2nd wave not over; protocol must, states told; PM reviews medical oxygen supply

TREBUNE NEWS SERVICE

NEW DELHI, JULY 9
A baseline of 10,000 daily Covid cases for three weeks would define some kind of decline in the ongoing second wave, the Health Ministry said on Friday, warning people against "unsafe Covid behaviour" as seen in pictures emerging from tourist spots across India.

India saw 43,393 daily cases today and over 40,000 cases for the third day, with Maharashtra and Kerala accounting for 53 per cent of the new infections over the past week.

The Centre's warning came as Prime Minister Narendra Modi took stock of the efforts to install over 1,500 pressure swing absorption (PSA) oxygen plants across the country, which would support four lakh oxygenated beds. The plants were contributed by PM Cares Fund. The details of medical oxygen preparedness were discussed at a review meeting chaired by the PM, who instructed officials to ensure that the plants became functional at the earliest and adequately trained hospital staff were put in charge of their operation and maintenance. He said advanced technology should be deployed to track performance and functioning

CAPT FLAGS VAX SHORTAGE

The Tribune INTERVIEW: OMAR ABDULLAH, NC
For delimitation, why couldn't govt wait for 2021 census?

J&K. Each time the PMs of India and Pakistan meet, there is misplaced enthusiasm. Those meetings come after long gaps and nothing happens. It is the same with this meeting since it came after a long gap and much upheaval. For me, it was more of an icebreaker.

Your party met the Delimitation Commission team while you are critical of it. Why?

We went and told the commission what we think. There are two ways of doing it — stand out and criticise or go and put the criticism on record. We chose the latter. There are others who chose to criticise from outside.

Do you think the delimitation panel has already planned the outcome?

They have taken feedback and have said they will ensure transparency and that their draft will be made available for final comments.

SIT chargesheets 6 dera men in sacrilege case

FARIDKOT, JULY 9

The newly formed special investigation team (SIT) of the Punjab Police, probing three sacrilege incidents of 2015, on Friday filed its first chargesheet in the court of Judicial Magistrate First Class (JMJC) here.

This chargesheet pertains to October 12, 2015, when torn pages of Guru Granth Sahib were found near a gurdwara in Bargari village of Faridkot. These pages were allegedly part of the 'bir' which was stolen from a gurdwara at Burj Jawahar Singh Wala village on June 1, 2015.

In the chargesheet, the accused have been identified as Sukhjinder Singh, alias Sunny, Shakti Singh, Ranjit Singh, alias Bhola, Baljit Singh, Nishan Singh and Pandeep Singh. All the accused were arrested by the new SIT on May 16 this year. There are three more accused in the case but the SIT is yet to arrest them.

Earlier, a case against unknown persons was registered under Sections 295, 295A, 153A, 201 and 120B of the IPC on October 12, 2015. The then SAD-BJP government had handed over the investigation to the CBI on November 2, 2015. However on September 6, 2018, the state government had issued a notification to take the certain people, followed by the alleged police firing. The petitioner and other accused were then arrested.

AAP, SAD eye gains amid Cong turmoil

AMAN SOOD
TRIBUNE NEWS SERVICE

PATIALA, JULY 9

Whoever wins the 'Panthic Malwa belt' forms the government in Punjab, that's the general belief. The visible ground support in 2017 had given the Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) reasons to dream of pulling off an improbable victory. The party, however, had to satisfy itself with only 18 seats of the total 69 in the region and only two more elsewhere in the state. But that was enough to go ahead of the SAD-BJP, which won just eight seats. The Congress won 40 seats in Malwa alone.

Going into the 2022 polls, anti-incumbency, high power prices, unfulfilled poll promises, farmers' struggle at Delhi borders and rampant corruption are issues staring the ruling Congress in the face. The 'mishandling' of the probe into the 2015 sacrilege incidents has denting the party's image and the SAD and AAP are both eyeing gains.

Protests by teachers, farmers, power corporation employees, forest department and water-sanitation staff have become a regular occurrence in front of the residences of Chief Minister Capt Amarinder Singh in Patiala, Finance Minister Manpreet Singh Badal in Bathinda and Education and PWD Minister Viju Singh in Sangrur.

Malwa has taken a particular note of the recent outburst of Congress leader Navjot Singh Sidhu, since he was the first senior party leader to publicly criticise the Chief Minister after the Punjab and Haryana High Court quashed the probe reports submitted by the state government's special investigation team (SIT) into a police firing case in Kotkapura town in Malwa more than five years ago.

The case dates back to October 14, 2015, during the SAD-BJP regime, when the state police opened fire at a crowd in Bargari village which had been protesting Congress has been hit hard by the 'mishandling' of the probe into the 2015 sacrilege incidents, besides high power prices and unfulfilled poll promises. PPCC chief Sunil Jakhar believes the party will resurrect itself before the polls against incidents of sacrilege.

Since June 1 that year, pages of copies of the Guru Granth Sahib that had been ripped off were found in different parts of the state. On October 12, when the same thing happened at Bargari, the villagers protested. By October 14, the protest had grown so huge that the police opened fire, resulting in the death of two persons.

"This is an emotive issue and has exposed both the SAD and the Congress. People will vote against them. We are already getting feedback from the rural Malwa belt that people are still hurt," says SAD (Democratic) president Sukhdev Singh Dhindsa, 84, who had recently announced to launch a new political party — SAD (Sanyukt)—along with another former Akali leader, Ranjit Singh Brahmpura.

SAD president Sukhbir Singh Badal, however, says it is his party alone that represents the Panthic ideology and Sikh beliefs. "We were hurt when the incidents took place but the Congress and AAP in cahoots with their affiliated groups created an atmosphere of unrest and demanded a CBI probe. Now even the Congress-ordered probe for over four years has found nothing," says Sukhbir.

"The key issues are high-priced power and its shortage, besides unemployment and shortage of funds for the rural Malwa belt. We will take all this to the people and let them decide if they still want to vote for the Congress."

The Congress remains a divided house in Bathinda, where Amrinder Singh Waris and Finance Minister Manpreet Singh Badal have usually been on opposite ends. Allegations have been levelled by local SAD leaders and a few

"Another important factor in Malwa politics will be that of the agitation over agricultural laws, if the farmers decide to contest some seats. But I sincerely feel that the villages in Punjab in the past four years have seen major development," Jakhar adds.

AAP, meanwhile, is doing its best to find popular faces and attract youngsters, who are already questioning the Congress over jobs and other unfulfilled promises.

"People have seen prominent faces like Sukhbir or Amarinder and what they have done to the state. We need a CM who is available for the state round the clock and AAP is committed to that. We believe in good governance and a 'goonda-free' government," says Leader of Opposition Harpal Cheema.

Referring to the cases of black fungus (mucormycosis), which has been reported in 623 patients as of July 8, the CM asked the health department to work out a proposal for supporting and helping in treatment of such patients. Of the 623 cases, 67 are from outside the state, the Health Secretary informed the meeting, adding that 337 cases were under treatment and 154 had been discharged, while 51 patients had died. The maximum cases reported in a day were 34 on May 27, while the average of daily cases in the first week of July stood at five.

With the state running out of Covishield and left with only a day's stock of Covaxin, CM Capt Amarinder Singh today again stressed the need for increase in vaccine supplies from the Centre.

Increase in supplies was critical given the gradual opening of sectors conditional to stakeholders having taken at least one dose, said the CM, directing the officials to continue pursuing aggressively with the Centre for enhancement of the state's quota. Pointing out that Punjab had already vaccinated nearly 83 lakh eligible persons (27 per cent), the CM said the stock was being utilised in the state without any wastage. Contact tracing being done only 'on paper'

Health officials blame it on staff crunch, pressure to achieve target

PATIALA, JULY 9

In what seems to be a case of number game, contact tracing of Covid-19 patients in the state is merely being done on paper during the second wave.

The Tribune has learnt that a majority of contacts of positive patients has reportedly not been tested. Officials blame pressure from higher-ups to achieve the target and shortage of ground staff for this. In one such instance, none of the 23 contacts of a 25-year-old Patiala resident, who tested positive on April 12, was approached for testing. Most were acquaintances or neighbours whom the positive patient happened to know, and didn't necessarily come in contact. In another case, even family members, who were high-risk contacts, were never tested.

In some cases, officials listed names of contacts on their own without consulting the patient. A health official said: "Sometimes patients do not cooperate. So, we list names of people in the area." The issue came to the fore when contacts of a recent Delta Plus variant were being checked for genome sequencing and only a few samples were found, while the list of contacts was exhaustive.

Sources said as contacts of Delta Plus patients were not tested, the department had to take fresh samples of area residents. An officer said: "It is impossible to take samples of 30 contacts of a single patient. During the peak, 500 persons would test positive daily, so it was difficult to meet the target."

Dr GB Singh, director, Health and Family Welfare, said: "We will verify the contact list of positive cases randomly."

Dr Prince Sodhi, Civil Surgeon, said: "Our local medical officer, Asha workers and other staff visit contacts of positive patients. However, I will look into the matter."

CM Capt Amarinder Singh today asked the departments concerned to step up whole genome sequencing (WGS) to expeditiously identify cases of new Covid variant and to fast-track the project for execution of the MoU with ICMR for the Regional Institute of Virology, Mohali.

Though no fresh cases of Delta Plus variant (apart from two reported earlier based on May sampling) had been identified in the state, the CM directed that the WGS lab at GMCH, Patiala, coming up with the support of PATH, must become functional this month. PATH has informed the authorities that the machine is likely to be installed by July 25. The CM said the state was also starting dry swab testing, with a pilot survey at GMCH, Patiala, next week. —TNS

KURUKSHETRA, JULY 9
Activists of the Bharatiya Kisan Union (Charuni) on Friday staged a dharna and showed black flags to Minister of State for Women and Child Development Department Kamlesh Dhandha at the Kurukshetra University.

The minister came there to chair a meeting of the District Public Relations and Grievances Redressal Committee. Reportedly, the meeting venue was changed to Kurukshetra University senate hall from Panchayat Bhawan due to the farmers' stir. After getting information, the farm activists started gathering outside the second gate of the Kurukshetra University.

Meanwhile, heavy police force was deployed on all entry gates of the university. The farmers tried to enter the university and also had arguments with the cops deployed there. Despite the barricading, a few farmers managed to enter the university and reached near the senate hall. Dilbag Singh, Bharatiya Kisan Union (Charuni) general secretary, Kurukshetra, said: "The farmers' union has already given a protest call against BJP leaders and still the government has been repeatedly holding different events. We have shown black flags to her and will continue to protest till the farm laws are not withdrawn."

Due to security reasons, the university gates remained closed but it became a cause of inconvenience for the people residing on the premises.

Sources said a notification was issued by the university asking the employees and students to stay indoors, avoid non-essential travel and keep their ID cards with them while visiting the offices. A Kurukshetra University professor said: "We have seen numerous VIPs visiting the university but such a notification was never issued earlier. Such events should be avoided on the university premises."

During the meeting, the minister heard 21 registered complaints of which 16 were resolved while she ordered reprobation in five cases. Meanwhile, the minister warned the officials and directed them to behave properly with the complainants. "Before resolving the grievances, the officers should improve their behaviour. Govt reaffirms focus on healthcare, agriculture

THE newly recast Union Cabinet has hit the ground running with a slew of confidence-building measures. During its first meeting, the Cabinet on Thursday approved a Rs 23,123-crore package for improving health infrastructure to fight the Covid-19 pandemic, besides allowing Agricultural Produce Market Committees (APMCs) to utilise Rs 1 lakh crore financing facility under the Agriculture Infrastructure Fund (AIF). With these decisions, the Union government has clearly zeroed in on its priority sectors: healthcare and agriculture. The waning of the second wave of Covid-19 has given the Centre breathing space to review and augment its pandemic preparedness by plugging various gaps. The overarching objective is to ensure that the authorities are not caught off guard and ill-equipped as and when the third wave hits the country. The action plan suggests that lessons have been drawn from the nightmarish experience of the second wave, when tens of thousands of people had died due to unavailability or shortage of oxygen, ventilators, ICU beds and medicines.

Even as the farmers have announced to intensify their agitation against the farm laws during the upcoming monsoon session of Parliament, the Centre has again reached out to the protesters and attempted to allay their fears. The move to bolster the APMC mandis through financial support makes it evident that the existing procurement system and the MSP regime are here to stay. The government had launched the AIF last year with the aim of facilitating investment in viable projects for post-harvest management infrastructure and community farming assets. These steps are intended to strengthen agriculture, the only sector that had held its own during the Covid-induced nationwide lockdown last year. It is also heartening that the ongoing 2021-22 rabi marketing season has witnessed a record procurement of wheat — over 433 lakh tonnes so far.

In view of these developments, the time is ripe for the Centre and the protesting farmers to resume talks and end the stalemate. It's worrying that no round of negotiations has been held after the January 26 violence. The stakeholders should not miss this opportunity to save agriculture from being crippled by one-upmanship.

End tax regime uncertainty to boost investor confidence

A FRENCH court's order allowing Cairn Energy to seize 20 Indian Government assets in central Paris, including luxury flats meant to accommodate visiting VIPs, to recover an arbitration award of $1.7 billion has surprised many. But what is more surprising is the Finance Ministry's statement that it had not received any notice and that it was trying to ascertain facts, even as it maintained that India was open to an amicable solution to the dispute within the country's legal framework. The dispute began in 2014, when British energy giant Cairn received a Rs 10,247-crore tax demand notice over the group's reorganisation done in 2006 as the Indian Government claimed that the company made a capital gain of Rs 24,503 crore in the process. Cairn went for international arbitration at The Hague to challenge the retrospective tax. It was awarded $1.2 billion plus costs and interest, which totals $1.7 billion, in damages from the Indian Government.

A similar award was given by the Permanent Court of Arbitration, The Hague, last year when it ruled that India's retrospective demand of Rs 22,100 crore as capital gains and withholding tax imposed on Vodafone for a 2007 deal was in breach of the guarantee of fair and equitable treatment. After Vodafone won a case in the SC in 2012, Parliament amended the law to raise the tax demand again against the telecom company, forcing it to go for international arbitration.

Parliament does have powers to enact laws to impose retrospective taxes. But when such powers are used to nullify a judicial finding, it vitiates the business environment and discourages potential investors. Such relentless pursuit of tax liability of companies, even after court/arbitration rulings in their favour, runs counter to the government's commitment to root out 'tax terrorism' and adversely impacts the investment climate. Given that India's growth has been hit during the Covid pandemic and the country needs foreign direct investment to augment its development and generate employment, it would be better to end uncertainty about India's tax regime to boost investors' confidence.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

Alone we can do so little; together we can do so much. — Helen Keller

ON THIS DAY...100 YEARS AGO

LAHORE, SUNDAY, JULY 10, 1921

THE VICEROY'S SPEECH.

WE cannot help thinking that the Viceroy's speech in reply to the address of the U.P. Liberal Association, in spite of its being unexceptionable in form, will be a disappointment to those who have been looking forward to so immediate and radical change in the policy of the Government of India. So far as the main issues are concerned, we can discover no word of hope in the speech. What is worse, there is nothing in it to show that His Excellency has a grasp of the people's point of view. Thus as regards the Punjab question, he only repeated the official view that we should let bygones be bygones. And expressed the hope that when he announced his conclusions regarding the martial law prisoners who were still in jail, as he would do shortly, this chapter of our recent history would be regarded as closed, except for the lessons to be deduced for the guidance of the future. There was no appreciation of the fact which Indian critics of every school of thought have emphasised, that questions which disturb the peace of nations cannot be closed until the requirements of justice are met and that in this case the requirements of justice can only be met if in addition to the release of the martial law prisoners, justice is meted out to those offending officials who have yet to be dealt with properly. We can agree with His Excellency that the past is of value to us only in so far as it yields lessons for our guidance in the future. But how are these lessons to be driven home except by the punishment of those who have abused their powers? How is the principle of the equality of the Indian and the European, of the official and the non official, to be established beyond the possibility of future violation if you do not treat offenders of one class on the same footing as you treat offenders of the other?

The theatre command debate

Turf rivalries and disagreements must be brought to an end

MAROOF RAZA

STRATEGIC AFFAIRS ANALYST

AS ONE: In a conflict, the three services should play a complementary role. PTI

The role mandated to the CDS is to get India's armed forces move beyond operating in silos.

HERE comes a time when discussions must end, and actions must be taken, based on what can be done at best. No other organisation knows this better, at least in India, than the armed forces. Therefore, it must have come as a surprise to most Indians — especially our political elite — when the CDS, General Bipin Rawat, and the Chief of Air Staff, Air Chief Marshal RKS Bhaduria, publicly aired their different opinions about the role of the IAF. The essential point of departure in the views of the two senior military men was about the role of the IAF in future conflicts and in the evolving concept of theatre commands.

One reason for this disagreement is historical. As India's major external threats are land border-centric, the Army looks at its role from defending India's borders to making territorial gains, if possible, beyond the borders. And in all this, the importance of the IAF in support of ground operations has historically proved to be crucial, whether in the 1965 and 1971 wars, or in the Siachen glacier since 1987 and the 1999 Kargil conflict. The IAF also perhaps nurses a grievance about it being blamed for standing idle in 1962, when the Chinese invasion was in full swing. Historians however say that the then IAF chief, Air Marshal Apsy Engineer, is said to have prepared a detailed plan for the IAF to attack both the Chinese PLAAF bases in Tibet as well as the Chinese army's garrisons there, to stall the Chinese attacks, but his plans were dismissed by General Thapar, who outranked him since the prevailing wisdom among the leadership in Delhi's South Block was that the use of the IAF would only escalate the conflict. But now, the IAF sees its importance as a game-changer in any future conflict — the Balakot strikes are an example — and is averse to the term 'supporting arm', even though it's a role it would still have to play.

To limit the Army's overbearing influence, after Independence, a number of structural changes were adopted and an initial step was the redesignation of the Indian Army Chief, from that of Commander-in-Chief to Chief of Army Staff. This brought him on a par with the other two service Chiefs, and all were thereafter, as Chiefs of their respective service staff, advisers to the Defence Minister. Each service headquarters has thereafter zealously guarded its independence and equal status. Somehow, India still managed to pull off military successes despite this, in the 1965 and 1971 wars. But when the idea of a CDS was apparently first brought up after the 1971 War — and it was suggested that Field Marshal Sam Manekshaw should be made the first CDS — his candidature was apparently vetoed by then Air Chief Marshal PC Lal (with whom Manekshaw was not quite on talking terms, at least during the 1971 War, as per Lt Gen JFR Jacob in his biography), and the then Defence Secretary, KB Lall, since Manekshaw was known to bulldoze his way past the bureaucracy. The matter thereafter lay in limbo for another four decades, as the bureaucracy was quite happy to see that the three service Chiefs were not on the same page, at least on this issue. Even during the Kargil conflict, it was said the then Army Chief, Gen VP Malik, and then Air Chief Marshal Anil Tipnis had major differences on the use of airpower and helicopter gunships against Pakistani bunkers. Such differences and delays do cost lives of soldiers on the ground. However, it was eventually resolved, and the IAF became a force multiplier.

Thus, following the Kargil conflict, the Kargil Review Committee (KRC) report recommended that having a CDS was essential for the demands of modern warfare — which require inter-services cooperation — to achieve our military goals. It was supported by a Group of Ministers, the Naresh Chandra committee on defence reforms, a team headed by Lt General Shekhar in 2016. But the opposition to the idea of the CDS comes from the concern within each of the three Chiefs and their headquar-

The king of hills leaves a void

KS TOMAR

P OPULARLY known as Raja Saheb among his supporters and followers, Virbhadr Singh lost his battle against the coronavirus. In a political career that spanned half a century, starting with his election to the third Lok Sabha in 1962, Virbhadr was elected an MLA for nine terms and an MP for five terms.

My association with him dates back to 1980 when I was a struggling journalist, who had dared to move out of a remote village in Sirmaur district to work in Shimla. It all began with a chance meeting with Virbhadr at his MP's residence on Mathura Road in Delhi following the refusal of officials at Himachal Bhawan to provide me with an accommodation because I was not an accredited correspondent. As I would discover in the years that followed, Virbhadr had come to be a father figure to me.

Over the years, I had the opportunity to listen to many fascinating stories of his foot travel to tribal areas and his association with Atal Bihari Vajpayee when he led a UN delegation. He would tell me Vajpayee was leading the delegation only because the then PM Indira Gandhi could rise above party politics.

In 1983, Indira asked Virbhadr to take charge of Himachal following the resignation of incumbent CM Thakur Ram Lal, who had got embroiled in a forest scam. Recalling his encounter with Indira, Virbhadr said she had chided him when asked about the constitution of the ministry. She told him it was his business to figure out whom to make a minister and with what portfolio.

Even though he came from an affluent background, modesty and courtesy remained his hallmark. His popularity meant the Congress high command could rarely treat him as a pushover. And when they did, it backfired. In 1992, the then PM, PV Narasimha Rao, wanted to anoint Sukh Ram as CM but Virbhadr forced them to backtrack. An identical episode unfolded in 2002, when the party had to bow to his wishes again.

He almost quit the Congress in 2012. He felt humiliated at a Cabinet swearing-in ceremony when Anand Sharma was administered the oath ahead of him. He had decided to go with Sharad Pawar's NCP, but thanks to a last-minute intervention by Sonia Gandhi, he stayed with the Congress.

It was during his tenure that a new dimension was added to our relationship. At 6 am on June 21, 2013, I received a surprise phone call from Virbhadr. 'Sirmauri Bhai, aap ko maine Public Service Commission ka chairman niyuki karne ka faislा kar liya hai,' he said.

I couldn't believe it. I was well-placed professionally but I knew it was time to move on. His passing marks the end of an era in the politics of Himachal Pradesh. But to me, it leaves a void that I doubt would ever be filled.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Power theft

Refer to 'Rs 1,200 cr power stolen every yr, villages account for 66% theft'; it is shocking that residents of Punjab are stealing power worth Rs 3 crore per day from PSPCL supply lines, with rural Punjab leading with 66.66% distribution losses due to power theft using kundis. Despite free power for paddy fields, villages account for theft worth Rs 800 crore per annum. Domestic and commercial urban consumers steal power worth Rs 300 crore while the industry Rs 100 crore. This is indeed a huge loss caused due to the mismanagement and negligence of the government and the greed of the people. To cover up the losses, PSPCL enhances power rates from time to time. Resultantly, the honest consumer is made to pay through his nose. Enforcement wing officials are not allowed to do their duty by villagers and influential local politicians. Special meter checking campaigns under police protection should be launched throughout the state.

NK GOSAIN, BATHINDA

Focus on governance

Refer to 'Course correction'; the reconstitution of the Cabinet was guided by both political and administrative considerations. The major reshuffle since the second term of the BJP government shows that PM Modi means business and that non-performers would not be tolerated even if they belong to senior ranks of the party. Governance issues might have been a factor in the axing of some ministers. New faces such as Ashwini Vaishnav and Jyoti Prakash Scindia have administrative skills that could prove valuable. They must be empowered to plan and take decisions in their respective areas. Proposals must go through rigorous technical vetting and wide political consultations. The revamping was intended to enhance governance, ramp up the economy and fuel the BJP's political march ahead of the crucial elections.

A true royal

Known as Raja Saheb, former Chief Minister Virbhadr Singh was committed to the uplift of people of Himachal Pradesh. The Dharamsala college gained from his official visits. A new library block, a three-storeyed arts block and a huge auditorium were made available to the students, courtesy his vision for quality education. He opened new colleges in remote areas, thus enabling the students, especially girls, to have easy access to education.

E-learning gets push

Apropos of 'Pushing boundaries, bit by bit', indeed the positive side of the pandemic is the evolution and complete establishment of e-learning and its associated technologies. As a parent, I always wanted my daughter, a student of Class XI, to get the best coaching available in the country. However, this was not possible before the pandemic due to the geographical distances involved. But now with online education in place, sitting in Patiala, she can study her favourite subject from a teacher in Chennai. Educational institutions have become e-schools and e-colleges, providing all the knowledge and education required by students of varied age-groups from pre-primary to doctorate. Kudos to the teachers and students who very quickly adapted to this scheme of education. Also, it is worthwhile to mention the role of Internet service providers in the successful implementation of e-learning.

PS SODHI, BENGALURU

No more a heaven

There is a famous saying about Kashmir, 'Gar firdaus bar rue zamin ast, ham asto, ham asto, ham ast' (If there is a heaven on earth, it's here, it's here). But it is sad to know that this heaven is on the edge of economic despair (Kashmir valley on the edge of economic despair). Kashmir has been infamous since the beginning of the insurgency in 1989. The situation had started improving a bit and then came the J&K Reorganisation Act in 2019, which resulted in the widespread turmoil in the Valley. In March 2020, the Covid-19 pandemic came as a bolt from the blue for the residents of the Valley. Something concrete must be done to save the Valley, which depends on tourism that has been hindered due to one reason or the other. A bailout package seems to be the only solution to save the businesses which are in the doldrums.

Flouting Covid norms

With the second wave of Covid-19 subsiding, people have become careless. Neither are they maintaining social distancing nor wearing masks properly. The northern parts of India are getting hot due to the delayed arrival of monsoon. Images of huge crowds of people without masks in Uttarakhand, Himachal Pradesh and Jammu and Kashmir are going viral on social media. Violation of the Covid protocols is being seen not only in the mountains, but also in Delhi, Mumbai and Chennai.

MAHAK ARORA, CHANDIGARH

Challenges galore for Modi's new team

NEERJA CHOWDHURY

SENIOR POLITICAL COMMENTATOR

IN 2014, when PM Narendra Modi formed his first Cabinet, it carried a touch of Arun Jaitley. It included many Jaitley 'boys and girls' like Nirmala Sitharaman, Piyush Goyal, Dharmendra Pradhan and Prakash Javadekar. Jaitley himself got Finance and was given the additional charge of Defence.

In 2021, the Cabinet reshuffle bears the stamp of Amit Shah, be it the elevation of Anurag Thakur, G Kishan Reddy, Parshotam Rupala or the induction of Bhupendra Yadav or Meenakshi Lekhi and several others. This is not surprising, for the Prime Minister relies on Shah's counsel on most matters.

Modi seemed to be addressing a few needs through the reshuffle. The first was to fill vacancies which had existed for some time due to deaths and the exit of allies like the Akali Dal. It was supposed to lighten the load of some ministers who had been saddled with additional departments. However, several ministers continue to have more than one department under them.

Two, it was done for reasons that were political. Given the recent dip in its popularity, the party has reached out to its allies once again. It will need their support in 2022 and in 2024. It inducted RCP Singh from the Janata Dal(U), and made Pashupati Paras of the Lok Janshakti Party (LJP) a minister at the instance of Nitish Kumar who managed to split the LJP.

But the more important consideration for the BJP is to win UP again, where elections are due next year; and it will be a do-or-die battle. The second wave of Covid, with the deaths and loss of livelihoods it left in its trail, has dented the BJP's popularity in the state.

The PM appointed seven new ministers from UP, inducted more OBC ministers taking their tally up to 27 and upped the figure of Dalit ministers to 12. The Dalits and non-Yadav OBCs, the Kurmis and the Most Backward Castes (MBCs) are an important catchment area for the BJP in UP. Of the ministers from UP who have been inducted are Anupriya Patel and Pankaj Chaudhary, both Kurmis. Then there is BL Verma, a Lodh, a community to which former CM Kalyan Singh belongs, and Bhanu Pratap Verma, a Koeri. And others who can influence the Dalit voters. But for this to happen, they will have to be empowered to work on the ground to lessen people's pain and suffering.

Modi's third concern was to beef up governance. He promoted seven ministers from MoS to Cabinet rank, and they are obviously going to be the new face of the government, along with a few who have been inducted like Ashwini Vaishnav, Jyotiraditya Scindia, Sarbananda Sonowal and Bhupendra Yadav.

They have understood what Modi wants — loyalty, efficiency and a grasp of the subject — and have to deliver accordingly.

Modi wants to run the government like the CEO of a company. The ideas will come from the top (PM, PMO, HM) but the ministers — most are not political heavyweights — will be called to implement them effectively.

Modi has been increasingly gravitating towards former bureaucrats, professionals and technocrats (there are as many as seven former bureaucrats in his team today).

In this model of governance, Modi is not looking for professional politicians of the yesteryear variety who gave a political lead to their departments and called upon the bureaucrats and experts to provide the subject expertise. In fact, there are now only two 'relics' from the past left in the Cabinet — Rajnath Singh and Nitin Gadkari.

Those promoted have obviously been rewarded — RK Singh (Power) was low profile and non-confrontationalist; Kiren Rijiju (Law and Justice), who has outreach to the North-East, understood the new work culture; Hardeep Puri (Petroleum and Urban Affairs) defended the Central Vista project of the Prime Minister.

A high-profile promotee is Mansukh Mandaviya, who has been given charge both of Health and Chemicals and Fertilisers. He has been close to Modi since 2002 when he became an MLA in Gujarat. He could see Modi, it was said, without prior appointment. He is called a younger Gadkari and enjoys the image of being a 'doer'. Even as MoS, he was in touch with pharma companies, many of them based in Gujarat. As Health Minister, he is expected to coordinate with them for the production of drugs as and when needed in the future with the continuing Covid challenges.

The challenge for him is also going to be to attend to 'nutrition', as Covid has made a large number of poor children severely malnourished, on the verge of death. The new team — the Cabinet is now the youngest ever — understands the rules of the game. The model of governance under Modi has undergone a change. He rules like the CEO of a company. It is hardly a secret that the ministries are driven by the PMO.

The fourth consideration and an important one, was to safeguard Brand Modi. The PM's image took a dip after the second wave of Covid. In an uncharacteristic move, for the PM is not given to admitting failure or shortcomings lest it should weaken him, Modi sacked as many as 12 ministers. They included Health Minister Harsh Vardhan, IT and Law Minister Ravi Shankar Prasad, I&B Minister Prakash Javadekar and Labour Minister Santosh Gangwar.

Had Modi not dumped them, the blame would have been — and is being — laid at his door. But most people in the hinterland don't even know the name of the Health Minister. They blame the Modi Sarkar.

The Health and Labour ministries had come in for huge criticism for their Covid-linked inaction, for ordering vaccines too late, for not having anticipated the oxygen shortage, and for the hardships that migrant labour went through last year. There is speculation about why Prasad and Javadekar were given the marching orders. But it had something to do with their inability to prevent and manage the criticism about the Modi government in domestic and foreign and social media.

It is Prasad's successor, Ashwini Vaishnav, the new IT Minister, whose induction has created the biggest buzz. He now has to resolve the impasse with the American microblogging site that had bedevilled Prasad's last days.

Everything will depend on how Modi's new horses run the race. And whether they can make a difference to the prices of atta-dal and sabzi.

J&K delimitation and the ethnic, regional gulf

LUV PURI

JOURNALIST AND AUTHOR

The political parties will have little incentive to give a higher mandate to ST candidates than what they are required to do as per the legislative change. So, the de facto reality will be that the Gujar representation in the future legislative Assembly of J&K would be the same as it was in the last Assembly that was elected in 2014. The delimitation would make little change in ensuring greater seats for the SC as well as the ST communities than that in the last Assembly.

First, political reservation for the SCs already existed in the previous J&K Assembly. Several key ministers from J&K came from reserved seats for SCs. They include former Deputy Chief Minister Tara Chand, who was one of the invitees to the PM's meeting. Members of the SC community — mostly in Jammu, where they are nearly 18 per cent of the province's population — were the beneficiaries of the 1950s' progressive land reforms in J&K.

OUTREACH: Modi recently met J&K leaders to enlist their support for delimitation. PTI

Second, it is true that delimitation would facilitate reservation of seats for the STs. The main beneficiaries will be the Gujjars, who are Muslims. In the last Assembly election, Gujjar candidates were elected in the Lolab and Kangan Assembly segments in the Kashmir Valley. In Jammu, the Assembly segments of Surankote, Mendar, Rajouri, Gulabgarh, Darhal, Kalakote and Gool Arnas were represented by Gujjar candidates.

As per the 2011 Census, the population of Gujjars is around nine per cent of the total population of the former state. This number is less than 10.8 per cent of the community's representation in the previous J&K Assembly, if one excludes the four seats of Ladakh, which is now a separate UT.

The political parties will have little incentive to give a higher mandate to ST candidates than what they are required to do as per the legislative change. So, the de facto reality will be that the Gujjar representation in the future legislative Assembly of J&K would be the same as it was in the last Assembly that was elected in 2014.

Third, often missed in the entire debate on delimitation are the broad population trends in J&K. The total fertility rate (TFR) in J&K, as per the National Family Health Survey report for 2019-20, is 1.4. It is even less than many southern states in contrast to the Hindi-speaking states, where it hovers between three and four. If this trend holds, the population levels in J&K are set to decline.

Four, with the revocation of Article 370, the population eligible to vote in the J&K Assembly elections has changed little. As per the 2011 Census, the actual number of the people who came from outside the former state is a mere 1.6 lakh. It is too insignificant a number to make an immediate dent in J&K's demography even if many of them are able to satisfy the conditions of the new domicile order.

Even the number of refugees who came from Pakistani Punjab in 1947 — who actually applied for the domicile — is too marginal to make an impact.

The community is mostly concentrated in one Assembly segment: the RS Pura Assembly segment, bordering Sialkot district of Pakistan.

The official figures underscore this point. In March 2021, the Central Government announced that around 31 lakh certificates were issued to the dependents/holders of the erstwhile Permanent Residents of the Union Territory of Jammu and Kashmir. In total, only 32 lakh were accepted. That means that since August 2019, only 1 lakh residents who were not eligible as per the previous rules to receive the Permanent Resident Certificates (PRCs) got the domicile.

Actually, for over several years, the delimitation exercise became a demand for some stakeholders within J&K to address inter-provincial parity between the Jammu and Kashmir provinces. In the last Assembly, the Kashmir valley had 46 seats whereas Jammu had 37.

J&K, created in the 19th century by merging diverse cultural and geographical units, saw a major change in 1947. The population of Jammu, as per the 1941 Census, was 19 lakh whereas that of Kashmir was 17 lakh.

The bifurcation of J&K in 1947 kept the Kashmir valley more or less intact while dividing the more populous and religiously diverse Jammu. According to the 2011 Census, Kashmir's population is nearly 16 lakh more than that of Jammu, although the area of Jammu is nearly double the size of the Valley. The fact is that the Valley is relatively more homogenous than Jammu geographically, and by religion and ethnicity. It is unlikely that any delimitation exercise could address the complex ethnic and geographical gulf that exists within J&K.

The delimitation is important in the context of a possible redrawing of some Assembly segments.

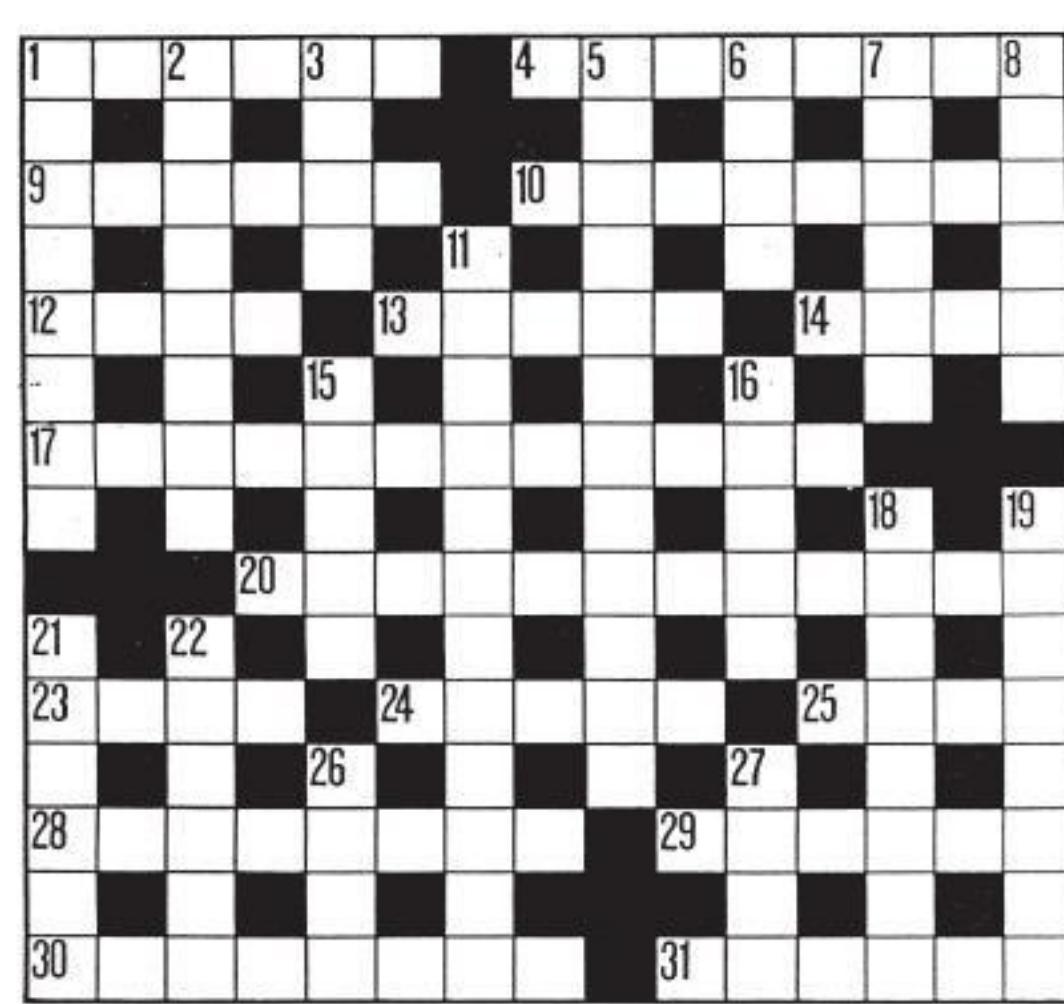

Some of the J&K Assembly segments have indeed become bloated, particularly in the urban parts of the capital cities of Jammu and Srinagar. The two largest Assembly segments in J&K are in Jammu city with 1.6 lakh voters in Gandhi Nagar and 1.5 lakh voters in Jammu West whereas the third largest Assembly segment is in Kashmir which is the Batamaloo Assembly segment with 1.2 lakh voters.

The redrawing of the Assembly constituencies in religiously mixed Assembly segments in Jammu's Chenab valley will be closely watched as some constituencies like Bhaderwah are nearly equally divided between Muslims and Hindus.

On the ground, the delimitation would make little change in ensuring greater seats for the SC as well as the ST communities than in the last Assembly. Its impact on the larger complicated set of reasons that are responsible for the ethnic and regional gulf that exists in the diverse J&K region will also be limited.

A more concerted effort needs to be made to exploit this knowledge to ensure institutionalised political and economic devolution of power from the state to regions and lower tiers by taking into consideration similar experiments of devolution of power elsewhere.

No truce violation since Feb 25

AJAY BANERJEE

NEW DELHI, JULY 9

There has not been a single incident of firing across the Line of Control (LoC) ever since India and Pakistan agreed to uphold the ceasefire along the LoC more than four months ago.

Terrorists, however, tried to infiltrate across the LoC on two occasions this week, but there was no firing by the Pakistani army. A gunfight had ensued with terrorists on both occasions.

Usually, firing across the LoC, described as ceasefire violation in military parlance, is done by the Pakistani army to enable terrorists to infiltrate across the 749-km-long LoC or to hit villages on the Indian side.

The two attempts by armed terrorists to infiltrate were the first since February 25 this year when a ceasefire understanding was reached

2 ATTEMPTS, NO BREACH

Terrorists tried to infiltrate across the LoC on two occasions this week, but there was no firing by the Pak army. A gunfight had ensued with terrorists on both occasions.

by Directors General of Military Operations (DGMOs) of India and Pakistan.

India and Pakistan had announced to "strictly observe all agreements on ceasefire" along the LoC.

The ceasefire was first announced in 2003 and is followed more in the breach, with thousands of cases of firing across the LoC by both sides.

India has made it clear that ceasefire agreement does not mean the system to monitor infiltration and counter terrorists at the LoC will stop functioning. Sources say the instructions to commanders on the ground are "don't drop guard".

On July 1, Indian Army Chief General MM Naravane had said there had been marked changes since the ceasefire had held. It has been noted in security circles that infiltration attempts, made after the Army Chief made his remarks, were not backed by firing from across the LoC.

The Army Chief had warned that there would be forces who would not want peace to prevail. Since the latest ceasefire, all parameters of violence such as terror incidents in the Valley have come down.

My party will have to sit down and discuss it.

Do you think the talks with J&K leaders came up due to international pressure?

There is an inherent contradiction in the BJP's own position. It tells the panel that the 2011 census is flawed yet singles out J&K for delimitation with that as the basis. They could have waited for the 2021 census. The BJP should answer why this has been imposed on us when it thinks the 2011 census data is flawed.

You have sought statehood before polls. Do you think the Centre is open to the demand?

I can't speak for the Centre. At this meeting with the PM, we were told that it would happen "at an appropriate time". I am not comfortable with that. Who will determine when it is appropriate? I would expect far more clarity from the GoI on what yardstick it will follow. I don't understand why we were reduced to a UT. If violence and militancy was the justification, then far more violence happens in Naxalite-dominated areas where massacres of security forces have run into three figures.

On the PDP's decision to boycott deliberations with the panel, Justice Desai is reported to have said, "We can only interact with those who wanted to participate in the process. What can we say about those who didn't come?" She went on to add that the panel would visit the UT again.

Chandra said the panel would prepare a draft document on delimitation after consultation with all associate members and it would be put in public domain for comments.

On the PDP's decision to will emerge from this?

Some of the resentment and anger do not have a short-term solution. What Delhi did to J&K on August 5, 2019, has not been accepted by anybody here. There is unhappiness bordering on resentment about what was done — the humiliation of being reduced to a UT, the really poor governance, the autocratic rule of bureaucrats with no accountability. The bureaucrats are so intolerant that even the slightest hint of criticism can land you in jail. So, I am not surprised people are angry. There are different solutions to address some parts of it, but there is no one solution to wipe out all the anger.

Do you think Article 370 will be restored? Do you believe the Congress when it says that if it comes back, it will revoke the abrogation?

I wish I could say that I will take the Congress at face value because the party is itself responsible for almost all the damage done to Article 370 after 1953. Also, it is just one leader (Digvijay Singh) who reserve the right to take decisions outside the PAGD. On the primary issue, we will need to ensure we synergise our response and statements.

On whether Art 370 will come back, I cannot pre-judge the court verdict but our case is extremely strong.

There are fundamental and constitutional weaknesses in the way Article 370 and 35-A were handled, which is why the government is in no hurry for the case to come up for hearing in the SC. The government will do everything to delay it since they are on an extremely weak wicket.

What are the challenges before the Gupkar alliance?

Keeping the flock together is a challenge in any alliance but joining hands does not mean the constituent parties have subsumed their identity. I have not surrendered the ideology of my

The Indian cricket team's six-match limited-overs series against Sri Lanka was today rescheduled owing to a Covid-19 outbreak in the home team camp, with the first ODI postponed from July 13 to July 17. Sri Lanka's batting coach Grant Flower and data analyst GT Niroshan have tested positive for the virus on return from the United Kingdom, which has forced Sri Lanka Cricket to extend the hard quarantine period from the stipulated three days. Berrettini fends off Hurkacz to seal final berth

Seventh seed Matteo Berrettini stayed solid in the face of a spirited fight-back from Poland's Hubert Hurkacz to become the first Italian to reach the Wimbledon final today with a 6-3 6-0 6-7(3) 6-4 victory.

The 25-year-old took two hours and 36 minutes to get past the 14th seed Hurkacz on Centre Court to reach the final on Sunday — the same day Italy play in the Euro 2020 soccer final a few miles up the road at Wembley Stadium against England.

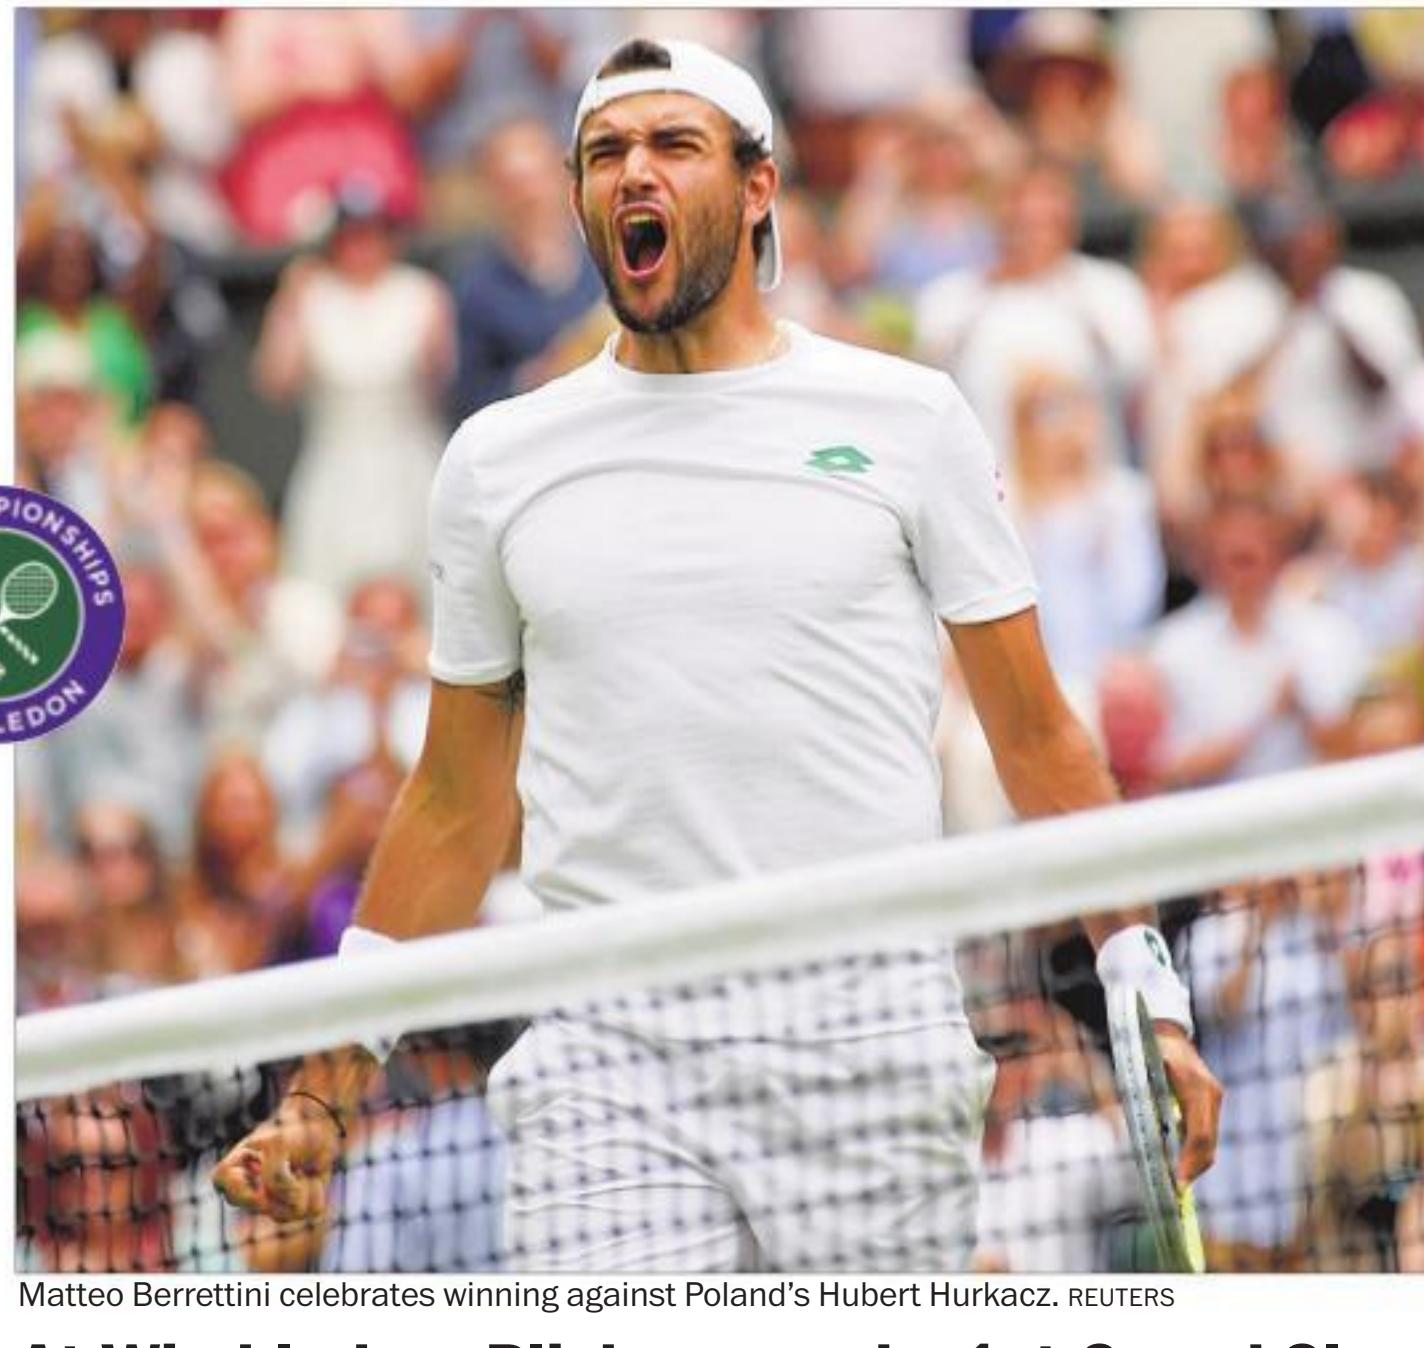

Waiting for Berrettini on the opposite side of the net will be either world No. 1 Novak Djokovic, a five-time Wimbledon winner, or Canadian 10th seed Denis Shapovalov.

"I have no words," Berrettini said in his on-court interview. "I need, I think, couple of hours to understand what happened. I just know that I played a great match. I'm really happy. I'm really glad to be here. "I think I never dreamed about this because it was too much for a dream."

Berrettini's success in the past fortnight has not been entirely out of the blue as he arrived at the All England Club after winning his fifth tour-level title at Queen's. He was the first player to win the Wimbledon warm-up event in his debut appearance since Boris Becker in 1985 and remains on course to match the German's feat of completing the Queen's Club-Wimbledon double in the same year.

Friday's victory also made Berrettini the first Italian man to reach a Grand Slam final since Adriano Panatta won the Roland Garros title in 1976. — Reuters

At Wimbledon, Pliskova seeks 1st Grand Slam title, Barty 2nd

Ash Barty will be trying to win a second trophy in her past seven Grand Slam tournaments when she faces Karolina Pliskova at Wimbledon on Saturday. Pliskova seeks her first Major championship, five years after losing in her only previous Slam final. In matching up against top seed Barty after eliminating second seed Aryna Sabalenka in the semifinals, Pliskova hopes to do something only three women managed to accomplish since the Open era began 53 years ago: beat the top two seeds en route to the title at the All England Club. Venus Williams pulled that off twice, actually — in 2000 (defeating No. 1 Martina Hingis in the quarterfinals, then No. 2 Lindsay Davenport in the final) and in 2005 (defeating No. 2 Maria Sharapova in the semifinals, then No. 1 Davenport in the final). The only other examples go back at least a half-century: Ann Jones in 1969 and Evonne Goolagong in 1971. AP

“Evonne has guided the way. She's created a path for all of us as Australians, but as a family, and for our heritage to know that there is an opportunity to chase after your dreams and to do what you love.” — Ashleigh Barty

“So far, my second final, second time I'm playing against a player (who is) No. 1. But, no, I think it can't be any better than that. You want to play the best player in the final.” — Karolina Pliskova

1 Berrettini is the first Italian man to reach a Grand Slam final since Adriano Panatta won the Roland Garros title in 1976

1 The Italian is first player to win the Wimbledon warm-up event Queens in his debut appearance since Boris Becker in 1985

8 Berrettini is the eighth Italian player, man or woman, to reach a Grand Slam singles final — after Pietrangeli (4 appearances), Francesca Schiavone (2), and Giorgio de Stefani, Sara Errani, Panatta, Flavia Pennetta and Roberta Vinci (all one)

“I have no words. I need a couple of hours to understand what happened. I just know that I played a great match. I'm really glad to be here. I think I never dreamed about this because it was too much for a dream.” — Matteo Berrettini

ED summons Mumbai ex-top cop in PMLA case

Tribune News Service

NEW DELHI, JULY 9
The Enforcement Directorate (ED) has summoned former Mumbai top cop Param Bir Singh in a money laundering case against former Maharashtra Home Minister Anil Deshmukh, officials said on Friday.

The ED said it expected to question Singh and record his statement soon.

Singh has sought some time to depose apparently owing to some health issue.

Officials said the summons were issued to Singh sometime ago as part of the agency's investigation into the case involving him and Deshmukh.

Singh, a 1988-batch IPS officer, is currently the Director General of Maharashtra Police Home Guards unit. He was removed as the Mumbai Commissioner of Police after multiple investigations were launched into an instance of security scare that was reported from near the house of Reliance Industries chairman Mukesh Ambani in Mumbai.

Senior TMC leader Mukul Roy, who recently switched over to the ruling camp in West Bengal after winning the Assembly polls on a BJP ticket, was on Friday appointed as the chairperson of Public Accounts Committee (PAC) in the Assembly by Speaker Biman Banerjee.

The post is normally given to opposition MLAs. Roy fulfills this pre-condition as he is officially a BJP legislator. Despite returning to the TMC fold, he did not resign as an MLA. BJP MLAs, led by Leader of Opposition Suvendu Adhikari, staged a walkout from the Assembly, protesting Roy's appointment.

Roy, MLA from Krishnanagar
