Anti-lockdown protests erupt in UK, 100 held

LONDON, NOVEMBER 6

The police said on Friday that 104 persons had been arrested for holding large anti-lockdown protests in London. Covid restrictions have been imposed in the UK for the second time.

As soon as people started gathering, the Metropolitan Police directed them to go home. The arrests were made when people failed to comply with directions.

"A crowd of people chose to ignore the new regulations, to behave irresponsibly and meet in a dangerous manner. More than 100 of them have now been arrested and will have to face action," said Commander Jane Connors, leading the Met Police operation in central London.

"We are eight months into this pandemic and frankly, there can be no excuse for people to dangerously breach regulations that are in place to prevent further spread of Covid... I would continue to urge people across the city to stay safe and stick to the regulations," she said.

KIDS, ADULTS PRODUCE DIFFERENT ANTIBODIES

New York: Children and adults produce different types and amounts of antibodies in response to the novel coronavirus infection, according to a study that suggests the course of the infection and immune response is distinct in children, and most of them easily clear the virus from their bodies. NEW YORK, NOVEMBER 6

So far, the big reveal in the contest between President Donald Trump and former Vice-President Joe Biden is the extent of the cavernous divide between Republican and Democratic America, one that defines the nation, no matter which candidate ultimately wins.

Voters from both parties turned out in droves to pick the next President, but as they did, they found little agreement about what that President should do. Democrats and Republicans prioritised different issues, lived in different communities and even voted on different kinds of ballots.

Whoever emerges as the winner, that division ensures that the next President will face significant gridlock in Congress, scepticism about the integrity of the vote and an agitated electorate increasingly divided by race, education and geography. Even the vote count itself threatens to further split Americans.

Two days after polls closed, neither Trump nor Biden has earned the 270 electoral votes needed to win the presidency. The Republican incumbent is encouraging his supporters to protest outside counting locations still sorting through mail ballots—the method of voting preferred by many Democrats—while pursuing an aggressive legal strategy that could lead to further delays.

"Except for the Civil War, I don't think we've lived through any time as perilous as this in terms of the divisions," said historian Barbara Perry, the director of presidential studies at the University of Virginia's Miller Centre. Even after the 2000 election, when the Supreme Court ultimately intervened on Republican George W Bush's behalf, Democrat Al Gore quickly conceded and congressional leaders found areas of agreement on Capitol Hill.

FACEBOOK BANS 'STOP THE STEAL' GROUP

Oakland: Facebook on Thursday banned a large group called "Stop the Steal" that supporters of President Donald Trump were using to organise protests against the presidential vote count. Some members had called for violence, while many falsely claimed that Democrats are "stealing" the election from Republicans. AP

NETWORKS REFUSE TO AIR TRUMP ADDRESS

New York: ABC, CBS and NBC all cut away from President Donald Trump as he spoke from the White House to make an unfounded accusation that the presidential election was being stolen from him. Trump on Thursday tried to commandeer the nation's airwaves at a time when the evening newscasts are shown on the East Coast, day after the slow drip of vote counting revealed his leads in Pennsylvania and Georgia dwindling. MSNBC's Brian Williams also interrupted the President. Network personalities had sharply criticised Trump after his angry, middle-of-the-night speech. AP

WORST VIRUS-HIT COUNTIES VOTE FOR TRUMP

Washington: US voters went to the polls starkly divided on how they see President Donald Trump's response to the Covid pandemic, with a surprising twist: In places where the virus is most rampant now, Trump enjoyed enormous support. An analysis reveals that in 376 counties with the highest number of new cases per capita, the overwhelming majority—93 per cent of those counties—went for Trump, a rate above other less severely hit areas. Most were rural areas in the Dakotas, Montana, Nebraska, Wisconsin and Iowa. "Public health officials need to step back, listen to and understand the people who aren't taking the same stance," said Dr Marcus Plescia of the Association of State and Territorial Health Officials. ## Indian-Americans clash over policies

NEW YORK, NOVEMBER 6

A South-Asian support group for Democratic presidential nominee Joe Biden has slammed Donald Trump for tearing apart communities and failing to denounce white supremacy, while a strong Indian-American Trump supporter said the President had united minority communities, views that highlighted a clash between Indian-Americans over policies of the leaders.

'COMMUNITIES TORN APART'

Jay Kansara, former director of Director of Government Relations at the Hindu American Foundation and a Trump supporter said the President had done very well with Hispanic voters even though the Democrats were still trying to claim victory in states such as Michigan and Wisconsin. He said it was an indication that the Democrats had "simply not accepted the reality that Trump ... actually united minority communities — African Americans, Hispanic Americans, Asian Americans." Kansara was part of a discussion during a virtual post-election political analysis hosted by non-profit Indian diaspora organisation 'Indiaspora'. WhatsApp on Friday said it is rolling out its payments services in India after receiving nod from the National Payments Corporation of India (NPCI).

Facing scrap shortage, Punjab steel firms hike prices

Non-movement of goods trains due to farm unrest to blame | Consignments meant for state stuck

CHANDIGARH, NOVEMBER 6

Secondary steel producers in Punjab have increased the prices by Rs 3,000-Rs 4,000 per tonne in the past one month. According to sources, with goods trains off track in the state due to farmers' protest, the steel producers are facing shortage of scrap resulting in high prices.

On average, monthly consumption of steel in Punjab is around 6 lakh tonnes. Out of

The farmers' protest led to disruption in rail traffic. Besides impacting the arrival of steel in the state from primary steel producers, it also hit consignments of scrap meant for steel producers. This has led to increase in prices this, three lakh tonne is imported from primary steel producers. Another two lakh tonne is produced from scrap by steel companies in the state. As much as 70% of the scrap is imported and the rest is sourced from other states. Further, one lakh tonne of scrap is procured from within the state and is converted into steel.

The farmers' protest led to disruption in rail traffic. Besides impacting the arrival of steel in the state from primary steel producers, it also disrupted consignments of scrap meant for state-based steel producers. This has led to increase in prices," said sources.

"In the past one month, prices have increased by Rs 3,000-4,000 per tonne which is not sustainable. We are already facing labour shortage and high transportation cost as we are compelled to send consignments by road. The increase in steel prices has come as a dampener in the way of exports," said Amit Goswami, a Jalandhar-based exporter.

Exporters who have completed orders in hand are the worst hit as they are unable to execute the orders due to high steel prices. The increase in prices has hit steel-consuming industries such as bicycle, fastener, auto parts, sewing machines, machine tools and hand tools. The construction sector is also facing the heat as the cost of steel has increased manifold.

Badish Jindal, another industrialist, said primary steel producers located in other parts of the country have also increased the prices.

Need 'tighter' norms for NBFCs

NEW DELHI, NOVEMBER 6

Asserting the need to recalibrate regulations for shadow banking sector, RBI Deputy Governor M Rajeshwar Rao on Friday said NBFCs with significant externalities and which contribute substantially to systemic risks must be identified and subjected to a higher degree of regulation.

"One can also argue that the design of prudential regulatory framework for such NBFCs can be comparable with banks so that beyond a point of criticality to systemic risks, such NBFCs should have incentives

ROPAR, NOVEMBER 6

Following an inquiry by the Central Bureau of Investigation (CBI) into the collection of 'goonda' tax, Mining Department Director Rahul Bhandari has recommended initiating disciplinary proceedings against five senior officials for "failing to contain illegal activities of mining contractors".

The five officials — then Ropar SDM Harjot Kaur, Assistant Superintendent of Police Ravi Kumar, Mining Department XEN Rupinder Singh Pabla, District Forest Officer Amit Chauhan and the Regional Transport Authority — were members of a joint inspection team constituted by then Deputy Commissioner Sumeet Jarangal in November last year to find out unauthorised nakas set up by 'goonda' tax mafia in Ropar ter to the Chief Secretary and other departmental heads for initiating disciplinary proceedings against the five officials. While Harjot Kaur, Kumar and Pabla are posted in other districts presently, Chauhan is still working as the Ropar DFO.

Bhandari also wrote to the Ropar SSP seeking action against five workers of a contractor who were found present on the illegal nakas by the team. The mafia had set up nakas in August last year at various places in the district to collect protection money from tippers loaded with sand and gravel. After the issue was highlighted in the media, the Ropar Deputy Commissioner formed a five-member committee to look into it.

Meanwhile, one Bachittar Singh moved the High Court seeking removal of the 'goonda' tax mafia from the district. Ropar Chief Judicial Magistrate had submitted a report to the court in March, confirming illegal nakas were operational in the district.

Following this, the court directed the CBI to investigate the matter. In its preliminary report submitted before the court on September 8, the CBI stated that the nakas had been set up in the past and recommended further probe.

Bhandari, in his letter to the Chief Secretary, has stated that the committee in its report had submitted that "the checking was being done by workers of contractors but no 'goonda' tax was being collected." Accordingly, the Mining Department XEN had filed an affidavit in the court. "The findings of the CJM and CBI didn't match with the report of the committee, hence the disciplinary proceedings against these officers," he said.

CHANDIGARH, NOVEMBER 6

After an unproductive meeting with Railways Minister Piyush Goyal over the issue of resuming the rail operations in the state, the Congress MPs will now seek intervention of Home Minister Amit Shah to assure the farmers that the Centre would continue with the MSP.

Sources in the government said apart from the issue of the MSP, the MPs would take up the issue of resuming the train operations, continuing with the rural development fund and initiating discussion with representatives of the farmers at an appropriate political level.

A senior party leader said assurance at the level of Prime Minister or the Home Minister could help assuage the farmers.

The state government also wants to point out that it has been persuading the farmers to lift the rail dharnas and it was not politically sponsored, the leader said.

AMRITSAR, NOVEMBER 6

Former minister and MLA Navjot Singh Sidhu today appealed to the state government to prepare a roadmap to address the agrarian crisis that had arisen due to the newly enacted farm laws.

To make farmers 'self reliant', Sidhu said a 'small farmers' model' should be constituted. He said the state never offered a procurement model for any other crop, apart from wheat and rice, and lacked storage capacity or marketing ability.

"The state should come forward for the farmers' cause. A cooperative model should be there, in which the farmers will decide the crop pattern and sell the produce on their terms. I believe that in one to three years, the farming community will be able to stand on its feet," he said.

He said the Centre's tailor-made policies favoured corporate houses, which could never benefit the farmers.

"In the absence of storage facility, the farmers sell their crop at a throwaway price, fearing that it may get destroyed due to inclement weather conditions," he said. Battling for diversification of crops, he said it would motivate farmers to grow vegetables, fruit, oilseeds and pulses.

CHANDIGARH, NOVEMBER 6

After a year's wait, a young officer from Jalandhar who was serving on the frontline in the North East was looking forward to visit his family after he got a leave, but the disruption of rail movement in the state because of the farmers' agitation has dampened his plans.

The Captain, who was keen to celebrate the festival of lights in his home town, is now unable to travel to his village as no trains are being permitted to enter the state.

He is not alone in this predicament. There are thousands of armed forces personnel from Punjab posted all over the country who had planned to travel home during the festive season. Even those posted in Jammu and Kashmir are facing similar difficulties.

According to state government sources, around 1.5 lakh personnel in the armed forces belong to Punjab. "Even if 20 per cent of them have availed leave, the number of affected persons is quite high," a senior Punjab Government official said.

"Over the past few days, we have received a large number of queries from the military fraternity, seeking information of the situation and the possibility of travelling to the state, but there is little we can do to help them," he added.

Even those who want to travel from Jammu and Kashmir to other parts of the country are stuck as the only rail link from the newly created union territory lies through the narrow corridor along the Jammu-Patankot axis in the north-western corner of Punjab.

Earlier during the year, soldiers could not travel on leave due to the lockdown imposed in wake of the Covid-19 pandemic and some other restrictions imposed on grant of leave.

Earlier this week, Chief Minister Capt Amarinder Singh had written an open letter to BJP national president JP Nadda stating that the festering imbroglio could have dangerous consequences not just for Punjab but the entire nation, including the armed forces in Ladakh and Kashmir. He had also warned that the armed forces were likely to be badly affected with the onset of winter, as they could run out of supplies and other requisites once snow blocks the roads to Ladakh and Kashmir. Large quantities of supplies and equipment are moved to and from the western sector, areas in Jammu, Punjab and Rajasthan, via trains.

Even formations and units based in Punjab have been affected due to the suspension of rail traffic.

Govt inaction will lead to economic instability: Sukhbir

Tribune News Service

MUKTSAR, NOVEMBER 6

SAD chief and Ferozepur MP Sukhbir Singh Badal today told Chief Minister Capt Amarinder Singh "not to double cross Punjabis by playing a fixed match with the Centre" to delay the resumption of freight trains and simultaneously enforcing power cuts in Punjab to defame the ongoing agitation of farm organisations.

Interacting with mediapersons after holding a meeting with party men at Gidderbaha, Sukhbir alleged the Chief Minister did not want to resolve the ongoing crisis.

"This is the reason why Amarinder did not meet the Railway Minister or even the Prime Minister during his recent visit to Delhi. He wants this issue to linger on so that attention is diverted from the failures of his government. However, the Chief Minister is playing a dangerous ous game which can well push the state into an era of social unrest and economic instability," he said.

Sukhbir further said the Chief Minister would be personally responsible if farmers did not get power to sow the wheat crop.

"Even though power at cheaper price is available in abundance, the state government is not purchasing it and deliberately imposing power cuts to turn Punjabis against the farmer organisations," he claimed.

He also criticised the state government for its alleged delay in giving an undertaking to the Railway Ministry that all tracks were clear and that train services to the state should be restarted.

"Through the delay in giving the undertaking, Amarinder has not only caused a huge loss to the industry but also delayed the arrival of fertilisers needed for the wheat crop," he said.

'Saroop' row: Protesters' march to R'sthan foiled

ABOHAL, NOVEMBER 6

In the ongoing dispute regarding a 'saroop' of Guru Granth Sahib kept in a controversial religious place in a village, the Sriganganagar district administration today did not allow Sikh leaders of Punjab and Haryana to enter the city.

District Collector Mahabir Prasad Verma had late last night imposed prohibitory orders to maintain law and order and deputed 11 Executive Magistrates. Bikaner Division Commissioner Bhamner Lal also banned the Internet services late last night for 24 hours.

The 'Panj Pyaras' who brought a palanquin from Amritsar had to stay back in Punjab on the Abohal-Sriganganagar highway as the police had erected barricades near Sadhuwali village on the interstate border.

Hundreds of policemen were present throughout the day on the highway. Around 200 Sikhs staged a dharna near the border and demanded that they be allowed to move to Chak 11-G village to collect the 'saroop' from the controversial site. — OC

Ram Baas was the guest house for Patiala Maharaja's guests and is slated to be developed into a 28-room luxury boutique. "The palace will have all-day dining, bar, spa, and multiple indoor and outdoor banqueting spaces, etc," they said.

Tourism Minister Charanjit Singh Channi said the hotel would start functioning soon and the entire project had been given to the Punjab Infrastructure Development Board which was finalising the details. "The hotel will help us increase footfall and attract more tourists in the state," he said.

The commission ordered to make the payment along with 7 per cent per annum interest from the date of filing of the complaint till realisation along with litigation expenses of Rs 33,000.

The complainant being a minor had moved the complaint through his mother Dimple Sharma of Bajra Colony, Ludhiana. It was pleaded in the complaint that on April 18, 2013, person Amrit Raj fell down from the roof of the house. He was rushed to the hospital. The left arm was badly wounded and fractured.

The doctors without considering the gravity and nature of the injury, negligently cast the plaster on the fractured arm.

As a result, the patient felt continuous pain in the left arm due to the injury and tight plaster. The patient was discharged on April 19, despite the fact that there was pain in his arm. On April 20, the patient, along with his mother, visited the hospital and complained of severe pain, blisters and discolouration of skin. Dr Monika told them to wait till evening and assured that everything would be fine, but there was no improvement.

Later, the patient was discharged. After that he got admitted to the CMC Hospital, where his forearm had to be amputated as gangrene was spreading.

In their defence, the hospital authorities claimed the medical board constituted by the Civil Surgeon and subsequent medical board constituted on the orders of this commission held that there was no medical negligence on part of the hospital.

Sangrur villagers for VB probe into land transfer

TTRIBUNE NEWS SERVICE

SANGRUR, NOVEMBER 6

Gharachon village residents have written to Chief Minister Capt Amarinder Singh, seeking a vigilance probe into the transfer of 23 acres of panchayat land for the construction of a government medical college despite the opposition by the panchayat.

Last week, the Punjab and Haryana High Court directed the Department of Rural Development and Panchayats for a detailed reply after village sarpanch Gurmail Singh filed a petition against the transfer of land to the Department of Medical Education and Research without his consent.

"During a meeting on October 12, six of 12 members of the Gharachon panchayat rejected the proposal to transfer 17 acres of the panchayat land for the construction of a medical college on a public private partnership, which was against the law. But Panchayat department officials have got transferred 23 acres and we have written to the Punjab Chief Minister for a high-level inquiry," said Mukesh Malaud, zonal president, Zameen Prapati Sangharas Committee.

Malaud alleged Congress leaders in connivance with some officers wanted to take possession of the prime land. Gharachon residents said they would not allow the government to take an inch of their village land.

"Panchayat department officers got transferred 23 acres of the panchayat land without my consent. On my petition, the High Court has sought a detailed reply from the department," said Gurmail Singh.

Covid norms go for a toss in festive season

Spike in infections | 647 fresh cases, 14 deaths reported in the state

CHANDIGARH, NOVEMBER 6
The state is showing clear signs of Covid-19 raising its ugly head as people are throwing all caution to the wind now with the festive season kicking in. The upsurge in the Covid count continued today as 647 new cases and 14 deaths were reported in the state.

The cases are rising each day with the number of infections increasing by more than 100 in the past 24 hours. The number of deaths was, however, lower than yesterday. Till last week the number of daily cases was down to 300.

Medical experts believe that the number of cases is rising as more and more people have stopped following social distancing and abstaining from wearing masks. As marriages and socialising on account of the ongoing festive season increases, there is a resurgence of the contagion.

In the district-wise break up, the highest number of cases has been reported in Ludhiana (78), Mohali (75), Patiala (64), Jalandhar (62) and Bathinda (60). Fatehgarh Sahib, Hoshiarpur and Gurdaspur reported two deaths each, while Jalandhar, Kapurthala, Mansa, Moga, Tarn Taran reported one each.

The total number of persons in the state who have tested Covid positive so far are 1,36,481, while 4,295 have succumbed to the virus. As of date, 118 patients are on oxygen support, and 15 are critical.

Surinderpal's NRI daughter Rajwinder Kaur died while three persons were injured in the incident. Rajwinder had returned from Canada last week. The injured have been admitted to a private hospital while the girl's body has been sent to the Civil Hospital for a postmortem.

A police team reached the spot and on the statement of the injured, it registered a case against Bahia. The accused was also injured in the incident due to which he has not been arrested yet.

Dyalpura police station SHO Inspector Amanpal Singh Virk said, "In the preliminary investigation, it has come to light that the reason behind the murder is encroachment on land. We will interrogate the accused after arresting him."

Cong stir outside House

TREBUNE NEWS SERVICE

CHANDIGARH, NOVEMBER 6 Congress MLAs led by Congress Legislature Party leader Bhupinder Singh Hooda took out a march against the three farm laws before the start of the Assembly session on Friday.

The MLAs marched from the Punjab and Haryana High Court roundabout to the Assembly with placards. Shakuntala Khattar led the MLAs in raising slogans. Raghbir Singh Kadian, BB Batra, Kuldeep Vats and Pradeep Chaudhary also joined in.

"Our struggle against these laws will continue. These are black laws. We will speak on these inside the House. If we are not allowed, we will protest outside," Hooda told mediapersons.

He stated that the three farm laws would ruin farmers. "The mandi system and MSP will be abolished gradually. This will affect the poor who get ration from government depots. The common man will face the consequences. Hoarders are buying onion and tomato at meagre prices and selling these at between Rs 80 and Rs 100 per kg," he said.

"Chief Minister Manohar Lal Khattar has been toeing the Centre's line like a parrot," said Kadian. The MLAs were briefly stopped at the Assembly gate before they were allowed inside.

10% cost rebate for SC industrial plot allottee

CHANDIGARH, NOVEMBER 6

Chief Minister Manohar Lal Khattar on Friday announced that the government would provide a cost rebate of 10 per cent in case industrial plot of the HSIIDC was allotted to a Scheduled Caste (SC) candidate or he got a plot in an auction, provided he started operations within three years after allotment.

Khattar made this announcement in the Vidhan Sabha. He made it clear that the government had not abolished the quota for the SCs in the allotment of industrial plots in the past six years.

Khattar said farmers in the state were satisfied with the Pradhan Mantri Fasal Bima Yojana and despite the insurance scheme now being optional, they were coming forward to get their crops insured through some politicians were spreading rumours about the scheme.

In response to another question, Urban Local Bodies Minister Anil Vija said the government planned to install

Opposition tries to corner minister over liquor scam

CHANDIGARH, NOVEMBER 6

The Opposition tried to corner Home Minister Anil Vija on Friday over the overturning of his request to set up a special investigation team (SIT) and formation of a special enquiry team (SET) for investigation into liquor smuggling. The members took another dig at him as his request to empower the SET with Section 32 of the CrPC to record statements of witnesses had been overturned.

Abhay Chautala, INLD MLA, and Congress MLAs, including Kiran Choudhry, BB Batra, Surender Panwar, Jagbir Malik, Shamsher Singh Gogi, Aftab Ahmed, Kuldeep Vats and Shakuntala Khattar, had given a calling attention notice on liquor smuggling.

During the discussion, Vija said, "I had written for setting up an SIT, but an SET was formed. It worked so well and pointed out lapses. It named officials, including IAS and IPS officers. Notices have been issued to them."

Vija pointed out that the case had been sent to the Vigilance Bureau not registered any FIR? Where did the liquor go for which permits were issued during the lockdown? The liquor mafia cannot survive without the protection of the government. Most MLAs want a CBI inquiry," he said.

"No firm action has been taken against the IAS and IPS officers involved. During my tenure, CCTV cameras were approved for distilleries, but the department did not implement the decision. High-ups are involved," Choudhary said.

Vija said the police had arrested Ashok Jain, owner of NV Distillery, who had never been nabbed earlier. Panwar said the CBI being roped in to investigate the liquor scam, deaths due to spurious liquor would not have happened.

VIJ RAISES CONCERN OVER 'LOVE JIHAD'

Even as the Opposition tried to corner the government over rise in cases of dowry death, attempt to rape and harassment of women at public places and under the PNDT Act and Dowry Prohibition Act, Home Minister Anil Vija voiced concern over 'love jihad' during a discussion on Friday over the calling attention notice on Nitika Tomar murder case.

Replying to the discussion, Vija said, "I have ordered a probe from the angle of 'love jihad'. There have been complaints of luring women and forcing religious conversion. I have asked for data on change of religion after marriage and whether such couples are living peacefully since formation of Haryana."

"We have to see whether it is organised crime. We have to bring in a law on 'love jihad'. Any one can marry anyone and anyone can fall in love with anyone, but not for conversion," he added.

BILL FOR 50% QUOTA FOR WOMEN IN PRIs

■ The Assembly on Friday passed the Haryana Panchayati Raj (Second Amendment) Bill 2020, providing for 50 per cent quota for women in Panchayati Raj Institutions (PRIs), besides the right to recall them.

■ It is aimed at "ensuring adequate and equal representation in respect of gender in gram panchayats, panchayat samitis and zila parishads".

■ The Bill also seeks to provide reservation for backward classes belonging to the "A" category for the posts of sarpanch and member of panchayat samitis and zila parishads.

70 Covid cases in Kumarsain in 5 days, thanks to weddings

SUBHASH RAJTA

Tribune News Service

SHIMLA, NOVEMBER 6

As feared, instances of coronavirus spreading due to weddings have come to light. The Kumarsain region in Shimla district, which saw occasional Covid cases before October 20, has reported 70 cases and a few deaths in the first five days of November.

"One of the reasons for this sudden spike is the non-compliance of Covid protocols in some weddings," says Gurjeet Singh Cheema, SDM, Kumarsain. "When people come for permission we do counsel them about Covid SOPs and restrictions on the number of guests, but ensuring complete compliance of protocols is tough," he adds.

Locals, too, feel the wedding season has pushed the region into the grip of coronavirus. "We have had three weddings in my village, and two Covid deaths thereafter. Other villages such as Shathla, Mangsu have also seen Covid-related deaths after weddings," says Lalit Mohan, a native of Thanadar.

The lack of open and level spaces where guests could be accommodated and the culture of inviting almost everyone one knows make the weddings in upper Shimla dangerous during Covid times. "Most weddings are organised at home, and guests sit in rooms. As it has become cold here, rooms remain packed with guests, and only a few of them wear masks," says Lalit Mohan. "Now, you can imagine the outcome if there's even one infected person in a room," he adds.

And then, there's the culture of dancing, holding hands. "People dance together, whistling and shouting with joy in a small tent. Even those who want to practise social distance are pulled in. It's like normal times and social distancing is the last thing one's mind," says a local youth.

Many believe the government should not have relaxed the limit on the number of guests. Even though the number of guests is still capped at 200, the actual count could be anywhere between 500 and 1,000.

430 more found infected, four succumb to virus

Tribune News Service

The highest number of 121 cases were reported in Mandi, 92 in Shimla, 46 in Kinnar, 31 each in Solan and Una, 27 in Kullu, 26 in Kangra, 20 in Bilaspur, 15 in Chamba, eight in Lahaul-Spiti, seven in Hamirpur and six in Sirmour district.

Shikari Devi temple to be tourist site

SHIMLA, NOVEMBER 6

The government proposes to develop Shikari Devi Temple near Karsog in Mandi as a main attraction for tourists and devotees while preserving its pristine environment.

This was stated Chief Minister Jai Ram Thakur while presiding over a meeting of senior officers of the state government and Shikari Devi Temple Committee here today. He said stairs from Kangri to the temple were being constructed using locally available black slates. He said that adequate provision of funds would be made to ensure construction of stairs as well as railing.

Thakur said that proper sarai bawan would also be constructed by demolishing the earlier structure by using eco friendly material. This would provide better board and lodging facilities for the devotees. Rain shelters and resting sites would also be developed along the track. Adequate toilet facilities would also be provided at Bullah and Kangri to facilitate the visitors.

The Chief Minister said that beautification of the temple premises would also be carried out besides developing a park and recreation sites. The government would construct additional accommodation in the forest rest house. He said that the existing rest house would also be maintained well. — TNS

Dusty Barwas-Chauki-Mrigwal road in Paonta a health hazard

ROAD ROT

AMBika SHARMA

Tribune News Service

SOLAN, NOVEMBER 6

The deplorable condition of the Barwas-Chauki-Mrigwal rural road which abuts the National Highway-707 in Paonta Sahib subdivision of Sirmour district has become a major source of dust pollution for the residents.

"The road, which was repaired before the lockdown, has not only worn out at several places but the substandard work executed by the contractor has led to accumulation of dust on the surface," rued Sunil Chauhan, a resident. "It has become difficult to even walk on this road because of the plumes of dust which fly each time a vehicle passes. It is surprising to note that some repair work was executed only in the latter half of about 1.5 km of the road. The rains further worsened its condition as the potholes were filled with puddles of water and the commuters faced the worst inconvenience," added Chauhan.

"The contractor, who was assigned the work, has failed to execute it properly. The road is at its worst near Barwas village. A stretch of 3-4 km has little concrete patch left over its surface now," informed Pravesh Chauhan. Though large potholes were filled with cut stones before the rains in a bid to repair them, they caused further

He said the officials of the PWD have been apprised about the deplorable condition of this road time and again but to no avail. "A 15-day period has now been given to the officials to initiate repair work of the road failing which the villagers will sit on an agitation."

75% jobs for locals

Haryana Bill has unrealistic projections

IT is a tad unfair to attribute what may appear as outlandish populism in a political party's manifesto to pure electoral adventurism. The promise made, and delivered, could be based on appreciation and articulation of the concerns of a large section of the population, like the lack of employment opportunities. Andhra Pradesh, under its 'youthful' Chief Minister, did it first and now Haryana, apparently at the insistence and persistence of its even younger Deputy Chief Minister, has followed suit in the pursuit of reservation of 75 per cent jobs for residents of the state in the private sector. The Andhra initiative ran into legal hurdles, so could Haryana's. In backing coalition partner JJP in passage of the Bill, the BJP has given new meaning to the Prime Minister's 'vocal for local' slogan, something the party leaders in Delhi may not take kindly to.

The Haryana State Employment of Local Candidates Bill's potential to clear the test of constitutional correctness looks slim. There was no dearth of voices of dissent in the Assembly itself — that the proposed legislation violates the right to equality, opens floodgates of similar discrimination in the matter of jobs to Haryanvis elsewhere, goes against national integration. A former CM objected to the quota cap of any district in employment at 10 per cent. Industry leaders have been blunt about how the move could hurt the business-investor sentiment and encourage a gradual shift out of the state.

A unit opting for outside talent for jobs that pay up to Rs 50,000 a month is a reflection on the state's under-preparedness in skilling its youth. Recognising, and working on, the deficiencies seems a rational proposition. Imposing domicile, territorial and numerical conditions and expecting businesses to train under-qualified, unskilled candidates is an unrealistic projection. Such deliberation in the time of the pandemic defies logic. Job creation is a burden that weighs heavy on the government. The proposed legislation may score high on optics and intention, but the message is ambiguous for both the prospective employers and employees.

Covid resurgence

Exercising caution a must to contain fresh outbreak

AFRESH surge in Covid-19 cases reported from states like Delhi and Kerala raises questions about the handling of the pandemic. It seems little heed is being paid to the warnings of a second wave during the festival season, even as the crowds at election rallies in Bihar have demonstrated how caution has been thrown to the winds. The situation in Delhi had caused concern even earlier, prompting the government to set up a 10,000-bed facility. With the Union Health Minister, also the chairman of the WHO's executive board, representing a Delhi constituency in Parliament, the Capital ought to take the lead in containing Covid-19. Whether the present spike is linked to air pollution, which worsens in Delhi at this time of the year, should be ascertained, but it is incumbent on both the Centre and the state government to ensure that a spurt in cases is averted for resumption of economic activities is intertwined with lives and livelihoods.

The directive of the Supreme Court to ban or regulate the use of disinfection tunnels and the spraying of chemical or organic disinfectants on humans is welcome, but it also indicates that there is no clear view on the preventive measures. While the easing of the protocol will help in the revival of economy, basic safeguards should be in place to ward off the infection.

Several countries in Europe have opted to impose fresh regulations amid the prospect of a second wave of infection. But lockdowns are said to be effective only if imposed early and require careful unlocking, which calls for deft handling of the process. That Covid-19 has become a political issue is evident from the BJP chief lauding PM Modi for his grasp of the situation while implying that Trump's electoral setback was because of mishandling of the pandemic. It is all the more reason for the government to consult, coordinate and frame clear policies to put the country on the path of recovery.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

Vote for the man who promises the least, he will be the least disappointing. — Bernard Baruch

ON THIS DAY...100 YEARS AGO

The Tribune.

LAHORE, SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 7, 1920

MR. GANDHI ON THE CONGRESS CONSTITUTION.

IT is open to Mr. Gandhi to take or not to take any notice of adverse criticisms of parts of his programme or his activities, but if he does not take notice of them, what one ordinarily expects is that he will not only meet argument with argument but will choose for the purposes of his answer not the weakest but the strongest arguments on the other side. We are constrained to say that he has not followed this method in his reply, in the latest issue of Young India, to the criticism which the report of the Congress Constitution Committee has evoked. To begin with, he raises what appears to us to be a wholly irrelevant issue by questioning the representative character of the journals which have ventured to criticise certain parts of the revised Constitution, especially the proposed change in the creed. "The extraordinary situation that faces the country," he says, "is that popular opinion is far in advance of several newspapers which have hitherto commanded influence and have undoubtedly moulded public opinion." Whatever popular opinion is really "far in advance of several newspapers" is not very easy to determine. Many of us believe that it is not the opinion of the people which is far in advance of several newspapers, but the feeling of large numbers of people which is much stronger than what one would infer from the carefully restrained writings of those newspapers. So far as opinion goes, the difference is not as great as Mr. Gandhi's words would seem to indicate. But the question is, what has this to do with the criticism which these papers offered? Did any of them base their criticism on the ground of their representative character? We know of at least some cases in which the papers did not for once either directly or indirectly claim that the opinions they expressed were shared by the people generally. They took their stand solely on the merits of the question.

Deep fissures in US society

The election has revealed the great divisions at the core of people's beliefs &amp; polity

EX-SECRETARY, MINISTRY OF EXTERNAL AFFAIRS

THE US presidential election has been anything but smooth. The final result is not known but it clearly appears that Joe Biden is on his way to victory. President Donald Trump has made accusations of fraud in states where he was initially in the lead but Biden has all but caught up. His party has taken matters to the courts and he has announced that he will fight it out till the Supreme Court. It is mind-boggling that the world's greatest power with all its technological strengths has not been able to devise ways to ensure that results can become known in a predictable time-frame. Though the pandemic added to this election's complexities, including through a large number of postal votes, but that has not been the only cause of difficulties.

The archaic and decentralised system which allows states to determine election procedures results in lack of uniformity in the election administration. This may flow from the federal principle which is a cornerstone of the US political system, but may result in making election outcomes known in a predictable manner problematic, thereby generating uncertainty and adversely impacting not only the US, but also the world. The US President holds the most powerful political office of the world and uncertainties about who will hold it troubles the international community. The longer the delay in knowing this the greater the trouble. This is going to be so on this occasion because the process is getting involved in judicial proceedings.

This election has revealed the great and continuing divisions at the core of US society and polity. The split almost down the middle with a few percentage points advantage for

FOR &amp; AGAINST: President Trump did nothing to bridge the divide.

The election also shows the need for US electoral reform. In contrast, India, with all its complexities, is able to conduct elections smoothly and credibly.

Biden in the popular nationwide vote reveals the great abyss in society. This mirrors the 2016 election where Hillary Clinton had the leads but Trump won because of decisively beating her in the electoral college. Indeed, Trump's success in 2016 was largely on account of these great divides along several societal axes—education and skills, ideology, rural-urban and the great mass of people feeling helpless and hopeless in the midst of rapid technological change.

Trump did nothing to bridge these divides. Indeed, he consolidated them through his exclusivist policies under the rubric of America First. This appealed to his base which has stuck to him as is clearly indicated by this election. At this stage, too, instead of seeking to calm the country, Trump has done the opposite by asserting that his rival is robbing him of the election. Departing from convention—and throughout his term, he has shown complete disregard for conventions—Trump declared as initial results came in that as far as he was concerned, he had won the election!

No wonder some demonstrations are taking place with angry supporters of both parties reiterating the demands of their leaders: that counting of votes should stop (Trump), and that every vote should be counted (Biden). The difficulty is that the lack of uniformity in the counting process followed by different states and counties has led to the narrowing, if not reversal, of early leads in the swing states which decide the election. This raises doubts and suspicions, particularly as the counting is stretching in time. This election shows the great need for electoral reform in the US. It is noteworthy in contrast to the confusion that is prevailing in these elections, India, with all its complexities, is able to conduct elections smoothly and credibly. Indians seldom claim credit for their own processes, but this is one time to acknowledge the strengths of their own election administration system. This is not to suggest that there is no scope for improvement in them.

In sharp contrast to Trump, Biden is an establishment person well experienced in the ways of Washington. As Vice-President to Barack Obama, he stuck to the tradition of deference to his leader but was known for his political skills acquired in a 36-year career as a Senator. He has pledged to heal the divisions and certainly he will not be as erratic as Trump. The difficulty he will immediately face, if he does succeed, is that the Senate will continue to be in Republican hands. That will require him to work with that party to devise compromises on all fronts, including foreign policy.

Biden's first task would be to calm global nerves that have been frayed by four years of Trump's behaviour. The international community puts a premium on certainty and predictability of policy, especially of a superpower. With Trump, it has been on a roller coaster. This has been particularly the experience of US's European allies. He railed against NATO which has been the bedrock of the Atlantic Alliance in the security sphere. With China, too, Trump has only lately shown a full and stubborn desire for containment. Objective factors should compel an adherence to this approach, but with Trump, instincts come into play and these are not the best guides for foreign policy.

Biden would revert to the traditional US approach of strengthening the Atlantic Alliance and he will ensure greater stability in these important relationships. He will be strong on China, as demanded by US national interest, but his language and diplomatic methods will be less abrasive.

The two foreign policy initiatives of the Obama administration that Trump overturned related to climate change and the Iran nuclear question. Biden has already made it clear that he favours the US re-entry in the Paris climate accord. The international community will applaud this decision, but with the Senate under Republican control, it will be necessary for Biden to work out the details. Similarly, Biden is likely to reverse Trump's hostility towards Iran and may revert largely to the Obama approach, changing the dynamics of West Asia.

But first, the US election process has to come to a conclusion and that is likely to be drawn-out. America and the world are in for a painful wait.

From aversion to smart use

RAMA KASHYAP

I got my first mobile phone a little over a decade ago, not by choice, but it was thrust upon me. I was not keen on having a mobile, hence was reluctant to use it. However, once I became comfortable using it, I wanted to cling to my old set. On the insistence of my children, I upgraded to a smartphone, but the first few days with my iPhone were harrowing. I was baffled by its apps and intimidated by its unmet features. Of course, over time I got used to my smartphone, but for quite some time my usage remained limited to calls and messaging.

I was miserably slow in texting. Once while having online chat with my niece, as I struggled to trace and tap the right key to communicate with her, irritated at my slow speed, my niece texted, 'Bu, so gaye kya?' Despite my best effort, I was unable to match up with her speed.

Gradually my typing speed improved, but still remains pathetic. Presumptive dictionary has made texting much easier but I need to beware of auto-correct, which, at times, plays dirty tricks with me. An inadvertent tap and I land into an awkward situation. The worst has been the crazy auto-correct replacing 'dear' with 'dead', causing huge embarrassment.

The emergence of emojis is a boon. There are 'smileys' of all sorts — grinning, laughing, winking, frowning, and so many others that I cannot even figure them out. I use emojis to spice up text conversation — the limited ones that I comprehend.

Well, I have come a long way from being averse to having a cellphone to becoming a mobile addict. There was a time when I used to nag my sons for being on the mobile all the time, but now I am obsessed with it, frequently checking messages and updates on social media. In fact, it is only after my retirement that I have become active on Facebook, even though I had an account that remained dormant for years. Now that I have enough free time, I am occupied ticking 'likes', posting and commenting on the posts.

Thanks to Facebook, I have been able to get in touch with my old friends, reconnect with many of my students and make a few new friends.

But then, I realise social networking is no substitute for real interaction. Virtual friends do not give the same therapeutic benefit as real friends in the physical world. I look for authentic real people, not the exaggerated acts of camaraderie on digital platforms. Also, too much of involvement in the virtual world — pings and posts — is increasing my screen time at the cost of meaningful activities.

My smartphone has given me easy access to social media at any time I please, but I understand it is not smart to overindulge in social media. I have become smarter now, turned off notifications, rationed time for social media. I am at peace; more relaxed as I have begun to use my phone in moderation.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Why provoke?

Apropos of 'Clash of civilisations', it is hard to understand why anyone should deliberately caricature the Prophet and provoke the Muslims in the first instance. This is not to justify the savage retaliation by misguided Islamists in response to the cartoons, but to point to the absurdity as well as dangers inherent in inciting the Muslim ire. We need not turn to Samuel Huntington's self-fulfilling prophecy of 'clash of civilisations', but to Mahatma Gandhi's philosophy of inter-religion tolerance and love to guide our lives.

Break in power

Refer to 'Nitish creates flutter with "last election" remark at poll rally'; he has taken a good decision. Continuous staying in power is not good, as observed in West Bengal. A very developed state scaled down in development matters during leftist rule as they banked upon one person as CM. Incidentally, his only son settled abroad as a big businessman. I had the opportunity to visit Bihar during Lalu Yadav's rule, and also during Nitish's term. Law and order was far better in the state during Nitish's time.

One who can lead

Apropos of 'Contested election', historic voter participation during the pandemic was unexpectedly mobilised in the form of mail-in ballots. It is on these that the next presidency hinges, with Trump launching legal challenges in battleground states, which Biden is looking to flip. The exigencies of the pandemic have combined with the federal spirit to introduce many new processes and guidelines for this election. What is indefensible is Trump accusing his opponents of 'trying to steal the election'. The world is looking to the US to provide better leadership on issues ranging from climate changes to global security, so the winner has to be the choice of the electorate, and who can bridge the current domestic political divide in the US.

SK SINGH, BY MAIL

Fix all old bridges

In reference to 'Bridge on Pathankot-Mandi NH turns into death trap'; this is the story of not just one bridge, but many bridges that have outlived their lives, since most of them were constructed before Independence. There is no denying the fact that the Pathankot-Mandi highway is of strategic importance.

SHANKAR CHATTERJEE, HYDERABAD

Moreover, local people will benefit with job opportunities being created for excavation, processing and marketing of the salt. But caution should be exercised to make the excavation methodology/process environment-friendly and sustainable.

SANTOSH JAMWAL, HAMIRPUR

Liquor smuggling

The police have seized thousands of cases of illicit liquor near the Sonepat border, stored or loaded in trucks for smuggling in the recent past. Surprisingly, when all the movement of goods except the essentials, during lockdown were prohibited, the smuggling continued unhindered. Will someone in the police or the administration explain the lapses?

VINAY GUPTA, AMBALA CANTT

Himachali salt is back

It was nice to read about the re-emergence of Himachali namak, known as gumma namak. Decades ago, the availability and use of this salt in the form of big chunks was common in the state and adjoining areas. The salt was known for its therapeutic/medicinal properties. Hope that modern technology and processing like iodination of the salt will make it more beneficial and acceptable to people for daily use. Moreover, local people will benefit with job opportunities being created for excavation, processing and marketing of the salt. But caution should be exercised to make the excavation methodology/process environment-friendly and sustainable.

SS VERMA, LONGOWAL

Multi-pronged approach

Air pollution is the bane of Punjab and neighbouring states, more so during stubble burning and the festival season. Governments have taken many steps to check stubble burning, but to no avail. Modern machinery like Happy Seeders have been encouraged, but farmers can't afford them. Most farmers have small landholdings. The SC had asked the government to give an incentive of Rs 100 per acre to desist farmers from stubble burning, but to little effect. Farmer cooperatives should be encouraged to use modern machinery to manage stubble burning, which can be used as a source of energy, as is being done by some entrepreneurs. People in cities like Ludhiana, Amritsar and Jalandhar should be encouraged to opt for car-pooling. Cycling should be encouraged, and crackers should be banned.

Putting ex-prisoners on road to reintegration

UPNEET LALLI
PENAL REFORMS EXPERT

remains a neglected aspect in the correctional system. The idea was mooted almost a century back, when the all-India Jail Committee 1919-20 was set up. There is no follow-up of released prisoners, nor is there any assessment of their needs. Last year, 1,84,962 convicts were released, but only 1,827 were rehabilitated. Not everyone re-offends and, in fact, India has a low recidivism rate.

However, apart from sporadic instances, there is minimal support given. A static prison system will focus on security alone while a dynamic one will be proactively looking at preparing prisoners for release, as law abiding and constructive citizens. In India, 53.8 per cent of the convicts were given life imprisonment in 2019. The biggest challenge for inmates is the time spent inside. If it is well managed, it helps promote a new positive self-identity.

Upon release from prison, offenders face many social, economic and personal challenges that tend to become obstacles to a crime-free lifestyle. The release can often be more punishing than the prison sentence itself, as poignantly shown in the classic movie Shawshank Redemption. Facing the barriers of stigma, rejection, suspicion, mistrust and discrimination requires tenacity and support.

During the Covid-19 lockdown, while a lot of attention was paid to reducing jail overcrowding by releasing prisoners, there was little focus on managing release and post-release issues. In India, some of the released prisoners faced peculiar challenges, which included rejection by villagers, lack of accommodation and transport and no means of sustenance. There are no halfway homes in India, nor do most states give any rehabilitation grant. It is just the wages earned by doing work inside that support a few. Some families of prisoners also show reluctance to have another dependent person. The coronavirus pandemic has indeed compounded the challenges of re-entry.

Rehabilitation is not a linear process. It has many layers. The process begins from the time of imprisonment and continues much after the release of the prisoners. It has to be psychological, social, moral and legal. The Nordic penal system, described as the most humane, is based on legal rehabilitation. A social project of rehabilitation founded 40 years ago that is successful is the Delancey Street project in the US. It provides residents with skills that can be used in the job market and education that makes employment possible and supports ex-prisoners re-entering society. Beyond academic and vocational training, residents learn values and social and interpersonal skills that allow them to join the mainstream.

Closer home, more than two years ago, a book cafe was opened on the Ridge, in Shimla. The coffee, tea and bakery items made by inmates were served by two life-term prisoners, Yog Raj and Subhash, who had been selected on the basis of their good behaviour. The inmates left the prison daily in the morning to run the cafe and returned to their cells late in the evening. There were no policemen guarding the place.

The trust these hardworking inmates won and the connect with society helped remove the stigma of imprisonment and made people reconsider their pre-conceived ideas. This acceptance by society helped to improve the morale of both the inmates and the prison staff. This innovative reformative initiative, conceptualised by the HP prisons department, however, suffered a setback with the municipal corporation not extending their lease after two years and opting to give the place to the highest bidder.

I would meet the inmates every time

The outcome of reintegration programmes should include the protection of the victims' rights and interests. It calls for opportunities for offenders to make amends and help them desist from crime. Offenders can make positive contribution to their communities and must be provided with opportunities.

I visited Shimla and it was heartwarming to read the comments of the visitors to the cafe. Unfortunately, like many well-begun projects, this was stifled at a very early stage. The social responsibility yielded to the commercial interests. The open prisons based on 'trust' and 'freedom', like in Sanganer, promote autonomy and solidify new identities, with opportunities to exercise personal responsibility. I was also pleasantly surprised to see released women inmates working at a petrol pump in Hyderabad, run by the prisons department. Women prisoners face greater stigma and rejection by families, and, hence, require more support.

One of the best cakes and cappuccino coffee I had was in the Boronia Pre-Release Centre for Women in Perth. It is a minimum security prison where female prisoners stay with children in a community-style setting. A French chef was training the women residents in surroundings that were unlike a prison and helping women develop life skills, and be ready for life after release. Many events of the nearby Curtin University were catered to by the Boronia centre. Such incentives for leading a law abiding life are life altering in many ways.

In Singapore, the Yellow Ribbon Project, started in 2004, has won accolades for being a game-changer in terms of raising public awareness and changing society's mindset in giving former offenders a second chance. State and community partnership facilitates the reintegration.

The outcome of reintegration programmes should also include the protection of the victims' rights and interests. The strengths-based paradigm calls for opportunities for offenders to make amends and help them desist from crime. Offenders have the potential to make positive contribution to their communities and must be provided with those opportunities. Victim-offender dialogue, surrogate victims and designing restorative prisons create a climate where there is reflection, empathy and desire to change for the better, instead of bitterness and revenge.

I recall a young engineer who not only developed software programmes for the department but was also given an opportunity to go out and coach students. This facilitated his journey of change and growth. His one dream is to go back and open a school in memory of the person whose life was cut short.

Reintegration is 'two-way street' involving changes on the part of the returning prisoner as well as society. Society needs to judge people not by misdeeds, but how they learn from them. The road to reintegration will have many bends and bumps. It can surely be made smoother from the beginning to the end as the journey of redemption continues.

Gaining technological edge over the Dragon

THE faceoff between the Indian Army and the Chinese PLA in eastern Ladakh has led to comparisons of all kinds between the armed forces of the two countries. While the human resource of our army is superior to the conscript-intensive PLA ground troops, it is assumed that the Chinese forces are technologically better equipped and that while a contact battle in the high mountains may favour the Indian Army, in the non-contact domain, the PLA may be at an advantage.

What does this imply? Along the northern borders, any physical capture of territory would involve a contact battle with the human element being predominant. This would be supported by a non-contact (kinetic) dimension, involving long-range vectors and missiles which can cause damage in depth areas to varying targets. The third form is the non-contact (non-kinetic) warfare which encompasses electromagnetic, cyber, space, information warfare and psychological operations. The non-contact domain is all-encompassing and goes beyond the military, to include economic, energy, environment, water and other resources which affect the net prosperity and capability of a nation.

China has been focused in harnessing and developing technology for military use through imports, domestic research and development, theft and espionage. Its hallmark has been imitative innovation through reverse engineering. A science and technology commission was established in 2016. Under the builder of modern China, Deng Xiaoping, the cardinal rule was: 'Hide your capability and 'Bide your time'. In the last decade, this edict has been turned on its head and today, China goes to great lengths to showcase its military and technological advancement. It claims high technology niche capabilities, next only to the US.

The fields where it claims prowess and emergence as a leader include artificial intelligence, robotics, quantum computing and communications, biomaterials, energy capture, storage and smart sensors. All these would be the primary drivers in any multi-domain non-contact warfare to pulverise an adversary.

What remains suspect, however, is a pragmatic and demonstrated assessment of the Chinese capabilities in these areas. A carefully orchestrated showcasing is very different from actual application. Unlike the US, China has shied away from projecting its 'technology-enabled' forces. As far back as 2004, when a tsunami caused death and destruction in South-East Asia, India, despite being affected by this calamity, took a lead role in providing relief to ameliorate the misery of many countries. What stood out was China's absence from such efforts, despite being a major nation in the region. Many experts felt that this was because China was not sure about its capabilities.

Much has changed since then, but all that China comes across is as a 'bully' who wants to force its way in pursuit of territorial claims. Its much-touted Belt and Road Initiative and policy of wooing developing nations in Asia and Africa have highlighted its single-minded pursuit of hegemonic ambitions. China's image is far from benign and the Wuhan virus has further put it under global suspicion.

China is considered a formidable power primarily due to its phenomenal economic growth and the clout this brings. However, has its claimed status as a technology powerhouse truly given the PLA the capabilities it claims but has not really used? Can it win ongoing and future conflicts by deploying technologically superior forces? The current state of affairs in the high Himalayas does not indicate so. Imitation and reverse technology can take you this far and no further. The just concluded plenary session of the Chinese Communist Party presided over by Xi Jinping has finalised plans to build a modern military on a par with the US by 2027. However, the technological prowess of the PLA, especially in multi-domain ground warfare, is still a question mark.

How does the Indian military match up? Budgetary constraints and labyrinthine processes have been a dampener in the acquisition of military weapons and equipment. However, that is not something that cannot be corrected. What is relevant here is a look at our capacities and capabilities in the technological fields related to contact and, more importantly, non-contact, warfare.

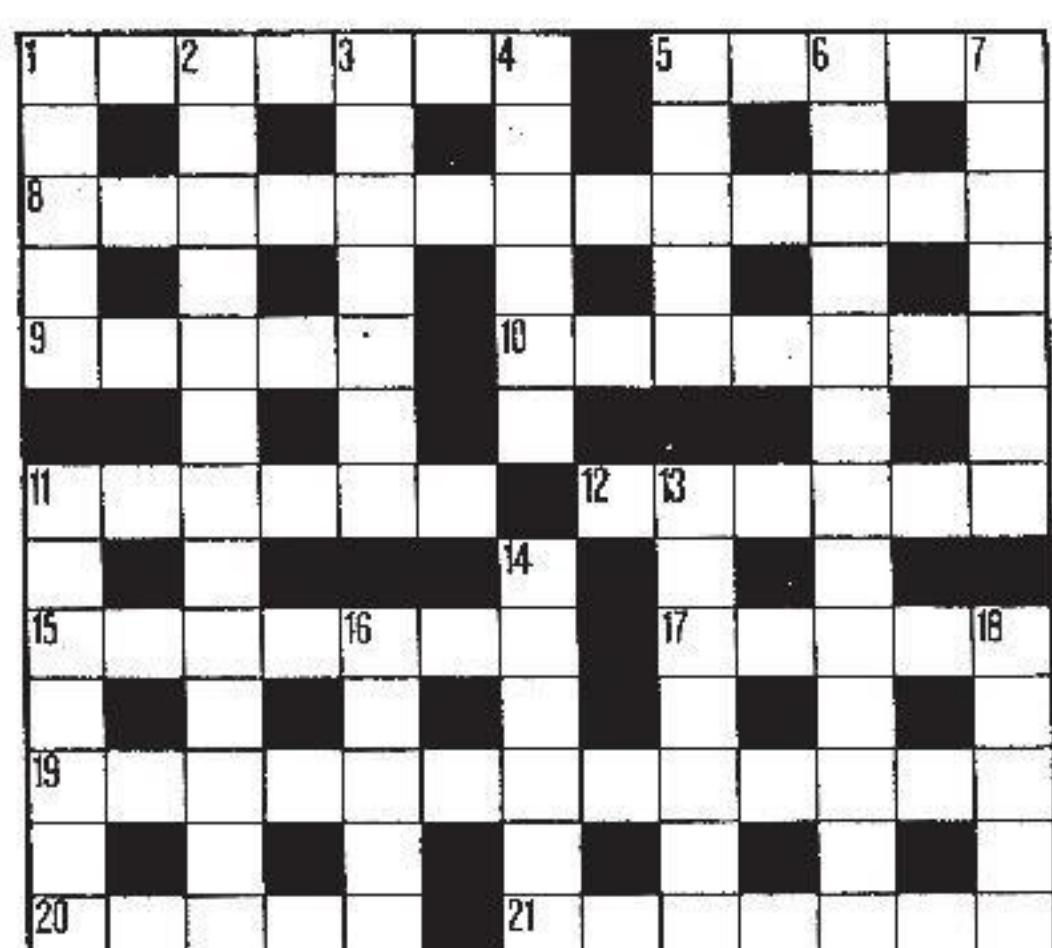

Indian scientists have made remarkable progress in the fields of space research and missile technology. A similar momentum is required in other dimensions of non-contact conflict. A major initiative in this regard was the setting up of the Army Design Bureau (ADB) by the Indian Army in 2016. The ADB has endeavoured to energise scientific minds in harnessing technology for military applications. Leading technical education institutions are populated by faculty and students who have the capacity and capability to provide top rate technical solutions to the problems and requirements for developing equipment related to domains of warfare. This initiative by the Army has been moving ahead, albeit slowly. However, as it gains momentum, systems will have to be put in place for transfer of technology, from prototype to assembly line products.

Premier institutes like the IITs, the IISc, IIITs and now a whole array of NITs, are national assets, producing a regular stream of competent and qualified professionals. Unfortunately, harnessing these bright minds towards increasing technological capabilities is something that is not attempted systematically. Graduates from these institutions migrate abroad and are successful in major tech companies. They also go into fields which provide financial recompense of a high order but are unrelated to professions for which they have been trained. These young brains are infused with a will to do and it is this spirit for achievement that needs to be channelled by programmes like Make in India, Startup India, Digital India. The US culture of switching between academia and industry or government is something that brings the much-needed fresh air, enabling new perspectives and new ways of solving old problems.

We have considerable parts of such an architecture in place. What is required is melding things in a way that students at an IIT or a startup or even an established company can work on projects and problems that will enhance the country's capability for multi-dimensional non-contact warfare. They can contribute to national security just as a frontline soldier on the icy heights. India's capabilities are underutilised at present, making the Dragon look more formidable than it actually is. The future lies in winning India's wars with Indian solutions.

4.39 crore bogus ration cards weeded out: Govt

NEW DELHI, NOVEMBER 6
The government on Friday said as many as 4.39 crore bogus ration cards had been weeded out since 2013 for rightfully targeting of beneficiaries under the National Food Security Act (NFSA). New ration cards are regularly issued to genuine and rightfully eligible beneficiaries or households against the deleted ration cards, it said in a statement.

"As part of technology-driven PDS reforms across the country to modernise the Targeted Public Distribution System (TPDS) and bring transparency in its operations through digitisation of ration cards/beneficiaries databases, Aadhaar seeding, detection of ineligible/bogus ration cards, deduplication of digitised data, migration/deaths of beneficiaries and during the run-up to the implementation of the NFSA, a total of about 4.39 crore ineligible/bogus ration cards have been weeded out in the country during the period 2013 to 2020, so far, by the state/UT governments," it said.

"Further, the respective quota of the NFSA coverage thus released, is being regularly utilised for the 'rightful targeting' of beneficiaries under the NFSA that is inclusion/addition of other genuine and rightfully eligible beneficiaries/households by issuing new ration cards to them while remaining within the respective ceiling limits of coverage defined for each state/UT under the Act," it also added. —TNS

Kohli suggests short tours in Covid times

TRENDING NEWS SERVICE

CHANDIGARH, NOVEMBER 6
After being in the bio-secure bubble in the UAE for over two-and-a-half months, Virat Kohli has said it's tough, and suggested that future tours should not be long during the Covid-19 pandemic.

Kohli, who arrived in Dubai on August 21 and has already been in a bio-bubble for 78 days, will leave for Australia immediately after the IPL to enter another bio-bubble with the Indian team. The national team's tour begins with the first ODI on November 27 and ends with the fourth Test on January 19 next year. This means that Kohli, and many other Indian players, would have been in a bio-secure bubble for over five months, including the days prior to the departure for the UAE.

In this context, Kohli said it is important to monitor the mental health of players, especially when they've been alone and cut off from the outside world for a long time.

"I think these things have to be seriously thought

Don't sledge Kohli, Waugh warns Aussies

MELBOURNE: Former Australian skipper Steve Waugh has urged the Australian players to not get into a war of words with Virat Kohli during the upcoming four-Test home series as it might end up providing "extra motivation" to not just him but also his teammates. The Border-Gavaskar Trophy will begin with a day-night encounter in Adelaide on December 17, followed by Tests in Melbourne (December 26), Sydney (January 7) and Brisbane (January 15). The tour will begin with three ODIs starting on November

95 days in bio-bubble!

England's Jofra Archer spent 90 days in a bio-bubble this year, the most for any player. He came to the IPL after home series against West Indies and Pakistan, and said he was counting the days for the IPL to end. "You're just counting days down," he said. "I might actually get a calendar just to cross them down to feel like the days are going faster."

"Sledging is not going to worry Virat Kohli, it doesn't work against the great players and you're better off leaving those guys alone," Waugh said in a video interview. "I think any extra motivation will make them dig in more and get more runs. So you're better off not saying much to him." Australia captain Tim Paine and his men were involved in a spat with Kohli during India's last tour of Australia which ended with the visitors registering their first ever Test series (2-1) win Down Under. Former skipper Michael Clarke later claimed that Australia had "sucked up" to Kohli in order to land fat deals with IPL franchises, something which was rejected by Paine. PTI on how the individuals are feeling and I think that conversation should take place regularly."

Repetitive

Talking about being isolated in a hotel, Kohli said it becomes very difficult for a player. "It's repetitive... It's not as tough when the group of guys is amazing, which we have. Everyone part of that bio-bubble is really nice, the vibe has been so good," Kohli said in an interview posted by RCB.

"But it does get difficult at times because it is repetitive and these things will have to be considered that what length of tournaments and series one is going to play," he added. "And what impact the players are going to have mentally of staying in a similar environment for 80 days and not getting to do anything different or have the space to just go see family or small things like that."

For the tour of Australia, BCCI has allowed the immediate families of the players to travel with them, though all of them would have to adhere to strict bio-bubble rules.

Punjab to award achievers, but nothing for juniors

INDERIV GREWAL

CHANDIGARH, NOVEMBER 6

The Punjab Sports Department has invited applications from the state's athletes and coaches who are eligible for cash awards for two seasons — 2018-19 and 2019-20.

However, the newspaper advertisement put out by Punjab's Director of Sports in this regard has caused confusion among athletes and coaches, who are concerned by the reference to the "cash award policy-2019" notification in the advertisement.

According to the advertisement — published on October 28, 2020 — the "cash award policy-2019" has been made available on the Sports Department's website.

The notification has also been sent by the office of the Director Sports to the district sports officers.

What has left many coaches and athletes surprised and disappointed is that the notification, in its eligibility clause, has no mention of junior events, including the Youth Olympics, World Championships and World Cups.

When asked about the lack of mention of the junior events in the notification, Kharbanda said the notification — which is dated July 30, 2019 — is "old" and the department has put out an advertisement in this regard. "The letter is old. We have put out a newspaper advertisement so that anyone who has not been paid yet can apply," Kharbanda said.

There is no mention of the junior events in the advertisement either. The advertisement refers to the 2018

Director Sports DPS Kharbanda confirmed that the Sports Department has received funds for the cash awards. "We have received Rs 15 crore and we have invited applications from the athletes and coaches who are eligible for the cash awards," said Kharbanda.

What has left many coaches and athletes surprised and disappointed is that the notification, in its eligibility clause, has no mention of junior events, including the Youth Olympics, World Championships and World Cups.

The eligible tournaments range from state and national to international events, including the Olympics, Asian and Commonwealth Games, Senior National Championships, All India Inter-University Championships and State Games. However, the list does not include junior events. The only junior event included in the list is the National School Games/Khelo India School Games, but there is no mention of the World Championships and World Cups.

When asked about the lack of mention of the junior events in the notification, Kharbanda said the notification — which is dated July 30, 2019 — is "old" and the department has put out an advertisement in this regard.

"The letter is old. We have put out a newspaper advertisement so that anyone who has not been paid yet can apply," Kharbanda said.

There is no mention of the junior events in the advertisement either. The advertisement refers to the 2018

Sports Policy and the 2019 notification. The advertisement says that "according to this policy", athletes and coaches will get cash awards for medals won in "state, national and international" events in "2018-19 (01-04-2018 to 31-03-2019) and 2019-20 (01-04-2019 to 31-03-2020)".

'Support for junior athletes'

"It is very disappointing. They are neglecting the junior athletes," said a coach from Punjab. "It is the junior athletes who need greater support. The juniors need these cash awards more as they do not have jobs like the senior athletes. Most of the juniors rely on their families for monetary support. Their diet and equipment cost the same. Punjab should look at Haryana's policy," the coach added.

Haryana's sports policy has a separate clause, which says that "cash award to Junior and Sub-junior categories for World/Asian/Commonwealth/National Championships/Cups" will be given at 75% and 50% of the amount fixed for the senior events. Haryana's policy also includes cash awards for veteran and specially-abled athletes, which is missing from the Punjab notification.

'Monthly stipends'

A senior coach from Punjab said that though these cash awards are a great help, these do not provide adequate support during the developmental phase of an athlete. "The perfect scenario would be to fix monthly stipends for the junior athletes," the senior coach said.

Problems with India can be resolved through talks, Oli tells Naravane

KATHMANDU, NOVEMBER 6

Problems between Nepal and India would be resolved through dialogue, Prime Minister KP Sharma Oli said on Friday during a meeting with Indian Army Chief Gen MM Naravane, who paid a courtesy call on him.

Gen Naravane's three-day visit to Nepal was largely aimed at resetting bilateral ties that came under severe strain following a bitter border row between the two countries.

The meeting between Gen Naravane and Oli, who is also the Defence Minister of Nepal, took place at his official residence in Baluwatar, Nepal Army sources said.

Prime Minister Oli said, "There has been good friendship between Nepal and India."

Oli expressed hope that the "problems between the two countries would be

After Bihar, it's mission Bengal, Assam for BJP

Union Minister Shah confident of clean sweep

VIBHA SHARMA

NEW DELHI, NOVEMBER 6

As polling for the third and the final phase of the Bihar Assembly election to 78 seats in 15 districts takes place tomorrow, the BJP machinery is gearing up for its next mission—elections in Assam, Bengal, Tamil Nadu, Puducherry and Kerala.

While in West Bengal today, Home Minister Amit Shah declared a sweeping victory in the upcoming elections, in Assam, Himanta Biswa Sarma said "development and protection from infiltrators" would be the poll plank.

In Kerala, where the BJP appears to be in much disarray, it has to bring the "house in order" for the crucial elections, in neighbouring Tamil Nadu, the state unit has rolled out "Vetriyal Yatra" despite Covid restrictions to consolidate Hindu vote base. According to reports, BJP Tamil Nadu unit president L Murugan and some party workers were arrested near Lord Murugan Temple at Tiruttani while taking out the yatra "aimed at exposing those acting against the Tamil culture".

Rivals/detractors said it was meant to "flare communal tension". The AIADMK government had not given permission for the yatra citing Covid-19.

With such efforts, the saffron party, which has not been able to make inroads into the southern state (its vote share dropping from 5.56 per cent in 2014 to 3.66 in 2019) is aiming to consolidate Hindu votes.

Meanwhile in Assam, the ruling BJP said it would campaign the next elections on two key issues—development and protection of the "civilisation of Assam" from the "civilisation of infiltrators from Bangladesh".

In Kerala, threats of defection of senior leaders and resignation have rocked the BJP's state unit, where observers said "such open dissent was never witnessed before". Several senior leaders like Soba Surendran are unhappy with state president K Surendran and Union Minister V Muraleedharan.

India summons Pak envoy on Kartarpur issue

NEW DELHI, NOVEMBER 6

India followed up its strong note to Pakistan on the Kartarpur Corridor issue on Thursday by summoning Pakistan's Deputy High Commissioner on Friday to seek a reversal of its decision, said MEA spokesperson Anurag Srivastava during a media briefing.

The Pakistan diplomat was told that the decision to hand over the management of the project to the Evacuee Trust Property Board (ETPB) instead of the Pakistan Sikh Gurdwara Prabhandak Committee (PSG-PC) was highly condemnable. This is evident by the reaction of a section of the Sikh community here which also met MEA's Pakistan Desk in charge JP Singh to register their protest.

The MEA said such actions expose the Pakistani leadership's tall claims of preserving and protecting the rights and welfare of the religious minority communities. But the Pakistan Foreign Office maintained that the PSGPC remained responsible for carrying out rituals at the gurdwara as per the Sikh code of conduct. —TNS

Maha Assembly Secy gets notice for 'threatening' Arnab

TRIBUNE NEWS SERVICE

NEW DELHI, NOVEMBER 6

The Supreme Court on Friday issued contempt of court notice to the Maharashtra Legislative Assembly Secretary for "threatening" Republic TV Editor-in-Chief Arnab Goswami for moving the court over breach of privilege proceedings initiated against Goswami.

"Can any authority in the country penalise someone for approaching this court? This is in the teeth of Article 32. How dare this officer write something like this in his letter?" a Bench headed by Chief Justice of India SA Bobde asked.

"We have a serious question on the author of this letter and we find it extremely difficult to overlook this," the CJJ said, directing the Assembly Secretary to remain personally present before it on the next date. The Bench appointed senior advocate Arvind Datar as amicus curiae and posted the matter for further hearing after two weeks.

An angry CJJ told senior advocate AM Singhvi, representing the Maharashtra Government, to look into the conduct of the officer concerned.

The CJJ's outburst came after senior advocate Harish Salve, representing Goswami, told the Bench that the Maharashtra Assembly Secretary wrote a letter to Goswami on October 13, "threatening" Goswami for "breaching" confidentiality of privilege proceedings by moving the top court.

The Bench granted protection from arrest to Goswami in this case as Salve urged the court to protect him from any coercive action.

state through Advocate-General Atul Nanda, Additional Advocate-General Rameez Hakeem and senior advocate Maninder Singh. The UPSC was represented by Additional Solicitor-General Aman Lekhi and Alka Chatrath.

It further ruled the guidelines could not be held to be lacking authenticity or legality and the findings so recorded by the CAT were erroneous.

there is no such request.

A Bench headed by Justice NV Ramana said the Witness Protection Scheme, 2018, approved by the Supreme Court last year should be strictly enforced by the Centre, states and Union Territories.

such cases, the trial court may consider granting protection under the said scheme to witnesses without their making any specific application in this regard," said the Bench that has been dealing with a PIL filed by Delhi BJP leader and advocate Ashwini Kumar Upadhyay in 2016.

But the HC Bench of Justice Jaswant Singh and Justice Sant Parkash ruled that the guidelines—on procedure and modalities for selecting panel for DGP's appointment—were not opposed to, and in violation of, the SC direction in Prakash Singh's case on police reforms.

"The tribunal has exceeded its jurisdiction regarding judicial review of the selection process by transgressing in the expert domain superimposing its own opinion and is against the settled law on the subject," the Bench ruled.
