Punjab ranks third in job generation under BPO scheme

VIJAY C ROY

TRIBUNE NEWS SERVICE

CHANDIGARH, JULY 1 Under the India BPO Promotion Scheme (IBPS), Punjab has achieved third rank in number of employment generation with a majority of companies operating from Mohali. Southern states Andhra Pradesh and Tamil Nadu are ahead of Punjab.

Under the scheme, the government provides financial support up to Rs 1 lakh per seat as Viability Gap Funding (VGF) for setting up BPO/ITES operation in non-metro locations.

As per data, the highest number of employment generation has been reported in Andhra Pradesh (12,234), followed by Tamil Nadu (9,401), Punjab (4,463), Odisha (2,493), Maharashtra (2,353), Jharkhand (2,256) and Bihar (1,551).

Among the cities, the highest number of employment generation has been reported in Visakhapatnam (7,738) followed by Coimbatore (4,908), Mohali (4,453), Ranchi (2,162), Bhubaneswar (1,901) and Patna (1,324).

The BPO Promotion Scheme has got an overwhelming response from the industry. Currently, 252 BPO/ITES units are operational on 47,043 seats under the scheme. These units are distributed across the country in over 100 cities/towns of 27 states/UTs.

driving the demand for BPOs,” said Dr Omkar Rai, Director General, STPI.

Traditionally, the Indian BPO/ITES sector grew and was centered around metropolitan cities. This forced youths from other locations to migrate to metro cities for jobs. The scheme has helped thousands of local youths to get employment at their native places and in attracting investments for the regions.

Across the country, IBPS has generated direct employment for over 40,000 people residing in tier 2 and tier 3 cities, out of which 38% are women. The units have reported over 3,000 additional employment generation last year. Interestingly, over 30+ of these locations reportedly had a first-of-its-kind formal BPO/ITES operation due to this initiative.

After reciprocity nudge, 7 EU nations to allow Indians with Covishield shots

Tribune News Service

NEW DELHI, JULY 1
Pressed by nations, including India, whose citizens have taken Covishield vaccine shots, nine European countries, seven of them EU members, have decided to permit their entry.

However, sources cautioned against panic and pointed out that the EU (European Union) Covid digital certificate had a six-week phase-in period, meaning it would be insisted upon by all EU nations for crossing their international borders sometime in mid-August. A large number of them have still not opened their borders to Indians.

The Serum Institute of India (SII), they pointed out,

Readyng hi-tech drones to counter threats: Army Chief

Ajay Banerjee

Tribune News Service

NEW DELHI, JULY 1

Days after the drone attack on the IAF base in Jammu, Indian Army Chief General MM Naravane on Thursday said the process was underway to operationalise pre-programmed drones for different terrains to work at varying altitudes and extended ranges.

Speaking at a seminar organised by the Global Counter Terrorism Council, General Naravane referred to the demonstration of "swarming capability" of 75 drones during the Army Day Parade in January to explain what he meant by pre-programmed drones.

On new technologies that could change military warfare, the Army Chief said

NO LoC INTRUSION SINCE CEASEFIRE

Four months after India and Pakistan announced to 'strictly observe pacts on ceasefire' along LoC, General MM Naravane said there had been no infiltration from across LoC since then and all parameters of violence had dropped.

artificial intelligence (AI), autonomous and unmanned systems, long-range precision technology and quantum computing could become tools of deterrence.

The Army, he said, was looking at a whole range of applications, including surveillance, logistics, cyberspace operations and military training and combat operations.

"On the operational front, AI holds great promise to aid military decisions," he said.

The advent of drones and counter-drone systems had radically altered the way to fight future wars. "Drones can be easily accessed and used by both state and non-state actors. We have to factor this as we make our plans," he said.

On China, he said the developments along the northern borders during the past year were a stark reminder that "to preserve our territorial integrity, the armed forces need to continually prepare and adapt to the exigencies of modern wars".

Power situation 'dire', office timings curtailed

CM urges staff to end strike; forms panel to resolve grievances

TREBUNE NEWS SERVICE

CHANDIGARH, JULY 1

With the state reeling under an unprecedented power shortage amid extreme temperatures, Chief Minister Capt Amarinder Singh today ordered curtailment in timings of state government offices from tomorrow, and cutting down on power supply to high energy consuming industries with immediate effect in a bid to save crops and ease the domestic power situation.

He appealed to all government offices to make judicious use of electricity in government offices, adding the situation was "dire" as the peak demand in the state had touched a whopping 14,500 MW. Initially, the government had ordered a ban on use of ACs in offices, which was later revoked and offices were asked to function from 8 am to 2 pm.

The Chief Minister urged the protesting Power Department employees to call off their strike, which had aggravated the crisis, with complaints of breakdowns resulting from overloading of

Reviewing the situation at a high-level meeting, the Chief Minister constituted a three-member committee, comprising Additional Chief Secretary (Development), PSPCL CMD and Special Secretary (Finance), to resolve the grievances of the agitating employees.

He assured the employees of duly considering their genuine demands for appropriate action. He pointed out that many of the demands of the employees, such as increase in employee National Pension System (NPS) share, restoration of generation incentive, etc. had already been accepted, and the 6th Pay Commission scales were also being implemented by various boards/corporations of the state.

The Chief Minister urged the employees to withdraw their agitation in the interest of the state's agriculture and industry, as well as domestic consumers who were facing a difficult time due to prolonged power outages amid the Covid pandemic. Pointing out that the farmers were losing precious paddy transplantation time due to power breakdowns, the Chief Minister made it clear the agriculture sector needed to be prioritised for uninterrupted power supply.

As Punjab grapples with an unprecedented power crisis, industry in many parts of the state has been directed to shut operations for two days from 2 pm on Friday, even as domestic and commercial power consumers face unscheduled power cuts.

There has been a massive surge in power demand in the agriculture sector, because of the ongoing paddy cultivation. HC: Quasi-solitary confinement illegal

Says 'professional criminals' can't be kept in lone cells for most part of day

CHANDIGARH, JULY 1

Prisoners are human beings despite their liberty having been curtailed, the Punjab and Haryana High Court today ruled, adding the confinement of "professional criminals" such as "gangsters" in individual cells for the most part of the day for limitless periods was impermissible.

Holding their "quasi-solitary confinement" to be illegal and violative of the rights guaranteed under Article 21 of the Constitution, Justice Sudhir Mittal suggested housing identified prisoners in separate barracks, instead of cells with "mess" provision.

Justice Mittal asserted more than four decades had elapsed since the Supreme Court asserted "protection of the prisoner within his rights was part of the office of Article 32". But the true import of the Supreme Court directions apparently had not percolated to the prison administrators.

■ Replacing outdated prison law with more enlightened prescriptions remained a hope

■ Members of rival gangs could be confined in different barracks, system of staggered lockouts could be retained and confinement to cells required to be restricted from sunset to sunrise lengths of time. Such confinement was held to be extremely harsh and violative of basic human rights.

Measures had been and were being enforced to maintain prison discipline and prevent crime syndicates from operating within the prisons. But security measures could be imposed only up to a limit "and this limit was placed by fundamental rights guaranteed under Articles 14, 19 and 21", which were available even to the prisoners.

Justice Mittal added the prisoners may not enjoy all rights and freedoms guaranteed by the Constitution. Yet, basic rights and liberties were available to them. The court process restricted the liberty of prisoners. The same courts also had the duty to monitor that the liberty was not restricted beyond the bounds of law. The courts, in the process, did not become prison administrators, but acted as the guardians of fundamental rights to which even a prisoner was entitled to.

Hindu leaders oppose Sidhu as PCC chief

CONG CRISIS Say can't be ignored | Final call to be taken by high command, asserts CM

RAJMEET SINGH

CHANDIGARH, JULY 1

As the party high command inches towards a solution to the ongoing crisis in the state Congress, including planning an "important role" for Navjot Singh Sidhu, party's second-rung Hindu leaders in an interaction with Chief Minister Capt Amarinder Singh on Thursday sought a fresh face from the community as the Punjab Pradesh Congress president.

Some of the participants categorically opposed Sidhu's candidature as the PPCC chief, triggering a debate in the party circles on the need to bring in a fresh Hindu face to replace incumbent Sunil Jakhar who was incidentally not present at the meeting. The CM reportedly told the participants it was not the right forum and the decision of the party high

WANT ALLOCATION OF URBAN SEATS

- In interaction with CM, party leaders demanded fielding of Hindu faces in urban Assembly segments such as Bathinda (Urban), Gurdaspur and Moga
- It was conveyed that for four-and-a-half years, no one in the government or party talked to leaders hailing from the Hindu or OBC community

BUZZ OVER TWO STATE PARTY PRESIDENTS

- Amid reports of party zeroing in on a definitive role for Navjot Singh Sidhu, he has reportedly been asked to stay put in Delhi
- Before finalising a decision, the party chief will call Chief Minister Capt Amarinder Singh to Delhi in the coming days
- There is buzz of either making Sidhu share PCC chief post with a Daily/Hindu leader or naming him Dy CM & campaign panel head command on the issue would be the final word.

Party leaders were quick to point out the timing of the demand being raised as the Chief Minister is learnt to have already opposed the move to appoint Sidhu as the PPCC chief.

A majority of the leaders demanded fielding Hindu faces in urban Assembly segments such as Bathinda (Urban), Gurdaspur and Moga, where Jat faces had Congress to have two Jat Sikh leaders in prominent roles — one as a CM and the other as the PPCC chief.

A majority of the leaders demanded fielding Hindu faces in urban Assembly segments such as Bathinda (Urban), Gurdaspur and Moga, where Jat faces had been fielded in the 2017 Assembly elections.

They said by ignoring traditional congressmen families, party's base among the Hindu voter was eroding. A general opinion was conveyed that for four-and-a-half years, no one in the government or party bothered to talk to traditional party leaders hailing from the Hindu or OBC community and now they were being called when elections were a few months away.

Former Batala MLA Ashwani Sekhri, who was recently in the news for being in talks with the SAD, told the CM about the role played by a minister of the Majha brigade in trying to push him into political oblivion. He minced no words in telling the CM he had almost decided to change his party before being persuaded not to do so.

Another leader, Anish

Sidana, told the CM about the need for the MLAs to give due respect to the party rank and file in urban areas and involve them in development works. Raising the issue of OBC leaders, Sidana said the minority communities looked upon the CM to maintain peace and harmony.

A former Moga MLA, Malti Thapar, complained about the need to rehabilitate the families of traditional congressmen and non-involvement of the PPCC in acting as a bridge between the workers and CM.

Punjab Subordinate Service Selection Board chairman Raman Bahl complained about Hindu leadership being sidelined in the traditional Hindu belt of Gurdaspur.

Party leader Pawan Dewan demanded due representation to urban leaders in boards and corporation.

BATHINDA/MOGA, JULY 1

On the call of the Punjab Civil Medical Services Association (PCMS), government doctors suspended work in all hospitals and other service centres in Bathinda district, including emergency, OPD and other health services, in protest against the Punjab Government due to which patients remained at the receiving end.

The protest of government doctors against the recommendations of the Sixth Pay Commission and the reduction of non-practising allowance (NPA) in it continued for the 11th day on Thursday. The doctors also took out a protest march in the city. They raised slogans against Finance Minister Manpreet Singh Badal by gathering at the local Fire Brigade Chowk.

District head of PCMS Dr Gurmail Singh said the non-practising allowance (NPA) was reduced from 25 to 20 per cent in the pay commission recommendations. Along with this, it was recommended to de-link the NPA from basic pay.

PAY PANEL REDUCED NPA FROM 25% TO 20%

District head of PCMS Dr Gurmail Singh said the non-practising allowance (NPA) was reduced from 25 to 20 per cent in the pay commission recommendations. Along with this, it was recommended to de-link the NPA from basic pay.

Gurmail Singh said the NPA was reduced from 25 to 20 per cent in the pay commission. Along with this, it was recommended to de-link the NPA from basic pay. This would reduce the salary of doctors. Apart from this, pension and other allowances would also be cut, he claimed.

Health services were hit in all government hospitals, community health care centres and dispensaries in Moga district as well. All allopathic and Ayurvedic doctors went on a strike throughout the day over the Sixth Pay Commission recommendations. —TNS

Despite Covid restrictions, GST collection goes up in state

TRIBUNE NEWS SERVICE

CHANDIGARH, JULY 1

Despite the second wave of Covid-19 and strict lockdown restrictions, the business community of Punjab has shown resilience by not only complying with the return filing requirements but also paying their GST dues in a timely manner in June 2021. Resultantly, the GST revenue collected during the month stood at Rs 1,087 crore which was Rs 869.66 crore in June last year.

A spokesperson of the Taxation Department said the GST revenue during June 2021 remained 25.06 per cent higher than the revenue receipts corresponding to June 2020. Likewise, the GST revenue up to June 2021 (quarter-1 of 2021-22) is 123.48 per cent higher than the corresponding period in the previous year.

Implementation of measures like QRMP to ease the compliance burden of taxpayers, closer monitoring of bogus billing, rigorous enforcement, advanced data analytics using data from multiple sources and effective tax administration had also contributed to the steady increase in tax revenue, said the spokesperson.

The VAT and CST revenue during June 2021 stood at Rs 699.27 crore and Rs 20.96 crore, respectively, thus registering an increase of 42.37 per cent and 104.90 per cent, respectively, than the collection made in the month of June 2020. The VAT and CST revenue up to June 2021 (Q1 of 2021-22) is 106.73 per cent and 178.56 per cent higher than the corresponding period of the previous year, respectively.

BKU protests Cong leader's visit to village

OUR CORRESPONDENT

FAZILKA, JULY 1

Activists of Bhartiya Kisan Union (Dakaunda) protested against former MP and Congress leader Sher Singh Ghubaya during his visit to Ladukha village in the Fazilka segment on Wednesday evening.

GHUBAYA: AGITATORS NOT FARMERS

Former MP and Congress leader Sher Singh Ghubaya said he had gone to meet his relatives at Ladukha village. He alleged that the persons opposing him were not farmers, but supporters of SAD leader Hans Raj Josan. Notably, Josan is an aspirant for SAD ticket from Fazilka in the upcoming Assembly polls.

Sher Singh alleged that some persons were trying to weaken the agitation by organising such protests. He said he along with his son was supporting the stir.

Nadha said they had appealed to the leaders not to visit the village till the farmers' agitation against three farms law was going on. He alleged that politicians were trying to gain mileage from the agitation

DOCS ROLE LAUDED

National Doctors' Day, Chief Minister Jai Ram Thakur showered praises on doctors for their role in handling the pandemic. "You will tell this to the coming generations with pride that you were there in PPE kits, fighting the pandemic. Your work will be remembered for generations," he said. The doctors worked day in and day out to treat the patients, without bothering about their own lives.

"Eight PSA plants are already functional and we are trying to make the remaining functional before August 15," he said. The state is unlikely to face oxygen shortage. He said with the active cases hovering around 1,600 now, the pandemic is in control to a large extent. Dr Mallay Sarkar, a member of the state Covid committee, said there was no scope for complacency even if the situation seemed under control. Stressing the need to continue Covid-appropriate behaviour, Dr Sarkar said there was need to conduct a gap analysis for manpower, beds and oxygen and address the shortcomings immediately to stay prepared. "Also, there's need to create community Covid care centres at gram panchayat level to ensure preparedness in the rural areas," he said.

ESTABLISHED IN 1881

100 years of CPC

Strange paradoxes of the Chinese dynasty

Celebrating the centenary of the founding of the Communist Party of China (CPC), its ambassador to India, Sun Weidong, in a full-page newspaper advertisement describes the CPC as one 'born for the people, prospers due to the people and be rooted in the people'. Ironically, this sounds more like a parody of Lincoln's Gettysburg speech where he defined democracy for posterity. But the CPC's claim of it being synonymous with the people reflects its complete authoritarian control and its total negation of electoral democracy as a chaotic enterprise that undermines the nation's will. Coincidentally, the 100th anniversary of the omnipotent party was preceded by the closure of Apple Daily in Hong Kong. The last edition of the pro-democracy newspaper sold a million copies on June 24, while its Editor, Chief Executive Officer and four others were arrested for colluding with foreign powers.

When CPC talks about socialism with Chinese characteristics, it means capitalism and private profit; when it says people's rule, it means party rule without open competition for participation in government. Despite this inherent duplicity, the CPC has been successful in turning a war-ravaged, famine-prone, medieval society into the second largest economy in the world, changing the global power balance, taking on the US on an equal footing as a competitor. The economic miracle was not restricted to cities and its riches to the party bureaucracy. Instead, it created a welfare state with the world's biggest public pension scheme and, of course, a large, modern, technology-driven military.

The rise of China is the greatest post-war geopolitical development and it was achieved by stealth, playing one superpower against the other, making its people believe in the power of the party to transform the nation. Chinese communism is but unabashed nation worship. This unbridled pride in Chinese nationalism is getting transformed into expansionism as had happened in Europe in the last century. As the biggest neighbour, India has its role cut out to challenge Chinese hegemony till the CPC sees reason. Interestingly, the Economist magazine predicts, 'At some point, even this Chinese dynasty will end.'

Power pangs

Punjab fails to provide uninterrupted supply

In the election year, the buzzword across Punjab is power — political as well as electrical. The Congress government is struggling to provide eight-hour uninterrupted supply to farmers, a make-or-break vote bank, during the paddy transplantation season, even as Delhi Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal has announced up to 300 units of free electricity if the Aam Aadmi Party comes to power in the state. A month ago, the Punjab State Electricity Regulatory Commission had reduced the tariff for domestic consumers with monthly consumption of less than 300 units by up to 20 per cent, a move that was aimed at wooing around 70 lakh users. Amid this competitive politics, the irony is not lost on anyone: though the state is 'power-surplus', both urban and rural areas are facing long, unscheduled cuts. The peak summer, coupled with a delayed monsoon, has pushed the maximum power demand in the state to over 14,500 MW, which is about 1,500 MW higher than what the Punjab State Power Corporation Limited is supplying.

It's a no-brainer that the grid load capacity should have been enhanced well before the onset of summer; the failure to do the needful is taking its toll on various sections of consumers. Among the worst sufferers is the industrial sector, which is desperately trying to make a recovery after the crippling second wave of the Covid pandemic. The two weekly offs are hampering the industry's efforts to resume normal operations.

Subsidised electricity is costing Punjab over Rs 10,000 crore annually, even as flawed power purchase agreements are also bleeding the state's coffers. Successive governments have been reluctant to rationalise subsidies due to fear of a backlash, particularly from the farming community. Strict action to deter power theft and injudicious use of electricity has also been lacking. These issues can't be resolved overnight, but what's missing is the political will to address them. The least that can be done now is to ensure regular power supply across the state, besides lowering the tariff even when no elections are around the corner.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

It is the spirit and not the form of law that keeps justice alive. — Earl Warren

ON THIS DAY...100 YEARS AGO

The Tribune.

LAHORE, SATURDAY, JULY 2, 1921

SARDAR SARDUL SINGH'S CASE

HAVING gone through the judgment delivered by the Additional District Magistrate of Lahore in the case against Sardar Sardul Singh, we are only confirmed in the view we have already expressed, that it is impossible to think of a more monstrous sentence than what the Magistrate has seen fit to pass in this case. If ever there was a case in which the guilt of an accused person was not established to the satisfaction of the man in the street it was this case. We do not know much about technical sedition, and are painfully aware of the truth of Dicey's observation that "the legal definition of a seditious libel might easily be so used as to check a good deal of what is ordinarily considered allowable discussion, and would, if rigidly enforced, be consistent with prevailing forms of political agitation." And from this point of view, we cannot take it upon ourselves to say whether any of the extracts, on the basis of which Sardar Sardul Singh was prosecuted, do or do not fall within the scope of the law of sedition. We venture to think that it ought not to be the point of view of either the judge or the statesman. They have to read not the extracts merely, but the articles as a whole, and they have to read them in the light of what has come to be regarded as "allowable discussion." In England, a case like this would go before a jury that would not be hampered by any legal or technical considerations in arriving at their verdict, and would at once throw out the case if they saw that what the accused was being prosecuted for was no worse than what others had said or were saying without the safety or the well-being of the State being endangered thereby.

Fate of encounter specialists

The goings-on in the Mumbai police are getting murkier

TRYSTS AND TURNS
JULIO RIBEIRO

UNDER SCRUTINY: After Sachin Vaze, another encounter specialist, Pradeep Sharma, is in the NIA net. PTI

A Police Commissioner has lost a coveted assignment. His political boss has lost his job and standing in his party. And two 'super cops' are in NIA custody.

RADEEP Sharma was arrested in Mumbai by the NIA last week. The arrest made front-page news in local newspapers because he was a swashbuckling, risk-taking encounter specialist of the Mumbai police for several years between 1989 and 2008, when he was dismissed from service by Anami Roy, the then Police Commissioner. Anami got rid of him under Article 311 of the Constitution after evidence to show that he was in cahoots with the underworld came to light.

In 2014, Sharma decided to challenge his dismissal before the Maharashtra administrative tribunal, which set aside the dismissal order leading to the reinstatement of the Inspector in 2017. Surprisingly, he was posted not to Mumbai City but to the Commissionerate of Thane, neighbouring Mumbai. The Police Commissioner of Thane in 2017 was Param Bir Singh who was later made Police Commissioner of Mumbai and removed from that coveted appointment when his closest confidante, Assistant Inspector Sachin Vaze was arrested for planting 20 gelatin sticks outside the residence of industrialist Mukesh Ambani. Vaze was known to be an acolyte of Sharma, with over a hundred kills under his belt, like Sharma, who boasted of 112!

Like he relied on Vaze in Mumbai and put him in charge of the crucial Crime Intelligence Unit, Param Bir relied on Sharma in Thane. He had put him in charge of the anti-extortion cell of the Thane Crime Branch, knowing mally have answered! Those intermediate supervisors felt humiliated, and naturally so.

Reverting to Sharma, he resigned in 2019, after two years in the Thane police. He joined the Shiv Sena and contested the Assembly elections. He lost, and set up an NGO, PS Foundation, promising to give free ration to the poor. He was not short of funds! At the time he contested elections to the Vidhan Sabha, he had declared personal assets valued at Rs 56 crore, a figure well beyond his or even very senior officers' known sources of income.

It appears that the bonhomie between Sharma and Vaze continued apace as Sharma's name began cropping up in the investigations by the Maharashtra ATS into the gelatin-laden SUV outside the Ambani house and the subsequent murder of Mansukh Hiren, the owner of the SUV and an old acquaintance of Vaze.

The NIA, which took over the investigation of the Hiren murder from the ATS, arrested Sharma

Be happy to be healthy

ANIRUDH DHANDA

THE other day, a beautiful, vivacious, chirpy, young lady who is committed to homoeopathy, spoke to us, a group of meditators. She is a qualified homoeopath and also practises other forms of alternative medicine. She related her experience with patients whom she had successfully treated on the basis of their symptoms. Her understanding of the real person under the outer veneer helps her to effectively diagnose and treat the malady. Her final giveaway was, 'I have rarely seen happy people fall sick.'

That was an emphatic statement from a busy doctor. The question that naturally raises its head is — who is a happy person? You google for an answer and get countless quotes defining happiness. There are some which qualify to explain the term and at the same time, there are many which tickle and inspire you to share the 'happy' post with friends on social media.

But how long does this sense of wellbeing, joy or contentment last?

Our happiness graphs resemble the familiar ups and downs on an ECG print. Happiness, as we know of it, also has a euphoric peak and then the post-experience low, maybe after a short plateau. Happiness has to be something which does not waver in its quality once reached, under any circumstances. It's something that makes you yearn for nothing more, makes you grieve for nothing. Maybe bliss is the right word to convey that feeling. Being in love comes closest to being in that state because no conditions apply there. A constant state of being in love would be a state of continued happiness. And love here is not the boy-meets-girl story that you see in movies. Love is that which comes from accepting whatever and however things are. When there is no need of any need. Such happiness makes you not just happy but blissful.

There is no give and take, no wish to possess and absolutely no expectations. Go ahead and hug a tree. Feel the feel that flows between you two. What about watching the stars lying down on the rooftop of a village house! Or an early morning walk on the shimmering dew, delicately hanging on to the grass. Where are 'you' there? You become a part of the whole. You are in love with yourself, with everything around.

Gulzar's love knows no bounds in 'Garmiyon ki raat jo purvaiyan chalen, thande safed bistar par jaagen der tak, taaron ko dekhite rahan chhat par pade huye, barfili sardiyon mein ki si raat mein kabhi, vaadi mein goonjati hui khamoshiyan sunen.'

There is no condition in love. The more you love, the more you become love. The more you become love, the happier you are. A happier you is a healthier you. Not a bad bargain, eh!

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Be ready for third wave

Refer to 'Second wave burden'; India has seen the worst pandemic situation during the last one and half years. The preparedness by the medical fraternity and the people to thwart/reduce the effect of the expected third wave has become mandatory. This will not only reduce the fatalities, but also the load on hospitals and the exhausted medical staff. Vaccination efforts must further increase to cover maximum people. The capacity of hospitals, oxygen and medicines required must be augmented and procured to avoid the chaos that happened in the second wave. The economy has also suffered a lot due to the pandemic and cannot afford another setback in the near future. WCDR JASBIR S MINHAS (RETD), MOHALI

Bengal tussle

It is a matter of concern that the relationship between Mamata Banerjee and the West Bengal Governor has become very strained and uncordial after the Assembly elections in which the TMC won. The Governor should not have been actively in favour of the Centre. Mamata also crossed limits while making allegations against him, calling him corrupt. The Central government should settle the issue amicably. It is their duty and responsibility.

Government jobs

Our legislators are well paid and by the time they complete their five-year term, they are rich. They get a huge pension with entitlements of family pension to their spouse and multiple pension entitlements if they are re-elected. It is surprising that their children still need government jobs. In most cases, children of legislators join police service in officer ranks or as tehsildars or SDMs. Why should they not be asked to join the Army or BSF? Let them serve the nation by undergoing hard life in field areas and difficult terrains and set an example to be emulated by children of common citizens.

The children of legislators also should be asked to set up their own business or industries by taking loans from banks to promote self-employment opportunities which are the need of the hour.

Instant spirituality

With regard to 'Age of instant enlightenment'; there is no end to 'competitive spirituality' in which people jostle with one another in a bud to be the first or take no chances in case the supply is exhausted. Multiple rings on each hand, necklaces and cotton wristbands supplied by one or the other 'guru' only illustrate what the writer describes. Online spirituality and enlightenment are available in the religious market. Ironically, this confusion of the civilised Indian helps the governments who remain quiet over cow-dung solutions to viral issues like the corona.

Love for sports

Refer to 'Why we cut sorry figure in international sport'; we are not a 'sports-loving nation', though we have the potential to match the world's best sportspersons. Only cricket is an exception. Punjab, at one time, was the centre of sports like wrestling, kabaddi, athletics and hockey. Much of this glitter has shifted to Haryana. We must hand over sports activities to experts, and not politicians, bereft of 'love of sports'.

Another title missed

The Indian cricket team has once again failed in the knockout game of an ICC event. The problem of not crossing the line in a big match has been a concern since 2013, despite having a plethora of batting greats on our side. Some tough decisions need to be made.

Pension arrears

Apropos of the Punjab Pay Commission, the state government has accepted its recommendations but justice is yet to be done to pensioners who died awaiting their dues. Officials handling their pending dues start harassing the dependents of such people with ulterior motives. There is no time limit to clear dues such as medical bills, family pension and pay commission arrears. The government should fix a time frame.

ITRs for all

The income tax department should issue a very simple one-page ITR form and make it mandatory for all citizens of the country with income below the income tax exemption limit to file the details of income received from all their sources in the ITR. The benefit of all kinds of government facilities and reliefs should be given only to those citizens of the country on the basis of their income declared/appearing in the ITR filed by them.

UAPA's constitutionality open to debate

GS BAJPAI

VICE-CHANCELLOR, RAJIV GANDHI NATIONAL UNIVERSITY OF LAW, PUNJAB

CRIMINALISING protests in a constitutional democracy is a matter of grave concern. The Delhi High Court order granting bail to Asif Tanha, Devangana Kalita and Natasha Narwal is a scathing critique of the manner in which the Unlawful Activities Prevention Act (UAPA) is misappropriated to curb protests and suppress dissent. Persuaded by alarmist arguments, the Supreme Court (SC) seems to have blunted the value of the Delhi High Court order as judicial precedents while refraining from staying the order itself. The SC's observations, terming the order as 'troubling', are unsurprising insofar as they merely resonate from a dominant judicial consideration of the national security objective as paramount.

The arguments made in appeal against the High Court order reveal an inherent tension between the national security rationale invoked by governments to justify laws such as UAPA versus human rights and constitutional guarantees. In such cases, it is incumbent upon the prosecution to show that the dilution of procedural safeguards in UAPA cases including the denial of bail, are necessitated because the acts of the accused were such that the ordinary criminal laws are incapable of bringing them to justice. The court must not shirk its duty to critically examine this logic and must satisfy itself that the prosecution's case is backed by factual evidence rather than conjectures.

In this context, the Delhi High Court order is centred around section 43D(5) of the UAPA which requires the court to examine if there are reasonable grounds for believing that the accusations are prima facie true. Unfortunately, as the State's arguments before the Supreme Court go on to show, the conduct of this exercise by the High Court is being perceived by the State as a virtual acquittal of the accused. It has been held in a plethora of cases that the bail hearings must not be considered or conducted as mini trials. It is clear from a plain reading of the reasoned order that the High Court was well aware of this requirement and adhered to it. A prima facie exclusion of guilt required by the court to allow bail can hardly be taken to mean an acquittal of the accused.

It was further insisted by the State before the SC that the High Court order overturned UAPA jurisprudence on its head in as much as they disallow a person from being charged under the Act if the conduct is also punishable under ordinary laws. This is a misreading of the High Court's order. The order merely reinforces the rough demarcation between offences pertaining to national security and offences affecting public order as created and recognised by the Supreme Court in earlier cases. This enquiry is valid in as much as it purports not to determine the constitutionality of UAPA, but is concerned with the applicability of section 43D(5).

It is this enquiry that also necessitates the analysis of the definition of a terrorist act under the UAPA as well. Strong objection has been taken by the State to this enquiry in as much as it is perceived to challenge the constitutionality of the definition. These concerns are misplaced. The Delhi High Court order merely examined the vagueness of the definition to reiterate that established jurisprudence requires such vague definitions to be interpreted as narrowly as possible. On the basis of such enquiry, the HC concluded that section 43D(5) is inapplicable given that the offence of 'terrorist act' is not made out. It is trite to say that the applicability of a provision pertaining to bail is indeed the subject matter of a bail hearing.

It was also argued on behalf of the State that the Delhi High Court order reasons that UAPA couldn't be attracted because the riots were controlled. Perhaps the State adduced to the paragraphs where the High Court court would allow for extra judicial murders. The High Court order clearly addresses the argument of the State that the protest was not a 'typical protest' but an 'aggravated protest' and found that such arguments are not substantiated factually by the chargesheet and instead rely on "alarming and hyperbolic verbiage" alone.

It is also astonishing that the Supreme Court was perturbed by the length of the 100-page bail order. It should not be forgotten that the chargesheet itself was voluminous — running into 11 volumes with over 17,000 pages and examines 740 witnesses. The length of the bail order should be anything but surprising given that the jurisprudence relating to the grant of bail required the court to examine the case diary and the final report/chargesheet.

By requiring a reinforcement of the boundaries between acts subverting national security and acts affecting law and order, the Delhi High Court order has challenged the sense of paramountcy that the national security jurisprudence has enjoyed. In a larger sense, the order has brought the constitutionality of UAPA and the reasonableness of the restrictions imposed by it, back at the centre of a public debate. I am of the view that the apex court cannot afford to go against its own decisions in similar matters and this forum would finally endorse that in the garb of terror laws, compromising of due process entitlements and fair criminal justice process will be a setback to the rule of law.

Voice of Hong Kong throttled to silence

PALDEN SONAM

VISITING FELLOW, TIBET POLICY INSTITUTE

The crushing of the Apple Daily has different symbolism for different people. For the dictatorial regime, may be it means a great political victory — an extra cherry on the CPC's 100th birthday cake. But for Hong Kong, it represents the transition from relative autonomy to a repressive authoritarianism — an extra chain on Beijing's fetters. If the People's Daily of the CPC represents the poverty of one truth and one voice, the Apple Daily represents the possibility and celebration of more than one truth and one voice.

THE last day of the Apple Daily looked surreal, with hundreds of people queuing up outside its office as if they are attending a funeral ceremony in order to get a copy of the last issue of the pro-democratic newspaper. This simple act of buying a copy of the newspaper symbolises an expression of grief over the death of the newspaper and also solidarity with the cause it represents.

However, the harsh reality is that the political assassination of the newspaper by the Beijing regime is seen as one of the last nails in the coffin of the freedom of speech and press in Hong Kong.

The series of events unfolding in Hong Kong in the recent past do not herald the approaching dawn of human freedom and dignity. Instead, some of the repressive tactics employed in China's colonies like Tibet and East Turkistan (Xinjiang) have been exported to the city that was once deemed as the last beacon of hope for a democratic transition and basic human rights in China.

However, that hope seems shattered — at least for the moment. The dark cloud of totalitarianism looms large after the 'One Country, Two Systems' was dismantled, a draconian National Security Law (NSL) imposed and dissidents and journalists were jailed.

The crushing of the Apple Daily under the politically motivated NSL barely a week away from the centenary of the Communist Party of China (CPC) has different symbolism for different people. For the dictatorial regime, may be it means a great political victory — an extra cherry on its 100th birthday cake. But for Hong Kong, it represents the transition from relative autonomy to a repressive authoritarianism — an extra chain on Beijing's fetters.

As the party is celebrating its 100th anniversary, it goes on with a heavy dose of selective amnesia by emphasising its revolutionary, reformative and now rejuvenating roles in the development and transformation of China into a global power. Indeed, the one-party state is powerful and pervasive — transforming itself into a more intrusive avatar of the Orwellian Big Brother.

However, the people in whose name it has been ruling are yet to get what they deserve — their basic civil and political liberties and human rights. They have been reduced to cogs in the totalitarian machine and denied the agency and choice as a human being as the party decides almost everything for them, including their truth and enemy.

However, more than self-praise, the party needs serious introspection and honest confession. As part of its centenary celebrations, the CPC launched a massive propaganda campaign to study the party's history, highlighting its achievements. What is more interesting is not what the party prefers to remember but what it fears to be remembered by its own people. The Great Leap Forward famine, the destruction and mayhem of the Cultural Revolution, and the most important — the Tiananmen massacre of 1989 — are only conspicuous by their omission, as if these political disasters did not happen under the party's supervision.

Likewise, Beijing has been relentless not only in erasing public memory of its occupation and repression in Tibet and Xinjiang but also the systematic suppression of the Tibetan and Uighur cultural identities and basic human rights. They are made to celebrate the occupation as liberation, the cultural genocide as civilisation, and the prevailing structural violence as modernisation and development.

Under the reign of terror and intimidation, the Tibetan and Uighur people are forced to accept these humiliations. For the Chinese people, the party has been feeding them the happy pill of a coming superpower. But what does it hold for them if it means more repression at home and more tension and conflicts abroad?

The current party boss has peddled the idea of the China Dream of national rejuvenation, but what he has been doing is the consolidation of the party's power and privileges in a way that solidifies his position and that of his Gang. Like Mao's Cultural Revolution, his anti-corruption campaign turned out to be a political strategy to purge the members of his rival factions.

With his factional politics and ideological orthodoxy, instead of rejuvenating China, Xi has regressed it into the Mao era of ideological intolerance and repression rooted in a pathological paranoia, induced by regime insecurity as well as his own. The more he consolidates power, the more he behaves as if he is possessed by the ghost of Mao whose misrule killed more than 45 million Chinese people and caused unimaginable suffering and catastrophe to the people.

If anything, instead of emulating Mao, Xi needs to inoculate himself against Maoist tendencies and temperaments. This is not a question of allegiance but urgency, not conviction but courage.

Speaking of courage, the party has never shown it once; it neither has the moral courage to admit to its wrongdoings nor the political one to correct its totalitarian system. However, as an irony of a different kind, Xi has asked the Chinese people to have at least four confidences, but at the same time, his regime has gone on a banning spree — banning books, ideas and even cartoon characters and rounding up human rights lawyers and intellectuals and incarcerating more than a million Uyghurs in re-education concentration camps.

Beijing declared that it has put Hong Kong in the hands of patriots, but in reality, the city has ended up in a cage with some parrots that are eager to wet their beaks in Beijing's Mao-tai.

However, like a mouse has a hole to hide, the regime has always found a pretext to hide its dirty politics. And the issues of national security and social stability have been its political safe havens. Time and again, it finds an imaginary external enemy and alerts vigilance against it, ensued by a political witch-hunt. It declares that the sword of the party has aimed at the external enemy. But it has always been smashing the same head — the heads of Chinese people in general and those of the Tibetans, Uyghurs and Mongolians in particular, and now, of the Hong Kongers.

Similarly, with Hong Kong and its Apple Daily, in the name of national security, the Beijing regime has reduced a global city that was a source of dreams and inspirations for many people to being a source of political refugees. Again, with the Apple Daily, China declared that it is going to chop the hands of some foreign devils, but in reality, it is the voice of the Hong Kong people that has been throttled to silence.

However, what remains true is that if the People's Daily of the CPC represents the poverty of one truth and one voice, the Apple Daily represents the possibility and celebration of more than one truth and one voice. Xi and his acolytes may raise a toast on the death of the Apple Daily, but the spirit of the pro-democratic newspaper will live on with the people.

used to celebrate festivals and Ankit's birthday with enthusiasm but now all those festivities had become a thing of the past. "Children are the festival of every parent. Parents can be happy only when their children are with them. Ankit has gone, leaving his memories. We pray to God to provide us justice so that his soul can rest in peace," he added.

Vazir said Ankit's younger sister Kirti, who studies in Class XII at the village school, missed her brother as he always supported, encouraged and guided her.

"Kirti is now fulfilling the responsibilities of a son. We want her to pursue higher studies but are worried about sending her away from us. She is all we are left with," he said. Sub-Inspector Jaswant Singh, Investigation Officer in the case, said all five accused got bail from the local as well as the high court. Ankit's uncle and complainant in the case Sikander said the crime could have been averted had the accused intimated them about their concern. "Though we are scared for our safety, we are hoping this will not end in a compromise. We are hopeful that the court will ensure justice to us," he added.

One of the accused, when contacted, said their family had made no contact with the boy's family. "We want law to take its course and there is no question of approaching anybody while the case is on," he said.

China, but not those manufactured by the SII, the world's largest vaccine manufacturer. The EU digital certificate, which recognises only four vaccines and none of those produced in India, is recognised by all 27 EU member states, plus Switzerland, Iceland, Norway and Liechtenstein. Of these 31 countries, nine have decided to accept Covishield as and when they open their borders to citizens of countries hit by deadly Covid variants. India is one of the countries on the list. These countries are EU members Austria, Germany, Slovenia, Greece, Ireland, Spain and Estonia, plus Switzerland and Iceland.

India and the powerful 55-nation African Union have called upon the EU authorities to accept the Indian version of AstraZeneca vaccine called Covishield. A similar demand has been raised by some West Asian countries such as the UAE. These countries had received Covishield through commercial contracts or as part of a WHO-sponsored vaccine distribution program called Covax.

The EU said it's working to ensure its digital certificate is compatible with similar products in non-EU countries.

On doctors' day, PM hails their 'heroic' efforts during pandemic

TREBUNE NEWS SERVICE

NEW DELHI, JULY 1 Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Thursday described doctors as messengers of God who saved countless lives during Covid-19, sacrificing their own at the altar of duty.

Addressing the Indian Medical Association (IMA) on National Doctors' Day, the PM said doctors were "incarnations of God" and the government was committed to their safety.

The PM cited changes made to the laws last year to safeguard doctors on duty and lauded medical practitioners for constant fine tuning of India's clinical response to Covid, a dynamic disease, which was mutating.

Crediting them with India's Covid mortality rate of 1.3 per cent, among the lowest worldwide, the PM also urged doctors to create awareness regarding the benefits of yoga in overall wellbeing.

"Can the IMA work in mission mode to create awareness about yoga, conduct science-based research to evaluate its benefits and publish the results in international journals for the

Indian adolescents are missing breakfast much too often to not compromise their health, a comprehensive survey of dietary habits among 15 to 17-year olds has revealed.

The study conducted by Indian Council of Medical Research (ICMR) and National Centre for Disease Informatics and Research (NCDIR), Bengaluru, shows in the past 30 days, 48.3 per cent of the adolescents covered reported skipping breakfast on at least one day, while 4 per cent skipped breakfast on all 30 days.

"Breakfast was skipped on an average of 10 days by all adolescents surveyed and this trend was similar across all strata, a little higher for India," the findings say.
