The reply was received from Moderna only in which the company refused to deal with the state government.

The state government has been forced to stop vaccination in phases 1 & 2 for the past three days because of the non-availability of vaccines. All efforts would be made for procurement of vaccines to meet the acute shortage in the state, which had received fewer than 44 lakh vaccine doses so far from the Government of India (GoI).

As per the GoI allocation for phase 3 (18-44 age group), the state government has been able to buy only 4.2 lakh vaccine doses, including 66,000 received yesterday. A total of 3.65 lakh doses had already been used, leaving only 64,000 for use as of now, said Garg.

The Punjab Government has received four cryogenic oxygen rail containers from Belgium for transporting the life-saving gas from other parts of the country. This will take the total rail containers bringing oxygen for Punjab to 10 and will be important in case the state decided on new destinations for getting their oxygen supplies.

Markfed has been entrusted the job of ensuring ferrying of oxygen to the state on the Oxygen Express from its destination. Punjab did not have even a single major liquid medical oxygen (LMO) manufacturing plant and is currently getting its supplies from Bokaro (Jharkhand) and Hazira (Gujarat). Confirming the development, Managing Director of the Markfed, Varun Roojam said: "Our department, even in routine, is dealing with the Railways for different tasks, so tying up now was very convenient. One container stores roughly 20 MT of oxygen." The daily

The first supply of oxygen through the Railways was received at Phallaur on May 17. The second oxygen express was received at Bathinda Cantt on May 19. The third supply of oxygen came on May 20 and the fourth on Saturday.

Cooperation and Jails Minister S Sukhjinder Singh Randhawa said: "Liasioning and coordination with Railways or CONCOR across different divisions, i.e. Northern, Western and Eastern, was a challenge besides completion of all statutory compliances and taking services of handlers on board in a short period."

Capt Amarinder urged the farmers' group not to act irresponsibly and jeopardise the lives of their own people with such reckless behaviour amid the pandemic, especially when there was a complete ban in the state on all gatherings and any violation of the ban would be highly detrimental to the interests of Punjab and its people. Such a dharna would draw people mainly from the villages, which were in any case going through a crisis during the second wave of the pandemic, he pointed out.

The group's action was also completely unwarranted considering the total support the state government had extended all these months to the agitating farmers on the issue. He said as a result of the concerted efforts of the government, the medical fraternity, police, civil administration and village panchayats had successfully brought the number of cases to 5,421 on May 22, from a high of nearly 10,000 just about two weeks ago. —TNS

20 containment zones in Muktsar, 170 +ve in jail

MUKTSAR, MAY 23

Due to the Covid pandemic, as many as 20 containment zones have been created in Muktsar district. Of these, four are macro-containment zones, which include Bhundar village with over 200 Covid cases, Muktsar jail with 170 cases, some portion of Kuria village with over 50 cases and Patel Nagar of Malout town with over 75 cases so far.

Further, five micro-containment zones have been created in Malout town, three in Muktsar town, two in Gidderbaha town, and one each in Sarwan Bodla, Burj Sidhwani, Hari Ke Kalan, Badal, Bariwala and Ghumiara villages.

Dr Seema Goyal, district epidemiologist, Muktsar, said, "The purpose of declaring micro and macro-containment zones is to curtail the surge of cases. An area is declared a micro-containment zone when more than five Covid cases are detected. Similarly, a macro-containment zone is declared where more than 15 cases are detected."

Meanwhile, 284 positive cases were reported in the district on Sunday. Dr Ranju Singla, Chief Medical Officer, Muktsar, said, "We advise people to maintain social distancing, wear face masks, undergo tests and get vaccinated."

Meanwhile, a public announcement at Bhundar village created a furore today. Some villagers alleged the announcement was made to threaten people that if they did not undergo Covid test or got vaccinated, they would be deprived of government facilities like old-age pension, MGNREGA work, etc.

Bhundar sarpanch Sukhdev Singh said, "Some notorious elements are trying to politicise the issue... there should not be any uproar over vaccination as everyone knows its importance now." —TNS

Resistance to testing wanes in Mansa

Amid spike in deaths, villagers now willing to cooperate with officials

MANSA, MAY 23

A sudden spike in cases and increased mortality rate during the second wave of the pandemic have made people repose their faith in testing in the rural hinterland of Mansa district.

Notably, testing in the rural belt was met with huge resistance by residents during the first wave and even during the initial phases of the second wave owing to ongoing farmers' agitation as many believed that "Covid is not a disease but merely a ploy by the Centre to sabotage the farm stir".

The residents in villages have not only come to believe that Covid is a serious disease but they are also coming forward in large numbers to get themselves tested unlike last year when many villages opted for a complete boycott of testing.

Talking to The Tribune, district epidemiologist Dr Santosh Bharti said, "Except for few places where we have to convince residents, our teams have to barely put any effort in majority of the villages as people can be seen queuing up voluntarily. Last year, residents used to argue with Health Department teams. Irate mobs sometimes even chased away officials to avoid testing."

Baljit Kaur, sarpanch of Sherkhana Wala village, said,

"Residents even with mild symptoms from our village have got themselves tested and vaccinated. Health department teams tied up with us to spread awareness to allay any kind of fear among people. The response to both testing and vaccination drives is overwhelming with only a few people staying away from it now."

Dr Sukhwinder Singh, Civil Surgeon, Mansa, said, "From conducting 500 to 1,000 tests in March and April, we are conducting more than 4,000 tests on a daily basis now. It can directly be attributed to increased awareness and growing fear among residents."

Dr Bharti said, "Timely intervention after cases started surfacing in clusters during initial phases and converting these areas into containment and micro-containment zones assisted us in great deal to contain the spread and keep the mortality rate in check."

Conduct exams only for major subjects: Singla

Tribune News Service

CHANDIGARH, MAY 23
School Education Minister Vijay Inder Singla today said the central government should ensure safety of students before taking any decision on examinations of Class XII.

While presenting his views during a virtual meeting with Union ministers, Singla said during difficult times, safety and security of students and teachers must be the top priority of the government and every possible step should be taken in this regard.

The minister suggested that if they wished to conduct examinations of Class XII, the exams of only three elective subjects should be held as the passing-out students had to choose professional courses in medical, non-medical and commerce.

To conduct examinations for elective subjects, it would be Keeping in view the rising cases, it was mandatory for all aspirants to bring along RAT (Rapid Antigen Test) report.

This month, the BFUHS also conducted a test for the recruitment of 250 medical officers in the health department. Besides, the BFUHS has started the process to recruit staff in other departments, including anaesthesia, ECG, dialysis, cardiac, audiometry, radiotherapy, CSSD, MGPS, gas plant, physiotherapy, speech therapy and radiography. Union flays common admission portal

The Non-Government Colleges' Managements Federation of Punjab and Chandigarh has urged Higher Education Minister Tript Rajinder Bajwa to defer the decision taken by the department to make a common portal of the three universities of Punjab for centralised admission in all degree colleges affiliated to Panjab University, Chandigarh, Punjabi University, Patiala, and Guru Nanak Dev University, Amritsar.

A delegation led by senior vice-president Rajinder Singh Chhina and secretary Gurvinder Singh Sarna submitted a memorandum to Bajwa. It was pointed out that due to Covid crisis and the temptation of greener pastures abroad, the strength of the colleges was decreasing. "The fee-paying capacity of parents has reduced and with this decision, the number of students seeking admission in colleges will drop even further," Chhina said. —TNS

Junked by WHO, docs stick to remdesivir

Antiviral drug still on state protocol | Experts caution against overuse

Tribune News Service

JALANDHAR, MAY 23

Months after the World Health Organisation (WHO) recommended against using the antiviral remdesivir, saying there wasn't enough evidence to support its use, the drug continues to remain doctors' first preference to treat Covid patients in the state.

It also continues to remain on the state guidelines and protocols against Covid-19. However, the state authorities say though useful in the initial stages of Covid, the drug had no real mortality benefit.

Dr Surinder Pal Singh Sooch, former state president of the IMA and member of the Punjab Medical Council, said: "Remdesivir has proven to be beneficial in the first 10 days of the infection. Beyond that, the next stage of Covid treatment kicks in. Prescribing remdesivir in this stage is not advisable.

Dr Navjot Dahiya, national vice-president of Indian Medical Association and president of its Punjab chapter, said: "Doctors will abide by the guidelines of the Indian Council of Medical Research (ICMR) and the government. There is a combination of drugs being used to treat Covid. Remdesivir is among the primary antiviral drugs being used to treat the disease. Unless there are clear guidelines from the state or the Centre asking doctors to discontinue the medicine, doctors will continue using it. Also, there is no other prominent antiviral drug that can be used as a substitute."

Dr BS Johal, Johal Hospital, Jalandhar, said: "We are still prescribing remdesivir to our patients as it has so far proven to be a life-saving drug. My hospital will continue to use it for Covid treatment until it is banned by the government or the Indian Council of Medical Research."

Dr KK Talwar, head, Covid expert committee, and former director, PGI, said: "Remdesivir hasn't been removed from the Covid guidelines or protocols in the state. Some early benefits, including the medicine's role in reducing viral load, have been noticed. But at the same time, remdesivir does not provide any mortality benefit. We have been taking the same line continuously."

Patiala to get 2 virtual clinics by mid-June

CHANDIGARH, MAY 23

The Centre for Innovation and Bio-Design (CIBioD) at PGI here is all set to open two state-of-art virtual clinics in Patiala district. The two virtual clinics, one in the city and the other in the rural area, will be operational by mid-June.

These clinics will go a long way in making quality healthcare accessible to people, especially in the midst of the Covid 19 pandemic, as mobility restrictions have made tele-health the safest option. The two clinics will provide services in six areas of cardiology, gynaecology, neurology, ENT, medicine and paediatrics.

"These tele-health initiatives

One for the city, other for rural areas are being started quickly now to ensure patients who need tertiary care are not denied access because of the the pandemic, which has made human contact difficult," said Dr Varinder Garg, head of CIBioD. He said they had already started these virtual health centres at Sangrur in Punjab and Una, Mandi and Hamirpur in HP. The Punjab Police today claimed to have arrested two Khalistan Tiger Force (KTF) members allegedly involved in several heinous crimes over the past one year, including the murder of a dera follower and firing on a priest.

The two were acting on the directions of KTF's Canada-based chief Hardeep Singh Nijjar, whose name had figured on the list of Khalistan operatives handed over by the Chief Minister to the Canadian PM.

STATE TO SEEK DEPORTATION FROM CANADA

Obsolete meters not changed, discom fails to curb losses

PATIALA, MAY 23

Following Covid spread and financial hardships, the Punjab State Power Corporation Limited (PSPCL) has failed to curb its transmission and distribution losses by changing faulty and old power meters.

The work of checking power theft, shifting of meters outside the consumer's premises and replacement of single-phase electro-mechanical meters are still pending, causing losses worth crores of rupees.

Due to financial crunch, the PSPCL has no spare money to buy meters, despite the power regulator telling the corporation to replace these meters.

To reduce the distribution losses, checking power theft, shifting meters outside the consumer's premises and replacement of single-phase electro-mechanical meters are the basic requirements. The Punjab State Electricity Regulatory Commission (PGERC) has been issuing directions to PSPCL every year to work out the schedules and submit regular reports.

Officials in the PSPCL claim that total transmission and distribution (T&D) losses are 11.54 per cent at the end of the last financial year with the border zone year with the border zone leading with 22 per cent.

"There is no major financial problem in installing electronic meters and shifting those from the consumers' premises, but the problem comes from the consumer itself in certain pockets of

A senior PSPCL official said there were more than 4.6 lakh domestic meters, which were to be shifted out of consumer premises. The south zone had 2.15 lakh, followed by west zone with about one lakh.

'Blame' mobile tower equipment for series of deaths, get it removed as officials step in

TREBUNE NEWS SERVICE

PATIALA, MAY 23

Spooked by fears of radiation causing deaths at a Patiala village, residents have got newly installed equipment on a mobile tower removed with the intervention of administration officials.

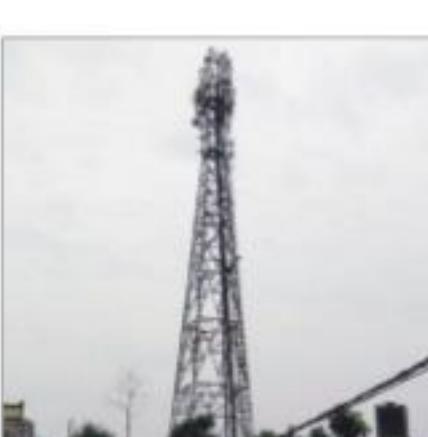

Residents of Daun Kurd village on the Patiala-Rajpura road had been in a tizzy for over a week after five residents above the age of 50 died in a short span. Some claimed to have felt tremors from radiation, while others said domestic animals too had lost their offspring due to radiation.

The villagers launched a protest saying they would not let the tower work until the equipment was removed.

"A number of villagers were affected by radiation. Some of our animals also lost their offspring," said a resident.

ANOTHER FATALITY

Owing to the non-availability of Amphotericin-B, the injectible drug used for the treatment of mucormycosis (black fungus) infection, the authorities of the Rohtak PGIMS have decided to use experimental drugs which are alternative to the mainline treatment module prescribed in medical text/ICMR guidelines.

Karnal hospital gets ECMO machine for critically ill patients

TRIBUNE NEWS SERVICE

KARNAL, MAY 23

Kalpana Chawla Government Medical College (KCGMC) has received an extracorporeal membrane oxygenation (ECMO) machine for critically ill Covid patients, whose lungs are damaged and require ventilator support.

The authorities say the machine works as a pair of artificial lungs. It removes carbon dioxide from the patient's blood and adds oxygen to it.

The ECMO machine works by inserting a plastic tube into a large vein and/or artery through the neck, chest or groin of the patient. This tube allows the patient's blood to flow out into an oxygenator, or artificial lung. The oxygenator adds oxygen and removes carbon dioxide from the blood, before a pump sends this blood back into the patient through a different tube.

"The machine will increase the chances of survival," said Dr Jagdish Dureja, Director, KCGMC.

He thanked Chief Minister Manohar Lal Khattar for providing Rs 50 lakh from his discretionary funds for the machine.

Khattar will inaugurate the machine on Monday through video-conferencing.

Religious sect may get nod to sell land gifted by followers

Amendment to Ceiling on Land Holdings Act to be considered by Cabinet today

TRIBUNE NEWS SERVICE

SHIMLA, MAY 23

The Himachal Government could allow a religious sect to sell the land gifted by its followers in relaxation of the Himachal Pradesh Ceiling on Land Holdings Act, 1972 as the matter will be considered by the Cabinet tomorrow.

Sources confirmed that the issue of amendment to the Himachal Pradesh Ceiling on Land Holdings Act, 1972 will be dwelt upon by the Cabinet as the agenda has been prepared by the Revenue Department for consideration. The followers of the sect have gifted land in small chunks at various places which the management wants to dispose of even though the revenue laws do not permit it.

The said religious sect has done a commendable job in extending help in the fight against Covid. In fact, two of its centres in the state have been converted into big Covid care facilities and as such the government could grant them this relaxation even though it remains a very contentious issue.

relaxation of the Himachal Pradesh Ceiling on Land Holdings Act, 1972 has been pending before the government for quite some time.

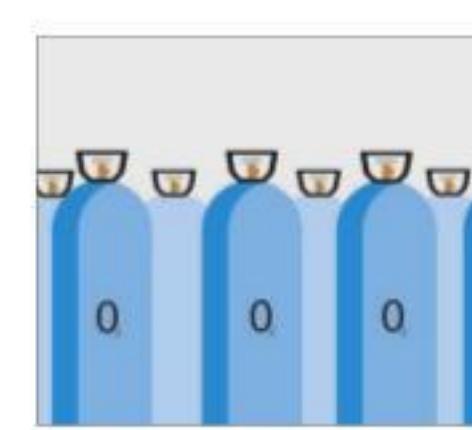

Efforts to grant this relaxation to the said religious sect were made several times even during the term of the previous Congress regime but with the Law Department taking an adverse view on it had suggested that this would be in complete violations of the existing laws and only an amendment in the Act would pave the way for sale of "gifted" land. This amendment can only be made once the Vidhan Sabha passes the Bill which will finally have to receive the assent of the President of India.

The Himachal Government, in relaxation of the Himachal Pradesh Ceiling on Land Holdings Act, 1972 had in August 2012 brought in a legislation, allowing religious and charitable institutions to own more than 150 bighas land by inserting Section 5 h(i) provision. As such many of the sects possess excess land which has either been purchased or donated by people at various places in Kangra and Shimla.

However, it is only one religious sect which has also been granted the status of agriculturist. Another sect has also made a similar plea to allow it to sell excess land but since they do not enjoy the status of agriculturist, they cannot be given exemption under Himachal Pradesh Ceiling on Land Holdings Act, 1972.

Residents of Lahaul Spiti have urged the state government to postpone the panchayati raj elections in the district, which is due next month.

According to the residents, till yesterday, there were 209 Covid cases in the district.

1,000-bed makeshift Covid care facility ready at Paror

OUR CORRESPONDENT

PALAMPUR, MAY 23

A 1,000-bed Covid care hospital has been created by the district administration at the complex of Radha Soami Satsang, at Paror, 10 km from here. Chief Minister Jai Ram Thakur will inaugurate the Covid care hospital tomorrow through a virtual mode. The hospital will be managed by a team of qualified doctors of the state Health Department.

Speaking to mediapersons here today, a senior officer of the state government said in the first phase, there was a provision to admit 256 patients and later its capacity would be extended to 1,000 beds.

All beds have been connected with piped oxygen supply system, so that immediate medical aid could be provided to Covid patients. This hospital has been constructed in a record time of 20 days, under the supervision of Kangra Deputy Commissioner Rakesh Kumar Prajapati. Kangra district is the worst-hit, with over 35,000 active Covid cases, and a high mortality rate. Palampur SDM Dharmesh Ramotra said all arrangements had been completed for opening the Covid care centre, and from tomorrow, the Health Department would start admitting patients.

"In the past fortnight, many cases have been reported in rural areas of Palampur, Baijnath, Jaisinghpur and Dehra sub-divisions. In the absence of beds at the hospitals, many patients are under home-isolation. Some of them are in a critical condition, therefore the administration has realised that more Covid care centres are needed to meet the emergencies," said a senior officer of the Health Department.

The state government had imposed curfew till May 26 in view of the grave Covid situation in the state. The government made some relaxations for opening of hotels, roadside dhabas and hardware shops but no decision has been taken to allow shopkeepers to run their business.

The Veerap Mandal, Shimla, apprehend further extension of curfew. It suggested that some arrangement should be put in place for opening of all shops for at least some hours every day as shopkeepers are suffering huge losses.—TNS

He said the objective of all these terror acts was to revive militancy in Kishtwar by looting arms and targeting prominent persons of a particular community to create terror among the members of that community. Kishtwar district recorded the first terror act in more than a decade on November 1, 2018 when senior BJP leader Anil Parihar and his brother Ajit were killed outside their house in Kishtwar town.

Describing Ramdev's clarification as inadequate, the minister said, "All you have said in your clarification is that you have nothing against modern medicine and doctors. This is not adequate. I hope you will seriously introspect and retract your unfortunate statements."

Vardhan reacted a day after Indian Medical Association demanded that Ramdev be booked under the Epidemic Act, 1897, for terming anti-Covid 19 drugs as "useless" and claiming that lakhs died due to these drugs.

"Citizens are hurt by your statements on allopathic drugs and doctors. I have in the past also conveyed these feelings to you. For people fighting Covid, doctors are like gods. You have through your statements not just undermined frontline warriors, but also hurt the senti-

Referring to Ramdev's remarks that lakhs of Covid patients had died after consuming allopathic medicines as unfortunate, Vardhan said, "Doctors, nurses and sanitization workers are putting their lives on the line to save others. Your remark that the allopathic system is a sham is unfortunate. UK set to unveil digital visa to count migrants

LONDON, MAY 23

UK Home Secretary Priti Patel is set to unveil a new US-style digital visa regime at the country's borders in order to measure immigration levels in and out of the country, according to UK media reports on Sunday.

The senior Indian-origin Cabinet minister is to confirm the so-called "sweeping changes" to the UK's immigration policy to "streamline" the way in which people come into the country on Monday.

The post-Brexit changes will include the border being managed digitally, which the government says will be easier to navigate for businesses and allow for the first time to accurately count people in and out of the UK.

"Our new fully digital border will provide the ability to count people in and out of the country, giving us control over who comes to the UK," Patel was quoted as saying in the 'Observer'.

INFOCUS AGRICULTURE
SUSTAINABLE FARMING

Innovation is the key to tackling agrarian crisis

MANJIT S KANG & PPS PANGLI

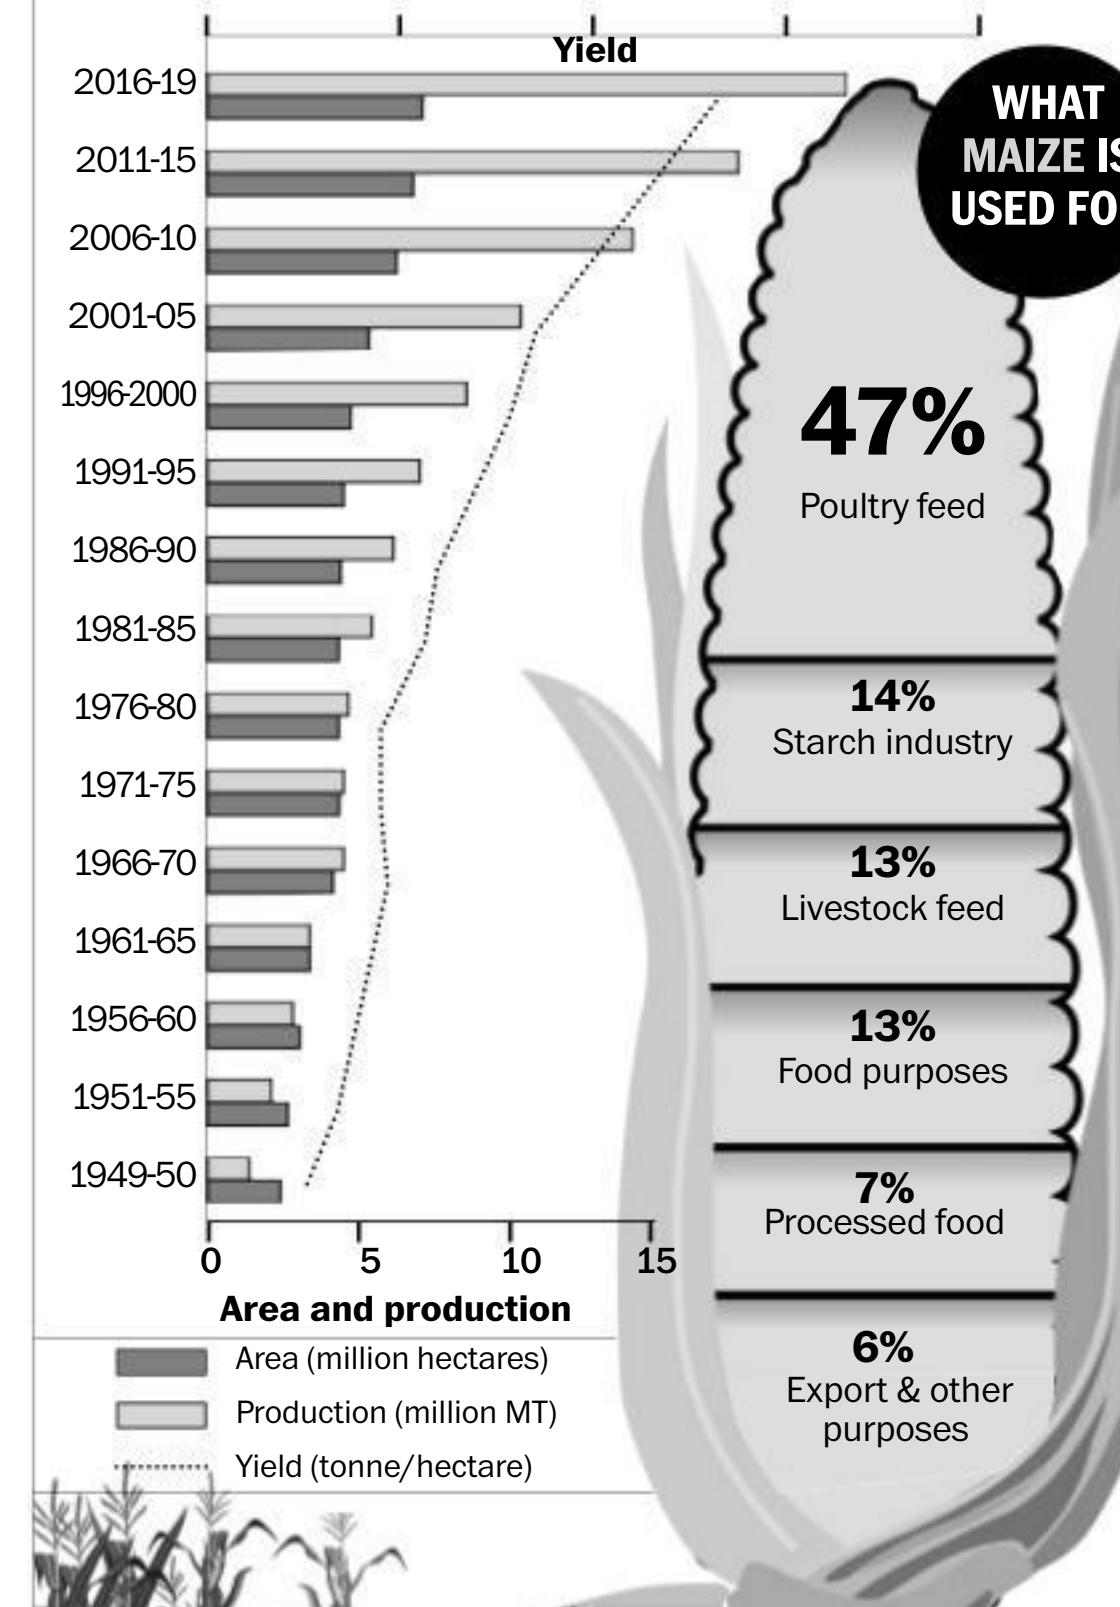

FOR an agricultural system to be considered sustainable, it must produce abundant food without depleting natural resources and polluting the environment. It must not render the future generations bereft of resources to meet their needs. Sustainable agriculture is a system of producing food that is healthy for consumers, humane for workers, provides fair wages to farmers and farm workers, and supports and uplifts rural communities.

While the Green Revolution of the 1960s helped India achieve self-sufficiency in foodgrains and shed its pejorative 'ship-to-mouth existence' image, it turned out not to be sustainable, as it depleted our soils of nutrients, increased our dependence on inorganic chemicals, polluted our waters, soil and air, and dried up our water aquifers. Not only that, our crop diversification disappeared, having been replaced by the prevalent rice-wheat monoculture.

Punjab, Haryana and western UP were at the forefront of the Green Revolution and have paid a heavy price for ensuring food security of the country. The adoption of the rice-wheat monoculture and burning of crop stubble (residue) have depleted soil organic matter and reduced the water-holding capacity of the soil. The current organic carbon level in Punjab's soils is a dismal 0.3% (about 50% of soil organic matter is carbon; soils containing less than 1% organic matter are found in deserts).

As India desperately needed to increase food production, especially of the main food staples, the rice-wheat cropping pattern was promoted by the government. Minimum support price (MSP) was established and the Union Government began to purchase only rice and wheat at the MSP. Farmers got hooked to the rice-wheat rotation as the MSP-based system provided an assured marketing outlet to them for their produce. They adopted this system at the cost of losing crop diversification, environmental degradation and depletion of natural resources. Important crops such as oil seeds and pulses progressively disappeared.

INDIA'S MAIZE JOURNEY

Incentivising the farmers to grow rice and wheat to achieve food security was a short-sighted policy. Had the government purchased other crops as well at the MSP, crop diversification would not have disappeared.

Post-Green Revolution, it is often heard in scientific circles that crop production has reached a plateau—productivity (per hectare yield) is stagnant. This is precisely because of the large-scale adoption of the rice-wheat system in the 'food bowl states' of Punjab, Haryana and western UP. Today, the rice-wheat cropping system is quoted as a prime example of an unsustainable agricultural system in the world.

What should be done to turn the tide? We present solutions from two perspectives, as one of us (Kang) is a scientist and the other (Pangli) is a progressive farmer and a farmers' leader.

Soil needs rest: The cropping intensity needs to be reduced. During the past 40 years, Punjab's cropping intensity has increased from 160% to the current 200%. This means two crops are grown in a year now, with no fallow period.

Crop diversification: The government should incentivise farmers to grow crops other than rice and wheat by declaring its intention to purchase them also at the MSP. For example, protein-rich pulses can be grown in Punjab. Such crops not only consume less water than rice and wheat but also add nitrogen to the soil, thus improving soil fertility. Oilseed crops can also be grown. These can save on foreign exchange also.

Area under rice cultivation must be reduced by at least 40%. Alternative crops should be grown. Conventional rice cultivation using the flooding technique generates methane, a greenhouse gas whose global warming potential is more than 80 times higher than that of carbon dioxide.

Punjab used to grow yellow maize. Drought-tolerant maize hybrids would be perfect for cultivation in the state. There are more than 200 industrial uses of maize.

However, the government must set up maize processing industry.

Increase forest cover: According to the National Forest Policy, 33% of the total geographical area should be under forest/tree cover. Punjab's forest cover is 3.7%. Through the state government's efforts, this area reportedly increased by 11.63 sq km in 2020. Further efforts are needed to sequester carbon to combat climate change.

State agencies' role: Markfed, Punjab Agro, Pungrain, and Punsup have been divested of their mandates and have become mere procurement agencies for rice and wheat. Markfed and Punjab Agro can be leaders in processing and marketing of crops like Indian (PAU) canola, whose oil is better than the Canadian canola oil.

Cooperatives: Farmer-producer organisations (FPOs) can help in mobilising and organising vulnerable and unorganised farmers engaged in various economic and social activities at the village level, as done in Israel.

Food and nutritional security: To combat hidden hunger, biofortification of crops with iron, zinc and provitamin A is needed. Food labelling and food safety with cost-effective agricultural technology are key sustainable agriculture issues. These should be included in the manifestos of the political parties, indicating the timeline for implementation and adoption.

Production-entrepreneur linkage: Production must be linked to entrepreneurship. Small-scale industry must be supported, especially in rural areas.

Centre of Excellence: A 'Centre of Excellence for Sustainable Agriculture' should be established at Punjab Agricultural University, drawing scientists from various disciplines, where the 'systems approach' will be used to tackle sustainability issues. There should be 'porous walls' between disciplines. The motto of the centre should be 'Innovate, Collaborate, Sustain'.

Academic inbreeding: In order to reduce 'academic inbreeding' in PAU, an appropriate fund must be earmarked for at least one-year training of PAU scientists (at least five per year) in the top universities in advanced countries to infuse fresh ideas into their research, teaching and extension.

Agricultural Think Tank: It should be established to include prominent agricultural scientists from both India and abroad. Punjab has produced three World Food Laureates—Dr Gurdev S Khush, Dr Surinder K Vasal, and Dr Rattan Lal. Such scientists should be included in the think tank. Innovative approaches and technologies are needed to help farmers overcome the agrarian crisis.

Finally, everyone involved in the food system—growers, food processors, distributors, retailers and waste managers—should play a role in ensuring a sustainable agriculture system. Policymakers need to ponder over Henry Ford's statement: "If you always do what you've always done, you'll always get what you've always got."

Curious case of the toolkit

The matter must be investigated and the guilty punished

THE plot in the 'Congress' toolkit case has thickened. Social media platform Twitter has, after an internal probe, concluded that the toolkit is 'manipulated' — forged, in other words. Following this, Twitter attached 'manipulated media' labels to tweets with which BJP leaders, supporters and social media campaigners shared the toolkit document, which was purported to be prepared by the Congress to malign Prime Minister Narendra Modi and the Central and state governments. The contents of the toolkit are damning, judging by the pdf file shared by BJP's national spokesperson Sambit Patra. The document, allegedly originating from a Congress worker's WhatsApp account, advises Congress leaders and workers to corner Modi and the government on Covid management, Central Vista project, PM Cares Fund and Kumbh Mela, among other issues. Some of the suggestions are aimed at widening the communal divide and sullying the country's image.

Twitter, however, has concluded that the toolkit is 'manipulated'. Twitter's policy states that documents or media 'that are synthetic or manipulated, shared in a deceptive manner, and are likely to cause harm' may not be shared on the platform. Several independent researchers and tech experts, after analysing the document and file data, have reached the conclusion that the document is, prima facie, forged. They also conclude that screenshots shared by Patra, allegedly linking the document to former Congress MP Rajeev Gowda's office, are fake. In defence of the government, the IT Ministry has said that 'Twitter has unilaterally drawn a conclusion in this matter' despite an ongoing police investigation.

Social media platforms such as Twitter are criticised, rightly, when they are used to disseminate rumours, falsehoods and fake news. If, using its own domain knowledge and expertise, Twitter identifies media as manipulated or fake, it must be lauded because, after all, nothing matters more than the truth. It is possible that Patra and the BJP were taken in by these dubious documents. The government must, in the interest of truth and justice, ensure that law enforcement agencies get to the bottom of this curious mystery. The case holds out an important lesson for all of us — don't mindlessly believe everything that lands in your inbox.

Fleecing patients

Private operators need to introspect, course-correct

FOR far too long, the brazen avarice neatly structured in their bills and rates by a large proportion of private healthcare operators has gone unchecked, and unquestioned. Now, as the authorities grapple with the misery and tragedy that Covid-19 has unleashed, complaints of overcharging and undue demands by medical facilities are not only being taken seriously, but also acted upon promptly and stringently. Helplines are being set up, inquiries are being ordered, the hospitals have been asked to prominently display rate lists, the laboratories and diagnostic centres are under watch, and even a cap is being put on how much can be charged.

The medical fraternity has deservedly been lauded for its continuing service during the biggest human crisis of our times. Private enterprise is business, after all, and making money is a rightful endeavour which cannot be looked down upon. However, there can be no justification for what is unfair and unscrupulous either. This perhaps is an opportune moment for serious introspection and course correction. The captains of industry have always stepped in to do more than their bit when the situation demands. A new code of ethics is the need of the hour, and a professional audit of what is acceptable and what is not.

There is much to the argument that the only way to confront the fleecing of those in distress is by drastically augmenting government facilities, but the budgetary support and vision required for such a defining change have always missed the targets by wide margins. Hence, innovative ideas such as paying medical bills to employees only if they get treated in government facilities prove to be meaningless. The private sector is here to stay, and its role is crucial. The regulatory mechanism has been a letdown, and the loopholes have been exploited at the cost of patients. Covid-19's one big lesson has been that empathy is the biggest asset. Every healthcare facilitator would have taken note of that.

LAHORE, TUESDAY, MAY 24, 1921

THE RECENT INTERVIEWS.

IT is no matter for surprise that the recent interviews at Simla should continue to monopolise the attention both of the Press and the public generally. These interviews, it is common knowledge, had been looked forward to with intense interest ever since the appointment of Lord Reading as Viceroy. We believe we were the first to suggest that there should be a personal interview and a frank interchange of views between Lord Reading and Mahatma Gandhi as a necessary preliminary to a Round Table Conference. It is, therefore, quite natural that when the news gets abroad that Mahatma Gandhi, during his recent sojourn at Simla, had not one but as many as six interviews with His Excellency, four of which were fairly long, and that besides these interviews, Pandit Malaviya had four and Lala Lajpat Rai one, the public mind should be filled with the liveliest expectation both as to what actually transpired and as to its possible outcome. Unhappily, the public has little or nothing in the way of data to go upon in forming its impression of the one and its forecast of the other. One or two stray remarks reported to have been made by Mahatma Gandhi and Lala Lajpat Rai in their public speeches at Simla which, by the way, were vague, are all that it has before it. One said that "he could not say one way or the other about the success of his interviews," and added in the same breath that "it might be called both successful and unsuccessful", while the other opined that no Gandhi-Reading compromise would be acceptable unless it conceded the principle for which non-co-operation stood and that the country would not follow even Mr. Gandhi if he did not stand for Swarajya. It is impossible to assert that the remarks give any definite clue either as to what passed at the interviews or as to what precise results we are to expect from them.

Shot at universal vaccination

The Centre must provide free jab, and soon, if we have to beat Covid

MADHAV GODBOLE

FORMER UNION HOME SECRETARY AND EX-SECRETARY, JUSTICE

THE Covid-19 pandemic continues to be a nightmare. People are inundated with never-ending, depressing news of the widespread suffering and death of near and dear ones, neighbours and colleagues. The Covid war has become heartrending. There is a feeling of despondency and helplessness all around. A common person is not interested in the political blame game. The only question on his mind is whether this nightmare is going to end. Much can be said about the mismanagement of the Covid catastrophe but I propose to restrict this article to only the most critical aspect, namely, the imperative of universal vaccination in the shortest time.

Scientists are warning of not just a third wave but a succession of waves. The frightening projections of persons likely to be affected daily range from 4 lakh, which we have nearly reached, to 1 million cases. The ever-changing mutations of the virus are adding new dimensions to the gigantic problem.

There are fears that unless urgent steps are taken, India is likely to go the Brazil way in terms of the spread and continuance of the epidemic.

The overall positivity rate in the country is now 21 per cent. As many as 533 out of the total of 718 districts are showing a positivity rate of over 10 per cent. While more than 60 per cent of Covid cases were from the rural and semi-rural districts, only about 12-15 per cent of the inhabitants had received one dose of the vaccine by May 14,

LONG WAY: Barely 10 per cent of the population has received the first dose, and less than 3 per cent is fully inoculated. TRIBUNE PHOTO

The responsibility of vaccine procurement should be taken over by the Centre. It makes no sense to ask the states to arrange such supplies.

2021. In contrast, an estimated 30 per cent inhabitants in urban and 19 per cent in semi-urban areas have received at least one shot. As for India's whole population, barely 10 per cent has received the first dose, and less than 3 per cent is fully inoculated. Thus, we have a long, long way to go.

According to the union Health Ministry, only 1.8 per cent of the population has so far been affected by Covid-19 and the remaining 98 per cent of the population still faces the grave risk. There is an agreement among experts that universal vaccination is the only way to deal with the situation. Considering the gross inadequacies of the healthcare infrastructure in the country generally, and particularly in the semi-urban and rural areas, this is most important. In tribal and remote rural areas, such facilities are nearly non-existent.

In the US, which was badly affected by the virus, the massive vaccination drive has led to a significant reduction in the number of hospitalisation cases. The death rate has also come down perceptibly. The same was true for the UK. For India, vaccination of the entire population, or at least 70-80 per cent to ensure herd immunity, is the only answer to the gigantic problem.

Against this background, I am unable to understand why India has been dragging its feet in laying down an unambiguous policy for universal vaccination in a definite time frame by which vaccination of the whole population would be completed, and the stages in which this would be achieved. The policy statement should also transparently bring out how equity will be maintained between urban, semi-urban and rural areas, and different sections of society. The details could be left to the state governments to work out.

The Centre had provided free vaccination to front-line workers, and those above the age of 60. Thereafter, suddenly, it has withdrawn itself and has left it to the states to fend for themselves. The cost of supplying vaccine free must be compared with the price India is paying for huge dislocations due to the pandemic, loss of livelihood for millions of daily wage-earners and migrants, loss of millions of salaried jobs, acute shortages, and so on. Providing vaccination free of cost nationally has to be a political decision and I am unable to understand why PM Modi is dithering. He should immediately announce that the Centre would provide free vaccination to all. Simultaneously, he should make an appeal that those who can afford, should make a voluntary contribution to the designated government bank account, not just for their vaccination, but also as a donation for vaccination of others who cannot afford it. This will get a massive response, as in his appeals to people to voluntarily give up subsidy for LPG gas and railway concessions to senior citizens.

The responsibility of procurement of the required vaccine doses should also be taken over by the Centre. This will include procurement from domestic manufacturers, as also imports from abroad. It makes no sense to ask the states to arrange such supplies. In fact, some municipal corporations are now poised to issue tenders for their requirements. This will be counterproductive. Apart from having to pay a higher price, several advantages of centralised purchases will be lost.

Finally, amid the Covid-19 pandemic, the danger of resurgence of the virus can be avoided only if the whole population is vaccinated. India cannot afford the luxury of leaving the decision of vaccination to individuals, as in Western democracies. It is, therefore, imperative that vaccination is made compulsory for every inhabitant of India. The Centre has powers to issue such orders under the Epidemic Diseases Act. But, if there is any legal impediment, an ordinance could be issued for the purpose.

Gurcharan Kohli — our own Chani

SURINDRA LAL

OCTOBER 4, 1967, was the day I joined MM Modi College, Patiala, as a physics teacher and met Chani (Gurcharan Singh Kohli) for the first time as a pre-engineering student. Chani greeted me at the classroom entrance with a winsome smile and a mesmerising glint in his eyes. I could immediately make out that he was the leader of his class. We had three wonderful years till the class passed out as the first batch of science graduates from the college.

I still vividly recall his first stage performance in college. It was the mono-acting of a deaf and dumb boy and his craving to have a mango hanging from a tree branch. The boy makes several futile attempts to grab the fruit, much to the delight of the audience. And finally, he has the mango in his hands. The way he peels it and gets down to savour it, as if possessed, sends the audience into raptures. Thunderous applause follows. A star had risen on the acting horizon that day.

Our association flourished with time. He became a good friend of my younger brother who was of his age, and they would often cross paths, being in the same city, Chandigarh. And with the coming of the next generation, he became an affectionate uncle to my son.

I can never forget the day he saw me in the PGI corridors escorted by my brother and son. He, too, was there to get medical help for someone close. He left everything and was there by my side till all my medical investigations were complete. He was deeply concerned about my well-being and kept following my recovery till I was back to normal. Such was his devotion for his teachers.

And then came my 75th birthday in 2019. His effervescent message for that occasion was overwhelming. It was love and affection in abundance. Very recently, we were together at a virtual alumni meet on August 1, 2020, and reminisced about the old times after over half a century. While his interaction with the old Modites was heartwarming, he paid rich tributes to his teachers and the alma mater, and promised a performance in the newly built college auditorium once we were out of the pandemic. But the actor left us dazed and in pain to be in eternal peace to perform a celestial extravaganza at the Lord's feet.

No tears, but prayers for the jester — our very own Chani.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Revive Congress

Equating the grand old party to a Covid-afflicted individual gasping for oxygen is apt ('The Congress conundrum', Nous Indica). The revival of the party, with or without the Gandhis at the helm, is necessary for minimum essential opposition to the party in power. In the absence of a strong Opposition, even democratic governance tends to become autocratic. Sonia wants only Rahul to lead. Rahul has neither the mind nor the will to shoulder the responsibility. Priyanka has her own limitations. It is desirable that veteran leaders in the party, like Dr Manmohan Singh, Ghulam Nabi Azad and Shashi Tharoor devise ways to see that the party does not get decimated. Its revival is essential for the public good.

KL NOATAY, BY MAIL

Must remain relevant

Refer to 'The Congress conundrum'; although the Congress has ruled the country for over five decades, it has been a rudderless party for many years now, having faced several electoral defeats. Alas, Sonia Gandhi is not ready to make place for another personality to lead the party in place of Rahul Gandhi. It would be better for the party to revive the practice of annual sessions or modify it to have biannual sessions inviting mass leaders from across the country to preside over those meetings.

SUBHASH C TANEJA, GURUGRAM

True public servants

Reference to 'Two bright stars amid gloom'; Sardar Patel envisioned civil servants to be the steel frame of the country. In reality, India is governed by IAS officers. Efficient and honest officers change the fate and face of any district in which they are posted. Many DCs have successfully completed big projects such as hospitals and mini-secretariats in their short tenure, and are remembered for long. Many times, due to political interference, caste affiliations and groupism, honest officers are not able to work to their potential. But, India could emerge as a great nation if IAS officers are posted without any political interference.

A job well done

'Two bright stars amid gloom' highlights the splendid qualities of some of our exemplary officers. India is a vast nation with pulsating varied demands for development and delivery of services for its people. It will only be served if the political leadership recognises the talent available and provides the support to get the work accomplished.

The writer has given a frank opinion on the turmoil unravelling in the country. It seems that soon 'the minds will be full of fear and heads held low' if we do not see the writing on the wall.

Opportunity to perform

The Covid management models conceptualised by two officers in Maharashtra is impressive. Covid presented 'aapda mein ek avsar' (an opportunity amid the pandemic) to officers to prove their worth. They converted the hardest challenge into an opportunity and emerged as triumphant heroes. Meticulous handling of the grim battle against the pandemic by these officers is a shining example of what education, common sense, perseverance and hard work can do in the most testing situations and can serve as a live case study of crisis management for other officers to follow.

Beating own drum

The writer is correct in pointing out the failure of the government in taking steps at the appropriate time, whereas it is beating its drum on steps taken so far, or accusing state governments ('How India frittered away vaccine gains'). This shows how the government is least bothered about the citizens, and that is why today we are witnessing numerous deaths. Media debate being aired on various news channels has party media spokespersons loud and aggressive rather than being humble and their head bowed for those who lost their life due to the mismanagement of the government.

NAI documents at risk

Central Vista is a major vanity project of the NDA government. It is a major redrawing of the colonial and post-colonial landscape. Several landmark buildings will face demolition, including the annexe building of the National Archives of India (NAI), which is the biggest archival repository in South Asia. It came into existence in 1891 at Calcutta, and in 1911, it was shifted to New Delhi. It houses 45 lakh files, 25,000 rare manuscripts and over one lakh maps and 1.3 lakh Mughal documents. A large number of researchers and historians of India and abroad have utilised this source material. The Vista project will render the NAI redundant in the coming years. This major dislocation may cause huge damage and probable dispersal of rare documents. It reflects an anti-history approach. It will impede historical research. The annexe can be secured, keeping in mind the significance of the material.

India walks a tightrope on Gaza conflict

STRATEGIC ANALYST

IT does not augur well for peace that three days after a ceasefire was brokered to end 11 days of fighting between Israel and the Palestinians in Gaza, both sides may be said to have achieved victory in the conflict. The short war was inconclusive. In coronavirus terms — which is a marker for most things these days — the fighting destroyed the only facility in Gaza undertaking coronavirus tests for the small coastal territory of two million Palestinians. Thirty health facilities in Gaza were crippled in the fighting, according to the World Health Organization (WHO) and testing for Covid-19 has been halted.

But the Hamas, which rules Gaza, is unbowed. Despite losing 243 of its people, at least 100 of them women and children, damage to Gaza's near non-existent infrastructure and facing a continued blockade from both Israel and Egypt, Gazans quickly returned to what has been their 'normal' life as they live from one fight to another.

In their third war with Israel since Hamas broke away in 2007 from the widely recognised "State of Palestine", now confined to the West Bank, 4,300 rockets rained on Israel since May 10. Some of these reached Jerusalem and Tel Aviv for the first time, but both cities were protected by the "Iron Dome", Israel's durable missile shield. It is the increasing capability of Hamas to strike farther and farther into Israel with each conflict that makes Palestinians claim victory in the latest war.

Israel, of course, has such overwhelming strength in entire West Asia that it is capable of overrunning all of Palestine by ground invasion, attempted successfully several times in the past. Its Prime Minister, Benjamin Netanyahu, praised the Iron Dome and said a ground invasion was not necessary to protect Israel this time. All the same, Israel's Air Force conducted several hundred bombing raids and claimed that 1,600 military targets in Gaza were destroyed. Israel is also claiming victory as the rationale for a ceasefire.

At the centre of the latest fighting is the divided city of Jerusalem, which is among the holiest places for all three Abrahamic religions — Judaism, Islam and Christianity. Alleged desecration of the Al Aqsa mosque and plans by new Jewish settlers to evict Palestinians from East Jerusalem triggered a rocket barrage towards Israel from Gaza this time. Hence, the Hamas is describing the latest war as 'defence of Jerusalem'.

India explicitly referred to this root cause in two statements last week — one to the United Nations Security Council and another to the General Assembly + by its Permanent Representative in New York, TS Tirumurti. This is India's first major West Asian diplomatic challenge since the country became a member of the Security Council on January 1.

However, deluged by the tweets, statements, counter-statements and press conferences through most of last week after Delhi Chief Minister

At the centre of the latest fighting is the divided city of Jerusalem, which is among the holiest places for all three Abrahamic religions — Judaism, Islam and Christianity. PICKING UP PIECES: Despite the damage caused by fighting, life is back to 'normal' in Gaza. REUTERS

Arvind Kejriwal invented a Singapore strain of the coronavirus, India's foreign policy enthusiasts largely missed a fine balancing act by their country's diplomats in the national capital, New York and in West Asia.

That India's stand on the latest round of violence between Israel and Palestinians left neither side entirely happy is proof of its correctness and its impact. For most of the seven decades since India's independence, New Delhi's stance on the Arab-Israeli conflicts was one-sided. It inevitably made Israel very unhappy every time such a stand was articulated, while the Palestinians were ecstatic. In transactional terms, India got nothing out of this policy. That has changed in recent years.

What last week saw, however, was a contradiction between bilateralism and multilateralism in India's West Asia policy. Bilaterally, one of India's most important relationships is now with Israel. It spans national security, defence purchases, irrigation, high technology, and most recently, jointly fighting Covid-19. But when Tirumurti made his two statements at the UN, this close relationship did not influence those statements. Instead, he commendably inserted a national element into what is at stake in Jerusalem. Jerusalem has a special place in the hearts of millions of Indians, who visit the city every year. It also houses the Al Zawiyya Al Hindiyah — the Indian Hospice, which is a historic place associated with a great Indian Sufi saint, Baba Farid, and located inside the Old City. India has restored this Indian Hospice. The historic status quo at the holy places of Jerusalem, including the Haram al-Sharif/Temple Mount, must be respected."

Tirumurti's harsh criticism was also directed at Hamas. "We condemn the indiscriminate rocket firings from Gaza into Israel, which have caused deaths of a number of civilians."

National interest was again reiterated. "India has also tragically lost one of its nationals during this rocket fire — a caregiver living in Ashkelon in Israel... We deeply mourn the loss of the lives of innocent civilians, including the Indian national, in the current cycle of violence for Palestine Refugees."

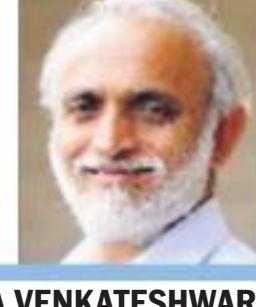

We reiterate our strong condemnation of all acts of provocation, violence and destruction."

Tirumurti's statements were not off-the-cuff. A fly on the wall in South Block, seat of the Ministry of External Affairs, said several drafts went back and forth between New York and New Delhi. The Prime Minister personally authorised the final statements. It is necessary to underline this, lest an army of trolls, self-styled Indian supporters of Israel, go after the public face of Indian representation at the UN.

Israel, of course, would have preferred India to wholly support it against Hamas. But they will understand India's compulsions. The Palestinians also know that India has much at stake bilaterally with Israel, although they too would have preferred the pre-Narasimha Rao line of all out support for them. Palestinians also know that when they desperately needed help after the United States under Donald Trump and Canada under Stephen Harper cut all aid, Narendra Modi was there for them. In 2018, one month after Modi visited Palestine, he increased four-fold India's contribution to the UN Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees.

India's recent policy of separating its bilateral interests from the multilateral outlook on West Asia deserves praise. Threats to such innovation come not from direct stakeholders Israel or Palestine, but from irrational supporters of Israel within India's ruling party, who are fortunately not decision-makers, and fail to understand the nuances behind South Block's considered views on West Asia.

Vaccine policy must be guided by transparency

PARSA VENKATESHWAR RAO JR
SENIOR JOURNALIST

It has not been made clear how many doses were contributed to the WHO common vaccine pool and how much India drew from the pool. Did Covishield and Covaxin doses that went to the WHO come back to the country from the WHO's common stock? Perhaps, these details will only be revealed under duress — when asked by the Supreme Court, through a parliamentary panel or an MP when Parliament meets later this year.

GOVERNMENTS are generally known to be economical with the truth. In the case of Prime Minister Narendra Modi's government, it is more so. This can be seen especially in the case of its vaccine policy. Bits of facts have been tumbling out from the affidavit filed in the Supreme Court by the Central Government and from the press conferences of BJP spokespersons.

Last month, there were reports in the media that the Finance Ministry had approved the release of Rs 4,500 crore to the two vaccine manufacturers — Serum Institute of India (SII), the maker of Covishield, and Bharat Biotech, the maker of Covaxin — and that the government had to go beyond the existing rule framework because there was no way of releasing government funds without guarantees, but that the waiver had been given. Of course, there was the allocation of Rs 3,35,000 crore just for the vaccines which was announced by Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman during the presentation of the Union Budget on February 1.

It is in the Centre's affidavit we get the nugget that the government did not spend any money on the research and manufacture of the Covid-19 vaccines, and that it has spent just Rs 46 crore to support the clinical trials at Pune-based SII and Hyderabad-based Bharat Biotech. It was also revealed in the same affidavit that the government paid an advance payment for the vaccine doses for May, June and July an amount of Rs 25,200 crore — Rs 17,325 crore to SII for 11 crore doses and Rs 7,875 crore to Bharat Biotech for five crore doses.

So, who had paid for all those doses from January 16 to April 30 for the health workers, frontline workers, the above-60 folk and those between 45 and 60 who had comorbidities? The total vaccine doses administered till April 30 were 15.48 crore.

It is through BJP spokespersons Sambit Patra and Gopal Agarwal that we came to know that not all of the 6.5 million vaccine doses of Covishield and Covaxin were part of the government's diplomatic gesture, and that a majority of the doses sent abroad were part of the commercial commitments made by the two vaccine manufacturers. They said that only 1.6 million doses were part of Vaccine Maitri.

Also, it has not been made clear how many of these doses were contributed to the World Health Organisation (WHO) common vaccine pool and how much India drew from the pool as it was eligible to do so. Did Covishield and Covaxin doses that went out of the country to the WHO come back to the country from the WHO's common stock?

Perhaps, these details will only be revealed under duress — when asked by the Supreme Court or through a parliamentary panel or a question by a Lok Sabha or Rajya Sabha Member when Parliament reconvenes during the Monsoon Session.

But the issue of how the money was being allocated both for Covid management and for the vaccines was raised in the July and August 2020 issues of the Journal of Indian Medical Research (JIMR) by two public health research scholars Indrani Gupta and Rama Baru under the title 'Critique Economics & Ethics of the Covid-19 vaccine: How prepared are we?'

They laid out the issue most clearly: "While a number of steps have been taken to tackle the pandemic in India, one area that remained unclear is that of public financing. Testing and treatment have been steadily ramped up, but it is not clear how funds have been raised and resources allocated across different needs."

They follow this up with this observation: "This opacity in public financing and policy should be avoided at all costs in the case of vaccines."

And they make the suggestion: "Thus, it might be useful for India to bring out a White Paper on Covid-19 vaccine and share it with citizens. All policies around the vaccine must be guided by the principles of accountability and transparency."

The sequence of events shows that there has been a huge fumbling at the level of implementation. As early as June 30, 2020, Prime Minister Modi, at a high-level meeting, had already envisaged how the vaccination programme should be implemented across the country and had talked of identifying the priority groups to be vaccinated, starting with the health workers.

Buoyed by the PM's involvement, the Indian Council of Medical Research (ICMR) had announced on July 3 that Covaxin would be launched on August 15, 2020. When the scientific community expressed concern about the haste, this was retracted on July 4, saying that that was meant to "cut red tape". And, there is a strong hint of "indigenous vaccine" and the implied vaccine nationalism.

It is on August 8, 2020, that a task force was set up under Dr VK Paul of Niti Aayog and Health Secretary Rajesh Bhushan to deal with the issues of the raising of finances to procure and distribute vaccines, and 'inventory management'. And, on August 23, 2020, Health Minister Harshvardhan announced that the vaccine would be ready by the end of the year, and there were three vaccine candidates — those of SII, Bharat Biotech and Zydus Cadila.

Then, on November 17, 2020, a member of the expert team on vaccines said that the government was looking at all vaccines, including Pfizer, Moderna and Sputnik. There is then confusion beneath the hyper-activity.

Today, five months into 2021 and the rollout of two vaccines, Covishield and Covaxin, the government is looking for adequate supplies, unable to decide about the distribution of the vaccines and about the moneys that these would entail.

The government representatives have a lot of explaining to do about India's vaccine uncertainties and the procurement of the required doses from home and abroad.

Testing times for India's Olympics-bound shooters

As many as eight Olympics-bound Indian shooters, including some of the country's biggest medal hopes in Tokyo, will be seen in action in the European Championship here tomorrow. Participating in the continental tournament as guest invitee, the Indians will, however, be shooting only in the Minimum Qualification Score (MQS) section, and their scores will not be considered for qualifying for the finals.

Can't take away his contribution to Indian sports: Vijender on Sushil

Indian sports' image will take a hit: Sharath

NEW DELHI, MAY 23

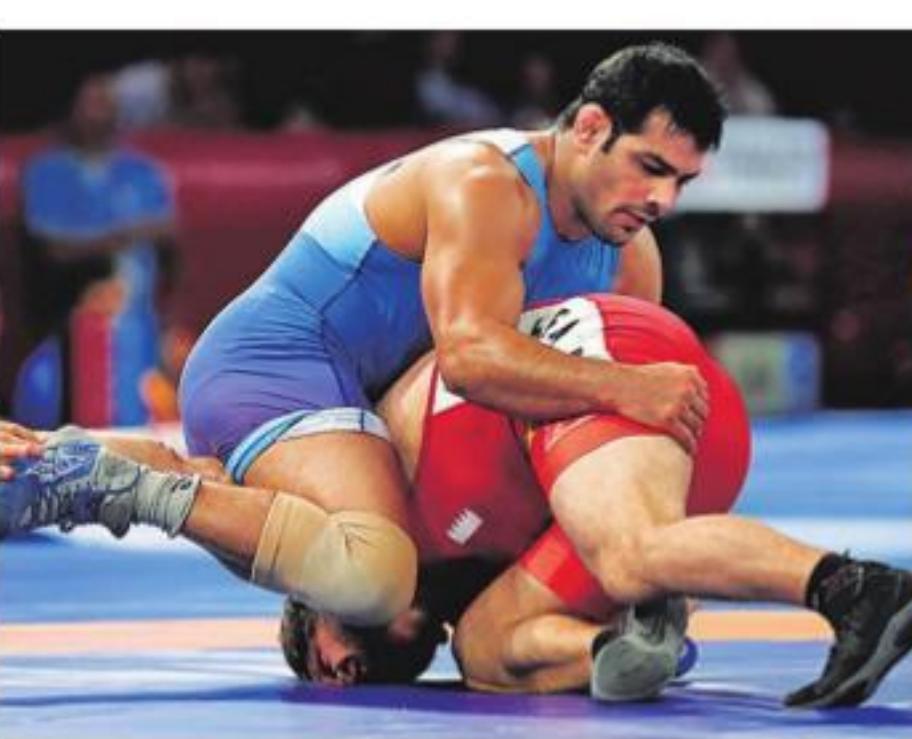

There was lingering disbelief and considerable disappointment as the country's sports fraternity came to terms with Sushil Kumar's arrest in a murder case.

The chain of events leading up to Sushil's arrest has left the Indian sports fraternity shocked even though respect for the two-time Olympics medal-winning wrestler's achievements remains intact. The 37-year-old Sushil is India's only world champion in wrestling.

"What he has done for Indian sports is something that can never be taken away from him," boxing star Vijender Singh, who has been to two Olympic Games with Sushil, said. "That's all I want to say at this point. Let things be clearer. I don't want to comment more," he added.

Both Vijender and Sushil won bronze medals at the 2008 Olympics. Vijender is India's only male Olympics medallist in boxing.

Seasoned table tennis player A Sharath Kamal, who is gearing up for his fourth Olympics appearance, conceded that Indian sport's image will take a hit. "If this has actually happened, it is unfortunate and reflects badly on Indian sport, not just wrestling," Kamal said.

Sushil Kumar is India's only world champion in wrestling. FILE

"He is one of the best athletes we have had. People look up to him. So if he has done what he has done, it will negatively impact not just wrestlers but athletes from other sports also," he added.

'Unfortunate'

Former hockey captain Ajitpal Singh, an Indian Olympic Association observer at the 2008 Olympics, recalled interacting with Sushil at the Games and said he still can't understand what exactly went wrong with the "polite" man. "...it is very shameful and unfortunate. Being a role model Sushil should have led by example and never indulged in such a brawl. He has got everything in life, the sport gave him everything, money, fame," he said.

"I met him during the Beijing Olympics where I was an IOA observer and found him to be a very down to earth and polite guy. But having said that everyone needs to know how to handle fame," he added.

Many other athletes also described Sushil as a simple person and were baffled by how things took such a turn. They preferred to keep their observations anonymous.

A prominent wrestling colleague of Sushil advised caution while forming opinions.

"Yes he has been arrested but only time and investigation will tell if he was involved or not. But definitely it has hurt the image of wrestling and sport in general. Let's see what comes out of the investigation," he said.

A top boxer who knew Sushil closely said he still can't make sense of the developments. "He has two small children, think of the impact on them," he said.

Sushil has two sons from his marriage to his coach Satpal Maharaj's daughter Savi. The couple tied the knot in 2011.

'Indian wrestling will survive'

A well-known badminton player felt that Indian sport will survive the setback. "...it may affect wrestling for the moment, because he is the biggest name in the sport but in the long run it won't matter... sport will move on. We have seen match-fixing happening in cricket but the sport only got bigger," the shuttler said. — PTI

Indian boxers assured of seven medals

NEW DELHI, MAY 23

A crucial test of preparations for the Olympics-bound boxers, the Asian Championships get underway here tomorrow with India aiming to improve on their performance in the event's previous edition. A total of 19 Indian boxers — nine men and 10 women — will stake their claim for the top honours and prize money, a first in the event.

The boxers reached here yesterday after a tumultuous few hours, which included a delayed landing and some confusion over approval paperwork. In addition, the team had to withdraw South Asian Games gold-medallist Vinod Tanwar (49kg) from the event after he tested positive for Covid-19.

The build-up and the subsequent journey seemed symbolic of the Indian boxers' Olympics preparations this year with Covid-19 disrupting training on several occasions. "This will give us a good sign as to where we stand before the Olympics and where we need to adjust," Indian men's boxing's High Performance Director Santiago Nieva said.

India had won 13 medals — including two gold, four silver and seven bronze — at the last edition of the tournament in 2019, their best-ever show in the event.

IPL's suspension will benefit India, says New Zealand's Taylor

WTC FINAL

LONDON, MAY 23

Senior New Zealand batsman Ross Taylor feels the suspension of the IPL "played into India's hands", giving Virat Kohli's team more time to get acclimated to English conditions before next month's World Test Championship final.

The IPL, which was suspended earlier this month, was due to finish on May 30, while the WTC final between New Zealand and India is scheduled to start from June 18 in Southampton. "For India, IPL finishing early under unfortunate circum-

A year after T20 World Cup, women's team yet to receive prize money

NEW DELHI: The Indian women cricketers, who made the final of last year's World T20 in Australia, will receive their share from the $500,000 prize money by the end of this week, a senior BCCI official said after it came to light that they are yet to be paid. A report in the UK's Telegraph newspaper quoted an official from the Federation of International Cricketers Association as saying that the BCCI is yet to disburse the runners-up prize money of the global event, which was held in February-March last year. Asked about the delay, a senior board functionary said: "We received the prize money amount late last year." PTI

However, Taylor reckons New Zealand will still have slight advantage over India as they are scheduled to play two Tests against England in the run-up to the WTC final. — PTI

Max takes lead from Hamilton

MONACO, MAY 23

Max Verstappen took the lead in the Formula One championship race for the first time in his career with a dominating victory at the Monaco Grand Prix, his first win on the storied circuit.

Verstappen took control of the race right at the start from the second position, in part because pole sitter Charles Leclerc did not start the race because of a mechanical issue. Verstappen darted in front of Valtteri Bottas and led start to finish for his second win the season and 12th of his career. The Red Bull driver took a four-point lead over seven-time F1 champion Lewis Hamilton in the standings.

Suarez — Barca's envy, Simeone's pride

For second time in 17 years, a team other than Barca and Real won La Liga

Luis Suarez celebrates after scoring. REUTERS

MADRID, MAY 23

Atletico Madrid won the Spanish La Liga and Luis Suarez won vindication as his goal secured a title-clinching 2-1 victory over Real Valladolid. Practically handed a world-class scorer by one of their top rivals, Atletico rode the goals by Suarez — burning to prove his former team wrong — and the competitive all-for-one spirit preached by Diego Simeone to the Spanish league title.

Suarez began the season crying after being forced out of Barcelona but ended it with his 21st goal of the season, earning Atletico a first league triumph since 2014, this one at the expense of Real Madrid.

When the final whistle blew, the players ran onto the pitch, Suarez underneath a pile of red and white shirts, with Europe's most nerve-wracking and unpredictable title race finally complete. — Agencies

Lewa breaks Mueller's 49-year scoring record

MUNICH:

Bayern Munich striker Robert Lewandowski broke Gerd Mueller's 49-year-old Bundesliga goal-scoring record for a single season on Saturday when he netted for the 41st time in the last minute of their last match, a 5-2 win over Augsburg. The Poland striker is already second on the all-time scorers list in the Bundesliga with 277 goals, behind only Mueller's 365. Mueller set the previous record of 40 goals in the 1971/72 season, which Lewandowski equalled last week. Bayern had sealed the German league title, their ninth successive and 30th overall, two weeks ago.

Liverpool and Chelsea grab top-four spots

BIRMINGHAM: Liverpool and Chelsea grabbed the final two Champions League places but Leicester City fell short of a top-four finish for the second successive season on a nerve-jangling final day of the Premier League season today. Liverpool avoided any drama as they beat Crystal Palace 2-0 to finish in third spot. Chelsea lost 2-1 at Aston Villa — a result that could have been curtains for them in the top-four battle. Yet they were saved as arch-rivals Tottenham twice came from a goal down to win 4-2 at Leicester City. AGENCIES

Turncoats queuing up to return to TMC

After Guha, Murmu wants to rejoin Mamata camp

TRIBUNE NEWS SERVICE

KOLKATA, MAY 23 Trinamool Congress (TMC) turncoats, who had quit the party to join the BJP before the Assembly elections in West Bengal, are making a beeline for re-entry into the Mamata Banerjee camp with the TMC having emerged victorious with a thumping majority in the polls overcoming the formidable challenge thrown at her by the Modi-Shah combine.

Sarala Murmu, who had joined the BJP after being denied the TMC ticket for the seat she wanted for herself, has expressed her desire to return to the TMC, a day after Banerjee's former confidant Sonali Guha made a similar overture.

Stating that it was an act of indiscretion on her part to have joined the BJP, Murmu appealed to party supremo Banerjee to forgive her.

"If she takes me back, I will stick to her and work for the party wholeheartedly," Murmu told mediapersons at Malda.

Murmu was given the TMC ticket from the Habibpur seat in Malda district disregarding her desire to contest the elections from Maldaha constituency. "I should not have joined the BJP. I shall be most grateful if Didi pardons me and allows me to return to the TMC," she said.

Former TMC MLA Sonali Guha had on Saturday written to Banerjee expressing regret for quitting the party.

Guha, four-time MLA from Satgachia in South 24 Parganas, in a note to Banerjee wrote that just like a fish without water, she would not be able to live without "Didi". Asking for Banerjee's forgiveness, Guha wrote that she wanted to spend the rest of her life under Banerjee's shadow.

TMC spokesperson Kunal Ghosh, when asked about the turncoats queuing up to return to TMC, said as of now Banerjee's first priority was battling the Covid pandemic in the state and all other things would have to wait for the time being.

"It is not just Guha or Murmu. Six to eight BJP MLAs and at least three BJP Lok Sabha members from West Bengal also want to join the TMC. However, no policy decision has been taken as yet with regard accepting BJP leaders interested in joining the TMC," Ghosh said.

Prepare for worst-case scenario: NDRF chief

KOLKATA, MAY 23

As West Bengal and Odisha brace for another severe cyclone after the Amphan havoc, NDRF chief SN Pradhan has urged the authorities in the two states to adopt an "over-preparing" approach for the impending natural disaster, and carry out evacuation even in the least vulnerable places.

He said those engaged in evacuation work must realise as well as make people understand that the choice is between temporary discomfort and death.

"What we have learnt so far from our experiences over the years is that if the disaster prediction is X, then you must prepare for 2X because a natural phenomenon can turn worse in a matter of hours. So, if the forecast is for a very severe cyclone of 150 kmph, you should gear up for an extremely severe cyclone," he added. —PTI

Congo volcano: Indian Army helps evacuate civilians

NEW DELHI, MAY 23

The Indian Army contingent at the UN peacekeeping mission in Congo is safe amid a volcanic eruption near its base at Goma.

The Brigade Headquarters at Goma has stayed, but troops have been thinned out by about 70 per cent in face of the eruption of volcano.

The Indian Army unit is headquartered in the Eastern town of Goma bordering Rwanda. The Indian Brigade HQ is located adjacent to the Goma airfield. Mount Nyiragongo, an active volcano that overlooks Goma town, erupted and spewed lava, gases and sediments at around 6 pm last night. The Indian Brigade HQ has held their ground and thinned out 70 per cent of the strength of the camp which has been sent to the Himbi Company Operating Base for safety.

Minimum strength has continued to hold onto the camp ensuring no threat to the UN and national assets as also providing security to empty aviation base, the Indian Army said. An observation point has also been established that is giving real time updates of the lava flow to the Brigade HQ, enabling them to pass the correct information to the UN. TRIBUNE NEWS SERVICE

Prime Minister Narendra Modi today asked officials concerned to ensure early evacuation of those involved in offshore activities in view of the impending Cyclone "Yaas" and directed that the restoration time of outages of power supply and communication network should be as less as possible.

Chairing a high-level review meeting on the preparedness of states and Central government agencies to deal with the situation arising out of "Yaas", Modi asked officials to work in close coordination with states to ensure safe evacuation of people from high-risk areas, the Prime Minister's Office (PMO) said in an official statement.

The minister also stressed the need to have proper coordination and planning with local governments to ensure that no disruption is caused to Covid-19 treatment and vaccination drive in the affected states.

He suggested that the officials should involve various stakeholders like coastal communities and industries, directly reach out to them and sensitise them.

The Ministry of Home Affairs is reviewing the situation and is in touch with the state governments, union territories and the Central agencies concerned.

It has already released the first instalment of the SDRF in advance to all states. The National Disaster Response Force (NDRF) has pre-positioned 46 teams, which are equipped with boats, tree-cutters and telecom equipment in five states and UT.
