AstraZeneca vaccine volunteer dies in Brazil; co to go ahead with trial

Sao Paulo/ Frankfurt, Oct. 22: Brazilian health authority Anvisa said on Wednesday that a volunteer in a clinical trial of the Covid-19 vaccine developed by AstraZeneca and Oxford University had died but added that the trial would continue.

Oxford confirmed the plan to keep testing, saying in a statement that after careful assessment "there have been no concerns about safety of the clinical trial."

AstraZeneca declined to comment immediately.

A source familiar with the matter told Reuters

● The university earlier confirmed the volunteer was Brazilian but gave no further personal details the trial would have been suspended if the volunteer who died had received the Covid-19 vaccine, suggesting the person was part of the control group that was given a meningitis jab.

The Federal University of Sao Paulo, which is helping coordinate phase 3 clinical trials in Brazil, said an independent review committee had also recommended the trial continue. The university earlier confirmed the volunteer was Brazilian but gave no further personal details. "Everything is proceeding as expected, without any record of serious vaccine-related complications involving any of the participating volunteers," the Brazilian university said in a statement.

So far, 8,000 of the planned 10,000 volunteers in the trial have been recruited and given the first dose in six cities in Brazil, and many have already received the second shot, said a university spokesman. — Reuters

INS Kavaratti commissioned into Indian Navy by Army chief

Visakhapatnam, Oct. Chief of Army Staff General MM Naravane on Thursday commissioned the Anti-Submarine Warfare stealth corvette INS Kavaratti into the Indian Navy at the Naval Dockyard here.

INS Kavaratti is the last of the four indigenously-built ASW stealth corvettes under Project 28 (Kamorta class) and has been designed by the Directorate of Naval Design, the Indian Navys in-house wing.

It has been commissioned into the Navy as a combat-ready platform as the ship has completed sea trials of all the systems fitted onboard.

INS Kavaratti has a state-of-the-art weapons and sensor suite capable of "detecting and prosecuting" submarines.

In addition to its anti-submarine warfare capability, the ship also has a credible self-defence capability and good endurance for long-range deployments.

"The ship has up to 90 per cent indigenous content and the use of carbon composites for the superstructure is a commendable feat achieved in Indian shipbuilding. The ships weapons and sensors suite is predominantly indigenous and showcases the nations growing capability in this niche area," according to the Navy.

With the induction

The announcement has triggered a political row in the state ahead of the election as the Opposition alliance feels that the BJP is politicising the Covid-19 pandemic for electoral gains. RJD leaders in Patna said that "the vaccine is for the entire nation, and it should not be used as a political tool for winning elections".

Political analysts feel that the 19 lakh jobs announcements by the BJP could also be an attempt to divert public attention from RJD leader Tejashwi Yadav, who has been blaming the NDA for unemployment in the state and also recently announced around 10 lakh government jobs for youths if his party or alliance won the election.

Prime Minister Narendra Modi Thursday called upon the people to "respect daughters like Goddess Durga" and urged all citizens to "stand by" women. Speaking after "virtually" inaugurating a Durga Puja organised by the BJP at the Eastern Zonal Cultural centre at Kolkata's Salt Lake area on Mahashashthi, Mr Modi said: "In Bengal, Durga is welcomed and treated as a daughter. This philosophy is the basis of our spiritual consciousness. That is why we are taught to respect all daughters like Ma Durga."

Arrogance of Fadnavis led to BJP's loss in Maha: Khadse

Mumbai, Oct. 22: A day after quitting the BJP, senior leader Eknath Khadse stepped up his attack on former Maharashtra chief minister Devendra Fadnavis on Thursday, saying that his arrogance resulted in the saffron party losing power in the state in the last assembly elections.

Khadse also took a dig at Fadnavis over his "Mi punha yein" (I will come back) refrain he used during the poll campaign and asked why he did not say "we will come back" instead. Talking to a regional news channel, Khadse said, "Devendra Fadnavis is such a capable leader that he dethroned his own party from power in the 2019 assembly elections. Instead of stressing on "I will come back", why didn't he say "we will come back?" he said.

"It was his arrogance that led to BJP's loss of power after the 2019 assembly polls," he said. Sulking since his unceremonious exit from the Fadnavis-led ministry in 2016, Khadse on Wednesday quit the party and is set to join the Sharad Pawar-led NCP. Speaking to reporters on Wednesday, Khadse (68) had blamed Fadnavis for "trying to destroy his life" and political career.

Responding to his allegations, Fadnavis had said, "If he had complaints about me, he would have told seniors of the party." — PTI been advocating. "It is never clear if Rahul Gandhi speaks himself or he is made to speak. Are you a well-wisher of farmers or of the middlemen who only harass peasants," Nadda said.

The BJP had organised the programme for farmer representatives to thank Modi for the farm reform laws.

The BJP president said there had been many leaders for farmers, but it is Modi who took measures to comprehensively change the situation for them by launching many welfare measures since coming to power at the Centre in 2014.

He also took a swipe at West Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee for not implementing in her state the Center's scheme to deposit ₹6,000 into every farmer's account under the 'Kisan Samman Nidhi Yojana'. — PTI

‘Say yes to lights, no to crackers’ campaign gets underway

T. SUDHEESH | DC
CHENNAI, OCT. 22

With Deepavali a few weeks away, the ‘Say No to Crackers’ campaign, supported by the Greater Chennai Corporation (GCC), got underway online.

A twitter handle ‘Say No to Crackers’ is gathering attention as various creative kids started advocating the campaign. They have posted short video messages and creative works highlighting the need to say no to crackers in the time of pandemic. And they pledged not to persuade their parents to get them crackers in this Deepavali.

Supporting the campaign, Akash Parameswaran, Deputy Commissioner (North), GCC, says bursting crackers will be an added pollution to the atmosphere as thousands of vehicles are plying on the roads daily. We need to have cleaner breathing space in our city. We want a more lit-up Deepavali. Let us have more diyas and lamps but no crackers for a pollution-free Deepavali’, he said.

The campaign, initiated by the city-based NGO ‘Born to Win’, has started conducting drawing and painting competitions on the theme ‘cracker-free Deepavali in the time of Corona’.

Aditi Madhusudhanan, an activist and trustee of ‘Born to Win’, said the sole objective of the campaign is to ensure a pollution-free Deepavali in the time of pandemic. ‘It’s imperative to have a pollution-free Deepavali because the air pollution is a reason for lung complications and respiratory problems that will act as a catalyst to increase severity of deadly Coronavirus. We began an online campaign on Wednesday as the first phase. We are planning to approach medical practitioners, celebrities and bureaucrats to create an awareness among people on the necessity of avoiding crackers during this Deepavali’, said Aditi.

She also pointed out that bursting of crackers had impacted not only human beings but also animals. ‘There are incidents of pets running amok after being traumatised by the noise of high-decibel crackers. Many animals including cattle and stray dogs were injured and lost eyesight after being hit by vehicles’, she said. It may be recalled that in 2017, a cattleshed in suburban Madipakkam caught fire from stray crackers and five cows were burnt to death.

Meanwhile, the situation on ground isn’t any different in the past seasons despite the Supreme Court banning polluting firecrackers in 2018. The Tamil Nadu Pollution Control Board had last year fixed the time slots to burst firecrackers between 6 am and 7 am and from 7 pm to 8 pm. But residents across the city continued to burst firecrackers throughout Deepavali day and night.

MP alleges goof-up of quota in SBI recruitment

A. ARUL PALANI | DC
CHENNAI, OCT. 22

Suspecting goof-up of reservation policy in the recruitment for clerks in SBI, Lok Sabha member S. Venkatesan has demanded the Central government to address the anomalies in the hiring.

In a letter sent to Mr Thaawar Chand Gehlot, Union Minister for Social Justice and Empowerment, on Thursday, the CPI (M) leader demanded the government to maintain a transparent procedure in ensuring reservation in the recruitment of SBI junior associates.

He said there is suspicion about reservation when results of the preliminary examinations for the junior associate posts were released on October 20 and cut-off marks were prescribed for different categories of shortlisted candidates for Tamil Nadu.

The cut-off mark in the results for general category was 62 which was same for OBCs and SC categories. For STs the cut-off was 59.5 whereas it was 57.75 for economically weaker sections. Since these cut-off marks are not in consonance with social realities, question arises naturally whether reservation has been implemented properly in results, the MP said. Since the details of cut-off marks for all the candidates have not been published there is no scope for social audit to monitor adherence to policy of reservation and individuals receive only communications about their marks and cut-off for different categories.

The tests conducted by the IBPS is not subject to public scrutiny like RTI. IBPS recruits officials and clerks for public sector banks, which are bound to adhere to the government instructions on reservation. How can such an organization remain not answerable to RTI?

The MP asked why the whole list of shortlisted candidates with marks and details of categories is not made public? The general category includes candidates belonging to reserved categories also and their names will figure in general list when they secure more marks than the cut-off mark prescribed for the said category. He said, “please inform whether such norms are adhered in letter and spirit?”

Her asked how many OBC, SC, ST, EWS candidates are there in general category in the list published now. What is the range of marks secured by the candidates of reserved categories in the OBC, SC, ST and EWS? (Maximum and minimum marks secured by each category) The EWS cut-off is less than the cut-off marks for OBC, SC and STs. How many EWS candidates appeared for examination and how many got short listed?

The MP also asked how many general, OBC, SC, ST candidates appeared for preliminary tests and how many got shortlisted category wise. What are the norms followed for treating candidates of reserved categories to figure in General list?

HC directive to Chennai port trust on election

DC CORRESPONDENT
CHENNAI, OCT. 22

Pointing out that if some more stringent measures are imposed, there can be no impediment for the Chennai Port Trust to proceed with the election by way of check off system, pursuant to its notification, during this pandemic period, the Madras high court has imposed additional measures to be followed by the Chennai Port Trust along with the regular standard operating procedure, as provided by the Central and State governments, within its campus during the election.

Justice R.Suresh Kumar imposed the additional conditions while disposing of a petition filed by V.Selvaraj, an employee of Chennai Port Trust (CPT) and also the general secretary of the Trade Union called Bharatiya Port and Dock Employees Union, which sought to defer the check off system election during this pandemic period due to Covid-19.

The case of the petitioner was that in order to identify that, which Trade Union (recognized or approved Trade Union) functioning in the CPT) was able to muster more strength for the purpose of identifying and to nominate two number of trustees for the CPT administration, the election process was undertaken. In this regard, the elections otherwise called ‘Check Off System’, being conducted periodically and accordingly this year check off procedure/system election for the year 2021 and 2022 has been slated to be conducted between October 15, 2020 and October 30, 2020 and accordingly, the CPT has issued a notification.

The grievance of the petitioner was that the pandemic situation due to Covid-19 was still looming large in the society and if the check off system election was permitted, large number of employees would be vulnerable for getting affected of Covid. Therefore, the election should be deferred, he added.

Vehemently opposing the same, A.Kumaraguru, standing counsel for CPT submitted that the CPT would ensure that the SOP was being maintained with strict sense. If any stringent conditions were issued by this court, the CPT will implement the same in strict sense during the election, he added.

The judge said the check off procedure was part of the election process in order to identify the maximum command among the employees by a recognized Union for the purpose of nominating two members from the largest employees supported Trade Union, in the body of the CPT. Hence, it was an important task to be undertaken by the CPT.

However, at the same time, the CPT cannot stop with just issuing the SOP with a call to the employees to maintain the social distancing. They must ensure that, SOP was strictly followed in every place at all time in all sense, the judge added.

Pointing out several safety measures, the judge said if these measures were taken further in addition to the measures already been envisaged or taken by the CPT, this court feel that, the apprehension on the part of the petitioner would be seriously met and it would be ensured that, in the Covid-19 situation, the CPT campus shall not be a hub for the spreading of Covid-19.

Monsoon blues amid pandemic

B. Vijayalakshmi

Viewpoint

While Tamil Nadu became the fourth state in the country to cross seven lakh coronavirus cases on Thursday, there is a nagging fear that Covid spread might pick up pace during monsoon and ensuing winter. On Thursday, TN recorded 3,077 new infections and 45 more deaths. Besides, the festive crowd continues to throng showrooms and malls.

Meanwhile, the state government, this week, permitted all shops, restaurants and commercial complexes to function till 10 pm in view of the festive season and also to facilitate economic recovery.

People flock to shopping hubs and markets throwing caution to the winds. Nothing can stop the crowds in Kasimedu market every Sunday. A video clip which showed hundreds of people without masks shopping in a popular textile showroom at T Nagar went viral driving the Chennai corporation to crack the whip. The shop was sealed, but instances of shops and restaurants violating Covid norms are being reported in newspapers and shared widely on social media.

The civic body should conduct surprise checks in shops, malls, showrooms at regular intervals and punish the violators. An unsparing corporation must make traders realize that if they violate Covid prevention norms they have to face penal consequences. Proper seating arrangements with adequate space, social distancing and mandatory masks will ensure safety of both employees and customers.

At the same time, virus may spread with a fall in temperature during monsoon. This may pose a major challenge to front-line workers and policymakers in implementing control measures. Even as people gear up for change in weather conditions due to onset of northeast monsoon, there are some who are haunted by the fear of influenza and respiratory infections. As Covid has similar symptoms like seasonal flu, self medication must be shunned. Consulting the doctor alone will help. Eating the right food and avoiding crowds will be best way to manage Covid during monsoon season.

Intense rains lashed the city and its suburbs on Thursday, causing inundation in several areas. The rains, which came in the evening after sweltering weather till late afternoon, were influenced by the depression over northwest and adjoining west central Bay of Bengal with the east west shear zone passing over the Chennai region, a Metrological official said. The pre-northeast monsoon showers lasted for over an hour.

Stalin criticises CM

DC CORRESPONDENT
CHENNAI, OCT. 22

DMK president M. K. Stalin took a swipe at Chief Minister Edappadi K. Palaniswami for offering to provide free immunization in the State once the vaccine for Covid-19 was ready, saying it was unbearable to see him posturing as a munificent lord.

Did the Chief Minister think that the vaccine was a freebie that he would give the people? Stalin asked in a tweet on Thursday, saying that it was the duty of a people's welfare government to provide medicines to the people.

The time for youth power to become a dominant force in the State was coming closer, Stalin said in a speech, saying that 'Kalignar Government' (M Karunanidhi government) would soon be formed, referring to the next Assembly elections.

Listing the various measures that M. Karunanidhi took as Chief Minister of Tamil Nadu for education and industrial growth, Stalin said the Dravidian movement came about with the idea of providing education and jobs to all, irrespective of gender. He was addressing, through a video conference, a free job fair at Sankarankoil in Tenkasi district organized by Venkateshkumar Memorial Trust when he said that the rulers at the Centre and State had failed to create jobs.

He lauded the 50 companies participating in the fair with an offer for a total of 3,000 jobs.

PMK founder Dr S Ramadoss has come up with a new demand for the setting up of welfare boards for each of 236 caste groups in the State if they have a population of over 30,000 and appoint one of the community member as its head.

Placing the demand before the State government, Ramadoss said that the Andhra Pradesh government had done that by forming 56 boards exclusively for the castes and even appointed women in 29 of the boards.

India on Thursday successfully carried out the final trial of the third-generation anti-tank guided missile "Nag", and it is ready for induction into the Indian Army. It will now undergo production and may also be deployed soon in Ladakh, that could see tank action in case of a renewed confrontation with China.

India was looking for an indigenous anti-tank missile and depended on imports, such as Israel's "Spike" anti-tank guided missiles. Nag will fulfil that need.

The DRDO said Nag's final user trial was done at 6.45 am Thursday from the Pokhran range. It said the missile was integrated with the actual warhead and a tank target was kept at a designated range. The missile hit the target accurately defeating the armour.

The missile has "fire and forget" "top attack" capabilities with passive homing guidance to defeat all main battle tanks that have composite and reactive armour.

JD(U) to focus on basic facilities

Patna, Oct. 22: The ruling JD(U) on Thursday released its manifesto for the Bihar polls, promising progressive schemes under second leg of the 'seven resolves' of good governance in the next five years if it returned to power.

Apart from outlining its future plans for the development of Bihar, Chief Minister Nitish Kumar-led party also referred to poll promises made by the rival Grand Alliance, including approving 10 lakh jobs, and sought to know from where would they manage Rs 5 lakh crore additional money that will be required for fulfilling their "lofty" announcements.

It also hit out at the Congress, an ally of the RJD in Mahagathbandhan, for announcing that it would review the prohibition laws in force in the state and mocked at it for putting photograph of Mahatma Gandhi in its manifesto but talking about ending laws against liquor consumption, which Father of the Nation always espoused.

Bihar unit president of the JD(U) Basistha Narayan Singh and its working president Ashok Chaudhary released the party manifesto for the three-phase state elections at a press conference here.

The manifesto puts a stamp to Mr Kumar's assertions that after completion of "Saat Nischay" (seven resolves) part I in his 2015-20 term, his future government would launch part II of it if voted back to power.

The first part of the seven resolves comprised seven schemes to ensure basic necessities such as supply of piped drinking water, construction of toilets and concrete drains and electricity connection to every household, which the Chief Minister has said many times have almost been achieved.

Twitter puts Leh
in China; India
warns network

New Delhi, Oct. 22: India has warned Twitter over its location setting that showed Leh in China, saying any disrespect of the country's sovereignty and integrity is totally unacceptable.

In a strongly-worded letter, Ajay Sawhney, secretary in the ministry of electronics and information technology (MeitY), asked Twitter CEO Jack Dorsey to respect the country's sensitivities, sources in the ministry said.

Twitter came under heavy criticism and faced backlash from social media users after its geotagging feature displayed "Jammu & Kashmir, People's Republic of China" in a live broadcast from Leh's Hall of Fame, a war memorial for fallen soldiers in the Union Territory of Ladakh.

This triggered angry responses from netizens who demanded that stringent action be initiated against the micro-blogging platform. Twitter, earlier this week, called it a technical issue which has been swiftly resolved.

Sources said Sawhney, in the letter sent on Wednesday, warned Twitter that any attempt to undermine the sovereignty and integrity of India will not just bring disrepute to the micro-blogging site but also raise questions about its neutrality and fairness as an intermediary.

Conveying strong disapproval of the government over misrepresentation of the map of India, Sawhney in his letter reminded Twitter that Leh is the headquarter of the Union Territory of Ladakh. And that both Ladakh as well as Jammu and Kashmir are integral and inalienable parts of India, governed by the Constitution of India. The government has asked Twitter to respect the sensitivities of Indian citizens and made it clear that any attempt by it to disrespect the sovereignty and integrity of India is totally unacceptable and unlawful. — PTI

PSU whistleblower to challenge Kerala govt

DC CORRESPONDENT
KOCHI, OCT. 22

The whistleblower in the ₹500-crore cashew import scam involving public sector Kerala State Cashew Development Corporation (KSCDC) has said he will move the High Court challenging the state government decision not to grant the investigation agency permission to prosecute the accused.

"It was shocking that the state government has denied the Central Bureau of Investigation (CBI) permission to prosecute the accused, including then KSCDC chairman R. Chandrasekharan and managing director K.A. Ratheesh," Kadakampally Manoj, who in 2015 got the Kerala High Court order a ● CHIEF MINISTER said the government denied the CBI permission to prosecute accused in the Rs 500-crore cashew import scam after it found no merit in the agency's findings.

CBI probe into the allegations of corruption in the import of cashew by KSCDC, told Deccan Chronicle on Thursday: "I have discussed the matter with my lawyer. I am trying to get the relevant documents."

Chief Minister Pinarayi Vijayan said in press conference on Thursday that the government conducted a detailed examination of the findings of the CBI and found them lacking in merit. "It's not just about one or two points," Mr

Vijayan said in Thiruvananthapuram. "All the findings lacked merit. We cannot sanction prosecution based on such a report. There is nothing to implicate the people involved as the processes were continuation of what had been going on in the company."

Mr Manoj said the CBI had completed its investigations and written to the state government in May this year seeking the permission to go ahead with the prosecution. "To the best of my understanding, the vigilance and the department of cashew has cleared the file for prosecution but the state cabinet decided otherwise," he said.

The case pertains to the import of cashew between 2005 and 2015 in which the corporation allegedly incurred a loss of over ₹1,200 crore. Two committees, headed by senior IAS officers P.H. Kurian and Dr K.M. Abraham had found serious irregularities in the functioning of the corporation, including the import deals. The committee headed by Mr Kurian had even recommended summary supersession of the board of directors headed by Mr Chandrasekharan. The High Court, before ordering a CBI petition in September 2015, had perused two reports submitted by Dr Abraham, which reportedly listed instances of corruption in the case.

Mr Manoj had moved the High Court seeking a CBI probe as the government did not allow the state Vigilance to go ahead with the investigation.

COMPLAINT AGAINST KANGANA FOR
MALIGNING JUDICIARYDC CORRESPONDENT
MUMBAI, OCT. 22

A Mumbai-based lawyer on Thursday filed a complaint against actress Kangana Ranaut for allegedly maligning judiciary in her social media posts. The lawyer approached a magistrate court in Andheri accusing Ranaut of allegedly posting a malicious tweet against the judiciary after another magistrate court in Bandra ordered the registration of an FIR against her. Following the Bandra court's order to the police to register a First Information Report against her, Ranaut posted "malicious and defamatory" tweets against the judiciary, terming it as "Papu Sena", lawyer Ali Kaashif Khan Deshmukh stated in his complaint before the Andheri court.

Deshmukh also accused Ranaut of sedition and causing disharmony between two religious groups through her tweets. The actor had "no respect for varied communities of India, law of the land and authorised government bodies" and even made fun of the judiciary, it stated. Last week, the Bandra court had ordered the police to investigate a complaint filed by one Munawwar Ali Sayyed which referred to Ranaut's and her sister Rangoli Chandel's tweets and other statements.

CBI consent withdrawn to
stop its misuse: DeshmukhSONU SHRIVASTAVA | DC
MUMBAI, OCT. 22

Maharashtra home minister Anil Deshmukh on Thursday said that 31-year-old 'general consent' given by the state to the CBI has been withdrawn so that the central agency cannot be misused for political purposes.

On Wednesday late night, his department issued a notification stating the general consent withdrew to the CBI. Maharashtra is the fourth state in the Country to withdraw the general consent to the apex agency. Meanwhile, the BJP slammed Chief Minister Uddhav Thackeray led Maha Vikas Aghadi (MVA) government for this move.

Deshmukh said that CBI should not be used to settle the political scores. "Therefore, we have come out with the order yesterday (Wednesday) for the CBI in Maharashtra. If the CBI wants to take over any case, it needs to get the prior consent from the Maharashtra government," the home minister said.

The Maharashtra government's move came close on the heels after the central agency took over a case registered by the UP Police against "unknown" channels and persons over alleged fudging of TRPs in Lucknow.

The development created apprehensions in the Maharashtra government that the CBI would take over a similar case on alleged fudging of TRPs registered in Maharashtra in a bid to move it away from the jurisdiction of Mumbai police.

Referring to the apprehension, Deshmukh said that the government wanted to avoid such a thing happening.

The home department's order said, "In exercise of the powers conferred by section 6 of the Delhi Special Police Establishment Act, 1946, the government of Maharashtra hereby withdraws the consent accorded to the Members of the Delhi Special Police Establishment vide Government Order dated 22nd February 1989."

A senior home department official said that the order does not have any impact on the previous cases.

However, the CBI now needs to take a case to case basis consent from the Maharashtra government for all cases in future.

Meanwhile, the BJP leader Kirit Somaiya said that the Congress, NCP and Shiv Sena are scared of the CBI because their scams could be exposed.

Shiv Sena spokesperson Sanjay Raut said that the CBI has a right to probe all cases of national importance. But the cases which are being probed by Mumbai police are being simultaneously transferred to the central probe agency by filing fresh FIR in a different state, which recommends CBI probe, resulting in landing of CBI in Maharashtra. "Now, we decided to not allow such things. The Mumbai police has its own rights, which are provided by the constitution of India. It should not be violated by anyone," Raut said.

Earlier, investigation into actor Sushant Singh Rajput's alleged suicide case filed by Mumbai police was transferred to the CBI after the actor's family filed abetment to suicide case in Bihar.

One possibility is the messages may have been intended to align Trump in the minds of voters with the Proud Boys after he was criticised for failing to unequivocally denounce the group during the first presidential debate. The threatening emails officials did not lay out specific evidence for how

SENATE JUDICIARY PANEL NOD TO DON NOMINEE BARRETT

Washington, Oct. 22: The Senate Judiciary Committee pushed through US President Donald Trump's conservative pick for the Supreme Court, Amy Coney Barrett, Thursday as Democrats boycotted the vote saying it was too close to the November 3 election.

The unanimous vote, with all Democrats absent, sets the stage for full Senate approval at the beginning of next week on Barrett, who will tilt the high court firmly to the right.

On Wednesday Democrats labelled the nomination process a "sham" that broke former Republican promises to never vote on a Supreme Court nominee so close to a presidential election. "My Democratic Senate colleagues and I boycotted the Supreme Court nominee committee vote today," Senator Kamala Harris, a committee member who is the Democratic nominee for vice president, said.

"Let's be clear: This nomination process is a sham and shows how Republicans will stop at nothing to strip health care from millions of Americans with pre-existing conditions," she said, referring to Republican efforts to have the Supreme Court strike down a popular national health care program.

But Republican committee chairman Lindsey Graham dismissed their action, and, taking advantage of their absence, moved up the vote by almost four hours.

"That was their choice," he said before the vote. —AFP

Oxford vaccine trial on amid participant's death

London, Oct. 22: The University of Oxford says the late-stage trial of its Covid-19 vaccine in Brazil will continue following reports of a participant's death.

The university said it can't comment on specific incidents but an independent review found no reason to be concerned about the safety of the Brazilian trial. It says an "independent review, in addition to the Brazilian regulator, have recommended that the trial should continue." The Oxford vaccine is being developed in conjunction with the international pharmaceutical company AstraZeneca. Trials are underway in the United States and the UK, as well as Brazil, to determine whether the potential vaccine is safe and effective in humans.

A team at Bristol University used recently developed techniques to validate that the vaccine accurately follows the genetic instructions programmed into it by the Oxford University team.

The experts say that the novel analysis provides even greater clarity and detail about how the vaccine successfully provokes a strong immune response. "This is an important study as we are able to confirm that the genetic instructions underpinning this vaccine, which is being developed as fast as safely possible, are correctly followed when they get into a human cell," said Dr David Matthews, Reader in Virology from Bristol's School of Cellular and Molecular Medicine (CMM), who led the research.

"Until now, the technology hasn't been able to provide answers with such clarity, but we now know the vaccine is doing everything we expected and that is only good news in our fight against the illness," he said. —PTI

EU awards HR prize to Belarus Oppn

Brussels, Oct. 22: The European Union has awarded its top human rights prize to the Belarus opposition movement and its leader, Sviatlana Tsikhanouskaya, for their challenge to President Alexander Lukashenko's long, hard-line reign.

"It is an honour to announce that the women and men of the democratic opposition in Belarus are the 2020 Sakharov Prize laureates," European Parliament president David Sassoli said. They have on their side something that brute force can never defeat: The truth. Do not give up on your fight. We are by your side."

The 27-nation bloc agreed this month to impose sanctions against officials suspected of election misconduct and a brutal security crackdown on protesters in Belarus. The EU has

H-1B speciality jobs: US against issuing biz visas

Washington, Oct. 22: The State Department has proposed not to issue temporary business visas for H-1B speciality occupations which allowed several companies to send their technology professionals for a short stay to complete jobs on site in the US, a move which could affect hundreds of Indians. The proposal, if finalised, will eliminate any misconception that the "B-1 in lieu of H policy" provides an alternative avenue for foreign professionals to enter the US to perform skilled labour that allows, and potentially even encourages them and their employers to circumvent the restrictions and requirements relating to the H non-immigrant classification established by Congress to protect the US workers, the State Department said.

The move, made public on Wednesday, less than two weeks ahead of the November 3 presidential election, is likely to impact several Indian companies which send their technology professionals on B-1 visas for a short stay to complete jobs on site in the US.

● THE MOVE, made public on Wednesday, less than two weeks ahead of the November 3 presidential election, is likely to impact several Indian companies which send their technology professionals on B-1 visas for a short stay to complete jobs on site in the US.

On December 17, 2019, the Attorney General of California announced a $800,000 settlement against Infosys Limited to resolve allegations that approximately 500 Infosys employees worked in the state on Infosys-sponsored B-1 visas rather than H-1B visas, the State Department said. "The proposed changes and the resulting transparency would reduce the impact of foreign labour on the US workforce of aliens performing activities in a specialty occupation without the procedural protections attendant to the H-1B classification," it said.

In its federal notification issued on Wednesday, the State Department said the US architecture firm seeking protection from rising labour costs in the country might believe it could lay off its US architects and contract for the same professional architectural services to be provided by a foreign architecture firm. If the foreign firm sought H-1B visas for its architects, it would be required to pay the prevailing wage for architects in the area of intended employment in the United States, presumably the same wage the US architects had been paid, and meet the other requirements enacted by the Congress to protect US workers.

But under the B-1 in lieu of H policy, the foreign architects could ostensibly seek B-1 visas and travel to the US to fill a temporary need for architecture services, as long as they retained a residence in the foreign country and continued to receive a salary, perhaps significantly lower than what is customary for US architects, dispersed abroad by the foreign firm (or under the auspices of a foreign parent or subsidiary), the State Department said. —PTI

Deport Nawaz: Pakistan requests UK third time

Islamabad, Oct. 22: Pakistan has requested the UK for a third time to deport former prime minister Nawaz Sharif from London to serve his prison term in the country after being sentenced in corruption cases, according to a media report on Thursday. Sharif, the 70-year-old supremo of the Pakistan Muslim League (Nawaz) who was ousted from power in 2017 by the Supreme Court on corruption charges, is in London for medical treatment.

A letter for the deportation of the three-time prime minister was handed over personally to the British High Commissioner here some three weeks ago, Dawn newspaper reported.

Through the letter, the Pakistani government asked the British authorities to consider cancelling Sharif's visit visa, which has allowed him to live in London on medical grounds since November. The letter has cited Britain's own immigration laws of 1974 under which any person sentenced to imprisonment of more than four years had to be deported to the country of his/her origin. When contacted, Shahzad Akbar, Adviser to Prime Minister Imran Khan on Accountability and Interior confirmed that the government has made three requests to the UK authorities to deport Sharif, with the last being on October 5.

The previous letter, he said, had been dispatched after the cancellation of Sharif's bail by the Islamabad High Court last month. —PTI

Withdraw from UN N-ban treaty: US to countries

United Nations, Oct. 22: The United States is urging countries that have ratified a UN treaty to ban nuclear weapons to withdraw their support as the pact nears the 50 ratifications needed to trigger its entry into force, which supporters say could happen this week. The US letter to signatories, obtained by The Associated Press, says the five original nuclear powers — the US, Russia, China, Britain and France — and America's NATO allies "stand unified in our opposition to the potential repercussions" of the treaty.

It says the treaty "turns back the clock on verification and disarmament and is dangerous" to the half-century-old Nuclear Nonproliferation Treaty, considered the cornerstone of global nonproliferation efforts. "Although we recognize your sovereign right to ratify or accede to the Treaty on the Prohibition of Nuclear Weapons (TPNW), we believe that you have made a strategic error and should withdraw your instrument of ratification or accession," the letter says.

The treaty requires that all ratifying countries

"never under any circumstances ... develop, test, produce, manufacture, otherwise acquire, possess or stockpile nuclear weapons or other nuclear explosive devices."

It also bans any transfer or use of nuclear weapons or nuclear explosive devices — and the threat to use such weapons — and requires parties to promote the treaty to other countries. Beatrice Fihn, executive director of the International Campaign to Abolish Nuclear Weapons, the 2017 Nobel Peace Prize-winning coalition whose work helped spearhead the nuclear ban treaty, said Tuesday that several diplomatic sources confirmed that they and other states that ratified the TPNW had been sent letters by the US requesting their withdrawal. She said the "increasing nervousness, and maybe straightforward panic, with some of the nuclear-armed states and particularly the Trump administration" shows that they "really seem to understand that this is a reality: Nuclear weapons are going to be banned under international law soon." —AP

U.S. TROOPS IN AFGHANISTAN RETURNING: DON

Washington, Oct. 22: The US has had enough of 19 years in Afghanistan, President Donald Trump has said, reiterating that American troops, who are the greatest soldiers in the world but acting as a "police force" in the strife-torn country, are returning.

Trump has repeatedly said that he would bring home all the US troops from "endless wars". It was also one of the promises he made during his 2016 Presidential campaign. Last month, he said that the United States will reduce the number of its troops in Afghanistan to 4,000 in a very short period of time. "We never had anything like it — and sacrificing American blood and treasure in endless foreign wars in countries that you've never even heard of. And they're all coming back. You know that, right? I hope nobody objects," Trump told his supporters on Wednesday at an election rally in Gastonia, in the battleground state of North Carolina.

"I think 19 years in Afghanistan is enough, wouldn't you say? We're like a police force over there. We have the greatest soldiers in the world, but over there we're like a police force. 19 years is enough," he said. "You think it's easy getting out with all the military-industrial complex, right? The military — beware the military-industrial complex. They are right but we are all coming home. —PTI

Bihar: Lalu son handful, but contest is wide open

Assembly polls in any state are consequential in the larger framework of our democracy, and in the case of Bihar they give us a feel of the political currents in the Hindi heartland which, historically, has had a particular salience in shaping the politics of the country.

The three-stage state election in Bihar kicks off on October 28 and the result will be known on November 10, but so close to voting day it is not quite clear which way the wind is blowing. In the ordinary course, the outright win of the JD(U)-BJP alliance that chief minister Nitish Kumar leads might have been taken for granted since there are no known stars in the fray on the opposite side. This is indeed what media reporting and anecdotal evidence initially appeared to suggest.

But with the campaign picking up, the turbulence in the waters of the Ganga, Kosi, Gandak and the Son are becoming more evident.

In the normal course, the fortunes of the CM, who has been in office for three consecutive terms, may have been the focal point of interest. But this time around there is a related issue that will be keenly watched, namely the trajectory of the BJP. But for a short break between 2015-17, Mr Kumar has been a steady ally of the BJP, helping the saffron party to consolidate its hold in the Gangetic plain. But there are signs that the BJP may have its own CM in the state. Like in neighbouring UP, where BJP by turns partnered the SP and the BSP before it raised its sights to include the CM's chair, in Bihar too the BJP may be getting ready to quit being bridesmaid. Chirag Paswan, the young, inexperienced, LJP leader, was thought to be its pawn in this venture.

But there could be trouble ahead. If LJP cuts into JD(U) votes in any substantial way, its game may end up helping the RJD-Congress-Left Mahagathbandhan (Grand Alliance) pose an even bigger challenge to the JD(U)-BJP alliance, with JD(U) weakened on account of Mr Paswan's effort. Thus, the game that BJP-LJP is accused of launching may just turn out to be a double-edged sword.

Lalu Yadav's young son Tejashwi, who had been written off as a factor since his father is still languishing in jail and is not available to campaign, is actually turning out to be quite a handful with his promise of 10 lakh jobs the minute he takes office. The unemployment issue is serious all over India but has a special resonance in Bihar since the state saw the largest number of very poor returnees from the big cities in the wake of the coronavirus-related lockdown. In contrast, the CM's campaign is lacklustre, still harping on issues of a decade ago. The NDA is hoping that Prime Minister Narendra Modi will electrify the mood for the incumbents. If Mr Kumar beats the odds, he could remain CM even if the BJP does well. If he slips, and the BJP doesn't have a clear majority on its own (an unlikely scenario), the BJP may be pushed to scout for post-poll friends. That could muddy the waters.

Can America rein in Google?

The tech titan Google is facing an anti-trust suit filed by the US Justice Department accusing it of maintaining an illegal monopoly over Internet search and search advertising. This is the most significant step in years in which a backlash has been gaining strength, first in Europe and now in US, against the big four of the new economy — Google, Apple, Facebook and Amazon. Spurred on by a collection of lawyers, economists and activists, governments have been pushed into questioning them for their monopolistic business practices. The big question to be answered now is whether Google has become far too successful for the good of technology and the free market that created such behemoths.

The tech battle isn't new. More than two decades ago, Microsoft was in the crosshairs for perversely abusing its domination of personal computer software. The seminar tech giant escaped any great fetters on its operations even as the tech world evolved with alternatives including Apple's operating system. Like Big Pharma and Big Oil, Big Tech had made its own rules for decades in attaining its Unicorn status. It bought out budding competitors or simply trampled upon them by virtue of deep pockets created by market capitalisation of more than trillion dollars and billions of reserve cash, some owed to miserly but clever tax non-compliance practices across nations.

Microsoft wriggled out of its existential crisis of 1998 and rebuilt. Google, with its virtual search engine monopoly, its most popular web browser Chrome, its Android technology and its unique business model in which the user does not have to pay a cent to access its search engine will doubtless employ the best legal brains to stretch out this battle against the Justice Department in years to come. The larger issue is should monopolies be broken up in countries that swear by free markets and capitalism in the fond hope of creating a democratic level playing field for all. Do regulators know enough on how technology works to write new regulations to rein in Google with its 2019 revenue of $161 billion?

Hindutva a stumbling block for BJP in Bihar

Parsa Venkateshwar Rao Jr

In 2015, flush with the dramatic victory in the 2014 Lok Sabha election, Prime Minister Narendra Modi and then BJP president Amit Shah hoped to sweep the Assembly elections in Bihar, the other major Hindi-belt state in northern India. The first is of course Uttar Pradesh, the so-called cockpit of Indian politics, and in UP the BJP's calling card was Hindutva. Mr Shah thundered that if the BJP were defeated, crackers would be burst in Pakistan. And Mr Modi announced a huge financial package from the Central government in the loudest of tones. But Nitish Kumar's Janata Dal (United) and Lalu Prasad Yadav's Rashtriya Janata Dal (RJD), along with the Congress, scored an impressive victory. The Modi magic did not work. The BJP's defeat was also a rejection of Mr Modi at a time when it seemed that he was riding the crest of popularity, with an overwhelming victory in neighbouring UP in the 2014 general election. The victory of the Nitish-Lalu duo was interpreted as the unbeatable caste combine of all backward castes and the significant Muslim minority in the state.

Nitish Kumar was not really the lily-white "secularist" that he projected himself to be because he was in alliance with the BJP in the 2005 and 2010 Assembly elections in the state, and the BJP's saffron hue was as prominent then as it ever was. His disapproval of Mr Modi's saffronism did not carry much conviction. But after the 2015 Assembly poll victory, Nitish Kumar could not bear with the aggressive pressure tactics and intrusion of the impetuous and young Tejashwi Yadav, who was the deputy chief minister. And with a little help from Bihar BJP leader Sushil Kumar Modi, who conjured up a "crime", which is what the BJP has always been good at, Mr Kumar slipped out of the strangling grip of Lalu Yadav's family. And he was back with his old mate, the BJP, in 2017.

The present speculation about the outcome in the Bihar Assembly elections flows from the developments of 2015 and 2017. It is being argued that this is Nitish Kumar's "last stand", and the BJP is preparing to push him off the stage once the election is won because Mr Modi and Mr Shah have not forgiven Nitish Kumar's "betrayal"! There are of course serious flaws in the assumptions of the analysts, if not that of the BJP leaders themselves. The BJP is a second party in Bihar. It cannot hope to become the party of first choice. The BJP's hopes lie in the fact that after two decades of being the second party in Maharashtra, the BJP moved to the first position, edging out the Shiv Sena. But then the Shiv Sena chose to walk out of the alliance, and the BJP's lead position in Maharashtra came to nought.

It is keeping in mind the Maharashtra experience that Mr Shah, the BJP's spokesperson though he is not the president of the party any more, declared quite early that Nitish Kumar would be the chief ministerial candidate of the National Democratic Alliance (NDA), comprising the JD(U), BJP and Lok Janshakti Party (LJP) of the late Ram Vilas Paswan. More than the Machiavellian plot to avenge Nitish Kumar, the BJP leaders are reconciled to the fact that they cannot win without the JD(U). There is the plausible argument that Nitish Kumar and the JD(U) are in the same position as the BJP, and that Nitish Kumar can never hope to win an Assembly majority without the BJP.

There is the fact that Nitish Kumar is the last of the "big" leaders in the BJP camp, and he along with Lalu Prasad Yadav and Ram Vilas Paswan had been Bihar's political heroes. It is now time for a generational change. There is no leader in the JD(U) who can take Nitish Kumar's place. The BJP in Bihar does not have either first-rung or second-rung leaders, though there has been speculation that Union minister for law and justice, information technology and communications Ravi Shankar Prasad is a potential chief minister waiting in the wings. But he does not enjoy the same popular base that Nitish or Lalu do, and Paswan did in his own small limited way, and all of them had emerged from the Jayaprakash Narayan students' movement of the 1970s. It is too early to speculate whether Tejashwi Yadav will be the Gen Next leader of Bihar. Bihar's politics seems to be at the end of its political tether, though anti-BJP partisans would like to place their bets on Tejashwi Yadav and the RJD. The political formations as they exist now are caged in their caste grooves. No party can command the approval of the people across the caste barriers.

There is a political vacuum in Bihar, and there is room for some of the existing players to grab the opportunity and fill it up. The BJP could have done it, but it has shown that it is not confident about its ability to make it on its own. The deference shown by the BJP to Nitish Kumar is not pure goodwill. The diffidence of the BJP in Bihar perhaps could be traced back to then chief minister Lalu Yadav's assertive act of stopping Lal Krishna Advani from going to Ayodhya on his infamous "rath-yatra" in late 1990. It was a figurative act, and the BJP seems to have been stuck at the Bihar barricade. The Hindutva card has no resonance in Bihar and Mr Shah and Mr Modi are acutely aware of it. The poll surveys show that Mr Modi enjoys high popularity ratings, but they do not seem to be sufficient for the BJP to dare to go on its own in the state.

Two of the influential Hindi states are stuck in a past which they are not able to free themselves from, Bihar more so than even UP. The people in the state are hugely political, but they are not able to forge their political destiny. This election is much more than the victory or defeat of the major players in the fray. It is Bihar standing on the edge of an uncharted future.

PUNISH THE CULPRITS

Apropos your editorial 'Rap-ist' trolls: Shame them (Oct. 22). Of late cybercrimes have been making news. While actor Vijay Sethupathi's daughter was sent a rape threat, a few days ago cricketer MS Dhoni's daughter also had received the same. This seems to be the most disgusting example of how social media platforms are being misused. Most of them who are involved in such cheap standards range in their teens and it is a serious issue which needs to be dealt with and appropriate punishment given. Security measures to prevent and protect anyone from these malicious attacks should be tightened up through cyber-security strategy. The bitter truth is that these teenagers are apparently going to be the future of the nation and one can wonder where the country seems to be heading shortly.

FAUX PAS

IT IS utter atrocious on the part of the Centre to release a whopping sum of ₹3,737crore to its over 30 lakh employees citing it would encourage them to buy things for the upcoming Deepavali and other festivals, hoping it would revive India's slumped economy, even as millions of guest workers, and those who work in private sectors have lost their livelihood owing to the advent of Covid-19. It is a million-dollar query as to how the government could defenestrate the destitute just to appease the government employees totally oblivious of the fact that it is the poor who constitute majority of vote bank. Come what may, the allocated fund should be doled out for the poorest of the poor and that is where social justice lies.

BIHAR POLLS

TEJASWI YADAV has created a stir in election bound Bihar, by drawing very huge crowds. The Bihar election is by itself unique, apart from its singularity of caste centric politics, as it comes in the wake of near claustrophobia brought on by the Covid. The huge crowd in Tejaswi's rally could as much be about seeking a change in the political makeup as it could be a celebration of people of relief from prolonged social isolation. That said, the dynastic tradition does not fade easily. Chirag Paswan may well retain the pocket borough seats of his late father. In Tamil Nadu, Stalin of DMK is better placed as the inheritor to late Karunanidhi. Tejaswi has both, ennuoi out of incumbency for change and dynastic pull. The Bihar election is different.

Only Walter Mitty can dream Afghan troop withdrawal before US election

It always seemed an exaggeration that a dramatic announcement from Doha on the eve of the American elections on troop withdrawals would cause American voters to march to the polling booths doubly enthused to re-elect President Donald Trump. US chief negotiator Zalmay Khalilzad does not in the slightest resemble James Thurber's notorious daydreamer Walter Mitty to push for unrealistic deadlines. He is an eager beaver, but not desperately unrealistic.

When President Barack Obama had set firm deadlines for withdrawal, I made an extensive survey of the country for the Observer Research Foundation. I had concluded that the US is "not leaving Afghanistan today; it is not leaving it tomorrow". A superpower enters a major theatre with one set of interests but, over a period of time, develops multiple compelling interests.

Withdrawing empty-handed would be an admission of defeat. Since this is not on the cards, the only conclusion one can draw is that a plan for the future is not being disclosed for now.

The US involvement in Afghanistan has been a great tragedy, but its frequent false starts in a rush to the exit door and announce withdrawal is material for a spoof by someone like Michael Moore. Take, for instance, the peace agreement the US signed with the Afghan Taliban on February 29 in Doha. So eager was US negotiator Zalmay Khalilzad to flourish a peace agreement just when the election campaign in the US was picking up that he would have inserted into the agreement anything that the Taliban wished. Read the title headline of that agreement — it is patently absurd: "Agreement for bringing Peace to Afghanistan between the Islamic Emirate of Afghanistan (which is not recognised by the United States as a state, and is known as the Taliban) and the United States of America."

The fragility of the agreement is transparent in the pulls and counter pulls that had obviously gone into the headline. There is an unbridgeable distance on Afghan President Ashraf Ghani's role, for instance. The Taliban will not talk to Mr Ghani, whom they describe quite brazenly as a US "toady".

Mr Ghani deludes himself if he imagines he is being "firm". He is coming across to the world at large as a leader with a very thick skin. New Delhi wishes to keep up appearances. In the trapeze act, South Block does not wish to be seen loosening the clasp of Mr Ghani's hand midair. The zero-sum game with Pakistan may operate as a factor but, in deference to realism, not a defining one.

One of the advantages the US extracts from being a superpower is to keep making mistakes almost wilfully without any fear of being called to account. It is almost a forgotten story that in December 2001 that Nato, helped by Russia, Iran, India and the Northern Alliance based in the Panjsher Valley defeated Taliban and Al Qaeda. Panjsher was also the operational headquarters for Tajik hero Ahmad Shah Masoud. So strong was Masoud's opposition to the Taliban and Al Qaeda that he travelled extensively to acquaint various international bodies of the danger that Al Qaeda and the Taliban posed to Afghanistan. His summer 2001 address to the European Parliament, months before 9/11, was historic by any yardstick. The complete silence on this Masoud speech is surprising. His forces had picked up chatter about a possible Al Qaeda action in the US mainland. He was speaking in Brussels. On September 9, precisely two days before September 11 (9/11), two Arabs disguised as journalists visited him in his hideout near the Tajik border for an interview. Their passports, it was revealed much later, had been forged in Brussels. These "journalists", while saying goodbye to Masoud, detonated their vests. All three died instantly. Two days later, the Twin Towers came down in New York. Is there nothing here that deserves investigation?

Maybe not before the November 3 US election, but is the curtain is about to be brought down on US involvement? Whether Mr Trump or Joe Biden wins, China, Russia, Iran are likely to remain America's principal adversarial concerns. And Afghanistan is a supreme vantage point from where to needle them.

A little over a year ago, just when US military involvement in Syria was winding down, one common chatter was about Jabhat al Nusra and its variants being flown to newer theatres of action. Russia's deputy foreign minister Morgulov Igor Vladimirovich told a high-powered conference in New Delhi, with Zalmay Khalilzad in attendance, that militants were being flown from Syria to northern Afghanistan. "Only the Afghan government and the US controls the Afghan airspace." The blame cannot be placed at any other door. Mr Khalilzad mounted a token protest, but nothing more.

The following Friday, Iran's supreme leader Ayatollah Ali Khamenei was more specific: Daesh groups were being flown to Afghanistan. The distinguished chronicler of the West Asian scene, Robert Fisk of London's Independent, made similar allegations. The allegation fitted neatly into the thesis that militants, trained to kill, cannot be sent to the slaughterhouse. They have to be deployed in other theatres where they are proximate to the Muslim population into which militancy has to be injected to stir up the Islamic cauldron — Xinjiang, the Caucasus and a handful of Sunni enclaves in Iran. Now comes the news that fighters from Idlib are being flown to Nagorno Karabakh.

New Delhi: The 2020 World Junior Badminton Championship, which was postponed to be held in New Zealand in January, was on Thursday cancelled in wake of Covid-19 pandemic. The competition was originally planned for September-October but was pushed to January amid the raging pandemic.

"...the entry restrictions in place and complexities related to the Covid-19 situation makes it impossible for the event to be planned and therefore hosted in New Zealand in January 2021 as currently scheduled," said Badminton World Federation (BWF) Secretary General Thomas Lund. However, Badminton New Zealand are still committed to hosting the BWF World Junior Championships and the BWF has accepted a proposal for them to stage the 2024 edition as a replacement for the edition lost. — PTI

Sao Paulo: Brazilian football great Pele turns 80 on Friday, but the celebration will have to wait. The three-time World Cup winner will spend the day isolated with a few family members outside Sao Paulo, where he is expected to receive a flood of tributes from players, fans, celebrities and politicians. His long-time spokesman, Pepito Fornos, said Pele will likely spend his birthday at his mansion in the beachfront city of Guarujá, on the coast of Sao Paulo state, where he has been since the beginning of the Covid-19 pandemic. He also has residences in Santos and Sao Paulo. He will only stay with his family. ## Holder, Pandey script warm win against Royals

Dubai, Oct. 22: Sunrisers Hyderabad defeated Rajasthan Royals by eight wickets in their Indian Premier League match here on Thursday.

Sent into bat, Rajasthan Royals scored 154 for 6 in the allotted 20 overs. In reply, SRH chased down the target with 11 balls overs to spare at the Dubai International Cricket Stadium.

Manish Pandey top-scored for the winners with an unbeaten 83 off 47 balls while Jason Holder was the most impressive bowler with excellent figures of 3/33 in four overs.

Sunrisers opted to bowl after winning the toss at the Dubai International Stadium.

Playing his first match of the tournament, Holder came up with an impressive bowling effort while also affecting a run out to destabilise the RR innings. Rashid Khan (1/20) and Vijay Shankar (1/15) picked a wicket each.

For RR, Sanju Samson (36 off 26 balls) was the top scorer. Put in to bat, Robin Uthappa looked in rampaging form, hitting the first four and six of the innings. He quickly raced to 19 off 13 balls.

However, his time in the middle was short lived. After Ben Stokes (32) hit Holder for back-to-back boundaries in the fourth over, the West Indies skipper effected Uthappa's run out as the Indian was late to turn back at the non-striker's end. — PTI

McCULLUM NOT HAPPY WITH KKR APPROACH

Abu Dhabi, Oct. 22: Disappointed with his team's "timid approach" with the bat, Kolkata Knight Riders head coach Brendon McCullum has admitted that the crushing defeat against Royal Challengers Bangalore would definitely affect the morale of the side, but their destiny is still in their hands.

He believes KKR can go all the way to the final, despite just hanging on to the fourth spot.

McCullum admitted that they were not good enough and lacked intent in the lop-sided contest against RCB.

"This (loss) is going to affect a little bit in terms of our confidence. We need to work hard on ensuring our morale doesn't drop at the same time having those honest conversations around how we improve," McCullum said. — PTI

Virat handing me new ball boosted confidence: Siraj

Abu Dhabi, Oct. 22: Royal Challengers Bangalore pacer Mohammed Siraj, who ripped through Kolkata Knight Riders' top-order with a "magical performance", said skipper Virat Kohli's surprise decision to hand him the new ball lifted his confidence in the IPL match here.

Siraj's first three wickets came without conceding a run as he became the first bowler in IPL history to bowl two maidens in a single game. RCB restricted KKR to a paltry 84/8 and chased down the target in 13.3 overs.

Once Chris Morris generated swing early on, Siraj was asked to bowl the second over following a discussion with wicket-keeper AB de Villiers.

"We hadn't planned that I would open but when we went out, Virat bhai said 'Miyen, ready ho jao (Sir, get ready!),' you will have to bowl..." It boosted my confidence," the Hyderabad pacer said.

"Initially, I didn't think it would swing so much after seeing the wicket. I just backed my strength and really enjoyed a lot," he added.

Brought in the second over, Siraj struck in his third ball with a good length ball that went away of Rahul Tripathi.

In his next delivery, he cleaned up Nitish Rana and in the next over, he accounted for Tom Banton with another outswinging delivery.

His bowling figures became the most economical this season.

'SLOW WICKET ALLOWS ME TO ATTACK MORE'

Sharjah, Oct. 22: MI leg-spinner Rahul Chahar on Thursday said the pitches getting gradually slower in the UAE and bigger grounds than India has allowed him to attack the batsmen consistently in the IPL.

Chahar has taken 11 wickets in nine games with a decent economy rate of 7.40.

Asked to compare between the pitches here and the Wankhede in Mumbai, Chahar said, "In the starting matches, we felt that the wickets (here) were similar to the Wankhede stadium easy for batsmen."

"Like at Wankhede a spinner had to bowl on a shorter side, like five meter length, but here we are bowling fuller, because the grounds are big and pitches are slightly slow, we can bowl fuller, and can attack batsmen," added Chahar. — PTI

CSK up against formidable MI

Sharjah, Oct. 22: Their campaign turning from bad to worse, CSK are expected to try out a few of their younger players when they take on defending champions MI in an IPL match here on Friday.

Though skipper M. S. Dhoni conceded after the loss against RR that the season might be already over them, CSK can still get to 14 points if they win their remaining four games, giving them an outside chance of making the play-offs.

Things have gone pear-shaped for CSK since their win over MI in the tournament opener on November 19.

The team received a hammering at the hands of RR and would be without the services of the injured Dwayne Bravo, who is out of the tournament.

Dhoni himself has not been at his best along with the others barring Faf du Plessis.

However, they would be up against a formidable MI side which won five games in a row before KXIP halted the juggernaut, turning the tables in a double Super Over on Sunday night.

The four-time IPL champions have been in ominous form and the varied bowling attack could prove a challenge for the CSK batters, who are low on confidence.

Also, the MI batting line-up has been in good nick

INDIAN TEAM ALLOWED TO TRAIN IN QUARANTINE

Sydney, Oct. 22: Sydney and Canberra are set to host the white-ball leg of India's tour of Australia after the New South Wales government allowed the visiting team to train during its mandatory quarantine upon arrival.

ESPNCricinfo on Thursday reported that New South Wales government and Cricket Australia have struck a deal to allow Indian and Australian players returning from IPL to train in Sydney while quarantining.

The Indian team was initially supposed to land in Brisbane but the Queensland state health authorities did not relax their 14-day quarantine rule to allow Virat Kohli and Co to train during that period.

India are scheduled to play three T20s, three ODIs and four Tests in Australia. The first two ODIs are set to be held on November 27 and 29 at the Sydney Cricket Ground before final game of the series in Canberra's Manuka Oval. The first T20 will also be played in Canberra.

The pink-ball Test will be at Adelaide from December 17 to 21. The Boxing Day Test from December 26 could also be held in Adelaide if the Covid-19 situation in Melbourne doesn't allow the authorities to host the game at the iconic MCG. — PTI

ICC mulls splitting points for WTC

Dubai, Oct. 22: Aiming to complete the World Test Championship cycle and host the final in June as per schedule, the ICC is contemplating splitting points for all those WTC bilateral series that had to be postponed due to the Covid-19 pandemic.

The matter is likely to come up for discussion at its Cricket Committee meeting next month, ESPNCricinfo has reported.

According to the website, while one of the options is splitting points, the other feasible option could be considering the points for only those matches that will actually be played by the end of March, 2021.

Based on those matches till March, the final positions on the points table could be computed based on the percentage of points the teams have won from the matches that they've contested.

Reds pip Ajax, City win big

Paris, Oct. 22: Bayern Munich began their defence of the Champions League title in ominous fashion by crushing Atletico Madrid 4-0 on Wednesday, while Liverpool and Manchester City also won but Real Madrid suffered a shock defeat.

Liverpool shook off the absence of Virgil van Dijk to edge Ajax 1-0 behind closed doors in Amsterdam in Group 'D'.

Van Dijk is set to miss the rest of the season with a knee injury but Jurgen Klopp's side kept a clean sheet and took all three points after Nicolas Tagliafico turned a wayward Sadio Mane shot into his own net on 35 minutes. Madrid, the record 13-time European champions, went down to a 3-2 home loss against Shakhtar Donetsk.

Two months after scoring the winner in the final against Paris Saint-Germain in Lisbon, Kingsley Coman put Bayern ahead against Atletico in Group A and later scored a stunning individual effort to wrap up the victory at an empty Allianz Arena.

In between Leon Goretzka and Corentin Tolisso were also on target for the German champions, with the latter's strike a stunner from long-range.

Meanwhile, Real were 3-0 down at half-time against Shakhtar at the Alfredo di Stefano stadium and fell short with a second-half fightback to get their European campaign off to a disastrous start.
