As the AP government's senior counsel Mukul Rohatgi informed the SC that the management of Ramesh Hospitals was not cooperating in taking up investigation into the fire mishap and sought a stay order on AP HC's order staying inquiry, it allowed for taking up inquiry including the respondent in the case, managing director of Ramesh Hospitals Pothineni Ramesh Babu, and directed him to cooperate with the police.

Though the fire mishap in the Covid facility hired by Ramesh hospitals took place in the early hours on August 9, the police has arrested three hospital officials so far. They also came out on bail after serving judicial custody for a few days.

Since then, the police was eagerly waiting for a court direction to further proceed in the case.

A top cop said, "The SC order will help us to go ahead with our inquiry in the Swarna Palace fire mishap as we were restrained in our probe in the last few days. As SC issued direction to the accused to cooperate in our inquiry, we expect the same and if not, we will appeal in HC seeking permission for arrest of the accused to expedite our inquiry."

ISRO GEARING UP TO LAUNCH RISAT-2BR2

PATHRI RAJASEKHAR | DC
NELLORE, SEPT. 14

Indian Space Research Organisation (Isro) is gearing up for the launch of RISAT-2BR2 on board PSLV-C49 from Satish Dhawan Space Centre, Shar, tentatively on November 6.

As part of the plan, Shar authorities directed the workforce to attend duties from Monday, except those infected with Covid-19 or are under quarantine.

A senior official said earlier restrictions on allowing only 50 per cent of the staff to attend duties have been lifted in view of relaxations given by the Centre.

Reacting to reports over several staff members testing positive, the official claimed that there were only 20 to 30 cases at any point of time out of 2,150 employees in Shar and it hardly had any impact on the progress of works.

He said all the employees living in Isro colonies at Sriharikota and Sullurpeta have been screened and they are ready to attend duties. Pregnant women and people suffering from long term diseases are allowed to work from home.

With regard to PSLV-C49 / RISAT-2BR2 Mission, the launch was originally scheduled for April but was postponed due to lockdown. The launch vehicle is on the first launch pad at Shar and the satellite will be mounted 10 days before the launch.

According to Shar engineers, the RISAT-2BR2 satellite is an advanced version of RISAT-2BRI. RISAT is a radar-imaging earth observation satellite designed to provide services in the field of agriculture, forestry and disaster management. The mission life of RISAT-2BR2 is five years. The applications of RISAT are also useful for armed forces.

Similar to other RISAT-2BRI, RISAT-2BR2 also can see through clouds even in the night and is capable of round-the-clock border surveillance besides checking infiltration.

Isro sources said that they have plans to launch a series of RISAT satellites for the benefit of security forces to keep a tab on activities in any area of their choice.

The huge demand for Anantapur fruits and vegetables in Delhi markets

Srikalahasti Temple executive officer (EO) C. Chandrasekhar Reddy told Deccan Chronicle, "On 11th of this month, I noticed the newly installed idols for which there was no official consent. I immediately called Pradhana Archaka, Sthanacharya and temple inspector. But they said they are unaware of the matter. We immediately took off the idols and performed Samprokshanam inside the temple," the EO maintained.

The controversy erupts in the wake of controversial gutting down of a wooden chariot at Lakshmi Narasimha Swamy temple at Antarvedi town in Sakshinipalle mandal of East Godavari district.

● The incident comes in the wake of controversial gutting down of a wooden chariot at Lakshmi Narasimha Swamy Temple in Antarvedi town of East Godavari district.

The burning down of the chariot went on to acquire religious and political overtones.

Opposition parties have staged a series of protests in Srikalahasti and Tirupati raising questions over security at the temple. They wondered how two idols, each weighing seven kilograms each, could be smuggled into the temple and installed without anybody noticing them for three days.

The temple EO says an inquiry committee has been appointed to probe the incident. "They have verified CCTV footage and found that two unidentified persons carrying bags entered through the south gate of the temple on 8th of this month. They quickly installed the idols without catching the attention of any temple officials. We are on the threshold of catching the perpetrators," the EO disclosed.

Asked how such a thing could happen without anybody taking notice, EO Chandrasekhar Reddy maintained that a police complaint has been lodged. Officials responsible for security have been suspended. The contract given to a private security agency to protect the temple has been terminated.

On-duty home guards have also been surrendered to the police department, he added.

Meanwhile, BJP activists led by party leaders Bhanu Prakash Reddy, Samanchi Srinivas and Kola Anand tried to storm Regional Joint Commissioner's office in Tirupati over the issue. They demanded a CBI inquiry to ferret out the truth.

Speaking to media, Kola Anand charged, "The YSRC government is disrespecting Hindu temples. Through such acts, the state government is indulging in minority vote bank politics. Though crimes are being perpetrated at Hindu shrines, no action has been taken against perpetrators till date," he alleged.

HC chides police for failure to protect people's rights

DC CORRESPONDENT
VIJAYAWADA, SEPT. 14

The High Court made critical observations on the police department for failing to protect fundamental rights of citizens in the state and even asked the DGP to quit his post if he was unable to protect rights of individuals.

The bench, comprising Justice Rakesh Kumar and Justice J. Uma Devi, while hearing a case pertaining to illegal detention of Venkata Raju hailing from Indupalli of Amalapuram mandal in East Godavari, observed that if the state police failed to discharge their duties promptly, it would bring disrepute to the state government.

The court observed that though the DGP was called to the High Court to appear before it and even after giving assurances of avoiding lapses in policing several times, such lapses were taking place.

It said the DGP should quit if he was unable to safeguard the fundamental rights of citizens.

The court further said that judicial inquiry ordered in three cases proved that the police was guilty and averred that it would be impossible to order CBI inquiry in all cases that were coming up before the courts.

It may be mentioned that a man eloped with the wife of another man in Visakhapatnam. Based on a complaint lodged by the woman's husband, the police took up the inquiry with the man, his brother Narayana Swamy and maternal uncle Venkata Raju from Indupalli of Amalapuram mandal.

However, as Venkata Raju was reportedly subjected to illegal detention by the local police in the first week of September, his nephew Narayana Swamy filed a petition in the High Court.

KADAPA, SEPT. 13

Rly engineers develop robot to treat patients

DC CORRESPONDENT VISAKHAPATNAM, SEPT. 14

Engineers at the Diesel Loco Shed of Waltair Division fabricated a robot to assist hospital staff in serving Covid-19 patients.

The engineers named it as MeD Robot, to assist the management of medical wards in serving medicines, food to patients and towards patient care. Before being deployed for use in Divisional Railway Hospital, the MeD Robo underwent extensive trials and demonstrations. The robot is being used to provide medical accessories or equipment, medicines as well as to serve food to patients in the hospital, without any need for physical contact.

With the help of this robot, doctors, nurses and other medical staff will be able to stay away from the risks of contracting the virus. The MeD ROBO is operated through a unique mobile app that has been developed as part of the innovation, supported by the WiFi facility. The robot supports sensor-based features, which are capable of reading patients' body temperature and transmitting the same for display on the mobile phone. In case of any abnormal high-temperature reading, the MeD

ROBO is capable of raising the alarm to alert the hospital staff attending to the patients.

A release on Monday said the Robo has a remote-controlled driving unit built-in stainless steel, rod, square bars and acrylic sheet for body and trays. It has a night vision camera with speaker facility for interactive purpose with data card facility to monitor from any place.

After inspection of the equipment, divisional railway manager Chetan Kumar handed over the equipment to Divisional Railway Hospital, Visakhapatnam.

Critical patients can make docs ill

SAMPAT G. SAMRITAN | DC VIJAYAWADA, SEPT. 14

Doctors attending to critically ill Covid-19 patients on a ventilator are more vulnerable to being infected with Coronavirus in parts of the state.

As AP is registering new Covid-19 cases to the tune of 9,000 to 10,000 a day and also deaths of 70 to 90 a day on an average, a good number of Covid-19 infected patients with multiple health complications, are being referred to critical care units for getting treatment with the support of a ventilator.

Doctors who attend to Covid-19 patients put on ventilator support say that as the patients develop a high load of virus and suffer severe breathing problems due to high rate of infection in their lungs, they are intubated. This means the doctors have to put a tube through the mouth of the patient straight to the windpipe to supply oxygen.

The doctors say that fixing a tube is a tough task as the patients cough, releasing infected air droplets into the air and maintain that though they wear masks, face shields, two sets of gloves and a whole body PPE kit, apart from frequently sanitising their hands, gaps in their protective gear cause the infected air droplets to be deposited and infect them.

Moreover, doctors say that as they have to suck the mucous being collected in the tube periodically, they need to be in touch with the patient continuously, exposing them to the virus. There are cases where patients are put on ventilator support for a long time, 10 to 20 days, even longer in some Covid-19 hospitals.

A doctor at Anantapur was infected with Covid-19 recently and he reportedly confessed to his colleagues that they were becoming more vulnerable for the virus, especially when they were handling patients on ventilator support. He even went to the extent of recommending avoiding providing ventilator support to critically ill patients.

However, he was dissuaded by his colleagues stating that it was their prime duty to help save the lives of patients by all means. The doctor is currently undergoing treatment in Anantapur. Another doctor from a government hospital in Vijayawada said, "It is true that the scale of vulnerability for Covid-19 infection is more among doctors handling patients put on ventilator as they have to attend the patient physically, handling him/her to fix the tube and to collect mucus all through the day unlike providing treatment with tablets and injections."

The doctors admit that the chance of survival of Covid-19 infected patients on ventilator support is dimming depending upon viral load and other health complications, even among their fraternity despite having advantage of getting early ventilator support. Two doctors, including a professor from KGH in Visakhapatnam, and a senior anesthetist from GSL medical college, near Rajahmundry, succumbed to the virus. A senior doctor from RIMS, Ongole said, "I have attended 20 Covid patients on ventilator support and luckily I am not infected with the virus."

PM ‘BUSY WITH PEACOCKS’, SAYS RAHUL GANDHI

DC CORRESPONDENT NEW DELHI, SEPT. 14

As the Monsoon session of Parliament began amid rising number of Covid-19 cases, former Congress President Rahul Gandhi hit out at Prime Minister Narendra Modi saying the government had asked people to become “aatmanirbhar” (self-dependent) which means they should save their lives themselves as the Prime Minister was “busy with peacocks”.

Gandhi tweeted that the Coronavirus cases will cross 50-lakh this week and active cases hit the 10-lakh mark.

“Unplanned lockdown is the product of one person’s ego and because of it Coronavirus has spread throughout the country,” he said.

The Wayanad MP further said that the “Modi government said become ‘aatmanirbhar’ (self-sufficient) which means save your life yourself because the PM is busy with peacocks”. He was referring to a recent video showing the Prime Minister feeding peacocks at his residence.

Notably, Gandhi who is accompanying his mother Sonia Gandhi during her travel to the US for a routine medical check-up, would not be attending the current Parliament session.

Nepal offers ₹2 cr, house to villagers in Uttarakhand

Villagers told to hoist Nepal’s flags atop their houses in return

VIKRAM SHARMA | DC HYDERABAD SEPT. 14

Public representatives in the KP Sharma Oli government in Nepal are offering ₹2 crore and a house in Kathmandu to each family living in the three Indian villages along the Nepal border in Uttarakhand to switch their loyalties to the Himalayan country to enable them stake a claim over the three villages located in Pithoragarh district in Uttarakhand. All that the villagers have been asked to do is hoist Nepal flags atop their houses.

After claiming Kalapani region as its territory, Nepal now has its eyes on Kuti, Nabhi and Gunji villages - located a few kilometres away from Kalapani in Pithoragarh district of Uttarakhand - whose people share a ‘roti-

Besides, the Nepal government is also promising to fund the education of children and grant families Nepali citizenship.

The otherwise hardworking and peace loving people of the three villages, located at an altitude of over 10,000 feet, have been hit hard economically due to the Covid-19 pandemic.

The ongoing standoff with China, which led to massive build-up of forces along the Line of Actual Control, not far away from these villages, brought them some hope of getting jobs, at least temporarily.

“We have always stood by the Army and ITBP, be it the 1962 war or now. But this time around, they have got porters and helpers from outside and have been completely ignoring us. When people are struggling to make ends meet, why will people hesitate to join hands with Nepal which is offering huge money and houses?” wondered a local, Yogesh Garbhal, who nevertheless added that ‘by and large’ all villagers have decided ‘not to sell themselves’ to Nepal and embarrass India.

Villagers will write to the Indian government pledging their full support in the wake of offers from Nepal. “While pledging our support, we will highlight our problems and put them before the administration,” said Dinesh Gunjyal, Vice President of the Bharat-Cheen Seema Vyapar Sangh.

Kerala CM suspects conspiracy to derail development projects

GILVESTER ASSARY | DC THIRUVANANTHAPURAM, SEPT. 14

Kerala Chief Minister Pinarayi Vijayan on Monday lashed out at the Opposition parties and a section of media for unleashing a propaganda to derail the LDF government’s Life Mission project under which 2.26 lakh homeless and landless families have been provided homes.

The Chief Minister’s outburst against the Opposition and section of media came in the wake of state wide agitation launched by Congress-led UDF and BJP demanding the resignation of two ministers in Pinarayi Cabinet.

CPM DEMANDS UNION MINISTER MURALEEDHARAN’S RESIGNATION

DC CORRESPONDENT THIRUVANANTHAPURAM, SEPT. 14

The ruling CPM in Kerala on Monday demanded the resignation of senior BJP leader and Union minister of state V. Muralaeeharan for allegedly attempting to derail the probe into gold smuggling case.

The CPM said the reply given by finance ministry in Parliament clearly stated that the gold smuggling in Thiruvananthapuram airport happened through diplomatic baggage. However, Muralaeeharan had earlier categorically stated that the smuggled gold was not found in diplomatic baggage. “The NIA, Customs and now finance ministry have said it was diplomatic baggage but the minister continues to contradict them publicly,” the CPM said.

recently after one of the key accused in the gold smuggling case Swapna Suresh claimed that ₹1 crore found in her bank locker was part of the commission that she received for a housing project being implemented in Wadakkancherry in Thrissur district. The ₹20 cr housing scheme is funded by UAE-based Red Crescent for 140 families who lost their houses in floods.

The commission allegations came as a bolt from the blue for the LDF government which is all set to showcase the Life Mission project as one of its biggest achievements. The Mission which began in 2017 is aimed at making Kerala a “homeless families” free state by 2020.

“If some wrong has happened in one contract then that particular issue should be tackled. You cannot tarnish the entire Life Mission which is providing homes to the homeless,” said the Chief Minister while inaugurating Konni medical college in Pathanamthitta district via video conferencing on Monday.

Leaders, activists rally behind Umar Khalid

Kolkata, Sept. 14: West Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee on Monday reacting to the arrest of Umar Khalid, JNU alumnus and rights activist in connection with the Delhi riots said those involved in movements against the Centre’s citizenship policies are being “targeted”.

Banerjee, who is also the Trinamool Congress supremo, said action should be taken only if there is evidence of wrongdoing.

Apparently hitting out at the BJP-led government at the Centre, Banerjee, who has been one of its most stringent critics, said, “Those involved in movements against NPR, NRC have been targeted”.

“I have seen it (the news of Khalid’s arrest) in newspapers. First they (the Centre) had named Sitaram Yechury in the chargesheet and now they have removed it. But they have put the names of Yogendra Yadav and others (in the chargesheet) This is not right in democracy. If someone has done something wrong and you have evidence of it then action should be taken as per law,” Banerjee told reporters at the state secretariat.

Khalid was arrested by the special cell of Delhi Police late on Sunday night after 11 hours of interrogation for his alleged involvement in the February Delhi riots.

He has been charged under the Unlawful Activities (Prevention) Act.

Meanwhile, a section of academicians, politicians and social activists on Monday expressed solidarity with former JNU student leader Umar Khalid. Dr S.Q.R Ilyas, national president of Welfare Party of India, and Khalid’s father, tweeted, “My son Umar Khalid has been arrested by Special Cell, Delhi Police under UAPA. Police was questioning him since 1:00 pm. He has been implicated in Delhi Riots. #StandWithUmarKhalid.”

According to a statement by his party, Ilyas strongly condemned the arrest of his son and said that police are “falsely implicating him in Delhi Riots”.

Soon after his arrest, #StandWithUmarKhalid started trending on Twitter.

Using the hashtag “Stand With Umar Khalid”, senior Congress leader Shashi Tharoor tweeted, “PM says he welcomes criticism, but forgets to mention the cost of criticism to be paid by those who who speak out.”Swaraj India chief Yogendra Yadav said Khalid is among the leaders that India deserves.

Lawyer Prashant Bhushan said Khalid’s arrest exposes the “malafide nature of its investigation into Delhi riots”. — PTI

TREASURE TROVE

The copy handwritten by Kashmiri artists, is one of the finest manuscripts

Sotheby’s sells 19th century Quran for ₹1.30cr

YUSUF JAMEEL | DC SRINAGAR, SEPT. 14

Sotheby’s, the New York-based British-founded American multinational corporation, has sold a copy of the 19th century Quran handwritten by Kashmiri artists for £137,500 (approximately ₹1.30 crore).

“This Quran is one of the finest manuscripts produced in Kashmir in the first half of the 19th century,” a note from the world’s largest brokers of fine and decorative art, jewelry, real estate and collectibles had said before putting the manuscript for auction at Christie’s London some time ago, a report appearing in a local news portal said.

Giving the description of the sold manuscript, the Sotheby’s says on its official website that it is Quran copied by Muhammad Hasan with a marginal commentary copied by Muhammad Isma’il in Kashmir and dates back to 1246 AH (the Hijri year of the Islamic lunar calendar) corresponding with 1831 AD.

“Arabic manuscript on paper, 544 leaves plus 3 fly-leaves, 24 lines to the page, written in naskh in black ink within clouds against a gold ground, the Persian interlinear in red nasta’liq, ruled in blue and gold, verses separated by gold roundels, surah headings in blue thuluth against a gold ground within a cartouche, the margins dense with commentaries in nasta’liq within clouds against a gold ground, f.1b and f.2a with an illuminated frontispiece, several illuminated pages throughout, in lacquer binding decorated with flowers and signed ‘Abd al-Aziz Mugul,’ reads the website.

According to it, though there are stains and rubbing, some losses to the illumination and the gold, minor tears, some crackle and scratches to the binding, as viewed, the manuscript was in good condition when put to auction.

“This Quran is one of the finest manuscripts produced in Kashmir in the first half of the nineteenth century. Not only does it bear the names of two scribes who have been involved in copying it, but also the names of the binder and the patron. Dated Qurans from Kashmir are rare, especially if decorated with such lavish illumination,” it said.

The cover of the Quran

Hasan signs as the copyist of the Quran and Muhammad Isma’il as the copyist of the tafsir in the margins. “Each lacquer plate of the binding is finely decorated with a central panel with interlacing flower scrolls and plants, among which there is the signature of Aziz Mughul. The name of the patron as well as the date 1246 AH/1831 AD are written in black along the outer border. It is interesting to note that along with his name, Muhammad Isma’il, the patron is named tajir al-Isfahani (a merchant from Isfahan)”.

Muhammad M. Saleem Beg, Convenor of the J&K chapter of Indian National Trust for Art and Cultural Heritage said, “I’m happy it got an attractive price at the auction. Someone who knew the value of, as we learn from the Sotheby’s, a rare and beautifully handwritten Quran, bought it and I’m sure it must have gone into safe hands.”

Victor Jacquemont, a French traveller who was in Kashmir the same year this Quran was copied (1831) records that the Himalayan region was a big centre for the production of the manuscripts and there were between 700-800 copyists in the Valley. While Kashmiri Qurans are usually not signed and can be quite formulaic in their layout and decoration, this copy is extensively and finely illuminated, and must have been a commission by a Persian merchant who was resident in Kashmir in 1831, the Sotheby’s said.

“Kashmir Life” portal quotes Hakim Sameer Hamadani, who has done his doctorate on Islamic architecture, as saying the copying seemingly has been commissioned by the Iranian merchant Muhammad Ismail.

Mathematician who found formula to help rural poor

The life and work of former Union minister for rural development and leader of the Rashtrivya Janata Dal Raghuvansh Prasad Singh, who passed away on Sunday in New Delhi due to Covid-19 related ailments, reflect how a visionary, grassroots level leader can impact the lives of millions of people, and still remain behind the curtain. One of the chief architects of the Mahatma Gandhi National Rural Employment Guarantee Act (MGNREGA), which ensured sustenance of millions of rural poor across the country for more than a decade, Dr Singh was the real champion of the cause of rural India.

Dr Singh, a PhD in mathematics and a former professor, had his political baptism in the Jayaprakash movement against the Congress government and the Emergency in the seventies and grew up along with Lalu Prasad Yadav and Nitish Kumar. Dr Singh was always part and parcel of the socialist bloc even as it went through several splits and metamorphosis until he sent a resignation letter two days before his death from his party, the RJD.

Dr Singh, who was a five-term Lok Sabha member and a minister in Bihar and Union governments several times, was the face of rural India in the corridors of power. He never left his rustic characteristics despite his professional and academic standing and being part of the power structure for most part of his political life. He steadfastly worked for the uplift of the rural poor, whose living conditions were very familiar to him. It took his persuasive skills as well as first-hand deep knowledge of the ground situation to get the MGNREGA through, even though it was part of the election manifesto of the first edition of the UPA as many had felt it would put an unnecessary hole in the exchequer without offering commensurate returns. Today, the scheme is the lifeline of rural India; it has been one of the most efficient routes to reach the people during the pandemic Covid-19. Prime Minister Narendra Modi and the National Democratic Alliance were skeptical about it before they came to power. However, to their credit, they realised its merit and steadily increased budgetary allocations to strengthen it.

Dr Singh also represents the section of leaders with calibre and character who were catapulted to the political leadership while being part of democratic restoration movements. Oppression by the powers-that-be could recoil into mass movements as was seen in the Seventies across India. Such movements would also attract people who would have otherwise gone their way of professional or occupational route. As Karl Marx said, "philosophers have only interpreted the world, in various ways. The point, however, is to change it." Dr Singh belongs to the group of people who made a heroic attempt to change the course of history.

Struggles for restoration of democratic rights are bound to repeat themselves. The sterling legacy Dr Singh leaves behind will no doubt inspire many bright and brilliant boys and girls to follow in his path. That will be the best tribute to him.

Champions in all respects

In triggering positive societal changes as in non-discriminatory treatment of minorities like African Americans, sport may have gone way beyond just mirroring society. The US Open tennis not only presents equal opportunity but equal pay too, but a young champion, who won her second crown at Flushing Meadows, may have dared to take sport even further by being an agent of change. The flaws in American society may be obvious but sporting icons, with their greater public presence, must take a stand in pointing them out.

Naomi Osaka's bold statement for racial justice in wearing seven different masks naming seven prominent Black victims of trigger-happy police brutality in the USA invests her powerful tennis of booming serves and hard strokes from the baseline with an even greater aura. Born to a Haitian father and a Japanese mother who came to Florida at age three, Osaka's empathy for people being trampled upon is natural. She had hardly savoured the moment the first time when she won a battle of generations in downing a testy Serena Williams in 2018 as the crowd had booed her. In 2020, Naomi confirmed that she has come on much more in beating Victoria Azarenka of Belarus, who also should know a thing or two about the tumultuous politics of modern life.

Naomi is a champion in all respects. Joining her as the men's winner after a ding-dong, error-strewn battle, Dominic Thiem of Austria may have served notice that the young brigade is capable of challenging the monopoly of the above-30 Grand Slam champions Roger Federer, Rafael Nadal and Novak Djokovic. Only the Serb was on court at the first no-spectators Grand Slam of the Covid-19 era but exited by default for poor behaviour. As Thiem hugged close friend Alexander Zverev of Germany, whom he had beaten in the first-ever fifth set tie-breaker at the US Open, it spoke eloquently of bonds that tough social distancing norms too could not break. In 2020, more than ever, it appeared tennis had won in turning the spotlight on two deserving winners.

prescriptions are simplistic,
just excuses

India's foreign minister comes from a family of scholars. His father K. Subrahmanyam was the founder of the famous IDS think tank in New Delhi and had advised Indira Gandhi. On the weaponising of India's nuclear programme and the military intervention in Bangladesh, Subrahmanyam had a hand.

Subrahmanyam's son Sanjay, Jaishankar's brother, is one of the world's most famous scholars of medieval India. He has written books on commerce in Surat (my hometown) and South India as well as on Vasco Da Gama.

My point is that Dr S. Jaishankar has a background which is not the same as our other ministers. Jaishankar has recent a book released a few days ago which said three things had negatively affected India's foreign policy. The first was Partition, which reduced the size of India and made China even more important than it was. The second was the delay in the economic reforms of 1991: if done earlier, they would have made India a wealthier nation earlier than it will become. And third, the delay in choosing to make atomic weapons. He called them the three burdens.

Mere liberalisation does not mean economic growth. What Jaishankar says in his three points is reductive and simplistic.

What should we make of what he is saying? We need to examine two separate things, first to see to what extent what he says is true.

India's Partition did reduce the size of the country and if India had not been partitioned, the undivided nation would be larger geographically, stretching from Myanmar to Iran, and with a population of 1.7 billion people. It would not be particularly different in terms of its economy, per capita income, productivity or any other way. South Asia has developed together, none of the three countries which were once part of British India has either become a developed country and none on the other hand has not succeeded in developing at least a little. A visit to Pakistan and Bangladesh reveals them to be no different than most parts of India.

The second issue is the delay in economic reforms. This is not Jaishankar's subject because he is not an economist. We must therefore be cautious when we accept what he says as true. The Indian economy of Jawaharlal Nehru's time had little capacity. State capital was needed as an element, especially in heavy industry. And without the State, the institutions we take for granted, for example in higher education, would not have come at all. Whatever bhajans we may sing to privatisation, there is no private equivalent of IIT or IIM even today in India. This is not to say that the licence raj of Indira Gandhi was a good thing. It was not. The best we can offer Jaishankar's statement on the delay in reforms is a qualified yes, not a full endorsement.

The third is the exercise of the nuclear option, which happened in May 1974. India makes a big deal of having an atom bomb. It is not such a big deal. Many nations in South America, Europe, Asia and Africa had the capacity to make one but chose not to. The other thing is that India violated its foreign commitments to make the bomb. The reactors producing the material used in our bombs came from Canada, whom we had promised that we would only use nuclear technology for peaceful purposes (this is why Indira Gandhi made the claim that the 1974 test was a "peaceful explosion").

We have held these weapons for 45 years now. How have they helped us? We cannot use them against Pakistan, which for 30 years we have accused of terrorism. We cannot use them against China, which is today inside our borders. It is debatable that the early weaponising of our programme could have helped us in any way.

Jaishankar calls these three things "burdens" and he lays them at the Congress' door. Let us see what his party has done and is doing. India may have been partitioned, but Pakistan and Bangladesh are still next to us. They have not been relocated to Africa. What stops India from unifying the subcontinent through trade or travel? It is our nationalism. We have free movement (without visas) with Nepal, but not with Bangladesh. Why? We could unify South Asia with visa-free travel and trade if we chose to. The BJP does not want it.

The assumption Jaishankar makes about liberalisation automatically producing economic growth is false. Under the BJP, India's economic growth has been declining since January 2018, according to its own figures.

That is two and a half straight years of decline in six years of government. This did not happen during socialism or the licence raj.

This year we will see a contraction of the economy. Mere liberalisation does not mean economic growth. What Jaishankar says in his three points is reductive and simplistic. The past does not matter that much. If we think that it does, it is because we are not good enough at running the nation competently today and are searching for excuses why. If Jaishankar's diagnosis is correct, what stops him from correcting it today? His book does not say that. Perhaps that will come in a future book.

Mediation vital on LAC,
Ladakh disengagement

Mohan Guruswamy

We have two outstanding issues between India and China: Ladakh and Arunachal Pradesh. These two territorial disputes aren't going to be resolved in the foreseeable long term.

The joint announcement by external affairs minister S. Jaishankar and Chinese foreign minister Wang Yi in Moscow (no doubt helped along by Russian foreign minister Sergey Lavrov) is being clutched at like straws by desperate drowning men hoping for an end to the crisis. In case we have forgotten, the RIC (Russia India China) was a geopolitical group that was formed to balance growing American and Nato unilateralism. The operative part of the joint statement is that the military commander-level talks will continue. The audible sigh of relief in some circles may be premature, for talking doesn't mean a solution. For now, it only means a postponement of the armed conflict.

We have two outstanding issues between India and China. The larger one is about large tracts of territory in Ladakh and Arunachal Pradesh. These two territorial disputes aren't going to be resolved in the foreseeable long term. Hence, Deng Xiaoping had sagaciously suggested to Rajiv Gandhi at their 1988 Beijing meeting that it is best left to history.

The pressing dispute on hand are the two overlapping Lines of Actual Control. The term LAC was first used by Zhou Enlai in November 1959 when he wrote to Jawaharlal Nehru defining it as "the so-called McMahon Line in the east and the line up to which each side exercises actual control in the west". The problem is that India and China never agreed on where the LAC was, as the perceptions of what each side "controlled" varied, by a few meters to tens of kilometers. For instance, in Sikkim where they vary at a few places, the actual overlap often is a few meters. This variation is because both sides are vying for better tactical positions to locate their bunkers and sangars (small built-up structures) on higher ground to observe the other side. In the Depsang Plains overlooking DBO, it is by as much as 20-30 km.

The DBO overlooks the Chip Chap river as it curls southward to its rendezvous with the Shyok. The entire Chip Chap river was accepted by China as Indian territory even in 1956, but by 1960 China advanced its LAC to about 4 km of DBO and built a garrison at Tianwendian, about 24 km away. The PLA launches patrols from here into the contested Depsang. They have done the same in Galwan valley. In 1962 the Indian post was at the source of the Galwan river at Samzungling and the LAC is now about 2 km upstream of the confluence of Galwan and Shyok rivers.

Despite having two often widely overlapping LACs, Indian and Chinese forces had arrived at a unique modus vivendi since 1962 which enabled each side to patrol up to its perception of the LAC without confrontation. The desire for peace made both sides cobble up agreements from time to time. The 1993 agreement made it incumbent for both sides to caution each other whenever their perceived LACs were crossed. Though the agreement stipulated that any dispute both sides would jointly check this and decide upon an alignment, it never happened. Then in 1996 both sides agreed to "exercise restraint when the patrols come face to face". This agreement also stipulated that both sides would not use firearms or explosives 2 km from their perceived LACs. Both sides adhered to this, but now the patrols, while not confronting each other, began tailing each other maintaining a distance between them. This agreement also obliged both sides not to construct anything of a permanent nature in the LAC overlaps.

This worked till 2013, when the PLA objected to the Indo-Tibetan Border Police leaving behind reusable shelters at a place called Chumar. In May that year a tailed PLA patrol decided to dig in midway between the two LACs in Depsang at a place called Rakhi Nula. This forced an Indian Army unit to dig in nearby. This crisis was resolved by a meeting between the local military commanders, with the Indian side agreeing to dismantle the Chumar structures and the PLA pulling out. This led to the more complex 2013 agreement, once again aimed at conflict prevention and conflict resolution, but not fixing the cause of conflict.

This is where we were when the PLA, taking advantage of Indian Army tardiness in not mirroring the annual PLA exercises in the area, dug in positions in Galwan Valley, Hot Springs, Ghogra and between Fingers 4 and 8 on Pangong Tso's northern bank. In Galwan the new PLA position is now less than 2 km from the upgraded 230-km-long road from Darbuk to DBO.

The Indian Army has now positioned itself threateningly on the Chushul heights.

The timing of the crisis couldn't be worse. India was in the midst of a major economic meltdown brought about by the spread of the Covid-19 virus from Wuhan. The electronic media, no doubt prodded by the Narendra Modi government, went into a fury over the "Chinese perfidy" and both Mr Modi and defence minister Rajnath Singh made fire and brimstone speeches ostensibly to the troops in Ladakh. The Indian military buildup was under the full glare of the embedded media and newly acquired military hardware were displayed. Like angry Bharatanatyam dancers, both sides are now semaphoring intentions to each other.

Simultaneously, Indian Army and PLA commanders have been in talks from June 16 seeking a disengagement. The question is who withdraws and to where? This requires the determination of a single LAC. This is beyond the ken of the military commanders of both sides. Military men are usually reluctant to withdraw to tactically disadvantageous positions. But the need now is to give and take. This therefore calls for mediation between the two militaries, and that is best done by a trusted third country's military. A neutral military mediator can understand the tactical security concerns of either side and can help in determining the optimal under the circumstances.

The three countries have invested big in the RIC and it is now time to make it pay. The stakes are big. Even a limited Sino-Indian war will mean the end of the Russia-India-China (RIC) and its promise of a multipolar world.

Russia is uniquely placed to play the role of a neutral mediator to help the two countries find an agreement on a single Line of Actual Control. It enjoys a good measure of trust in both countries. One hopes that both countries will find the good sense to accept mediation.

Stay refused to ex-rulers on derecognition

NEW DELHI, SEPTEMBER 14
The Supreme Court today refused to stay the operation of the Presidential Executive Order derecognising the former princes.

The Counsel for former princes Mr. N.A. Palkhiwala, moving the petitions on behalf of the former rulers of Gwalior, Udaipur, Nabha, Nalagarh and Kutch, as "test case" asked for state of the derecognition order on the ground that the order was a case of "compound maladies."

He said thousands of persons' livelihood depended upon the former rulers. He said the order which could be later declared invalid, affected thousands of persons who were now dependent on the princes.

The Attorney-General, Mr Niren De on the other hand, contended that the question of recognition of princes by the President was "entirely a political power."

Gunmen kill 3, injure 6 in Pak

Peshawar: At least three persons were killed and six other injured when some unidentified assailants opened fire at them in Pakistan's Khyber Pakhtunkhwa province on Sunday, police said. The accused ambushed the car in Peshawar's Michni road, killing Muhammad Ali and his two gunmen while six persons sustained injuries as they were caught in the firing. In another incident, the provincial vice president of the ruling Tehreek-e-Insaf party, Tahir Iqbal, was assassinated and his three friends wounded as their car was ambushed by unknown gunmen in Haripur district. Chief Minister of the province Mehmod Khan ordered an inquiry into the killing of the party leader and sought a report from the provincial police chief.

Pompeo: US envoy to China to leave

Beijing: The US ambassador to China appears to be leaving his post, based on tweets posted Monday by Secretary of State Mike Pompeo. He thanked Ambassador Terry Branstad on Twitter for his more than three years of service. There was no immediate confirmation from the State Department. "Ambassador Branstad has contributed to rebalancing US-China relations so that it is results-oriented, reciprocal, and fair," he wrote in a follow-up tweet. China's foreign ministry said it was aware of Pompeo's tweet but had not received any notification that Branstad was leaving. Branstad was embroiled in a recent controversy when China's official People's Daily rejected an opinion column that he had written. It wasn't clear whether his apparent departure was related to the piece. Pompeo tweeted last week that China's ruling Communist Party refused to run Branstad's op-ed.

Lukashenko visits Russia

Sochi: Belarus' authoritarian president visited Russia Monday in a bid to secure more loans and political support, as demonstrations against the extension of his 26-year rule entered their sixth week. Alexander Lukashenko's talks with Russian President Vladimir Putin in the Black Sea resort of Sochi come a day after an estimated 150,000 people flooded the streets of the Belarusian capital, demanding Lukashenko's resignation. The Interior Ministry said 774 people were arrested in Minsk and other cities of Belarus for holding unsanctioned rallies on Sunday. Protesters in Belarus have dismissed Lukashenko's reelection for a sixth term in the Aug. 9 vote as rigged. The United States and the European Union have criticised the election as neither free nor fair and urged the Belarusian leader to engage in talks with the opposition, a demand he rejected. In a bid to win Moscow's support, the 66-year-old former state farm director has tried to cast the protests as an effort by the West to isolate Russia.

ATWOOD WINS DAYTON PEACE PRIZE

Cincinnati (US), Sept. 14: Margaret Atwood, whose sweeping body of work includes "The Handmaid's Tale", a depiction of a nightmarish totalitarian future for the United States, is this year's winner of a lifetime achievement award that celebrates literature's power to foster peace, social justice and global understanding. The Canadian writer and teacher has earned the Richard C. Holbrooke Distinguished Achievement Award, officials of the Dayton Literary Peace Prize officials announced Monday. The award is named for the late US diplomat who brokered the 1995 Bosnian peace accords reached in the Ohio city. Atwood — a prolific writer of poetry, fiction, nonfiction, essays, comic books and, as of late, tweets — in recent years has drawn a new round of acclaim for her bestselling 1985 novel of a dystopian future in which women are subjugated after an overthrow of the US government. Some readers of "The Handmaid's Tale" saw in the leaders of authoritarian Gilead similarities to the rise of Republican Donald Trump to president in the election of 2016. The television adaptation on Hulu starring Elisabeth Moss generated yet more commentary, and women dressed in red cloaks and white bonnets, as the handmaids were depicted in the book and TV series.

Georgia Dy punching PoC fired 10 dead in Chicago weekend violence

Clayton (US), Sept. 14: A sheriff's deputy in Georgia has been fired after being captured on video repeatedly punching a Black man during a traffic stop, authorities said Sunday.

The deputy was being let go for "excessive use of force", the Clayton County Sheriff's Office said in a statement. It did not identify the deputy, but said a criminal investigation has been turned over to the district attorney's office. Roderick Walker, 26, was arrested and beaten after Clayton County sheriff's deputies pulled over the vehicle he was riding in Friday with his girlfriend, their 5-month-old child and his stepson for an alleged broken taillight, his attorney, Shean Williams of The Cochran Firm in Atlanta said Sunday. The deputies asked for Walker's identification and got upset and demanded he get out of the vehicle when he questioned why they needed it since he wasn't driving, Williams said.

The subsequent arrest, captured on video by a bystander and shared widely, shows two deputies on top of Walker, one of whom repeatedly punches him. Walker's girlfriend screams and tells the deputies Walker said he can't breathe. A child in the vehicle yells, "Daddy". As Walker is handcuffed, the deputy who punched him tells the bystander that Walker bit him. Williams said his client denies biting the deputy. Walker was trying to survive and lost consciousness at least twice during the beating, Williams said.

10 dead in Chicago weekend violence

Chicago, Sept. 14: Gun violence in Chicago left 10 people dead over the weekend and 43 others injured. It came amid a surge in violence this year in the nation's third-largest city. Statistics released by the Chicago Police Department bring the number of shooting victims for the year thus far to 2,887 and the number of homicides to 542. Last year at this time, according to police statistics, there were 1,862 shooting victims and 364 homicides.

The violence follows the longer Labour Day weekend that ended with the same number of homicides and roughly the same number of shooting victims.

Israel to renew curbs, daily cases see spurt

Jerusalem, Sept. 14: Israel said it will reimpose a national lockdown to battle a coronavirus surge, as the number of daily infections around the world reached a record high.

Britain, France, Austria and the Czech Republic also reported spikes, as global cases rapidly approached 29 million with more than 921,000 Covid-19 deaths, according to an AFP tally.

The Israel lockdown will last three weeks starting Friday, keeping people to within 500 metres (yards) of their homes. It is the first developed economy to take such drastic steps to contain a second wave of infections. "I know these measures will exact a heavy price from all of us," said Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu.

The World Health Organization reported 307,930 new cases worldwide on Sunday, the highest daily figure in its database since the beginning of the pandemic.

The surge has sparked concern in Europe, where Austrian Chancellor Sebastian Kurz warned that his country was facing "the beginning of the second wave". The Czech Republic has also faced a surge, with one epidemiologist saying over the weekend that at the current rate, cases could overwhelm hospitals.

UK trials antibody cocktail treatment

London, Sept. 14: The UK on Monday began human trials of a new antibody treatment for patients hospitalised with Covid-19. As part of the government-backed Randomised Evaluation of COVID-19 tHERapy (RECOVERY) Trials, monoclonal antibodies, or potent laboratory-made antibodies, will be given to about 2,000 patients in the coming weeks to see if they are effective against Coronavirus.

The Phase 3 open-label trial in patients hospitalised with Covid-19 will compare the effects of adding REGN-COV2 to the usual standard-of-care versus standard-of-care on its own. "REGN-COV2 was specifically designed by Regeneron scientists to target the virus that causes Covid-19. RECOVERY will be the fourth late-stage randomised clinical trial evaluating REGN-COV2 and will add to our knowledge about how this novel antibody cocktail may help hospitalised patients in need," said George D. Yancopoulos, President and Chief Scientific Officer of Regeneron, the biotech firm collaborating on the project.

Copenhagen, Sept. 14: The World Health Organisation expects Europe to see a rise in the daily number of Covid-19 deaths in October and November, the head of the body's European branch said.

The resurgence is however expected to lead to an increase in daily deaths, the WHO said. "It's a moment where countries don't want to hear this bad news, and I understand," Kluge said.

TRUMP DEFIES GOV, HOLDS INDOOR RALLY

Las Vegas, Sept. 14: In open defiance of state regulations and his own administration's pandemic health guidelines, President Donald Trump on Sunday hosted his first indoor rally since June with a packed, mask-less Nevada crowd.

Eager to project a sense of normalcy in imagery, Trump soaked up the raucous cheers inside a warehouse. Not since a rally in Tulsa, Oklahoma, that was blamed for a surge of Coronavirus infections has he gathered supporters indoors. There was no early mention from the President that the pandemic had killed nearly 200,000 Americans and was claiming 1,000 lives a day.

Few in the crowd wore masks, with one clear exception: Those in the stands directly behind Trump, whose images would end up on TV, were mandated to wear face coverings. The rally in Tulsa, his first in three months after the Coronavirus reached American shores, was a disaster for the campaign, a debacle that featured a sea of empty seats and a rise in Covid-19 cases.

British MPs resume feuding over Brexit

Johnson's disputed plan that will break EU divorce treaty faces rebellion, resignations

● THE HOUSE of Commons holds its first debate and vote over the bombshell new bill from late afternoon, despite a call from Brussels for it to be withdrawn by the end of the month.

London, Sept. 14: Britain's parliament on Monday finds itself in familiar territory — arguing about Brexit — with threats of rebellion and resignations over Prime Minister Boris Johnson's controversial plan for a new law that will break his EU divorce treaty.

The House of Commons holds its first debate and vote over the bombshell new bill from late afternoon, despite a call from Brussels for it to be withdrawn by the end of the month.

The contentious legislation, unveiled last week, would override the divorce deal the UK struck with the EU last year in several key areas related to Northern Ireland.

It would see London unilaterally regulate UK trade and state aid within the British province, ignoring the EU treaty which gives Brussels a continuing say over Northern Ireland's trading relationship.

If the law passes in the coming weeks, Brussels has warned it could scupper ongoing trade deal talks and threatened court action, leaving the prospects of an orderly Brexit in tatters.

Even some Brexiteer lawmakers were aghast that Britain would wilfully trash an international treaty, threatening the country's reputation and potentially endangering Northern Ireland's fragile peace.

Former prime ministers John Major and Tony Blair this weekend openly criticised the action, while David Cameron said Monday he had "misgivings" about the approach.

Johnson's pro-Brexit former attorney general Geoffrey Cox said it would be "unconscionable" to override an international treaty. "I think it is wrong that the British government or our parliament should renege on an agreement on which we gave our solemn word," he told Times Radio.

The latest row revives the bitter wrangling over how to implement British voters' shock decision in 2016 to quit the bloc, which led to parliamentary deadlock and repeat

BORIS DEFENDS LAW, SAYS EU 'UNREASONABLE'

London, Sept 14: British Prime Minister Boris Johnson says his plan to unilaterally rewrite Britain's divorce deal with the European Union is an insurance policy against the bloc's unreasonable behaviour, comments that came as his former attorney general joined a growing number of once-loyal lawmakers condemning the contentious move.

Johnson said Monday that a planned law designed to override portions of the Brexit withdrawal agreement was needed because the European Union might "go to extreme and unreasonable lengths" in its treatment of former member Britain.

The impasse was broken after Johnson sealed a divorce deal with Brussels and used it to win a thumping victory in a December general election which gave his Conservatives an 80-seat majority in the House of Commons.

Suga secures party vote for Japan PM

Tokyo, Sept. 14: Yoshihide Suga was elected as the new head of Japan's ruling party on Monday, virtually guaranteeing him parliamentary election as the country's next prime minister. Suga received 377 votes in the ruling Liberal Democratic Party election to pick a successor to Prime Minister Shinzo Abe, who announced last month that he would resign due to health problems. The other two contenders received a combined 157 votes — former Foreign minister Fumio Kishida got 89 and former Defence Minister Shigeru Ishiba had 68.

The expected victory in the party vote by Suga, currently the chief Cabinet secretary of Abe's government, all but guarantees his election in a parliamentary vote Wednesday because of the majority held by the Liberal Democrats' ruling coalition. Suga gained the support of party heavyweights and their wing members early in the campaign on expectations that he would continue Abe policies.

That his victory appeared to be a done deal has raised criticism from inside and outside the party that the process is undemocratic and murky.

The closed-door politics also apparently led lawmakers to support Suga in hopes of getting favourable party and Cabinet posts in the new administration. Suga has said his top priorities are fighting the Coronavirus and turning around an economy battered by the pandemic. He is known for his iron-fist approach to getting jobs done as a policy coordinator and influencing bureaucrats by using the centralised power of the PM's office.

FOREIGN LABS: NAVALNY WAS POISONED

Berlin, Sept 14: Specialist labs in France and Sweden have confirmed Russian opposition leader Alexei Navalny was poisoned with the Soviet-era nerve agent Novichok, the German government said Monday. A German military laboratory previously confirmed the substance in his samples. German government spokesman Steffen Seibert said that the Hague-based Organisation for the Prohibition of Chemical Weapons has also received samples and is taking steps to have those tested at its reference laboratories.

"Independently of the ongoing examinations by the OPCW, three laboratories have now confirmed the proof of a nerve agent of the Novichok group as the cause of Navalny's poisoning," Seibert said.

Afghan government mounts pressure on Taliban for truce

Doha, Sept. 14: The Afghan government ratcheted up pressure for a truce with the Taliban on Monday, reiterating calls for a long-term ceasefire at talks in Qatar.

The two sides are in the early stages of meetings in the capital Doha in an effort to hammer out a deal bringing to a close 19 years of bloodshed in Afghanistan. A slick opening ceremony on Saturday saw the Afghan government and allies, including the US, call for a ceasefire.

FILM | FEST

Mr Jones is set in 1993 during what has come to be known as the Holodomor: to kill by starvation

The mendacity of Duranty and the truth of Mr Jones

SUPARNA SHARMA | DC NEW DELHI, SEPT. 14

It's true that history is written by victors. But its first inconvenient draft is written by journalists, by men and women often labelled as liars, insane and anti-national by authoritarian regimes and their toadies.

Despite that, you won't find them screaming on TV screens. You'll find them repeating the truth, calmly, with facts. The acclaimed, 71-year-old Polish writer-director Agnieszka Holland's English language feature film, Mr Jones, tells the story of two foreign journalists in Stalin's Russia — Gareth Jones (James Norton), a freelance Welsh journalist, and Pulitzer award winning Walter Duranty (Peter Sarsgaard), who was the New York Times' bureau chief in Moscow.

The film is set in 1993, during what has since come to be known as the Holodomor (to kill by starvation), or the Famine-Genocide in Ukraine. Jones arrives in a Moscow that is simultaneously welcoming and hostile. He's chasing a suspicion. Russia's claims of a successful revolution, of happy factories and prospering farms don't feel right because the numbers — of the country's economy, investment — don't add up.

Duranty dismisses it as a conspiracy theory against the revolution. Mr Jones is gorgeous to behold and is made with impressive technical prowess. Its scenes are shot and edited beautifully, often adding tension and energy. But the Communist Moscow that it creates is the sort we often see in Hollywood films — shadowy men lurk in dark corners, and all Russians speak English in an accent we have come to identify with duplicity and evil since the first James Bond film.

All the warmth in Ms Holland's film comes from her respect for Jones and the art director's love for Russian interiors — large, plush rooms with red walls, gorgeous carpets and lamps. But, the Russians drink too much and they eat all the time. Except in Ukraine, where Jones' story takes him.

A thick, gruesome coat of snow covers Ukraine, as if trying to hide how Stalin's policies were leading to the starvation and death of six million people.

We stand next to Jones as he travels through ghost villages, walks into a house where dead bodies lie next to wood sliced into bite-size pieces. He watches all the grain being taken to Moscow and listens to kids sing of hunger and eating their dead. We are ready to throw up when a tiny piece of protein is offered to him.

In between, George Orwell and his Animal Farm make brief appearances.

But central in all this is Jones, the first journalist to report about the famine and deaths, and his very public clash with Duranty, who NYT then called "our man in Moscow" though he was Stalin's own Goebbels.

James Norton is a big, gorgeous man with the air of upper class elegance and decency. He brings good boy-piety to the character of the earnest Mr Jones, but carefully saves it from descending into self-righteousness. Jones returns to England to tell the story of famine and deaths, and a government determined to hide it.

Duranty immediately debunks it in NYT, painting the famine with government propaganda. He calls it "widespread mortality from diseases due to malnutrition".

Jones was killed a year later. He was 29.

Duranty died aged 73, in Florida, in 1957.

Holland's Mr Jones carries an urgent message: Two people may tell the same story differently. But there is only, always, one truth. You'll know you've spotted it when authoritarian regimes, their cohorts and apologists scream, "It's not true."

With three massive mountains, the stage itself was won by 21-year-old rookie Tadej Pogacar, but the extent of the 2019 champion's astonishing collapse on the final climb is the story of the Tour so far. TENACIOUS THIEM

Wrests US Open title after a historic comeback

New York, Sept. 14: Dominic Thiem produced a historic comeback to beat Alexander Zverev in a nervy five-setter and win the US Open on Sunday for his first Grand Slam title.

The second seeded Austrian beat the fifth seed 2-6, 4-6, 6-4, 6-3, 7-6 (8/6) in 4 hours and two minutes in a near-empty Arthur Ashe Stadium.

It marked the first time in the US Open's Open era history that a player had recovered from losing the opening two sets to win the title.

Pancho Gonzalez did it against Ted Schroeder in 1949 at an event then known as the US Championships and held in Forest Hills.

It was also the first time the final had been settled by a tie-break.

"I wish we could have two winners today. I think we both deserved it," said Thiem.

The title is the 27-year-old Thiem's maiden Grand Slam trophy after three previous defeats in finals of tennis majors.

Thiem was runner-up at the Australian Open earlier this year and also lost in the last-two showdowns at the French Open in 2018 and 2019.

He also becomes the first new Grand Slam champion since Croatian Marin Cilic won at Flushing Meadows in 2014. Thiem is also the first Grand Slam champion other than Novak Djokovic, Rafael Nadal or Roger Federer since Stan Wawrinka won the third of his majors at the 2016 US Open.

"I achieved a life goal, a dream of myself, which I had for many, many years," the winner added. Zverev, 23, smashed four aces and 16 winners in the first set as he displayed an impressive serve and volley game to take a 1-0 lead in just 30 minutes.

The German was helped by some sloppy serving from Thiem, who hit three double faults as he was broken twice, in games three and seven.

In set two, Zverev wasted three set points while 5-1 up but held on to take a 2-0 lead on his fifth set point.

The tide was beginning to turn though as Zverev's play became increasingly cagey as his suspect second serve got slower and his forehand, another weakness, became more defensive.

After Thiem took set four, Zverev found himself serving for the championship at 5-3 in the fifth set. But he could not hold and soon Thiem found himself 6-5 ahead. He took a medical timeout before it was his turn to serve for the championship.

However, like Zverev moments earlier, Thiem failed to clinch the match and it went to a tie-break.

He found himself 5-3 up after two double faults by Zverev but Thiem, by now exhausted and limping, blew two championship points. He won the title and the winner's cheque of $3 million on his third after Zverev hit a backhand wide.

Thiem collapsed to the ground with his head in his hands before the pair, who are close friends, embraced on the court.

Zverev smashed 15 aces

I'LL BE GRAND SLAM CHAMP, SAYS ZVEREV

New York, Sept. 14: Alexander Zverev pledged to bounce back from his bitterly disappointing loss in the final of the US Open on Sunday to capture a Grand Slam one day.

The 23-year-old German went two sets and a break up in his first Grand Slam final before losing in five sets to Austria's Dominic Thiem.

"I was super close to being a Grand Slam champion. I was a few games away, maybe a few points away," a dejected Zverev told reporters.

"For me what upset me the most is not the third set, it's the fifth set.

"I had a lot of chances in the fifth set and didn't use them," he added.

The second seeded Thiem beat the fifth seed Zverev 2-6, 4-6, 6-4, 6-3, 7-6 (8/6) in 4hr 2min.

It was the first time in the US Open's Open era history that a player had recovered from losing the opening two sets to win the title.

It was also the first time the final had been settled by a tie-break.

Zverev said it hurt to lose in the manner he did.

"Obviously being two sets to love and a break up in a Grand Slam final then losing is not easy," he told reporters.

Zverev's debut appearance in the last-two of a tennis major came after he reached the semifinals of the Australian Open earlier this year.

"I'm 23 years old. I don't think it's my last chance. I do believe that I will be a Grand Slam champion at some point," Zverev further added. — AFP compared to Thiem's two. But the German also hit 15 double faults, with Thiem hitting eight.

The match was watched by just a few dozen people, mostly officials, journalists and event staff after the Coronavirus pandemic forced the tournament to be held behind closed doors. — AFP

LEVERKUSEN ROUT LOWLY EINTRACHT 7-0

Berlin, Sept. 14: Bayer Leverkusen easily won its first game without Kai Havertz, routing fourth-tier Eintracht Norderstedt 7-0 in the first round of the German Cup.

Germany star Havertz joined Chelsea in the off-season, but Peter Bosz's team showed no ill effect as it raced into a 3-0 lead after 12 minutes and 6-0 at the break on Sunday.

Patrik Schick came on for his Leverkusen debut and missed two good chances before rounding off the scoring in the 77th minute.

Nadiem Amiri netted brace while Lars Bender, Lucan Alario, Florian Wirtz and Charles Aranguiz also scored a goal each to get past Eintracht.

Norderstedt was among a host of smaller clubs that gave up their home advantage due to the costs of meeting conditions to restrict the risk of Coronavirus infections. Up to 300 fans were allowed at Leverkusen.

Some 7,500 supporters cheered third-division Hansa Rostock against Stuttgart, but couldn't prevent their side losing 1-0.

Freiburg beat third-division Waldhof Mannheim 2-1 after hitting the crossbar three times in the first half.

Meanwhile, Hamburg-based St. Pauli was knocked out by fourth-tier SV Elversberg 4-2 and Kiel enjoyed a 7-1 rout against fifth-tier Rielasingen-Arlen which also gave up its right to play at home. — AP

England hit Oz hard, pull level

Manchester, Sept. 14:

Australia batted itself into a winning position before dramatically collapsing as England won the second one-day cricket international by 24 runs to stay alive in the series.

England's decision to bat first at Old Trafford had appeared to backfire with the world champions limited to 231-9 and Australia reaching 143-2 with 20 overs left on Sunday.

Australia was making the run chase look easy thanks to a 107-run stand for the third wicket between captain Aaron Finch (73) and Marnus Labuschagne (48). But the tourists then collapsed to 147-6, and 166-8, in Manchester before finishing 207 all out in 48.4 overs.

A trio of England pacers did the damage: Chris Woakes (3-32), Jofra Archer (3-34) and Sam Curran 3-35. In what has become an unwanted tour tradition for Australia, Archer again claimed opener David Warner (6).

England captain Eoin Morgan said bringing Woakes and Archer back into the attack dramatically swung the game in the home team's favor.

Earlier, no England batsman reached 50, with Morgan (42) and Joe Root (39) leading the scoring. Both men were dismissed by Adam Zampa.

Australia was aiming to wrap up a series victory after beating England by 19 runs in the first ODI last Friday, also in Manchester.

The series finale is at the same venue on Wednesday, when England will be hoping to avoid its first ODI series defeat at home since 2015. Australian batsman Steve Smith could be in consideration for a recall for the series decider after missing the first two games because of concussion. — AP

Brief scores: England 231/9 in 50 overs (Eoin Morgan 42; Adam Zampa 3/56) bt Australia 207 in 48.4 overs (Aaron Finch 73; Chris Woakes 3/32).

AUSTRALIA EYE CROWDS FOR BOXING-DAY MATCH

Melbourne, Sept. 14: Victoria state Premier Daniel Andrews on Monday said his government is negotiating with Cricket Australia and Tennis Australia to have crowd attendance for the city's iconic sports events — Boxing Day Test involving India and the Australian Open.

There is speculation that MCG may miss out on hosting the Boxing Day Test, an annual highlight on the calendar, since Victoria is reeling under pandemic.

"We just have to work out what a safe crowd would be. It is too hard to say now what that number is," Andrews said in a daily news briefing.

With Melbourne looking a dicey venue, Adelaide is seen as the front-runner for the Boxing Day Test against India. — PTI

Kohli, AB look to turn RCB around

New Delhi, Sept. 14:

South African veteran AB de Villiers said captain Virat Kohli is "leading from the front" as Royal Challengers Bangalore look to shed their wooden-spooners tag in the Indian Premier League.

De Villiers said India skipper Kohli was inspiring much hard work in the build-up to the IPL's start in the UAE on Saturday.

"I think everyone has bought into this hard-working environment and a lot of credit should go to Virat for that," De Villiers said in an interview posted on his team's YouTube channel on Monday.

"He leads by example, he sets the standards and it is pretty easy to follow when you have a captain leading from the front," he added.

Bangalore begin their campaign against Sunrisers Hyderabad in Dubai next Monday.

Kohli, who took over as captain of the Bangalore team in 2013, has said he has "never felt so calm" entering an IPL season. "It's a tricky one because we say that (we'll improve) every season. (But) I promise you, 'it's different', that's all I can tell you," said de Villiers. — AFP
