SC stays HC order on asset sale

Govt objected to the court casting aspersions without evidence

PARMOD KUMAR | DC
NEW DELHI, FEB. 10

The Supreme Court on Tuesday stayed an order of the Andhra Pradesh High Court castigating the wisdom of the state government, Chief Minister Y.S. Jagan Mohan Reddy and that of the lawyers representing the government.

A bench comprising Chief Justice Sharad A. Bobde, Justice A.S. Bopanna and Justice V. Ramasubramanian stayed the December 30, 2020, order in an appeal by the Andhra Pradesh government.

Senior lawyer Sajjan

Poovayya assisted by advocate Mahfooz Ahsan Nazaki appeared for the state government.

The High Court by its December 30 2020 order had questioned the wisdom of the government, the Chief Minister and advocates representing the state on different counts including the conduct of some lawyers representing the government.

The critical observations by the High Court had come on an application by the state government seeking the recusal of a judge on the grounds that the said judge had prejudged the issue without hearing the state government.

The Jagan Mohan Reddy government was aggrieved with an observation in the course of an earlier hearing where the court had questioned the decision of the state government to auction certain state properties wondering whether the state had become bankrupt.

“How could the government auction the properties of the state? Had the government become bankrupt to auction government properties? We will declare there is a breakdown of constitutional machinery in the state and hand over administration to the Central government.”

The assertion that this statement was made by one of the members of the bench has been disputed.

The petition by the AP government has said that a perusal of the contents of the “unprecedented” order, which is unrelated to the issue raised in the matter, would show that the HC has not stopped merely at castigating the government/its functionaries and the advocates but even goes on to cast aspersions on the top court collegiums on the mere an assertion without proof of the judge.

NOMINATIONS FOR 4TH PHASE OF POLLS BEGIN

DC CORRESPONDENT
VIJAYAWADA, FEB. 10

Filing of nominations for the election of sarpanchs and ward members to gram panchayat under phase-4 began in the state on Wednesday.

The State Election Commission issued a schedule for conduct of phase-4 polls and, accordingly, filing of nominations is being accepted from 10.30 am to 5 pm and the last date for receipt of nominations is February 12 up to 5 pm.

Scrutiny of nominations will be held on February 13 and the last date for withdrawal of nominations is February 16. Polling will be held on February 21 from 6.30 am to 3.30 pm and counting of votes will begin from 4 pm onwards the same day.

Without team effort, we can't win matches: Jagan

N. VAMSI SRINIVAS | DC
VIJAYAWADA, FEB. 10

Chief Minister Y.S. Jagan Mohan Reddy on Wednesday stressed the need for team work for effective governance and secure the popular mandate once again in 2024.

He was participating in the meeting of departmental heads and secretaries convened by Chief Secretary Aditya Nath Das to review the implementation of the welfare initiatives ‘Navaratnalu’. Jagan Mohan Reddy sprang a surprise by not only exhibiting his cricket knowledge, perhaps for the first time in official meetings, but also exuding bonhomie. He had lunch with the bureaucrats after the meeting and spent a good amount of time talking to them informally, according to sources.

“It is not enough if captain alone plays and we can't win matches without team effort,” he said.

Referring to successful launching of all the poll promises within a year of coming to power, the Chief Minister said, “We played the opening overs extremely well and now into the middle overs when batsmen tend to relax a bit. It will be difficult to make up in the slog overs if we don't continue the spirit of opening overs all through the match.”

The Chief Minister asked the officials to continue to extend cooperation to his government and help it successfully secure the mandate in 2024. “The meeting went on more at an informal level though the Chief Minister drove home the point,” a senior official told Deccan Chronicle. The Chief Minister also appreciated Aditya Nath

Das for taking the initiative to call the secretaries meeting which he said should be a regular feature.

He asked officials to freely express their views and come up with suggestions for further improving the delivery mechanisms. He expressed satisfaction for success of the administration being taken to the village level unlike the previous government which stopped at the mandal level.

Officials were having doubts over implementing the poll promises with Rs 60,000 crore debt left behind by the TD government. “Not only did we launch Navaratnalu but have also successfully implementing them,” he said adding that Rs 90,000 crore was deposited to people's accounts under various Direct Benefit Transfer schemes.

HC LETS MANTRI SPEAK TO MEDIA, NOT AGAINST SEC

DC CORRESPONDENT
VIJAYAWADA, FEB. 10

Panchayat raj and rural development minister Peddireddy Ramachandra Reddy got a relief on Wednesday as the high court has lifted a gag order on him, but with a rider.

A division bench of Chief Justice Aroop Kumar Goswami and justice Ch. Praveen Kumar held the hearing and issued the order lifting the curbs imposed by the state election commission on the minister. The SEC had barred him from speaking to the media.

The court, however, directed the minister not to speak anything adverse against the State Election Commission. “The minister must stick to the word he gave the court that he would not make any adverse remarks on the SEC and on the gram panchayat polls,” the court ruled.

The court allowed the minister to speak to the media on other subjects.

In a separate development, the High Court reserved its order on a government plea to allow the vehicles carrying essential commodities to go ahead with door delivery to the beneficiaries under the public distribution system.

The vehicles attracted action as they painted in colours that resemble the YSRC's officials.

YSRC wins in 81% of villages in ph-1 elections

DC CORRESPONDENT
VIJAYAWADA, FEB. 10

The YSRC on Wednesday claimed it won 2,640 gram panchayats out of the total 3,249 in the first phase of panchayat polls.

The party in a press release refuted the claims of Telugu Desam Chief N. Chandrababu Naidu that the TD won 38.74 per cent seats. The YSRC put out details of winning candidates on its party website.

The YSRC claimed that only 501 candidates supported by the TD won the elections out of 3,249 panchayats which is only 15.4 percent. The YSRC also stated that the TD got only 54 seats out of total 320 and YSRC got 262 in Srikakulam district. The YSRC won 273 panchayats and the TD 61 out of a total of 340 in Visakhapatnam, YSRC won 305 panchayats and TD only 47 out of total 366 in East Godavari district, YSRC bagged 171 and TD 32 out of total 239 in West Godavari district, YSRC 192 and TD 35 out of total 234 in Krishna district and YSRC 258 and TD 62 out of total 337 in Guntur district.

4-HOUR RAIL ROKO ON FEBRUARY 18 BY FARM UNIONS

SANJAY KAW | DC
NEW DELHI, FEB. 10

Days after ‘Chakka Jam’, the protesting farmers’ unions on Wednesday announced a four-hour nationwide ‘rail roko’ (railway blockade) on February 18 to intensify their agitation against the three farm laws.

The unions also decided to make a toll free movement of vehicles on highways in Rajasthan from Friday.

Samyukta Kisan Morcha leader Darshan Pal said a series of events were planned to intensify the agitation which was going on for over two months at Delhi borders.

The SKM is an umbrella organisation of 41 farmers’ unions. Just a month ago, farmers had stopped toll collection at Hanumangarh, Ganganagar and Bikaner in the state.

539 VILLAGES SKIP POLLS TO PICK SARPANCH

DC CORRESPONDENT
VIJAYAWADA, FEB. 10

In the second phase gram panchayat polls, 539 positions of sarpanches and 12,605 ward members were elected unanimously. The State Election Commission in a statement issued here on Wednesday said that 167 mandals were notified for conduct of polls under phase-2, scheduled for February 13.

Among them, 3,328 offices of sarpanch were notified for election and of them, 539 were elected unanimously. This has resulted in the need to conduct elections to 2,786 offices and 7,510 contestants are in fray.

With regard to ward members, 33,570 positions were notified in 168 mandals for conduct of polls. Of them, 12,605 were elected unanimously. This means elections will be conducted for 20,796 ward members and 44,879 contestants are in the fray.

IJU FLAYS ED
RAIDS ON NEWSCICK

Hyderabad/Chandigarh, Feb. 10: The Indian Journalists Union (IJU) has condemned the Enforcement Directorate raids on the digital news platform Newsclick and described them as continuation of the government's ongoing efforts to silence the media critical of its policies.

In a statement issued on Wednesday, K. Sreenivas Reddy and Balwinder Singh Jammu President and Secretary General of IJU respectively said that five journalists have been arrested in the country in the first month of 2021 creating a record of sorts. They also recalled the recent sedition charges against senior journalists who were covering developments on the Republic Day.

The news portal Newsclick has been closely covering the ongoing farmers agitation against the farm laws. The raids by ED on a small news portal and the immediate allegation of ₹30 crore money laundering betray the designs of the government, the IJU leaders commented.

Raids by obliging central agencies and FIRs by puppet police in various states against journalists are a clear and brazen effort to silence the critical media by creating fear psychosis, the IJU leaders said. They demanded the government to desist from this kind of tactics and help foster a media friendly environment crucial to the sustenance of democracy.

96 ARRESTS IN 93
SEDITION CASES
IN 2019: GOVT

New Delhi, Feb. 10: As many as 93 cases of sedition were registered in different parts of the country in 2019 in which 96 people were arrested, the Rajya Sabha was informed on Wednesday.

Union minister of state for home G. Kishan Reddy said chargesheets were filed against 76 people while 29 were acquitted by the courts in 2019. The highest number of 22 sedition cases in 2019 was registered in Karnataka where 18 people were arrested, he said in a written reply to a question.

Reddy said 17 sedition cases were registered in Assam where 23 people were arrested. A total of 11 sedition cases were registered in Jammu and Kashmir where 16 people were arrested. As many as 10 sedition cases were filed in Uttar Pradesh in which nine people were arrested, he said.

Replying to another question on whether any step has been taken to strengthen the sedition law (Section 124A of the IPC), the minister said the "amendment of laws is an ongoing process".

WILSON MOVES HC
AGAINST 'PLANTED EVIDENCE'

SHAHAB ANSARI | DC
MUMBAI, FEB. 10

Activist Rona Wilson on Wednesday filed a petition in the Bombay High Court seeking dismissal of the case against him in connection with the 2018 Bhima Koregaon violence. His lawyer submitted a digital forensic report from a Massachusetts-based forensic firm Arsenal Digital which mentioned that a hacker hacked Rona Wilson's laptop and planted 10 letters right before Wilson's arrest.

Advocate Sudeep Pasbola on behalf of Rona filed the petition and also attached a digital forensic report from a Massachusetts-based forensic firm Arsenal Digital that mentioned that a hacker hacked Rona Wilson's laptop and planted 10 letters right before Wilson's arrest.

Advocate Pasbola had approached the Arsenal Digital to examine the electronic copy of his client's laptop.

These are the same letters which were first used by the Pune police and later by the National Investigation Agency (NIA) as evidence to show Rona's complicity in Bhima Koregaon case.

Relying on these letters the Pune police in the past had claimed that the arrested accused were planning to assassinate the Prime Minister Narendra Modi.

On January 1, 2018, the violence at Bhima Koregaon village in Pune district left one dead and injured several others, including 10 policemen.

Violence erupted after some people, reportedly with saffron flags, pelted stones at cars heading towards the village for the commemoration of the 200 years of Bhima-Koregaon war on New Year's Day.

NEW DELHI, FEB. 10

The Special Cell of Delhi Police on Tuesday night nabbed a man wanted in connection with the violence at the Red Fort on Republic Day. The accused identified as, Iqbal Singh, was also carrying a reward of ₹50,000 on information leading to his arrest.

According to Sanjeev Kumar Yadav, the Deputy Commissioner of Police (DCP), Special Cell, Iqbal was nabbed from Hoshiarpur in Punjab on Tuesday night by the northern range of Special Cell.

Earlier on Monday, the Special Cell had arrested actor-activist Deep Sidhu, a "prominent player" behind the violence at the Red Fort from Haryana's Karnal bypass.

The Delhi police had announced a cash reward of ₹1 lakh for information that can lead to the arrest of actor Sidhu, Jugraj Singh, Gurjot Singh and Gurjant Singh who hoisted flags at the Red Fort or were involved in the act.

A cash reward of ₹50,000 each was also announced

DIDI: BJP USING RATH YATRA TO DIVIDE SOCIETY

Raiganj/Malda, Feb. 10: West Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee on Wednesday mocked BJP leaders for travelling on raths "as if they are gods", and alleged saffron party's rath yatra is meant to create division in the society on the basis of religion.

Accusing the saffron party of resorting to "lies" about Hinduism, Banerjee said the desperation to defeat her has stemmed from the BJP's ambition to wipe out the last opposition bastion in the country.

Addressing two back-to-back rallies in the minority Muslims dominated Uttar Dinajpur and Malda districts, Banerjee appealed to the voters to ensure victory of the TMC candidate and not waste their votes by casting them in favour of "stooge of BJP from Hyderabad", in a swipe at Asaduddin Owaisi AIMIM. After impressive showing in the neighbouring Bihar, AIMIM is preparing to fight Assembly elections in Bengal where Muslim voters form a sizeable section of the electorate.

"Rath yatra is a religious festival. All of us have participated in this festival. We know Lord Jagannath, Balaram and Goddess Subhadra travel in those chariots.

"But, the BJP leaders are using this rath yatra for their own political purposes to divide the society and pit one against the other. BJP leaders are travelling on raths as if they are gods," she said.

Tikait: Not aiming for change in power

New Delhi, Feb. 10: BKU leader Rakesh Tikait on Wednesday asserted that the agitating farmers were not aiming at any change in power at the Centre but a solution to their problems as he said many of their leaders will tour different parts of the country to spread the movement.

Tikait, who had earlier said that police should have shot those who unfurled flags at Red Fort during the tractor rally on Republic Day, defended the act saying it was not treason and youths were being framed.

for Buta Singh, Sukhdev Singh, Jajbir Singh and Iqbal Singh for allegedly instigating protesters.

Of them, Sidhu, Iqbal Singh and Sukhdev Singh have been arrested. Police said raids are being conducted to nab the rest of them. Sidhu has been sent to seven-day police cus-tomony by a city court.

On January 26, thousands of protesting farmers who reached TTO from the Ghazipur border clashed with the police. Many of them driving tractors reached the Red Fort and entered the monument, where a religious flag was also hoisted.

Addressing the protesting farmers at Singhu border, he said that the agitation against the farm laws will stretch till the Centre addresses their issues.

"We do not aim change in power (at the Centre). The government should do its work. We want it to repeal the farm laws and ensure law on MSP," he said.

Tikait said that the agitation will be long drawn and continue till government starts talks with farmer leaders. "The government should hold the talks. Our committee is ready to talk," he said. — PTI

CONG WILL SCRAP
LAWS IF VOTED TO POWER: PRIYANKA

Lucknow, Feb. 10: Attacking the Centre over the new farm laws, Congress leader Priyanka Gandhi Vadra told a rally in western Uttar Pradesh that if voted to power her party would scrap them.

At a kisan panchayat organised by the party in Saharanpur, the Congress general secretary accused Prime Minister Narendra Modi and other BJP leaders of insulting farmers who are protesting against the laws.

"The three laws are demonic. If voted to power, the Congress will scrap these laws," she said.

She said the party's fight will continue till the laws are scrapped.

The rally is the first in a series of such farmers' meetings planned the party in western Uttar Pradesh, a year before the assembly elections in the state.

The 25th edition of the International Film Festival of Kerala (IFFK) opened on Wednesday all masked up, with strict adherence to social distancing and to a note of warning.

The IFFK, whose fumigated and sanitised auditoriums are running at just 50 per cent capacity and all delegates have to undergo rigorous antigen tests — 70 out of 800 tested on Tuesday turned out to be "positive" and are in quarantine — has adjusted well to the Coronavirus-induced new normal, but it continues to strike a note of dissent through the films it picks.

The festival's opening film, Bosnia's Oscar entry Quo Vadis, Aida?, which had its India premiere on Wednesday evening after chief minister Pinarayi Vijayan inaugurated the film festival, is a cautionary tale about "what happens when we fail to react on time to warning signs".

Directed by Jasmila Banic, Quo Vadis, Aida? is based on recorded facts and recalls in shocking detail the Srebrenica massacre of July 1995.

PLA, Indian troops start disengagement: China

PAWAN BALI | DC
NEW DELHI, FEB. 10

In an apparent breakthrough in nine-month tense military standoff in eastern Ladakh, the Indian and Chinese armies have reportedly started the process of disengagement from the contentious Pangong Tso sector on Wednesday. This was announced by the Chinese defence ministry in Beijing, but there was no response so far from the Indian government.

"The Chinese and Indian frontline troops at the southern and northern banks of the Pangong Tso Lake start synchronised and organised disengagement from February 10," said Senior Colonel Wu Qian, the spokesperson of the Chinese defence ministry, in a written statement on Wednesday. This move is in accordance with the consensus reached by both sides at the ninth round of the China-India corps commander-level meeting, the statement said.

There has been no formal statement from India so far Wednesday since Parliament is in session, but sources said tanks and armoured vehicles are being moved back from the southern banks of Pangong Tso. There are also reports of small troop disengagement moves from the northern banks of the lake. The disengagement will happen cautiously in a phased manner and each move will be verified.

Defence minister Rajnath Singh is expected to make a statement in the Rajya Sabha on Thursday on the "Present Situation in Eastern Ladakh", according to a tweet from the defence minister's office.

The tanks of China's People's Liberation Army (PLA) and the Indian Army are placed in close proximity to each other on the southern banks of Pangong Tso in the Chushul sector. This is the area where the Indian Army, in a pre-emptive move in August last year to the surprise of the Chinese side, had occupied the strategic heights which allowed it to dominate the area. The sector also saw the first incident of firing in 45 years at the Line of Actual Control, as tensions soared in early September last year.

US says will stand with its friends

SRIDHAR
KUMARASWAMI | DC
NEW DELHI, FEB. 10

Signalling a consistency in American foreign policy, the new Joe Biden Administration said on Wednesday that it is "concerned by Beijing's pattern of ongoing attempts to intimidate its neighbours" such as India, adding that the United States "would stand with (its) friends".

The US state department also described India as "one of the most important partners in the Indo-Pacific region" of the US, adding that it "welcomes India's emergence as a leading global power and its role as a net security provider in the region".

Describing its Comprehensive Global Strategic Partnership with India as "both broad as well as multifaceted", the US expressed "confidence that the strong and upward trajectory of our partnership will, in fact, continue".

Asked about human rights issues, the US state department said that "this applies not only to India but to every partner of ours across the board" and that the US is "committed to supporting democratic values, including a free and open civil society and the strong rule of law".

Pointing out that it "regularly engages with the Government of India", the US said the "shared commitment to democratic value is the bedrock for the U.S.-India relationship" which is "in keeping with India's own democratic values, its pluralistic values, and its history of tolerance".

Asked about the phone conversation late on Tuesday between US secretary of state Antony J. Blinken and Indian External Affairs Minister S Jaishankar, the US State Department on Wednesday said that "Blinken expressed concern over the military coup and the importance of rule of law and the democratic process in Burma (Myanmar), adding that both foreign ministers "also discussed regional developments, including the value of U.S.-India cooperation across the Indo-Pacific" and "looked forward to expanded regional cooperation, including through the Quad, and to address the challenges of Covid and climate change".

It is learnt Indian troops have not been moved back from these strategic heights on Wednesday.

"If India cedes its sole bargaining chip — Kailash Range heights — before China begins to roll back all its land grabs, it will prove a big mistake," tweeted strategic analyst Brahma Chellaney.

As per reports, the Chinese soldiers will also move beyond the Finger 8 area on the northern bank of Pangong Tso and Indian troops will be placed between Finger 2 and Finger 3. Indian and Chinese troops had brutally clashed in the area in May 2020, with many soldiers suffering serious injuries.

The Indian and Chinese corps commanders had held the ninth round of talks on January 24, where both sides had "agreed to push for an early disengagement of the frontline troops" in the eastern Ladakh.

Earlier in June, and then again in July, India and China had agreed to mutually move back from the Galwan Valley, Gogra Post, Hot Springs and Pangong Tso. However, it was only in the Galwan Valley that both troops had moved back to some extent. In Pangong Tso, the Chinese Army had then refused to move back from the ridgelines of Finger 4 and the whole of Finger 5 to 8 area, which it had illegally occupied in May. In the Gogra Post and Hot Springs areas too, there was no clarity on China's disengagement. Besides, in the Depsang plains, Chinese troops had been preventing the Indian Army from conducting its patrolling.

TN CM NOT RATTLED BY ROADSHOW
HELD TO WELCOME SASIKALA

G. BABU JAYAKUMAR

CHENNAI, FEB. 10

The grandiose roadshow that marked the return of expelled AIADMK general secretary V.K. Sasikala from jail on Monday and her clarion call for unity have not made any impact on the party leadership, who remain firm on not reinstating her or any of her family members without heeding to her call.

Sasikala, on her part, is also silent though she has been meeting functionaries of the AMMK, the party launched by her nephew T.T.V. Dhinakaran after he was thrown out of the AIADMK, and others at the house of her niece Krishana Priya in T Nagar, where she is now put up.

But Chief Minister Edappadi K. Palaniswami, speaking at a campaign meeting in Krishnagiri on Wednesday, categorically stated that there was no scope for any one expelled from the party to rejoin it. In an indirect reference to Sasikala, he said that they would not allow the domination of any family in the party.

Only a party worker could become Chief Minister and a single family's control on the party would not be tolerated, said Palaniswami, who had openly hit out at Dhinakaran on Tuesday night, pointing out that he was thrown out of the party by J Jayalalithaa.

There was a conspiracy to capture the AIADMK and whatever Dhinakaran did he would not be able to pull it off, he said and called upon the party cadre to help realise the dreams of MGR and Jaya.

Reacting to rumours that Palaniswami and Sasikala were planning to meet, fisheries minister D. Jayakumar clearly said that there was no scope for it in this lifetime. He was speaking to media persons at Saidapet on Wednesday morning.

director Mohammad Rasoulof. It tells the story of a nation that enforces the death penalty through four men whose destinies are loosely connected by their willingness or refusal to assist in state-ordered assassinations.

The IFFK is scheduled to run between Feb. 10 and 14 in Thiruvananthapuram, and after that all films will travel to Ernakulam (from Feb. 17-21), Thalassery (Feb. 23-27) and Palakkad (March 1-5).

PROBE ENTERS
MARS ORBIT

Beijing, Feb. 10: China says its Tianwen-1 spacecraft has entered orbit around Mars on a mission to land a rover and collect data on underground water and possible signs of ancient life.

The arrival of the orbiter-rover combo in orbit on Wednesday evening Beijing time makes it the second spacecraft in two days to reach the red planet. An orbiter from the United Arab Emirates led the way on Tuesday.

Next week, the US will try to land its Perseverance rover on the Martian surface. Only the U.S. has successfully touched down on Mars — eight times beginning with two Viking missions.

KPMG BOSS
SORRY FOR
'MOANING' JIBE

London, Feb. 10: The UK chairman of global accountancy firm KPMG has apologised for telling staff to stop moaning about working conditions during the Coronavirus pandemic.

"I am sorry for the words I used, which did not reflect what I believe in, and I have apologised to my colleagues," UK chair Bill Michael said in a statement.

"Looking after the wellbeing of our people and creating a culture where everyone can thrive is of critical importance to me and is at the heart of everything we do as a firm," he added.

The Financial Times reported that during a virtual meeting on Monday, members of KPMG's financial services consulting team told Michael about their concerns over potential cuts to pay and the ranking of individuals' performance. Michael told staff to "stop moaning" and to stop "playing the victim card", according to the FT which cited employees.

KPMG, along with Deloitte, EY and PWC, form Britain's so-called Big Four accountants that are set for a shake up.

UN PRESSES EU
OVER RISING
MIGRANT CASES

Brussels, Feb. 10: UN agencies are pressing the European Union to end the growing practices of denying migrants their right to apply for asylum, collectively expelling them and using violence against people trying to enter the bloc without authorisation.

Border pushbacks and collective expulsions are illegal under international refugee treaties, which allow people fearing for their safety to apply for protection.

Greece and even the EU's border and coast guard agency Frontex are among those accused of pushbacks or complicity in them. They deny using such methods.

The International Organisation for Migration said Wednesday that it continues to receive documented reports of human rights violations against migrants and refugees, including children, involving countries that are part of the 27-nation bloc.

POLICE BUST
GANG HIJACKING
CELEB PHONES

London, Feb. 10: Police have arrested 10 people in the UK, Belgium and Malta for allegedly hijacking mobile phones belonging to US celebrities including internet influencers, sports stars and musicians to steal personal information and millions in cryptocurrency, authorities said.

The European Union police agency Europol said Wednesday that the gang is believed to have stolen more than $100 million in cryptocurrencies by using so-called SIM swap attacks.

These attacks involve deactivating a victim's mobile phone SIM card, either by tricking the phone company or using a corrupt insider, so that the number can be transferred to another card under the gang's control.

The arrests were the result of a joint investigation by UK, US, Canadian, Belgian and Maltese police, Europol said. Europol didn't specify the nationalities of those caught in the sweep, but the UK's National Crime Agency said a day earlier that eight men were arrested in England and Scotland.

Two others were arrested previously in Belgium and Malta, Europol said.

Plane set ablaze
in Huthi attack
on Saudi airport

Riyadh, Feb. 10: A civilian plane was engulfed in flames Wednesday after Yemen's Huthi rebels launched a drone strike on an airport in southern Saudi Arabia, days after the US moved to delist the insurgents as terrorists.

Saudi authorities did not immediately report any casualties from the attack, claimed by the Huthis, the latest in a series of rebel assaults on the kingdom despite a renewed American push to de-escalate the six-year conflict.

"A cowardly criminal terrorist attack launched against Abha International Airport in Saudi Arabia by the Huthi militia," state-run Al-Ekhhbariya television quoted the Riyadh-led military coalition battling the rebels as saying.

"A fire that engulfed a passenger plane due to the Huthi attack on Abha Airport is under control," it added.

The coalition did not say how the attack was carried out, but earlier in the day reported that it had intercepted two "booby trapped" drones in the south.

The Iran-backed Huthis, who control much of northern Yemen, said they had struck Abha airport with four drones. Yahya Sarie, spokesman for the Huthis' armed wing, claimed the airport was used to launch attacks on Yemen.

But the coalition insisted that targeting the airport constituted "a war crime" and "put the lives of civilian passengers in danger", according to the official Saudi Press Agency.

The rebels appear to be stepping up attacks on the kingdom and on Riyadh-backed Yemeni forces after the United States moved last week to lift a short-lived designation of the Huthis as a terrorist group.

The Huthis have resumed an offensive to seize the Yemeni government's last northern stronghold of Marib, according to a government source, with dozens of casualties on both sides. —AFP

Military raids Suu
Kyi's party offices

Yangon, Feb. 10: Myanmar's military raided the Yangon headquarters of ousted leader Aung San Suu Kyi's party late Tuesday, officials said, as the United States joined the UN in "strongly" condemning violence against protesters demanding a return to democracy.

The latest assault on Myanmar's civilian leadership came as anger at last week's coup and the detention of Suu Kyi by the generals has driven hundreds of thousands of people into the streets, defying a junta ban on rallies. "The military dictator raided and destroyed NLD headquarters at around 9:30 pm," the National League for Democracy announced on its Facebook page.

The party's short statement gave no further details.

The raid came after demonstrations erupted for a fourth straight day Tuesday, with police using water cannon in several cities, firing rubber bullets at protesters in the capital Naypyidaw and deploying tear gas in Mandalay.

The rallies came despite a warning from the junta

THE UNITED STATES, which has led global censure of the coup, on Tuesday renewed its call for freedom of expression in Myanmar — and for the generals to step down.

that it would take action against demonstrations that threatened "stability", and a new ban on gatherings of more than five people.

The United States, which has led global censure of the coup, on Tuesday renewed its call for freedom of expression in Myanmar — and for the generals to step down.

"We strongly condemn violence against demonstrators," US State Department spokesman Ned Price told reporters, adding that people in Myanmar "have rights to peaceful assembly." "We repeat our calls for the military to relinquish power, restore democratically elected government, release those detained and lift all telecommunication restrictions from violence," he said.

Price has previously said US requests to speak to Suu Kyi had been denied. —AFP

US shows military muscle in Norway

Oslo, Feb. 10: The United States is deploying long-range B-1 bombers to Norway to train in the strategically important High North in a new show of force unseen in the region since the Cold War.

"High North, low tensions" goes an old saying, describing the relatively calm security situation and diplomatic relations in the Arctic for decades.

But mounting tensions between the West and Russia, particularly since the 2014 Crimea crisis, has led both sides to beef up their militaries even in the remote High North, an area believed to be rich in natural resources and where the ice melt has opened up new shipping routes.

This month, long-range B-1 bombers capable of carrying large amounts of air-to-ground weaponry will arrive at Norway's Orland air base for several weeks of training missions with the Scandinavian country's air force, which guards NATO's northern border.

"This deployment comes in the context of global military activities in the High North, which have increased significantly in recent years, both from the West and Russia," noted Kristian Atland, a researcher at the Norwegian Defence Research Establishment. —AFP

US keen to learn Covid origin to stop future catastrophes

Worst affected by pandemic, America wants China, WHO to be transparent

Washington, Feb. 10: It is imperative that the world learns as much as possible about the earliest days of the Covid-19 pandemic so that the world can understand its origins and prevent future biological catastrophes, the US has said after international experts investigating the origins of the disease have dismissed as unlikely a theory that the virus came from a laboratory in China.

The US, which is the worst affected country from the pandemic, is looking forward to receiving the report and the data from the investigation by the World Health Organisation's (WHO) team of experts into the origins of the Covid-19 in China's Wuhan city.

The WHO experts arrived in China last month for the long-awaited probe into the origins of the deadly coronavirus pandemic. On Tuesday, the team dismissed that the virus could have leaked from a Chinese lab, a theory strongly supported by former US president Donald Trump.

The team members said that the deadly virus was most likely to have transmitted from an animal to humans. "Broadly speaking, we have expressed our concerns regarding the need for full transparency and access from China and the WHO to all information regarding the earliest days of the pandemic," State Department Spokesperson Ned Price told reporters on Tuesday at his daily news conference.

"It's imperative that the world learns as much as possible about the earliest days of the Covid-19 pandemic so that we can understand its origins and so, importantly, we can prevent future biological catastrophes," Price said.

"I think the jury is still out. Clearly, the Chinese, at least heretofore, had not offered the requisite transparency that we need and that just as importantly, again, the international community needs so that we can prevent these sorts of pandemics from ever happening again.

This goes back to one of the very first actions that President Joe Biden took as president when he re-engaged with the WHO," Price said. China reported the first Covid-19 case in the central Chinese city of

WHO slams US Covid intel
as curbs tightened in Europe

Wuhan, Feb. 10: A WHO expert sent to China to probe the coronavirus hit out at US intelligence on Covid-19 as his team headed home with few answers about the origin of a pandemic that was forcing more clampdowns in some of the hardest-hit parts of the world.

German Chancellor Angela Merkel was set to seek an extension of strict virus curbs, as the European Commission chief addressed the stumbling vaccination rollout on the continent — which accounts for a third of the 2.3 million Covid-19 deaths worldwide.

The Coronavirus has infected close to 107 million people, devastating the global economy, and questions over the handling of the initial outbreak in central China have sparked an intense diplomatic row between Washington and Beijing.

The WHO mission to the ground zero city of Wuhan wrapped up on Tuesday without any concrete answers, with Washington again expressing scepticism about China's transparency and cooperation.

But WHO team member Peter Daszak tweeted: "Please don't rely too much on US intel: increasingly disengaged under Trump & frankly wrong on many aspects." He said they worked "flat out under the most politically charged environment possible".

China had repeatedly delayed the WHO trip, and bristled at accusations of a lack of transparency.

Beijing warned Washington not to "politicise" the mission after the White House demanded a "robust" probe.

State Department spokesman Ned Price said Tuesday that the United States supports the investigation. But when asked if China had fully cooperated with the WHO, he said: "The jury's still out." The WHO team did not identify which animal transferred the Coronavirus to humans. —AFP

Wuhan and since then the disease has snowballed into a pandemic, affecting 1,06,880,652 people with 2,339,991 deaths globally.

According to Johns Hopkins Coronavirus tracker, the US alone has reported 27,189,188 cases and 4,68,103 deaths from the deadly virus.

Trump had repeatedly blamed China for covering up and not sharing information about the virus with the world, leading to a strain in relation between the two countries.

However, China has refuted the allegations. While denying that Coronavirus originated in Wuhan, China points to reports from Italy, Spain and the US about its prevalence to pre-dating its emergence in Wuhan. —PTI

Democrats set to detail case at Trump 2nd impeachment trial

Washington, Feb. 10: Democratic lawmakers prosecuting Donald Trump are set to detail their case against him Wednesday at his impeachment trial, in a longshot bid to convince skeptical Republican senators they should convict the former president.

Trump's second impeachment trial opened on Tuesday with Democrats showing harrowing video footage of his supporters' January 6 assault on the US Capitol, where they smashed down doors, broke into the Senate chamber and led riots that left five people dead.

Trump faces a single charge of inciting the insurrection after he told enraged Republican supporters near the White House to "fight like hell." Securing a conviction is highly unlikely, as the Democrats would need 17 Republican senators to vote with them to make a two-thirds majority.

So far, only six Republicans have agreed that the trial is even constitutional in the first place.

Democratic "impeachment managers" and Trump's lawyers, both sides will flesh out their cases starting Wednesday, with the Democrats going first.

ADVANCED | TECH Scientists believe this could help farmers to prepare earlier for unexpected events

New model to predict Indian monsoon

London, Feb. 10: Scientists, including those of Indian-origin, have developed a new system which they say can provide farmers in India early forecasts of expected variations in the monsoon season, an advance which may help reduce crop losses.

The researchers, including those from the European Centre for Medium-range Weather

Forecasts (ECMWF) in the UK, used their long-term global weather forecasting system to predict when the summer monsoon will start, and how much rainfall it will bring.

In the study, published in the journal Climate Dynamics, they noted that the model provided accurate forecasts a month in advance for the timing of the monsoon in India's major

regions.

The scientists believe providing this information to farmers could help them prepare earlier for unexpected heavy rainfall or extended dry periods, both of which regularly destroy crops in India.

According to the researchers, the Indian monsoon brings around 80 per cent of India's annual rainfall with even small variations in the timing of its arrival potentially having a huge impact on agriculture.

"Accurately predicting these year-to-year variations is challenging, but could be the difference between prosperity or poverty for many families," said study co-author Amulya Chevuturi from the University of Reading in the UK.

"The forecasting accuracy we identified in India's main agricultural regions provides a clear opportunity for this system to make a positive difference to people's lives," Chevuturi said in a statement.

He believes a month's warning of a drought or deluge is a valuable time to understand the likely impact on water availability and for the farmers to make provisions to reduce the threat to food supplies.

"Better forecasts save lives, and this kind of in-depth global analysis is only possible when the best scientists and leading research institutes work together for the benefit of the whole planet," Chevuturi added. —PTI

EU LAWMAKERS
OK $815 BILLION
RECOVERY PLAN

Brussels, Feb. 10: European lawmakers on Wednesday approved a €72.5 billion euro ($81.5 billion) recovery package of loans and grants to help member states recover faster from the coronavirus pandemic.

The regulation for the Recovery and Resilience Facility was adopted with 582 votes in favour, 40 against and 69 abstentions. The RRF is the central pillar of the bloc's €750 billion euro ($910 billion) recovery plan that was adopted by EU leaders last year.

"In the long-term, this money is going to bring about change and progress to meet our digital and climate goals," said Elder Gardiazabal Rubial, a lawmaker closely involved in the negotiations.

"We will ensure that the measures will alleviate poverty and unemployment, and will take into account the gender dimension of this crisis. Our health systems will also become more resilient." —AP

UN: N. KOREA
STOLE $300M
TO FUND NUKES

Seoul, Feb. 10: North Korea has stolen more than $300 million worth of cryptocurrencies through cyberattacks in recent months to support its banned nuclear and ballistic missile programmes, a confidential UN report said.

Compiled by a panel of experts monitoring sanctions on Pyongyang, the report said the country's "total theft of virtual assets from 2019 to November 2020 is valued at approximately $316.4 million", citing a UN member state.

Financial institutions and exchanges were hacked to generate revenue for Pyongyang's nuclear and missile development, said the report, which was seen by AFP.

The North is known to operate an army of thousands of well-trained hackers who have attacked firms, institutions and researchers in South Korea and elsewhere.

It has also been accused of exploiting its cyber capabilities for financial gain.

The North is under multiple sets of international sanctions over its banned nuclear weapons and ballistic missile programmes, which have made rapid progress under leader Kim Jong Un.

To save public money, start to disinvest fast

Finance minister Nirmala Sitharaman's announcement to privatise two public sector banks and a general insurance company marks a clear departure from a cautious approach adopted by the Narendra Modi government since 2014 over the disinvestment policy. This move reaffirms the government's intent, announced last year, to exit all non-strategic sectors.

Despite his stated belief in the concept of "less government and more governance", Prime Minister Narendra Modi had done very little in terms of reducing the government's ownership of companies. In fact, the Department of Public Enterprise's data shows that there are 339 CPSEs (excluding insurance companies) as on March 31, 2018, compared to 290 CPSEs on March 31, 2014.

Several attempts to sell state-owned companies that have become a burden on exchequer were skillfully scuttled by conditions framed by bureaucrats. If the political leadership becomes successful in implementing its plan, it could prevent taxpayer's money from being invested in running inefficient companies, and that money could be fruitfully used elsewhere.

It is time for the government to move on and exit all sectors where private companies are strong. If there are no buyers, the government should give handsome compensation to employees and shut industries.

The core issue at the heart of the demand for privatisation is not so much about the propriety of the government's role in businesses as it is about the uselessness of such presence. When the Jawaharlal Nehru government decided to set up large state-owned industries, it was more a need of the hour than an ideological statement because private industrialists had no financial muscle to bankroll such massive projects. This approach was also in tune with the recommendations made by the country's eight top industrialists of the day, which was referred to as the 1945 Bombay Plan.

Though Indira Gandhi's decision to nationalise banks was dictated by her political agenda, it brought about confidence among people in the safety of their money deposited in banks. From the year 1934, when the Reserve Bank of India was established to the time of bank nationalisation in 1969, over 1,500 banks had failed in the country, eroding people's faith in the banking sector. An implied sovereign guarantee to people's money in banks resulted in the greater formalisation of public savings which helped in creating capital for entrepreneurs.

While the earlier government's intervention in critical sectors had helped the country in creating a strong industrial base, whereupon a new India was built, it is time for the government to move on and exit all sectors where private companies are strong. If there are no buyers, the government should give handsome compensation to employees and shut industries.

Modi & Azad: Civility back

Not often in the recent past has Parliament been invaded by an outbreak of civility. But when it did, as in extremely emotional speeches by the Prime Minister Narendra Modi and the Rajya Sabha Opposition Leader Ghulam Nabi Azad of the Congress, it augured well for a sense of dignity and decorum to be ushered back into India's increasingly polarised polity. Before a Prime Ministerial image makeover, Modi was stateliness personified, as in his opening speech as PM to both Houses of Parliament. Since then, in a fractured political scene, he has been seen more in confrontational mode, attacking opponents in India and when he goes abroad and in the House too when he mocked Sonia Gandhi and her son Rahul.

The spirit of give and take seemed to have evaporated in Parliament with many sessions lost to the "in the Well" attitude of the Opposition ranged against the intransigence of the Treasury benches when it came to lending an ear to diverse points of view. Civil debates on national issues have been few and far between but the ruling BJP is not the only party guilty of reducing Parliament into a non-functional laggard. This could change, much as it should, during the debate on the farmers' stir and into the future when political parties on sharply divergent ideological paths can be expected to only drift further apart thanks to the compulsions of poll politics and the seeming need for harsh language at the hustings.

Clever interpretations of acronyms appear to be the current fad as politicians attack each other, which is why such fulsome praise of opponents, which Mr Modi and Mr Azad showered on each other on the eve of the former Kashmir CM retiring from Parliament, is to be seen as a breakthrough. Brushing aside cynical views of the use of words of praise being opportunistic and rare, we must wish that civility stays in Parliament where government and Opposition members meet most often and in debates that make the legislature one of the pillars of democracy. Politicians of all hues would do well to remember that cordiality costs nothing and that the nation and the Constitution always come first.

The siege within: India and the 'foreign hand'

Patralekha Chatterjee

Dev 360

Can tweets by international pop star Rihanna, teenage climate activist Greta Thunberg and other global celebrities in support of India's protesting farmers destabilise this country of over 1.3 billion people?

Or should we look within? Is foreign meddling the real threat facing us or is India's real challenge the deepening domestic polarisation on just about every front?

Successive governments in India have pointed at the "foreign hand" in times of crisis. I entered journalism in the 1980s when one regularly heard of the invisible "foreign hand" that was out to dismember our country. In many of her public speeches, then Prime Minister Indira Gandhi spoke of the dark spectre of foreign forces out to destabilise India.

Rajiv Gandhi, who came to power in 1984 with a huge majority after his mother's assassination, also talked of the "invisible" foreign hand trying to derail India's development.

Back then, there was no Twitter or social media or troll armies, and no virtual slugfests. But on government-run Doordarshan and All India Radio and in sections of the print media, there was no escaping allusions to these dark, powerful and invisible forces out to get us.

Cut to the New India. The "foreign hand" is back. The ruling BJP sees comments from global celebrities in support of the ongoing farmers' protests as part of a deep conspiracy against the country. Prime Minister Narendra Modi says India has been seeing increased FDI but there is a new FDI that has emerged — "Foreign Destructive Ideology". Mr Modi says India needs to be protected against it.

Is the world really out to get us? Or should we get used to the fact that in a networked globalised world, nothing is local anymore? As protests erupted across the United States following George Floyd's death at the hands of the police on the streets of Minneapolis, the Black Lives Matter movement resonated around the world. Support for BLM led to demonstrations in a number of countries. In a more recent example, the coup in Myanmar has been denounced by individuals around the world, including in India.

There is really no way we can prevent the rest of the world from taking interest in our domestic affairs, especially if we wish to be at the high table of the international community. If we so eagerly lap up foreign praise, can we afford to be so prickly about the foreign gaze when the comments are adverse? If Indians rejoice at going up the World Bank's ease of doing business 2020 survey, they can't totally shrug off slipping in the Economist Intelligence Unit's 2020 Democracy Index's global rankings.

The problems will not go away simply if foreigners stop talking about it. And as for us, stopping and reversing the current trend of polarisation is vital, for the simple reason that no country or society can make real progress if social cohesion starts eroding.

Leaving aside the foreign gaze for a moment and looking within, we cannot but help notice a deeply polarised and fractured nation, with deepening domestic political divisions. That is the real challenge, and that challenge cannot be surmounted by simply choking protests or forcibly shutting up views that clash with those of the government of the day. There must be a dialogue. The government must stop its storm troopers — from ministers to those on the streets — from statements and actions that polarise further. Else, social cohesion will become even more fragile.

The Global Risks Report 2021 brought out by the World Economic Forum lists "social cohesion erosion" among the highest-likelihood and highest-impact long-term risks facing our pandemic-battered world. "As public health gaps, digital inequality, educational disparities and unemployment — risks that result from a complex combination of existing inequalities and the impact of the pandemic — affect vulnerable groups the most, they may further fray social cohesion," it says.

Too many people have little left to lose. The global recession, the report notes, is now expected to force as many as 150 million more people into extreme poverty, increasing the total to 9.4 per cent of the world's population. This setback in the global development agenda will heighten vulnerability to future shocks and threaten the erosion or collapse of states, it warns.

Our government also admits that the economic shock caused by the ongoing pandemic is severe. It is now hoping for a V-shaped economic recovery. No such recovery will be possible without the vibrant pluralistic democracy that is key to India's power. If democracy is our calling card, we must also listen to critical views and voices without feeling the need to link them with ulterior motives. Getting prickly about criticism will only worry the whole world even more.

"There is a debate about the potential impact of American concerns about the state of democracy and liberalism in India on the US-India relationship," pointed out Tanvi Madan, director of the India Project and senior fellow at globally renowned think tank Brookings, in a January 2021 essay titled "Democracy and the US-India relationship".

"Often commentators argue there will either be no effect because of India's utility for the US or major impact because of the incoming Biden administration's emphasis on values," Madan added. "The answer is likely to lie somewhere in between. A pragmatic Biden team will likely recognise that India will be key to their objectives vis-a-vis issues like the Indo-Pacific and China, climate change and global health security."

"However, questions about India's trajectory as a pluralistic democracy could directly or indirectly affect the pace and tone of the relationship — especially if they are accompanied by doubts about India's capabilities, economic growth and policies, and willingness to play a balancing role versus China."

India's handling of the ongoing farmers' protests has taken a lot of sheen off the country's image, coming as it does on the back of many other illiberal measures. This is unfortunate for many reasons, including the fact that India is getting a few things right even in these fraught, polarised times. Take India's vaccine diplomacy. India has supplied low-cost coronavirus vaccines to many countries across the world. "With the US and Europe preoccupied with Covid-19 and many nations looking to India for a Covid-19 antidote, Delhi can score valuable points," as G. Parthasarathy, a former diplomat, noted in a recent commentary.

The bottom line: we must get our act together. At the end, a country does not rise or fall because of the foreigner's gaze but because of what its insiders do or fail to do.

The writer focuses on development issues in India and emerging economies. She can be reached at patralekha.chatterjee@gmail.com.

India's handling of the ongoing farmers' protests has taken a lot of sheen off the country's image... This is unfortunate for many reasons, including the fact that India is getting a few things right even in these fraught, polarised times.

AP affiliated college teachers on strike

VIJAYAWADA, FEBRUARY. 10 Teachers of affiliated colleges in Andhra commenced a stay-in strike today in support of their demand for direct payment of salaries by Government, according to Mr. J. Manikya Rao, General Secretary of the Affiliated College Teachers' Association.

In a statement he said that a delegation of teachers met Chief Minister but there was no scope for detailed discussion and the Chief Minister only said casually that he would look into the matter.

Mr Faesal praised the PM's radio programme and wrote that "communication can build solidarities..."

The buzz around Mr Faesal's plans has only grown, especially when he quit Jammu and Kashmir People's Movement, the political party he had set up barely a few months later.

Interestingly, his resignation as an IAS officer in January 2019 has been kept in abeyance all this while. The government has not accepted it, pending the investigation into some of his social media posts.

That it was never accepted means that the door is still open for him to rejoin the IAS. Watch this space for updates!

NGT hauls up Kerala govt for ignoring 'legacy waste' directive

Kerala's chief secretary Vishwas Mehta came under fire from the National Green Tribunal (NGT) over the continued ineffective solid waste management in Kochi.

According to sources, the tribunal made scathing remarks against the state government while criticising the affidavit filed by Mr Mehta and threatened to prosecute officers responsible for ensuring that parameters of environmental safety are met. The tribunal lamented that the chief secretary's affidavit did not show any effective action being taken on the ground, despite several directives issued in the past two years.

The tribunal, quoting a report by the State Pollution Control Board, noted that the municipal authorities in Kochi were continuing unauthorised operations and were yet to start work for bio-mining.

The directive came while the tribunal was hearing a case seeking direction to take effective steps for infrastructure development for collection, storage, segregation and disposal of tonnes of waste, termed legacy waste, that has accumulated over the years in Kochi's Brahmapuram area.

Ironically, the adverse comments came at a time when the state government claims that it is strictly following the "green protocol" and chief minister Pinarayi Vijayan declared more than 11,000 government offices and public sector undertakings as "green" on Republic Day!

BITISH TO WEED OUT HOME DEADWOOD

The Nitish Kumar government in Bihar is moving ahead with its announcement last year of retiring identified "inefficient" employees. The state home department headed by the chief minister has set up high-level committees to implement the order.

According to sources, a committee headed by additional chief secretary of the home department Amir Subhani will deal with Group A employees of the department. The panel also includes special secretary Vikash Vaibhav, among others. The other committee will be headed by secretary of the home department, K. Senthil Kumar, and include joint secretary Bimlesh Kumar Jha, among other senior officials. It has been tasked with identifying the deadwood from among Group B, C and D employees. Both committees will meet every year in June and December to consider the proposals to retire identified officers. Further, the department has instructed all offices and directorates under it to set up such panels at their level.

Previously, in 2017, the state government had announced to compulsorily retire non-performing education department officials, school headmasters and teachers after disappointing Matric and intermediate exams. But the decision was not followed through, say sources. Will it be any different this time?

RETURN OF THE PRODIGAL?

Is Shah Faesal, the former IAS officer from Jammu and Kashmir, contemplating a return to the civil service that he had quit in protest against "unabated killings" in Kashmir? A tweet by the ex-babu, who was the first Kashmiri to top the civil service exam, in response to Prime Minister Narendra Modi's "Mann Ki Baat" program seems to hint at a change of mind, say some observers. Bol net up 412% to ₹540 cr on low provisioning

Bank of India (BoI) reported a 412 per cent jump in standalone profit after tax at Rs 541 crore in December quarter against Rs 106 crore a year ago on improvement in asset quality and lower provisions. Consolidated net profit came to Rs 610.37 crore against Rs 138.20 crore. Net interest income declined 9 per cent to Rs 3,740 crore from Rs 4,118 crore. Domestic net interest margins declined to 2.81 per cent from 3.45 per cent.

Non-basmati rice exports more than double

Exports of non-basmati rice more than doubled to Rs 22,856 crore during April-December 2020-21 against Rs 10,268 crore in the year-ago period. "The exports of non-basmati witnessed a growth of 122.61 per cent in rupee term and 111.81 per cent dollar terms," the commerce ministry said in a statement. India exports non-basmati rice to Nepal, Benin, UAE, Somalia, Guinea, US, among others.

SBI crosses ₹5-L cr mark in home loan biz

State Bank of India said it has crossed the Rs 5 lakh crore-mark in its home loan business. The real estate and housing business (REHBU) unit of the bank has grown five times in the last 10 years with an asset under management (AUM) of Rs 89,000 crore in 2011 to Rs 5 lakh crore in 2021. "This extraordinary feat is a testament to customers' continuous trust in the bank," the bank's chairman Dinesh Khara said.

Maersk profit soars nearly six-fold for 2020

Danish shipping giant AP Moller-Maersk posted a near six-fold increase in net profit for 2020, as demand during the pandemic rebounded strongly from an initial slump, sending freight rates soaring. A shortage of containers in Asia during the pandemic has led to a surge in freight rates. For the full-year 2020, Maersk recorded a net profit of $2.9 billion (2.4 billion euros) in its ongoing operations.

Over 27.86 tonnes of metal purchased Gold bond demand rises 4-fold in FY21

with agency inputs
CHENNAI, FEB. 10

Despite rising prices of the yellow metal, sovereign gold bond purchases have grown four-fold in this fiscal compared to the previous year.

In the 10 tranches of sovereign gold bonds issued in FY21 till January, investors purchased a total of 27.86 tonnes. This marks a more than four-fold increase in purchases against 6.13 tonnes bought by investors in FY20. This fiscal has accounted for close to half of the total purchases made since the launch of gold bonds in 2015.

In these six years, investors have purchased a total of 58.8 tonnes of gold through the primary market in the form of bonds. Each of the 10 issues of gold bonds in FY21 saw investors purchasing more than one tonne of gold. In the fourth series, investors bought more than four tonnes and in the fifth series, more than six tonnes.

Prior to FY21, only once had the aggregate purchases moved up beyond one tonne in a series.

The issue price of gold bonds remained above Rs 4,500 per gm for all the series in FY21. The issue price was the highest in the fifth series at Rs 5,334 per gm and the same series saw the largest purchase at 6.3 tonnes. This shows that higher prices were not a deterrent for gold bond buyers. In fact, the demand was higher when prices went up.

According to Somasundaram P. R., managing director, India, World Gold Council, several investors bet on the bullish trend in gold during the pandemic. "While there are pockets of distress due to Covid-19, there are pockets of surplus as well. People who have uninterrupted income have not spent much during the lockdown time on vacations and luxuries and they are left with investible surplus," he pointed out. This surplus found its way into select investment instruments, including gold, he added.

Increased investor appetite for gold had reflected in the demand for gold ETFs as well. Gold ETFs largely saw inflows during most of the months in FY21. Despite the lockdown in the June quarter, investment demand managed to stay just 11 per cent lower in 2020 compared with a 42 per cent drop in jewellery demand.

Last month, investors put in Rs 625 crore in gold exchange traded funds (ETFs), which was 45 per cent higher than the preceding month. The inflow pushed the asset base of gold funds by 22 per cent to Rs 14,481 crore at the end of January from Rs 14,174 crore at the end of December, data from the Association of Mutual Funds in India showed.

Himanshu Srivastava, associate director manager research, Morningstar India said the gold prices have come off its all-time highs touched in August last year. The month of January also saw fair bit of correction in its prices.

"This, along with expectation that gold may do well going ahead provided a good buying opportunity to investors, which resulted in net inflows for the category in January."

According to him, gold functions as a strategic asset in an investor's portfolio, given its ability to act as an effective diversifier and alleviate losses during tough market conditions.

NITI AAYOG STUDY TO ASSESS IMPACT OF SUPREME COURT, NGT DECISIONS

New Delhi, Feb. 10: Government think-tank Niti Aayog has commissioned a study to assess the "unintended" economic impact of select decisions of the Supreme Court and the National Green Tribunal and to review if the stated objective behind the judicial pronouncements was met, according to a project brief document.

Jaipur-based CUTS International has been asked to examine the apex court rulings in halting consultation of Mopa Airport in Goa, stopping iron ore mining in Goa, and shutting Sterlite Copper's Tuticorin plant in Tamil Nadu.

CUTS International director Amol Kulkarni confirmed receiving the mandate.

"This study will ex-post examine the unintended economic consequences of key judicial/ quasi judicial decisions and review if the objective of the judicial decision was met," according to the CUTS International project brief document.

To highlight the economic impact, five cases have been selected, of which three were decided by the Supreme Court and two by the NGT.

"Judicial decisions have far-reaching economic impacts which are often not taken into account at the time of decision making. Some of the recent judgments/orders...indicate that the economic impact analysis of judicial decisions is yet to gain broader acceptance." —PTI

Sebi fines NSE, former chiefs in co-location case

New Delhi, Feb. 10: In the high profile co-location case, markets regulator Sebi on Wednesday imposed a penalty of Rs 1 crore on the NSE for failing to provide a level-playing field for trading members subscribing to its tick-by-tick (TBT) data feed system.

In addition, the regulator levied a fine of Rs 25 lakh each on NSE's former managing directors and chief executive officers Chitra Ramakrishna and Ravi Narain.

Alleged lapses in high-frequency trading offered through NSE's co-location facility came under the scanner of the watchdog after a complaint was filed in 2015.

The National Stock Exchange of India co-location facility allows stock brokers to take on rent specific racks and co-locate their servers and systems within the exchange premises.

The primary objective

Chitra Ramakrishna

of co-location services of the NSE is to reduce latency for connectivity to the exchange's trading systems for Direct Market Access, algo trading and Smart Order Routing.

In its 96-page order, the Sebi said unequal access was apparent at different stages of the technology process and the NSE as a stock exchange failed to ensure a level-playing field for trading members subscribing to its TBT data feed system.

TBT data feed provides information about every change in the order book.

According to the regulator, many trading members had repeatedly resorted to accessing the secondary server without any checks and balances and actions on the part of the first-level regulator except for certain emails or advisories.

The NSE flouted the principles underlying the conduct of business of a stock exchange, pertaining to fair and equitable access to information, it said. —PTI

Hyderabad to get 1.5 GW solar plant

S. UAMAHESHWAR
HYDERABAD, FEB. 10

Secunderabad-based solar equipment maker Premier Energies said it would set up a new manufacturing facility at E-City on the outskirts of Hyderabad.

Speaking to reporters on Wednesday, Chiranjeev Saluja, the managing director of Premier Energies, said the green-field factory would be built with an investment of Rs 483 crore and would produce 1.5 gigawatt of solar photovoltaic cells and modules.

The plant would be spread across 25 acres and is expected to be commissioned in the next two months. The current manufacturing capacity of the company is 500 megawatt.

"The new manufacturing unit will produce MCCE textured multi-crystalline cells as well as Mono PERC cells. The new plant facilities are designed to produce the latest generation products by incorporating Monocrystalline PERC technology. This technological change, along with the increase of wafer size to 182 mm and 210 mm, will drive the industry towards a greener society.

"With the increased adoption of automation and robotics, our new factory will be on par with some of the leading companies in Asia, Europe, and the US," Mr Saluja said.

AMUNDI CEO STEPS DOWN AT HEIGHT OF SUCCESS

Yves Perrier

LUCCA DE PAOLI
FEB. 10

Amundi SA chief executive officer Yves Perrier is stepping down after more than a decade atop the firm he helped build into the largest asset manager in Europe.

Perrier, 67, will become chairman of the French firm he has led since its creation in a 2010 merger of the asset-management arms of banking giants Credit Agricole SA and Societe Generale SA, according to an earnings statement on Wednesday. He'll be succeeded as CEO by his deputy Valerie Baudson, who heads Amundi's exchange-traded fund business as well as its thematic investing unit.

Amundi has more than doubled its assets under management on Perrier's watch to 1.73 trillion euros ($2.1 trillion). —Bloomberg

Ikea aims to triple jobs via social entrepreneurship

HANNA HOIKKALA
FEB. 10

Sweden's Ikea wants to triple the number of jobs created in vulnerable communities by 2025 by scaling up its social entrepreneurship business.

Having collaborated with social entrepreneurs since 2012, the furniture giant has provided work for about 30,000 people, impacting almost 150,000 family members. It now wants to reach 95,000 jobs by working with existing and new partners.

The initiative supports marginalised groups and women in vulnerable communities, helping them make products such as hand-woven cushion covers, baskets and carpets. Ikea supplies them with materials including cotton and banana fibre, and provides expertise ranging from design and production to improving working conditions. The aim is to promote financial independence and life-changing opportunities.

The handcrafted products, which also include plant pots and tool bags, are then sold in Ikea ware-

SOCIAL STARTUP NETWORK LAUNCHED

Hyderabad, Feb. 10: Telangana chief secretary Suresh Kumar on Wednesday launched Telangana Social Startup Network (TSSN), an initiative with a notion to build a solid ecosystem for social startups as an all-inclusive and cohesive body. The goal of the body is to create 5,000 startups in the state in the next five years, a release said.

The network was launched at the Social Impact Confluence organised by the Telangana State Innovation Cell and AIC-IIIT Hyderabad.

NEW CEO TO CUT 8,000 JOBS AS HEINEKEN FEELS PANDEMIC EFFECT

PHILIP BLENKINSOP
BRUSSELS, FEB. 10

Heineken NV plans to cut about 8,000 jobs, the Dutch beer group said on Wednesday, seeking to restore operating margins to pre-pandemic levels after a sharp decline in profit because of coronavirus restrictions.

The world's second-largest brewer, which makes Europe's top selling lager Heineken as well as Tiger and Sol, said it would save 2 billion euros ($2.4 billion) over the three years to 2023 under CEO Dolf van den Brink's "EverGreen" plan.

Savings will be achieved by redesigning its organisation, reducing the complexity and number of its products and identifying its least effective spending, Heineken said.

The review of its operations will result in about 8,000 job losses—equating to 9 per cent of its workforce at the end of 2019—and a related 420 million euro charge. Personnel expenses will be cut by about 350 million euros, it added.

The brewer said ongoing restrictions on social gatherings and hospitality venues meant 2021 revenue, operating profit and operating profit margin would be below levels in 2019.

It expects market conditions to improve gradually in 2021 and more into 2022, with a slow recovery in European bars and restaurants, less than 30 per cent of which were open at the end of January.

The operating profit margin before one-offs should rise to 17 per cent by 2023, the company said, versus 12.3 per cent last year and 16.8 per cent in 2019.

Made-in-India tyres get a fillip from import restrictions

Bridgestone running 3 shifts to meet demand

MICHAEL GONSALVES
PUNE, FEB. 10

Bridgestone, the world's second largest tyre maker, which reached the pre-Covid sales level last year, is running on full three shifts at its two factories in Indore and Pune.

The Indian arm of the Japanese tyre manufacturer said in the October-December 2020 quarter it had clocked a sales growth of 15 per cent.

Bridgestone, which is among the top three passenger car tyre makers in India, competes with market leader MRF, Apollo, JK and Ceat, among others.

"The worst is behind us and we are betting big growth for our brand as well as the tyre industry in the country," Parag Satpute, managing director at Bridgestone India told Financial Chronicle. The company produces 41,000 passenger vehicle tyres and 2,000 tyres for medium and heavy trucks and buses daily. It has invested Rs 2,000 crore over the five year between 2017 and 2021.

He said even during the Covid pandemic its off-the-road, or OTR, business of supplying tyres for the mining and construction business remained steady.

"This momentum of growth is continued in January and February of the first quarter of this calendar year," Satpute pointed out, adding that both replacement market and retail were growing.

He said both its factories in Pune and Indore, employing more than 3,000, were running on three shifts to cater to growing demands.

He said since all tyres were placed in restricted category by the central government since June 2020, banning import of any tyres from China and other countries, it had given fillip to made-in-India tyres.

"Our passenger vehicle tyre business is growing fastest as the replacement tyre market is seeing strong growth after imports were banned," Satpute said. "In fact, normally returned in our business last September."

Satpute said as agriculture was least affected during Covid pandemic, rural economy grew faster, fuelling vehicle growth in tier-II and III towns and cities. "Now there is more growth here which is higher than the Metros," he said, adding that it would likely grow faster than the urban market.

Bridgestone has launched its first concept store, Bridgestone Select+. With these concept stores, the firm aims to create higher engagement with consumers at tyre services.

Starting with Pune, Bridgestone plans to introduce these stores in multiple cities by the end of this year.

The process is enabled through an interactive digital kiosk where customers can pick between Bridgestone's array of choices. The store also offers customer demonstrations to understand the impact that each of the tyre services provides and helps customers get the best out of their tyres, he added.

Advances to Oz Open 3rd round; Djoker on a roll

Melbourne, Feb. 10: Serena Williams strolled into the third round of the Australian Open on Wednesday but former US Open champion Bianca Andreescu's emotional comeback from 15 months out ended at the hands of Taiwanese veteran Hsieh Su-wei.

Williams, 39, continued her quest to equal Margaret Court's all-time mark of 24 Grand Slams with a 6-3, 6-0 romp past 99th-ranked Serbian Nina Stojanovic in just 69 minutes on Rod Laver Arena. But eighth seed Andreescu, playing her first tournament since October 2019 after a serious knee injury, could never cope with Hsieh's quirky range of shots and lost 6-3, 6-2 in one hour 23 minutes.

Kvitova, the former Wimbledon champion and Melbourne runner-up in 2019, committed 44 unforced errors in her 6-4, 1-6, 6-1 defeat to Romania's Sorana Cirstea.

But seventh seed Aryna Sabalenka was little troubled in going through 7-6 (7/5), 6-3 against Russia's Daria Kasatkina.

In the men's draw, eighth seed Diego Schwartzmann of Argentina wasted little time in reaching the last 32, brushing aside Frenchman Alexandre Muller 6-2, 6-0, 6-3 in an hour and 32 minutes on 1573 Arena.

Djokovic demolished young American Frances Tiafoe 6-3, 6-7 (3/7), 7-6 (7/2), 6-3.

US Open champion Naomi Osaka, who is seeking her second Australian Open title in three years, got better of France's former world number four Caroline Garcia 6-2, 6-3.

Germany's volatile US Open finalist Alexander Zverev will close out the night session against America's Maxime Cressy.

The fifth seed is known for a short fuse and it showed on Monday as he smashed a racquet during a 6-7 (8/10), 7-6 (7/5), 6-3, 6-2 win against another Marcos Giron.

The tantrum-prone Nick Kyrgios could also provide fireworks out on his favourite John Cain Arena against France's

Kohli free falls to No. 5 as Root rises to No.3 in Tests

Dubai, Feb. 10: India skipper Virat Kohli was on Wednesday pushed to the fifth spot by his English counterpart Joe Root, who rose two places to third in the latest ICC Test rankings for batsmen, even as Jasprit Bumrah and R. Ashwin moved up in the bowlers' chart.

Kohli, who had had scores of 11 and 72 in the opening Test against England, has 852 points and down one spot in the latest chart issued on Wednesday.

Ashwin and pacer Bumrah have jumped a rung each to be seventh and eighth respectively.

Root has reached 883 rating points. It is his highest position since September 2017 after a fabulous run in the sub-continent saw him accumulate 684 runs in three Tests, two of which were in Sri Lanka.

Ahead of Kohli for the first time since November 2017, Root is now 36 points behind Kane Williamson and trails Steve Smith by only eight points. With Marnus Labuschagne also in the mix, competition for the top five slots is intense with all of them above 850 rating points.

For India, Rishabh Pant's knock of 91 in the first innings has helped him become the first full-time wicketkeeper from his country to reach 700 rating points as he retained the 13th position among batsmen.

STAR SPRINTER BLAKE ALL PRAISE FOR VIRAT

Kingston, Feb. 10: Star Jamaican sprinter Yohan Blake admires India captain Virat Kohli for not offering excuses when his team does not perform well and taking the blame on himself.

India suffered a 227-run defeat after England set them a target of world record 420 in the opening Test in Chennai on Tuesday. After the match, skipper Kohli admitted that his side put up an underwhelming performance.

"What I really love about Team India is that Virat Kohli doesn't find any excuses. That's what I really love about his captaincy, he took the blame for everything," Blake said.

"He said the bowlers didn't find the right areas and that the batsmen were not as consistent. He said 'we got to go back to the drawing board and come back'. And that's what I love about Virat Kohli and his captaincy. Test cricket is absolutely the best," the star sprinter said.

Second Test should be interesting, India was 1-0 down in Australia, they are 1-0 down at their home ground now. The second Test, I'm looking forward to it," Blake further added.

NASSER SAYS ROOT ONE OF ENG GREATS

London, Feb. 10: Former England captain Nasser Hussain feels incumbent Joe Root is "arguably" the country's best ever player of spin and can break all the Test batting records accumulated by the nation's batsmen.

Root struck 218 in England's first innings to lead his side to a 227-run win over India in the first Test in Chennai on Tuesday.

"Root sure is one of England's greats. He will probably end up breaking all records, he will probably go past Sir Alastair Cook's 161 Test matches and probably tally of runs as well," Hussain wrote in his column for Sky Sports.

"He is in great nick, only 30 years old, and if you did a list of all-time England batting greats — the ones I have seen anyway — you'd have to have Root with Cook, Graham Gooch and Kevin Pietersen.

"I would say he is arguably England's best-ever player of spin, the way he sweeps spin away is outstanding to watch. People were writing England off, saying this series could be 4-0 to India. No one really gave this side much of a chance. India had won in Australia, Kohli was back and India is a very difficult place to go and win in 'Test match cricket,' the column added. — PTI
