Even as China is quickly building infrastructure on its side across the Line of Actual Control (LAC) in eastern Ladakh, the Border Roads Organisation (BRO) has flagged serious concerns about procedural delays hampering its projects in the UT.

Taking exception to the Delhi High Court reading down the Unlawful Activities (Prevention) Act (UAPA) while granting bail to three student activists facing charges under the anti-terror law in the Delhi riots conspiracy case, the Supreme Court on Friday said the order can't be treated as a precedent.

"In the meantime, the impugned judgment shall not be treated as a precedent and may not be relied upon by any of the parties in any of the proceedings," a Bench led by Justice Hemant Gupta said. However, it clarified that the release of the three activists — Devangana Kalita, Natasha Narwal and Asif Iqbal Tanha — who walked out of Tihar Jail on Thursday on bail would not be interfered at this stage.

"It's troubling that the High Court has gone on to narrow down the scope of the UAPA in a bail application when there was no challenge to the statute... it can have pan-India ramifications."

AICC panel to meet Capt, Sidhu on June 22

ADITI TANDON

TRIBUNE NEWS SERVICE

NEW DELHI, JUNE 18

The AICC panel on Punjab has called CM Capt Amarinder Singh and his detractor ex-minister Navjot Singh Sidhu to the Capital on June 22 as instructed by Congress president Sonia Gandhi, who wants factionalism in the Punjab unit to end at the earliest. However, there has been little headway owing to the lack of consensus on Sidhu's 'accommodation'. Congress sources said

Deputy CM's post was all that Captain was willing to concede to Sidhu, but the latter wants to be appointed Punjab Congress president. It is also learnt that the CM is adamant on appointing two Deputy CMs. The ball, the sources said, was in Sidhu's court.

CHANDIGARH, JUNE 18

At a press meet here, Rajya Sabha MP Partap Singh Bajwa today said Sidhu must be given an important role in the government. "While the PPCC is meant for traditional Congress men who have dedicated their life to the party, Sidhu should be given an important role in the government," he argued.

CHANDIGARH, JUNE 18
The Punjab Cabinet today approved the recommendations made by the Sixth Pay Commission for its 6.60 lakh employees and pensioners, paving the way for the implementation of the new pay scales from July 1.

Salaries of 2.84 lakh employees and 3.76 lakh pensioners in the state will increase by a multiple of 2.59 over the pay scales recommended by the 2006 Fifth Pay Commission. The annual rate of increment will be three per cent.

As a result, the minimum salary that a government employee will get is Rs 18,000 per month, while the minimum monthly pension will be Rs 9,000. As of now, the minimum salary in the government is Rs 6,950 and the minimum pension is Rs 3,500.

The new pay scales will be effected from January 1, 2016, and employees will get the arrears of the previous five years in four-and-a-half years with two instalments being released each year. The first instalment of arrears will be released in October.

With the new Pay Commission, salaries of various categories of employees in the Punjab Government remain the highest in the region, with peon's wages being revised to Rs 31,300, clerk's to Rs 52,490, and a constable's and patwari's salary to Rs 52,490.

A government school-teacher will now draw Rs 68,350 and a nurse Rs 70,820. Other than Delhi, which gives higher pay to some of these categories of employees, the salaries of employees in Punjab remain higher than those of their counterparts in Haryana, Rajasthan and Delhi.

Finance Minister Manpreet Singh Badal told The Tribune the annual financial implication of the new scales in salary bill of the government would be Rs 4,717 crore, in the pension bill Rs 2,924 crore and in the emoluments Rs 900 crore. "Since the Pay Commission comes into force from January 1, 2016, we will have to pay arrears of Rs 13,759 crore. Each year, we will release arrears of Rs 3,000 crore in two instalments. We had made provisions for the implementation of the Pay Commission in this year's Budget, with Rs 9,000 crore being set aside for the purpose this year," he said.

Interestingly, taking a cue from the Seventh Pay Commission of Government of India, the state's Pay Commission, headed by former Chief Secretary Jai Singh Gill, has recommended that categorisation of employees for calculating salaries be done on the basis of pay bands.

As a result, as against the 130-odd pay scales (where categorisation was based on "grade pay") of employees that are in force presently, employees will be categorised into 31 "pay bands". It is these pay bands that will determine the emoluments and dearness allowance due to the employees.

Officials in the state Finance Department said certain anomalies in pay scales that had arisen following the implementation of the Tikshan Sood Cabinet Committee in 2011 have been removed in this new Pay Commission.

In several departments, the cabinet sub-committee had given higher pay scales to clerical and secretariat staff, over and above the recommendations of the Fifth Pay Commission. Their salaries thus had become higher than those of class 2 and 1 officers.

the CM is learnt to have further pointed out that jobs had been offered to deserving sportsmen and ex-servicemen too.

Flagging the Congress poll manifesto of shunning VIP culture, the ministers vehemently opposed the appointment of Bajwa's son Arjun Partap Bajwa. They demanded tabling of the FIR regarding the killing of MLA Bajwa's father in a terrorist attack in 1987 and consent from other family members, besides pointing out that the beneficiary did not fit into the criteria of being offered job on compassionate grounds.

It is learnt that Sukhjinder Randhawa and Tript Bajwa pointed out that appointing son of an affluent MLA was setting a wrong precedent when there were more deserving persons, including genuinely poor families of former party MLAs and the kin of party workers who had been killed by terrorists.

Sultana pointed out that her family deserved the same as her husband, former DGP Mohammed Mustafa, had served during terrorism days. The standoff between the dissident ministers and the CM today happened a day after ministers Sukhjinder Randhawa and Tript Bajwa ensured the absence of Chief Principal Secretary to CM Suresh Kumar from yesterday's pre-Cabinet meeting. TRIBUNE NEWS SERVICE

The one-time settlement policy, for which applications will be accepted till March 31, 2022, will enable such buildings to be regularised on payment of a nominal fee and statutory government dues, besides bringing these within the ambit of planning and ensure safety of public.

Outlining the salient features of the policy, a spokesperson for the Chief Minister's Office said the policy would be applicable to all pending cases and those submitted by March 31, 2022. Buildings that had been constructed as per building rules in conformity with the master plans would be considered.

Ghar Rozgar'. We have completed our studies with hard work, but even after many years of passing out, we are yet to get jobs," said Sukhwinder Dhilwan, president of the BEd and TET Pass Union, while protesting at the main gate of the rest house.

"The cops tried to remove us forcibly, but when we resist-ted, they allowed us to sit at the main gate. We have been staging an indefinite protest in front of the DC office since January 4. The state government is not listening to us," said Deepak Kamboj, president of the ETT and TET Pass Union.

Today, when the members came to know about the arrival of Singla at the rest house, they blocked three gates. Though initially the police tried to remove them, the protesters refused to relent.

However, Singla outsmarted the protesters as he reached the DC office after leaving the rest house through the rear gate. His gunmen and vehicle were inside the house.

Unemployed, para players to return awards to CM

RAJ SADOSH

ABOHAL, JUNE 18

Unemployed para national and international players of Punjab have decided to stage a dharna outside Chief Minister's residence in Chandigarh on June 24 over the failure of the state to ensure government jobs to them. They will also return awards conferred on them by the state.

Sanjeev Kumar of Telupura village, a Maharaja Ranjeet Singh Sports Award recipient, will lead the protest.

PPCC president Sunil Jakhar had arranged his meeting with CM Capt Amarinder Singh on January 17, 2019, and recommended a job. Sanjeev even met Minister of Sports Rana Gurmeet Singh Sodhi four times, but nothing was done by the authorities.

Sanjeev, a para badminton player, has to his credit five gold, a silver and seven bronze medals in international events. Retaining his No. 1 position in the country since 2012, he has won 17 gold, five silver and three bronze medals in national para badminton competitions.

After his father retired from a government school in Khuyiansarwer village, making ends meet became difficult for the family.

Sanjeev said along with him, other differently abled sportspersons would also return the state's most prestigious Maharaja Ranjeet Singh Sports Award to the Chief Minister. In January 2019, when a protest was held by sportspersons outside CM's residence, OSD Sandeep Singh Sandhu had assured that their grievances would be resolved, but to no avail.

Expressing anger, he said the state government made tall claims on the "Ghar-Ghar Rozgar" project, but could not arrange a few jobs for disabled sportspersons. He said: "By winning medals at the international level, we made Punjab proud, but the government has failed to come up with a policy that would ensure us jobs."

Other para players and Maharaja Ranjeet Singh Award recipients who are expected to join the dharna are Shripal, Baljinder, Ajay, Ranjit, Hardeep, Gurvinder, Mahavir, Suman and Arjuna Awardee Raj Kumar.

Talking to The Tribune, Sukhjot said: "I had cleared both the tests in 2018, but couldn't find a job. I have been working in mandis for the past two years as a labourer to support my family." He said the government should provide jobs to the youth as per their qualification as there were around 30,000 vacancies in the Education Department.

"The government has advertised posts this time, but the number is very low. The education department has claimed that around four lakh students are shifting from private schools to government schools this year. So, the government should recruit teachers according to the number of students so that the youth can also get jobs according to their ability," he said.

Sukhjot's friend Makhan Singh said: "Many youngsters like Sukhjot are unemployed despite being highly qualified. We are forced to take up petty jobs."

Take up plea for Jaipal's second autopsy, HC told

CHANDIGARH, JUNE 18

The Supreme Court today ruled that the Punjab and Haryana High Court erred in dismissing a petition for the second post-mortem of alleged gangster Jaipal Singh Bhullar on the ground that the death occurred in Kolkata and the post-mortem examination, too, was conducted there.

Directing the state to make necessary arrangements for the proper preservation and storage of the body, the Bench of Justice Indira Banerjee and Justice MR Shah asked the High Court to decide the petition on merit on Monday. The Bench asserted there were serious allegations against the Punjab Police in the case. It was claimed to have been involved in the alleged encounter, in which petitioner Bhupinder Singh's son was killed. The body was brought to Punjab and is still here. The petitioner has alleged that the Punjab Police had resorted to manipulation of the post-mortem report.

Dumped 621 vials of remdesivir into Bhakra | Made ₹5 cr during surge

HOW CASE UNRAVELLED

MAY 3: Pradip, who was supplied fake injections by the accused, held in Panipat

MAY 5: Fearing arrest, the accused threw vials into the Bhakra canal near Ropar

MAY 6: 3,000 vials, including 621 of remdesivir, 1,456 of cefoperazone and 849 of an unlabelled drug, recovered from the canal have recovered Rs 2 crore and four cars from their possession.

On May 6, around 3,000 vials, including 621 of remdesivir, 1,456 of cefoperazone and 849 of an unlabelled drug, were found in the Bhakra canal near Salempur and Balasanda villages. The health authorities had then declared the remdesivir vials as fake.

Chaudhary said during the peak of the second Covid wave, remdesivir was in short supply and Shahwar already in pharmaceutical business, conspired to supply fake injections to his contacts to make a quick buck.

It was found that Pradip, who was supplied fake injections, had been arrested in Panipat on May 3. Fearing they would be nabbed too, the accused threw the vials into the canal near Ropar on May 5. "We held raids to nab Shahwar, but he kept evading arrest," the SSP said.

The accused, identified as Mohammad Shahwar, was presented before media at a press conference held by Ropar SSP Akhil Chaudhary here today. Besides Shahwar, who's a resident of Muzaffarnagar in UP, his five accomplices — Arshad Khan of Baghpat, Mohammad Arshad of Saharanpur; Pradeep Saroha of Kurukshetra, Shah Nazar and Shah Alam of Behlopur village in Mohali — have been arrested. The police have recovered Rs 2 crore and four cars from their possession.

Chaudhary said during the peak of the second Covid wave, remdesivir was in short supply and Shahwar already in pharmaceutical business, conspired to supply fake injections to his contacts to make a quick buck.

The spread of the disease has caused panic among residents as there is no facility in government hospitals to treat black fungus. They have to rush to private hospitals where the treatment is very costly.

With the death of a woman from Bagh Sikandar village due to black fungus (mucormycosis) today, the death toll has risen to three in the district, whereas three new positive cases of black fungus were reported today, taking the positive cases tally to 16.

The spread of the disease has caused panic among residents as there is no facility in government hospitals to treat black fungus. They have to rush to private hospitals where the treatment is very costly.

Civil Surgeon Dr Mohinder Singh said one patient infected with black fungus had been discharged and the rest were undergoing treatment in various hospitals. — OC

Nutritious diet for kids, mothers on doorstep

MOHALI, JUNE 18

Social Security, Women and Child Development Minister Aruna Chaudhary today launched a new nutritious diet for children up to six years, pregnant women and lactating mothers at Patehgarh village of Majri block in Mohali district. She said the diet, prepared by Markfed, would be made available to beneficiaries on their doorstep. She said the state government had decided to introduce the new recipe to raise the nutritional value of food provided to these groups through anganwadi centres under the Supplementary Nutrition Programme. The minister said the new diet included gram flour, moong dal, soybean flour and double fortified salt. She also distributed dry ration packets to children, pregnant women and lactating mothers.

Talking about the "Udaan" scheme launched by the department for needy women, she said beneficiaries were being covered through the state-level network of 27,314 anganwadi centres. — TNS

Plug testing gaps

Pace, accuracy vital to contain Covid infections

INDIA'S Covid testing has been a cause for concern ever since the outbreak of the pandemic. The country is conducting a modest 2.8 lakh tests per 10 lakh population, slightly better than Brazil but way behind the UK and the US. The failure or inability of various states to ensure that the testing kept pace with the fast-rising rate of infections was one of the reasons why the second wave was so destructive. While the testing rate has been dismal, the accuracy and credibility of the entire process have also not inspired confidence. The detection of a scam, wherein fake Covid-negative reports were allegedly issued by a company and two private labs during the Kumbh Mela in April, has laid bare the messy state of affairs. It is suspected that the labs fudged reports in the name of random people on the basis of their identity cards and phone numbers, apparently in an attempt to meet the daily quota of 50,000 tests set by the Uttarakhand High Court.

Though this scam pertains largely to persons who were not even tested, it's quite likely that some of the labs did not do proper testing of the samples received and might have issued negative reports to people who were actually Covid-positive. The investigators should look into all kinds of irregularities in the functioning of these labs. The infected people who were falsely declared Covid-negative must have transmitted the virus during the 'superspread'er' event itself or on their return to their native places.

The rot is certainly not confined to Uttarakhand. Most states ought to get their act together in terms of the coverage, pace and reliability of testing. There is a dire need for ramping up testing facilities in urban as well as rural areas so that the time-consuming exercise of sending samples to other places and waiting for reports for days can be avoided. Timely testing and isolation are the key to controlling Covid infections. It's hoped that course correction will be done sooner than later to pre-empt the third wave.

Not 'Ultimate Test'?

Not ideal to play WTC final in wetter part of English summer

SOME blunt words from Indian captain Virat Kohli have poured water over the final match of the inaugural World Test Championship (WTC), which started between India and New Zealand in Southampton on Friday. While the International Cricket Council (ICC) has been trying to hype up the match as the 'Ultimate Test', Kohli believes that the game won't really decide which team is the best in the world. 'If you are talking about Test cricket and deciding who is the best Test team in the world on one game over a period of five days, that's not the reality of the truth. It is not going to reflect anything for people who really understand the game...' the Indian captain said. Ouch! Kohli's words suggest that while he and his team are treating this as a match they must win, the result would not really be very significant in the larger scheme of things.

Kohli is right — this final seems so very different from a final of, say, the ODI World Cup, in which teams reach there after intense competition over immediately preceding days and are ready for each other. This does not seem to be the case for the WTC final, for India last played a Test match over three months ago on dry, turning pitches in India, while New Zealand have played two Tests in the last few weeks in England, winning one in Edgbaston. Parachuting an India XI into this situation seems quite random — which is ironic, because the idea behind the WTC was to provide context and importance to every bilateral series! That might seem to be quibbling, but there's also the more serious issue of scheduling — the first half of the English summer is generally very wet and not ideal for a match being touted as 'Ultimate Test'. Indeed, the first day was washed out, and rain is forecast for the rest of the match, too.

Not far from Southampton, the Indian women's team too is playing a Test. It has already seen some top performances, including an attacking 96 by exciting Haryana teenager Shafali Verma. The game holds great significance for the woman players — it's their first Test in seven years. Their excitement contrasts with Kohli's detachment, which is inversely proportional to the rewards they get for playing the game.

Mr. Andrews on the Chandpur Affair.

IT is the usual practice among a class of officials, whenever they are confronted with inconvenient issues, to seek to cloud that atmosphere by raising irrelevant questions. Thus in connection with the happenings at Chandpur it has been officially alleged that much of the trouble was due to the fact that the doctors and volunteers at the place would not co-operate with the officials and with Englishmen. As reply to those who have been complaining of the employment of Gurkhas, this is beside the point; but is it true? Let Mr. Andrews, who can speak with an authority in this matter which no official can claim, and whose veracity is as much above suspicion as that of the highest official whether in India or anywhere else, answer the question. Speaking at a recent public meeting in Calcutta, he said that "doctors and volunteers would have readily co-operated with the officials if the latter had put aside their officialism and come to work among the people." He cited a concrete instance to show that the former had no prejudice against Englishmen as such, any more than they had a bias in favour of an Indian as such. "Mr. and Mrs. Goring, the Bishop of Assam and his wife, and Dr. Pemberton, the Railway Hospital Doctor," he said, "won the hearts of the national volunteers who saw them tenderly looking after the cholera patients, but they had a poor opinion of Dr. Batra and the Commissioner. They tried to co-operate with Dr. Batra and failed, but they would have gladly co-operated with Dr. Pemberton." This disposes of the theory both of non-co-operation and of racial prejudice. It is not non-co-operation when you non-co-operate with a man who will not allow you to co-operate with him on honourable terms, and there can be no question of racial bias on the part of Indians who, while gladly co-operating with an English Bishop, refuse to co-operate with an Indian Commissioner.

Challenging China

India lacks self-belief to build itself as a counterweight the world would respect

NOUS INDICA

RAJESH RAMACHANDRAN

CHARGED: Despite the Galwan clash, the Chinese expanded their share in the Indian smartphone market from 71 per cent to 75 per cent in 2020. PTI and hence have a trade surplus, but the trade deficit of $45.9 billion with China tells the real story of our dependence on Chinese manufacturing.

While China became the global manufacturing hub in the last couple of decades, India was reduced to a glitzy global shopping mall, happily buying cheap Chinese goods.

Even when our import bill fell by about 17 per cent, the Chinese goods as a share of our total imports only grew in the year of the standoff at the Line of Actual Control. No wonder the Chinese believe that India has no option but to gulp its pride, lick its wounds and carry on with the India-China trade to ensure that our digital economy, telecom connections and computer terminals remain hooked and running. In fact, it is high time Indian economists started taking a hard look at the generational losses the country incurred in stymieing its manufacturing by entering into the World Trade Organisation regime gamed by American investors and Chinese manufacturers.

Despite the Galwan clash, the Chinese expanded their share in the Indian smartphone market from 71 per cent to 75 per cent in 2020, thus conclusively disproving the theory that the lure of the Indian market would be a deterrent to Chinese military pursuits. In fact, it is now the Indian market that is dependent on Chinese telecom instruments, electronic instruments, components and consumer goods, computer hardware and peripherals, and pharmaceutical ingredients. The latest trade figures put out by the Ministry of Commerce and Industry show that we imported goods worth $65.21 billion from China in 2020-21, topping the charts, whereas our US imports were not even half of that value at just $28.86 billion. Sure, we export more to the US entirely correct because India had, at least in the last few decades, completely forgotten the 1962 debacle and started believing in a benign China. India's security apparatus was forever preoccupied with its western neighbour, convincing itself that China is a friend. Even this writer, as late as in 2018, wanted to believe that India could remain a swing state in a simultaneous and mutually exclusive, opportunistic relationship with the US and China. That was what Indians wanted to believe — that a growing China will not be a threat but could actually help us also grow. Doklam was the first jolt, which India did not understand, and then came the territorial aggression in Ladakh. With the death of those 20 bravehearts, India began understanding Chinese designs.

Finally, the Gwadar-to-Xinjiang China-Pakistan Economic Corridor has begun making military sense as we confront the Sino-Pakistani arc in the subcontinent from Doklam to Gwadar. To this should be added the sea arc from Gwadar port to Hambantota port in Sri Lanka to the third largest Bangladesh port, Payra, which is being developed by the Chinese.

Reuters had in 2014 reported the docking of a Chinese submarine and a warship at the Colombo port, where China is now developing the Colombo port city project on reclaimed land. China's encirclement of India is a reality that has dawned on Indians thanks to the Galwan martyrs.

Once we acknowledge the land and the sea arcs for what they are, there are two ways to respond to this encirclement: Acceptance of China as a superpower while still trying to play the opportunistic swing game between the two competing global superpowers for investments, military concessions and regional peace; or complete rejection of the Chinese hegemonic claims in the neighbourhood and an attempt to build itself as a counterweight that the world would respect. The emerging Indo-Pacific alliance becomes crucial in this context. But the problem here is the complete lack of self-belief. Let alone pensioners in the US or Europe, how many Indians would be willing to invest their life savings in Indian companies?

It is not easy for a society in which the rule of law is becoming increasingly arbitrary to convince itself and others of its destiny. For instance, anyone who wants to invest in northern India ought to look at Delhi's satellite cities of Noida or Gurugram as prime destinations; but then, what would they see? From auto-rickshaws parked in the middle of a flyover, rickety buses stopping where they want, "wrong-side driving" (a Gurugram contribution to the English language) to mob lynching over cows, civic unrest, police cases against journalists and the threat of eviction to digital companies like Twitter. All this is not going to lure the fleeting dollar, which has easier and better destinations. Unless we rewrite ourselves to get plugged into the Anglo-Saxon economies and reignite our manufacturing dreams, we may get squeezed by the Sino-Pak military corridor. It is also time for reflection for all those WTO champions who ridiculed local manufacturing, asking why India should reinvent the wheel — well, if you don't have your own wheel, you will get crushed under the neighbour's.

The book is where dad is

SIMRITA DHIR

CADDY got the box and set it on the floor and opened it. It was full of stars. When I was still, they were still. When I moved, they glinted and sparkled. — William Faulkner, The Sound and the Fury.

As a curious lover of literature, my father read and re-read books through childhood into teenage and adulthood. By the time he had hit his mid-twenties, he was vastly well read. And when it came time to select a book to critique for his doctoral dissertation, he narrowed down on one of the most complex novels ever written — Nobel Laureate William Faulkner's The Sound and the Fury. The novel has since become the much-loved thread in the fabric of our family narrative.

I took a dive into the novel, a little prematurely while still in my teens, the old American South, Harvard College and the River Charles springing alive in my mind, the many narrators in the story jumping to whisper to me, twirling around in time. On stepping into my 20s, I re-read it. And then, as chance would have it, in 2004, I came to visit Faulkner's home in New Orleans. It now houses the Faulkner House Books, lauded by writers and collectors as America's most charming bookstore.

Strolling through the bookstore aisles, the Mississippi river rippling along to gurgle in my mind, I reflected on my father's almost obsessive preoccupation with Faulkner at a seminal time during the formation of his adult consciousness and how that contributed in subtle and not so subtle ways, to the making of the man and the father that he became — intense, questioning, cautious and always compassionate.

The morning that I spent in that quaint bookstore is running vividly through my mind this Father's Day. I have already pulled out my copy of Faulkner's book to delve into it again. Among the many things that my father gifted me, I cherish the love for that book.

Gazing at the book cover, many questions pop up in my mind: How well does the master storyteller hold his ground 50 years after his death? Somehow, it seems like a good question to be thinking about — the answer to which doesn't really elicit much thinking.

I would like to believe that like a thoughtful father, Faulkner continues to inspire fortitude in the face of oppression, evoking a mindful revolution to fight against limitations of self, gender, class and race.

Even as I come up with that answer, I can see my father smiling. A father is a stream of thought, rising and ebbing in the mind, across miles and over oceans, a novel sitting right at the centre of it all. Like a spark that jumps the gap between generations, a timeless novel can connect hearts, forge bonds. Similar to the influence of a loving father, its impact is serious and significant, reverberating through time and memory, evoking reverence for the past and gratitude for the present.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Government lapse

Refer to 'SC refuses to stay eviction of encroachers from forest land'; the Supreme Court has said they were given much time, since February 2020, but where was the government when these people were encroaching on the forest land? If the government had stopped the encroachment when it began, it would not have been a big issue today. It is the government's responsibility now to provide these people with homes, and next time stop such encroachments in time.

Erroneous decision

In reference to 'The Covid batch', the belated decision of the CBSE is fraught with uncertainties. The evaluation criteria for Class XII students on the principle of averages could have been decided earlier in the year. This would have saved precious time for the students wanting to focus on competitive exams. This evaluation could jeopardise the dreams of students seeking admission in overseas colleges and universities as they won't be able to produce transcripts of the actual papers. The boards could have avoided this uncertainty with the actual conduct of examination through online mode as it is happening elsewhere. As most of the students from Punjab will be seeking overseas admissions, it would be prudent on part of the state education board to devise its own method rather than follow the CBSE.

JASHANDEEP SANDHU, PATIALA

Judicious step

The CBSE's declaration of the evaluation criteria for Class XII is a judicious step as it has removed the uncertainty for lakhs of students and their parents. Now it is up to the schools to prepare the results as per the CBSE guidelines at the earliest so that these students do not suffer any more and are able to get admission to institutions of higher learning without further delay, especially those wishing to go abroad for higher studies.

NIK GOSAIN, BATHINDA

Difference of opinion

Apropos of 'A-G, govt at odds as 23 posts abolished', it is an irony of sorts that 23 not-so-high posts under him have been abolished without his consent. He had to shoot off a communiqué to the Chief Secretary to vent his anger against the arbitrary decision of the Home Department. Just about seven months before the Assembly elections in the state, transfers of librarians and stenographers would definitely jeopardise the functioning of the legal department. Nan-da has been a soft target for witch-hunting by members of the ruling party. His resignation was sought by some leaders of the present dispensation for decisions beyond his control.

UPENDRA SHARMA, BY MAIL

Prevent third wave

Refer to 'Use lull to enhance Covid preparedness'; it is true that the country has not learned lessons either from the first wave or the second and failed to utilise the time of lockdowns, and began unlocking without following the guidelines of the National Institute of Epidemiology. We are going back to square one and will be conducting our business as usual i.e. without appropriate systems in place for reducing deaths, without appropriate measures for preventing the spread of Covid, poor rate of vaccination and with inadequate healthcare system to handle future outbreaks. The lockdown has brought down the new cases by preventing movement and gatherings of people. Once the curbs are removed, the same situation will return in the country. Even now the government can control future outbreaks by increasing the rate of daily vaccination to minimum one crore per day and ensuring that people follow safety precautions seriously. Let the country not be in the vicious circle of lockdowns.

O PRASADA RAO, BY MAIL

Honesty in public life

I admire the writer's views in 'Glasshouses and stones'. He is frank and daring when he admits that there is a positive change in the SC after the present CJI took over. Every individual has his/her own strengths and weaknesses and they leave an impact on the position they hold. I have seen it in every field of life. Immediately after 1947, we had more honest and upright persons in public life, but soon our 'swaraj' politicians changed the thinking of our public servants, so we have more of them like our ruling class!

BALDEV SINGH, MELBOURNE

Boycott development

With reference to 'LPG distributors, workers protest gas pipeline in Amritsar'; why did the people not ask for employment opportunities from the governments in years passed by? Why do they want to be a roadblock on the road to progress? Is it loss of confidence in the system or lack of skills, as a byproduct of the education system. When was the last time an industry was set up in Amritsar? Will the people of the city just have 'Guru ka prasad' and 'Bhagwan ka prasad', making it only a religious tourism centre?

The law should deter wrongful prosecution

GS BAJPAI

VICE-CHANCELLOR, RAJIV GANDHI NATIONAL UNIVERSITY OF LAW, PUNJAB

NOT quite enough attention was drawn when the Allahabad High Court acquitted Vishnu Tiwari a couple of months ago. He was arrested, tried and convicted in a false case of rape filed against him due to an alleged dispute over a land after almost two decades. Innocence and acquittal in this case have no meaning for Vishnu who has lost everything during this period. The tale of Vishnu in this country is not an isolated one as several thousands in this country are behind the bars as undertrial. And there are 'wrongfully prosecuted' ones whose number is not known to us.

Following this case, a petition was also filed in the Supreme Court praying for directions for framing of guidelines pertaining to compensation of victims of wrongful prosecution. In highlighting the problem of wrongful prosecution, the petition can potentially benefit our criminal justice system (CJS) in myriad ways. The plea relies upon the Delhi High Court judgment in Babloo Chauhan versus Delhi wherein J Muralidhar had lamented the absence of a legal framework for providing relief to victims of wrongful prosecution. In the same case, I was appointed as amicus curiae by the Delhi HC and it had been my submission that a scheme must be developed to provide for comprehensive assistance to such victims. Consequently, the Delhi HC had referred the issue to the Law Commission, which culminated in the 277th Law Commission Report (LCR).

In this context, a shift in our CJS from rights-based due process values towards a repression of crime at all costs is fairly obvious. The recent string of baseless detentions and subsequent release of accused upon judicial intervention points to a questionable trend to arrest first and find justification later. A significant part of the problem lies in the lack of legislative/institutional accountability of the functionaries who perpetuate such injustices with impunity. On display is a violation of constitutional and statutory rights, accompanied by a blatant disregard for the psychological, sociological and economic implications of the abuse of power for the victims and their family members.

These unfortunate victims are discarded as unheeded 'by-products' of our criminal justice factory. A prominent example of such a victim is that of Adamabhai Sulemanbhai Ajmeri. In 2014, Adamabhai was acquitted by the SC in the Akshardham terror attack case after spending more than 11 years in prison for a crime in which he had been thoughtlessly and falsely implicated. His trials and tribulations during the period translate into extensive custodial torture, incarceration, loss of livelihood, psychological harassment, social stigma, rigours of criminal trial and much more. With the loss of their sole breadwinner, his family had to rely upon the benevolence of neighbours for meals and leftovers. His children had to discontinue their education, both for want of financial resources as well as stigmatisation at the hands of their peers for being the wards of a purported terrorist. The situation did not change much after acquittal and release either. Adamabhai was unable to secure a job, mostly because the acquittal barely changed the social stigma which was already attached to his name and person. The absence of provisions under any act, regulation, rule, law or bye-law to remedy, redress or alleviate such suffering is perturbing.

In its discussion, the 277th LCR correctly espouses wrongful prosecution as a negligent or malicious procedural misconduct on part of the police or prosecutorial agencies which culminates into the prosecution of an otherwise innocent person who is ultimately acquitted for the reason of his innocence. Even though there is a growing concern about the increased reporting on the instances of wrongful prosecution, the current discussion and action around wrongful prosecution can best be termed as deficient.

The legislative framework envisaged by the 277th LCR is still too under-developed to merit a complete implementation. First, the discourse around miscarriage of justice has a specific context within which it is placed and the context of 'wrongful prosecution' can be differentiated from the same. The LCR, however, holds 'wrongful prosecution' to be the standard of 'miscarriage of justice' in

The recent string of baseless detentions and subsequent release of accused upon judicial intervention points to a questionable trend to arrest first and find justification later.

A significant part of the problem lies in the lack of legislative/institutional accountability of the functionaries who perpetuate such injustices with impunity.

LEGAL LACUNA: There is lack of clarity on wrongful prosecution in India. PTI

India. Secondly, even though the Commission accepts 'negligent procedural misconduct' as an ingredient of wrongful prosecution, the cause of action as proposed by the LCR can only arise in cases of 'malicious prosecution' and 'prosecutions instituted without good faith'. In effect, such definition ends up excluding particular instances where the prosecutions are attributable to technical lapses on part of the erring functionaries.

Thirdly, the framework proposed by the LCR robs the victims of their victimhood by continually using the term 'accused' to denote the person aggrieved by wrongful prosecution. Fourthly, the mechanism for compensation as proposed by the Law Commission is likely to run into many of the issues which are facing the existing compensation mechanism under Section 357 of the CrPC. The proposed scheme merely lists out the factors which must be taken into account by the court for computing the quantum of compensation without providing for a concrete method. The same could lead to arbitrariness in calculation. Perhaps a scheme of computation and disbursement of compensation as recently envisaged by the Delhi HC in the case of Karan versus State could be developed for this purpose.

Fourthly, as is the case with Section 357, the lack of definite time-frames within the legislative framework of the LCR could potentially delay the award of compensation and its receipt. Lastly, whereas the scheme proposed by the LCR allows for the court to direct the State to proceed against the erring official in accordance with the law, it doesn't allow for the court to fix individual responsibility of such erring official. Another measure to increase accountability could be the promotion of restitution. The court must be allowed to order restitution to be paid to the victim directly by the erring official.

The discourse on wrongful prosecution in India is still pubescent in many respects, including the lack of a conceptual clarity in its definition. While the recommendations of the 277th LCR are a noble attempt, research is required into the political, social and economic aspects of wrongful prosecution. Neither can the need for a legislative framework governing wrongful prosecution and its compensation be denied. Nevertheless, insofar as it furthers the discourse on wrongful prosecution, the impugned petition is welcome indeed.

VIVEK KATJU

EX-Secretary, Ministry of External Affairs

The Constitution should have specific provisions for the postponement of elections in case the needs of national health arising out of pandemics or epidemics demand that. That is a lesson which should be drawn from this pandemic experience. Scholars are pondering over the holding of polls and their quality arising out of humanitarian concerns. If unbiased and independent scientific advice says that in order to save lives it is essential to postpone elections, there would be no alternative but to do so.

VITAL: The ECI must ensure Covid precautions are in place for the 2022 Assembly polls. PTI

THERE is little doubt that the attention of the political class will, over the coming months, increasingly become focused on the 2022 Assembly elections, particularly to that of Uttar Pradesh. The five-year term of five Assemblies is scheduled to expire in the first half of next year.

Hence, unless extraordinary developments occur and if it follows convention, the Election Commission of India (ECI) will, in all likelihood, hold them together by moving the UP elections forward. It will, therefore, have to commence election preparations by late autumn or early winter. The UP poll will have substantial stakes for not only the BJP, the regional UP parties and the Congress but also for the national scene. International observers, too, will seek to draw conclusions about the possible political direction from the poll outcome in UP.

The ECI came in for considerable criticism, including from courts, regarding its failure of the observance of Covid protocols during the March-April Assembly elections. While it is a question of debate if the ECI was right in taking objection to some of the more intemperate remarks of the judges, it is beyond question that all parties and politicians broke Covid protocols, which they themselves were earlier urging the people to observe. The ECI, too, did not take the action it needed to take to ensure that all political leaders and parties adhered to these protocols. Certainly, the mere issuance of comprehensive guidelines and thereafter advisors proved insufficient.

The second Covid wave is abating. The government has assured that by the year-end, a large number of Indians will be inoculated. At the same time, there are apprehensions of a third wave. What can be reasonably stated is that the state elections will have to be held at a time the pandemic would not have passed into history. It is, therefore, vital for the ECI to think through the precautions that it will have to take to ensure that all concerned, including political parties, officials and voters, adhere to Covid-appropriate behaviour.

To do so, it must not rely on the existing guidelines or their marginal amendments.

It must consult with the political parties and officialdom to evolve, if possible, a binding consensus. For this purpose, if required, it may also suggest changes in the law which the political class must seriously consider. It must also consult with the official medical fraternity, especially its sections charged with Covid management. But it must go beyond this even if it has never done so earlier. It must discuss with social scientists and communications experts on effective ways of spreading the message of the need on the part of the electorate to conform to Covid-appropriate behaviour, specifically during the entire election process.

The country's Covid experience also points to another requirement which will need consideration after the pandemic is over. It cannot occur in these contentious and polarised times when the government's Covid management will itself be an issue in the elections. This relates to the possibility of a situation in a future pandemic when it may be virtually impossible to hold Assembly or Lok Sabha elections without risking the great spread of infections.

This is not far-fetched. For, what if the country had experienced the second Covid wave in April-May 2014 or 2019 instead of in these months in 2021? Would it have been possible to conduct the elections in large parts of the country amidst the havoc caused by the second wave? The ECI would have then had to rely on interpretations of the existing constitutional provisions relating to its mandate in departing from convention to deal with an unanticippated and emergency situation. It has done so on an earlier occasion in another context, but that became controversial, forcing the executive to seek the Supreme Court's opinion. It is prudent to anticipate situations and provide constitutional structures for the ECI to act without attracting controversy.

The Constitution prescribes that the term of the Lok Sabha and a state Assembly can be extended for a period of up to a year if an emergency has been invoked because of external aggression or armed rebellion or financial reasons. There is no need to go so far as to proclaim an emergency on account of a pandemic, for the laws already available provide sufficient powers to the Central and state governments to handle such situations. Besides, health emergencies would not warrant the curtailment of fundamental rights, including those relating to moving the courts. However, as pandemics may make holding elections risky to the citizens' health and life, amendments to extend the terms of Parliament and the Assemblies need to be considered.

Naturally, an extension of the term of Parliament/Assemblies cannot be taken lightly. Every means will have to be first explored to hold elections on time. Technological advances may also provide solutions, through the application of technology will have to take the aspects of the extent of its access and, hence, equity into account. But despite all this, if unbiased and independent scientific advice says that in order to save lives it is essential to postpone elections, there would be no alternative but to do so.

The Constitution should have specific provisions for the postponement of elections in case the needs of national health arising out of pandemics or epidemics demand that. That is a lesson which should be drawn from this pandemic experience.

Scholars and some global institutions are turning their attention to issues relating to the postponement of elections as well as their quality arising out of humanitarian concerns, including pandemics. Hitherto, the focus of scholarship largely has been on how to ensure free and fair electoral exercises instead of situations requiring their postponement. The International Institute for Democracy and Electoral Assistance, an intergovernmental organisation, of which India is a founder-member, has followed the impact of the pandemic on elections worldwide. Many countries held national and sub-national elections while a large number postponed them.

In a thoughtful article in the Election Law Journal, Toby S James and Sead Alihodzic examine issues relating to holding elections in emergency situations, including natural disasters and epidemics. They consider steps that can be taken to uphold their fairness during such situations and also note, "There is an obvious humanitarian case for delaying the conduct of elections where it may bring about immediate threats to human life and security."

Societies and polities have to learn from experience. They cannot take the view that no constitutional provisions need to be made for events that seldom occur. In this case, it is being said that such a pandemic was not seen in a hundred years. That is no reason for not thinking imaginatively for situations that may confront us with the next pandemic, whenever that may strike us, hopefully only in the remote future.

Johnson's party loses 'Blue Wall' seat

LONDON, JUNE 18

In a surprising result, British Prime Minister Boris Johnson's Conservative Party has been easily defeated in a special election for a seat that it has held for decades.

The Liberal Democrats, which was in a coalition government with the Conservatives between 2010 and 2015 before seeing its electoral fortunes wane dramatically, won Thursday's election in Chesham and Amersham, 57 km northwest of London.

Sarah Green, the Liberal Democrat candidate, picked up around 57 per cent of the vote and won a seat the Conservaties have held since it was created in 1974. She added around 30 percentage points to the party's result from the 2019 general election.

"The result shows that the 'Blue Wall' of Conservative seats in southern England could be vulnerable," Green said. — AP

Scores second fifty on Test debut; forced to follow on, India 83/1

BRISTOL, JUNE 18
Debutant Shafali Verma became only the fourth player—and the youngest one—in the history of women's cricket to hit consecutive half-centuries on debut as she took India to 83/1 in their second innings on the third day of the one-off Test against England here today.

The 17-year-old promising star was batting on 55 not out off 68 balls at stumps after India were forced to follow on. She hit 11 boundaries. Verma had hit 96 in her first innings. Before Verma, Lesley Cooke (England), Jessica Louise Jonassen (Australia) and Vanessa Bowen (Sri Lanka) were the other players who scored two 50-plus scores on debut.

Another debutant, Deepti Sharma, who was promoted to No. 3 after her resolute 29 not out in India's first innings, was giving Verma company at the crease on 18 not out. The duo defied the England bowlers for 20 overs and added 54 runs in the post-lunch session when tea was called due to rain. The final session was washed away due to rain. The post-lunch session itself started 30 minutes late due to rain. England toiled hard for the whole second session without any success.

The other opener, Smriti Mandhana, was dismissed in the morning session for 8.

Selecao beat Peru 4-0, top their group

SAO PAULO, JUNE 18

Brazil changed half of its starting line-up to face Peru in its second Copa America match and still cruised to a 4-0 victory. Defender Alex Sandro, Neymar, midfielder Everton Ribeiro and striker Richarlison scored the goals in Rio de Janeiro.

It was the Selecao's ninth consecutive victory, and another display that suggests the tournament hosts are the favourites to defend their title. The result puts Brazil atop the Group B standings with six points. Colombia are two points behind after their 0-0 draw with Venezuela.

Brazil have won 42, drawn 10 and lost only four match-

"We showed some different qualities today," Netherlands coach Frank de Boer said.

"Defensively we were much better than (against) Ukraine." Depay sent a penalty kick low into the corner in the 11th minute for his 27th goal in 66 international matches. Dumfries then scored his second goal of the tournament in the 67th after an unselfish pass from PSV Eindhoven teammate

Nandigram poll plea: Mamata says no faith in Justice Chanda

Apprehending bias, TMC wants petition reassigned to another Bench

SHUBHADEEP CHOUDHURY

Tribune News Service

KOLKATA, JUNE 18
Citing BJP antecedents of High Court Judge Kaushik Chanda and objection conveyed by her to the Chief Justice to his appointment as a Permanent Judge in the Calcutta High Court, West Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee on Friday expressed apprehension about the assigning of her election petition before Chanda's court.

In a letter, Banerjee's counsel urged the HC Chief Justice (Acting) to reassign the petition to another court as his client was apprehensive about "likelihood of bias on the part of the honourable Judge".

Dates mentioned in the counsel's letter showed that while Mamata objected to Chanda's appointment as a Permanent Judge in April when her view was sought by the Chief Justice in this matter, her election petition filed

CLAIMS JUDGE WAS BJP MEMBER

- Noting that High Court Judge Kaushik Chanda was an "active member of the BJP" when he was an advocate, Mamata Banerjee's counsel questioned assigning of election petition to him
- The counsel says his client also apprehends that Justice Chanda was aware of Banerjee's objections to his appointment as Permanent Judge the following month was assigned to Chanda by the CJ.

On May 21, Banerjee moved an election petition challenging the verdict of the Nandigram constituency, where she lost to BJP's Suvidha Adhikari. She accused the BJP leader of committing corrupt practices and also alleged discrepancies in counting.

Initially, the petition was listed to come up before Justice Sabyasachi Bhattacharya on June 9. However, subsequently, Banerjee "was made aware" by the Chief Justice (Acting) that her petition got assigned to Justice Chanda.

Banerjee's counsel wrote that his client apprehends that Justice Chanda was aware of her objections to his appointment as Permanent Judge.

Noting that Chanda was an "active member of the BJP" when he was an advocate, the letter questioned assigning of Banerjee's election petition to him. His client was apprehensive that the judge could favour Adhikari, the counsel stated.

Justice Chanda on Friday fixed June 24 as the date for presentation of Banerjee's plea.

Derek O'Brien, TMC leader in the RS, tweeted two pictures of an event organised by BJP's law and legal affairs department.

Drawing a circle around the face of a person purported to be Justice Chanda, O'Brien wrote, "Who is that person 'circled' in both pics? Is he Justice Chanda of Calcutta High Court? Has he been assigned to hear the Nandigram case? Can the judiciary sink any lower?"

Bengal BJP chief Dilip Ghosh compared the HC Judge with Assembly Speaker (who may be winning as a party nominee, but is expected rise above party affiliations when discharging his duty as Speaker) and said as a judge Justice Chanda acted impartially.

Judge recuses from Bengal violence case

Tribune News Service

NEW DELHI, JUNE 18

Justice Indira Banerjee of the Supreme Court on Friday recused from hearing a petition filed by kin of two BJP workers allegedly killed by TMC activists in post-poll violence in West Bengal seeking a court-monitored SIT probe.

"I have some difficulty in hearing this matter. Let this matter be listed before another Bench," Justice Banerjee said at the very outset of the proceedings.

The top court had on May 18 asked the Centre and the West Bengal Government to respond to the plea filed by Biswajit Sarkar, whose elder brother was killed and co-petitioner Swaranalata Adhikari, whose husband was killed in poll-related violence.

They have said this is a matter which requires probe by an agency like CBI or a SIT under court's supervision, as the state police has not been taking any action despite a complaint being made.

The petition alleged that Abhijit Sarkar was killed on May 2 by a mob comprising 20 TMC supporters which entered the house of Biswajit Sarkar, dragged his elder brother Abhijit and killed him in front of his mother and other family members.

SC won't cancel final-year PG medical exams

NEW DELHI, JUNE 18

The SC on Friday refused to direct universities to cancel or postpone final-year PG medical examinations, saying it could not pass such a general order to all universities.

Petitioners had demanded cancellation or postponement of final-year PG medical examinations on the grounds that the examinee-doctors had been engaged in Covid duty.

The Bench said it was not going to allow doctors to be promoted without appearing for the examination.—TNS

BJP backs Yediyurappa, change unlikely

NEW DELHI, JUNE 18
BJP national general secretary in-charge of Karnataka Arun Singh on Friday warned of action against violation of party discipline as rumblings within played out in the open during his three-day visit to the state, amid speculation about replacing Chief Minister BS Yediyurappa.

Though Singh, who had earlier ruled out leadership change, did not make any direct comment on the issue, he is said to have made it clear at the Karnataka BJP core committee meeting that Yediyurappa will continue as the Chief Minister.

In a gesture signifying that things are in his favour, Yediyurappa, who did not make any comment on what transpired at the meeting on the leadership issue, flashed the victory sign as he departed from the state BJP office.

"The leadership issue was not discussed... Yediyurappa is our leader; there is no change in that. Our in-charge Arun Singh has asked me to make it clear," Revenue Minister and core committee member R Ashoka told mediapersons.

Yediyurappa earlier in the day had downplayed the dissidence against him as he ruled out any

STATE GOVT DISMISSES TENDER SCAM ALLEGATION

- The Karnataka Government on Friday dismissed the allegation of disgruntled BJP MLC AH Vishwanath that the Irrigation Department has readied a ₹21,473.67 crore tender in a hurry and without financial approval political crisis in the state.

"There is no political crisis at all... what is happening is just because one or two people are saying something in the media, it is creating misunderstanding," he said, pointing out that Singh did not even meet those involved in such activities.

Speculations have been rife for some time now that a section of the ruling BJP is trying to push for unseating Yediyurappa, despite Singh, party state president Nalin Kumar Kante and other senior leaders ruling out replacing the CM and asserting that the 78-year-old Lingayat strongman will continue in the top post. This is mainly because of repeated open statements by some disgruntled legislators against the functioning of the government and its leadership, party sources said.

Despite being warned not to make open statements, disgruntled BJP MLC AH Vishwanath today once again demanded Yediyurappa's ouster and levelled allegations of corruption and interference in the administration against his younger son and party vice-president BV Vijayendra.

Yediyurappa is no stranger to controversies and allegations. In 2011, he was forced to resign as CM and also spend time in prison after being indicted in a scam, though later he was acquitted of all charges.
