PM PUSHES FOR MODERNISING AGRICULTURE

DC CORRESPONDENT
NEW DELHI, MARCH 28

Facing stiff resistance from farmers in some of the northern Indian states on the three farm laws, Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Sunday said that "modernisation in the field of Indian agriculture is the need of the hour" as "we have already lost a lot of time".

Addressing the nation in his monthly "Mann Ki Baat" address, which was its 75th episode, the Prime Minister added that "adopting new alternatives, new innovations, along with traditional farming, are equally important to create new opportunities for employment in the agriculture sector; to increase the income of farmers".

PM Modi also hailed the world's largest vaccination programme being carried out in India against the Covid-19 and stressed on "dawai bhi, kadai bhi" (medicines as well as strict preventive measures). "Modernisation is essential in all fields of life, otherwise it becomes a burden at times. Modernisation in the field of agriculture is the need of the hour. It is already late and we have already lost a lot of time. To create new jobs in the agriculture sector, to increase the income of farmers, it is equally important to adopt new alternatives and innovations, along with traditional farming practices. The country has experienced it during the white revolution," he said.

KURNOOL, MARCH 28

To celebrate the inaugural flight arriving amid much ceremony at the Uyyalawada Narasimha Reddy Kurnool airport, finance minister Buggana Rajendranath Reddy said that south India's biggest industrial park will come up around the facility at a cost of ₹800 crore.

About 7,000 acres of land has been acquired for the purpose, he pointed out adding that this will transform the region's economy.

Speaking to Deccan Chronicle, the minister said that the airport runway would be increased in the next phase. The operational runway length at present is 2,000 metres. There is in-principle approval for 3,100 metres, which can be extended on the western side, he said.

"I am excited to see the airport buzzing with passengers and aircraft. I am sure that this will become one of the busiest airports in the days ahead," the minister said.

There was a festive atmosphere at the airport on Sunday when the first flight arrived from Bengaluru carrying 52 passengers. A ceremonial water cannon salute was given to the IndiGo flight after it landed.

Among the first passengers to disembark was Hindupur MP Gorantla Madhav.

The passengers were welcomed by Rajendranath Reddy, labour minister Gummanur Jayaram, Nandyal MP Pocha Bramananda Reddy.

Rajendranath Reddy said that the proposal for establishing an airport at Kurnool was made even before it became the capital of the undivided Andhra Pradesh between 1953 and 1956. It took 60 long years to realise this dream, he said.

Reddy said that another 2,000 acres of land is being acquired for the proposed industrial park.

On the issue of the judicial capital, he said that

GANGAVARAM | PORT Adani group yet to approach state government

Focus shifts to AP's 10% stake

N. VAMSI SRINIVAS | DC
HYDERABAD, MARCH 28

All eyes are on AP government's 10.4 per cent equity in Gangavaram port which has recently been acquired by the Adani group.

Though the Adani group has so far not approached the state government, whose approval for change of ownership is mandatory, it informed the Bombay Stock Exchange about acquiring the original promoter D.V.S Raju's share of 58.1 per cent along with 31.5 per cent held by Warburg Pincus. The remaining 10.4 per cent is owned by AP government.

While it is widely discussed in business circles that the original promoters eyed a higher valuation but ended up selling the stake as decided by the Adanis, AP's share, as per the valuation arrived at now, is worth ₹645 crore at ₹120 per share. The state's equity is drawing attention as the government is reeling under severe financial stress and there has been a series of acquisition of ports, both existing and proposed, by the Adani and Aurobindo groups in AP.

According to sources, the state government was paid a dividend of about ₹50 crore and ₹25 crore towards the 2 per cent share in gross revenue in the last financial year and the amount is likely to go up this fiscal. "The higher valuation expected by the original promoters is justified because the margin is 59 per cent and profit after tax is ₹516 crore of the gross revenue of ₹1,082 crore in FY20," sources pointed out.

TD WANTS YSRC MINISTER TO TAKE BACK WORDS

DC CORRESPONDENT
VIJAYAWADA, MARCH 28

Telugu Desam MLA Anagani Satya Prasad on Sunday vehemently objected to YSRC minister Ch. Sri Ranganatha Raju's comment that paddy cultivation has become a lazy profession with farmers growing this crop without performing any hard work.

The TD legislator demanded that the minister not only take back his comments but tender an unconditional apology to farmers as a whole. "It is shameless of Ranganatha Raju to say paddy cultivation is a profession of lazy fellows," Satya Prasad remarked.

He advised YSRC leaders to stop making such comments when farmers are toiling hard in farms to produce food for others. Instead of appreciating them, "corrupt and unscrupulous" are passing insulting comments against farmers and others, he said.

Telugu Desam MLA accused Jagan Mohan Reddy regime of betraying farmers in the name of Rythu Bharosa. He wanted to know from YSRC ministers why the state government is unable to ensure remunerative prices for farmers, which has led to over 760 of them committing suicide in the past 22 months. The legislator pointed out that farmers are taking the extreme step as their debts are mounting in absence of any support from ruling YSRC.

Satya Prasad asserted that TD will launch a massive agitation if YSRC government dares to fix meters on agricultural pump sets.

GOV APPROVES AP BUDGET ORDINANCE

DC CORRESPONDENT
VIJAYAWADA, MARCH 28

Governor Biswabhusan Harichandan on Sunday approved Andhra Pradesh Vote-on-Account Budget Ordinance.

The ordinance okays a total expenditure of ₹86,000 crore over a period of three months. An amount of ₹86,000 crore has been approved for the first three months of this financial year; that is, till the end of June.

The state government had earlier planned to hold budget session of the AP Legislative Assembly to okay the vote on account. But the session had to be postponed because of gram panchayat and municipal elections in the state. The government has thus taken the ordinance route for the vote on account, which has now received the Governor's approval.

The ordinance became mandatory for the new financial year, as the state government has to pay salaries, pensions and make other payments.

New agri laws haven't impacted AP farming

Farmers fear laws could dismantle support price system

MD ILYAS | DC
VIJAYAWADA, MARCH 28

Though the farming community of Andhra Pradesh is worried over the three new agriculture laws passed by the centre, these have not impacted the ongoing agricultural season in AP compared to northern states.

This is mainly because farmers of northern states are more dependent on government procurements within agriculture markets at minimum statutory prices (MSPs). The situation is different in AP where farmers sell their produce as needed in open markets, without depending on government procurement and MSPs.

Farmers' Produce Trade and Commerce (Promotion and Facilitation) Act, 2020, Farmers (Empowerment and Protection) Agreement on Price Assurance and Farm Services Act, 2020 and Essential Commodities (Amendment) Act, 2020 are the three laws that have created worries within the farming community.

Though the AP farming community is habituated to open market system, it is now worried about the impact these three central laws may have on AP in the long run.

The state's farmers are currently growing mixed crops over 59.06 lakh acres, including paddy, Bengal gram, black gram, green gram, jowar, maize, tobacco, chillies, groundnut, pluses, sunflower, sesamum, onion, bajra, ragi and minor millets. Thus, AP's crop pattern is quite different from northern states, where majority farmers are preoccupied with cultivating wheat and paddy.

Farmers P. Naresh and D. Kondal Reddy say multi-cropping system helps Andhra farmers sell their produces in local markets without depending on government procurements. Further, Rythu Bharosa and other welfare schemes aid farmers in marketing their crops within the state.

However, Naresh and Kondal Reddy do fear that the central laws could dismantle the minimum support price system, which can allow private corporations to exploit farmers in the long run within AP.

The two farmers are keen that the laws are rolled back as otherwise agriculture trade and commerce will get controlled by corporate companies whose motive will be profit at any cost.

CPM leader Ch. Babu Rao, who has led various farmers' protests, pointed out that 80 percent of agricultural lands in AP are cultivated by tenant farmers, as landowners are more interest in other lucrative businesses.

But in northern states, landowners are themselves cultivators and depend on government procurement and minimum support price.

The CPM leader pointed out since the past few months, farmers of Andhra Pradesh too have started protests, after realising that the three new agriculture laws will turn into a big hurdle for their livelihood in the future.

High port fee may hit export of rice

DC CORRESPONDENT
KAKINADA, MARCH 28

Exporters expect that nearly 370 lakh metric tonnes of rice will be exported in the coming financial year 2021-22 out of which 35 lakh to 40 lakh metric tonnes will be from Kakinada if there are relaxations in the ocean freight charges which were hiked recently.

Exporters expect a bumper paddy crop from Telangana state, Odisha, Chhattisgarh and Andhra Pradesh during the Rabi season and are engaged placing purchase orders from millers.

But, there was a setback as ocean freight charges were hiked abnormally. Besides, the trade is suffering from a scarcity of containers, sources said.

The freight charges have been escalated from $45 to $94 per MT and the shipping trade said that it will hamper rice exports. According to sources, the charge on parboiled rice is $385 per metric tonne, raw rice $367 and on raw-broken rice it is $274 per metric tonne.

Cocanada Chamber of Commerce director Mamidapalli Satya Kumar said that if the ocean freight charges are relaxed and if there is any improvement in container availability, more rice could be exported.

The truck driver parked the vehicle on the road margin close to the petrol bunk located on the opposite side of the road.

Though he kept the truck parking lights on, the driver of the vehicle failed to notice them. Police believe that he dozed off.

Governor Biswa Bhusan Harichandan expressed shock over the accident and offered condolences to members of the bereaved families.

STATE OFFICIALS FOR RETAINING STAKE IN PORT

The state officials were of the view that Gangavaram port being the golden eggs, it would be wise to retain the government's stake and receive dividend and share in gross revenues which will increase year on year. "We have credible information that the Adani group is eyeing doubling the present cargo handling capacity of 34.5 million metric tonnes within two to three years," a senior infrastructure and investment official said adding that company valuation would naturally go up with added capacities.

The officials were of the view that the state government would not face the problem of equity dilution in the event of fresh infusion of capital. The company will have cash reserves of nearly ₹1,000 crore and the AP will never face a situation wherein it has to decide between fresh infusion of capital and equity dilution, he added.

As record output expected during rabi, state gears up

SAMPAT G. SAMRITAN I
DC
VIJAYAWADA, MARCH 28

Andhra Pradesh has witnessed a rise of area of cultivation during rabi season to 59.06 lakh acres against the targeted 58.92 lakh acres. In terms of food-grain production, it was up to 90.10 lakh metric tonnes (MT) this season against 87.35 lakh MT last year, as per the third advance estimate.

Though the cropped area during the season used to be 56.19 lakh acres, it has gone up after the government extended support to farmers in the form of input subsidy for crop loss due to natural calamities. The area sown for rabi in 2018-19 was 53.09 lakh acres and in 2019-20 57.08 lakh acres.

Under the influence of Cyclone Nivar, Kharif standing crop and rabi cropped area suffered around 33 per cent damage under different crops coming up to 4.59 lakh hectare and a production loss of ₹5.7 lakh MT worth of ₹1,948.08 crore.

The state government has come to the rescue of farmers by providing 80 per cent subsidy for seeds through D Krishi app in affected districts to enable farmers to take up re-sowing at an estimated cost of ₹3,633 lakh to benefit 2,17,952 farmers through Rythu Bharosa Kendras.

The government disbursed input subsidy worth of ₹601 crore to Nivar-affected farmers.

The civil supplies authorities are setting up 1,830 paddy purchase centres to buy 45 lakh MT of the expected yield of 62 lakh MT for rabi. In previous rabi, the state procured only 34 lakh MT paddy. Officials reasoned out the jackpot target of paddy procurement, they started raising crops early for rabi season, which has resulted in enhanced cropped area and yield. The authorities will procure paddy at farm gate of RBK which means that the farmer who intends to sell away paddy has to register with RBK so that he will be issued a coupon and time about the visit of paddy purchase centre staff to procure paddy and send it to the designated rice mills. The minimum support price for paddy of grade-A variety has been fixed at ₹1,888 per quintal and ₹1,868 for common variety per quintal. AP civil supplies commissioner Kona Sasidhar said "We have enhanced the targeted procurement of paddy this rabi season to 45 lakh metric tonnes. There is no reason for the farmer to sell away his paddy below the MSP."

Farmers' fears lost out in YSRC, Desam politics

DC CORRESPONDENT
VIJAYAWADA, MARCH 28

The YSRC and the Telugu Desam appear sluggish in fighting the agriculture laws due to their relations with the BJP-led Centre. While the YSRC is prioritising cordial relations with the Centre, than antagonising it over farm laws, the TD appears reluctant to agitate as it wants to restore its alliance with the BJP.

Telugu Desam chief N. Chandrababu Naidu has called for a comprehensive debate on the new laws. Several TD leaders have stated the same without responding aggressively over farm laws. Initially, the TD went hammer and tongs against YSRC for voting in support of three new laws. But sensing danger, its leaders are making noises against these laws only for namesake.

For public consumption, however, the YSRC has refuted TD's allegations of being soft on the farm laws, pointing out that the party had proposed amendments in Parliament. Agriculture minister K. Kannababu, YSRC state spokesperson Ambati Rambabu and other leaders say YSRC is supporting bandh calls against farm laws and party MPs are protesting in Parliament. They have counter accused TD of never seriously opposing the farm laws.

AP Rythu Sangham leader Kesava Rao pointed out that Shiromani Akali Dal MP Harsimrat Kaur Badal quit as union minister protesting against the new black laws despite Akalis being an alliance partner of BJP.

There is no similar concern among political parties towards farmers in AP.

They have not even bothered to educate the farmers about the destructive power of the laws, which only favour corporate bodies, Kesava Rao underlined. CPM state executive committee member Ch. Babu Rao says both YSRC and TD have a soft corner for BJP.

India 'feeds' world amid Covid

VADREVV SRINIVAS I DC
KAKINADA, MARCH 28

Even as humanity reeled under the devastating impact of Covid-19 and trade remained affected for over a year, India has earned a name as the "bread giver" to the world. It has exported rice to nearly 170 countries including China and Vietnam.

Kakinada port is playing the lead role in exporting rice to nearly 25 African countries and also China and Vietnam. Rice here is plenty and many exporters are choosing this port for export.

Traditionally, the anchorage port of Kakinada enjoyed a reputation for handling rice exports to African countries and Bangladesh. But, this past year, many countries including Vietnam and China faced food shortage as agriculture operations were also badly hit in the aftermath of the Covid-19 pandemic's arrival.

According to shipping trade sources, for the first time, Visakhapatnam and Kakinada deep water ports too started handling the rice cargo during the 2020-21 fiscal.

According to sources, the ports under the AP Maritime Board fetched ₹280 crore as against the ₹220 crore the previous year. Out of this, ₹40 crore in revenue came from the anchorage port.

There were some slowdowns in cargo handling due to festivals and cyclones twice during October-November-2020, but there was heavy rice cargo outgo at the anchorage port. The state and the Centre noticed the demand and allowed exports from Kakinada deep water port without having an impact on the anchorage port. The rice exports to destinations abroad are being handled from Visakhapatnam, Krishnapatnam, Chennai and Kandla ports this year.

The deep water port handled 1.79 lakh metric tonnes, the Visakhapatnam port 2 lakh tonnes and the Kandla Port 3 lakh tonnes so far. There was availability of large quantities of surplus rice in Telangana, Odisha and Chattisgarh as also in Andhra Pradesh, while there existed huge demand for rice in other countries.

Due to this reason, many traders have come forward to export rice and are purchasing it locally. Paddy is also being procured by exporters from Bihar and Madhya Pradesh.

"Due to the rice exports from Kakinada, Krishnapatnam and Visakhapatnam ports, workers are getting more of employment and the trend will continue in future also," said V Veera Raghavulu (Babu), president of the Cocanada Chamber of Commerce.

Covid vigil tightened in Karnataka border

DC CORRESPONDENT
ANANTAPUR, MARCH 28

In the wake of the rise of Covid-19 positive cases, border areas have been alerted to prevent spread of cases in the region. Even as no restrictions were announced at the borders so far, authorities in the border districts of Andhra Pradesh were on vigilance, particularly in Anantapur district.

The Karnataka government had already announced restrictions about entry to Bengaluru and has mandated Covid-19 negative reports from April 1. The district administration noticed that the abnormal rise earlier was because of connectivity through different parts mostly Karnataka and New Delhi.

For instance, positive cases were reported from border villages of Hindupur and Hindupur municipality through connectivity from the adjacent Gowribidanur taluk of Karnataka.

A senior official from the medical and health department stressed the need for serious precautions at border areas.

“With no option, Bengaluru authorities restricted entry without a ‘negative’ report but we should concentrate on conducting random tests at railway stations and bus stations,” the official observed.

In fact positive cases are being reported from Anantapur headquarters and interior mandals. At least six persons tested positive from Kothacheruvu mandal headquarters. Meanwhile, the spiritual organisations and other private traditional functions are attracting huge gatherings.

DC CORRESPONDENT
KAKINADA, MARCH 28

Software to ensure smooth room booking at Tirumala

DC CORRESPONDENT
NELLORE, MARCH 28

Securing accommodation at Tirumala, abode of Lord Venkateswara, is the most stress-full part of pilgrimage to the holy shrine. There is no hyperbole in saying devotees coming from all parts of the country and abroad, including those with advanced reservations, face hardships before getting their accommodation.

Pilgrims have to wait in queues at the Central Reservation Office for a couple of hours despite fatigue from long travel, hunger, and their children demanding attention. Even after securing allotment from CRO, pilgrims have to reach sub-reservation offices in different parts of the temple town to secure keys for the room or cottage allotted to them.

Seeing for himself hardships faced by lakhs of devotees, TTD executive officer K.S. Jawahar Reddy ordered a study to decentralise allotment of rooms at Tirumala. Sharing his plans with DC, the EO pointed out that 30-35 per cent of pilgrims reserve their accommodation in advance. Yet, they too have to wait for anywhere between one to two hours for allocation of rooms. Jawahar Reddy said they are preparing software for automatically allotting rooms or cottages to those with advanced bookings when they log in at Alipiri, the gateway to Seven Hills. Boards will be displayed on rents related to different accommodations at Alipiri for benefit of those wishing to take room or cottage at Tirumala. Accordingly, they can approach CRO offices located in different parts of Tirumala avoiding rush and reduce waiting time. The EO said, in addition, a call centre with toll-free number is being introduced exclusively to expedite disposal of complaints pertaining to amenities and equipment at cottages or rooms in Tirumala. Complaints will be automatically forwarded to TTD staff manning cottages for resolving the issue on a war-footing. Staff will have to report back to call centre about resolution of the issue. Jawahar Reddy said these new initiatives are a few among several such proposals in offing.

HOUSING MINISTER TENDERS APOLOGY TO FARMERS

DC CORRESPONDENT
NELLORE, MARCH 28

Housing minister Ch. Ranganatha Raju tendered an unconditional apology to the farming community while regretting the inadvertent comments he made against the farming community on Sunday.

It may be recalled that the minister, while taking part in a private programme at Undi in West Godavari district on Saturday, observed that the laziest activity in the world was of the farmers involved in paddy cultivation.

At the private programme he also said that paddy farmers got very little to do to raise the crop since water is abundant and the only job for them is to signal someone to harvest the crop. The loose comments angered farmers' associations across the state on Sunday. Taking serious objection to his utterances, the unions demanded the minister to tender an unconditional apology.

Understanding the mood of the farmers, Ranganatha Raju said that he is sorry for hurting the sentiments of the farmers during a press conference in Tirupati on Sunday.

He said that he is also a son of a farmer and his comments pertain to big landlords, who are benefiting from the government schemes meant for the small and marginal farmers.

The minister said that he is moved by the plight of the small and marginal farmers.

DC CORRESPONDENT
NELLORE, MARCH 28

In a swift action, the Tirupati East police took a young boy into custody on Sunday for attempting to steal valuables from the Hundi of the TTD run Sri Govindaraja Swamy shrine in Tirupati on Friday night.

It may be recalled that the minor boy managed to remain in the temple even after the closure around 9 pm on Friday.

He managed to sneak out of the temple and other devotees when the temple opened on Saturday morning after his bid to break open the Hundi failed to yield fruitful results.

Tirupati East Police registered a case based on a complaint from the Vigilance and Security department of TTD on Saturday and resolved the case within 24 hours after registering the case.

Sharing the investigation details to media persons at Tirupati on Sunday, Tirupati Urban SP, Ch. Venkata Appala Naidu said the special teams formed to nab the accused had examined the CCTV footage in and around the temple. This is in addition to the local bus and railway stations and important arterial junctions in the city between Friday night and Saturday.

The footage helped the police zero in on the juvenile, and the latter confessed that he tried to steal the valuables from the Hundi.

Meanwhile, police found out that the minor boy belongs to Adilabad in Telangana.

TMC LEADER HELD IN 2009 MURDER CASE

RAJIB CHOWDHURI | DC KOLKATA, MARCH 28

The National Investigation Agency (NIA) arrested Maoist frontman-turned-Trinamul Congress state committee member Chhatradhar Mahato early Sunday on the Unlawful Activities (Prevention) Act and several Indian Penal Code charges for repeatedly skipping its summons for questioning in its case against him over the Naxals' guerrilla-style-attack on the Rajdhani Express at Jhargram in the Jangalmahal of West Bengal in 2009.

At around 3.30 am, a 40-member NIA team raided the home of the former convenor of the People's Committee Against Police Atrocities — a frontal outfit of the Maoists for the tribals during the Communist rule — at Amlia village in Lalgarh of Jhargram. Chhatradhar and his family members were asleep then.

On Saturday morning the 57-year-old, who became the BJP's target for his entry to the ruling TMC over his influence among the tribals, cast his vote in Jhargram in the first phase of the Assembly election in the state, for the first time after languishing in jail over a decade in many high profile cases of Maoist violence.

His wife Niyoti alleged, "Around 15 members of the NIA team stormed in while others were on the rooftop. They took away the cellphones of four security personnel deputised for him." A scuffle however unfolded when Chhatradhar's family members allegedly tried to resist the NIA team from dragging him out of their home.

PILOT: ASSAM POLLS A STRUGGLE TO SAVE PEOPLE

Silchar / Karimganj (Assam), March 28: Congress leader Sachin Pilot on Sunday claimed that the Assembly election in Assam is a struggle to save the people of the state from the "misrule" of the BJP.

The BJP government never stood by the people during the hour of crisis, Pilot alleged while addressing two election meetings at Silchar and Karimganj in Barak Valley region.

"We are not fighting to come to power, but to save the people of Assam from the misrule of the BJP," he said.

The BJP is dividing people on religious lines and they need to remain united in Assam and India, the former deputy chief minister of Rajasthan said.

"When people were in crisis during the demonetisation, GST and lockdown, the BJP government was nowhere to be seen. So, it is time that we remove the party from power," he added.

The Congress will form the next government in Assam, Pilot asserted.

"In five years, the BJP gave CAA, NRC, autocracy, inflation and communalism, but not jobs. The biggest challenge today in front of the country and Assam is unemployment. The Congress has guaranteed that it will give five lakh government jobs (in five years)," he said.

Pilot along with All India Mahila Congress president Sushmita Dev also led a procession in Karimganj town in support of Congress candidates.

Shah sees big win for BJP in Assam, Bengal

Says peaceful polling, high voter turnouts are positive signs

New Delhi, March 28: Union home minister and senior BJP leader Amit Shah on Sunday exuded confidence that his party will win 26 out of the 30 West Bengal seats and more than 37 of the 47 Assam seats which went to polls in the first phase of Assembly elections in these states on Saturday.

Citing the internal party feedback that he has received, Shah claimed that the BJP is on course to achieve its target of winning over 200 seats in the 294-member West Bengal Assembly and improving its alliance tally of 86 seats in the 126-member Assam Assembly, and asserted that people have voted for the "positive" agenda espoused by the party.

Addressing a press conference, Shah also rejected West Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee's charge that Prime Minister Narendra Modi's visit to a temple of the Matua community — which is in sizeable number in the state — during his trip to Bangladesh violated the poll code.

He said that the visit had nothing to do with the elections and was aimed at fostering deeper ties between the two countries.

Shah also parried a query about reports that he might have met leaders of the NCP, which is a key constituent of the opposition-run government in Maharashtra, saying

Didi questions Shah over phase-1 poll 'predictions'

RAJIB CHOWDHURI | DC KOLKATA, MARCH 28

West Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee on Sunday questioned Union home minister Amit Shah's assertion of the BJP's victory in 26 out of the 30 Assembly seats, polled in the first of the eight phases in the state, before her return to Nandigram where she is contesting from this time.

The Trinamul Congress supremo, who will spend next four days at the hot seat till it goes to the polls on April 1 in the second phase, addressed two rallies including one at Birulia Bazar where she got injured during her poll campaign on March 10 evening.

Targeting Shah for his prediction, Banerjee earlier told a TMC rally at Chandipur of East Midnapore, "A BJP leader today claimed to have won 26 out of 30 seats. Why 26 only? Why don't you say 30 out of 30? Only then it will sound like getting more seats! They want to have Rosogolla but without its Ros (juice)! Why didn't you count the remaining four also? Are these left for the CPI(M) and Congress?"

She wondered, "Someone should have some shame at least. Only a day before polling were held in 30 seats. Now if you ask me how many seats I am winning then should I go inside the voting machines for a check? How would I know how many seats I will win? People know because they cast their votes. I can only say in view of an 84 per cent voters' turnout that my brothers and sisters, farmers and labourers voted for us."

Banerjee argued, "They have given their votes for us in those seats during the Lok Sabha polls where we were lagging behind. If it is not true then why were the central forces sent for beating the people at Kanthi (in East Midnapore) on Saturday? They need to work under the state police. I do not know who ensured it."

Slamming her nemesis Shuvendu Adhikari and his father Sisir, she claimed, "The father-son duo does not have the capacity to win the polls. So they harboured armed goons from Uttar Pradesh, captured booths and did not allow the women to vote. It is not the central forces' job to deny the voters without masks of exercising their rights. Who gave them so much power that they would threaten the women instead of allowing them to cast their votes? How dare they? What an audacity! I know on whose orders they did it."

everything cannot be made public.

He said that peaceful polling in Assam and West Bengal and high voter turnouts are positive signs for the two states, noting that West Bengal often witnessed violence during polls held earlier.

The home minister lauded the Election Commission (EC) for the violence-free polls.

Targeting the ruling Trinamul Congress in West Bengal, Amit Shah said an atmosphere of appeasement and an euphemism for alleged pro-Muslim policies have prevailed in the state and illegal immigrants were allowed uninhibited while public funds were misappropriated and development plunged.

Cong. urges EC to register FIRs against BJP leaders

New Delhi, March 28: With the BJP advertising claims of winning all seats in upper Assam, the Congress on Sunday said it is in violation of the Representation of the People Act and urged the Election Commission to register FIRs against BJP chief J.P. Nadda and Assam Chief Minister Sarbananda Sonowal.

In a complaint to the Election Commission (EC), Congress leaders Randeep Surjewala, Ajay Maken and Mukul Wasnik sought directions and action against top BJP leaders for giving advertisements in newspapers claiming victory in all upper Assam seats. They said such advertisements are in clear violation of the directions given by the EC that no one can make predictions of the results during the prohibited period.

"We pray to the EC to take all such actions as may be necessary and required in law, including direction for registration of offences against Sarbananda Sonowal, J.P. Nadda and Ranjit Kumar Dass for the blatant violation of Model Code of Conduct and the RP Act, 1951," the Congress stated. The party also demanded action against the media publishing such advertisements. Assam goes to polls in three phases and the first phase of polling was held on March 27.

"The Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP), after realising that their defeat is inevitable, has resorted to desperate illegal and unconstitutional methods to influence voters across the state," the Congress said in a memorandum to the poll body.

The Congress leaders alleged that in a "pre-planned conspiracy" and in order to "defraud the voters of Assam", Sonowal, Nadda, Assam BJP president Ranjeet Kumar Dass and other BJP members and functionaries "willfully and knowingly have today issued advertisements camouflaged as political predictions as headlines on front page, in various newspapers throughout Assam".

They said through such ads, the BJP leaders have disseminated "false/untrue outcome of the results" of the first phase of voting in Assam and have "falsely claimed that BJP will win all constituencies of upper Assam".

Tharoor: BJP's 'love jihad' will never go far in Kerala

New Delhi, March 28: The BJP can only offer communalism, tired scare-mongering over "love Jihad" and a hate-filled politics of division that will never go far in pluralist Kerala, senior Congress leader Shashi Tharoor said on Sunday and asserted that the BJP's high-profile recruit 88-year-old E. Sreedharan cannot be the answer to the state's political future. He also dismissed suggestions that not having a chief ministerial face could dent the Congress-led United Democratic Front's (UDF) chances in the Kerala Assembly polls and said the party is "richly endowed" with experienced and capable leaders, any of whom could assume the mantle of chief ministership.

Tharoor said the trend in Kerala is clearly in favour of the UDF and he expects a "strong victory" when the results are announced on May 2.

On whether the BJP would be a factor in the polls and the impact of 'Metroman' E. Sreedharan being projected as the key person by the saffron party, the former Union minister said the BJP "can only offer communalism, tired scare-mongering over 'love Jihad' and a hate-filled politics of bigotry and division that will never go far in pluralist, inclusive Kerala".

"They (the BJP) have hit their ceiling in the state. Sreedharan's impact peaked with the announcement of his candidacy. An 88-year-old technocrat cannot be the answer to the state's political future," Tharoor said.

On the BJP accusing the Congress of double standards in aligning with the Left in Bengal and fighting against it in Kerala, the MP from Thiruvananthapuram said in a vast country like India, each state has its distinctive political characteristics.

The competition between the Left Democratic Front (LDF) and the UDF is deeply entrenched here, but on national issues, especially those related to secularism and opposition to the "anti-people policies" of the BJP, they share many common views and often make common cause, he said.

"Since 2014, CPM MPs who campaigned against me in Kerala have supported my stand on many issues in the Lok Sabha. As for Bengal, you will have to ask the local party leaders there," Tharoor said.

But the BJP's allegation is not surprising because they have never understood or appreciated the diversity of India, he added.

Asked about home minister Amit Shah questioning Congress' secular credentials over its alliance with the Indian Union Muslim League (IUML) in Kerala, the Indian Secular Front in West Bengal and the All India United Democratic Front in Assam, Tharoor reiterated that each state and each state party has its own history, traditions and political appeal. There is little in common among the three parties mentioned other than that they are seen as essentially Muslim parties, he pointed out. — PTI

BJP is behind the mask AIADMK wears: Rahul

DC CORRESPONDENTS CHENNAI / SALEM, MARCH 28

Campaigning for DMK alliance candidates in Salem on Sunday, Congress leader Rahul Gandhi said that the present election was no longer a fight between political parties.

Firing on all barrels, Rahul Gandhi lashed out at Chief Minister Edappadi K. Palanisami alleging he is trapped due to corruption, and hence, has to bow in front of Union home minister Amit Shah.

Campaigning for the DMK and its allies in Chennai for the first time after having visited the western and southern parts of the state earlier, Rahul addressed a public meeting in the city before flying to Salem to join DMK chief M.K. Stalin.

Chastising the BJP and the RSS, Rahul said they were trying to take Tamil culture out of the Tamils, and impose their own on them. "We have seen many elections in Tamil Nadu, those fought between political parties. But this election is not like that. We are witnessing a full-scale attack on Tamil language, culture and history. If we are to say that Tamil Nadu is India, then we have to say that India is Tamil Nadu. Any relationship has to be one which is equal love and

D. SEKAR | DC CHENNAI, MARCH 28

Hitting the campaign trail to canvass votes for his cabinet colleague and fisheries minister D. Jayakumar, who represents Royapuram assembly constituency, Chief Minister Edappadi K. Palanisami showered praises on the minister calling him 'son of the soil', a 'person who lives with you', and 'a familiar person who stood for the welfare of the constituency'.

Flashing the 'Two leaves' sign, the Chief Minister urged the public to vote for D. Jayakumar and help him emerge victorious in the polls with a thumping majority.

Listing out the achievement of the current government, the Chief Minister said the Metro rail project was introduced by the AIADMK, and is planning to strengthen and expand the Metro rail network. On the law and order front, Tamil Nadu stands number one in the country today. Over 10 lakh jobs for youths will be provided, for which many sops have been provided to the small scale industries.

respect. India is a Union of states, languages, traditions and religions. No one idea or language or tradition is superior. They are all equally important to the country. I say this is an attack on Tamil language and culture. But it is also an attack on ideas which India knows," said Rahul Gandhi.

Slamming the AIADMK government, Rahul said, "One has to be careful during Covid-19. Today we see masks everywhere. It is difficult to recognise what is behind the mask. If you smile at someone, they do not know you are smiling. Today's AIADMK looks like wearing an AIADMK mask, but if you take out that mask, you will find the BJP and the RSS behind that mask. The AIADMK is now a hollow shell controlled by the RSS and the BJP. People of Tamil Nadu have to be careful and understand what is behind the mask. No Tamil person wants to bow before Prime Minister Narendra Modi or touch the feet of Union home minister Amit Shah or RSS chief Mohan Bhagwat. But the current Chief Minister is very submissive to the RSS, Modi and RSS, because Modi controls the enforcement directorate and the CBI, and so the corrupt Chief Minister has to be very servile," alleged Rahul.

Colombo, March 28: President Gotabaya Rajapaksa on Sunday said the recent UNHRC resolution against Sri Lanka was the doing of "local and foreign forces" which do not want the country to progress, and vowed that his government would not succumb to such pressures.

The UN Human Rights Council (UNHRC) adopted a resolution against Sri Lanka's rights record on March 23, giving the UN body a mandate to collect evidence of crimes committed during the country's brutal three decade-long civil war against the Liberation Tigers of Tamil Eelam (LTTE).

Rajapaksa said: "We will never succumb to (such) pressures (UNHRC resolution); we are a free nation. We will not be a victim of big power rivalry in the Indian Ocean."

Chauvin, 44, who was fired from the police force along with three other officers, could be sentenced to up to 40 years in prison if convicted of the most serious charge — second-degree murder.

Opening arguments are to begin at 9:00 am Central time (1400 GMT) in a heavily guarded Minneapolis courtroom for a trial expected to last about a month. Fifteen jurors have been selected for the high-profile case.

Hennepin County Judge Peter Cahill is expected to drop one juror on Monday and proceed with 12 and two alternates. The panel seated after two weeks of jury selection is racially mixed: Six white women, three PoC men, three white men, two mixed race women and one PoC woman.

Police officers are rarely convicted in the United States when charges are brought against them and the trial is being closely watched around the world. A conviction on any of the charges — second-degree murder, third-degree murder or manslaughter — will require the jury to return a unanimous verdict.

Floyd's cause of death is expected to be the central issue in the trial and a key piece of evidence is likely to be the viral video that triggered a summer of anti-racism protests.

A day after 100 killed, Myanmar protests on Demonstrators are back, demand return to democracy

Yangon (Myanmar), March 28: Protesters in Myanmar returned to the streets Sunday to press their demands for a return to democracy, just a day after security forces killed more than 100 people in the bloodiest day since last month's military coup. Protests were held in Yangon and Mandalay, the country's two biggest cities, as well as elsewhere. Some of the demonstrations were again met with police force.

At least 114 people were killed Saturday as security forces cracked down on protests against the Feb. 1 coup that ousted Aung San Suu Kyi's elected government, according to the online news service Myanmar Now. The reported fatalities included several children under 16 years old.

Similar tallies of the death toll were issued by other Myanmar media and researchers, far exceeding the previous highest death toll on March 14. The number of killings since the coup is now more than 420, according to multiple counts. The coup reversed years of progress toward democracy after five decades of military rule and has again made Myanmar the focus of international scrutiny.

The Saturday killings by police and soldiers took place throughout the country as Myanmar's military celebrated the annual Armed Forces Day holiday with a parade in the country's capital, Napyitaw.

The bloodshed quickly drew international condemnation, both from diplomatic missions within Myanmar and from abroad. UN Secretary-General Antonio Guterres said he was shocked by the killings of civilians, including children.

The continuing military crackdown is unacceptable and demands a firm, unified & resolute international response, he wrote on Twitter.

In the United States, Secretary of State Antony Blinken said in a tweet that his country was horrified by the bloodshed perpetrated by Burmese security forces, showing that the junta will sacrifice the lives of the people to serve the few.

The military chiefs of 12 nations issued a joint statement condemning the use of force against unarmed people.

A professional military follows international standards for conduct and is responsible for protecting not harming the people it serves, it said. We urge the Myanmar Armed Forces to cease violence and work to restore respect and credibility with the people of Myanmar that it has lost through its actions."

The statement was issued by the defence chiefs of Australia, Canada, Germany, Greece, Italy, Japan, Denmark, the Netherlands, New Zealand, South Korea, the United Kingdom and the United States.

The human rights group Amnesty International revived criticism that the international community was not doing enough to end the state violence in Myanmar.

United Nations Security Council member states' continued refusal to meaningfully act against this never-ending horror is contemptible, said Ming Yu Hah, the organisation's deputy regional director for campaigns.

The Security Council has condemned the violence but not advocated concerted action against the junta, such as a ban on selling it arms.

2 tugboats speed to free stuck ship

Suez (Egypt), March 28: Two additional tugboats sped Sunday to Egypt's Suez Canal to aid efforts to free a skyscraper-sized container ship wedged for days across the crucial waterway, even as major shippers increasingly divert their boats out of fear the vessel may take even longer to free.

The massive Ever Given, a Panama-flagged, Japanese-owned ship that carries cargo between Asia and Europe, got stuck Tuesday in a single-lane stretch of the canal. In the time since, authorities have been unable to remove the vessel and traffic through the canal valued at over $9 billion a day has been halted, further disrupting a global shipping network already strained by the coronavirus pandemic.

The Dutch-flagged Alp Guard and the Italian-flagged Carlo Magno, called in to help tugboats already there, reached the Red Sea near the city of Suez early Sunday, satellite data from MarineTraffic.com showed.

The tugboats will nudge the 400-metre-long (quarter-mile-long) Ever Given as dredgers continue to vacuum up sand from underneath the vessel and mud caked to its port side, said Bernhard Schulte Shipmanagement, which manages the Ever Given.

Workers planned to make two attempts Sunday to free the vessel coinciding with high tides, a top pilot with the canal authority said.

"Sunday is very critical," the pilot said. It will determine the next step, which highly likely involves at least the partial offloading of the vessel.

Taking containers off the ship likely would add even more days to the canal's closure, something authorities have been desperately trying to avoid. It also would require a crane and other equipment that have yet to arrive.

The pilot spoke to AP on condition of anonymity.

EUROPE TIGHTENS VIRUS CURBS WITH FRANCE 'CRITICAL'

Paris, March 28: France, Belgium and Poland on Saturday tightened curbs as Coronavirus cases surged in Europe while the Philippines readied for a giant lockdown and Chile confined over 80 percent of its population. France admitted the situation is "critical" and added three more departments to the 16 already under tight restrictions.

Twenty million people in France, including the greater Paris region, are classed as living in high-infection zones.

They are not allowed to travel further than 10 kilometres (six miles) from home without an essential reason.

Daily cases in France have nearly doubled since the start of the month and there have been more than 200,000 new cases every week.

But that did not stop a crowd turning out for a protest concert outside Saturday evening in central Paris.

20 hurt as suicide bomber targets Mass in Indonesia

Makassar (Indonesia), March 28: Two attackers blew themselves up outside a packed Roman Catholic cathedral during a Palm Sunday Mass on Indonesia's Sulawesi island, wounding at least 20 people, police said.

A video obtained by The Associated Press showed body parts scattered near a burning motorbike at the gates of the Sacred Heart of Jesus Cathedral in Makassar, the capital of South Sulawesi province.

Rev. Wilhelmus Tulak, a priest at the church, said he had just finished celebrating Palm Sunday Mass when a loud bang shocked his congregation. He said the blast went off at about 10:30 am as a first batch of churchgoers was walking out of the church and another group was coming in.

He said security guards at the church were suspicious of two men on a motorcycle who wanted to enter the building and when they went to confront them, one of the men detonated his explosives.

Police later said both attackers were killed instantly and evidence collected at the scene indicated one of the two was a woman. The wounded included four guards and several churchgoers, police said. The attack a week before Easter in the world's most populous Muslim-majority nation came as the country was on high alert following December's arrest of the leader of the Southeast Asian militant group, Jemaah Islamiyah, which has been designated a terror group by many nations.

Canada library stabbing: 1 dead

Vancouver (British Columbia), March 28: A man went on a stabbing spree inside and around a library, killing one woman and injuring six other people in North Vancouver, British Columbia, authorities said.

Sgt Frank Jang of the Integrated Homicide Investigation Team said a suspect was in custody. He said the man is in his 20s and has had interactions with police in the past.

Jang said officials didn't have any information yet about a motive.

One witness, Steve Mossop, said he and his partner stopped in traffic when they saw a bloodied woman who told them she had just been stabbed. They then saw several victims within about 100 meters of each other, he said. "There was a man, there was an older woman, there was a younger woman, a mom, a

On Twitter, Canadian Public Safety Minister Bill Blair expressed shock and sadness over the incident, calling it a senseless act of violence.

President Joko Widodo condemned Sunday's attack and said it has nothing to do with any religion as all religions would not tolerate any kind of terrorism.

I call on people to remain calm while worshipping because the state guarantees you can worship without fear, Widodo said in a televised address.

Virginia Beach (US), March 28: Overnight shootings near the Atlantic oceanfront in Virginia Beach left two people dead and eight wounded in a scene described by authorities as very chaotic.

ENGLAND | FIND The markings found during garden digging mean it is likely a Rugosa coral

PIO boy unearths fossil, millions of years-old

London, March 28: A six-year-old Indian-origin boy says he is really excited after he found a fossil from millions of years ago while digging in his garden in the West Midlands region of England.

Siddak Singh Jhamat, known as Sid, was using a fossil-hunting set he received as a Christmas present when he came across a rock that looked like a horn.

"I was just digging for worms and things like pottery and bricks and I just came across this rock which looked a bit like a horn, and thought it could be a tooth or a claw or a horn, but it was actually a piece of coral which is called horn coral," the schoolboy said.

"I was really excited about what it really was," he said. According to a BBC report, his father Vish Singh was able to identify the horn coral through a fossil group he is a member of on Facebook and estimates the fossil is between 251 to 488 million years old.

ACCORDING TO a BBC report, his father Vish Singh was able to identify the horn coral through a fossil group he is a member of on Facebook and estimates the fossil is between 251 to 488 million years old. "We were surprised he found something so odd-shaped in the soil... he found a horn coral, and some smaller pieces next to it, then the next day he went digging again and found a congealed block of sand, said Vish Singh.

In that there were loads of little molluscs and sea shells, and something called a crinoid, which is like a tentacle of a squid, so it's quite a prehistoric thing," he said.

Singh believes the fossil's markings mean it is most likely a Rugosa coral and that the period that they existed from was between 500 and 251 million years ago, the Paleozoic Era.

"England at the time was part of Pangea, a landmass of continents. England was all underwater as well... that's quite a significant expanse of time," said Vish Singh.

The family, from Walsall, said they do not live in an area known for its fossils, like the Jurassic Coast in the south of England, but that they do have a lot of natural clay in the garden where the fossils were found.

Singh added: "Lots and lots of people have commented on how amazing it is to find something in the back garden."

"They say you can find fossils anywhere if you look carefully enough, but to find a significantly large piece like that is quite unique."

They now hope to tell Birmingham University's Museum of Geology about their discovery.

Good start in Bangla, but Teesta is credibility test

Prime Minister Narendra Modi's just-ended visit to Bangladesh is likely to be noted as an effort on India's part to pull back from the brink and rescue what is inarguably the most mutually fruitful relationship this country has with any other neighbor. It is to be welcomed.

No matter how the effort is eventually assessed, a genuine attempt has doubtless been made. The tone struck in Dhaka by both sides was one of warmth, indicating that a return to a positive normal, and then moving to a higher plane, is an aspiration of both countries.

India's governing party's regrettably communal pitch on the question of citizenship, as manifested through the Modi government's relentless pursuit of NRC, specifically in the context of being the primary step toward giving effect to the CAA, cast a shadow on a perfectly productive relationship with Bangladesh.

Since then it would appear that the Modi government is learning that it is a bad idea to play domestic politics in a manner that adversely impacts India's diplomatic ties and hurts its heritage of being a country that promotes high human values in a mind-bogglingly diverse democracy.

In its own years since liberation from Pakistan, Bangladesh has travelled a fairly rocky path. Communalists and Islamists in that country, finding encouragement from influential political quarters, acted as obstacles to friendship with India. Prime Minister Sheikh Hasina has shown immense courage to counter that trend, and continues to do so. Mr Modi's visit was viciously opposed by Islamist elements. The Hasina government stood up to them, and this could cost her.

If India is to strengthen the hands of secular politics in Bangladesh in order to strengthen bilateral relations with that country as a key element of our neighbourhood policy, in its dealings with Dhaka, a higher profile must be accorded to aspects that touch ordinary people. Easing trade, transport, and irrigation bottlenecks suggest themselves.

It is in this context that the interim agreement to share the waters of the Teesta river with Bangladesh, signed in January 2011, was flagged yet again by the Bangladesh leader in her conversation with the Indian PM. New Delhi is yet to find creative ways to help West Bengal overcome its reservations on the sharing of the Teesta waters. It is time for India to apply itself with diligence to this subject, lest in Bangladesh it acquire the status of being the touchstone of good intentions on India's part.

During Mr Modi's visit, India signed five important agreements in areas such as disaster management and trade. Better border management, starting new train services to connect the people of the two countries, invitation to innovative Bangladesh start-up entrepreneurs to find angel investors in India, looking at cooperation in the fields of civil nuclear energy and artificial intelligence, besides supplying the anti-Covid vaccine, are among the many likely areas of future cooperation. The going will be smoother in these and other important areas if past promises and agreements are not lost sight of.

The 50th anniversary of Bangladesh as an independent country and the centenary of the birth of its charismatic founder Sheikh Mujibur Rehman was seized on by Mr Modi to try to re-invigorate ties with our neighbour. In the fitness of things, the PM should have taken with him an all-party delegation to Dhaka and not made the journey a purely governmental affair. The liberation of Bangladesh was a non-partisan affair in India, and this should have been reflected.

Killings by junta an outrage

The Myanmar Army is shooting to kill protesters. Even as the senior general, Min Aung Hlaing, was mouthing platitudes about protecting the people and restoring democracy after the next elections, his soldiers were carrying on with their brutal repression of protests, firing indiscriminately at people, including children, and killing at least 114 persons on Saturday. Ironically, it was Myanmar's 76th Armed Forces Day while the rebels marked it as Resistance Day whose history goes back to World War II. At least 400 civilians may have been killed, besides at least one policeman who had joined anti-coup protesters demonstrating against the February 1 coup that displaced the government led by of Aung San Suu Kyi of NLD.

The lack of a strong international response, thus far limited only to sanctions against top military brass and a few companies they deal with, may be contributing to a worsening situation in which the people are under the thumb of a blood-letting junta, which had backed Opposition parties in the November 2020 polls. The response of India, which shares a long border with its eastern neighbour and hence is likely to be affected more than the others, has also been wishy-washy in merely expressing the hope that democracy would be restored soon. Saturday's bloody incidents should draw a much harsher response, to do which India must abandon thinking only about its old ties with the junta, which used to prove useful in pushing back rebels who run insurgency movements in India's Northeast.

India's soft power may be seen to be declining these days when its own freedoms are in peril. But, if it still retains its ambitions of a seat at the high table at the UN and a voice to be reckoned with in international affairs, it must learn to stand up against injustice. It may seem intriguing that Suu Kyi's people are protesting suppression while they had discriminated against Rohingya Muslims who were forced to flee Myanmar. But India must stand up for the rights of the Myanmarese citizens against a brutal Army that thinks nothing of shooting civilians.

Hosabale's rise: RSS-BJP ties still remain opaque

Parsa Venkateshwar Rao Jr

The myth about the Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh and the BJP is that they are independent entities, though umbilically linked through ideology. That is, each one of them functions on its own, and the one — that is the RSS — does not interfere in the internal and day-to-day affairs of the other — that is the BJP. The BJP leaders have always maintained that it is not true that they follow the directions issued from Nagpur, the headquarters of the RSS. But the suspicion has lingered among BJP watchers that the saffron party does not have total freedom. That is, the president of the BJP has to be approved by the RSS. Though there are organizational elections in the BJP, there is never a contest, and this is especially so in the case of the president of the party. And there is always a representative of the RSS in the BJP, and many of the RSS folk are seconded to the party. This has been so right from the time when Syama Prasad Mookerjee set up the Bharatiya Jan Sangh with members lent by the RSS, including Deen Dayal Upadhyaya, Balraj Madhok and Atal Behari Vajpayee. Those who joined the BJP in 1980 and who were not members of the RSS were not seen as insiders. This was the case with Jaswant Singh, Sushma Swaraj and even Arun Jaitley.

The equation between the RSS and the BJP became prickly when the BJP came to power in 1996 for a short while, and again in 1998 and 1999 under Atal Behari Vajpayee. It became clear that Vajpayee was older and more senior to then RSS chief K. Sudarshan, and the tussle for dominance became quite embarrassing. Was it because Vajpayee was by nature more liberal and the RSS was dogmatically communal? Vajpayee was as much a dyed-in-the-wool RSS communalist as any other, but the question seemed to be one of personal dominance and tactics. The defeat of the BJP in 2004 came as a blessing in disguise. In the run-up to the 2014 election, a middle-rung BJP leader indicated that the RSS would be working for the party in the elections, and this was the first time after 1977 that this was happening. The impressive victory of the BJP under Narendra Modi then was a collaborative effort by the RSS-BJP. In many ways, the RSS had kept away from election campaigns in 2004 and in 2009. A middle-rung Congress leader from Uttar Pradesh had opined that the importance of the RSS was exaggerated by the media, and if it was actually true then the BJP should never lose an election.

A senior RSS functionary was once quite irritated when I had sent him a questionnaire for an interview, and he said there were too many questions on RSS-BJP relations, and that the RSS should not be seen through the BJP prism

The argument that has arisen after the elevation of Dattatreya Hosabale as the RSS's second in command, replacing Bhaiyaji Joshi, is that Mr Modi and Mr Hosabale are seen as fairly close, and are on the same page

The BJP's strategy is that the party must have its own foot soldiers. It is also questionable whether the BJP really needs the RSS to formulate Hindutva ideology since it remains a crude, simplistic ideology of majoritarianism.

or even the other way around. The implication was that the RSS had its own self-defined goals and could not be reduced to the politics of the BJP. But many political observers have no doubt that the BJP's rule is in effect the rule of the RSS, and that Hindutva is the ideological glue. Most BJP leaders are not willing to admit that they are mere pawns and the real command rests with the RSS, and most BJP leaders avoid using the word "Hindutva" though they may be practising it in toto as in the pursuit of measures like the Citizenship Amendment Act (CAA) and the abrogation of Article 370 in the erstwhile state of Jammu and Kashmir.

The electoral victories of 2014 and 2019 have made it clear that the BJP is now the leading party of Hindutva and it no longer has any need to serve an ideological apprenticeship with the RSS and play second fiddle. And that Mr Modi is the undisputed icon of Hindutva, and he doesn't have to depend on the RSS for ideological ballast. He can articulate it himself. The BJP then doesn't have to look to the RSS for ideological inputs. The argument that has arisen after the elevation of Dattatreya Hosabale as the RSS's second in command, replacing Bhaiyaji Joshi, is that Mr Modi and Mr Hosabale are seen as fairly close, and are on the same page, which is hardly a strange formulation given the common ideological roots of the RSS and BJP. It showcases the old dilemma of what should be the nature of the relationship between the two organisations. As Mr Modi remains the dominant figure, the RSS will have to play second fiddle to the BJP. If and when Mr Modi loses his star position, the BJP will have to fall back to the secondary position of being a RSS affiliate.

One of the RSS's vaunted strengths has been its huge army of foot soldiers through its cells or shakhas, running into millions. It is this amorphous, anonymous army that got activated at election time and which was the invisible strength of the BJP. Amit Shah changed this when he was made president of the BJP by Mr Modi in 2014. He vowed to transform the BJP into a 10 million-strong organisation, and even after J.P. Nadda took over the party, the membership drive continued, and the number has reached 18 million. The BJP's strategy seemed to be that the party must have its own foot soldiers and that it should not depend on the RSS volunteers. But a friend pointed out that there is a big difference between the BJP's millions of members and the RSS cadres. The members are only BJP voters and they are not necessarily party workers. The RSS will still have the advantage as it has a dedicated cadre base.

It is also questionable whether the BJP really needs the RSS to formulate or refine the Hindutva ideology because Hindutva remains a crude, simplistic ideology of majoritarianism. There is not much need for redefining it. A new generation of RSS and BJP leaders are not inclined to update the Hindutva ideology because glorifying a dead national past is its basic principle. If the BJP survives in power, it may not need the RSS much longer. The RSS then will have no option but to slowly wither away.

Perhaps under the influence of China, the ouster of Suu Kyi and murder of protesters was Junta following the Chinese model of crushing dissent. But in doing so, it has disgraced itself. The people of Myanmar deserve a better deal and the Junta should that. Further military action can trigger unprecedented violence.

DELHI'S NEW ACT

Even a layman can understand that the recent law passed by the Centre vis-a-vis Delhi's elected CM and a chosen unelected L-G, is that CM's wings are pruned so much so that he becomes subservient to LG in all matters of governance. Whatever the Centre attributes to its decision, it doesn't cut ice with the people. The BJP's frustration against Kejriwal's developmental projects is visible. Hope the apex court will repeat its earlier verdict and reprimand the Centre for its belligerence.

Fight takes heavy toll of civilians

PARIS, March. 29 Pakistan's Army appears to have inflicted a heavy toll on Bengali civilians of breakaway Eastern wing since it moved out from barracks in Dacca and other places last Thursday night.

The army opened fire with automatic weapons, tank cannons and rockets, according to information reaching here. Army censorship made it impossible to get any despatches out of the country, and over 30 journalists lost their notes when they were stripped and searched before being expelled from Dacca on Saturday night.

India wave hits UK's vax drive, amid adulation for Poonawala

At last, the Sun is shining both literally and figuratively. This is "Happy Monday" as another phase of lockdown comes to an end and we can meet in groups of two families. Or so we were told a while ago. But the Covid situation keeps changing like the London weather, and strict international travel bans come into force.

Earlier last week, India was headlined on the front page — fortunately in a way it was a compliment not a criticism. But now the news that our vaccine supply may be interrupted because the new wave in India will impact vaccine exports to UK has spread gloom. We have had only the fantastic success of the vaccination programme thus far to cheer us. By now, 32 million doses have been delivered catering to 43 per cent of the population, Second only to Israel. All adults were due to be "vaxxed" by end April. Now we are not sure and have to wait.

There is awe and wonder at how the Serum Institute has become the largest supplier of vaccines with special features on Adar Poonawala appearing in the media every day. (Makes a change from debates on farmers' protests being discussed in Parliament.)

And so now we have stories on the "prince of vaccines", with a fortune of 11 billion pounds, hiring a mansion on Mayfair for 50,000 pounds a week. We also know all about his property portfolio including the homes in India and about his fleet of 35 luxury cars which includes a Mercedes redesigned as a batmobile... Of course it may be modelled on the vehicle owned by the fictional superhero, Batman, but with Covid, bats have a special significance, wouldn't you say, hmm? But to be honest, while he vaccinates the world, Adar has become a superhero as well... who can grudge him his reported collection of Picasso and Dalí? Well deserved — as lives have been saved, after Adar took a risk and invested in the "Oxford" vaccine, long before anyone else thought of it.

The country remains obsessed by vaccines. On the news channels, in newspapers in daily conversations, Covid and vaccines dominate, as now we await the Covid annual booster jabs just like we have for flu.

We are also eagerly awaiting our final release in end-June. Even so, Boris Johnson keeps on hedging his bets. Twice bitten, three times shy is his story. People are demanding a final decision but no luck. The angry ones want an inquiry into the mistakes made over the last fifteen months but Boris is in no hurry. These inquiries take so long that he may have retired by the time they give their report.

The half-serious speculation is that Boris will quit being Prime Minister — not because he can't win — but because he can't afford it. Compared to what he made as a columnist (at £2500 per column) the Prime Minister only gets a low six figure salary. The house at No. 10 Downing Street has just the top floor flat for living purposes. There is no government budget for decoration. So when they moved, his fiancée decided that the place needed redecoration. There was no money from the government kitty. So private donations had to be made to buy a decent sofa and repaint the walls. This created another scandal, which has been running for some time... Where did the quarter million come from? This must be the only country where the citizens don't want their rulers to spend money officially on their homes but also don't approve if they help themselves to their friends' money. So what can a poor Prime Minister do? Unlike in India, no one here gets huge budgets to redecorate their homes when they shift into an "official residence". But in India — politicians to bureaucrats — everyone is entitled to a redecoration spree.

Perhaps the saddest event of the week has been the accidental death of a seal, who had made his home in the Thames. Freddie, as the locals called him, had washed up from colder climes into the river some time back and decided to settle down. He had become a much-loved attraction. Alas, the other day, a woman, QC no less, was walking her dog by the river when the dog escaped her control and mauled poor Freddie. Freddie died but there are no guilty parties. The dog owner was helpless, as the dog would not let go. It was as if they had known each other and had a score to settle. Seals may be cute but the English treasure their dogs. After all, we are told that highly placed advisers to the Prime Minister have been transferred for being rude to Dilyn the Number 10 dog.

Global liquidity, buoyed market trigger IPO rush

New Delhi, March 28: Global liquidity and bull run in domestic equity market helped Indian companies raise over ₹31,000 crore through initial share-sale in the ongoing fiscal year and the IPO pipeline remains strong for 2021-22 too, experts said on Sunday.

This also marks the highest fund-raising through IPOs in last three years.

Sandeep Bhardwaj, CEO, retail at IIFL Securities, said the IPO pipeline remains strong with 28 companies holding markets regulator Sebi's approval for raising nearly ₹28,710 crore through initial share-sale going forward.

Moreover, companies including LIC, HDB Financial Services, NCDEX, ESAF Small Finance Bank are expected to come out with their IPOs in 2021-22, said Rajendra Naik, managing director, investment banking, Centrum Capital.

● Thirty firms raised ₹31,277 crore through IPOs in 2020-21, significantly higher than ₹20,352 crore mopped up through 13 initial share-sales in the preceding fiscal year.

● The IPO pipeline remains strong with 28 companies holding markets regulator Sebi's approval for raising nearly ₹28,710 crore through initial share-sale going forward.

● Companies such as LIC, HDB Financial Services, NCDEX, ESAF Small Finance Bank are expected to come out with their IPOs in FY22

According to an analysis of data available with the stock exchanges, 30 firms raised ₹31,277 crore through initial public offerings (IPOs) in 2020-21, significantly higher than ₹20,352 crore mopped up through 13 initial share-sales in the preceding fiscal year.

Prior to that, 14 companies had floated IPOs in 2018-19 to raise ₹14,719 crore and 45 main-board IPOs during 2017-18 collectively raised ₹82,109 crore.

Apart from IPOs, the fiscal 2020-21 witnessed a ₹15,000-crore follow-on public offer of Yes Bank.

Adding depth to the IPO markets, companies from diverse sectors like jewellery, technology, specialty chemicals, banking and financial services have made their way to the IPO space during the period under review. "The biggest factor driving companies to fund-raising through IPO is the bull run in the stock market. Improved sentiments in the secondary market acted as a support for the primary market," Naik said.

According to him, ample liquidity, better than expected economic recovery uplifted the market sentiment and the same was visible in the primary market.

Making similar statement, IIFL Securities' Bhardwaj said the availability of ample liquidity in the system across the world, new sectors businesses with immense opportunities and optimism around the Indian demography, demand and growth story triggered the IPOs' gold rush.

V.K. Vijaykumar, chief investment strategist at Geojit Financial Services, believes that there is exuberance in the market and this has attracted large number of retail investors into the market.

He, further, said new retail investors are actively and a bit irrationally applying for the initial public offers and suggested that such investors should be discrete in selecting IPOs.

Higher PF cap won't help most staff

MADHUSUDAN SAHOO NEW DELHI, MARCH 28

The government's decision to double the cap on an individual's investment in general provident fund (PF) is unlikely to benefit an employee in the lower or middle ranks compared to ultra-high salaried persons.

According to the law, any organisation that employs 20 or more people on a permanent basis is supposed to provide the PF facility to its employees. An amount that is 12 per cent of the basic pay needs to be contributed by the employee every month.

Recently, the government had amended PF rules to increase the cap on Employees' Provident Fund or EPF contribution — whose interest income is tax-exempt — from ₹2.5 lakh to ₹5 lakh per annum. This amendment will allow even the individuals, who are earning an annual salary of ₹83.33 lakh or a monthly salary of ₹6.94 lakh to benefit from tax-exempt interest from EPFO. Earlier, the benefit of tax-free PF interest was available only to those who received an annual income of ₹41,66,666 or a monthly income of ₹3,47,222.

A source in the government said that the recent amendment on the EPF contributions would benefit only a very small section of staff who contribute higher amounts in provident fund because employees receiving a salary upwards of ₹3.47 lakh a month make up just one per cent of the total workforce in the country.

Ordinary employees, he said, may have nothing much to gain.

OVER 4 CRORE OLD VEHICLES ON INDIAN ROADS, SAYS ROAD MIN

New Delhi, March 28: Over four crore vehicles older than 15 years are plying on roads pan-India and fall under the ambit of green tax, with Karnataka occupying the top slot with more than 70 lakh such vehicles.

The ministry of road transport and highways has digitised the data of such vehicles throughout the country, excluding Andhra Pradesh, Madhya Pradesh, Telangana and Lakshadweep as their records were not available.

A proposal to levy green tax has already been sent to the states.

More than four crore vehicles have been found to be older than 15 years, including over two crore which are more than 20 years old, as per the data.

The digitised vehicle records are as per the centralised Vahan database that excludes "AP, Madhya Pradesh, Telangana, and Lakshadweep", the ministry said.

Uttar Pradesh occupies the second spot with 56.54 lakh vehicles, of which 24.55 lakh are older than 20 years. The capital Delhi is at the third place in terms of old and polluting vehicles at 49.93 lakh, of which 35.11 lakh are older than 20 years.

The digitisation of vehicle numbers revealed that Kerala has 34.64 lakh such vehicles, followed by 33.43 lakh in Tamil Nadu, 25.38 lakh in Punjab and 22.69 lakh in West Bengal. Maharashtra, Odisha, Gujarat, Rajasthan and Haryana have these vehicles in the range of 17.58 lakh and 12.29 lakh. The number of such vehicles ranges between 1 lakh and 5.44 lakh for Jharkhand, Uttarakhand, Chhattisgarh, HP, Puducherry, Assam, Bihar, Goa, Tripura and UTs of Dadra-Nagar Haveli and Daman and Diu. — PTI

39% PM housing units completed

SANGEETHA G CHENNAI, MARCH 28

Out of the Centre's target houses under the Pradhan Mantri Awas Yojana-Gramin (PMAY-G), only 2.77 per cent housing units have been completed in FY20-21. On the other hand, the Pradhan Mantri Awas Yojana-Urban (PMAY-U) has completed only 39 per cent of the target houses since 2015.

In FY20-21, the Centre had set a target of sanctioning 63.76 lakh houses under PMAY-G. Out of this, sanctions were provided for 34.47 lakh units, which is 54 per cent of the target. According to data from the ministry of rural development, only 2.77 per cent of houses have been completed till February. In 2019-20, 56.63 per cent of the target houses were completed.

According to the ministry, the pace of completion has slowed down drastically. "This slow pace can be attributed to some factors like inactivity due to Covid-19, election in a few states, saturation of eligible beneficiaries from SC and ST categories, slow pace of working of remand module and lack of timely allocation of targets to districts," finds the ministry.

The PMAY-G being implemented from April 1, 2016 with the target of construction of 2.95 crore houses by the year 2022, has completed 1.35 lakh units, as per the data from the ministry of rural development.

Similarly, against the validated demand of 1.12 crore houses across the country, so far 1.11 crore houses have been sanctioned under the four verticals of PMAY-U Mission.

Out of the sanctioned houses, more than 75 lakh houses are in various stages of construction, and over 43 lakh houses have been completed, which is 39 per cent of the target houses as well those sanctioned. This also includes incomplete houses under the National Urban Renewal Mission run by the United Progressive Alliance government.

The ministry of housing and urban affairs has been implementing PMAY-U Mission since June 25, 2015 to assist states and union territories technically and financially in providing all-weather pucca houses with basic civic infrastructure to all eligible urban households by year 2022.

Manappuram MFI may get listed

Kochi, March 28: Manappuram Finance, the second largest gold loan company in the country, is toying with the idea of hiving off and taking its microfinance arm Asirwad Microfinance public within a year, a top company official said.

With a loan portfolio of over ₹5,360 crore and close to 25 lakh customers across 23 states, the Chennai-based Asirwad is the fourth largest microfinance lender in the country in terms of the loan book.

Founded in 2008 by S.V. Raja Vaidyanathan, Asirwad was taken over by Manappuram in February 2015 for ₹48.63 crore. The V.P. Nandakumar-led company first bought 71 per cent stake which was later increased to 95 per cent and the rest is with the founder Vaidyanathan.

Under Manappuram, Asirwad has grown leaps and bounds.

From a loan book of just ₹300 crore and a few lakh customers across 115 branches in Tamil Nadu, Kerala and Karnataka when it was bought over, the company has over 1,030 branches across 314 districts in 23 states (excluding Andhra Pradesh and Telangana) and a loan book of over ₹5,358 crore as of 2020-end, of which over ₹1,000 crore is in Tamil Nadu alone.

As of the December 2020 quarter, Asirwad had a loan book of ₹5,357.71 crore, a growth of 6.68 per cent from ₹5,022.14 crore in the year-ago quarter.

Govt unlikely to continue with zero-coupon bonds

New Delhi, March 28: The government is unlikely to take zero-coupon bond route to further recapitalise public sector banks after the RBI expressed some concerns in this regard, sources said. The government, they said, would resort back to recapitalisation bonds bearing a coupon rate for capital infusion in these banks.

To save interest burden and ease the fiscal pressure, the government last year decided to issue zero-coupon bonds for meeting the capital needs of the banks.

The first test case of the new mechanism was a capital infusion of ₹5,500 crore into Punjab and Sind Bank by issuing zero-coupon bonds of six different maturities last year. These special securities with tenure of 10-15 years are non-interest bearing and valued at par.

However, the RBI raised some concerns with regard to calculation of an effective capital infusion made in any bank through this instrument issued at par, sources said.

Since such bonds usually are non-interest bearing but issued at a deep discount to the face value, it is difficult to ascertain net present value, they added. As a result, sources said, it has been concluded to do away with zero-coupon bond for recapitalisation.

KFC believes in India story, to expand stores

New Delhi, March 28: The US-based fast food chain KFC will continue to expand its restaurant network in India despite the coronavirus pandemic bringing structural changes in the business, believing the country to be a growth market in the coming years, according to a top company official.

KFC India, which opened around 30 new restaurants last year during the peak of the Covid-19-induced disruptions, is looking at adding new outlets this year too as it looks to enhance access of the brand to its consumers.

"Our intent is definitely to keep growing the brand. One of our biggest strategic pillars is what we call as access. We have to ensure that access to the brand continues to grow for the consumers, both physical and digital," KFC India managing director Samir Menon said.

Despite the Covid-19 disruptions, he said, "We actually have more restaurants now than we had in pre-Covid. During the course of the year, our franchisees have opened new restaurants. So we actually are a bigger business now than we were in pre-Covid in terms of number of restaurants."

Before Covid-19 hit, KFC India had a restaurant count of about 450 and at present it has over 480 restaurants in more than 130 cities across India.

"We believe very strongly in the India story and we don't really have any doubt that India is definitely going to be a growth market for KFC in the coming years. Definitely, it was a tough year but it hasn't deterred us from that intent," Menon emphasised.

From a physical access perspective, he said the company continuously identifies new trade areas and potential areas and starts setting up restaurants there through its franchise partners.

"Physical access is definitely going to be a key part of growth strategy. As the year goes, a better sense of what kind of numbers we are trying to chase will emerge. It will be more than 25 for sure," Menon said.

With the pandemic bringing about a change in consumer behaviour with online orders and off-premise consumption growing, he said KFC India has also accelerated its efforts to address the changing consumer needs.

"I do feel our online portion of business would have grown at least by 50 per cent between pre- and post-Covid and that has also led us to a larger shift in the way we are communicating with the consumers, a part of it is the aggregators and part of it is our own assets," he said.

Giving a sense of how the pandemic has brought about a structural change in the business, he said more than half of the sales were on premise in pre-pandemic times and in post-Covid, delivery has seen huge growth with over two-thirds of the business now moving to off premise, including takeaway.

PORSCHE FINDS INDIA TO BE A MARKET FOR NEW PANAMERA

Mumbai, March 28: Sports luxury car maker Porsche has said India is a potential market for its recently-launched new-generation Panamera sedan, even as its focus will remain on all models across segments.

Porsche India also said the launch of the new-format showrooms in Delhi and Mumbai in a short span of three months exhibits investors confidence in its business here despite the pandemic.

The company, which is part of the German auto giant Volkswagen group, had early last month rolled out the 2021 edition of Panamera in four variants — Panamera, GTS, Turbo S, and Turbo S E-hybrid, priced between Rs 1.45 crore and Rs 2.43 crore (both ex-show-room).

After setting up its first Porsche Studio in Delhi in January, the company opened another one in Mumbai early this week under a new dealer partner Infinity Cars Pvt Ltd, a luxury car dealership group, which represents a variety of marquee brands across different cities.

"For sure, India can also become a Panamera market in future. It is also one important segment which we want to develop in future," Monolito Vujicic, brand head at Porsche India, said.

He said the company delivered the first Panamera to a customer just after one week of the opening of the new outlet in Delhi in January. "It means there are customers here, we have to communicate it the right way."

Vujicic said that even Panamera Exclusive, which is the limited edition of the luxury sedan, is an option for the India market.

Krishna and Vishnu had paired for the first time in this event and would be pleased with the results they managed.

Repsol Honda eye Qatar success

Doha: Pol Espargaro and Stefan Bradl kept their heads down and focused on Sunday as the first Qualifying of 2021 got underway in Losail, the pair lining up on the fourth and sixth rows of the grid. Saturday in Qatar started under an even more punishing sky as track temperatures pushed 50°C, the MotoGP field made the most of the track time in Free Practice 3 regardless but the temperatures meant there were no changes on the combined times. As on Friday, the conditions would steadily improve throughout the evening.

As a result, Espargaro earned direct passage to Q2 and accomplished the first goal of his opening weekend with the Repsol Honda Team. Saturday overall proved to be a more complicated day for Espargaro as he continued to learn the Honda in the varying conditions of the day.

Espargaro will line up on the fourth row of the grid for his first race in Honda colours.

Los Angeles: Utah's Donovan Mitchell scored 35 points and handed out seven assists as the Jazz boosted their NBA-leading record on Saturday with a 126-110 victory over the Memphis Grizzlies.

With Mike Conley taking the night off to rest a hamstring injury, Mitchell took charge early. He made his first five shots on the way to scoring 28 first-half points — his most ever in a half. He erased an early 8-2 deficit with a three-pointer and a drive to the basket for a three-point play, and his three-pointer at the buzzer to end the half put the Jazz up 70-53. Jordan Clarkson came off the bench to add 28 points.

Joe Ingles added 15 points and seven assists and the Jazz notched their fifth straight victory and 33rd of the season. The Los Angeles Clippers, chasing Utah and the Phoenix Suns in the West, won their fifth straight game, 122-112 over Philadelphia 76ers. — AFP

Kohli & Co. complete hat-trick of series wins after clinching a thriller

Pune, March 28: The Indian cricket team completed one of their best four-month spells across formats, pipping England by a mere 7 runs in the third and final ODI after surviving Sam Curran's determined assault in an exciting contest for a well-deserved hat-trick of series victories.

For India, near domination of England in all three formats at home comes straight after humbling Australia in their own backyard earlier this year during a gruelling tour.

The 2-1 win against the reigning world champions will certainly please Virat Kohli but he will not at all be amused by the fact that India nearly let the game slip away with some unimaginative bowling and poor fielding at the death.

Rishabh Pant and Hardik Pandya hit stroke-filled half-centuries but Indian lower-order also caved in meekly to settle for a below-par 329 on a great batting track. But Bhuvneshwar Kumar (3/42) and Shardul Thakur (4/67) got the breakthroughs at just the right times before Curran (95 not out off 83 balls) almost changed the result single-handedly. England finished on 322 for 9.

Yorker specialist T. Natarajan bowled a brilliant final over with England needing 14 but Curran could manage only six runs because the Indian bowled mostly in the block-hole.

It was a gettable total on a flat pitch but Kohli's ploy to attack with predominantly pace attack paid off for the better part of the game before Curran launched a swift counter-assault.

Bhuvneshwar brought in his nearly decade long experience with a beautiful inswinger that castled Jason Roy (14).

He then bowled another in-cutter which left Jonny Bairstow (1) on the wrong side of the Decision Review System after the opener was forced to remain inside the crease when Pant came up to the stumps.

With half of the team gone for 155, the match became a no-contest when Thakur had Malan pulling straight to Rohit Sharma at short mid-wicket. But then Curran, first with Adil Rashid and then with Mark Wood, nearly changed the game before India prevailed. — PTI

Ronaldo fumes after WC qualifying winner denied

Paris, March 28: Cristiano Ronaldo threw his captain's armband to the ground in anger after being controversially denied an injury-time winner as Portugal blew a two-goal lead against Serbia in World Cup qualifying on Saturday, while Romelu Lukaku's 59th international goal salvaged Belgium a 1-1 draw with the Czech Republic.

The Netherlands saw off Latvia 2-0 after their opening Group G defeat by Turkey, who backed up that performance with an impressive 3-0 victory over Norway.

Portugal drew 2-2 in Belgrade, despite Ronaldo believing he had scored the winner in the third minute of stoppage time when the ball appeared to cross the goal line before Stefan Mitrovic cleared. But without technology in use, the goal was not awarded and a fuming Ronaldo was then booked for his protests.

At the final whistle he stormed from the pitch, throwing his captain's armband to the ground.

Portugal had appeared to be cruising to three points in Belgrade when 2-0 up through Liverpool striker Diogo Jota's first-half double.

But Nemanja Radonjic's half-time introduction proved crucial for Serbia as he set up Aleksandar Mitrovic and Filip Kostic to net in the first 15 minutes of the second period.

India ready for desert storm

Dubai, March 28: On a high after an impressive 1-1 draw against a fancied Oman, India are pitted against the formidable United Arab Emirates in their second football friendly here on Monday, with head coach Igor Stimac again set to experiment with a fresh set of rookies.

Ten players made their debut against Oman on Thursday as India made a fine comeback in the second half to hold the gulf side who are 23 places above them in the FIFA charts.

Oman completely dominated the first half with the Indians not being able to hold the ball for any length of time. The visitors were rather busy defending in their own half in their first international outing in more than a year.

between the two sides in the last decade while one game ended in a draw. But India will draw inspiration from their match against UAE during the 2019 Asian Cup group stage where they had created a lot of scoring chances even though they lost 0-2.

India paid dearly for poor finishing in that match while luck also did not favour them as two shots hit the framework. "UAE are even tougher than Oman, so I expect a very tough match tomorrow. They (UAE) are technically better side and they will give a lot of pressure on us," Stimac said. — PTI

SHOOTING | WORLD CUP

India finish with best-ever results

New Delhi, March 28: India pulled the curtains down on its best-ever ISSF World Cup campaign with two more gold medals here on Sunday, somewhat making up for missing out on the chance to swell its unprecedented tally of 15 Olympic quotas.

Dominating the event from start to end, hosts India topped the chart with an incredible tally of 30 medals, half of them being gold.

The country also bagged nine silver and six bronze medals in what could be the last major international outing for rifle and pistol shooters before this summer's Tokyo Olympics.

On the last competition day, shotgun shooters Prithviraj Tondaiman, Lakshay Sheoran and Kynan Chennai ended India's campaign with a gold medal in the men's trap team event.

Before that, the trio of Shreyasi Singh, Rajeshwari Kumari and Manisha Keer claimed the gold medal in the women's trap team final after blanking Kazakhstan 6-0.

In the gold medal match, the team fielded by the host nation did not break a sweat as it romped to a crushing win over Kazakhstan's Sarsenkul Rysbekova, Aizhan Dosmagambetova and Mariya Dmitriyenko, taking the number of gold won by India to 14 in the tournament.

Hamilton opens season with win

Sakhir (Bahrain), March 28: Lewis Hamilton produced another stunning demonstration of his supreme racing talent on Sunday to resist a charging Max Verstappen and win a thrilling season-opening Bahrain Grand Prix.

The defending seven-time champion defended with supreme skill over the closing laps in his Mercedes to hold off the Red Bull driver and claim a record-stretching 96th Formula One victory.

Hamilton came home seven-tenths of a second ahead of the Dutchman, who was forced to hand back the race lead in the closing laps after passing the champion with a move that had taken him off the track and beyond the limits.

As expected, Hamilton and his heir apparent delivered an exhilarating exhibition of racing as they stormed to the flag - the pair leaving third placed Valtteri Bottas, in the second Mercedes, to finish adrift by 37 seconds.

It was Hamilton's first season-opening triumph since 2015 and surprised many observers after Red Bull had dominated pre-season testing and two days of practice and qualifying ahead of the race.

"Firstly, can I just say it's the first time I've seen fans in a long time," said a delighted Hamilton.

"What a difficult race that was — stopping early we knew it was going to be tough, but we had to cover Max and it was always going to take something pretty special to do it," he added.

A disappointed Verstappen said: "Of course, it's a shame, but you also have to see the positives. We're putting the fight on to them so it's great to start the year like that" — AFP

Is modern cricket making it more difficult for umpires?

As the cricket world gathered momentum with the last One Day International (ODI) of the India-England series being the last fixture (in India) before the start of the Indian Premier League (IPL) a news report must have been a dampener for cricketers and fans alike. The report cited that the Cricket Committee of the International Cricket Council (ICC) had conferred and decided that the Umpires Call element of the Umpire Decision Review System (DRS) should continue without change.

The DRS has, in the recent past, come under fire from players and experts for the aspect of inconsistency that kept cropping up more often than not in the post lockdown era.

In the first series (since the cricket world opened up) between the West Indies and England, Michael Holding prized open a debate and hinted that it was the DRS that saved the on-field umpires from decisions that skewed towards the home team — England.

With the new normal featuring only local umpires, Holding's thoughts had laid bare many errors that were committed by English on-field umpires during the first Test against the Windies. He based them on the fact that five on-field decisions were overturned post DRS and eventually went in favour of West Indies. These included three lbw decisions and two involving Windies opener John Campbell who was saved twice after being declared 'out.'

With the ICC ruling that non-neutral umpires officiate to help overcome travel and quarantine issues in pandemic times, these calls made it look as though there was a distinct inclination towards the home team, a highly debatable point.

Coming to recent times, the 'bias' element was reversed when Indian skipper, Virat Kohli, thought the other way after India's wins in the Test and Twenty20 series' against England.

Kohli's view was towards the Umpire's call part of the DRS and thought that it is creating a lot of confusion. In his opinion, there should be not be any debates if the ball is clipping the stumps or missing them, a call based on common sense. He decried decisions taken by the third umpire which are based on the percentage of the ball that will or will not hit the stick. To him, the ratio/part hitting or missing the stumps does not matter. In short, his assessment was to keep it simple and not cause any confusion.

Many years ago, while discussing neutral umpires, many former arbitrators who had officiated in international matches had shown a dislike for the word neutral when it came to umpires. Famed umpire Piloos 'PD' Reporter who, along with V. K. Ramaswamy, stood in a non-home Test series between Pakistan and West Indies for the first time in 1986-87 had stated categorically that an umpire, whether local or not was meant to be fair and unbiased. "How can anyone call an umpire neutral? Isn't that what he's supposed to be in the first place?" The genial umpire who stood in 14 Tests and 22 ODIs squashed any further debates on the issue.

Coming back to DRS, the arguments of umpires call and other aspects of the system have been highlighted ever since local umpires have been given the charge to officiate in home games. Their decisions, particularly the contentious ones that are reviewed through DRS get noticed and cause people to form opinions on the intent of the man on the spot.

Standing for six hours, doing diligent duty, often in adverse conditions with partisan crowds and handling egocentric cricketers isn't easy and has always been referred to as a thankless job.

Modern cricket, with all its technological advances has made it even more difficult for the men in coats as, more often than not, they become soft targets. The discussions, post game/series where analysts and fans contribute their two bits, with social media accentuating opinions, add to the situation and make it worse for the adjudicators.

Another sticky issue which came further into the limelight during the India-England series' is the 'soft signal' ingredient.

The Board of Control for Cricket in India (BCCI) has decided that no soft signals from the on-field umpire will be allowed while referring a decision to the third umpire in the impending IPL while the ICC has indicated that it would revise this protocol before the India vs New Zealand World Test Championship final.

Kohli's view of getting decisions straight and clear of any doubts is what most players would want. The last thing on their minds should be any kind of confusion on umpiring decisions, an aspect that the erudite panel on ICC's Cricket Committee (themselves former internationals) should consider.
