.

Colombo, June 17: A container ship carrying chemicals sank off Sri Lanka's capital on Thursday nearly a month after catching fire, raising concerns about a possible environmental disaster, officials said.

The ship's operator said the wreck of the Singapore-flagged X-Press Pearl "is now wholly sitting on the seabed at a depth of 21 metres (70 feet)". A salvage crew was at the site to deal with any debris and report any spill, X-Press Feeders said.

The head of Sri Lanka's Marine Environment Protection Authority, Darshini Lahandapura, also confirmed that the ship had sunk.

She said it was currently unsafe to remove the wreck because of rough monsoon seas. "The sea is very violent. In the rough season, we can't do anything," she said.

Thimphu, June 17: At least a dozen people have been killed in Bhutan and Nepal and several others are missing as torrential monsoon rains hit the region, triggering landslides and inundating homes, officials said Thursday.

The annual monsoon season is crucial to replenish water supplies across South Asia, but it also causes death and destruction. Ten collectors of cordyceps — a fungus valued for its alleged aphrodisiac properties — died when their remote mountain camp north of Bhutan's capital Thimphu was washed away early Wednesday.

Five others were injured and were in a stable condition in hospital, officials said.

Bhutan's Prime Minister Lotay Tshering offered his prayers and condolences and said a rescue team had been sent to the site.

Baltimore (US), June 17: One person was killed and five others were wounded when gunmen walked up a street and opened fire on a Baltimore block from an intersection, the city's police commissioner said.

Commissioner Michael Harrison said the shooting on Wednesday erupted in a west Baltimore neighbourhood and the conditions of the five wounded ranged from serious to critical. He declined to release the identities of those who were shot.

Officers responded to reports of gunshots after 2 pm Wednesday and found two people shot, Harrison said. Those two were taken to hospitals, and the four others arrived separately in private vehicles, he said. So far investigators have learned that the six people were together on the tree-lined block of rowhouses when at least two or three people began firing into the block, Harrison said. He added that the shooters then fled. Officers were canvassing in the neighbourhood and collecting evidence, Harrison said. He urged people with information about the shooting to contact police.

London, June 17: The number of people infected with the Coronavirus is increasing rapidly in England, doubling every 11 days, which coincides with the Delta variant of Covid-19 becoming dominant in the country, a new study reports on Thursday. The Imperial College London led Real-time Assessment of Community Transmission (REACT-1) analysis, based on over 100,000 home swab tests taken between May 20 and June 7, estimates that 0.15 per cent of people have the deadly virus, or roughly 1 in 670.

Jakarta, June 17: Indonesia's president ordered authorities to speed up the country's vaccination campaign as the World Health Organisation warned Thursday of the need to increase social restrictions in the country amid a fresh surge of Coronavirus infections caused by worrisome variants.

We need vaccination acceleration in order to achieve communal immunity, which we hope can stop the Covid-19 spread, President Joko Widodo said in a remarks while visiting a vaccination center just outside the capital, Jakarta.

Widodo said he ordered his cabinet ministers and local governments to increase the number of people vaccinated each day to 1 million by next month. He said Indonesia is currently vaccinating half a million people a day.

The findings come days after UK Prime Minister Boris Johnson announced a month-long delay to an end to lockdown restrictions, citing the rising number of cases of the Delta variant — first identified in India. "These findings highlight the stark context in which we took the difficult decision to delay Step 4 of the roadmap out of lockdown," said UK Health Secretary Matt Hancock. "Cases are now rising, but thanks to our incredible vaccination programme and enhanced response package, including surge testing, we have the tools to curb the spread of this virus. We all must hold our nerve that little bit longer as our vaccine rollout continues and I urge everyone to keep observing hands, face, space and fresh air, and make sure you receive both doses," he said.

HK pro-democracy paper editors held

Hong Kong, June 17: Hong Kong police used a sweeping national security law against a pro-democracy newspaper for the first time Thursday, arresting five editors and executives on charges of collusion with foreign powers. Police said they had strong evidence that more than 30 articles published by Apple Daily played a "crucial part" in a conspiracy with foreign countries to impose sanctions against China and Hong Kong, in response to a crackdown on civil liberties in the semi-autonomous Chinese city.

Apple Daily has often criticised the Chinese and Hong Kong governments for tightening control over the city and walking back on promises by Beijing that the territory could retain its freedoms when it was handed over from Britain in 1997.

Apple Daily founder Jimmy Lai is currently serving a 20-month prison sentence for his role in unauthorised assemblies in 2019, during a period when Hong Kong saw massive anti-government protest calling for universal suffrage and democratic freedoms. Calls to Akamai, which is headquartered in Cambridge, Massachusetts, but has global services, went unanswered. The disruptions came just days after many of the world's top websites went offline briefly due to a problem with software at Fastly, another major web services company.

The company blamed the problem on a software bug that was triggered when a customer changed a setting. U.S. CONGRESS
JUNETEENTH A
FED. HOLIDAY

Washington, June 17: The United States will soon have a new federal holiday commemorating the end of slavery. The House voted 415-14 on Wednesday to make Juneteenth, or June 19th, the 12th federal holiday.

The bill now goes to President Joe Biden's desk, and he is expected to sign it into law. Juneteenth commemorates June 19, 1865, when Union soldiers brought the news of freedom to enslaved PoC people in Galveston, Texas — two months after the Confederacy had surrendered. That was also about 2 1/2 years after the Emancipation Proclamation freed slaves in the Southern states.

It's the first new federal holiday since Martin Luther King Jr. Day was created in 1983.

"Our federal holidays are purposely few in number and recognise the most important milestones," said Rep. Carolyn Maloney, D-N.Y. "I cannot think of a more important milestone to commemorate than the end of slavery in the United States."

Rep. Sheila Jackson Lee, D-Texas, speaking next to a large poster of a PoC man whose back bore massive scarring from being whipped, said she would be in Galveston this Saturday to celebrate along with Republican Sen. John Cornyn of Texas.

"Can you imagine?" said the rather short Jackson Lee.

"I will be standing maybe taller than Sen. Cornyn, forgive me for that, because it will be such an elevation of joy."

Pragmatism in Geneva as Biden, Putin stabilise ties

America's President Joe Biden and Russia's boss Vladimir Putin, showing a remarkable order of statesmanship and good sense, avoided any temptation to offer drama and guaranteed failure in their first (business-like) meeting in Geneva on Wednesday, an outcome which may have pleased the liberal extremists of America, no matter how bad it may have been for the world.

Instead, they provided a low-key, "pragmatic", way forward in their bilateral relationship which can probably only move forward in cautious, incremental steps, so deep is the mutual mistrust accumulated in the three decades since the collapse of the USSR and the birth of Russian capitalism which does not privilege a political system that exalts Western-style individualism.

With the perpetually drunk Boris Yeltsin the new czar in Moscow when Communism ended, the US sensed they had in the bag the only country, which was its military equal and exercised geostrategic influence as well. With his early exit and the arrival on the scene of Mr Putin, a former middle-rank KGB agent, expectations from the new Russia faded as this leader fortified himself on the plank of Russian nationalism. President Biden has played his hand with finesse. He planned his first face-to-face contact with Mr Putin very early in his presidency — and not long after calling the Russian leader "a murderer". This bolstered his liberal credentials (and his constituents loved it), and situated him as an emphatic counterpoint to his disastrous predecessor, Donald Trump, who had foolishly given credence to Moscow's assessments on bilateral issues over those of his intelligence agencies, making the West squirm. But the choreographed personal insult led Mr Putin to withdraw the Russian ambassador in Washington and a tit-for-tat recall of the American ambassador followed. The dyke in relations widened. In this background, the course that the intense three-hour long conversation between the two leaders with their key foreign policy and national security aides in tow, can only be viewed positively — more than just a glass half-full.

At separate press conferences, they confirmed this. Mr Biden used "positive" and "good" to describe the event. Mr Putin, responding to an ambush question from a prominent US news outlet, denied that the talks were marked with "hostility", and said the leaders had a "constructive" conversation. Both Presidents called the outcome "pragmatic". Mr Biden also said that Russia was not looking for "a new Cold War". A "joint communiqué" issued after the separate press conferences noted that talks will commence on restoring "strategic stability" in order to prevent unintentional conflict. At their meeting, the two leaders decided to send back their ambassadors. This is important in conducting state-to-state relations.

An important American concern was met when the Presidents agreed to institute a committee of experts to look into the issue of cyber-attacks that the US has attacked Russia for, including in meddling with its elections. Mr Biden wisely indicated that "the proof of the pudding was in the eating" and that it would become clear in a relatively short time if Moscow meant business on this. It appears the leaders of America and Russia have hinted at being constructive in dealing with trouble spots such as Afghanistan and Libya, although Syria can be more difficult.

Mr Biden was adroit. He took Mr Putin for what he was and was not out to change him or Russia, but rather to reach preferred goals. Mr Putin quoted Tolstoy to suggest "there is no happiness in life, there is only a mirage on the horizon, so cherish that". This is a realistic start. If US-Russia hostilities remain restricted, a country like India can have a broader bandwidth to operate in.

Women priests: TN's bold move

Welcoming women to the sanctum sanctorum, Tamil Nadu's minister in charge of temples, P.K. Sekar Babu, recently heralded the breaking of another glass ceiling on the distaff side. Knowledge of Agama Sastra alone will be the qualifier to be a priest and not gender, he declared, opening a Pandora's Box. Out came the naysayers with their own objections based on custom, least considering the fact that women priests are already there in substantial numbers in the country.

Apart from performing priestly duties in small temples in the state, women have also been solemnising weddings for celebrities in big cities. Very recently, Bollywood actor Dia Mirza's wedding to Vaibhav Rekhi in Mumbai was conducted by a woman priest. Earlier on, actor Aparna Sen's daughter was united in wedlock by a woman priest. Closer home, a woman who stepped into the shoes of her deceased father and took over as priest of an Amman temple near Madurai in 2006 got her right to succession ratified by the Madras high court. When the presiding deity is an Amman with the form of a woman, why should a woman not perform pujas, the judge had asked.

Yet minister Sekar Babu's idea is facing opposition. Even if he has made it clear that women priests would be given leave on the five days of their menstruation, their storming Agama temples is not that easy. Even the locus standi of a secular government in taking such a decision has been questioned. But in the land of Periyar E.V. Ramasamy, a woman inside the sanctum sanctorum might just become a reality.

RSS, BJP & Yogi factor: Key to 2024 lies in UP

Anand K. Sahay

Far & Near

The summoning of Uttar Pradesh chief minister Yogi Adityanath to New Delhi recently in the wake of widespread anxiety being expressed in the state BJP over its Assembly poll prospects in a few months, given the CM's disastrous Covid-19 management, naturally became a high-profile political event. The stakes were rightly deemed to be high. A slip in UP can ricochet at the Centre, and who knows how the pieces will fall.

The CM showed up when called — but after that the story dries up. It didn't matter that the UP leader had held really long conversations with those at the very top — Prime Minister Narendra Modi (well over an hour), home minister Amit Shah (even longer), and BJP president J.P. Nadda. Here was rich material to be tapped for political reporting, speculation, or comment, but no one did — as if on cue.

For comparison, look at Punjab, whose CM and MLAs were recently summoned to Delhi by the Congress leadership because there seems to be a crisis brewing. The news pages were filled with plausible and implausible stories or just plain repetitions for want of anything new to say. "Hold the deadline!" is an old newsroom mantra, and the media did not let go.

In the case of UP, however, there was nothing at all — not even the regurgitating of back-ground as is frequently done, or clever words extolling the power duo at the Centre about how well they had handled the UP crisis (since nothing less than gushing praise will do in their case).

It is noteworthy that there was resounding silence on this front even after the chief minister returned to Lucknow. Top-rung BJP politicians who had just days earlier bitterly complained to their high command — and above all to the RSS bosses — about Yogi's general high-handedness, his arrogant mismanagement of the Covid crisis, and his many caste-slanted actions, seemed clueless about what had transpired in Delhi, or preferred to stay quiet if they knew. Busy newshounds, who had waxed eloquent about a PM-CM tussle and other such astounding things, fell silent.

Is the overall motif of silence in this important matter a part of a well thought out strategy crafted by the BJP, or indeed the RSS, since it is the RSS cadre on the ground who will be required to do the heavy lifting at election time? After all, it is the RSS — rather than the formal shell of the BJP — which really exercises supervision or control over the main body of legislators, and typically it is the low-key RSS organiser who plays pastor. The pastor offers counsel and keeps his superiors informed about the goings-on. He meddles, but not in full view.

Evidently, since senior BJP leaders in UP had publicly complained against the CM's mismanagement and his autocratic style, it wouldn't have done to keep quiet and do nothing; hence the directive to the CM to go to Delhi to explain himself to the big shots. This was a triumph of form over substance, and also careful choreography and convenient optics.

If any action — or concession — follows at Yogi's end as a consequence of the Centre's supposed advice, it is likely to be only about as cataclysmic as tinkering with his council of ministers. And look at what Yogi has got in return. His actions say it all. The man had the gumption to calmly hand his three principal interlocutors, as well as the President of India, some so-called Harvard University report commending his management of the pandemic which no one believes, but that's hardly the point.

The point is that Yogi was summoned but was also pandered to. He was permitted to create the impression that he was on a goodwill mission to New Delhi, and not summoned as a boy to be chastised, which is usually the fate of erring CMs of the same party as the one that rules at the Centre. It is well understood that UP is Mr Modi's first line of defence. It has already fallen in the recent panchayat elections, with BJP performing poorly. If it falls in the Assembly election too, reputations can roll in Delhi, and the fallout can be uncertain.

There are also other reasons why Yogi couldn't have been ticked off. He is an extreme egoist, a far-right maverick, who runs his own outfit, the Hindu Vahini. He is not of RSS-BJP stock. He is a stranger to institutional or collegial functioning. If he is stung, he can fight the Assembly election on his own if only to spite the BJP and deny it the votes of the ultra-right Hindu constituency. Confident of his ability to do so, the saffron-robed monk CM did not need to bend or genuflect in Delhi.

If Yogi is stung, he can fight the Assembly election on his own if only to spite the BJP and deny it the votes of the ultra-right Hindu constituency. Confident of this ability, he did not need to genuflect in Delhi.

Whatever the UP BJP, or the national BJP, may think of Adityanath and his usefulness to the party in UP, the RSS's assessment of this matter is not known. It may or may not be exactly the same as that of the BJP. Indeed, the RSS's assessment of the performance of the Union government under the present leader, especially on the handling of the pandemic, steep unemployment and inflation, surrendering of territory to China in Ladakh, and worsening relations even with Nepal, is also not known.

On this subject, of no little importance, we have just one clue. A few weeks ago, in a well-publicised address, the RSS chief, Mohan Bhagwat, held the people, the administration, as well as the government, responsible for the surge in the Covid second wave numbers and the exceptionally high death figures. This forced the government to stop in its tracks in the planning of a false propaganda blitz on the handling of the pandemic.

But the Prime Minister did not fail to fire a riposte at Mr Bhagwat in his June 7 address to the nation. Without any reference to the latter, he sang his government's praises and ran down its opponents and critics. Such an open, daring, even insolent, defiance of the RSS sarsanghchalak by a BJP or Jan Sangh leader, mounted in full public view, has not been encountered before.

It will be interesting to know how Mr Bhagwat has taken the insult, and whether the RSS organisation is behind him foursquare. The untangling of this puzzle can tell us something about how things might shape in UP, or indeed in Delhi.

SURPRISE VISIT

On Wednesday, Chief Minister M.K. Stalin paid a surprise visit to a few ration shops in Chennai. Convinced that there were no irregularities with regard to either availability of commodities or payment of cash incentive to cardholders, the CM left with a light heart. The shopkeepers, in turn, profusely thanked the men who had given them sufficient notice about the 'surprise' visit.

RIGHT TO PROTEST

It is with reference to the news, HC's ray of hope: To protest is right, it's not a terror. By, granting bail to three student activists Delhi high court has once again upheld the constitutional rights of people to dissent and protest. In its bail order, the court has observed that the State has blurred the line between the constitutionally guaranteed 'right to protest' and 'terrorist activity.' It is welcome. The arrest exposed a total lack of professionalism on the part of the Delhi police. Frivolous application of laws is no less an injury than frivolous litigation in the eyes of justice. The Delhi court has done an exemplary job in granting bail. Every court across the country must do it should democracy survive and succeed.

LURING GAME

Apropos report, Sasikala, AIADMK leaders continue their mind games. Jayalalithaa too faced a similar situation after MGR's demise but stood her ground with determination and wrested the party from the opposite camp. Sasikala may have played her role as Jaya's confidante from behind the scenes but she lacks the same gumption and adroitness. As long as the AIADMK remains united sans dissensions among the top brass it is well neigh impossible for her to split and grab the party. She may be banking on the caste factor playing the Thevar card to lure leaders like Mr OPS but her hopes will be dashed. Considering OPS knows which side the bread is buttered, he may not oblige her and risk facing an uncertain future if he loses his present deputy opposition leader's post. And he might have realised that the AMMK which was mauled very badly at the hustings is not a force to be reckoned with, even if he joins it. Sasikala has to be content with her mind-games.

Mohan Guruswamy

Most of India's culture has been much influenced and shaped by the successive waves of invasions from the northwest. How we look at it depends on how far back we want to go. The northwestern waves were a continuous process till continental Indian power was consolidated by the rise of the British in the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries.

These hordes were mostly not encumbered by religious ideology or cultural baggage and the Brahmanical elite quite willingly assimilated them into the Hindu fabric and gave them a place in the Hindu social hierarchy. Possibly the last of these hordes were the Buddhist Kushans led by Kanishka who established their dominance over the Aryavarta region, stretching from the Indus to Pataliputra. Kanishka was a descendant of Kujula Kadphishes, founder of the Kushan dynasty that ruled much of Central Asia, including Afghanistan. Buddhism and Brahminical Hinduism had a long history of theological intermingling and cultural exchange.

The waves after this came armed with Islam and the process of complete assimilation ceased. The Afghan and Mughal kings of Delhi too shared pretty much the same geographical origins as Kanishka and those before him. But Islam made them different. This difference gave rise to a new era of, for lack of a better description, separate development, which was what apartheid was also meant to be. That separatism can be seen even today. But it wasn't as if racial and cultural intermingling ceased. While it was common, it was no longer the norm. Yet the pre-British story of India was how these two great theologies and cultures fused to give the region new languages, art forms, literature, music and architecture. Among the greatest exponents of our ragas and saangeet were Muslims, just as Hindus like Firaq Gorakhpuri (Raghupati Sahay) and Ram Prasad Bismil became great writers in Urdu. Only our theologies became impervious and separate dogmas. Bade Ghulam Ali Khan and Bismillah Khan were not singing Hindu songs and playing Hindu ragas, just as Wadali Brothers, Puranchand and Pyarelal, were not singing Muslim songs. Unfortunately, of late we have seen an acceleration towards separation when with time we should be seeing more creative fusion.

The All-India Muslim Personal Law Board, the VHP's Muslim version, opposes the celebration of International Yoga Day on June 21. This is utterly misguided, unfortunate and silly. It calls yoga a religious symbol. It is not. Today it's just a school of balance-focused exercises, pure and simple. Like Tai Chi. I wonder what they would say about Hyderabad's Nawab Sadiq Jung Bahadur "Hilm", who wrote: "Kanhaiya yaad hai kuch bhi hamaari", or Mah Laqa Bai or Chanda Bibi, who had a diwan or collection of poems in Dakhni called "Gulzar-e-Mahlaqa"?

Yoga, like jihad, takes different meanings by what is prefixed or suffixed to it. Jihad is an Arabic word that just means "striving" or "struggling", especially with a praiseworthy aim. It was meant as self-betterment, but in the Islamic context it has acquired very different meanings. Yoga as exercise is a physical activity — mainly of postures in sequences that are sometimes accompanied by breathing exercises. It's this yoga that has become familiar worldwide, especially in Europe and the United States. It is derived from the postures used in the medieval spiritual discipline of Hatha Yoga.

The AIMPLB specifically cites Surya Namaskar as offensive, but it's just a common sequence of asanas. Most Hindus revere the Sun as it is the giver of life and sustenance. Due to this, some Hindus set aside a part of their daily worship for salutations to the Sun by prostrations. This method of adoration affords them so much muscular activity that it takes to some extent the place of physical exercise. Muslims can practise these same asanas without worshipping the Sun. But before they reject the Sun salutation, they'll do well to recall Allama Iqbal, who wrote: "A'iaaf-taab! Hum ko zia-e-shaoor de/ Chasm-e-khird ko apni tajjasi se noor de." (O radiant one! Grant us the grace of wisdom/Let our eyes see reason in your resplendent glow.)

I only hope some of the "grace of wisdom" will penetrate the dark recesses of minds in the AIMPLB. Muslims as whole will do well to listen to saner voices in the community like Prof. Mohd Abbas Niazi of AMU, who said: "Yoga is an exercise, and no religion is against a healthy lifestyle." Or quietly just don't do yoga, without making a hullabaloo over it. But don't dismiss it as unsecular. Yoga is no extension of Hinduism, just as a raga isn't. The Brihadhesi describes raga as "a combination of tones which, with beautiful illuminating graces, pleases people".

Modern yoga practices' only link with Hinduism is that it evolved in India. By this standard, they must oppose many mathematical principles that evolved in ancient India and think of algebra as an exclusive Islamic discipline. Yoga is a non-sectarian physical and mental health-oriented set of exercises. If yoga is Hindu, then karate is Buddhist, kung fu is Confucian and taekwondo also Buddhist. Will the AIMPLB seek a ban on them too?

The RSS and BJP governments all over India are trying to impose yoga as an exercise in schools. Like any exercise, this too should be optional. Those who want to skip yoga can use it for some other form of exercise. But exercise is a must. When I was in school, we used to have an exercise period every day. Some played soccer, others played kabaddi, some just marched about, drilled by the NCC instructor. We didn't have yoga then. It was still a Western fad.

Bengaluru: India on Thursday named eight Olympic debutants and as many veterans in its 16-member women's hockey squad for the Tokyo Games to be held from July 23 to August 8. The squad is a perfect mix of youth and experience and includes as many as eight players who had represented India in the 2016 Rio Olympics. The team will be captained by star striker Rani Rampal in the quadrennial Games. The eight Olympic debutants include drag-flicker Gurjit Kaur, Udita, Nisha, Neha, Navneet Kaur, Sharmila Devi, Lalremiami, the first player hailing from Mizoram in the team, and Salima Tete. Tete had led the Indian team at the 2018 Youth Olympic Games at Buenos Aires to a silver medal performance. — PTI

Nurse says docs 'killed Maradona'

San Isidro: A lawyer for a nurse under investigation in the death of Argentine football great Diego Maradona said on Wednesday that doctors killed him through negligence. "They killed Diego," attorney Rodolfo Baque told reporters after his client, nurse Dahiana Gisela Madrid, was questioned by prosecutors. Maradona died of a heart attack last November at the age of 60, weeks after undergoing brain surgery for a blood clot. Madrid, 36, is one of seven people under investigation for manslaughter after a board of experts looking into Maradona's death found he had received inadequate care and was abandoned to his fate for a "prolonged, agonising period." Baque insisted it was the doctors treating Maradona while he recovered from the brain operation, not his client, who were to blame for the soccer legend's death. — AFP

ULTIMATE TEST

India, NZ in battle for legacy as WTC final begins today

Southampton, June 17: Virat Kohli carries the expectations of a billion while cricket romantics will pin their hopes on Kane Williamson when India and New Zealand engage in a battle to create a lasting legacy in pristine whites in the inaugural World Test Championship final starting here on Friday.

For the connoisseurs of the glorious game, Test cricket is the ultimate format and despite its aura, the 144-year-old history needed a facelift along with a context which the World Test Championship provided despite various bottlenecks, including the Covid-19 pandemic.

For Kohli, India's most successful Test captain, a trophy-less cabinet doesn't do justice to the champion performer that he has been for a decade.

Lest one forgets, he has been a fine leader in his own right even though Mahendra Singh Dhoni may forever remain a sentimental favourite. Kohli needs a global triumph. Every captain needs it but perhaps the Indian captain wants it more.

It's how history will remember him just like it remembers Dhoni with a lot of respect and utmost fondness for those heroic World title wins.

Williamson stands in his way with a bunch of fine cricketers and the most amiable set of players that one would come across in international cricket.

They are India's rivals but when Williamson hits those cover drives, Devon Conway teases a Ashwin or Jadeja, Boulton gets one banana inswinger aimed at Rohit Sharma's bootlaces, the crazy fans of a cricket-mad nation wouldn't possibly be able to hate them. — PTI

FOR THE RECORD

Devon Conway has scored 306 runs at an average of 76.50 in four innings since his debut.

R. Ashwin who has taken 48 wickets at an average of 16.97 in 11 innings of six Tests needs just two wickets to become the fourth Indian bowler to complete a half century of wickets against New Zealand.

Just another game: Virat

Southampton, June 17: India captain Virat Kohli on Thursday asserted that one Test match is not a "true reflection" of his team even if it happens to be the World Test Championship final against New Zealand here and he is treating it as "just another" game.

For the Indian captain and his team, the WTC final is like their Test debuts as young players trying to come up the ranks.

"One game over five days. It's not going to reflect anything and those who understand the game know and also what has gone over the period of last four to five years," Kohli said on the eve of the big final against the Black Caps.

"If we win, cricket will not stop and if we lose also, cricket won't stop. We are playing in quest of excellence and understand who we are as a team," he added.

He was not forthcoming when a question on team combination was posed based on a previous answer that the team would select a composition "with all bases covered" regardless of the weather forecast of rain on opening day.

"... A team with enough batting depth and bowling resources," he said when asked if he would factor in the rain and overcast conditions.

He was also dismissive when asked if this was the biggest cricketing event of his illustrious career.

"This is just another Test match. All these things (WTC final) look good from the outside. One game can't become a do-or-die game."

KANE PLAYS DOWN FAVOURITES TAG

New Zealand skipper Kane Williamson on Thursday said a place in the final against India is a testament to the team's growth over the past two years but he is not reading too much into the favourites tag given to his side.

"Firstly, we are really looking forward to the match, it's been quite a long time coming. In terms of favourites, these tags that come about. We are much more concerned with the cricket that we want to play," Williamson said. — PTI

WOMEN'S | ONE-OFF TEST

Debutant Shafali falls short of ton

Bristol, June 17: Shafali Verma hit a brilliant 96 on debut, while Smriti Mandhana made 78 before five quick wickets derailed India Women as the visitors slumped to 187 for 5 in their first innings in reply to England's 396 for 9 declared at stumps on the second day of the one-off Test here on Thursday.

Verma and Mandhana shared a solid 167 runs off 48.5 overs for the opening stand before both departed in quick time as the collapse started for India.

If that was not enough, Shikha Pandey, skipper Mithali Raj and Punam Raut too got out in quick succession as India lost five wickets in a span of just 16 runs to hand England the upperhand.

At the close of play, Harmanpreet Kaur was batting on 4 in the company of Deepti Sharma with India still trailing England by 209 runs.

England's total of 396 was the highest-ever total scored by a team against India in Test.

Verma was at her usual aggressive self as she cut and pulled in her own inimitable style. The 17-year-old not only presented the straight bat for defence with grace, she also hit a six off Nat Sciver with remarkable ease.

It was only the second six hit by an Indian woman in Test cricket. Mandhana was cautious yet fluent. She got her first boundary when she punched one off Sciver in the cover region.

BRIEF SCORES

England 396/9 decl. (Beaumont 66, Heather 95, Sophia 74 (not out); Sneha 4/131, Deepti 3/65) vs India 187/5 in 60 overs (Smriti 78, Shafali 96; Harmanpreet 4 (batting); Heather 2/1).

When she got the opportunity, Mandhana did not hesitate to pull. Her elegant drives were a delight to watch.

Earlier resuming at the overnight score of 269 for six, Sophia Dunkley continued to frustrate the visitors, remaining unbeaten on 74.

Dunkley first added 56 runs for the eighth wicket with Sophie Ecclestone (17) and then forged a 70-run stand with Anya Shrubsole.

Debutant off-spinner Sneha Rana was the pick of the bowlers for India with figures of 4/131, while Deepti Sharma (3/65) too impressed with the ball.

England declared their innings when Shrubsole was bowled by Rana, who ended up as India's best bowler with a four-wicket haul.

Shrubsole was aggressive in the post-lunch session, punishing spinner Rana for two hours and a six. She also creamed off boundaries off pacer Shikha Pandey.

Nadal out of Oly and Wimbledon

Paris, June 17: Rafael Nadal said on Thursday he was withdrawing from Wimbledon and the Tokyo Olympics in a bid "to prolong my career".

The 35-year-old Spaniard, who won Olympic gold and Wimbledon in 2008, triumphing again at the All England Club two years later, revealed his decision on Twitter. "I have decided not to participate at this year's Championships at Wimbledon and the Olympic Games in Tokyo," he tweeted.

"It's never an easy decision to take but after listening to my body and discussing it with my team I understand that it is the right decision."

World number one Novak Djokovic last week ended Nadal's four-year reign as French Open champion and went on to seal his 19th Grand Slam.

"The goal is to prolong my career and continue to do what makes me happy, that is to compete at the highest level and keep fighting for those professional and personal goals at the maximum level of competition," said Nadal.

SUPERSTAR NEYMAR TO MISS GAME

Paris Saint Germain striker Neymar, the world's most expensive footballer, will not play for Brazil at the Tokyo Olympics, but veteran Daniel Alves did make the squad announced Thursday. ERIKSEN TO BE FITTED WITH ICD HEART-STARTER DEVICE

Copenhagen, June 17: Christian Eriksen will be fitted with an implantable device to monitor his heart rhythm, the Danish football federation said on Thursday.

Eriksen is recovering in a Copenhagen hospital after suffering cardiac arrest during Denmark's game against Finland at the European Championship.

The Danish federation said doctors have determined that Eriksen needs to have an ICD implantable cardioverter-defibrillator. "This device is necessary after a cardiac attack due to rhythm disturbances," the federation said in a statement.

"Christian has accepted the solution and the plan has moreover been confirmed by specialists nationally and internationally who all recommend the same treatment. We encourage everybody to give Christian and his family peace and privacy the following time," it said.

An ICD monitors a person's heartbeat and can send electrical pulses to restore a normal rhythm if necessary. — AP

Locatelli blow for Swiss

Rome, June 17: Manuel Locatelli scored a brace and Ciro Immobile added a late third as Italy sealed their place in the Euro 2020 last 16 on Wednesday with a game to spare after a 3-0 win over Switzerland in Rome.

Sassuolo midfielder Locatelli put the Azzurri ahead after 26 minutes in the Group A clash, adding a second just after the break with Immobile scoring for the second consecutive game a minute from time.

Roberto Mancini's side are top of Group A with six points from two games, with six goals scored and none conceded, two points clear of Wales who beat Turkey 2-0 earlier.

Italy will advance as Group A winners if they avoid defeat against surprise Euro 2016 semi-finalists Wales at the Stadio Olimpico on Sunday.

The only bad news for the Italians in a game they dominated was the loss of captain Giorgio Chiellini who hobbled off the pitch with a muscle injury in the first half.

The 36-year-old Juventus defender had a 20th-minute goal ruled out for handball by VAR and four minutes later asked to be replaced, holding his thigh.

Lazio defender Francesco Acerbi took his place, making his debut in a major international tournament at the age of 33, with the captain's armband handed to Juventus teammate Leonardo Bonucci.

WALES CLOSE IN ON KNOCKOUTS

Aaron Ramsey and Connor Roberts scored as Wales took a huge step towards reaching the last 16 with a 2-0 win over Turkey in Baku.

Wales, semi-finalists five years ago, moved top of Group A before Italy host Switzerland later in the day in Rome.

Captain Gareth Bale missed a penalty before setting up Roberts for his goal during injury time.

RESULTS

Ukraine 2

North Macedonia 1
(Alioski 57)

Italy 3
(Locatelli 26, 52, Immobile 89)
Switzerland 0

Turkey 0
Wales 2

"We've given ourselves a brilliant opportunity tonight," Ramsey said.

"It (the penalty) was a big moment in the game but we dug in, to a man we left everything out there. That's what we've built our success on."

NERVY WIN FOR UKRAINE

Andriy Yarmolenko scored one goal and set up Roman Yaremchuk for another as Ukraine defeated

North Macedonia 2-1 to boost their last-16 hopes. The West Ham forward grabbed the opener on 29 minutes in Bucharest and then teed up Yaremchuk with a brilliant first-time pass to double the lead five minutes later.

Ezgjian Alioski pulled a goal back for North Macedonia just before the hour as he converted the rebound from his missed penalty. — AFP

MISFIRING CROATIA AIM TO IMPROVE

Glasgow, June 17: Croatia's chances of advancing in the European Championship hinge on two things — firing up a struggling front line and containing Czech Republic forward Patrik Schick. Under pressure to deliver after reaching the World Cup final three years ago, Croatia were stifled against England in the first group match and lost 1-0.

Croatia assistant coach Vedran Corluka called on the team to be "more dangerous" and "attack-minded" in the Group D game against Czech Republic at Hampden Park on Friday.

RASHFORD HOPES TO START VS SCOTS

Marcus Rashford's status as a national figurehead couldn't earn a starting spot in the opening win against Croatia but he did come off the bench and finish wearing the captain's armband after Harry Kane was substituted. It's a sign of the depth of options available to England coach Gareth Southgate that Rashford is a backup despite his 21 goals in 57 appearances for Manchester United last season. "You have to be professional about it," Rashford said at England's St. George's Park training base. — AP
