A drone was spotted hovering over a late-evening get-together on the Indian High Commission premises in Islamabad on June 26, a day before explosives-laden drones were used to carry out an attack on the Jammu Air Force station, the Ministry of External Affairs said on Friday.

Lodging a strong protest, India has asked Pakistan to investigate the incident. "We have taken up the matter officially with the Pakistan government and expect it to investigate and prevent breach of such security," said an MEA spokesperson.

The Indian High Commission too has taken up the issue strongly with the Pakistani authorities through a note ver-

The drones over Jammu Air Force station and the Indian High Commission's premises were the first such instances of unmanned aerial vehicles being used against government assets. Amid Covid, surge in pawned jewellery sale

CHANDIGARH, JULY 2

Like a few of his counterparts, Mohinder Sharma (name changed) took loan against gold jewellery, typically considered to be a last resort by most households, from a non-banking financial company (NBFC). Having lost his job amid Covid-induced economic crisis, he was unable to repay the interest. This resulted in the NBFC auctioning his gold.

Sharma is not the lone example, advertisements in newspapers announcing the auction of gold jewellery by NBFCs in the last few months indicate the severe distress faced by households. The NBFCs have a lion's share in the gold loan segment.

Ideally, in case of a default in repayment, customers are given notice to repay. In case, they fail to repay the loan, the gold is auctioned.

Sample this, Manappuram Finance, a non-banking finance company in the gold loan segment, auctioned gold worth Rs 404 crore in the January-March 2021 period as against the total auction of only Rs 8 crore in the April-December 2020 period.

SKM to protest against fuel price hike on July 8

Members of 67 farmers' organisations that met under the banner of Samyukt Kisan Morcha (SKM) at the Singhu border today announced nationwide protests on July 8 against the rise in fuel prices. The protests will be held between 10 am and 12 noon “without obstructing traffic”. In a joint statement, farm leaders Balbir Singh Rajewal, Dr Darshan Pal, Gurnam Singh Charuni, Hannan Mollah, Jagjit Singh Dallewal, Joginder Singh Ugrahan, Shivkumar Sharma “Kakkaji”, Yudhvir Singh and Yogendra Yadav said the Morcha had taken several decisions to step up their struggle against the three farm laws. They claimed there was a plot to defame the movement.

Despite closure of industries, farmers fail to get promised eight-hour supply

CHANDIGARH, JULY 2

Amid an unprecedented hike in demand for power, unscheduled cuts were reported from various parts of the state today.

This despite the fact that the industry has been forced to shut down for two days to divert all available power to the agriculture sector, which too received just six-seven hour supply despite being promised eight hours. As a result, widespread protests by agriculture and domestic power consumers were reported today.

The unscheduled cuts today, ranging from three to four hours, were reported more in Doaba and Majha regions, while Malwa region had some relief in the wake of protests against erratic supply in the past three days.

The demand for power today was 13,600 MW. The government claims it could save almost 1,000 MW by imposing restrictions. "The supply to agriculture consumers today was about 5,500 MW, up by more than 1,000 MW yesterday. There were no scheduled power cuts in the state and if there were disruptions in supply, it could be because of local technical snags in transmission lines," said PSPCL Chairman A Venu Prasad.

While one unit of Talwandi Sabo plant continued to be shut because of a technical snag, the unit of the state-owned thermal plant at Ropar, which was shut down yesterday, became operational today. However, the other unit of Ropar power plant developed a snag. As a result, the state's own thermal power generation today was 1,605 MW and its hydropower generation was 890 MW.

Almost 7,591 MW was arranged from outside the state (from central sector through power banking and also purchasing power on the power exchange). Renewable energy contributed 400 MW to the surging demand today.

Considering the rising power demand, Prasad said they had written to the Centre to increase their transmission capacity from the present 7,400 MW to 7,800-8,000 MW. — TNS

The Tribune INTERVIEW: A VENU PRASAD, PSPCL CHIEF MANAGING DIRECTOR

'Delayed rains, record surge in demand to blame for power crisis'

PUNJAB is witnessing not 13,000 but 16,000-plus MW power demand, which is "phenomenal", says A Venu Prasad. In an interview to Aman Sood of The Tribune, he admits that the only hope is monsoon rains now. Excerpts:

■ A month before paddy season, PSPCL said it had ample power. What went wrong?

It's for the first time that any state faced such high demand in just a matter of few days. The delay in pre-monsoon and monsoon rains led to rise in power demand. We are facing a demand of over 15,000 MW, which may rise to 16,000 MW if rains are delayed further.

■ People from all sectors are protesting power shortage.

Delayed rains and rising temperature forced us to resort to power cuts. Limited power is available from the BBMB as it has low water level. I assure that starting today, farmers will get eight-hour supply for tubewells, while domestic consumers won't face long cuts.

■ Despite costly power purchase agreements, why the shortfall?

We have 172 PPAs. We are revisiting all old PPAs and taking it up with the Centre and the regulator. We have also formed a panel to review the three private thermal plants in the state.

Even our legal experts are trying to find a solution to save crores being paid to them against surrendered power. For now, we have to abide by the signed PPAs. I am also trying to get legal opinion on whether independent power producers (IPPs) can be fined for not supplying during peak paddy season.

■ What is PSPCL doing to give relief to consumers?

Despite drawing maximum power from the national grid and using all available resources, we had to resort to power cuts and two-day weekly off for industry. We managed to save 800-1,000 MW, which has been diverted to agriculture and domestic consumers.

■ Any long-term solution?

We are working on improved grid stability and in the past year managed to get our grid supply from Centre enhanced from 6,400 MW to 7,400 MW. We are trying to have more sub-stations and grids to get better power supply.

■ Why shut state-owned thermal plants?

In Bathinda, we shut the plant due to high costs and less output. It was supplying 400 MW and even if it was working, we would have faced the same scenario.

DOCS RUN CLINICS

PATIALA, JULY 2

Doctors at Government Rajindra Hospital are objecting to the sixth pay commission report over a cut in their non-practicing allowance (NPA) but they have been indulging in private practice themselves. Factually, the NPA is meant to make medics desist from private practice.

Ironically, some of the doctors doing private practice were the ones who participated in the protest on the hospital premises here on Thursday.

In an investigation by The Tribune, it has been found that one of the doctors of the Rajindra hospital, who happens to be a head of the department, was treating patients at her residence.

The Tribune found that one more doctor of the Orthopaedics Department was running a clinic at his residence at 7.03 pm as patients were seen waiting outside his home on Wednesday evening. The doctor does not use his name in the prescription slip. Around Rs 300 is charged from each patient for consultation.

In the past, the Medical Education Minister, Principal Secretary and district administration have been apprised of private practice by doctors at the hospital. However, nothing concrete has been done in this regard.

Dr Diwan Bhullar, general secretary, Punjab Medical and Dental Teachers' Association, said, "There are black sheep in every profession. We strongly oppose these practices because they are getting the NPA. The doctors are sabotaging the cause of our agitation and we condemn it."

Dr Rajan Singla, Principal, Government Medical College, said, "If you have any proof, I will send it to the higher authorities for further action. I am not aware of any doctor indulging in private practice as of now."

Fake call centre busted in Mohali, 10 detained

LUDHIANA, JULY 2

Taking the investigation into the fake call centre case further, the Ludhiana police today busted another fake call centre running from a residential building in Kharar, near Mohali.

Although the police are mum about the development as they would hold a press conference in the matter tomorrow, sources privy to the development confirmed that the call centre was being run by the same gang that was running another centre at the Pakhowal road here. Sources said around 10 persons had been rounded up from the Mohali call centre and computers and other electronic equipment had been seized.

They said Lakhan Abrol, the main suspect, had spread the roots of the fake call centre business across the country. So, there was a possibility that apart from these two centres, Abrol's aides were running such centres in other parts of the country too.

Sources said the police had also identified the kingpin facilitating hawala transactions in the UK, the US and India. — TNS

As per rules, the university can grant the teaching faculty leave of up to two years for research work leading to a doctorate degree with salary. Such employees are required to sign a bond to serve the university for five years on return.

Officials on the campus said the university could penalise the individuals and collect the paid salary if the research work was not completed. They added there were many other teachers as well who availed study leave as per the given rules but did not comply with them.

Vice Chancellor Prof Arvind said: "A committee led by the Dean (Academics) is preparing a report on the matter. It is an old case. Some teachers were not able to complete the research work in time. It is a serious matter if an individual fails to complete the research work at all, but the delay in completion is also being looked into. We will look into other cases as well."

KARNAL, JULY 2

Three years ago in June, the Assandh police had registered a murder case against four persons — the father, mother and two cousins of a 19-year-old girl from Ballah village of Karnal district for allegedly killing her.

FOUR WERE BOOKED

■ June 3, 2018: Assandh police booked the father, mother and two cousins of a 19-year-old girl from Ballah village of Karnal district for allegedly killing her.

■ December 8, 2018: The police filed a cancellation report in the case as the allegations could not be substantiated during the probe after the incident, nobody wants any mention of the case.

Villagers want to forget the incident and prefer to keep mum when asked about the girl's death. "The registration of an FIR showed our village in a bad light. No 'honour killing' was reported in our village. It was a simple case of suicide," said a resident.

Another villager said, "It is an irreparable loss for the family, but it has overcome it and now living in the village happily.

SP Ganga Ram Punia said no evidence was found against the accused during the investigation and the case was cancelled. "A cancellation report has already been submitted," the SP added.

Youth found dead at girl's residence

TRIBUNE NEWS SERVICE

KARNAL, JULY 2

A 20-year-old youth was allegedly found dead at the house of a minor girl at Kalheri village in the Gharaunda block. His body was found hanging from a ceiling fan, said the police.

The deceased has been identified as Avnish, a resident of Balhera village. He ran a mobile repair shop at Barast village. Suspecting it to be an honour killing case, his family members alleged Avnish was murdered by family members of the girl, who was his friend.

"We have registered a case against brother, mother, and seven other persons under Sections 302, 148 and 149 of the IPC," said Mohan Lal, SHO, Gharaunda.

The statement of the girl was being recorded, he said, adding that the post-mortem examination would be conducted on Saturday.

He said the family members alleged that Avnish had gone to the house of the 17-year-old girl, where her family members killed him and later hanged his body.

Chautala to move EC over 6-year ban

PRADEEP SHARMA

TRIBUNE NEWS SERVICE

CHANDIGARH, JULY 2

After his release from jail, five-time Chief Minister and INLD patriarch Om Prakash Chautala is eyeing active politics again.

For this, the INLD will formally move the Election Commission (EC) to reduce or waive the six-year ban on Chautala from contesting poll under the Representation of the People Act, 1951.

Section 11 of the Act empowers the EC "to reduce or remove disqualification of a convicted leader for reasons to be recorded". Usually, a leader convicted of corruption is barred from contesting elections for six years after release from jail.

In fact, there was a precedent in 2019 when Sikkim Chief Minister Prem Singh Tamang's disqualification was sharply reduced to just a year and a month by the EC.

Meanwhile, the Ellenabad Assembly byelection had provided an opportunity to

TRAFFIC CONGESTION ON EXPRESSWAY

supporters gathered at Gurugram-Delhi border to welcome party supremo OP Chautala who was released from Tihar jail on Friday. The supporters throwing all Covid protocols to the wind stood at the border to welcome Chautala's cavalcade, leading to major traffic congestion on the expressway. Supporters shouted slogans, got on cars and waved INLD flags.

MAY CONTEST FROM ELLENABAD SEAT

If the EC allows Chautala to contest the elections, he will definitely contest from his traditional Ellenabad seat.

SECTION 11 MAY COME TO EX-CM'S RESCUE

■ Section 11 of the Representation of the People Act, 1951, may come to the rescue of Chautala. The Section empowers the EC to remove or reduce the period of disqualification of a convicted politician

■ Usually, there is a bar of six years on convicted politicians to contest polls. In 2019, the EC had reduced Sikkim CM Prem Singh Tamang's disqualification period the INLD to move the EC to provide relief to Chautala to contest the polls.

In fact, the former Chief Minister's son Abhay Chautala had resigned from the Ellenabad Assembly seat to express solidarity with farmers against the three farm laws in January 2021 and bypoll is set to held for this segment in a few months.

"The EC had allowed Tamang to contest the polls only after 13 months after release from jail. If the EC allows Chautala to contest the elections, he would definitely contest from his traditional Ellenabad seat," INLD secretary-general Abhay Chautala said.

Chautala had made his debut in the Haryana Assembly through a bypoll from Ellenabad in 1970.

Party sources said the end of Chautala's term would provide the veteran leader an opportunity to devote his full time for the revival of the INLD which is passing through its worst crisis.

"The ongoing farmers' agitation against farm laws and anti-BJP and JJP sentiments would provide fertile ground for Chautala to revive the INLD which currently does not have any legislators in the Haryana Assembly," party sources added.

"As people lost their jobs and their earnings were affected, they were not able to pay interest in time last year. We give one additional month to clear the dues. If that is not honoured, we are left with no option but to auction the pawned gold," said Manish Sharma, branch manager, Manapuram Finance, Burail (Chandigarh).

Experts are of the view that the auctions would likely to be more in the coming months when gold loans with one-year tenure mature.

Chinese belligerence

Xi Jinping's warnings don't augur well for world peace

CHINESE President Xi Jinping's keynote address at the ceremony to mark the centenary of the Communist Party of China (CPC) was peppered with stern warnings to foreign powers. Adopting a holier-than-thou attitude, he asserted that the forces which would attempt to bully, oppress or subjugate China would find themselves 'on a collision course with a great wall of steel forged by over 1.4 billion Chinese people' and even 'get their heads bashed'. The imagery was violent, the message was loud and aggressive: mess with China at your own peril. Though Xi did say, albeit far from convincingly, that China had always worked to 'safeguard world peace, contribute to global development, and preserve international order', his speech made it amply clear that the Dragon was in no mood to tone down its belligerence. The ceremony itself was a massive show of strength, with the CPC showcasing the PLA (People's Liberation Army) Air Force's J-20s, regarded as the most advanced stealth fighter jets in the world.

Xi Jinping has unequivocally spelt out the Chinese agenda: the 'reunification' of Taiwan with the mainland; making China a great, modern socialist country; and accelerating the modernisation of China's armed forces. These interlinked goals indicate that China is prepared to plough its own furrow, regardless of adverse international opinion, in the post-Covid world. Of course, there are few takers for China's 'I'm not the aggressor' rant, least of all India, which has repeatedly experienced Chinese duplicity and aggressive posturing.

Instead of treating the centenary as an opportunity for introspection and stock-taking, the CPC has persisted with self-congratulatory showmanship aimed at overwhelming the rest of the world. The all-powerful Xi Jinping, who holds the top three posts in China — President, General Secretary of the CPC and Chairman of the Central Military Commission — is bent on ruling the country with an iron hand and pursuing a hardline foreign policy. Such tactics could usher in a dangerous era of rampant Chinese expansionism on the military and economic fronts. The comity of nations needs to be more firm and watchful than ever to ward off any threat to the global order.

Alarmingly warm

Record-smashing temperatures in US, Canada a wake-up call

THE dangers and after-effects of climate change are manifesting themselves with increasing frequency, more intensity and longer duration all over the world. As per a US study, the number of heat waves striking America in 2010 had climbed to six per year, from two per year around 50 years ago. The latest to feel the heat are northwest US and western Canada which are reeling under a heat wave. It is believed to have been caused by the heat dome that was formed due to the cocktail of high atmospheric pressure, climate change and drought. These factors are conducive for trapping the heat and keeping the air warm, like a lid on a cooking pot does.

People in cities like Seattle, Portland, Vancouver and Surrey that normally enjoy pleasantly mild summer temperatures (ranging from 11 to 22°C) — with most homes not even requiring a fan — are scrambling for ACs as the mercury has soared to breach the sizzling 46-degree mark. The 49.6°C recorded in Lytton, British Columbia, was five degrees hotter than Canada's earlier highest temperature of 84 years ago. The region has registered a sudden spike in deaths and it is being related to the roasting conditions and hyperthermia. The blazing heat has imperilled crops and some roads and other structures are cracking and crumbling as they are not resilient enough to withstand such excessive heat.

The global warming-induced extreme weather events are a matter of concern and call for urgent remedial measures as they upend life and infrastructure with little warning. India is no stranger to the devastation wreaked by climate change. It has been suffering floods more frequently in the recent times due to the melting glaciers and receding coastlines. Unusually hot and longer summers are becoming the norm. The efforts to halt the warming of our planet — it has become dangerously warmer by more than 1°C since 1900 — are, unfortunately, not enough to lower the rate of carbon emissions. Concrete steps are needed to leave a liveable planet endowed with enough essential resources for the generations to come.

LAHORE, SUNDAY, JULY 3, 1921

SARDAR SARDUL SINGH'S CASE-II

If the Magistrate's interpretation of the word "zor" is abused, his attempt to interpret another passage, in which the accused, after considering the suggestion about the use of force in all its bearings, rejects it, as being itself an incitement to the use of force is obviously worse. We cannot do better than quote the passage in full: "Nowadays, we cannot reform a Mahant by force or the Government if they commit any mischief. The sword has been taken away from our hands and we are not so united as to be able to fight a great power with arms. Had we been able to do so no one would have ventured to disgrace our temples. It is painful to boast of strength when there is none. Under these circumstances, whoever advocates the use of force is the enemy of the Sikhs or a fool. When I see my country, race and religion suffering from such cruelties I often think that the sword should be used to reform the tyrants; after calm meditation, I come to the conclusion that in our present condition of weakness and disunion it is sinful even to think of the use of the sword." This the Magistrate interprets to mean, "We would use force if we could, had the sword not been taken away from us," which, in his opinion, is inconsistent with loyalty to the Government. Now this is what the words do not mean. They only give a reason, it may be only one reason out of several, for which in the opinion of the writer, the suggestion about the use of force is "sinful," and the man who makes it is "either an enemy of the Sikhs or a fool." The forced construction which the Magistrate puts upon the passage not only shows the mentality he brought with him to the trial of this important case, but, if accepted, would make end of all independent criticism, in which both sides of a question are looked at fairly and squarely.

Next step — J&K statehood

Effective administration calls for Gandhian nationalism of assimilation

NOUS INDICA
RAJESH RAMACHANDRAN

THE THAW: The PM's all-party meeting ought to be seen as a shifting of gears from the campaign mode to the administrative mode. PTI

The mistake we often commit is to place J&K in the vortex of the subcontinent's geopolitics and think of the Valley as some sort of prize for subcontinental power games.

automatic weapons and running all over Mumbai's iconic buildings on live TV only proved the Parivar at least partially right. But this politics of hatred is more suited for campaigning than governance. It seems this realisation, more than anything else, prompted the Centre to invite J&K's mainstream politicians to sit across the table and talk.

We fail to understand that politically, J&K is simply the most important Indian province. Everything that happens or does not happen there has an exaggerated resonance in the kind of politics that successful politicians have been playing in the rest of the country for a long time. The symbolism of the abrogation of Article 370 soon after the second Modi government took oath was proof of the centrality of J&K in the Sangh Parivar politics. In Bihar, UP, Maharashtra, Kanyakumari and wherever else the Sangh Parivar campaigners could gain listeners, they had been talking about the differential treatment of a Muslim-majority territory to drum up electoral support for Hindutva. The visitors from Pakistan wielding different nations can only create riots and at worst a nuclear holocaust — they cannot govern. Effective administration calls for Gandhian nationalism of assimilation and reconciliation.

The PM's all-party meeting ought to be seen as a shifting of gears from the campaign mode to the administrative mode. Strategically and emotionally, J&K cannot be reduced to a UT, it has to remain one of the most important states of the Indian Union; a state for which India goes to war and continues to bleed. Hence, it was a welcome sight to see all the real mass leaders of J&K sitting across the table with the PM and the Home Minister, making just demands on behalf of the people they represent. Thankfully, the Centre has shed its doubts about the real representatives of the people of J&K and has also abandoned its harebrained plan to create a new leadership there. The failure of the Parivar to create its own platform in J&K, Tamil Nadu or Kerala should be accepted as the vibrancy of our inherent diversity and the Centre should not hold it against Indian citizens living in these provinces.

The people of J&K too ought to understand and appreciate their leadership, which suffered incarceration for the sake of their democratic ideals. The local mainstream political leadership — unlike the separatists, who keep looking at Pakistan for investments and instructions — proved true to the people. These politicians have been representing Muslims and Hindus of J&K alike and are Indian nationalists who need to be nourished, not jailed. Sure, there could be corrupt, vile, compromised elements among them — but isn't that the norm in an electoral democracy? Demonising them is to create a vacuum in which only separatism thrives.

With the China-Pakistan Economic Corridor turning into a subcontinental military arc, India needs effective governance in J&K, not a garrison state. Democracy in J&K upheld by its people who elect their representatives under the Indian Constitution is the best antithesis to Chinese concentration camps in Xinjiang and the Sino-Pak military authoritarianism. If it was the fear of the free India turning against British interests that pushed the colonial administration to create Pakistan (as Narendra Singh Sarila brilliantly argues in his book The Shadow of the Great Game) and prompted Major Brown to raise the Pakistan flag in Gilgit, similar concerns ought to force the US-UK-Japan-EU combine to rethink their strategy for the Persian Gulf and the Indian Ocean.

China is flexing its muscles to establish its hegemony on land and sea encircling India, and also threatening the Persian Gulf. With the US withdrawal from Afghanistan, the possibility of China emerging as a regional hegemon, aided by Putin's Russia, is very stark. So, beyond the Quad, it is imperative for the Western intelligentsia to stop romanticising religious separatism and to strengthen democratic forces. Democracy won WW-II and it ought to win all future wars, and nothing ensures democracy more than Gandhian inclusiveness.

With the June 24 meeting, the Centre has taken the first step, the next is to restore statehood.

Yoga for practice, not gimmickry

Lt GEN ZAMEER UDDIN SHAH (RETD)

I HAVE always believed that the primary aim of yoga was physical wellbeing and mental peace. I was fortunate to have met my 'guru' while serving as an instructor at the Officers' Training School (now Officers' Training Academy) in 1972.

Earlier, while serving with a camel artillery regiment, I had sustained a spinal injury while jumping off a rutting camel. It gave me discomfort after a long session in a chair. One day, my guru-to-be observed this and asked if I had a back problem. When I nodded, he said he would set it right through yoga. He asked me to come to his room at 5 am. Both of us were bachelors and living in the Officers' Mess.

I went as directed and for the next six months, he taught me several asanas and cured my back problems for life. Finally, he asked me if I was doing yoga for health or wanted to become a yogi. When I told him it was for reasons of health, he said I did not need any more lessons. He, however, advised me to refrain from smoking (which I had given up in NDA because of the demands of boxing).

The second demand was that I abstain from alcohol. This was accepted since I have been a lifelong teetotaller. The third was that I become a vegetarian. I said this was not possible, so we compromised on two out of three conditions. I, in turn, asked him why he called me so early every morning. He laughed and replied that the moment people came to know that he was a practicing yogi, they invariably asked for tips. There are no 'yoga-made-easy' lessons, so he would summon them early to ascertain if they were genuinely interested. Very few would turn up. I did benefit and have practised yoga for half a century now.

His instructions were limited to the alignment, breathing patterns, focus of the mind, and other guidelines around the asanas and their benefits.

We practised on the ground, on a jute mat. He also stressed that there should be simplicity, no gimmickry and any teacher who demanded a fee should be given a wide berth. He also did not favour difficult, unnatural postures performed by contortionists.

On International Yoga Day, I was shocked to see photographs of BSF personnel performing yoga on camels lying prone on the ground with their limbs bound together. The ITBP, not to be outdone, performed 'pony' yoga. There was a storm of protest on Twitter. A retired officer, attempting to defend his erstwhile force, tweeted that BSF camels were taught yoga in addition to evasive action (probably under enemy fire). I have witnessed BSF camels sitting immediately under fire and 'crawling' under cover. The BSF camel contingents are the pride of the Republic Day parade.

The BSF battalions that served under my command in insurgency-hit areas performed creditably. This gimmickry detracts from the fine standards of this paramilitary force.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

One-man rule

With no immediate threat to overthrow it, the CPC can congratulate itself as the most successful communist party in history that single-mindedly converted a weak and poor China into a technologically advanced superpower. All of this has, however, come at a great cost to the Chinese people. The CPC has maintained its grip over power through a vast and intimidating organisation and at the cost of the individual liberties and rights of the people. It has arrogated to itself the position of China's sole ruling party, and its leadership controls the government and all organs and instruments of the state.

Its model can only appeal to a few authoritarian regimes and leaders in other countries. The idea that one man controls the party, the government and the military, and a small clique of men surrounding him, none of whom have been elected by the people, should be able to determine the daily lives and destinies of 1.4 billion people is so out of place in the 21st century.

N SADHASIVA REDDY, BENGALURU

False grandeur

Apropos of '100 years of CPC', it isn't a good intellectual exercise to create a halo of grandeur around the Communist Party of China (CPC). Its contribution is seldom noticed to promote peace and harmony along its borders. Changing the course only under adverse circumstances is its sole pattern to rule. The adoption of the single-child policy was an effective instance of this pattern. The global community is trying to undermine its own self-esteem by unnecessarily getting impressed by the presence of the CPC. It deserves congratulations only for completing a century of rule.

KAPIL SHARMA, KAITHAL

Kejriwal's shenanigans

Five years of political power against a promise of 300 units of free electricity power is not a bad bargain ('Punjab reels under long unscheduled power cuts'). Kejriwal has declared in an interview that he would provide 300 units of free power to each consumer in Punjab if his party came to power in the state. I would like to ask: Does his political outfit, AAP, generate power from its own resources for free distribution? If not, then what would he have done in a situation like this in Punjab? The people should be wary of such shenanigans. It is akin to purchasing votes on the promise of freebies. Once in the saddle, they enjoy five years of political power with impunity.

RUP VERMA, JALANDHAR

Power agreements

The PSPCL is victim of flawed power purchase agreements. The Congress had shouted from the rooftops before the elections to cancel the same once voted to power. What happened thereafter is there for all to see. All have been talking about the cancellation of agreements, but no one talks about fixing responsibility. The revenue lost should be recovered from them and refunded to the PSPCL. Why should consumers be penalised for agreements which have destabilised their domestic budget?

RAVINDER SINGH, JALANDHAR

Plan & execute

In reference to 'What other states can learn from Tamil Nadu'; it is a good move by CM Stalin to have on board the Economic Advisory Council the best brains like Raghuram Rajan and S Narayan. They can guide the state government to collect and manage revenue in a better way. The real challenge is to execute these plans and policies. He should also form a good field force for better execution.

RAJESH GOYAL, BY MAIL

Not guilty

Refer to the release of Assam MLA Akhil Gogoi by the NIA court after 19 months in prison over charges clamped under the UAPA for his alleged role in the anti-CAA protests; numerous are such cases where persons are acquitted after spending years in prison for suspected crimes. Should not some branch of prosecution be held accountable for such injury to the free life of citizens? It's fashionable to state that no innocent man should be punished even if a guilty one escapes penalty, but in reality it is a different story.

LALIT MOHAN SHARMA, DHARAMSALA

Augment vaccination

Reference to 'Focus on planning vaccine drives, not creating panic: Harsh Vardhan'; it is true that by panicking, our vaccination drive will only lose traction. It is imperative that all governments work in sync to accomplish the desired target of vaccination. The state governments cannot be held responsible for the dearth of vaccines. The drive can get fillip if the Centre procures 100% vaccination from the manufacturers. Moreover, door-to-door inoculation can accelerate the vaccination drive. Simultaneously, health infrastructure ought to be reinforced on priority.

Congress struggling to set its house in order

RASHEED KIDWAI
SENIOR JOURNALIST AND AUTHOR

THE Congress is not imploding. It is just that the intense power struggle among various competing interests in the grand old party has entered a decisive phase.

Assisting Rahul in the endeavour is Priyanka Gandhi, the in-house crisis manager. Priyanka has subtly elevated Rahul as a 'supreme leader' of sorts by meeting disgruntled leader Navjot Singh Sidhu first and then helping him have an audience with Rahul. The subtext for the party leaders was clear — they would get to meet Rahul only after placing their cards on the table and professing loyalty to the young Gandhi.

Sonia Gandhi, Congress' longest serving party chief, now seems to have begun discarding her focus on unity within the party at all costs, consensus-building and attempts to carry everyone along. The realisation has come after her rather uneventful stint as AICC's 'interim president' from August 2019, that her son Rahul and daughter Priyanka have a different temperament to run the party organisation. Sonia has reportedly conveyed once again to senior party leaders that she would not like to continue as interim chief, even for a day beyond August 10. As per the Congress constitution, the interim chief, in any case, is not supposed to have a tenure beyond a year.

There is more trouble brewing. The Hoodas versus Selja in Haryana; Siddaramaiah versus DK Shivkumar in Karnataka; Bhupesh Baghel versus TS Singhdeo in Chhattisgarh; Kamal Nath versus Ajay Singh in Madhya Pradesh; are part of a rather long list of disputes that require Rahul-Priyanka's intervention. In addition, the poll preparations for Punjab, Uttarakhand, Uttar Pradesh and Goa need a clearance from the Congress high command. The Congress' handling of social media and mainstream media, television news etc. has been coming under a lot of criticism from within and outside. Rahul is under pressure to take some drastic and urgent steps. That all is not well in the Congress was evident in the manner a recent virtual meeting took place in the presence of Sonia Gandhi. A discussion on Congress' social media strategy took an ugly turn even as Sonia watched stoically, if not hopelessly. It happened when a section of the Congress began praising Rahul's 'White Paper' on Covid-19 management against the Narendra Modi government on June 22. Someone intervened to say that on YouTube, it was watched merely by a few thousand people (current viewership is over 55,000) even though the Congress' own membership would be a few millions or lakhs. An attack on social media head Rohan Gupta followed. Except for KC Venugopal, nobody came to the rescue of Gupta who had owed his allegiance to Ahmed Patel. Towards the end of the discussions, Priyanka Gandhi too reportedly agreed that the social media campaign required a fresh impetus.

It is worth recalling that in the 13 years that the mother-son duo worked together between 2004 and 2017, there were many occasions when Rahul's vision and course of action were overturned and withdrawn by Sonia. The most glaring cases were Rahul's initial thrust on the restoration of inner party democracy. Senior Congress leaders, also known as the old guard, worked overtime to advise Sonia to confine Rahul to the Youth Congress, NSUI and Sewa Dal. Rahul remained busy as the party general secretary in charge of these frontal organisations, while the main party organisation remained unaffected.

The question now is whether Rahul would get a chance to work as per his political instincts. Would it lead to a revival of the Congress is something that only the future can tell. Rahul seems to believe in Om Swami's quote that "Success by design is infinitely better than a win by chance."

Climate risks call for green financial system

AJAY SAGAR

FINANCIAL ANALYST

It is essential to assess and address climate risk concentrations as financial systems may be underprepared. Monetary policy affects stakeholder behaviour and economic activity. It now needs to reflect a green footprint away from fossil fuels. Is the RBI ready for a green monetary policy? India's financial regulators will soon need to start making public their position on climate-related financial risks. Postponement of a green monetary policy is not an option any more.

CLIMATE risk poses a great challenge to a country's financial system, making regulators concerned. Investors are assessing climate risks in making investment decisions. Banks are feeling the pressure to offer green deposits, investment and loan products. Some serious questions are emerging. How will the balance sheet of my pension fund look when I retire? In what manner will my life's savings and deposits contribute towards climate change? Are current disclosures by corporates meaningful or just patchwork? Do they achieve the purpose that they are set up for? How will stakeholders understand a company's emissions? How will carbon emissions be aggregated and reported?

Are climate risks in the financial system the domain of a central bank or the federal government? Are political institutions best placed to handle climate-related financial stability issues? Despite divergent views, there is a consensus that the financial system is exposed to systemic risks from extreme climate events requiring central banks to be prepared. Adverse climate events could potentially shift a major part of the economy on a central bank's balance sheet. There is urgency for a long-term action plan to address transition stretching beyond the political mandate of an elected government. The need is to identify potential climate risks that can hamper a country's financial system, infrastructure and housing investments.

Climate risks are uncertain and irreversible. With increasing frequency and severity, climate disasters have the potential to rupture economic activity, financial system, monetary policy, price stability, inflation and interest rates. Any corresponding reduction in asset values will impact banks, investors, lenders and capital markets. Payments and the clearing system could be affected. The challenge is unique. Recognising this, financial regulators worldwide have voluntarily established a network for greening the financial system (NGFS). This consensus-driven forum has a mandate to share best practices to foster a greener financial system.

Despite the recognition of climate risks and rising temperature, stakeholder response in past decades has been dominated by paying lip service, short-changing environment and 'greenwashing', generating public distrust. The word 'greenwash' entered the dictionary in the 20th century. It means disinformation dissemination to present an environmentally responsible public image. Governance agenda worldwide needs to urgently tackle environmental insincerity. Investors need to be equipped with tools, instruments and products for making climate-smart investments. Rating agencies have now launched an ESG (environmental, social and corporate governance) evaluation initiative due to the rapidly rising demand to apply ESG lens to investing. Underwriting standards need revision to account for climate risks.

Supervisors need to promote investor awareness, research into climate-safe investments, listing of green bonds and facilitate retail green deposits. Despite a rapid growth in green bond issuance volume, market remains in its infancy lacking certification, use of proceeds and disclosure parameters. Standards developed until now lack any regulatory backing. Switzerland-based Bank for International Settlements (BIS) has advocated a case for developing a rating system linked to carbon intensity at the firm level. Regulators are working on common guidelines for issuance and certification of green bonds. EU has proposed a draft of green bond standard for voluntary compliance. The UN has mandated a CFO (chief financial officers) taskforce to provide recommendations for mainstreaming sustainable investments. International rating agencies are gearing up to embed climate risk in assigning sovereign risk ratings. A business-as-usual approach, relying on implicit or explicit guarantees to depositors, will not suffice. Globally, a few regulators have commenced work on linking bank deposit insurance to greening parameters. Central banks are examining options to tweak risk weightage on securities and reserves in favour of green investing.

A recent IMF study highlighted that climate change physical risk does not appear to be reflected in global equity valuations. Current asset values may be missing on climate risks. Seeing benefits, the private sector is playing a pivotal role in developing climate resilience. India's large conglomerate Reliance recently gave a timeline to go net carbon-neutral by 2035, much earlier than BP Shell's timeline of 2050. HDFC bank declared its intent to go carbon-neutral by 2032. Benefits come in the form of brand value creation, skill enhancement and retention, boosting employee morale, access to capital markets and increased market capitalisation. Company boards could become climate-savvy by sensitising themselves on climate governance to fulfil their oversight and directional role.

Recently, New York's insurance regulator mandated insurers to beef up governance by making a board committee or a senior functionality responsible to address potential climate risks in solvency and risk assessments.

Mere AAA rating of central bank reserves is not enough. Financial safety of reserves is incomplete unless blended with safety from climate risks. Central banks now need to invest in climate-resilient AAA reserves that provide the highest degree of safety and are liquid. Charity begins at home and Ireland's central bank took the first step by disclosing its investment in green bonds. This initiative will help reflect true asset valuations by capturing financial risks related to climate risks. Insurers, private equity, pension and hedge funds are now demanding climate-related financial disclosures.

Earlier, 100 institutional investors holding $1.8 trillion in assets asked top 60 banks for robust climate-risk disclosures. Quality disclosures could convincingly move investors' free will towards green investing. Central banks are examining equating or giving climate-related data the same status as accounting disclosure. There is also a move to consider pricing carbon risk in the context of syndicated bank loans. Carbon intensity data can help capture the severity of financial impact of tightening carbon emission policies.

It's essential to better assess and address climate risk concentrations as financial systems may be underprepared. Monetary policy affects stakeholder behaviour and economic activity. It now needs to reflect a green footprint away from fossil fuels. Is the RBI ready for a green monetary policy? India's financial regulators will soon need to start making public their position on climate-related financial stability risks. Postponement of a green monetary policy is not an option any more. The IMF has started engaging countries to assess stability risk arising from climate risks. NITI Aayog could help coordinate the initiative. Left unchecked, a transition risk can cause ripples in the financial system and market failures. India needs to be at the forefront of greening the financial sector agenda.

Swiss great gets his sparkle back as sun shines at Wimbledon

Roger Federer defeated Richard Gasquet 7-6(1) 6-1 6-4 in their second round match. REUTERS

LONDON, JULY 2
The sun finally came out at Wimbledon on Thursday and eight-time champion Roger Federer got his old sparkle back on centre court to eclipse Richard Gasquet and move serenely into third round. It was not quite vintage Federer, but the 7,500 fans packed around his favourite court did not care as the Swiss gave them plenty to ooh and aah about in a 7-6(1) 6-1 6-4 victory.

The 39-year-old Swiss took a while to find his timing. But after taking the opener, the sixth seed moved smoothly through the gears and Gasquet could not live with him as the Frenchman suffered an 11th successive defeat against Federer, a run dating back to 2011 in which he has not even won a set.

It was in marked contrast to

Tuesday evening when persistent rain meant Federer's first round clash with another French player, Adrian Mannarino, took place under the centre court roof and looked to be slipping away from the Swiss. He eventually got through when Mannarino suffered a knee injury.

Didn't meet Adhikari, says SG as Trinamool seeks his removal

TREBUNE NEWS SERVICE

NEW DELHI/KOLKATA, JULY 2 Solicitor General Tushar Mehta on Friday denied having met West Bengal BJP leader and Narada scam accused Suvendu Adhikari even as he said the Leader of Opposition in the state Assembly had come to his residence unannounced.

"Suvendu Adhikari did come to my residence-cum-office yesterday around 3 pm unannounced. Since I was already in a pre-scheduled meeting in my chamber, my staff requested him to sit in the waiting room. When my meeting was over and thereafter my parliamentary private secretary (PPS) informed me about his arrival, I requested my PPS to convey to Adhikari my inability to meet him and apologise as he had to wait," he said.

"Adhikari thanked my PPS and left without insisting to meet me. The question of my meeting with Adhikari therefore did not arise," Mehta said in a statement.

Earlier, three TMC MPs wrote to Prime Minister

They alleged that Adhikari faced criminal cases of cheating, illegal gratification and bribery and was caught on camera taking bribes in a sting operation.

The TMC alleged that Adhikari, an accused in the Narada case and Saradha chit fund scam, went to meet the SG to influence the outcome of the cases.

Pointing out that the Solicitor General is the second highest law officer who advises government and its agencies on crucial legal matters, the MPs demanded that necessary steps should be taken for Mehta's removal to avoid any doubt in the minds of the public regarding the integrity and neutrality of the office of the Solicitor General.

Narendra Modi seeking Mehta's removal from the post of Solicitor General for meeting Adhikari — an accused in the Narada scam case being probed by the CBI, saying it amounted to conflict of interest.

The letter was signed by TMC Rajya Sabha MPs Derek O'Brien and Sukhen Sekhar Roy and Lok Sabha member Mahua Moitra.

No mention of violence, BJP disrupts Dhankhar's Address

TREBUNE NEWS SERVICE

KOLKATA, JULY 2 Amid protests by BJP MLAs led by Leader of Opposition Suvendu Adhikari, West Bengal Governor Jagdeep Dhankhar on Friday had to cut short his maiden Address in the Assembly after the state elections on the opening day of Budget session, completing it in just four minutes.

The BJP MLAs protested because there was no mention of post-poll violence in Bengal in the Governor's speech.

Dhankhar could barely speak for four minutes as BJP MLAs, carrying posters of alleged victims of post-poll violence, rushed to the well of the House to stage a protest.

Total nonsense: Dominica PM on Choksi 'abduction'

TREBUNE NEWS SERVICE

NEW DELHI, JULY 2 Prime Minister of Dominica Roosevelt Skerrit has rubbished as "total nonsense" the claims that his government was involved in the alleged abduction of fugitive diamantaire Mehul Choksi, who is wanted in India in the Rs 13,500-crore PNB Bank fraud case, from neighbouring Antigua and Barbuda, local media reported.

In his weekly programme, Skerrit noted that his government "would allow the court to carry out its process regarding Choksi" and gave the assurance that his rights and obligations would be respected, Dominica News Online said in a report.

Skerrit refuted the allegations of a plot between the Indian and Dominican Governments to kidnap Choksi from the neighbouring Caribbean country, where he was staying since 2018 as a citizen after fleeing India, and bring him to Dominica, the media house reported.

New pension plan for 30 lakh ex-servicemen

NEW DELHI, JULY 2

Around 30 lakh retired soldiers will now be moved to a new pension payment system which promises a seamless 'end-to end online facilitation' — from the initiation of pension to its disbursement.

Called the 'System for Pension Administration-Rashakha (SPARSH)', it will be implemented in phases with the first one from August 1, says the instructions issued by the office of the Principal Controller of Defence Accounts (Pensions), under the Ministry of Defence.

The existing system to sanction and disburse pensions process has several drawbacks. The three armed forces services don't even have a common form needed for paperwork to initiate pension for a retiring personnel.

There is manual intervention in processing the pension and the lacks centralised information for addressing queries of the pensioners.

term to end, which in the case of Uttarakhand is March 23, 2022. Rawat handed over the resignation letter to the Governor past 11 pm hours after returning from Delhi where he was summoned by the top BJP leadership on Wednesday.

The Uttarakhand BJP legislature party will meet Saturday to elect its new leader, who will be later sworn in as the next CM of the state where Assembly elections are due early next year. The meeting will be held under the chairmanship of BJP state president Madan Kaushik while Union Minister Narendra Singh Tomar will be the central observer.

To avoid another such situation, the BJP is expected to go with sitting MLAs as the next CM. The names of several legislators and ministers, including Satpal Maharaj, Banshidar Bhagat, Harak Singh Rawat, Dhan Singh Rawat, Pushkar Singh Dharmi and Ritu Khanduri, are doing the rounds to replace Tirath Singh.

Before leaving for Dehradun from Delhi (where he was summoned on Wednesday), Rawat met BJP chief JP Nadda to discuss the political situation and the need for his election to the state Assembly before September 10 to remain in office.

Tirath's resignation, meanwhile, comes amid reports of alleged deep divisions in various factions and the "three-CM jinx" the BJP faced in its earlier tenure in the state.

Tirath joins the long list of Uttarakhand CMs with short tenures. The BJP will have three CMs during this regime as well. Not just the BJP, no Congress CM barring ND Tiwari has been able to complete his term in Uttarakhand.

ULFA (I) must drop sovereignty demand: Sarma

GUWAHATI, JULY 2

Peace talks with the banned ULFA (Independent) outfit can progress if it is prepared to discuss grievances and issues other than sovereignty, Assam Chief Minister Himanta Biswa Sarma said. "ULFA (I) Chief Pares Barua insists that he will not discuss anything beyond sovereignty, but I have taken an oath to protect sovereignty. These two are irreconcilable," the CM added.

"If we can coin another term to discuss their grievances or various issues, then we can make some progress. There are many people who are working on the issue with the ULFA chief," Sarma said. — PTI
