As cases rise, govt. gives nod to inoculate all over 45 from April 1

No need for a certificate on co-morbidity

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
NEW DELHI

Citizens above the age of 45, irrespective of co-morbidities, will be eligible for COVID-19 vaccination from April 1, the government announced on Tuesday. At present, only citizens above 60 and those over 45 with comorbidities are allowed to get the vaccination.

"This decision has been taken by the Union Cabinet on the basis of the advice of the COVID task force and experts," said Information and Broadcasting Minister Prakash Javadekar, while making an appeal to eligible citizens to register for vaccination. According to him, over 4.85 crore people had received at least one dose of the vaccine. He added that 80 lakh had received the second dose so far.

The cut-off date for the 45+ years category is those persons born before January 1, 1977, the Health Ministry said.

Blushan has on Tuesday written to the States/UTs stating that while the government has expanded the prioritised age group to include all persons aged 45 years and above for COVID-19 vaccination, accordingly there will now be no need for a comorbidity certificate for people aged 45 years to 59 years, from April 1.

Software modified | The Co-WIN software is also being suitably modified for doing away with the need for confirmation of co-morbidities," he said.

The Secretary added that the registration on Co-WIN would begin from April 1 and directed officials to immediately undertake measures for expansion of the vaccination drive.

"While ensuring wider dissemination of information for increased uptake of vaccination services, the focus should be on optimal utilisation of the capacity of COVID-19 Vaccination Centres (CVCs) while minimising the wastage of vaccines," noted Mr. Bhushan in his letter.

Test, track and treat, MHA advises States

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
NEW DELHI

The Ministry of Home Affairs (MHA) issued fresh COVID-19 guidelines on Tuesday, asking the States to strictly enforce the "test, track and treat" protocol.

The "guidelines for effective control of COVID-19" issued under the Disaster Management Act, 2005, will be effective from April 1 to 30.

The MHA asserted that local authorities could impose restrictions at district, sub-district and city or ward-level. "There shall be no restriction on inter-State and intra-State movement of persons and goods, including those for cross land-border trade under treaties with neighbouring countries. No separate permission, approval or e-permit will be required," the Ministry said.

Refund penal interest on EMIs, SC directs lenders

It lifts govt. bar on banks declaring accounts as NPAs

KRISHNADAS RAJAGOPAL
NEW DELHI

The Supreme Court on Tuesday directed banks and financial institutions to refund compound interest, interest on interest or penal interest collected on EMI for loans during the period of moratorium from March 1 to August 31 last year.

"It is directed that there shall not be any charge of interest on interest/compound interest/penal interest for the period during the moratorium," a Bench of Justices Ashok Bhushan, R. Subhash Reddy and M.R. Shah said in a 148-page judgment.

The court also spelt out relief for banks and lenders with the court lifting its nearly six-month ban on them from declaring accounts of borrowers as non-performing assets (NPAs). In October last, the top court had stopped banks and lenders from declaring accounts of borrowers as NPAs.

The judgment concluded that the government's scheme to restrict the waiver of interest on interest to loans worth only up to ₹2 crore as irrational. This scheme had already been deferred tober, was limited to debts in MSME, education, housing, consumer durables, credit card, auto, personal and consumption categories within the ₹2 crore limit.

"There is no justification shown to restrict the relief of not charging interest on interest with respect to the loans up to ₹2 crore only, and that too, restricted to the aforesaid (eight) categories. There is no rationale to restrict such relief," Justice Shah noted.

But the court refused to entertain complaints from petitioners that the government did not do enough to ease the burden of financial strain during the pandemic.

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
RAIPUR
Five police personnel were killed and 13 others injured when Naxals blew up a bus in Chhattisgarh's Narayanpur district on Tuesday, senior police officials said.

The landmine explosion took place between Kanharagaon and Kadener villages under the Dhadai police station limits.

Personnel of the police's District Reserve Guard (DRG) were returning in the bus to Narayanpur town, 300 km from capital Raipur, after a counter-insurgency operation, said Inspector General of Police (Bastar range) Sundarrajp P. "Five DRG personnel, including the driver, were killed in the explosion," he told PTI.

Reinforcements were rushed to the spot. The bodies were removed and the injured personnel were evacuated from the forest. The injured were being air-lifted to Raipur in an Indian Air Force chopper for treatment, the IG added.

Earlier, while confirming the incident, the State's Director General of Police D.M. Awasthi said over 20 security personnel were on board the bus.

India abstains in UNHRC vote on Sri Lanka

Resolution gets nod from 22 members

MEERA SRINIVASAN
COLOMBO

India on Tuesday abstained from a crucial vote on Sri Lanka's rights record at the United Nations Human Rights Council in Geneva.

The resolution on 'Promoting reconciliation, accountability and human rights in Sri Lanka' was, however, adopted after 22 states of the 47-member Council voted in its favour.

Sri Lanka, which had earlier deemed the resolution "politically motivated", was quick to reject the UN move to collect and preserve evidence of war crimes in the country, committed by the armed forces and the LTTE.

"Without the consent and acceptance of the country concerned, it cannot be implemented," Foreign Minister Dinesh Gunawardena said in Colombo. The statement made clear Sri Lanka's resistance to the process envisaged in the resolution to prosecute war criminals through an international evidence gathering and investigation mechanism.

The money allocated – an estimated $2.8 million – for the effort would better use towards providing housing for the war-affected people, the Minister said, even as scores of Tamils continue seeking their lands and jobs from his government.

'No public celebration on Holi, other festivals'

Govt. issues order as cases breach 1K

STAFF REPORTER
NEW DELHI

The Delhi government on Tuesday issued an order restricting public gatherings during Holi and other upcoming festivals in city as the number of new COVID-19 cases rose to 1,101 over 24 hours, the highest in more than three months.

All authorities concerned will ensure that public celebrations and gatherings, congregations during upcoming festivals like Holi, Shab-e-Barat, Navaratri etc. shall not be allowed in public places/public grounds/parks/markets/religious places etc. in NCT of Delhi," an order issued by Chief Secretary Vijay Dev read.

The order said that if the gatherings happen, it may pose a "considerable threat" of spread of the virus.

Also, there are many "super spreader areas" in the city such as weekly markets, metro services, religious places and others, the government said in another order and directed all DMs to "greatly intensify their enforcement efforts".

"The past fortnight has seen a persistent increase in the COVID-19 cases in Delhi and positivity is also on the rise. It has been observed that COVID-appropriate behaviour is not being followed amongst the general public," the order said.

Random testing | The government has also decided to conduct random testing of people coming from other States.

"All District Disaster Management Authorities shall conduct random testing (RAT/RT-PCR) of passengers coming from the States where COVID-19 cases are surging/rapidly increasing, at all airports, railway stations, inter-State bus terminals (ISBT) and other alighting points (for private buses) in NCT of Delhi. It shall be ensured that samples are taken randomly at the alighting points for conduct of tests," said another order.

Passengers who are found COVID-19-positive, shall be mandatorily quarantined at their place of stay or a government facility for 10 days.

V-C will continue to hold office till successor is appointed: JNU

It condemns 'malicious propaganda' by teachers' union

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT

NEW DELHI

Responding to allegations made by the JNU Teachers' Association (JNTUA) on the conduct of the Academic Council meeting by "interim administrator" Vice-Chancellor M. Jagadesh Kumar, the administration said that according to the JNU Act and its statutes, there is no nomenclature as "caretaker V-C", "officiating V-C" and "interim administrator" as it clearly states that the V-C will continue to hold office until his successor is appointed.

It said that it strongly condemns the "downright falsehood and malicious propaganda" being spread by a "small section" of faculty member of JNU about the conduct of the Academic Council meeting on Monday.

Damaging reputation

"These faculty members seem to be only interested in damaging the reputation and public image of JNU by spreading stories about the conduct of the Academic Council meeting and decisions taken in it. During the

CAG officers to now be JNU graduates

NEW DELHI

Jawaharlal Nehru University and Comptroller and Auditor General of India on Tuesday signed an MoU to initiate an association by which all officers graduating from the National Academy for Audit and Accounts, Shimla, will be JNU graduates. JNU V-C M. Jagadesh Kumar said that officers of the CAG will henceforth be graduates of JNU.

meeting, a large number of council members from assistant professors to senior professors and deans of schools, participated in the deliberations in a very democratic and enthusiastic manner and arrived at the decisions," the varsity said.

The JNTUA has alleged that Mr. Kumar had allowed only select members to speak and had questioned if the "interim administrator" had the power to conduct meetings deciding the future of the university.

JNU Registrar Anirban Chakraborti said that the Academic Council meeting was held in a "very cordial and positive atmosphere with an attendance exceeding 100 members" and said many important decisions were taken at the meeting.

The council resolved to conduct the JNU entrance examination 2020-2021 in collaboration with the National Testing Agency (NTA) and that the university will admit students through the Central Universities Common Entrance Test whenever the NTA decides to conduct it, he said.

"The council decided to start a new MA programme in Hindi translation in the Centre of Indian Languages, School of Language, Literature and Culture Studies. The council also approved granting of recognition to Arun Jaitley National Institute of Financial and Management Faridabad, to award PG Diploma in Management [Finance] and PG Diploma Management [Financial Management]," the Registrar said.

The Centre had permitted Mr. Kumar to continue at the university, after the expiry of his term on January 26, till a successor is appointed.

HEMANI BHANDARI

NEW DELHI

Shaheed Diwas brought back the lost cheer and spirit at the Singhu protest site on Tuesday. People, especially youth, reached the Delhi borders to participate in the agitation to mark the martyrdom of the freedom fighters.

Three huge photographs of Bhagat Singh, Rajguru and Sukhdev adorned the main stage at the protest site. The crowd wore yellow, orange and green pagdis. A call was given in Punjab and Haryana villages for the youth to join the protest.

"All those wearing yellow pagdis signify youth. This whole protest is essentially for them and their present and future," said a member of the stage management committee.

Soil collection

tary Kartar Singh Sarabha's village Sarabha, Bhagat Singh's village Khatkar Kalan, Hussainiwala Border, Anandpur Sahib, revolutionary Udhampur Singh's village Sunam, Jallianwala Bagh in Amritsar, and Sirhind – was also kept on the stage.

It was collected by youth and student organisations and brought to Singhu and Tikri borders. Tractor shows and several langars which had lately vanished also came alive.

'Govt. will have to bend'

Women also gathered at the Singhu border on Tuesday said that no matter what happens, they'll continue to protest. Preeti (23), from Haryana's Sonipat who had come with a group of women, said that the government will have no other option but to bend.

A 22-year-old fashion designer from a private college, a resident of Delhi, said that she has spent the last one month here as part of the exam on human rights, she recently wrote.

"I have conducted a deep study here and it is not Punjabis here, there are people from across States and all walks of life – those who believe in the cause," she said.

Two wheelchair-bound men also came to Singhu from Fatehgarh Sahib to join the protest. Lakhwinder Singh who has been on the wheelchair since 2015, said that he belongs to a labour family and there has been a growing anger over the farmers' issue.

"Shaheed Bhagat Singh has taught to fight for our rights at all costs and that's what we are doing," said Rao Varinder Singh who has been on the wheelchair for the last 10 years, following an accident in the fields.

Fighting our people'

Drawing the crowds, Punjabi singer Ravinder Garewal sang for nearly two hours. He said, "Shaheed Bhagat Singh did not know that we'll have to fight our own people for the freedom, and our own people will become like the British. People ask me about the dwindling numbers at the protest site, and I tell them that this is not the only protest happening. There's a protest inside every household," he said.

However, those managing the protest also realise that the spirit seems to be going down. "Strategy needs to change. This cold wave cannot continue and is not good for the protest," said a committee member.

Court upholds jail sentence for AAP MLA

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

NEW DELHI

A Delhi court on Tuesday upheld an order sentencing AAP MLA Somnath Bharti to two years in jail for assaulting AIIMS security staffer in a case registered in 2016.

After the pronouncement of the order, Mr. Bharti was taken into custody, a lawyer said. A magistrate court had in January sentenced him to two years in jail.

Special Judge Vikas Dhull partly dismissed Mr. Bharti's appeal and convicted him for the offences under Sections 147 (rioting) read with 149 (unlawful assembly) of IPC and under Section 3 (mischief causing damage to public property) of the Prevention of Damage to Public Property Act. The court, however, set aside his conviction under Sections 323 (voluntarily causing hurt), 353 (assault or use of criminal force to deter public servant from discharge of his duty) read with Section 149 of the IPC.

In January, Mr. Bharti was granted bail to enable him to file an appeal before the HC against his conviction and jail term.

According to the prosecution, in September 2016, Mr. Bharti, along with 300 others, brought down the fence of a wall at the AIIMS. The case was lodged based on a complaint from R.S. Rawat, Chief Security Officer, AIIMS.

DU inaugurates Bhagat Singh Smarak

University commemorates martyrdom of freedom fighters

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT

NEW DELHI

Delhi University on Tuesday organised a programme to commemorate 90 years of martyrdom of Bhagat Singh, Sukhdev and Rajguru at which Minister of Education Ramesh Pokhray "Nishank" paid homage to Bhagat Singh in the chamber located in the basement of the Viceregal Lodge of the University where he was imprisoned.

Bhagat Singh Smarak was inaugurated by the Minister virtually and an existing collection of books on freedom fighters has been converted into "Shaheed Smriti Pustakalaya" to be accessed by students and faculty members of the Music Faculty.

Students and the university community to inculcate values of freedom and sacrifice.

Tribute was paid to Bhagat Singh and his associates through patriotic songs by students and faculty members of the Music Faculty. Students who had won awards in competitions related to Shaheed Diwas were felicitated.

Justice Anu Malhotra directed the police to file a status report in the case and listed the matter for further hearing on April 6.

The High Court was hearing the petition by the couple, who were also present, urging the court to provide police protection to them and the man's family as after the attack they feel unsafe in their locality.

They sought direction that

Supreme Court Judge Justice Sanjay Kishan Kaul inaugurated the SAHYOG web portal, a first-of-its-kind platform that connects student research assistants with lawyers and organisations who have taken up pro bono cases, on Tuesday.

Justice Kaul said he was happy to inaugurate the web portal as it was well timed. "I am sure the judiciary can equally utilise in some way the opportunity of interaction with these dynamic youngsters," Justice Kaul added.

SAHYOG was founded by Adya Jha and Dakshita Chopra, alumni of the West Bengal National University of Juridical Sciences. Since its inception in September 2019, SAHYOG has contributed over 2,500 pro bono hours while collaborating with lawyers and organisations such as International Justice Mission, Centre for Social Justice and Justice Ventures International.

Unable to identify personnel who rounded up youth, police tell HC

Video of officers assaulting five Muslim youth had gone viral

STAFF REPORTER

NEW DELHI

The Delhi police has informed the Delhi High Court that it has not been able to identify the officers who were seen in a viral video rounding up five Muslim youth and forcing them to sing the national anthem on February 24 last year.

The police made the statement in response to a petition filed by a 61-year-old Kismatun seeking constitution of a court-monitored Special Investigation Team (SIT) to probe into the alleged custodial death of her son Faizan (23), who was last seen in the viral video.

Ms. Kismatun alleged that "the policemen kicked the five Muslim men with their boots, beat them and produced them with their lathis and taunted them saying, 'Ye lo azadi [Here, take freedom]', and forced them to sing the national anthem while they were lying down, helpless in a grievously wounded condition".

In a report filed before the court, the agency said it has taken on record four video clippings related to the incident. In the clips, persons in police uniform are seen assaulting Faizan and four others – Farhan, Kauser, Rafig and Wasim.

The police said that three clips are distantly shot videos in which the pictures of these persons are blurred and are not recognisable as they are wearing helmets and other safety gadgets except one person who is seen without a helmet.

Verdict likely in Nikita Tomar murder case today

ASHOK KUMAR

FARIDABAD

The District and Sessions Court here is expected to pronounce verdict in the Nikita Tomar murder case on Wednesday. The 20-year-old was shot point-blank allegedly by her former schoolmate on October 26 last year in broad daylight.

Additional Sessions Judge Sartaj Baswana is expected to pronounce the judgment in the case almost four months after the trial began on December 1 last year.

Defence counsel P.L. Goyal told The Hindu that 55 witnesses, including two defence witnesses, deposed before the court during the trial and final arguments were concluded on Tuesday. Both sides presented final arguments in the case for almost four hours on Monday and again for almost 30 minutes on Tuesday.

Nikita's father Moolchand Tomar said that he was hopeful that justice would be done to his daughter.

Centre ducks query on dissolution of air quality panel; Cong. doubts commitment

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT

NEW DELHI

Cornering the government on premature dissolution of the Commission for Air Quality Management set up by the Narendra Modi government by way of an ordinance that lapsed on March 12, senior Congress leader Jairam Ramesh questioned the government's commitment towards the issue.

Mr. Ramesh said that the government that is usually agile in converting an ordinance into an Act, let this important ordinance lapse. This despite the fact, Mr. Ramesh said, that the Business Advisory Committee for Raised to end on Thursday and it is unlikely that in the last two days, the government will bring in a fresh Bill to reactivate the commission.

"No clarification was forthcoming. A much-hyped measure to tackle air pollution languishes," Mr. Ramesh tweeted.

The Commission for Air Quality Management in National Capital Region and adjoining areas, as it is called, came into being after the 22-year-old Environmental Pollution (Prevention and Control) Authority (EPCA) that has so far addressed air pollution in Delhi, was dissolved in October.

Monthly deadlines for Chandni Chowk work

Pedestrianisation of stretch to be completed by end of May

JATIN ANAND
NEW DELHI

Monthly deadlines have been set to ensure speedy completion of the Chandni Chowk redevelopment project, which has suffered several delays due to the COVID-induced lockdown and curbs, said Delhi government sources.

The first phase of the project, related to the redevelopment and pedestrianisation of the 1.3 km stretch between Red Fort and Fatehpuri Masjid, is expected to be completed by May 31, said sources. Once completed, it will pave the way for a futuristic solution to one of the area's historical problems: last-mile connectivity.

Free connectivity
The authorities are exploring the possibility of deploying golf carts and trambuses to provide free connectivity on the stretch.

"The main corridor is almost complete except for installation of streetlights and CCTV cameras. We expect this to be accomplished by the end of April," said a government official.

Traffic diversions have been put in place at the Red Fort junction. Work on this junction as well as near the Fatehpuri Masjid is expected to be done by the end of April as well. The Transport department has been asked to explore the provision of e-vehicles for last-mile connectivity for the elderly and infirm," the official said.

Another official associated with the project said work related to phase II of the project, which includes façade restoration, will see the appointment of a consultant by the end of April.

Meanwhile, a significant portion of overhead electric cables have been removed from the stretch, and multiple pick-up and drop sites for goods, which was a demand of local businesses, have also been demarcated.

The stretch between Red Fort and Fatehpuri Masjid is being turned into a vehicle-free zone - between 9 a.m. and 9 p.m. - though non-motorised vehicles will be allowed. There will be tree-lined footpaths on either side and a wide central verge. There will also be seating space for visitors.

Most of the work is being done in red sandstone, keeping the Mughal-era architectural style in mind.

Undertaken at a cost of ₹90 crore and part of a larger redevelopment plan for the Walled City of Shahjahanabad, the project was scheduled to be completed by March-end last year.

Government sources said this was mainly due to issues over procurement of construction material as well as components to be installed as part of the initiative from neighbouring States such as Haryana and Uttar Pradesh.

Brothers held for killing hawker over business rivalry

STAFF REPORTER
NEW DELHI

Two brothers have been arrested for allegedly killing a hawker in Najafgarh over a business rivalry, the police said on Tuesday. The victim, Rambilash, used to sell eggs and chhole bhature at Delhi Gate, they said.

The accused – Kishan Pal (25) and Vijay Pal (22) – were engaged in the same business at the same place. An officer said they have also arrested a 43-year-old man, Mani Ram, for supplying an illegal weapon to the duo.

Shot near his home

The incident happened on March 17 when the victim was headed for home after work, said an officer. Just before he could enter his house near Naya Bazar, Kishan shot at him and both sped off.

Rambilash was rushed to Deen Dayal Upadhyay Hospital where he succumbed to injuries, the officer said.

The accused had even tried to kill the victim on the intervening night of March 9-10 but since Rambilash was with another hawker, who could have identified them, they dropped the plan. They instead robbed a fruit seller of ₹10,000 at gunpoint.

STAFF REPORTER
NEW DELHI

A 43-year-old retired Army man was shot dead by two unidentified persons in west Delhi's Jaffarpur Kalan, the police said on Tuesday.

The deceased has been identified as Mukesh alias Fauzi, a resident of Jaffarpur Kalan.

At 5.30 p.m. on Monday, Mukesh was with his friends in a field of one Rajender near Firni Road when two men came to the spot on a motorcycle and inquired about one Rakesh, an officer said. They told the duo that Rakesh was not with them.

"The man who inquired about Rakesh opened fire at Mukesh with a countrymade pistol and sped off," said DCP (Dwarka) Santosh Kumar Meena. A case under relevant sections of the IPC has been registered.

It is suspected to be a case of personal enmity, however, the exact cause will be ascertained after the arrest of the accused persons, said the police.

In observation made at 4.00 p.m., Siliguri, West Bengal recorded an overall air quality index (AQI) score of 320, indicating unhealthy level of pollution. In contrast, Mangalore, Karnataka recorded a healthy AQI score of 38.

Air Quality Code: ■ Poor ■ Moderate ■ Good (Readings indicate average AQI)
SO<sub>2</sub>: Sulphur Dioxide. Short-term exposure can harm the respiratory system, making breathing difficult. It can affect visibility by reacting with other air particles to form haze and stain culturally important objects such as statues and monuments.
NO<sub>x</sub>: Nitrogen Dioxide. Aggravates respiratory illness, causes haze to form by reacting with other air particles, causes acid rain, pollutes coastal waters.
CO: Carbon monoxide. High concentration in air reduces oxygen supply to critical organs like the heart and brain. At very high levels, it can cause dizziness, confusion, unconsciousness and even death.
PM<sub>2.5</sub> & PM<sub>10</sub>: Particulate matter pollution can cause irritation of the eyes, nose and throat, coughing, chest tightness and shortness of breath, reduced lung function, irregular heartbeat, asthma attacks, heart attacks and premature death in people with heart or lung disease.

Four dead, 2 rescued after soil caves in at building site

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

Four labourers were killed on Tuesday after soil caved in while they were engaged in building a basement wall in Surat's Mota Varachha area, an official said.

Two people were rescued from the debris and had been hospitalised, the Surat Municipal Corporation (SMC) fire brigade official said.

"Six labourers were trapped after soil caved in while they were constructing a wall in the basement of a multi-storey building project. Four died and two were rescued and rushed to hospital," SMC's East zone fire officer Jagdish Patel said.

They were working in the lower part of the basement when the mishap occurred, Mr. Patel added.

Fadnavis alleges irregularities in police transfers, seeks CBI probe

NCP says 80% of transfers discussed in alleged phone conversations never took place

STAFF REPORTER

MUMBAI

The ongoing political turmoil escalated on Tuesday after Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) leader and former chief minister Devendra Fadnavis alleged of irregularities in transfer of police officers in Maharashtra citing a confidential report from the former commissioner of State intelligence department, Rashmi Shukla, who had put several phone numbers on surveillance.

Mr. Fadnavis demanded an inquiry by the Central Bureau of Investigation (CBI) into the matter.

The Nationalist Congress Party (NCP), a partner in the Maha Vikas Aghadi (MVA)

government, denied the allegations, saying 80% of the transfers discussed in the alleged phone conversations never even took place, and the rest were confirmed by a committee of senior IPS and IAS officers of which former Maharashtra Director General of Police Subodh Jaiswal was a member.

"For lower posts, a well-established police board generally submits its recommendations and then the further process takes place," NCP's Mumbai president and State Minority Affairs Minister Nawab Malik said.

The NCP said that Ms. Shukla had illegally put phone numbers of several political leaders on surveillance, when the MVA government was being formed, to help the BJP. "That was the reason why she was shunted out from the intelligence department after the government was formed," Mr. Malik said.

The party alleged that Ms. Shukla and Mr. Jaiswal worked for the BJP. "When the BJP realised that it could not buy our MLAs, it started working on officers," he said.

Earlier in the day, Mr. Fadnavis at a press conference claimed that he was in possession of 6.3 GB data of phone interceptions which he would produce before the Union home secretary and demand a CBI probe.

"Ms. Shukla had sought permission from their DGP Mr. Jaiswal and through proper channel with approval from the then additional chief secretary of Home Department, several important phone numbers were put on surveillance," Mr. Fadnavis said.

He added that on August 25, 2020, Ms. Shukla submitted a report to Mr. Jaiswal and the next day, he forwarded it to the Chief Minister's office.

Test, negative report must for entering malls in Navi Mumbai on weekends

RAINA ASSAINAR

NAVI MUMBAI

With COVID-19 cases rising, the Navi Mumbai Municipal Corporation (NMMC) has issued a notice to the shopping malls directing them to make rapid antigen test mandatory for entry of visitors after 4 p.m. every Friday and for the whole day on Saturdays and Sundays. The entry should be allowed if the antigen report is negative or with a RT-PCR negative report of the last 72 hours.

NMMC Commissioner Abhijit Bangar has also asked officials to open the temporarily closed COVID-19 Care Centres in phases and reactivate the mobile antigen van for housing societies.

Department stores have been asked to start a token system by deciding on the number of visitors allowed at one time depending on space. "A fine of ₹50,000 will be levied on the management each time a mall is found to be overcrowded without proper social distancing," Mr. Bangar said.

Start-up unveils electric scooter

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
NEW DELHI

An IIT-Delhi incubated start-up on Tuesday launched an electric scooter called 'Hope', which is suited for cost-effective last-mile delivery and personal commute.

The vehicle, developed by Geloise Mobility, has a top speed of 25 km/hr and does not require a driving licence or registration.

The institute said that the vehicle comes with a portable charger and a portable Li-ion battery that can be charged through a normal socket. Customers have two battery capacity options, with a range of 50 and 75 km in ideal conditions. Users will also have the option to switch between pedalling and throttle mode while driving.

Delay debate on GNCTD Bill: TMC

'Hastening legislation would be gross miscarriage of justice'

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
NEW DELHI

The Trinamool Congress (TMC) has urged Rajya Sabha Chairman Venkaiah Naidu to postpone the discussion on the Government of National Capital Territory of Delhi (Amendment) Bill, 2021, till all the members are able to attend Parliament.

In a letter to Mr. Naidu, TMC's Parliamentary Party leader for Rajya Sabha, Derek O'Brien, argued that party MPs cannot be present in Parliament because of the upcoming Assembly elections in West Bengal.

Voting for the first phase of polls in the State is scheduled for March 27.

"This is an extremely important piece of legislation that has a significant impact on all of India. Each and every member of Parliament should be given the opportunity to express themselves when the House takes up discussion on the Bill," Mr. O'Brien said in his letter.

The Bill was passed in the Lok Sabha on Monday and is likely to be taken up in the Rajya Sabha on Wednesday.

Mr. O'Brien said holding a debate when many members of the House are away for elections in Assam, West Bengal, Tamil Nadu, Kerala and Puducherry goes against the "spirit of deliberative, responsible governance that the Parliament embodies". He said, "It further lays down a bad precedent regarding passage of important laws."

The MP said it would be a "gross miscarriage of justice" if the Bill is hastened through the Upper House.

"I urge you to personally look into this matter and consider postponing the discussion and passing of this Bill till all members are able to attend Parliament," he wrote.

The Bill gives the Lieutenant-Governor overarching powers above the elected government of Delhi and has been vociferously opposed by the AAP government.

BJP implementing British-era rule in Delhi: AAP

Party vows to make people fully aware of the repercussions of the GNCTD Bill

STAFF REPORTER
NEW DELHI

AAP leaders attacked the BJP over the Government of National Capital Territory of Delhi Amendment (GNCTD) Bill, 2021, which has been passed in the Lok Sabha and said that it is a "disrespect" to the vote of the people of Delhi.

"In the British era too, there was a Parliament and elections were conducted. Even at that time MPs were elected. But the decision-making powers were not in their hands. It was the Vice-roy who took all the decisions. The same thing is being brought today. The people of Delhi elected their MLAs, but the governance lies with the L-G. British rule is being implemented again," Health Minister Satyendar Jain said.

'Not indifferent'
He said that people need to be aware of the fact that their vote is being "disrespected" and he is hopeful that they will go against this. "The Central government is under the impression that Delhites are indifferent since most people don't belong to this city. But we believe that we will make them aware. The Centre can bring in L-G, but we will still work towards the welfare of the people. The work that took us 16 hours, might take 18 now, but we will still work," Mr. Jain said.

AAP Lok Sabha MP Bhagwant Mann also said that the Bill is not just about Delhi, but BJP is trying to intervene through the Governor in States where the BJP is not in power. The Bill, which was passed by the Lok Sabha on Monday, is yet to be passed by the Rajya Sabha.

An AAP source said that though they have sought support of some other Opposition parties in Rajya Sabha, the chances of them being able to stop the Bill is less. "Many MPs of TMC and other parties who support us are busy with Assembly elections in their own seats. It will be difficult to stop it in RS," the source said.

Daily infections in Delhi breach 1K mark for first time this year

Capital reports 1,101 new cases and four more deaths; active cases surge to 4,411

STAFF REPORTER
NEW DELHI

The surge in COVID-19 cases continued on Tuesday with the city witnessing 1,101 new cases in 24 hours, the highest in more than three months, taking the tally to 6,49,973, according to a health bulletin released by the Delhi government. This is the first time more than 1,000 new cases have been reported in a day this year.

Four deaths were also reported, taking the total number of deaths to 10,967.

A total of 84,237 tests were done in a day, the bulletin added. Of the total cases, 6,34,595 people have recovered and there are now 4,411 active cases in the city.

On January 16, the num-

Following Immunisation, said a Delhi government spokesperson.

Of the total beneficiaries, 15,639 were people 60 years of age and above, and 3,079 people were between 45 and 59 years of age.

The rest of the people vaccinated were healthcare and front-line workers.

Recurring infection'

Health Minister Satyendar Jain on Tuesday said that COVID-19 is a "recurring infection and when we feel the situation is getting better, there is a sudden surge".

"This is a recurring infection. The minute we feel it is getting better, there is a sudden surge. We need to be aware, but we also need to learn to live with it. Delhi was witnessing 200 cases per day some time back, but again the number has risen to 800-900," Mr. Jain said, while felicitating "corona warriors" from Deen Dayal Upadhyay and GTB Hospital at the Delhi Assembly.

"Just like the other diseases, we will have to learn how to protect ourselves. If we continue to follow proper precautions like washing our hands, wearing a mask, a lot of other diseases too can be kept at bay," the Health Minister added.

On March 7, despite the number of daily cases witnessing an upward trend, Mr. Jain had said that COVID-19 was nearing an "epidemic" phase in the Capital.

Raise drinking age in States you rule, AAP dares BJP

Party says ready to set age limit at 30 in Delhi if BJP follows through

STAFF REPORTER
NEW DELHI

The Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) on Tuesday attacked the BJP and accused it of "hypocrisy" by opposing the Delhi government's decision to reduce the minimum drinking age from 25 years to 21 years.

He challenged BJP leaders to increase the minimum age to 25 years in BJP-ruled States, and added that the Aam Aadmi Party will make it 30 years in Delhi, if the BJP makes it 25 years.

Mr. Bharadwaj further alleged that the BJP was "misleading" people because "they think that they can't do corruption once the new policy is implemented".

Property tax

The AAP leader further claimed that the BJP-ruled South Delhi Municipal Corporation had brought a proposal to hike the property tax by 34%, which the BJP termed "totally false".

"Allegation of Mr. Bharadwaj is totally false as South Delhi Standing Committee has already rejected the proposal of the Commissioner to raise house tax. It seems in his malafide anxiety to level charges against the civic body, Mr. Bharadwaj does not even crosscheck facts," Delhi BJP spokesperson Praveen Shankar Kapoor said.

Cong. claims new excise policy will ruin families

Lamba seeks stance of women MLAs

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
NEW DELHI

The Delhi Congress continued its criticism of the new excise policy of the Kejriwal government with former MLA and Congress leader Alka Lamba saying that the policy intended to boost the revenue collection by an additional ₹2,000 crore. She said it will not only ruin the lives of the youth but also many families as well.

Ms. Lamba asked the eight women AAP MLAs whether they support the policy as the ill-effects would be felt by women.

The Delhi Congress said that it will hold a demonstration on March 24 outside the residence of the Chief Minister to protest the new excise policy.

excise policy to lower the minimum drinking age from 25 to 21, knowing that at this age, most youngsters would be pursuing their education and are dependent on their families.

Ms. Lamba asked the eight women AAP MLAs whether they support the policy as the ill-effects would be felt by women.

Addressing a protest against the new excise policy proposed by the Delhi government here near Shahdara bus terminal, Delhi BJP president Adesh Gupta said that on one hand the BJP is organising programmes on martyrdom day to inculcate patriotism in the youth while the Delhi government is "making them move towards liquor consumption."

Angry party workers also burnt an effigy of Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal where party vice president Virender Sachdeva, Leader of Opposition Ramvir Singh Bidhuri, Mla Shri Jitender Mahajan, district president Master Vinod were present.

"The new policy will not only lead to spurious liquor and promote crime but will also spoil youngsters as the legal age for drinking has been lowered from 25 to 21 years," Mr. Gupta alleged.

"It is rather unfortunate that the Kejriwal government is giving more weightage to extra revenue at the cost of ruining youngsters' lives. The policy is arbitrary and unjust as no government has the right to play with future of the young stars," Mr. Bidhuri alleged.

BKU leader Rakesh Tikait says farmers to observe bandh on March 26 across India to protest new laws

MOHAMMED IQBAL
JAIPUR

Bharatiya Kisan Union (BKU) leader Rakesh Tikait on Tuesday said the farmers afflicted by the new laws would march to Delhi once again and sell their crops outside the Parliament.

"On Republic Day, 3.5 lakh tractors had entered Delhi and we will do this again," he said.

'Laying siege'

Addressing a Kisan Mahapanchayat at Vidyadhar Nagar Stadium here, Mr. Tikait said since the government had told the farmers that they could sell their crops anywhere under the new farm laws, "we will prove it to them by selling our produce outside the State Assemblies, Collectors' offices and the Parliament."

"No mandi can be better than the Parliament," Mr. Tikait said in the presence of Swaraj Abhiyan's Yogendra Yadav and Bhim Army's Chandrashekhar Azad, while calling upon the farm-

He said the farmers would observe a day's bandh on March 26 all over the country to protest against the new laws.

The BKU leader said while the government was trying to divide the country on the lines of caste, creed and religion, the farmers would defeat its designs and show unity to get their rights. The cultivators were faced with a situation where big companies had already built their warehouses and the laws were subsequently being enacted to protect their interests, he added.

'Work progress under Bihar CM's scheme unsatisfactory'

Comptroller and Auditor General report states only 9% to 41% work completed at State level

AMARNATH TEWARY
PATNA

The Comptroller and Auditor General (CAG) of India report tabled in the Bihar Assembly on Tuesday underlined that the work done under Mukhyamantri Nishchaya Yojna has not been "satisfactory".

The CAG report for the year that ended on March 31, 2018-19, tabled on the State Assembly floor stated that the "progress of works under Mukhyamantri Nishchaya Yojna was not satisfactory as only 15% and 24% was completed in test checked in Gram Panchayats and Municipalities, respectively".

The report also stated "at State-level only 9% to 41% work completed".

The Mukhyamantri Nishchaya Yojna is considered as CM Nitish Kumar's ambitious programme.

Medical sectors

The report also highlighted shortfalls and deficiencies in medical sector in Bihar.

"Against construction of 12 medical colleges, including a dental college, taken during 2006-07 to 2016-17, only two colleges became functional till 2018. Construction of only two nursing institutes could be completed till 2018 against 61 planned. The Bihar government did not take effective efforts to increase seats of existing medical colleges," said the report.

It has also underlined shortage of teaching and non-teaching staffs, significant deficiencies in infrastructure and shortage of medical equipment" in medical colleges in the State.

"Only 75% amount was spent under the plan head during 2013-18, which is attributable to poor progress of construction works taken up under different schemes of State government," it added.

The CAG report also said: "Works valued at ₹424.67 crore were started without obtaining Technical Sanction in 13 packages and an excess payment of ₹3.57 crore was made on road marking work under three packages in the Road division. Also, an excess payment of ₹99.05 lakh was made on PM work under Road Division, Molinara and Sitamarhi."

Excess payment

"Irregular sanction of lead by road in place of rail, led to excess payment of ₹12.04 crore," it added.

The report further highlighted "additional burden on State Exchequer by action of Bihar Renewable Energy Development Agency to execute agreement with the agency without taking Performance Guarantee and not taking any legal action to recover PG led to additional financial burden of ₹5.93 crore on State Exchequer due to re-tendering".

It also underlined "misappropriation of municipal revenue and fraudulent payment" in the department.

While making reference of "incomplete projects", the CAG report said: "A total 68 projects were due for completion during the period 2011-12 to 2018-19. Since the details of all 68 projects with an estimated cost of ₹790.99 crore were not furnished by the departments, their revised cost was not exhibited in the Finance Accounts and was thus not ascertainable".

Odisha to regularise land occupied by slum dwellers

Move by Naveen govt. comes ahead of civic body polls

STAFF CORRESPONDENT
BHUBANESWAR

With an eye on civic body polls, the Naveen Patnaik government has decided to regularise the occupation of slum dwellers if they are in possession of land less than 30 square metres.

The Odisha Land Rights to Slum Dwellers Act, 2017, has been enacted with a view to assign land rights to identified slum dwellers for council area, not exceeding 45 sq.m. and where the slum is situated within the Notified Area

Council area, not exceeding 60 sq.m. shall be settled in favour of the slum dwellers.

"If a slum dweller is in possession of land less than 30 sq.m., land shall be settled as the extent of occupation," the Cabinet decided.

As per the norms of housing for all policy, 21 sq.m. of carpet area is required to construct an affordable housing unit.

Considering the provisions of Housing Policy, it would be essential that where a slum dweller is in occupation of land which is less than 30 sq.m., such slum dweller shall be settled with up to 30 sq.m. of land, subject to availability of land," according to the Cabinet.

The civic body polls in Odisha are long overdue as tenure of 65 local bodies ended almost two years ago. The notification for preparation of the electoral rolls will be done by the SEC only after the State government completes the delimitation process and determines reservation of seats.

The Naveen Patnaik Government on Tuesday moved to reserve 15% of seats in medical and technical education courses for students passing out from government high schools.

A resolution in this regard was tabled in the Assembly for acceptance of the House. The State government said the reservation was aimed at addressing inequity prevailing in students groups.

"After introduction of common entrance exam like the National cum Eligibility Entrance Test and Joint Entrance Examination, the number of students from government schools and colleges of our State in these courses is getting reduced considerably. This is not due to lack of merit, rather the students are unable to fare better in these tests due to lack proper coaching facilities," the resolution says.

It says such common entrance tests require specialised training which is available only in coaching centres which are mostly urban-based and require considerable finances.

Holding that students studying in government schools and engineering colleges of the State.

Subsequently, a high powered committee headed by Justice Dr. A.K. Mishra, retired judge of the Orissa High Court along with other members, was constituted for making necessary recommendation in this regard.

As per the observation of the committee, about 86% of students of Odisha are in government schools and they get 23% seats in the State medical colleges and 21% seats in engineering colleges. However, 12% of students studying in private schools get almost 60% seats in both medical and engineering colleges.

This clearly shows that there is inequity arising from physical and economic access to coaching institutions which play a major role in the national entrance examinations. This inequity affects a majority of students," the resolution says.

The State government will issue necessary notification by exercising power under Section 9 of the Odisha Professional Educational Institute (Regulation and Admission and Fixation of Fees) Act, 2007, to implement the reservation.

12 women killed as bus, autorickshaw collide in M.P.

Bus driver was reportedly trying to avoid hitting a milkman

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
GWALIOR

Twelve women and a man were killed after the autorickshaw in which they were travelling collided with a speeding bus in Old Chawni area of Gwalior in Madhya Pradesh on Tuesday morning.

The accident took place at 5 a.m. on the Gwalior-Morena road when the bus driver apparently tried to avoid hitting a person on the road, said State Transport Minister Govind Singh Rajput while announcing an inquiry.

Bad weather

The sudden rain and strong winds in the city uprooted the tents at the rally and one person was injured.

The thin attendance at the rally, attributed to bad weather conditions, left the organisers disappointed.

The farmer leaders paid homage to freedom fighter Bhagat Singh on his death anniversary at the stage in the rally.

An announcement was made on the occasion for appointment of Jat Mahasabha president Raja Ram Meel as BKU's State unit president and K.C. Ghumaria as general secretary.

Passengers in the bus escaped unhurt, a senior official said, adding that the driver fled the spot leaving behind the vehicle.

The Prime Minister approved an ex gratia of ₹2 lakh each for the kin of the deceased and ₹50,000 for those injured seriously from the Prime Minister's National Relief Fund, the PMO said.

Expressing grief, Chief Minister Shivraj Singh Chouhan also announced an ex gratia of ₹4 lakh for the kin of the deceased.

"It appears that the accident took place as the bus driver, while trying to save a milkman, hit the autorickshaw," Mr. Rajput said. He added that the bus had a valid fitness certificate, insurance certificate and its permit was valid till 2026.

Transport Commissioner Mukesh Jain, who reached the spot to conduct an inquiry, clarified that the Gwalior RTO had not been suspended as the probe was going on. "Till we get the inquiry report, no action will be taken against any official," he said.

Rajya Sabha member and BJP leader Jyotiraditya Scindia and State Congress president Kamal Nath also condoled the deaths.

Several policemen, RJD workers and media personnel were injured when the police resorted to baton charge on the protesting Rashtriya Janata Dal leaders and supporters in Patna in the course of their proposed Vidhan Sabha march.

The RJD leaders and workers were protesting against the deteriorating law and order situation in the State, corruption, unemployment and price hike of essential commodities.

'Where are jobs?'

"The NDA in its manifesto had promised to provide 19 lakh jobs in Bihar. What happened to that promise? Corruption is at an all-time high in the State these days, and law and order has nosedived at an alarming level," alleged RJD leader Tejashwi Yadav.

march on March 23 to protest against these issues.

The Assembly was adjourned till 2 p.m. when the Opposition members created pandemonium inside the House.

The RJD leaders, workers and supporters, led by Leader of the Opposition Tejashwi Yadav, his elder brother Tej Pratap Yadav and others senior party leaders, began their protest march from Gandhi Maidan in Patna.

Heavy police deployment was done at the Dak Bungalow intersection of the city with barricades in place to stop the RJD workers from moving towards the Assembly.

However, as the RJD leaders and workers kept moving towards the Vidhan Sabha to gheroa it, the police stopped them at the Dak Bungalow thoroughfare.

A few media persons too got injuries in the scuffle.

"This is the real character of the RJD. They believe in violence and they use it to remind people about what the RJD stands for," alleged JD(U) leader Ajay Alokkumar.

Later, the RJD leaders and workers were taken in buses by the policemen to other places to restore traffic movement at the city's main thoroughfare.

Mumbai muckraking

Impartial probe of allegations of extortion against Maharashtra Minister is a must

Former Mumbai Police Commissioner Param Bir Singh's allegations against Maharashtra Home Minister Anil Deshmukh are sensational, and threatening for the State government. The nexus between crime, politics, policing and business is an old story. In that sense, Mr. Singh's charge that the Minister was forcing police officers to extort money from businesses is not surprising; it is nevertheless an extremely serious one that needs serious investigation. However, Mr. Singh's credibility is hardly inspiring, and he raised the allegation only after he was removed as Commissioner. The circumstances leading to his removal were inglorious. Sachin Vaze, an officer arrested by the National Investigation Agency (NIA) in connection with the discovery of explosives near industrialist Mukesh Ambani's house, was perceived to be close to Mr. Singh. The Minister sought to put Mr. Singh on the mat over the case, who made a retaliatory move by accusing the former of trying to use Mr. Vaze as a henchman. Mr. Singh approaching the Supreme Court for a CBI inquiry against Mr. Deshmukh is intriguing and self-implicating. As Commissioner he could have – and should have – acted upon the allegations that he is now raising.

The muckraking by Mr. Singh cannot be seen disconnected from the ceaseless political manoeuvring in the State. The formation of the unlikely coalition of the Shiv Sena, Congress and the Nationalist Congress Party (NCP) in 2019 was a setback to the storied managerial skills of the BJP. Speculation of an impending collapse have loomed over the Maha Vikas Aghadi government since its formation. The BJP, with the active help of Central agencies, has been trying to unsettle the State government. In the tug of war, Mr. Singh has been an active instrument of the MVA, and the Shiv Sena sprung up to his defence immediately after he was removed. Now the leaders of all three parties have termed his allegations as a conspiracy to topple the State government. After the initial panic, the parties have closed ranks behind the embattled Minister. The lure of power is universal, but in Maharashtra, which is home to India's economic capital Mumbai, it is even more intense. The ideological mismatch of the alliance partners is evident, but the State government has matched up to the BJP's challenge several times in political combat. All three parties are united by a strong survival instinct in the face of the BJP onslaught. The BJP's impatience to reclaim power in Maharashtra is more than usual considering the bruised egos involved. The chances of a politically motivated investigation are high, given the context. Only an independent, transparent investigation can separate the wheat from the chaff in this sordid tale. Unfortunately, a probe by either the State police or a central agency is not a reassuring option.

Corrective voice

The SC did well to lay down guidelines for the judiciary in dealing with cases of sexual crime

While recognising society's deep-rooted patriarchy and initiating a course correction in the way the judiciary itself views gender rights, the Supreme Court went back to Henrik Ibsen, a playwright known for his feisty women characters who break free of traditions of familial confines and notions of social propriety. Setting aside an absurd rakhi-for-bail order of the Madhya Pradesh High Court to a sexual offender, the Court issued a set of guidelines on March 18 to be followed by the judiciary while dealing with sexual crimes against women. The two-member Bench of Justices A.M. Khanwilkar and S. Ravindra Bhat used a quote from Ibsen to say that a woman 'cannot be herself' in an 'exclusively masculine society, with laws framed by men', and laid it down as a guiding force for all future judicial proclamations. The judiciary's corrective voice is a welcome step in the aftermath of CJI S.A. Bobde's reported remarks during a virtual hearing, when he asked an alleged rapist's lawyer to find out whether his client would marry the victim. He later said he had been misquoted. The Khanwilkar-Bhat Bench asked all courts to refrain from imposing marriage or mandate any compromise between a sex offender and his victim. Powerful men seem to be reiterating misogyny besides carelessly linking sexual crimes to women being alone at night or wearing clothes of their choice.

Leaning on the 'Bangkok General Guidance for Judges on Applying a Gender Perspective in Southeast Asia', the Bench listed a host of avoidable stereotypes: women are physically weak; men are the head of the household and must make all the decisions related to family; women should be submissive and obedient. Women are battling society's ingrained prejudices, and the judgment acknowledges this bitter reality, saying gender violence is most often shrouded in a culture of silence. Pointing to the entrenched unequal power equations between men and women, including cultural and social norms, financial dependence, and poverty, it said data may not reflect the actual incidence of violence against women. It is not the first time the Supreme Court is clamping down against gender stereotyping. Justice D.Y. Chandrachud (Secr. Ministry of Defence vs. Babita Puniya) had argued against treating women in the Army any differently from their men counterparts for they worked as "equal citizens" in a common mission, and in Anuj Garg, the Court had called out the "notion of romantic paternalism" as an attempt to put women "in a cage". To break the silence on bias against women, everyone must take responsibility, especially institutions and those in important positions. The Court's reiteration on where it needs to stand on women's rights is a move in the right direction because the fight for gender equality is far from over.

The absent programme at the Kerala hustings

In the rain of promises in the political manifestos there is no evidence of the wherewithal

PULAPRE BALAKRISHNAN

The two political fronts of Kerala, the Left Democratic Front (LDF) and the United Democratic Front (UDF), have now presented their manifestos to the electorate. They are joined by distributivism, competing with one another in offering welfare payments. Almost no section has been left out – the old, the youth, the housewife.

First off the mark with its manifesto was the ruling LDF. Among its 900 promises reported in the Malayalam language press was the gradual enhancement of the current monthly pension of ₹1,500 to ₹2,500 by the time its term ends. Not to be outdone, the UDF has in its manifesto promised a pension of ₹3,000 and a monthly payout of ₹6,000 per household to Below Poverty Line families. These are only a part of the rain of promises.

Kerala Model is unsustainable
The manifestos have been received with scepticism by the public, for they could not but have wondered how the fresh expenditures will be funded. Kerala today has one of the highest levels of public debt per capita among India's States. Without fresh resource mobilisation – of which intent there is no indication in either party's manifesto – enhanced public expenditure assures higher levels of public debt in the future. The economics profession globally agreed that during the novel coronavirus pandemic the level of public debt ought not to hold back necessary public expenditure to aid relief and recovery. However, in the case of Kerala, we are talking of the structural feature of expenditures being elevated in relation to revenue.

It is in this sense that the so-called 'Kerala Model', in which the State focuses on welfare, has been identified as unsustainable by economist K.K. George several decades ago. The State's political parties have not addressed this issue and conduct themselves as if this is not important. Inter-generational debt shifting, i.e., leaving debt incurred by us to be paid by future generations, is not a trivial issue. It is justified when the borrowing creates capital assets that generate revenues into the future, but when the borrowing is undertaken to finance our own consumption, leaving behind nothing but the debt for them is unconscionable. Actually, even if physical assets are created, they should generate adequate revenue. A blanket refusal to turn in a surplus by charging for public services is, therefore, problematic.

It is this consideration that leaves the public particularly sceptical of the Kerala Infrastructure Investment Fund Board (KIIFB) initiative. Perhaps the Kerala government has done due diligence that demonstrates its financial viability but it has an obligation to lay the facts of the business model, in particular the forecast stream of revenues, on the table.

A different welfarism here
Individual well-being enabled by public action is a perfectly legitimate aspiration in a democracy. However, what distinguishes the decades' long practice in Kerala is that it is a form of welfarism far from what is generally understood when we speak of a welfare state. Though originally imagined by the U.S. President Franklin D. Roosevelt velt during the Great Depression, it was in western Europe that the welfare state achieved fruition. Its distinguishing feature is the provision of health and education by the state. There are pensions too. So, it is not as if the provisions in Kerala are improper in any way.

What distinguishes a genuine welfare state from the Kerala Model is that in a genuine welfare state, benefits are financed by taxes. There were two considerations underlying this design in the original. The first was the crucial issue of financial viability. The second was to give citizens a sense of ownership of the programmes, signifying that the welfare state is not some sort of munificence extended to them by the political class but something they had contributed to themselves. Thus, the British institution of the National Health Service, the envy of richer countries which not even Margaret Thatcher dared dismantle, has eventually been paid for by that country's workers. The tax to national income ratio in the United Kingdom is among the highest in the world, and has remained consistently over 40%. Kerala's is not just much lower but has often been lower than in the other southern States.

Point of coverage

Before moving on, it is worth noting that in Kerala, there is also the question of coverage. The State has one of the highest percentages of children in private schools and out-of-pocket expenditure on health in India. Whether this is due to inadequate provision or the poor quality of service in the public sector is to be ascertained, but at least as far as schooling is concerned, it is difficult to believe that the government cannot provide schooling of the highest quality. The feature is more likely related to inflexible and shoddy governance.

The issue of funding is not irrelevant either. For political parties, the temptation to be seen to be handing out welfare payments is too great to resist, which, in the absence of a will to mobilise resources, can only mean that there will be less for health and education. The meagre resources mobilised end up being spread thin, across innumerable government schemes.

On employment generation

It is difficult to imagine that Kerala will be able to permanently fund its welfare schemes through borrowing. At least, that would only be possible at ever rising interest rates, leading to a higher fiscal burden, if not actually a debt trap. At that stage, the welfare schemes would have to end, or a Herculean effort to raise revenues would have to be initiated. In other words, there is no alternative to funding welfare schemes via higher taxation or some other source of public funding (such as oil revenues in Saudi Arabia). Funding can also be through contributions made by workers, as in the case of Europe's welfare states. However, this will be possible only if everyone is employed for at least some stage of their lives.

For this, economic policy must ensure that levels of employment remain high. There is little awareness of this in Kerala at the level of either state or civil society. Seen from the manifestos in this forthcoming Assembly election, the political parties have no programme for employment generation.

To place the enormity of the challenge in perspective, on the occasion of the presentation of the last Budget, the government stated in the Legislative Assembly that the unemployment rate for youth in Kerala is 36%. This is much higher than the national average.

Broaden the tax net

While it is clear that public resource mobilisation in Kerala falls short of its welfarist ambition, it is not widely known that even this reluctant mobilisation is skewed in its impact. Jose Sebastian, an independent observer of the State's public finances, has pointed out that the State's taxes largely derive from four sources: levies on liquor, lotteries, petrol and motor vehicles, respectively. These are items of mass consumption, implying that it is the working class that contributes most to resource mobilisation.

This implies, that as the revenue goes to the provision of public services, it is the working class that financially supports the welfarist economic policy stance of the political class, with the middle class benefiting disproportionately. In Kerala, the tax net needs to be broadened from the point of view of both equity and buoyancy. This could start with a focus on the conspicuous consumption underlying the rampant construction of often unused luxury houses in the State. Steeply progressive taxation of property stands out by its absence. It was once understood to be the hallmark of socialism.

The surge of geopolitics in South Asia's power trade

India's new trade rules are political and an irritant; instead, New Delhi should be planning a stable institutional model

ADITYA VALIATHAN PILLAI

India has released new rules governing the trade of electricity across its borders (<https://bit.ly/3IG5oIb>). They define the contours of the South Asian electricity market, placing clear limits on who can buy from and sell into India. This has ramifications for the electricity markets of Bangladesh, Bhutan, and Nepal, which, to varying degrees, have aligned their energy futures with the Indian market. The new rules show that India's approach is unmissable political. It attempts to balance China's growing influence in the region with developmental aims, both its own and the region's.

Rules on ownership

Of central importance is the ownership of power plants wishing to sell to India. In masterful legalise, the rules strongly discourage the participation of plants owned by a company situated in a third country with whom India shares a land border" and "does not have a bilateral agreement on power sector cooperation with India". Chinese companies hoping to establish plants in Nepal, Bhutan, or Bangladesh will presumably have a hard time making good on their investments with the Indian market cut off. The rules place the same security restrictions on tripartite trade, say from Bhutan to Bangladesh through Indian territory. To make things even more airtight, the rules establish elaborate surveillance procedures to detect changes in the ownership patterns of entities trading with India.

With this, it seems South Asia's electricity politics has hit a holding pattern after several years of unpredictability. In the months after the Narendra Modi government came to power in 2014, India used the framework of the South Asian Association for Regional Cooperation (SAARC) to make historical moves towards liberalising electricity trade. China soon began to make its presence felt in the region, and India responded by walking back its free-market impulses.

It imposed stringent restrictions that dissuaded everyone other than Indian and government entities from participating. That threatened to undermine private sector participation and promising joint ventures across the region. Nepal and Bhutan protested for years, leading to new guidelines in 2018 that tried to find a middle ground; these rules formalise that balancing act. They allow private sector participation but exclude Chinese investments.

India-centricity no advantage

The institutional structure that has emerged through this churn over the last decade is India-centric. The Government of India, through ministries, regulators, planning bodies and utilities, determines the rules of the road. India's geographic centrality combines with its economic heft to give it a natural advantage in determining the shape of the market; all electrons must pass through it and most electrons will be bought by it. The prospect of an independent regional body governing trade, championed by theorists, is thus unlikely to begin with. It is nearly impossible to fathom in the context of an ailing South Asian project characterised by low levels of trust. India will thus enjoy pre-eminent rule-setting powers, but continually attract the ire of its smaller neighbours who feel their economic growth is being stunted by decisions in Delhi.

Mega solar project

These rules provoke some larger questions that must be tackled soon. India's ambition of anchoring a global super-grid called One Sun One World One Grid, or OSOWOG (<https://bit.ly/3f4lCDj>) needs an institutional vision. It aims to begin with connections to West Asia and Southeast Asia and then spread to Africa and beyond. The South Asian lesson, contained in these latest rules, is that political realities will constantly collide with, and damage, expansive visions of borderless trade. Impartial institutions for planning, investments and conflict resolution are crucial to multi-country power pools.

Managing the needs of three relatively small neighbouring economies in South Asia has consumed large amounts of time and political capital for the better part of a decade. Papering over the cracks of a power pool of a dozen countries or more will be much harder. An ad hoc design also makes the Indian project less attractive to countries looking to sign up to a power trading project.

The logic underpinning OSOWOG is sound. Renewable energy transitions benefit from grids that cover vast areas and diverse geographic conditions. Multi-country grids allow for the unpredictable outputs from renewable energy plants to be balanced across countries, thus avoiding expensive country-specific balancing technologies such as hydropower and gas plants.

Countering China

It is quite likely, though, that India's plans will be one among many in a soon-to-be competitive space. China, for example, has its own power pool ambitions. An attractive institutional model can lock countries into the pool by setting standards that investors and utilities plan towards and profit by. Once locked in, countries are thus unlikely to defect to other pools. The likely first battle will be in Southeast Asia, where China presently holds sway. A considered, stable institutional model will likely surpass anything China has to offer. It is worth considering releasing the vice-like grip on South Asia, aimed at countering China, by creating a rule-based regional institution that can counter Chinese offerings in other theatres.

Vaccine schedule

The Centre's decision to delay the time period between two doses of the COVID-19 vaccine, Covishield, based on scientific evidence (Page 1, "Increase interval between two doses of Covishield, says Centre", March 23) would make it the frontrunner in India's vaccination programme. The increased time gap between the two jabs also would be useful to increase the number of people getting vaccinated. The agreement to produce the Russian origin Sputnik V vaccine would add to the vaccine arsenal. Indigenous studies on how long protection lasts and the finer details of how the arms of the immune system respond to these vaccines would help us sharpen the attack and modulate the vaccine structure.

Dr. BIJU C. MATHEW,

Initially, when the vaccines were introduced in India, the notification was that two doses were mandatory with a time lag of a little short of a month between the doses. But with the new guidelines, where does this leave those who have had both doses by following the first schedule? There are media reports of some doctors having tested positive even after having been administered the mandatory two doses. Are these a stray occurrence or is there more to this? There are so many ambiguities regarding the vaccine and the Health Ministry must clear the air with a comprehensive and updated set of guidelines that could enable the layman to take an informed decision.

C.V. ARAVIND,

■ There is no unanimity about the efficacy and the duration of immunity post vaccination of the two available vaccines as well as the other vaccines to be certified for future use. Is there a guarantee that the immunity attained after being inoculated with either Covishield or Covaxin will extend over one's life? Or is it necessary to get another dose after a year or two? While the immunity based on use is under evaluation, it is necessary to give the figures based on theoretical valuation and three phase experiments, for each of the vaccines in use and those to be used in future, for the public to have a fair idea about the immunity and the possible precautions they should observe post vaccination.

An extraordinary legislative misadventure

Parliament has sidestepped the law laid down by bringing in thoughtless amendments to the NCT Bill

K.V. VISWANATHAN

"At the bottom of all tributes paid to democracy is the little man [and woman], walking into a little booth, with a little pencil, making a little cross on a little bit of paper [now EVMs] – no amount of rhetoric or voluminous discussion can possibly diminish the overwhelming importance of the point." These were the memorable words of British Prime Minister Winston Churchill, which the Indian Supreme Court endorsed. The court added that "the little large Indian shall not be hijacked from the course of free and fair elections by mob muscle methods, or subtle perversion of discretion by men dressed in little brief authority".

Contents of the Bill

If the Government of National Capital Territory of Delhi (Amendment) Bill, 2021, which has been passed by the Lok Sabha, is enacted, the little large Indians of the national capital may as well keep off the polling booths, for their vote will be rendered meaningless. The popular government they have elected will not be able to act on matters which the Constitution vests in it the competence to do. This Bill is an extraordinary legislative misadventure. It states the opposite of what the apex court said when it interpreted Article 239AA of the Constitution. Strangely, however, the Bill proclaims that it seeks to give effect to the interpretation.

First, the Bill says the expression "Government" referred to in any law to be made by the Legislative Assembly in Delhi shall mean the "Lieutenant Governor". Second, it vests in the Lieutenant Governor the power to refuse assent and reserve a Bill passed by the Legislative Assembly for the consideration of the President, if, in his opinion, the Bill incidentally covers any of the matters which fall outside the purview of the Assembly's powers. Third, and most drastically, the Bill says before taking any executive action, the opinion of the Lieutenant Governor shall be obtained on such matters as may be specified.

The Supreme Court has the last word on the interpretation of the Constitution. That constitutional provision (Article 239AA) remains unamended. Any legislation which speaks to the contrary would be plainly illegal. The basis of the judgment remaining the same, the attempt in the Bill is to legislatively overrule a judgment. That would be an exercise of judicial power, which Parliament does not possess. All that the Bill does is to regurgitate the rebuffed arguments of the Central government by the court. The court stated in Govt. of NCT of Delhi v. Union of India (2018): "The respondents... highlight that by the constitutional amendment, introduction of the 1991 Act and the Rules of Business, the Lieutenant Governor functions as the administrator in the truest sense... They would submit that though Delhi has been conferred a special status, yet that does not bring any new incarnation. The submission, as we perceive, destroys the fundamental marrows of the conception, namely special status. It, in fact, adorns the Lieutenant Governor with certain attributes and seeks to convey that NCT of Delhi remains where it was."

The court was loath to centralise the power in the Lieutenant Governor and went only thus far to say that the Council of Ministers should keep the Lieutenant Governor informed of its decisions. This would enable any decision on which there was a difference of opinion between the Lieutenant Governor and the government to be referred to the President. It said the power to refer to the President was an exception; that the Lieutenant Governor need not in a mechanical manner refer every decision; and most important, he will be guided by the concept of constitutional morality and the question of prior concurrence was out of question, since that would set at nought the ideals of representative governance and democracy.

The idea was twofold. The earlier judgment in Samsheer Singh v. State of Punjab (1974) had ruled against the deification of any individual like the Lieutenant Governor, for it had warned that elections would then become but "Dead Sea fruits". Second, the voice of the citizen could not go unrecognised. "This is only possible if the agency enacting and enforcing the law comprises of the elected representatives chosen by the free will of the citizens," thundered the court in Govt. of NCT of Delhi v. Union of India.

India. The elected representatives and the Council of Ministers, being accountable to the voters of Delhi, must have the appropriate powers so that they can perform their functions effectively and efficiently, the court emphasised. Any other interpretation, felt the court, would nullify the concepts of pragmatic federalism and collaborative federalism.

Administrative chaos

Sidestepping the law laid down, and in a manner as to herald administrative chaos, by these thoughtless amendments, the Lieutenant Governor has been made synonymous with the Government. The government, product of the beautiful democratic process, is replaced by one individual, a nominee of the Central government, who will occupy office at its pleasure. Not stopping there, the Bill vests in that individual enormous powers to refer all and sundry matters to the President. Now it is so well settled in constitutional law that what is to be seen is the pith and substance and not incidental aspects, while testing the competence of a legislature. That is why the referral power was to be an exceptional power and a confrontational attitude was to be abhorred. The further mandate in the Bill that before taking any executive action, the opinion of the Lieutenant Governor needs to be taken is in the teeth of the court's interpretation, which only wanted the Lieutenant Governor to be kept informed.

The majestic institutions that adorn Lutyens' Delhi and the embassies of foreign nations that punctuate it symbolically convey a lot. Delhi cannot afford administrative breakdowns. To the outside world, Delhi is India's face. It will reflect very poorly on the Central government if administration comes to a standstill in the capital. In any case, the little large Indian voter in Delhi cannot be hoodwinked. The Prime Minister should step in and immediately abort the Bill in order to uphold the principles of participative democracy, cooperative federalism, collective responsibility to the House and, above all, constitutional morality, which we deeply cherish.

The case that time forgot

The implementation of an integrated digital platform for the criminal justice system would ensure speedy justice

LEAH VERGHESE

Vishnu Tiwari, 43, was recently acquitted by the Allahabad High Court in a rape case after spending 20 years in prison. His story is illustrative of the tragic consequences that can follow from cases falling through the cracks of a bloated legal system.

In 2003, Mr. Tiwari was sentenced to life imprisonment for rape under the Indian Penal Code and the Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989. His appeal before the Allahabad High Court was pending for 16 years as a defective matter. These defects are usually in the nature of missing documents or documents in the wrong format and are remedied by the lawyer, and the case gets listed. Mr. Tiwari's lawyer had no interest in pursuing the case, and the appeal stayed defective. During his incarceration, his parents and two brothers died. The High Court pointed out in its judgment that the State government did not consider commuting his life sentence after 14 years. Shweta Singh Rana, a legal aid lawyer, was handed the case in 2019 when the jail authorities requested the High Court to provide a lawyer to Mr. Tiwari. The process of getting the 'paperbook', a compilation of the lower court's records, took nearly two years. The fact that Mr. Tiwari is now a free man and his case was heard by the High Court is a consequence of fortuitous circumstances and the presence of a few good individuals in the system. A sincere lawyer and vigilant family members, luxuries that only prisoners with economic means have access to, have become essential to secure justice.

A poorly designed system

An effective justice system should not depend on a few individuals' goodness and should be robust enough to ensure justice for everyone, irrespective of the individual in charge. Many of the hiccups in Mr. Tiwari's case do not reflect deliberate malice but result from poor design and the absence of an integrated digital platform for the criminal justice system. This poor design can have energizing effects on individual freedom. While digitisation has transformed the delivery of certain public services like passports, the criminal justice system is still beset with archaic procedures and paper-based processes. Although the eCourts project has made significant progress in digitising the works of courts, there remain substantial lacunae. These are especially glaring in the criminal justice system.

Sharing information seamlessly

Criminal cases involve various institutions such as the police, prosecutors, legal services authorities and forensic labs. Coordination and communication between these institutions are far from seamless. A criminal case's smooth movement involves several 'rubbing points' where progress depends on one institution securing information from another. For example, the prosecutor needs to get the FIR from the police; the police have to submit the FIR and chargesheet to the court; the forensic labs need to submit reports to the prosecutors and the courts; etc. Allowing these various elements of the system to 'talk' to each other through a digital platform that standardises the format and content of data across all the systems will allow for seamless communication and will help avoid duplication of data entry and analyses. If such a platform can track cases from when an FIR is filed till the stage of appeal, it is unlikely that a case would fall through the cracks as Mr. Tiwari's did.

Such a system would have alerted the registry that defects in a particular appeal had been left unrectified for an extended period and would have alerted the accused person in prison that his lawyer was not pursuing his case diligently. Simultaneously, the legal services authority would have been informed of the case so that the lawyer could have been replaced. The digital platform would have been able to monitor the quality of representation of the lawyer provided by the legal services authority. Once the prisoner had served 14 years of his sentence, the system would have alerted the State government that he was eligible for commutation of his sentence. The documents from the lower court would have been transmitted electronically to the accused person's lawyer and the High Court eliminating the endless wait for the 'paperbook'.

Although the Interoperable Criminal Justice System is on the anvil to integrate the information systems of the various institutions in the criminal justice system, it is far from being fully implemented. A critical factor holding back implementation is that these institutions have already created their own information systems that work in silos and are not interoperable. Priority must be given to speeding up the implementation of such a system that provides transparent, real-time access to criminal justice information to all stakeholders, including accused persons.

Recalibrating India-Taiwan ties

Helping Taiwan navigate the regulatory and cultural landscape in India will strengthen relations

RAJEEV RANJAN CHATURVEDY & KINGSHUK SAHA

India and Taiwan are celebrating 25 years of their partnership. However, the growing relationship has been a low-key affair as India has been hesitant to acknowledge the improving ties in public. Though mutual efforts between Delhi and Taipei have enabled a range of bilateral agreements covering agriculture, investment, customs cooperation, civil aviation, industrial cooperation and other areas, the time has come to recalibrate India-Taiwan relations.

Cultivating political framework

Creating a political framework is a prerequisite to doing this. Both partners have increasingly deepened mutual respect underpinned by openness, with democracy and diversity as the key principles for collective growth. The shared faith in freedom, human rights, justice, and rule of law continues to embolden their partnership. To make this relationship more meaningful, both sides can create a group of empowered persons or a task force to chart out a road map in a given time frame. Political will is the key.

India's been in the forefront of the fight against COVID-19. Likewise, Taiwan's handling of the pandemic and its support to many other countries underlines the need to deepen healthcare cooperation. India and Taiwan already collaborate in the area of traditional medicine. The time is ripe to expand cooperation in the field of healthcare.

Maintaining air quality has become a mammoth challenge for the Indian government and stubble burning is an important reason for severe air pollution. Taiwan could be a valuable partner in dealing with this challenge through its bio-friendly technologies. Such methods are applied to convert agricultural waste into value-added and environmentally beneficial renewable energy or biochemicals. This will be a win-win situation as it will help in dealing with air pollution and also enhance farmers' income. Further, New Delhi and Taipei can also undertake joint research and development initiatives in the field of organic farming.

India and Taiwan need to deepen people-to-people connect. Cultural exchange is the cornerstone of any civilisational exchange. It not only helps one appreciate another culture but also helps in overcoming prejudices and cultural misunderstandings. Tourism is the key tool in this exchange. However, Taiwanese tourists in India are a very small number. The Buddhist pilgrimage tour needs better connectivity and visibility, in addition to showcasing incredible India's diversity. This will accelerate the flow of Taiwanese tourists. With the Taiwan Tourism Bureau partnering with Mumbai Metro, Taiwan is trying to raise awareness about the country and increase the inflow of Indian tourists.

Deepening economic ties

Trade relations have grown. India's huge market provides Taiwan with investment opportunities. Taiwan's reputation as the world leader in semiconductor and electronics complements India's leadership in ITES (Information Technology-Enabled Services). This convergence of interests will help create new opportunities. India's recent strides in the ease of business ranking not only provide Taiwan with lucrative business opportunities but also help it mitigate its over-dependence on one country for investment opportunities.

The signing of a bilateral trade agreement in 2018 was an important milestone. There are around 200 Taiwanese companies in the field of electronics, construction, petrochemicals, machine, Information and Communications Technology and auto parts operating in India. Despite the huge potential, Taiwan investments have been paltry in India. Taiwanese firms find the regulatory and labour regime daunting with stray incidents such as the incident in the Wistron plant last year creating confusion and mistrust.

Policymakers need to coordinate better with the business community to help them navigate the regulatory and cultural landscape for better ties.

DATA POINT

How quick is the second wave?

The second wave of cases in India and especially Maharashtra appears to be quicker than the first wave. However, the sharper spike can be attributed to the higher testing levels in the second wave compared to the first. In the graphs, days taken for a select number of cases in the second wave are compared with the days taken for a similar number of cases in the first wave. The number of COVID-19 tests conducted during the two time periods was also analysed. By Vignesh Radhakrishnan, Suman Sen and Naresh Singaravelu

Promising steps to remove poverty

The President, Mr. V.V. Giri, stressed to-day [New Delhi, March 23] in his address to Parliament that the present Government had been returned to office on the clear pledge that the central objective of its policy must be the abolition of poverty. Mr. Giri said the people had asserted their sovereignty through the ballot box and given the Government a massive mandate for peaceful change which must swiftly and visibly alter the picture of poverty and alienation in our land. The President who was inaugurating a three-week interim budget session of Parliament gave the assurance that the Government will soon frame specific policies and programmes arising out of this mandate which will include a mid-term appraisal of the Fourth Plan. The President's annual address to Parliament which is in the nature of a policy statement by the Government, has come to acquire special significance this time in view of the high expectations aroused by the ruling party's election promises to usher in a more equitable social system.

Privilege.

We understand that Lord Willingdon has been assiduous in his attendance for sometime and in watching the way in which Mr. Kesava Pillai, the Deputy President, voted in the Council. Mr. Pillai, it would appear, voted sometimes against Government and sometimes remained neutral. The Governor seems to have noticed this and asked Mr. Pillai, whether he, as Deputy President, could vote against the Government. Mr. Pillai's reply was the only proper and commendable one. It is reported to have been that he, as a people's representative, must be left free to vote as he pleased and that, to retain his free vote, he was if necessary prepared to resign the post of Deputy President. There is a general rumour in the Council lobby that the situation has so developed that Mr. Pillai might be

All over 45 to get vaccines from April 1

Meanwhile, with India currently seeing a surge in COVID cases former national president of the Indian Medical Association Ravi Wankhedkar said there is an urgent need to rework the vaccination strategy and encourage "vaccination on demand" to eligible people, high risk people, frontline workers in all fields and those interacting with large numbers everyday and exposed to risk of infection.

Test, track and treat, MHA advises States

MHA said the proportion of RT-PCR tests among the total number of tests to detect COVID-19 should be up to 70%. It said the main focus of the guidelines is to consolidate the substantial gains achieved in containing the spread of COVID-19, which was visible in the sustained decline in the number of active cases, continuously for about five months.

"Keeping in view a fresh surge in COVID-19 cases, which is being witnessed in some parts of the country, the guidelines mandate the State/ UT governments to strictly enforce the test-track-treat protocol," it said.

The Ministry directed that the new positive cases detected due to intensive testing should be isolated

"Fortunately India is having more than adequate vaccine production capacity and we should involve the private health sector in a greater way to increase reach of vaccination and decrease vaccine hesitancy. Instead of generalised lockdowns, speedy massive vaccination along with effective disease surveillance should be urgently implemented," Mr. Wankhedkar said.

Karnataka to get 16.5 lakh vaccine doses soon

State would get four lakh doses from the Centre by a special flight on Wednesday, and 12.5 lakh by next week.

In a single cluster, 163 students of a private college hostel tested positive in Kateru, Rajamahendravaram Rural of Andhra Pradesh's East Godavari district. District Medical and Health Officer K.V.S. Gowreeswara Rao said about 800 boarders had been tested.

Andhra Pradesh reported two more virus deaths. The toll rose to 7,193 and the death rate was 0.80%. There were 2,616 active cases.

Kerala reported 1,985 new cases from 57,425 samples. The TPR, steady below 4% for the past few days, was 3.46% on Tuesday.

The addition of 10 new deaths on Tuesday took the overall toll to 4,517 deaths. Kozhikode reported three deaths, Thrissur, Malappuram and Kannur two each, and Kasaragod, one death.

Of the new cases on Tuesday, 1,763 were locally acquired infections.

Over 400 cases were recorded in Telangana, with 412 people testing positive on Monday. A total of 68,171 samples were tested and three more patients died.

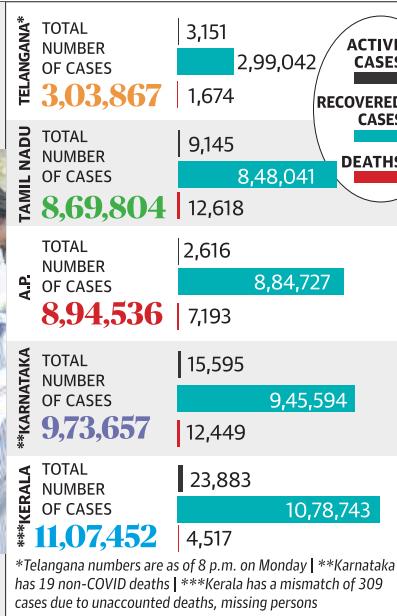

Meanwhile, Telangana Education Minister P. Sabita Indra Reddy announced in the Assembly on Tuesday

Speaker funded college in Sharjah: Swapna

ED makes public the deposition of prime accused in the gold smuggling case

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
KOCHI

The registration of a criminal case against unnamed officials of the Enforcement Directorate (ED) has further intensified its face-off with the Left Democratic Front government with the investigation agency now making public a deposition of Swapna Suresh, prime accused in the diplomatic channel gold smuggling case, regarding the investment of Speaker P. Sreeramakrishnan in a college in Sharjah.

The statement has been attached to a petition challenging the registration of a criminal case against unnamed ED officials in Kochi for forcing Swapna to make statements against Chief Minister Pinarayi Vijayan.

P. Sreeramakrishnan

The statement was given by Swapna before the Deputy Director of Enforcement at the women's prison at Attakulangara in Thiruvananthapuram on December 15.

Request to Sharjah ruler
Swapna had reportedly deposed that the Speaker wanted to start a branch of Middle East College in Sharjah and he had requested the ruler of Sharjah to provide land. He also told her that he had made an investment in the college.

Swapna had stated that Lafeer, a Non-Resident Indian from Ponnani district, was the owner of the college and that she was introduced to Mr. Lafeer and Kiran, a native of Thiruvananthapuram and Dean of the college, by the Speaker and M. Sivasankar, former Principal Secretary to the Chief Minister.

Mr. Sreeramakrishnan, Mr. Sivasankar, Mr. Kiran, and Mr. Lafeer wanted her to relocate to Sharjah and head their business development wing in West Asia.

The group was "dedicatedly working for the project," she reportedly told the ED.

"As instructed by Mr. Sivasankar, I visited Oman in April 2018 to the premises and to meet Khalid, an Omani national who was also one of the directors of the college in Oman, to discuss the way forward and how to take the process further," Swapna had stated.

When the ED asked her how did she know that the Speaker had requested the ruler of Sharjah to provide land for the college in Sharjah, Swapna replied that during the visit of the ruler to Thiruvananthapuram, the Speaker had "requested an opportunity to meet him."

Carnatic vocalist, teacher Lalitha passes away

She is one of the Hyderabad Sisters

HYDERABAD

Eminent Carnatic vocalist and guru Lalitha passed away on Tuesday due to cardiac arrest. She was 70.

Ms. Lalitha, along with her sister Haripriya, was an indomitable force on the classical music scene. The duo, known as Hyderabad Sisters, was known to draw houseful audiences to their concerts.

Born and brought up in Hyderabad, Ms. Lalitha, along with her sister Ms. Haripriya, trained under the late T.G. Padmanabhan of the Alathur bani, and was an A-grade artiste of the All India Radio. Both sisters have performed in all the leading sabhas of the country and abroad.

For years, Barkatpura, where Ms. Lalitha lived and trained many students, was a destination for aspiring classical musicians. She was a faculty member at the Government Music College in Hyderabad.

Known for their 'manodharma' – the extempore rendition of ragas and sticking to pure traditional style – the sisters often enlightened the audience by presenting rare ragas and kritis.

Quota percentage should be left to the States, T.N. tells SC

It says the Indira Sawhney judgment requires a relook

LEGAL CORRESPONDENT
NEW DELHI

Tamil Nadu told a Constitution Bench of the Supreme Court on Tuesday that the percentage of reservation should be left to the "subjective satisfaction" of individual States.

The State urged the five-judge Bench led by Justice Ashok Bhushan to recognise a State's complete discretion to identify its socially and educationally backward classes and fix the percentage of reservation for them in State government jobs and educational admissions.

Another southern State, Karnataka, also came in support of its right to specify a particular community as "socially and educationally backward" for inclusion in the State List for grant of reservation benefits.

The Bench, which is examining the Maratha quota law, is also looking into larger questions of law like whether the Constitution (One Hundred Second Amendment) Act of 2018, which introduces the National Commission for Backward Classes, interferes with the authority of State Legislatures to provide benefit to the social and educationally backward communities in their own jurisdiction.

The Maharashtra and Karnataka agreed with Maharashtra that the 50% ceiling limit on reservation introduced in the Indira Sawhney judgment required a relook. The ground situation had changed a lot since that judgment in 1992. Mr. Naphade and Mr. Kanna asked the five-judge Bench led by Justice Ashok Bhushan to refer to an 11-judge Bench.

The Maharastra State Reservation for Socially and Educationally Backward Classes Act of 2018, which provides 12% to 13% quota benefits for the Maratha community, takes the reservation percentage in the State across the 50% mark.

Leader of the Opposition Siddaramaiah, who spearheaded the protest, declared that they would not co-oper-

Speaker Vishweshwar Hegde Kageri adjourned the House for some time as the protesters did not listen to his repeated appeals to withdraw the stir. He held a meeting with members of both ruling and the Opposition parties at his chambers to broker peace.

Congress modifies stand
After the meeting, the Congress modified its stand slightly on the probe. When the House resumed, Mr. Siddaramaiah said: "We are not asking for a judicial probe. Let the Special Investigation Team (SIT) continue, but the probe should be supervised by a High Court Chief Justice."

The Speaker told the prot-

As there was no sign of the protesters withdrawing the dharna, the Speaker took up adoption of two Bills as well as a resolution, before adjourning the House for the day.

There are indications that the Congress will continue its protest on Wednesday, as Mr. Siddaramaiah has said the party wants to take the issue to its logical end.

BJP promises 'corrected' NRC in Assam

Party avoids Citizenship Act in manifesto, lists 10 'commitments'

GUWAHATI

The BJP has pledged to release a "corrected" version of the National Register of Citizens (NRC) but avoided any reference to the implementation of the contentious Citizenship (Amendment) Act (CAA) and Clause 6 of the Assam Accord.

Assam was the first State to oppose the CAA as protesters said it violated the spirit of the 1985 Assam Accord that prescribed the midnight of March 24, 1971 as the cut-off date for detecting and deporting illegal immigrants. The CAA seeks to fast-track the citizenship of non-Muslims who fled religious persecution in three neighbouring countries and took refuge before December 31, 2014.

Clause 6 of the Assam Accord guarantees Constitutional safeguards for the indigenous communities.

Releasing the BJP manifesto containing "10 commitments" in Guwahati on Tuesday, party president J.P. Nadda said the objective of publishing a "corrected" version was to enlist genuine Indian citizens while identifying illegal migrants and residents who could not substantiate citizenship claims.

"We will work towards protecting the rights of the Assamese people with a corrected NRC, which means taking into account the mandate given by the Supreme Court. We will protect the genuine Indian citizens and detect the infiltrators so that Assam can stay Assam," he said.

The final draft of the NRC was published on August 31, 2019. The document left out 19.06 lakh of 3.30 crore applicants.

Unhappy with the outcome, the BJP has been demanding a re-verification of the NRC. It has promised to get it done if its alliance government is voted back to power.

Flood-free Assam'

Among the other commitments are ensuring a flood-free Assam through dredging of rivers and building large reservoirs for excess rainwater, strengthening namghars (community prayer halls) and creating a taskforce to recover lands of satras (Vaishnav monasteries) and places of worship of tribal people from illegal encroachment. It also said it would bring in appropriate laws to tackle and end the menace of "land jihad" as well as "love jihad".

Though the manifesto did not mention the CAA, Mr. Nadda said the party's stand on it was unchanged.

"Parliament passed the CAA. It will be implemented when it needs to be," he said, insisting that implementation of Clause 6 of the Assam Accord was under process.

Foreigners can apply under CAA after rules are notified: Centre

House panels have granted time to frame rules, says Minister

VIJAYA SINGH
NEW DELHI

The Union Ministry of Home Affairs (MHA) on Tuesday told the Lok Sabha that "foreigners" covered under the Citizenship (Amendment) Act (CAA), 2019, "may submit applications for grant of Indian citizenship after appropriate rules are notified by the Central government".

Union Minister of State for Home Nitinand Rai said in a written reply in the Lower House that the CAA was notified on December 12, 2019, and came into force from January 10, 2020.

"The foreigners covered under this Amendment Act may submit applications for grant of Indian citizenship after appropriate rules are notified by the Central government. The Committees on Subordinate Legislation, Lok Sabha and Rajya Sabha have granted time up to April 9, 2021, and July 9, 2021, respectively to frame these rules," the reply said.

Without the rules being notified, the Act remains ineffective.

The CAA is one of the major issues in poll-bound West Bengal and Assam. Union Home Minister Amit Shah had earlier said the CAA rules would be framed after the COVID-19 vaccination drive was concluded.

The election manifesto of the BJP in West Bengal said it would be implemented in the first State Cabinet meeting if the party came to power.

The CAA provides citizenship on the basis of religion to six undocumented non-Muslim communities from Pakistan, Afghanistan and Bangladesh who entered India on or before December 31, 2014.

Foreigners Tribunal

In a separate reply, the Minister said the final National Register of Indian Citizens (NRC) in Assam had not been issued.

To a question by Congress member Abdul Khaileque in the Lok Sabha about the number of appeals made to the Foreigners Tribunal within the stipulated 120 days by those who were excluded from the final NRC list, the Minister said, "...the final National Register of Indian Citizens in Assam has not been issued. Consequently, a certified copy of the rejection order has not been issued to the persons excluded. Hence, the number of appeals made to the Foreigners Tribunal by those excluded from the final NRC list is 'Nil' as on date."

Over 1.4 lakh cases

In another reply, the Minister said Foreigners Tribunals were functioning only in Assam at present.

"As per the information made available by the State government, the number of cases pending in these tribunals as on 31.12.2020 are 1,40,050."

As of now, 10 autonomous councils exist in Assam, Meghalaya, Tripura and Mizoram.

Union Minister of State for Home G. Kishan Reddy said the specified tribal areas are the North Cachar Hills, Karbi Anglong and the Bodoland Territorial Area in Assam, Khasi Hills, Jaintiya Hills and Garo Hills in Meghalaya, Tribal Areas in Tripura, and Chakma, Mara and Lai districts in Mizoram.

The Indian Tea Association has enhanced the daily wage of tea plantation workers in Assam to ₹193 with effect from February 22.

The decision on an interim hike of ₹26 came a day after Finance Minister Himaanta Biswa Sarma warned the tea gardens to either add ₹50 to the existing ₹167 or be prepared to pay ₹350 per day. This has come as a relief to the BJP, which was perceived to be under pressure across the tea belt after the Gauhati High Court stayed the State government's order on February 23 to hike the daily wage by ₹50.

The ITA and 17 companies had challenged the government's order in court.

The BJP on Tuesday announced the names of 13 candidates, including economist Ashok Lahiri and Lt. Gen. Subrata Saha (retd.), for the West Bengal Assembly poll.

Mr. Lahiri's name was initially announced for the Alipurduar constituency, but the party later replaced him with Suman Kanjilal, a local leader, after protests erupted over his candidature. Mr. Lahiri, who is a member of the 15th Finance Commission and a former Chief Economic Adviser, will contest from Balurghat, a relatively safe seat. Lt. Gen. Saha (retd.) will contest from the Rashbehari seat in south Kolkata.

The party also replaced its candidates for the Chowringhee and Kashipur-Balurghat seats. The ones announced earlier refused to

India stronger despite pandemic: PM

Good show in panchayat polls reason for being firm on farm laws, he tells BJP MPs

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
NEW DELHI

Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Tuesday told BJP MPs that despite very challenging times, such as the COVID-19 pandemic, cyclones, earthquakes and tensions at the India-China border, the country had emerged stronger, with the world also acknowledging this fact. He was addressing a meeting of the BJP Parliamentary Party, where he also touched upon the controversial farm laws.

Mr. Modi cited the party's good performance in the panchayat elections, where the "good intentions" behind the farm laws were clearly communicated to the people, and said it was a reason for remaining firm on them. He made a specific reference to the panchayat election in Pali in Rajasthan,

Mr. Modi also said he has been holding public office – earlier as the Chief Minister of Gujarat and now Prime Minister – for more than two decades without taking an off day.

Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman and External Affairs Minister S. Jaishankar also addressed the meeting.

Mr. Jaishankar emphasised that India's stature rose in the world during the pandemic for its medical diplomacy – first in providing antibiotics and testing kits and later for its vaccine diplomacy, Mr. Meghwali said.

Ms. Sitharaman emphasised that despite the economic impact of the pandemic, the government did not impose any additional tax on the public and came up with a comprehensive budget for all.

BJP MPs raise Deshmukh issue again

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
NEW DELHI

The treasury benches in the Rajya Sabha on Tuesday again raked up the allegations made by former Mumbai Police Commissioner Param Bir Singh against Maharashtra Home Minister Anil Deshmukh of running an extortion racket. The ruckus started a little before noon when BJP MP Sushil Modi sought to speak towards the end of the Zero

Hour, demanding dismissal of Mr. Deshmukh. House Chairman M. Venkaiah Naidu immediately shot down the demand, leading to protests from the treasury benches. Many BJP MPs stood up and started shouting slogans.

Later, speaking outside the House, senior Congress leader Anand Sharma said, "It is the duty of the treasury benches to run the House. It is most unfortunate that the ministers themselves are leading the charge to disrupt the House. The Chair must name such ministers and advise them to conduct themselves."

Speaking to The Hindu, Mr. Modi said the events in Maharashtra were unprecedented and therefore, the reactions to it would also be "equally unprecedented". It is not a question of treasury benches or the opposition benches. This is a critical allegation of such a big State like Maharashtra," he said. Mr. Sushil Modi said Mr. Singh is not the only one to make such allegations.

A lady IPS officer has also accused the State Home Minister of taking money for transfers and postings. Then there is the case of IPS officer Sanjay Pandey who has filed a case in the SC, challenging the appointment of current DGP. So over all there is chaos in Maharashtra," he said.

The ruckus started a little before noon when BJP MP Sushil Modi sought to speak towards the end of the Zero Hour, demanding dismissal of Mr. Deshmukh. House Chairman M. Venkaiah Naidu immediately shot down the demand, leading to protests from the treasury benches. Many BJP MPs stood up and started shouting slogans.

Later, speaking outside the House, senior Congress leader Anand Sharma said, "It is the duty of the treasury benches to run the House. It is most unfortunate that the ministers themselves are

Encroachments found at 321 ancient sites

NEW DELHI
Encroachments have been reported at 321 monuments and ancient sites across States since 2014, the Union Culture Ministry informed the Rajya Sabha on Tuesday. In response to a question by Biju Janata Dal MP Amar Patnaik, Culture Minister Prahlaad Singh Patel provided a list of encroached monuments and sites that included the Purana Qila in Delhi and the Ellora Caves in Maharashtra. The list is being updated, he added.

HC orders transgender wing in Assam hospital

GUWAHATI
The Gauhati High Court has directed the Assam government to create a separate wing at the Gauhati Medical College and Hospital (GMCH) for the transgender community. The court also asked the Central government to issue a list of benefits for transgenders under the Ayushman Bharat scheme. A petition had been filed by Swati Bidhan Baruah, a transgender rights activist and the first transgender judge in the northeast.

Oxfam stands by report on labour inequalities

NEW DELHI
Non-profit group Oxfam on Tuesday stated that the methodology used in its Inequality Index 2020 is in the public domain, a day after Labour Minister Santosh Kumar Gangwar told the Lok Sabha that the ranking and methodology lacked clarity. Oxfam India's lead specialist against inequality Anjela Taneja stated: "The methodology adopted in the index is in the public domain as is the basis of India's scoring." India was ranked 151 out of 158 countries in terms of workers' rights.

Even acid attack couldn't stop gritty woman from pursuing her dream

Court awards life term to attacker of the 22-year-old, who joined the police force within 10 months of the ordeal and is now aiming higher

LUCKNOW

A local court in Rae Bareli on March 19 provided 22-year-old Pooja (name changed) a sense of closure two years after she was brutally attacked with acid. The court awarded the accused, her distant relative, life imprisonment for throwing acid on her in April 2019 when she was going for screening for a job in the police force.

Pooja had suffered 29%

burns; the acid burnt her neck, chest, abdomen, back and elbow and spent almost two months in hospital.

The tragedy, however, did not deter her from chasing her ambition. In February 2020, ten months after the acid attack, Pooja joined the police and has been posted in a police station in east Uttar Pradesh.

"When there is passion in the heart for something, nothing comes in the way. I could only see my goal and was bent on achieving it," she says.

On April 16, 2019, Pooja, then 20, was on her way to a coaching centre for competitive exams in Unchahar when the accused Pradeep, her brother-in-law's cousin, was allegedly waiting for her on the side of the road with a bottle in his hand. Pradeep is said to have caught hold of her cycle and poured acid on her back. As a crowd gathered, the accused fled the scene.

Due to the pain and burns, Pooja lost consciousness after four-five minutes.

Deputy Superintendent of Police Vineet Singh, who investigated the case, says the accused attacked Pooja because she rejected his marriage proposal. "Acid is mostly used to deface the girl when she refuses to continue the affair or marry," he said.

In her statement to the court, Pooja said she knew the accused for five years and that he would phone her and message her expressing love and asking for marriage apart from sending her indecent texts. Due to this, she said, she started avoiding his calls.

While convicting Pradeep under Section 326 A of the IPC, special judge Heera Lal said there was no ground for any "empathy" for such persons who disfigure a woman by pouring acid on her. The convict was also fined ₹50,000.

Given the low conviction rate in acid attacks, Pooja is content with the disposal of the case. When she was attacked she had not only cleared the exam for police constable but also the Railway Protection Force. However, she missed the physical examination as she was admitted to the hospital then. Now, she is preparing for examinations to qualify for a rank higher than that of a constable. Pooja says women should not give up their career due to fear of men or society. "Some even stopped going to college due to fear after such incidents happened to others. Women should focus on being self-dependent," she said.

81% of positive samples in Punjab of U.K. strain

Mutant virus affecting young people more: Amarinder

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
CHANDIGARH

With 81% of the 401 COVID-19 samples sent by the State for genome sequencing turning out positive for the U.K. variant, Punjab Chief Minister Amarinder Singh on Tuesday appealed to the people to get themselves vaccinated. He urged Prime Minister Narendra Modi to widen the vaccination ambit to cover those under 60 since this mutant had been found to be infecting young people more.

The process needed to be expedited, he said, pointing to the fact that experts had found the existing Covishield vaccine to be equally effective against the U.K. variant – B.1.1.7.

Capt. Singh also urged people to strictly adhere to all safety protocols, including wearing masks and maintaining social distancing. The appeal came after State's expert committee head K.K. Talwar apprised him of the developments on the new variant, which has been witnessing a surge in the last few weeks.

The Health Department had sent 478 positive samples to the NIB, the IGIB and the NCDC for genome sequencing, of which results of 90 samples were received and those showed only two samples for the new N440K variant.

Thereafter, 401 more samples, collected between February 1 and March 10, were sent to the NCDC for genome sequencing.

The result of these samples was worrying, as it showed presence of B.1.1.7 variant in 326 of them, said Dr. Talwar.

India reported 40,715 new cases and 199 fatalities in the 24 hours till 8 a.m. on Tuesday, the Ministry said. Six states – Maharashtra, Punjab, Karnataka, Gujarat, Chhattisgarh and Tamil Nadu – accounted for 80.90% of the new infections.

Six States accounted for 80.4% of the daily deaths, with Maharashtra and Punjab reporting 58 each, followed by Kerala and Chhattisgarh, with 12 deaths each.

The Ministry added that 795 cases had been identified so far in the country with the U.K., South Africa and Brazil variants of the virus.

From July and August more vaccines, including from different companies, were expected, he added.

V.K. Paul seeks increased output

JACOB KOSHY
NEW DELHI

Bharat Biotech's Covaxin currently constituted only around 8% of the doses administered so far as there were "supply side" constraints, NITI Aayog Member (Health) V.K. Paul said at a seminar on Tuesday.

"We'd like them (Bharat Biotech) to increase the output. As per our current estimate, Bharat Biotech is expected to deliver 120 million (12 crore) doses until August and 480 million is expected from Serum Institute. Serum supplies about 60 million doses now and we'd like that to increase to 80 or 100 million," Dr. Paul said, speaking at an online seminar organised by the Sun Pharma Science Foundation.

Both Covishield and CoVaxin were rolled out under emergency use authorisation but the lack of efficacy data resulted in a significant degree of hesitation. "Now that interim efficacy data is out, there is more confidence in the vaccine," Dr. Paul added. He denied that this was affecting the overall pace of India's vaccination programme. "We are able to administer vaccines as per need," he said.

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
NEW DELHI

The cumulative number of COVID-19 vaccine doses administered crossed 5 crore with 5,00,75,162 jabs given till Tuesday, as per the provisional report till 7 p.m., said the Health Ministry.

The Ministry said beneficiaries must insist on receiving a hard copy or a digital copy/link of their vaccination certificate.

"In private hospitals, this has been included in the fee charged from you. You may use your observation period of 30 minutes to ensure that you get the certificate. Do not return home without it. If the hospital does not provide a certificate, the beneficiary may lodge a complaint at toll-free number 1075," the Ministry said.

The CoWIN platform has been amended to do away with the feature of the auto scheduling of the second dose on the 29th day. Beneficiaries can decide on the date within the interval of four to eight weeks.

OTT case: SC stays all pleas in HCs

The Centre has sought transfer of the cases in High Courts to the top court

LEGAL CORRESPONDENT
NEW DELHI

The Supreme Court on Tuesday stayed the proceedings in High Courts in cases seeking regulation of content shown on over-the-top (OTT) platforms.

A Bench led by Justice D.Y. Chandrachud listed the case for hearing after the Holi break.

The hearing was based on a plea by the Centre to transfer the cases in the High Courts to the Supreme Court.

The Bench was informed by Solicitor General Tushar Mehta that despite the apex court's earlier order issuing notice on the transfer plea filed by the Centre to club all such petitions filed in various High Courts, the Punjab and Haryana High Court is still proceeding in the matter pending there.

Mr. Mehta said several fresh petitions were being filed in different High Courts on the issue.

Counter affidavit
A counter-affidavit filed by the Information and Broadcasting Ministry in another case said Information Technology (Guidelines for Intermediaries and Digital Media Ethics Code) Rules of 2021 provides a "comprehensive" mechanism to check content on OTT platforms.

The Ministry said the Rules was based on a globally recognised model and keeps a fine balance, considering the major audience these OTT platforms had while at the same time providing a healthy classification of content based on age groups.

Recently, another Supreme Court Bench led by Justice Ashok Bhushan had criticised the 2021 Rules as lacking teeth to punish violators or to screen offensive content.

Centre's offer

In that case, Mr. Mehta, speaking on behalf of the Centre, had agreed to consider drafting new regulations or even legislation to address the concern raised by the court about OTT platforms.

The court had recorded in its order that the new Rules notified days back were "more in the nature of guidelines" and there was "no effective mechanism for screening or to take appropriate action" against violators.

Afghanistan wants a larger role for India in the peace and reconciliation process, said visiting Foreign Minister Haneef Atmar, adding that he had discussed President Ghani's new peace plan, the ongoing Intra-Afghan dialogue and "Extended Troika" talks in Moscow last week with the Indian leadership. Mr. Atmar met National Security Advisor Ajit Doval on Tuesday, after holding bilateral talks with External Affairs Minister S. Jaishankar on Monday.

"India has legitimate interests in the peace and security of Afghanistan and we are seeking a greater role for India," Mr. Atmar told journalists at the Indian Women's Press Corps after his official meetings in Delhi. "We are negotiating to make sure that Afghanistan does not become a safe haven for international terrorists who are keen to turn it not just in their battlefield but into a safe haven including, unfortunately, against India as well. So, India has a role not just in Afghanistan but with other regional and international partners," he said.

The plan will pave the way for a lasting peace based on the will of the Afghan people

After his meeting with Mr. Doval, the Afghanistan Ministry of Foreign Affairs (MFA) said Mr. Atmar had discussed the Ghani government peace plan, which is understood to include fresh elections within the year if the Taliban agrees to a ceasefire, and for Mr. Ghani to hand over power to the elected government. The plan runs counter to the U.S. proposal, revealed in a leaked letter from US Secretary of State Anthony Blinken, that suggests Afghanistan-Taliban negotiations for a power sharing arrangement, and for an interim government to take over from President Ghani's government.

'New tools needed to control spread of TB'

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
CHENNAI

Amid concerns over a second wave of the COVID-19 pandemic, experts have warned that there is a need for new interventions and tools to control the increasing pace of spread of tuberculosis (TB) and also improve the cure rate of the disease.

Ashok Mahasur, senior chest consultant, P.D. Hinduja Hospital, Mumbai, said those with lower immunity are prone to develop tuberculosis and TB patients with low immunity may develop COVID-19 and this was interrelated. On the positive side, the use of masks during the pandemic has reduced cases of TB and chronic respiratory diseases. It is a useful tool to prevent spread of TB, he said.

Mercedes' E-Class is as enjoyable from behind the wheel, as it is from the back seat, with little to complain about the overall package

NIKHIL BHATIA

Mercedes has rolled out the facelift for its fifth-gen E-Class in India, with the E-Class in its long-wheelbase avatar and the options of four-cylinder petrol (E 200) and diesel engines (E 220d), and a six-cylinder diesel (E 350d). So, what is it like?

The E-Class' visual makeover is no mere nip and tuck job. Mercedes has grafted in a new grille, headlights and slimmer tail-lights to align styling with the very latest models, and the visual effect is impressive. The 5m-plus E-Class looks as regal as ever but there is a hint of sportiness too now. Offered exclusively in a new AMG Line trim, the E 350d is identifiable by its bolder grille, sportier bumpers and attractive 18-inch AMG rims.

The high-quality E-Class cabin continues to beautifully blend old-world warmth with new-age tech, with surfaces finished in open pore wood and

MERCEDES-BENZ E 350D SPECIFICATIONS
ENGINE	6 cyl, 2925cc, diesel
MAX POWER	286hp at 3400-4600rpm
MAX TORQUE	600Nm at 1200-3200
GEARBOX	9-speed automatic
LENGTH (MM)	5075mm
WIDTH (MM)	1860mm
HEIGHT (MM)	1495mm
WHEELBASE (MM)	3079mm

digital screens sitting in visual harmony.

Among the updates inside is the new three-spoke steering wheel with upgraded touch panels to operate the central infotainment screen and digital dials. The touch sensitivity is improved over the older E's steering buttons, but some controls still seem a bit fiddly.

The E 350d is unique for its Cream and Tropez Blue interior theme, with the upper dash and door pads finished in the same blue shade. While it looks distinctive, it might not be to everyone's taste, and may not work well with some exterior colours.

If there is an area that the E-Class continues to ace, it is comfort. The front seats are excellent, though it is the rear seat that will interest most buyers. There is tremendous legroom, thanks to the long wheelbase. The seat back is reclinable by 37 degrees and the pillow-like head restraints add to the comfort factor. While there is space for a middle passenger, the rear seat is best experienced by two occupants, with the massive centre armrest folded down.

Curiously, there is only one rear cupholder positioned on the centre console. Another downer is the efficacy of the air-con system at the back, which does not cool the cabin quickly enough. However, you do get the option of pre-cooling your car in advance using the Mercedes app on your phone. The updated tablet in the rear armrest also lets you operate certain functions of the touchscreen up front.

There is plenty by way of kit too, but what is missing is powered operation for the boot lid, and while the spare wheel sits below the boot floor, the luggage space itself is quite limited.

As mentioned, there are three engines on offer, though with us here is the six-cylinder E 350d diesel. The mill is the same inline six that also powers the S-Class, GLE and GLS, but this is the first time one can experience it on the E-Class.

The unit develops 286hp and 600Nm of max torque, but it is the engine's refinement that gets you first. It is very quiet at idle and even on the go, the slightly grainy sound from the engine bay is unobtrusive. Performance is expectedly brisk, with easy access to power all through the rev. Playing its supporting role incredibly well is the 9-speed automatic gearbox that works with honeydew smoothness.

The steering is well-weighted and precise, and for a car so large, the Merc is quite easy to drive. The 350d's air suspension is absorbent and cushy at town speeds in Comfort mode, but up the pace and it feels floaty. Sport is your go-to suspension setting for faster journeys. It arrests unnecessary up and down movements and generally makes the big E feel more tied down.

Also to be kept in mind is that the air-suspension-equipped E 350d is also prone to touching its belly on large speed breakers, so it is prudent to raise the suspension height via a button on the centre console in advance.

When it comes to buying the updated luxury sedan, typical E-Class buyers who are buying one for the rear-seat experience will be satisfied with the E 200 (₹ 63.6-67.2 lakh, ex-showroom) or the E 220d (₹ 64.8-68.3 lakh).

This range-topping E 350d (₹ 80.9 lakh) is a stretch, but the added outlay also gets you a properly strong engine and the enhanced comfort of air suspension. This is a car that is as enjoyable from behind the wheel, as it is at the back seat. The new look is also impactful and there is simply little to complain about the rest of the package.

The E-Class has long been the default choice for large luxury sedan buyers in India. With the latest updates, the proposition has gotten stronger still.

AUTO SNIPPETS

Bajaj Chetak e-scooter prices increased

Bajaj first launched its Chetak electric scooter in two variants – Urbane and Premium – in 2020. Both variants have now received a price hike with the Urbane now costing ₹ 1.15 lakh while the Premium variant costs ₹ 1.20 lakh. Powering it is a 3.8kW/4.1kW (continuous/peak power) electric motor, which sends power to the rear wheel via an automated transmission. This motor derives power from a lithium-ion battery pack that claims to deliver a real-world range of 95km in Eco Mode and 85km in Sport mode. Bajaj is also offering a warranty of three years/50,000km on the IP67-rated battery. The charge time on the Chetak is a claimed 5 hours for 100% and 1 hour for 25%. (All prices, ex-showroom, Delhi.)

Jeep Wrangler launched at ₹ 53.90 lakh

Jeep has launched the locally assembled Wrangler off-roader in India, with prices ranging from ₹ 53.9-57.9 lakh (ex-showroom, India). It is offered in the same Unlimited and Rubicon trims as before, along with a new 80th Anniversary Edition. The Wrangler has a 2.0-litre, four-cylinder, turbo-petrol engine that is good for 268hp and 400Nm of torque. An 8-speed torque converter automatic gearbox is available as standard. Additionally, the Wrangler gets the 'Selec-Trac' full-time 4WD system. The Rubicon takes it a step further with the company's 'Rock-Trac' full-time 4WD system. Most creature comforts remain common across the model range.

C5 Aircross India launch on April 7

Citroen's first model for India, the C5 Aircross, will be launched on April 7, 2021. Bookings are currently open and all customers booking before April 6 will avail a complimentary 5 year/50,000km maintenance package. The C5 Aircross will be available in two variants – Feel and Shine – with both offering a fair bit of kit. Powering the C5 Aircross will be a sole 2.0-litre diesel engine developing a meaty 177hp and 400Nm of torque. The unit will be paired with an 8-speed automatic gearbox as standard. Citroen is expected to price the C5 Aircross around the ₹ 30 lakh mark (ex-showroom).

Q&A WITH HORMAZD

Diesel or petrol?

I am planning to buy the new 2021 Jeep Compass. Can you please help me choose between the diesel and petrol variants? I have read and seen many reviews of the Jeep compass petrol-automatic and my takeaway is that the engine is a bit underpowered, has a turbo lag below 2,500rpm, the gearbox is sluggish, and the fuel economy is poor (but that is not high on my agenda).

I want an automatic variant, that can be used as a daily driver in the city and for occasional long drives, with an average of 6,000-8,000 km per year. It should have a very good drive experience and with a potential for good resale value after 4-5 years.

Amarinder Bhandari, Gurgaon

• The new Compass is a huge improvement over the older one, but comes at a cost. However, you will find your money buys you the most capable SUV in its class, which is now kitted with all the features that customers want.

Your observations on the petrol engine are correct and for those reasons our choice between the petrol and diesel is the latter, purely because it is a stronger engine and offers a level of performance that is wanting in the petrol version.

Head over heart

I am planning to buy a Range Rover Sport SE 3.0 diesel or a Mercedes-Benz GLE 400d. I want to know what their pros and cons are, and which one is better in terms of performance, driving, comfort, service and resale value.

Fahad, Tirunelveli

• The Range Rover Sport diesel is the more desirable of the two. It is bigger, has a good balance between ride and handling and is much better off-road. The interiors too are quite classy and rich. The GLE 400d has the nicer engine and is smoother and stronger than the Range Rover's diesel. Also, the GLE is easier to get in and out of and is not as high as the Range Rover. In the end, it's a question of head versus heart. The GLE is a better investment as Mercs have better resale and a better sales and service network, too, but the Range Rover with its fabulous road presence is the one that appeals to the heart.

The universal appeal of two wheels

Tweaked ergonomics, decent amounts of grip and a sporty profile, add to the new Honda CB350RS' charm

RISHABH BHASKAR

The new Honda CB350RS is based on the popular, retro-styled H'ness CB350. However, it takes a slightly new approach towards design and ergonomics. Is it worth the stretch?

The design

The similarities with the H'ness CB350 is evident in the shape of the fuel tank and LED headlamp. The dual-tone, black and yellow paintwork is attractive, while the headlamp uses a matt black ring instead of chrome and is flanked by new LED turn indicators.

The side profile also reveals the motorcycle's predominantly black theme, with only a little chrome peppered on the exhaust heat shield, handlebar and mirrors. Besides that, the tail section has been redesigned for a compact, yet modern look.

Engine and performance
This 348.36cc, single-cylinder, air-cooled small plastic fender puts up the new 17-inch wheel shod with a 150-section MRF Kurve tyre on full display.

Ergonomics

Besides the design, the ergonomics have been tweaked for a sportier riding position by moving the foot pegs behind by 112mm and placing them higher by 12mm. The handlebar is a smidgen wide and placed 10mm higher and 41mm farther than the one on the H'ness. This, along with the scooped, yet firm and supportive seat, results in a riding position that is sporty, yet very comfortable.

Easy on the eye
The Honda CB350RS takes a new approach to design and ergonomics better, with the RS managing to squeeze about 1.5kpl more in the city or on the highway.

The slick 5-speed gearbox, along with the slip and assist clutch, makes light work of keeping the engine in the powerband, while the raspy exhaust note elevates the riding experience. It still struggles to climb up an incline in the top gear, though.

Ride and handling

Underneath the bodywork, the Honda CB350RS has the same half-duplex cradle frame as the H'ness; the suspension units and steering rake are identical as well. On the road, these tyres offer decent amounts of grip, even when the motorcycle is leaned into a corner, while the handling is neutral and predictable. Considering the 19-inch front wheel and the tyre pattern, you can ride the motorcycle down a trail as well, and the additional 2mm of ground clearance on the RS makes it fit to take on bad roads.

Conclusion

The Honda CB350RS comes across as a very well-rounded package. Although styling has always been a personal choice, the RS' design will find universal appeal. This, coupled with the involved riding experience, makes the motorcycle worth considering. If you are considering a 350cc Honda in today's time, the CB350RS is the one to buy.

SWETA AKUNDI

As winter draws to an end and the sun stays out a bit longer every day in the Norwegian sky, Mina Floriana and Alexander Read are going on an expedition across the country. For 24 days and 350 kilometres, the duo will be trekking and camping, far away from people. And if luck favours them, chance upon magical trolls. Mina has slept over 300 nights in tents, and she is all of five.

"I have been with Nature since I was a small boy. So when Mina was born in 2015 it was as natural as breathing to continue our outdoors life – known as fri-luftsliv here in Norway. Our first long hike in the mountains was when she was one-and-a-half years old. We stayed there in the mountains for a month or so in our tent," says Alexander, from Oslo.

Introducing their toddlers to the outdoors at a young age – as soon as they take their first steps – is a way of life for parents like Alexander. Camping in harsh conditions, putting up at youth hostels and getting lost in unfamiliar cities, and scaling mountains; all help build character, and according to these parents, no age is too soon to begin.

Deenaz Raisinghani clearly remembers when her daughter Arianna started walking for the first time, chasing pigeons at the Sultanahmet Square in Istanbul, where they were backpacking. Now six, Arianna has been backpacking since she was less than a year old – the first country she camped across was Bhutan, when she was seven months old.

"It's an idea that was conceived when I was pregnant with her. I had never travelled across Europe, so I wanted to go there and take my baby along," says Pune-based Deenaz.

While Alexander and Mina prefer to 'troll-hunt' in solitude, in far-removed places of Norway, Deenaz on her trips depend on the kindness of strangers: the locals, fellow hostellers from different countries, and host families.

"Arianna befriended a Turkish youth hostel employee named Hawa at Pathpoint hostel in Cologne, Germany. He was delighted to have a baby at the hostel, so he kept playing hide and seek with her. She also made good friends with a local Brazilian family whose home we stayed at in Barcelona and met their kids and pet dogs too," says Deenaz.

Often, she was offered help by strangers on public transport. "They would just see a mom alone with her baby on a train or bus and would offer to help with the pram or the luggage while getting off from the transport," she adds.

Lessons in kindness

Deenaz believes this has made Arianna less judgemental, more empathetic and open to new experiences.

In Coimbatore, Senbagha Poonguzhal shares this sentiment. Poonguzhal has been trekking with her daughter Sangamithra, since she was four, and is amazed at how much she has accepted the wilderness and gotten over her fear of bugs.

"The first time we visited Mullai forest near Baralikadu, she did not want to walk there because she thought it was not a clean place. If we saw a grasshopper nearby, that's it, the activity had to be packed up and we had to leave," says Poonguzhal.

But as they began trekking outdoors more and more, Sangamithra's connection with the earth and soil strengthened.

"Around two years ago, when she was five, we trekked the Kolli hills. As it is, it was a steep climb for her, and it was also raining hard. But still, she enjoyed the trek so much. She still recalls it every now and then," she says.

Poonguzhal homeschools Sangamithra, and they identify trees, based on their leaves (neem, kondrai, jacaranda), and birds while on treks. "I myself had never seen an owl all my life until I went on a trek with her," she adds.

With the added responsibility of carrying a toddler on treks, 'YOLO' decision making does not cut it.

"You have to figure out the best forms of transportation and be ready to walk around extensively while wearing the baby or carrying them in the pram," says Deenaz. "In Arianna's initial years, changing and feeding her at intervals would be an issue, but everything worked itself out. The more trips we took, the more we got closer as mum and daughter. Now she is my true companion."

What kids can teach us

As a former soldier and officer from the Coastal Ranger Commando, Alexander too is very serious about being well prepared for risk management on expeditions with Mina. "The mountains in Norway can dip to low temperatures and one has to take the weather seriously," he says.

Their longest stay out was for 57 days in their tent – a winter expedition on the Nordryggen mountain ridge covering 500 kilometres on pulls and skis: "We also talk about being away from her mother and sister. We talk about the feeling of missing someone and at the same time how we can love being where we are and doing what we are doing."

Because ultimately, their main goal is to be able to get to know one another better.

"I think that I have become a better father and person because of our adventures," says Alexander. "Mina has opened up a previously unknown door into a magical world where trolls are as real as you and me."

"Not just so, she has fundamentally changed how I value a hike and an expedition all together," he continues.

"Previously, the destination was an important part of the adventure. But now, the value lies in the here and now, in the down-to-earth meetings with Nature and ourselves. Small narratives that embeds magic, trolls, ups and downs and everything in between. My job is to make sure that the planning is taken care of, and then use as much energy as possible to lean into Mina and her world. That is when the turmagi (hiking/adventure-magic) starts to happen."

In the spotlight

How Arjun Mathur, in demand after the success of Made in Heaven, is gearing up for his films and career ahead

PRADEEP KUMAR

It was not overnight stardom, but Arjun Mathur did make heads turn playing Karan Mehra in the Amazon Prime web series Made in Heaven. The actor says he is now busy with "back-to-back projects until August" of this year. The list includes a second season of Made in Heaven. "The quality of offers [coming my way] has improved. There are filmmakers who now 'want' to work with me. I'm aware that I am entering a new phase in my career, and it is exciting," he says, over a phone call from Mumbai. Up next for Arjun is the ZEE5 film starring Manoj Bajpayee, Silence... Can You Hear It? A thriller written and directed by Aban Bheru Deohans, Arjun plays Ravi Khanna, who he describes as "a suave politician with shades of grey". Bajpayee is the cop investigating the death of a young woman. Edited excerpts: and not those with over-inflated egos. That said, I have no regrets. There is a learning in every experience.

Is the quality of content better in streaming than in mainstream cinema?

- Every thriller will have a character like Ravi Khanna, someone whom you can't tell if he is lying or speaking the truth, or if he is operating with an agenda. For me, it is different from the characters I have played before. I have this image of playing 'clean, good boy' roles. Ravi Khanna turns that notion on its head.

Working with Manoj Bajpayee must have been rewarding?

- I have been a fan of Manoj since Satya. It was interesting to go toe-to-toe with an actor of his stature and skill. It is rare to see someone of such immense standing be so down-to-earth and welcoming. He takes the responsibility of creating a comfort level with his co-actors and the crew.

How do you prep for roles?

- I'm an instinctive actor. I don't over prepare. Say, if I have to physically change myself or alter my vocal quality, things that will need training, I would do that, but otherwise, I am someone who depends a lot on the conversations I have with my director and the script reading sessions with co-actors.

What can we expect from Season 2 of Made in Heaven?

- The story and direction Karan is going is a lot more potent, powerful and personal. His conflicts don't end and we learn that he is still evolving.

Myanmar junta defends crackdown

Military regime calls anti-coup protesters 'insurgents holding weapons' and vows to end 'anarchy'

Myanmar's junta on Tuesday defended its seven-week crackdown that has left more than 260 democracy protesters dead, insisting it would not tolerate "anarchy".

The junta has unleashed deadly violence as it struggles to quell nationwide protests against the February 1 ousting of civilian leader Aung San Suu Kyi.

In a news conference in the capital Naypyidaw, junta spokesman Brigadier General Zaw Min Tun put the death toll lower at 164.

"I am sad because these violent terrorist people who died are our nationals," he said.

The streets of towns and cities across the country have seen chaotic scenes for weeks as security forces clash with protesters demanding the restoration of democracy and the release of Ms. Suu Kyi.

The authorities have used tear gas, rubber bullets and live rounds to disperse protesters, prompting a senior UN rights expert to warn they may be committing "crimes against humanity".

But despite widespread international condemnation, the junta spokesman defended the response, saying that the security forces were dealing with "insurgents holding weapons" and five police and four soldiers had been killed.

"We have to crack down on the anarchy. Which countries in the world accept anarchy?" he said.

Despite the bloodshed, protesters took to the streets again on Tuesday, staging demonstrations in Yangon.

Media targeted

As well as breaking up protests, the military has sought to stem the flow of news about the crackdown, banning several local media outlets and arresting dozens of journalists.

Mobile data networks remain suspended.

Ms. Suu Kyi, not seen in public since being detained on February 1, is facing several criminal charges as well as allegations of accepting illegal payments of gold and cash.

Sean Turnell, an Australian adviser to the 75-year-old Nobel laureate, is being investigated under immigration and state secrets laws, the junta spokesman announced on Tuesday.

International pressure is building on the regime, with the EU on Monday imposing sanctions on junta chief General Min Aung Hlaing and 10 other senior officials. The U.S. – which has already blacklisted the top junta leaders – sanctioned Myanmar's police chief and an army special operations commander, saying they were responsible for using lethal force against demonstrators.

change and "the Asia-Pacific situation", the press release said. On the Myanmar coup, both sides "voiced support for all parties in Myanmar to seek a political solution to the current crisis within the Constitution and legal framework, avoid further conflict and bloodshed, prevent external forces from taking advantage of the crisis for their own gains, and continue to advance the democratic transition".

In a separate joint statement following the conclusion of the two-day talks, both sides called for a summit of the UN Security Council's five permanent members to be held. "At a time of increasing global political turbulence, a summit of the permanent members of the UN Security Council is particularly necessary to establish direct dialogue about ways to resolve humankind's common problems in the interests of maintaining global stability," Reuters quoted the joint statement, published on the Russian Foreign Ministry's website, as saying.

The statement also hit out at attempts by the West to interfere in both countries' internal affairs. Both Ministers, in remarks to the press, criticised the U.S. and the EU for their recent sanctions on Russia and China.

True multilateralism

China and Russia have rejected U.S. calls for "a rules-based order" – a call endorsed by the Quad summit – and instead said "all countries should follow the purposes and principles of the Charter of the United Nations" and "uphold true multilateralism, make international relations more democratic, and accept and promote peaceful coexistence and common development of countries with different social systems and development paths".

The press release said "the international community believes that the United States should reflect on the damage it has done to global peace and development in recent years, halt unilateral bullying, stop meddling in other countries' domestic affairs, and stop forming small circles to seek bloc confrontation."

Both sides said in a joint press release that they "also proposed the establishment of a regional security dialogue platform to converge a new consensus on resolving the security concerns of countries in the region".

China and Russia are already part of the Shanghai Cooperation Organisation (SCO) security grouping, which includes India.

Ready to discuss GST on fuel if States want it: FM

Council takes all decisions on the tax, not FinMin, she says

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
NEW DELHI

The Centre is ready to consider bringing fuel under the Goods and Services Tax regime if the States bring up the issue at the GST Council, Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman said on Tuesday, arguing that all decisions related to the indirect tax are driven by the Council and not the Ministry of Finance.

The Minister introduced 127 amendments to the Finance Bill, 2021, which was passed by the Lok Sabha. These included an income tax break for the proposed development finance institution to fund infrastructure and a tweak in the proposed tax provisions for employees' provident fund (EPF) contributions.

Defending the decision to impose an Agriculture Infrastructure Development Fund Cess on several items including fuel in the Budget, Ms. Sitharaman said that the proceeds from the collections would be shared with the States as they were the ones in charge of farm infrastructure such as APMCs and marketing yards.

"The cess may not get devolved to States, but eventually it will be used for improving infrastructure in agriculture and the farm yards and the marketing yards, which are with the State governments and so the funds will have to go to the States only," the FM said.

The Minister also sought to assuage States' concerns about a possible reduction in fund allocations owing to the Finance Commission's recommendation to set up a non-lapsable Defence and Internal Security Modernisation Fund. "In principle, we have agreed to it. [But] the fear that it will be imposed on States is not well-founded at all. We have not yet taken a decision on this," she said.

"In the Finance Bill, a few new proposals are being added of a minor nature," the minister said.

EPF TAX

The government has also introduced an amendment in the Budget proposal to tax income on employee contributions of more than ₹2.5 lakh a year into Provident Fund accounts.

"There is 1% of people who were going up to ₹5 crore contribution also. The ₹2.5 lakh [cap] covers 92%-93% of people," the FM said. "Therefore, I don't think this is going to affect most people for whom tax-free, assured income is provided under the scheme," she added.

"Through an amendment, I intend to raise this limit to ₹5 lakh in those cases, and only in those cases where there is no contribution by the employer in the EPF account," Ms. Sitharaman pointed out.

Taxing fuel

Responding to many MPs' concerns about the high taxes on petrol and diesel and suggestions to bring them under the GST regime, Ms. Sitharaman said that both the Centre and States were taxing fuel and the Centre's taxes had to be shared with the States.

"And if there is this concern, rightly, a concern about the fuel taxes. I would honestly think, many of the States would be watching this, and in the next GST Council, if that discussion comes up, I will be glad to have it on the agenda and discuss it. Let the States come and discuss it," the minister said.

"Issues related to GST, being posed to Finance Minister, are not Finance Ministry matters," she said. "They are GST Council matters in which all States are members. It's collective decision and without their clearance, things can't happen," Ms. Sitharaman pointed out.

NCA conducts fast track level 2 courses

SPORTS REPORTER
BENGALURU

A host of popular cricketers undertook two fast track level 2 courses, conducted by the National Cricket Academy (NCA) here.

The likes of Hrishikesh Kanitkar, Abhinav Mukund, Ramesh Powar, Wasim Jaffer, Sarandeep Singh, Debashish Mohanty, Vinay Kumar, Lakshmi Prasad Balaji and Robin Uthappa attended the course, which was open to internationals and those who have played over 75 First Class games.

Skill acquisition, applied biomechanics in pace bowling, spin bowling, batting, wicket-keeping, building social and personal competence and video analysis were some of the topics covered.

rience gained through the rigours of playing First Class and international cricket coupled with knowledge of the technical and tactical intricacies of our game makes for a great combination for a coach.

I believe we have some of the best coaching talents in the world and these courses conducted by the NCA will greatly benefit not only those that have participated in it but also the next generation of cricketers who will be coached by these coaches.

BETWEEN WICKETS

SURESH MENON

It has been almost a year since I watched cricket live, and it feels strange. Not just international cricket but First Class, club, even the Sunday knockabout in the neighbourhood. The pandemic has done worse things than shut the door on what some see as an indulgence anyway. Yet no one voluntarily gives it up. Either the playing of it or the watching.

Cricket-watching is not just about watching cricket. You can decide whether you want it to be an individual sport, sitting by yourself in a stadium, thinking, planning, spending quality time with yourself, taking comfort in the feeling of being alone in a crowd. Discretion and diversion are built into the aesthetics of cricket.

Or you might prefer the team game, allowing yourself to be carried away by the energy of the crowd and revelling in a shared experience. Some people knit, some walk around

States to get ₹30,000-cr. in GST dues

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
NEW DELHI

The Centre will release ₹30,000 crore as GST compensation to States this month, from the compensation cess collections during the year, Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman informed the Lok Sabha.

The pending compensation dues to States for 2020-21 are expected to be more than ₹77,000 crore, the Minister added.

"The GST Compensation due to States from April 2020 to January 2021 is ₹2,17,844 crore, and back-to-back loans released to States to meet the compensation shortfall are ₹10,208 crore," she said.

"So, the compensation likely due to States and UTs in FY2020-21 is ₹77,636 crore," she said.

"And if there is this concern, rightly, a concern about the fuel taxes. I would honestly think, many of the States would be watching this, and in the next GST Council, if that discussion comes up, I will be glad to have it on the agenda and discuss it. Shikhar Dhawan made the most of two reprieves to set the foundation in the first half. Virat Kohli continued his silken touch. K.L. Rahul justified his inclusion ahead of Rishabh Pant with a final flurry. Pacers Bhuvneshwar Kumar and Shardul Thakur were at their usual best.

Day of the debutants

But it was the two debutants – Krunal Pandya and Prasidh Krishna – who caught the eye, playing significant roles in India's win over England in the first ODI at the Maharashtra Cricket Association Stadium on Tuesday.

Despite Dhawan and Kohli's 105-run partnership for the second wicket, England's bowlers pulled things back after Eoin Morgan was again lucky with the toss. But Rahul and Krunal – the elder of the Pandya siblings – ensured India had a sizeable total with a whirlwind stand. The duo's unbeaten 112-run association in 9.3 overs meant India raced to 317 for five.

Back with a bang

While Krunal made his mark with an unbeaten 58 off just 31 balls, the other debutant – Prasidh – came back with a bang after being taken to the cleaners by Jonny Bairstow in the first PowerPlay. The 66-run margin may indicate a facile win but when Bairstow and Roy got England off to a flying start, India had plenty to ponder.

The former whacked Prasidh for 22 runs in the sixth over, including lofted drives, two of which landed in the empty stands. With Roy also coming to the party, the dangerous partnership had swollen to 131 in just 14 overs.

Breaking through

When captain Kohli reintroduced Prasidh in the 15th over, Roy cut him over backward point for a four off the first ball. Off the next, however, Suryakumar Yadav, substituting for an injured India on Tuesday night came up with a performance as clinical as it could get. A pity it came a bit too late in the night.

They may have scored the crushing nine-wicket victory in a dead rubber against South Africa, but the Women in Blue will cherish it for a while. As will the enthusiastic crowd at the Atal Bihari Vajpayee Stadium.

The Indian fans not just got to see their team win in commanding fashion, but were treated to an exceptional spell of spin bowling and then some magnificent batting before the final game in the series ended well ahead of schedule.

The Indians took just 11 overs to breeze past South Africa's modest 112 for seven. Shafali Verma was the main reason for that.

The 17-year-old opener smashed 60 off just 30 balls (7x4, 5x6) as she celebrated her return to the No. 1 spot in the ICC's T20 batting rankings. If she massacred a South African attack that had troubled the Indian batting in the first two T20Is, and for much of the five ODIs before that, her captain played her role of the smiling assassin to India captured another gold as Angad Vir Singh Bajwa and Ganemath Sekhon won the mixed skeet event, beating Kazakhstan 33-29, in the shooting World Cup at the Dr. Karni Singh Range on Tuesday.

There was an assurance about the way the Indian pair went about the task, as it topped qualification with 141, with Angad shooting 72 out of 75, winding up nicely with a perfect 25.

Ganemath had played her part well by starting with a perfect round.

Three teams were tied on 140, which included the Indian pair of Mairaj Ahmad Khan and Parinaaz Dhaliwal. Kazakhstan pulled through past India and Qatar in the shoot-off.

In the gold medal match, Kazakhstan was ahead 11-10, as Olga Panarina and Alexander Yechshenko shot strong, but the Indian pair equalised at the half way stage at 16-16, and pulled ahead to a 23-20, 26-24 lead, before the last station.

Ganemath shot three and Angad shot all four to put up a total which was beyond the reach of Kazakhstan even though it shot perfect.

Mairaj, who had shot the best in qualification with 73, and Parinaaz were beaten to the bronze by Qatar 32-31.

India leads the medals table with seven gold, three silver and four bronze. USA follows with two gold, one silver and one bronze, while Kazakhstan, Iran, Denmark and Britain have at least one gold each.

Getting used to life in a bio-bubble during the pandemic, Kolkata Knight Riders all-rounder Andre Russell is determined to do well in the upcoming edition of the Indian Premier League (IPL).

Russell and Sunil Narine, the two long-serving KKR players from the Caribbean, arrived in Mumbai on Tuesday and began their seven-day quarantine.

"Now is the time when we are going to do what we do best, because we know the bubble. We are used to this situation, our mindset is already planned for this. Korbo Lorbo Jeetbo (We will do it, fight it, win it!)" Russell told www.kkr.in.

Russell and Narine are quite happy playing in India. "We are closer to you guys now, the games are in India... whether you guys are watching from home or the stands, we will be representing purple and gold," said Russell. "Whenever you think about the IPL, you think about India," said Narine, reflecting on playing the tournament in the UAE last season.

DELHI ROUND-UP

Sporting Club in final

KOLKATA

With just the last round of fixtures remaining, three teams – Gokulam Kerala FC, TRAU FC and Churchill Brothers – are in the running for the I-League crown this season.

The title could very well be decided by the last kick of the championship, with two matches featuring the three sides set to be held simultaneously on Saturday.

Three in the fray

Even the race for the league's top scorer award is tantalisingly poised as three front-runners will be in action at the same time on Saturday and just one goal separating them.

Leading the charts is none other than TRAU FC's Bidyashagar Singh, who has 11 goals to his name so far.

Behind him are Churchill Brothers' Luka Majcen and Gokulam Kerala FC's Dennis Antwi, with 10 goals each.

Only one Indian in I-League history has finished as the top goal-scorer – Sunil Chhetri, who scored 14 goals for Bengaluru FC in the 2013-14 season when his side went on to lift the trophy.

Stimac promises ample chances

Says no one will be eliminated for one or two mistakes

India football coach Igor Stimac on Tuesday said the young players in the national side will be given ample chances to prove themselves at the international level as he looks to build a team for the future.

The Indian team is currently training here ahead of the FIFA friendlies against Oman and UAE.

"It's fantastic to see guys at 19, 20, 21, 23 making it to the national squad. We are trying India takes on Oman in Dubai on March 25 in the first of two international friendlies, with the second match against the UAE slated for March 29.

"The young guns proved it in ISL this season. It's now for them to prove at the international level. I will give them the chance to do so."

"There is no reason for anyone to feel scared or have any kind of fear. Not a single player will be eliminated for one or two mistakes but we are trying to work on not to repeat them."
