Oppn boycotts Parl over farm Bills

Suspended RS MPs end sit-in | Deputy Chairman observes daylong fast

TREND NEWS SERVICE

NEW DELHI, SEPTEMBER 22
The Congress-led Opposition today intensified its agitation against the three farm-related Bills passed by Parliament and announced to boycott proceedings in both Houses till their demands were met.

The TMC, AAP, Left, NC, NCP, BSP and TRS joined the Congress in boycott. They are demanding legal guarantee for the minimum support price (MSP) regime and assurance that the state agencies will honour MSP and the support prices will be determined in line with the MS Swaminathan committee report.

With the Opposition deciding to boycott House proceedings, the eight suspended MPs on Tuesday ended their overnight sit-in inside the Parliament House complex and said they would now take their fight against the farm Bills to the streets.

Although Leader of Opposition in the Rajya Sabha Ghulam Nabi Azad had initially listed revocation of eight MPs' suspension among the conditions to end boycott, he later said this was a request.

Law Minister Ravi Shankar Prasad, however, said the revocation of suspension could be considered if they regretted "their behaviour with House Deputy Chairman Harivansh Narayan Singh", who observed a daylong fast over the unsavoury developments.

The Opposition boycott comes ahead of the September 25 Bharat Bandh call given by over 250 farmer outfits under the banner of All-India Kisan Sangharsh Coordination Committee.

Pb MP alleges assault by cops

NEW DELHI, SEPTEMBER 22

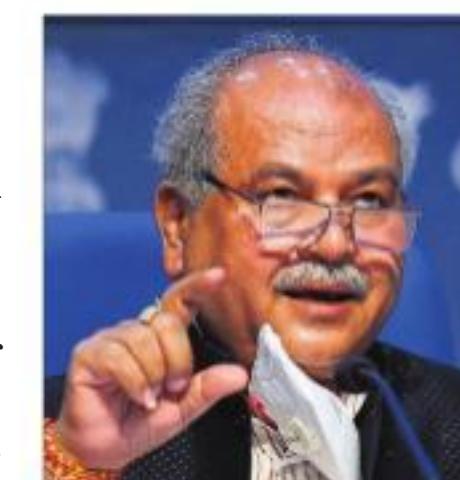

The Lok Sabha was adjourned for an hour minutes after it assembled at 3 pm today following allegation of assault on Congress MP Ravneet Singh Bittu by the Delhi Police.

Bittu said the policemen "brutally assaulted" him and three other Punjab MPs — Santokh Choudhary, Jasbir Singh Gill and Gurjeet Aujla — while they were taking out a candlelight march from Parliament House to Rashtrapati Bhavan to protest the farm Bills. "The police thought we were farmers. We all suffered injuries. This is horrifying," Bittu alleged. Speaker Om Birla assured him of a probe and protection. — TNS

The RS, meanwhile, passed seven key Bills, including one that removes cereals, pulses and onion from the essential commodities' list. — TNS

The Tribune INTERVIEW: NARENDRA SINGH TOMAR, AGRI MINISTER

'Oppn out to mislead, new laws will empower farmers'

Why is the government cutting out arthiyas, who are considered the lifeline of rural economy?
The law is not against the APMC or traders/arthiyas. Farmers will have the freedom to sell the produce anywhere, likewise arthiyas too can trade anywhere in the country without a licence and just by using their PAN card.

The law is not against the APMC or traders/arthiyas. Farmers will have the freedom to sell the produce anywhere they want, likewise arthiyas too can trade anywhere in the country using their PAN card. The law gives alternatives and freedom to both farmers and traders.

Farmers say the Centre is leaving them at the mercy of corporates.

It is a myth the Congress and Opposition are propagating to mislead them. The Farmers Empowerment and Protection Bill has the provision of an agreement at the time of sowing for deciding the price. The farmer will have the freedom to walk out of the agreement any time. The government, through the legislative route, is creating a framework that will not only open up more avenues for farmers to sell their produce but will also protect their interests.

What if the buyer decides the produce is not up to the mark, and refuses to buy?

He cannot do that. Rather the objection should come from corporates that while farmers are getting all the freedom, they are being tied up in law.

India, China resolve to defuse LAC tension, won't add troops

TREND NEWS SERVICE

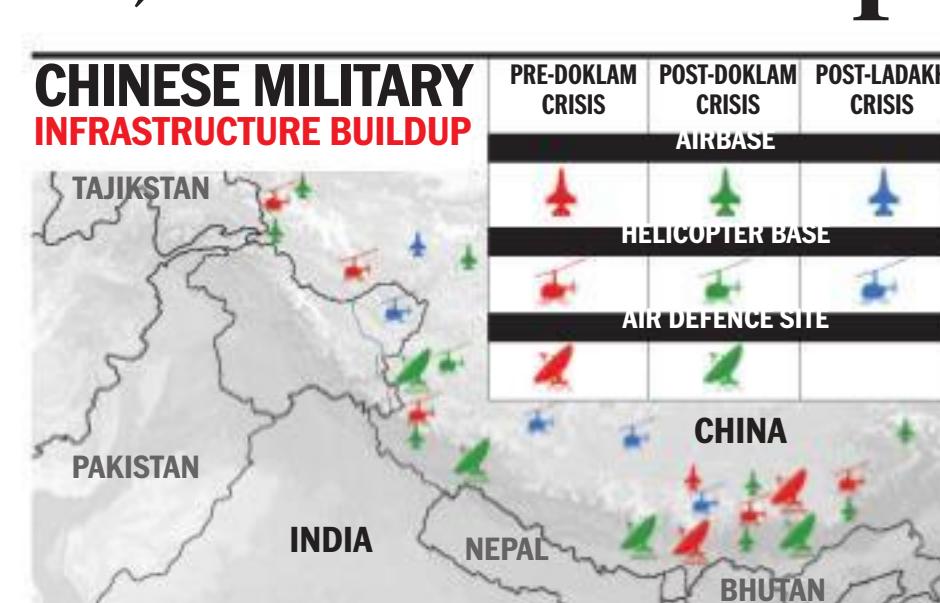

NEW DELHI, SEPTEMBER 22

In what appears to be the first step towards resolving the 20-week military standoff along the Line of Actual Control (LAC) in Ladakh, India and China have agreed not to send more troops to the frontline and refrain from unilaterally changing the ground situation.

A joint statement was issued on Tuesday, detailing the outcome of the meeting of senior military commanders in Ladakh on Monday.

In New Delhi, this is being seen as the first step to defuse the tension at the LAC as both sides have issued matching statements.

The two sides also agreed to hold the seventh round of commander-level meeting as soon as possible and also take practical measures to solve problems on the ground and jointly safeguard peace and tranquillity in border areas.

The statement said India and China agreed "to avoid taking any actions that may complicate the situation". It said the two sides had candid and in-depth exchange of views on stabilising the situation along the LAC.

BATHINDA, SEPTEMBER 22

People from various walks of life have extended support to state farmers, who are on warpath against the three farm Bills.

Organisations such as the Punjab Pradesh Beopar Mandal, Malwa Zone Private Bus Operators, Bathinda Car

Dealers Union, Budhlada Bar Association, Punjab Nambardar Union and Punjab Swarankar Sangh have announced support to farmers for their Punjab bandh on September 25.

Amit Kapoor, president, Punjab Pradesh Beopar Mandal, and Punjab Swarankar Sangh chief Kartar Singh Jaura urged the

Traders, transporters, car dealers, advocates to join Sept 25 bandh

Union Government to withdraw the "anti-farmer" Bills. Kapoor said: "Farmers, arthiyas, dealers selling pesticides, seeds and fertilisers and others linked to the sector will be adversely affected by the new legislations."

Members of the Malwa Zone Private Bus Operators Union took out a protest march in Bathinda, besides joining the stir by the BKU (Sidhpur) outside the DC office here.

Car dealers in the district too announced to keep their shops shut during the Punjab bandh. Budhlada Bar Association president Sukhdarshan Singh and others condemned the Centre for its "anti-farmer" stance.

Punjab Nambardar Union president Amritpal Singh said: "Punjab is an agrarian state. If the Bills get passed, these will affect all sections of the society. We thus stand by the farmers in their fight."

Dejected, farmers trash 'meagre' MSP hike

Terming it a cruel joke, BKU wants prices fixed as per Swaminathan Commission's proposals

TREND NEWS SERVICE

LUDHIANA/BATHINDA, SEPT 22

As many as 22 farmer organisations have expressed their disappointment over the "meagre" hike of Rs 50 per quintal in minimum support price (MSP) of wheat and rabi crops announced by the Central Government. The Bharatiya Kisan Union (BKU) has rejected the hike, terming it a cruel joke on the farmers.

Anticipating a financial bailout from the government, farmers said they had been let down by the paltry increment as the agricultural sector grappled with high input cost and other issues. They said the government's move fell short of the MS Swaminathan Commission's recommendation of the hike in MSP by 50 per cent more than the weighted cost of production.

Farmers said they felt cheated and insulted by various governments over the issue of the implementation of the Swaminathan Commission report. Shingara Singh Mann, state secretary of BKU (Ekta Ugrahan), reminded the BJP of its poll promise of fixing the MSP as per the Swaminathan commission report.

He said the government had 'failed' to calculate the input cost of wheat cultivation and other expenses while tabulating the MSP.

BKU (Sidhpur) district president Baldev Singh Sandhu said: "The government claims to double the farmer's BKU (Kadian) president Harmeet Singh Kadian said: "At a time when farmers were angry over the farm Bills, a meagre hike in MSP of wheat is like rubbing salt into the wounds of the financially stressed farmers." He said the MSP of wheat ought to be Rs 3,250 per quintal based on increase in the cost of inputs and cultivation.

Meanwhile, senior SAD leader Maheshinder Singh Grewal announced that the party cadres would join the 'rail roko' and traffic blockade protest on September 25.

A group of five AAP rebel MLAs led by Sukhpal Khaira has also made a similar demand to the CM to convene a special session of the Vidhan Sabha to rescind the "anti-farmer" laws as agriculture marketing is a state subject.

Meanwhile, as part of its 'sangharsh' programme, the SAD plans to hold a simultaneous 'kisan march' from all three Sikh religious 'Takhts' to Mohali on October 1 to hand over a memorandum to the President through Governor of Punjab. Stop exploiting farmers: Capt Dares Akalis to block traffic in national capital

CHANDIGARH, SEPTEMBER 22

Chief Minister Captain Amarinder Singh on Tuesday termed the Akalis' decision to hold a statewide 'chakka jam' on September 25, the day when Punjab's farmers had already announced a bandh against the farm Bills, as yet another attempt to exploit the sentiments of the farmers, and perhaps even to sabotage the farmers' fight at the 'behest' of their allies in the Central Government.

"Why don't you go to Delhi and do a chakka jam outside the homes of BJP leaders and others who have shamelessly sold off the interests of Punjab's farmers to the big corporate houses for their own petty interests?" the Chief Minister said, daring the SAD to quit the Central Government if it really cared for the farmers.

"What are these double standards? Why did your core committee today not take a decision on quitting the BJP-led NDA coalition?"

The Centre is clearly out to ruin Punjab, and the Akalis have been actively supporting this agenda with all their might. Capt Amarinder Singh, CHIEF MINISTER he asked Sukhbir.

Questioning the SAD announcement of holding 'chakka jam' across Punjab in league with the farmers, khet mazdoor and arthiyas, the Chief Minister claimed there was some mala fide intent behind the Akalis' decision to jump at this juncture into the farmers' pre-planned agitation. He said the farmers wouldn't be fooled by these antics.

"The games that the SAD, led by the Badals, have been playing with the farmers for the past several months, beginning with the introduction of the vicious ordinances, have totally exposed their double standards on this issue of critical importance," said Captain Amarinder.

Meanwhile, Punjab Pradesh Congress Committee (PPCC) chief Sunil Jakhar said the Congress stood firmly behind them in the most difficult moment in the history of the Indian agriculture. Punjab Congress MPs and leaders are camping in Delhi, fighting the Centre's despotic attempts to stifle their voices and bravely facing the brute force of the BJP-controlled Delhi Police, he said, asserting that the party would not succumb to these high-handed measures and would not relent.

mainly because the Haryana and UP Governments have decided to go ahead with the Farmer Produce Trade and Commerce (Promotion and Facilitation) Bill, which allows traders to buy produce outside the agriculture produce marketing committees,

The move is being seen as a step to woo farmers who are on a warpath because of the farm Bills. The reason for farmers' refusal to buy from Punjab was

"We will buy from a state where the tax is low, in order

The CM has approved deletion of clause 12 (j) of the Custom Milling Policy (CMP) 2020-21 for this purpose. The clause deals with those millers who are also commission agents/arhiyas and, under existing rules, were not allowed to be allotted to the agency for which they were operating as commission agents. The move would help ensure staggered procurement, thus preventing crowding of mandis during the pandemic.

Kasauli hoteliers upbeat as bookings see a surge

Occupancy ranging from 40% to 70% last weekend

AMBIKA SHARMA
TRIBUNE NEWS SERVICE

SOLAN, SEPTEMBER 22

Hoteliers in Kasauli are elated with bookings pouring in from various states after the government has opened the borders.

As much as 40 per cent to 70 per cent occupancy was registered last weekend in Kasauli though most tourists were from Chandigarh, Mohali and Panchkula. Most of the hotels have opened and a few are set to resume services to handle visitors' influx.

Rocky Chimni, vice-president, Kasauli Residents and Hoteliers' Association (KRHA), said, "Queries are pouring in from Punjab and Delhi for bookings ranging from one to five days and the staff are being recalled. We want to ensure that all safety measures are in place to welcome the visitors."

hopefully revive as the weather is perfect for holidaying in the hills," said Winnie Chadha, adviser, KRHA. He added, "The staff too are eager to return to work as the hoteliers are in a position to pay them."

There had been no business for the past six months. Now, the hoteliers are hopeful of receiving some customers as educational institutes are still closed and families could venture to the hills. "As of now, only weekend bookings were pouring in, but we expect better days ahead. Business will

Being a favourite weekend tourist destination, the hoteliers are now banking on weddings which are slated to take place in the last three months.

Since most hotels are yet to repay their banks loans in the Kasauli planning area, the revival of business has infused a fresh lease of life in them.

“ Bookings with limited gatherings are being made now and this is a welcome relief as it will fetch them some business. There is little chance of corporate clients, who held conferences here," added Chimni.

Farmers, Beware of lies

Farm Bill paves way for prosperity

Lies

Farm bill is conspiracy for denying Minimum Support Price to farmers

Now the Mandis will end

Farm bill is anti-farmer

Large companies will exploit farmers in the name of contract

Farmer's land will be given to the capitalists

Benefit to big corporate, loss to farmers

Truth

Farm bill has nothing to do with the Minimum Support Price, MSP is being given and will be continued in future too.

Mandi system will continue as it is.

Farm bill gives freedom to farmer. Now farmers can sell their crop to anyone, anywhere and it establishes One Nation One Market. Now the farmer will be able to earn more profit by partnering with large food processing companies instead of being dependent on others.

Agreement will enable the farmers to get pre-fixed price, but farmer cannot be bound against his interest by the agreement. The farmer will be free to withdraw from the agreement at any stage, without incurring any penalty.

The bill clearly directs that the sale, lease and mortgage of farmer's land are completely prohibited. The agreement will be of crops not of land.

In many States, farmers in collaboration with large corporates are successfully producing crops such as sugarcane, cotton, tea and coffee. Now small farmers will get higher benefit and they will also get the benefit of technology and equipment with assured profits.

Fighting the pandemic

New rules of living are exacting, but inescapable

ON March 24, when the Prime Minister announced a lockdown — two days after a 'janata curfew' that saw an overwhelming response — no one could have predicted that six months down the line, there would be a complete reversal of the objective: a thriving Covid-19, and a contracting economy. Gaining the capacity to accept the unimaginable has been one unintended consequence of half a year fighting the pandemic. Everyone has a coronavirus story — panic, anxiety, grief, quarantine, stigma, loss of livelihood, job cuts, income reduction, isolation, loneliness, even work from home. The long-haul nature of the virus is no more a scientific thesis, it is an accepted reality. The new rules of living are hard, but inescapable.

Decisions that impact the lives of billions require scrutiny and fixing of accountability, yet dealing with a once-in-a-century pandemic is a tough call. While most question the severity of the shutdown, some fail to comprehend the urgency to unlock trade and business activity. There are calls in some quarters for testing on a mass scale, and then there are those who would rather have only the symptomatic tested. Those less cautious seem reckless, the ones more cautious insane. The period since the first shutdown has shown which activities are the safest and which strategies work best. The government's focus, too, has shifted from the number of infections to the recoveries. Ensuring a fall in the fatality rate is the new goalpost.

These six months have been stressful and demoralising. The worst is far from over. Sticking to the precaution and take-care-of-yourself regimen is the most dependable prescription. The global endeavour to get the virus under control has shown the limits of human intervention, and the perils of excesses. The vaccine will come sooner or later, the vaccination will take longer. The pandemic will be conquered one day. But all the misery and loss would have been futile if no lessons are learnt. The biggest one is fixing the healthcare system. No amount of money poured into that sector is enough.

Empty classrooms

It will be a while before campuses are abuzz again

THAT Covid-19 has disrupted education in an unprecedented way is illustrated by the fact that schools reopened after a gap of six months on Monday to a lukewarm response. Attendance was mostly thin as regular classes are yet to resume and the students allowed initially have been limited to those appearing for the board exams, that too for 'consultation' or 'guidance'. A major handicap to the resumption of classes is believed to be the opposition of parents who do not wish to put their young wards at risk. The schools, on their part, are not taking chances and have made mandatory the consent of guardians, besides putting in place the Covid protocol to rule out chances of the infection being contracted. The teachers had already been preparing lessons and modules for online classes and now there has been a fresh advice for them to get tested.

Schools will also have to contend with the prospect of utilising their infrastructure like transport used to ferry children and incurring expenditure on taking measures meant to make the institutions safer. As fresh guidelines from the government are awaited for the future course of action, an encouraging feature, as suggested by the initial reports, has been the enthusiasm among the students in schools located in the rural areas. Imparting education has always been a challenging task in the country and the pandemic has made it tougher. An abiding concern for the educationists has been to increase access through enrolment and by checking the school dropout rate, for which a scheme like the mid-day meal was launched. With offline classes getting restricted, how the crisis impacts all this remains to be seen. The switchover to online education has also come with its share of problems. Not every child has a smartphone and at many places, Internet connectivity is not adequate.

With colleges remaining shut and exam as well as admission schedules getting affected, education in the country appears to be in complete disarray. As the UN has emphasised, getting students safely back to the classroom must be a top priority as we confront a generational catastrophe that could waste untold human potential.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

The value of biodiversity is that it makes our ecosystems more resilient, a prerequisite for stable societies. — Johan Rockstrom

ON THIS DAY...100 YEARS AGO

LAHORE, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 23, 1920

The Congress Constitution-II

IN our last article on this subject, we tried to show that in view of both the changed character of the Legislative Councils in India and of the decision of the Special Congress to follow a policy on action, as distinguished from mere criticism, the need for an overhauling of the Congress Constitution, which has been increasingly felt during the last few years, has become absolutely imperative. In the present article, we propose to suggest what should, in our opinion, be the main lines of the new Constitution. One of these lines will have become apparent from what we have said already. The Congress must be made at least as representative as the new Councils will be, not merely in the sense in which the Congress is already representative of a much larger number of people, but in the strict constitutional sense, in the sense of being actually elected by those for whom it speaks. Here again, the authority of the President of the Special Congress is entirely on our side. Replying to our representatives at the recent interview, Lala Lajpat Rai said:— "I have always been of the opinion that the Congress constituencies require to be organised on the same lines as the Council or the municipal committee electorate are. As at present constituted, the Congress does fairly represent the opinion of the country, but not constitutionally. Moreover, methods are employed to swell the number of delegates in such a way as to leave room for criticism." The question is, how is this reorganisation to be effected? We do no injustice to anyone when we say that the present Congress Executive, with the resources at their disposal, whether it is men or money, would find it a somewhat difficult task to arrange for an all-India election on modern lines, even if the electorate is to be as limited as the present electorate for the Councils will be.

World has become suicidal

Biodiversity loss is unprecedented in human history and pressures are intensifying

SHYAM SARAN

FORMER FOREIGN SECRETARY AND SENIOR FELLOW, CENTRE FOR POLICY RESEARCH

TWO very important reports on the health of our planet's ecology came out within a week of each other this month. The World Wildlife Fund published its biannual Living Planet Index (LPI). The Inter-governmental Science Policy Platform on Biodiversity and Ecosystem Services (IPBES) has released its Global Biodiversity Outlook (GBO). Both paint an alarming picture of the accelerating rate at which the homo sapiens are destroying the fragile ecology of Earth, endangering all living beings, including themselves. The veritable library of life gathered over millennia of evolution is being lost irretrievably and we confront our own inevitable extinction as a species. Over the past year, the danger signs have been relentless and compelling. The forest fires ravaging the Australian landscape, the Californian coast, the rain forests of Brazil and the ancient forests of Siberia are one series of warning signals. The locust swarms that swept across Africa and Asia were another. And the Covid-19 pandemic which is still raging across the world is the most dire warning of all. The UN Secretary General points out that "the Covid-19 pandemic has illustrated the link between our treatment of the living world and the emergence of human diseases."

All these phenomena are inextricably linked to one another and reflect the central message of both reports — that the rate of biodiversity loss is unprecedented in all of human history and pressures are intensifying. As the GBO states unambiguously, "Earth's living systems as a whole are being com-

CRISIS AT HAND: Habitat destruction and climate change threaten the world.

It is not that we are unaware of the threat we face from our wilful destruction of the very fabric of life that sustains us.

What is lacking is statesmanship and leadership.

promised. And the more humanity exploits nature in unsustainable ways and undermines its contributions to people, the more we undermine our own well-being, security and prosperity." The dangers were already evident over the past several decades and reflected in the conclusion of the International Convention on Biodiversity concluded in 1993. But like the fate of the Rio Convention on Climate Change adopted a year earlier, the assault on nature has only become more destructive, whether it is through loss of natural habitats or global warming from the expanded use of fossil fuels.

The GPO is an authoritative report because it represents a consensus among governmental experts. In their interim report last year, they had warned that one million of the estimated 9 million plants and animals could be pushed over the brink in the next few years by "habitat destruction, pollution, over-exploitation, the spread of invasive species across the globe and increasingly climate change." The scale of the biodiversity emergency is brought out in stark figures contained in the latest LPI of WWF. It points out that globally, the population of nearly 21,000 species of mammals, fish, birds, reptiles and amphibians had declined by 68% between 1970 and 2016. Some scientists are of the view that we are on the threshold of the 6th mass extinction the planet has witnessed over its entire history and this time it would not be the result of natural catastrophes but the consequence of human activity.

In 2010, the parties to the Biodiversity Convention, including India, had met at Alchi in Japan and adopted 20 specific targets to be achieved during the 2010-20 decade. This 10-year ambitious and comprehensive plan was designed to conserve the world's biodiversity, promote sustainability and protect ecosystems. The GBO reports that only six of the targets have been partially achieved but that for the rest, things have moved in the reverse direction. Instead of improving, biodiversity loss in the past decade has been declining at an unprecedented rate. This decline is driven by the persistence of unsustainable production and consumption patterns, population growth and technological developments. The most serious challenges are the accumulation of plastic waste in our oceans and the pervasive toxicity that results from the over-use of chemical pesticides and fertilisers. Not only have these challenges remained unaddressed, they are mounting in scale and intensity. Both the GBO and the LPI call for drastic and urgent action to halt and reverse biodiversity loss and restore ecosystem services before the planet reaches a tipping point of irreversible and mutually reinforcing changes. There are eight focus areas identified in the GBO, including land and forests, agriculture, food systems, fisheries and oceans, cities and infrastructure, climate action and an integrated 'One Health' global framework. The report somewhat optimistically suggests that "it is not too late to slow, halt and eventually reverse current trends in the decline in biodiversity." If the recent sorry experience of the international community dealing with the pandemic is any indication, the outlook for the future remains bleak.

It is not that we are unaware of the extraordinary threat we face from our wilful destruction of the very fabric of life that sustains us. Science tells us what we need to do to prevent an apocalypse and in what time frame. We even have the legal instruments we need to enable a global collaborative response, including the Biodiversity Convention, the Paris Agreement on Climate Change and the Sustainable Development Goals. What is lacking is statesmanship and leadership, a spirit of internationalism and sense of common humanity. We live in a selfish and an increasingly mean world preoccupied with what will eventually become irrelevant contestations among states. Does this not point to a collective blindness and a pervasive death wish which afflict our troubled world? One would have hoped that India with its civilisational embrace of Nature, its celebration of the infinite variety of creation and above all, its awareness of the myriad threads which bind all forms of life together, would have shown the way to a sustainable future. But we, too, are under a powerful spell and will wake up when it may be too late.

Riding the wave with a bicycle

SARVJIT SINGH

FORTY-five years back feels like an eternity now. I was sitting in an excited state with mother at a busy cycle shop in a cul-de-sac of the main bazaar in Patiala. The 20-inch red Atlas bicycle, a favourite, was going to be mine soon. The smell of the new tyres being rolled over the rims, the sound of spokes being tightened, the sight of the chain on the sprocket being oiled, was sending me — all of nine years old then — into a trance. Choosing the saddle was quite a decision. Finally, the time had come to take the crackling bicycle for a test spin. I vividly remember the ether gushing in my small chest as I readied for the first engine-less flight.

The love affair with cycling endured for four decades during which the red bicycle turned into a standard military green, then a silver sports that you mount with a humped back, and finally into a geared mountain bike. The daily 10 to 20 km of cycling during the school and college days gradually gave way to weekend breeze-on-sweat jaunts of 30, 50, 70 and 100 km. Then sadly, with a motorcycle saddle and a car seat to corrupt, the paradise tapered off nearly five years ago.

Nay, love never dies. It only becomes sublime with the passage of time. The plight of cyclists veer-ing to the very edge of Chandigarh's sector roads to save their lives from faster vehicles and getting puzzled at roundabouts would wring my heart, as if every cyclist, every rickshaw-puller was me.

In Vienna then, on an official trip, I saw well-marked cycling tracks, running as an unbroken ribbon that passed just outside their parliament whose gates were open. I was informed that some parliamentarians came pedalling.

The cycling tracks of Chandigarh thus got laid, like a dream, when I served the Union Territory's departments of finance and engineering as the secretary.

The lockdown came three years later. Bicycle sales zoomed. There were queues outside cycle shops when my wife and I went to buy ours. I can see scientifically now why cycling is good. The trigger of energy acts as a catalyst for an alchemy of youthfulness and happiness. Here and now, experience happens, as currents generated in the nerve centre uplift the inverted tree.

The exercised muscles are able to exorcise the spirits dwelling in the ruins of unawareness, making thereby the elusive balance of awareness a reality. As the metaphor goes, what is on one's back, comes in one's front. As cycling recycles my waist, life seems to have come full circle, every morning — for a smarter beginning.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Parliamentary procedures

Apropos of the editorial, 'Dismal haste' (Sept 22), our Parliament has had an uneven history, sometimes rising to its democratic mandate and at other times, debasing itself, as has happened in the last few days. There are parliamentary procedures, which are cornerstones of democracy but have been ignored. One of them is the suspension of Question Hour, and the second is the refusal to refer the Bills to committees, which is a good practice to suggest amendments. The third important one is the division of votes, which needs to be granted by the Speaker if the House asks for it. On Sunday, the farm bills were debated, but the Deputy Chairman refused the division. This is a travesty of Parliament. The Opposition's heckling of the Deputy Chairman was also self-defeating. Parliament must serve to reassure the people, uphold due process and serve as an oasis of calm and reasoned debate amid a worsening economic crisis.

LAL SINGH, AMRITSAR

Condemnable conduct

Refer to 'Ruckus as eight MPs suspended' (Sept 22), the conduct of lawmakers in the Upper House of Parliament is unprecedented and highly condemnable. Abusing the presiding officer and a threat of physical harm is not in any way the Gandhian style of protest and does not behove a parliamentarian. This needs censure instead of justifying it by blaming the Chair. It was a black day in Rajya Sabha.

ASHOK KUMAR, JALANDHAR

Teaching in times of Covid

My mother is a teacher in a government school and has been assigned one duty or the other every day. One of the teachers in her school tested positive for Covid-19. But the admission process and exams were all conducted the way they used to be in a pre-pandemic world. Even after all standard operating procedures have been followed, it still does not guarantee that a student or teacher won't contract the virus. The student-teacher ratio is so disproportionate that it becomes quite a task for a teacher — sanitising hands, maintaining proper distance and keeping things in order, all done wearing a mask. Teaching online has also been a trouble since many students do not have the resources. We might be near the end of Covid-19.

YASHUDHA PANDE, PAONTA SAHIB

Right to protest

The news item 'Can't claim absolute right to protest' came as a pleasant surprise. Hope this valuable opinion of the court would pave the way for a permanent end to needless drama in the garb of protests that cause damage to national as well as private property and result in loss of manhours, inflicting agony on the common man. No right is limitless, every right is bound by a Lakshman Rekha, which should not be crossed.

AK SHARMA, CHANDIGARH

MEA official in China talks

The inclusion of an official from the MEA in military commanders' dialogue between India and China is the right thing to do. Whereas one hopes for the success of the talks to disengage and de-escalate as early as possible, preferably, before the onset of winter, one of the reasons for the failure of talks so far has been the disconnect between the armies and the diplomatic corps on both sides. Hopefully, this is adequately bridged this time.

LT COL GS BEDI (RETD), MOHALI

Negligence in hospitals

Refer to the editorial, 'No room for laxity', Punjab's fatality rate continues to be amongst the highest in the country. No doubt, the focus currently is on the farmers' protest, but how can the government overlook the utter negligence by the hospitals? There is no denying that the state badly needs to improve its healthcare infrastructure to meet the unprecedented challenge. The government at this point of time should be accountable to the people whenever there is such an act of negligence in the hospitals.

AMITOK KAUR, PATIALA

Treat non-Covid patients

Tackling the coronavirus is the most challenging task, efficiently performed by the paramedical staff, but the concern is over the treatment of other ailments. Patients of chronic ailments are being ignored because of the Covid surge. Doctors are life savers and when it is a question of survival, they cannot pick and choose patients. Treatment of every ailment is equally important. At the same time, the government needs to focus on people's welfare by making investments in the health sector, maintaining sound infrastructure and increasing budget expenditure. Let's say more through action than words.

Brazen abuse of power

ASHWANI KUMAR

FORMER UNION LAW MINISTER

Assuming that public perception against the laws is misconceived, it is for the government to correct the misconception as a necessary condition for their acceptance. This has not been done. Instead, we see a self-righteous government persisting in a fallacy without even a minimal effort at a fuller discussion of the contested and divisive laws in or outside Parliament.

spread and spans the political spectrum is evident from the stringent opposition voiced against their enactment by the Congress, TMC, AIADMK, DMK, BJD, AAP, RJD, TRS, the Shiromani Akali Dal and the Left parties which demanded that the Bills be referred to a select committee of the Rajya Sabha for a detailed consideration.

Assuming that there is a case in support of the enacted Bills, what prevented the government from convincing all stakeholders, including the opposing state governments, of the merits of the law is a compelling question. Anyone with even a minimal understanding of India's political realities would concede that no party, even appearing to be opposed to farmers' interests, can hope to be in power.

At the heart of the opposition to the laws variously critiqued as 'draconian' and 'a death warrant' for the farmers is the perceived dilution of the security of MSP (Minimum Support Price), linked with the survival, subsistence, economic security and dignity of the farming community. This is especially so in states like Punjab and Haryana where the mandi system and the MSP regime, now seen as threatened, have served their purpose. The

THE indecent haste with which the divisive farm Bills have been legislated into law raises several disquieting questions about the future of our parliamentary democracy. The voice of the Opposition was suppressed and dissent against the Bills bludgeoned to ram through with their passage in both Houses of Parliament, in a brazen abuse of power without a meaningful debate. The audacious bypassing of parliamentary processes will remain etched in public memory as a watershed event in the perversion of democracy. The utility of a salutary dictum that while governments may have their way, the Opposition must have its say has been suspect in our country for quite some time, given the routine infraction of legislative procedures designed to advance parliamentary oversight of the executive branch.

This has robbed the farm Bills of their democratic and moral legitimacy. Clearly, any law in a functioning democracy that does not enjoy the uncoerced allegiance of the community and is imposed by a government indifferent to wounded societal sensitivities can have no claim to acceptance and obedience by the people. Mahatma Gandhi's leadership of the freedom movement was anchored in this unquestionable philosophical premise. Tragically, it has fallen upon the heroic and venerated farming community of free India to remind the present ruling dispensation of the lessons learnt under colonial rule.

We know that the efficacy of laws depends upon their being just and being perceived as such. A mass upsurge against the new laws visible on the streets even in these difficult times of Covid-19 shows that such is not the perception of the community in whose beneficial interest the disputed laws have purportedly been enacted.

A reported statement of the Punjab Chief Minister that laws bulldozed in Parliament will be challenged in court raises a larger question about the functioning of our federal polity. That a Chief Minister finds himself compelled to consider legal recourse against an unresponsive Central government on a sensitive issue does not augur well for the future of Indian federalism.

The alienation of the dominant community in the country, including the border state of Punjab that has for long borne the brunt of terrorism and insurgency sponsored by Pakistan, could destabilise peace in the state and adversely impact national security. That opposition to the Bills is wide-farmers' organisations view the Bills as a preliminary step towards corporatisation of agriculture and the eventual withdrawal of the MSP regime as the logical next step. The rising input costs, it is felt, militate against the logic of better returns to the farmers in a non-regulated open market. Farmers are also apprehensive about the price discovery mechanism being left to the free play of markets.

Assuming that public perception against the laws is misconceived, it is for the government to correct the misconception as a necessary condition for their acceptance. This has not been done. Instead, we see a self-righteous government persisting in a fallacy without even a minimal effort at a fuller discussion of the contested and divisive laws in or outside Parliament. Indeed, "Law is the perfection of reason" and as the French philosopher Montesquieu reminded us, "It matters not whether individuals reason well or ill; it is sufficient that they do reason. Truth arises from the collision, and from hence springs liberty, which is a security from the effect of reasoning..." Clearly, therefore, laws untested in a free exchange of ideas on the touchstone of reason and resting only on the coercive apparatuses of the State cannot pass constitutional scrutiny.

A government at war with the farmers of the nation has forfeited its moral right to govern. In this 'disfigured and disfiguring' moment, the government will do well to remember that "violent abuse of power is, generally the means of calling the right of it in question" (Thomas Paine). Hopefully, the debilitating politics of the farm Bills will result in a heightened national consciousness for a politics of national renewal. This would require looking beyond the binaries, recognising shades of grey as a necessary condition for forging the broadest national consensus on vital policies, including those related to transformative changes in agricultural economy. As trustees of a common heritage for the benefit of succeeding generations, we can ill afford divisive politics that limits our capacity as a nation. Neither can we condone a fading sense of empathy and compassion that defines our humanity. A nation yearning to discharge its rightful role in the shaping of human destiny must locate its future in an elevating politics committed to inclusion, justice and dignity for all. Let this be our moment of national awakening.

Blow to tradition of debate, dissent

SABA NAQVI

SENIOR JOURNALIST

The government has pushed through significant legislation on agriculture with just a voice vote, that too at a time when protests on the streets are mounting. In a year in which so much has been lost, an institution that made India one of the most successful democracies is being rendered powerless, and thereby meaningless.

Executive power continues to grow as legislative & judicial checks are weakened.

ly dimensions: Opposition members threw the rulebook at the chairman, tore off mikes and stood on tables. Such scenes and worse have taken place in state Assemblies, in some instances, deteriorating into physical violence, while Parliament too has seen MPs rushing to the Well of the House, refusing to budge and having to be carried away by marshals. Sure, the Opposition MPs were unruly, for which they have been suspended for a week, but what of the government's approach of using a platform for debate to flex its muscles and display the credo that 'might is right'?

Harvard professors Steven Levitsky and Daniel Ziblatt have written a wonderful book, How Democracies Die, that chronicles how institutions are subverted and checks and balances dismantled. Indian Parliament has never been so shorn of power and dignity as it is in 2020 and this monsoon session looks like a mere clearing house for whatever law the regime wishes to pass. As it is, due to the pandemic, the government has truncated the Parliament session, suspended Question Hour, and seems inclined to use whatever time there is to just push through legislation.

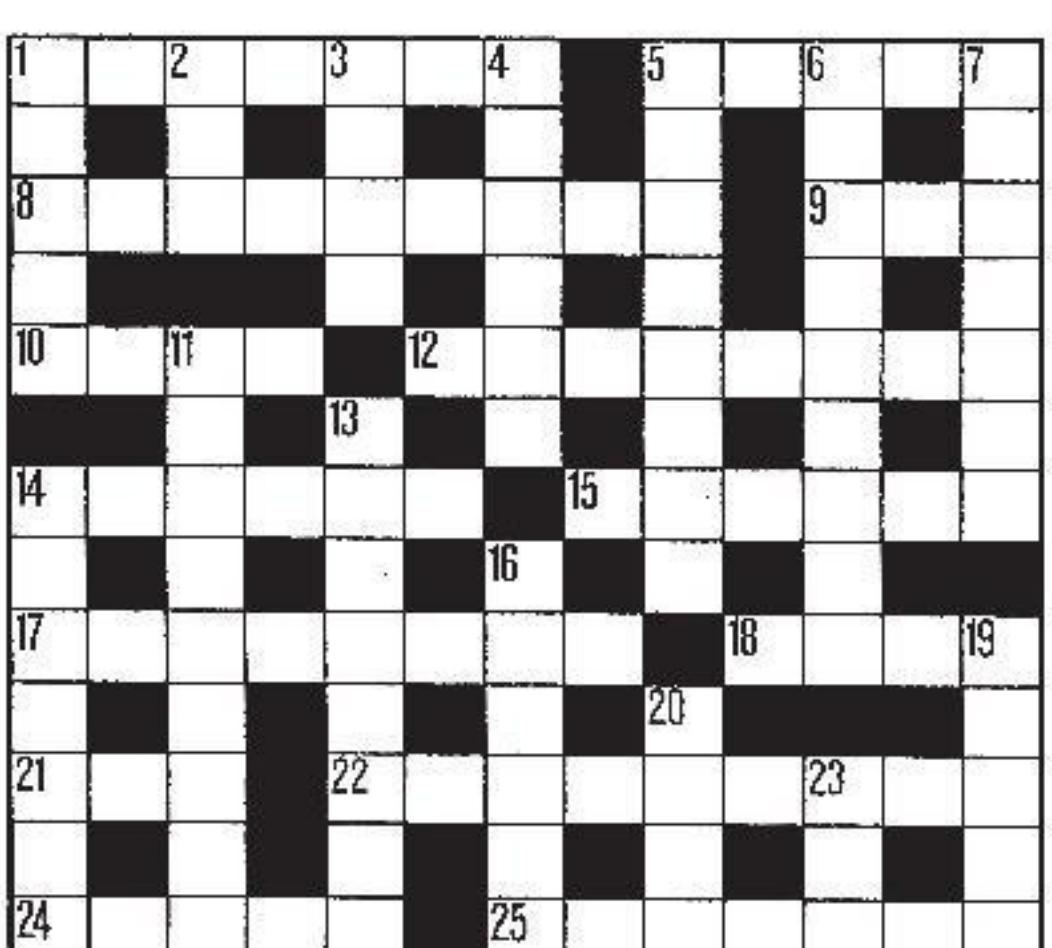

The year of the greatest crisis confronted by the Republic — from the second highest number of Covid cases in the world to the greatest reverse migration without war, to one of the most significant reductions in GDP and a build-up on the border with China — has therefore become the year when our Parliament is barely functioning, and even when it does, it's to evade debate.

All regimes like to get their legislation through. But institutions are negotiated with and not bent till they break. In recent times, the government passed the Aadhaar amendment as a money Bill (that only requires passage in the Lower House), rammed through the removal of Article 370 and has now pushed through significant legislation on agriculture with just a voice vote, that too at a time when protests on the streets are mounting. In a year in which so much has been lost, an institution that made India one of the most successful democracies in the post-colonial world is being rendered powerless, and thereby meaningless. Executive power continues to grow as legislative and judicial checks are weakened — a classic sign of a backsliding democracy.

WORRISOME TREND: Our Parliament is barely functioning, and even when it does, it's to evade debate.

If Biden wins, China will win, says Trump

WASHINGTON, SEPTEMBER 22

Former US Vice-President Joe Biden has enormously harmed the US economy in his five decades as a politician, President Donald Trump has said, adding that if the Democratic leader wins the November 3 poll it would be a win for China.

Biden, 77, and his running mate Kamala Harris are challenging incumbents President Trump, 74, and Vice-President Mike Pence in the presidential election.

"Joe Biden spent the last 47 years shipping your jobs to China and foreign countries. I've spent the last four years bringing the jobs back to our country and back to Ohio," Trump said at a rally in Dayton, Ohio on Monday.

The Republican leader described the November 3 poll as the most important in recent memory. "On November 3, Americans will decide whether we lift our nation to soaring new heights of prosperity or whether we will allow Joe Biden — Sleepy Joe — to shut down our economy, impose a $4 trillion tax hike, abolish Ohio clean coal, oil, natural gas, and ship your jobs

Nepal halts distribution of books with altered map

KATHMANDU, SEPTEMBER 22

Nepal has stopped the distribution of a book that include the country's revised political map showing three strategically-important Indian areas as part of its territory, saying there were a number of factual errors in it, according to a media report on Tuesday.

India has already termed as untenable the "artificial enlargement" of the territorial claims by Nepal after its Parliament unanimously approved the new political map of the country featuring the Lipulekh, Kalapani and Limpiyadhura areas, which India maintains belong to it.

A Cabinet meeting on Tuesday instructed the Ministry of Education not to distribute and print any more copies meant for classes IX to XII as there were some reservations from the Ministry of Land Management and Cooperatives and the Kathmandu Post reported.

Prez Xi's critic Ren gets 18 yrs in jail for corruption

BEIJING, SEPTEMBER 22

The former chairman of a Chinese state-owned real estate company who publicly criticised President Xi Jinping's handling of the Covid pandemic was sentenced to 18 years in prison on Tuesday in a corruption case, the government announced.

Ren Zhiqiang, who had become known for speaking up about censorship and other sensitive topics, disappeared from public view in March after publishing an essay online that accused Xi of mishandling the outbreak that began in December in the central city of Wuhan.

Ren, 69, was convicted of corruption, bribery, embezzlement and abuse of power; a court in Beijing announced. The former chairman and deputy party secretary of Huayuan Group was expelled from the ruling party in July. — AP

Cases surge in UK, curbs back

LONDON, SEPTEMBER 22

British Prime Minister Boris Johnson on Tuesday laid out a new set of Covid restrictions, including tougher curfews and curbs on gatherings and a message for people to work from home, as the UK heads towards a second lockdown which could last six months.

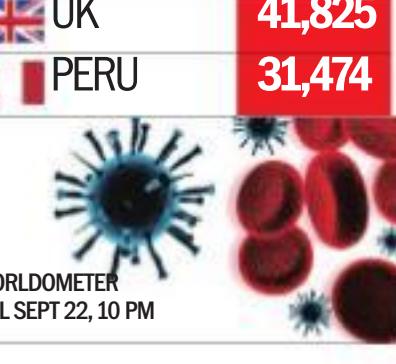

Addressing the House of Commons, Johnson said the UK had reached a "perilous point" as the rate of infections is rising at an accelerating pace across the country. He, however, stressed that the latest set of measures, which widen the legal requirements for face coverings and set out earlier closing times for pubs, bars and restaurants, will help avoid a full national lockdown.

"We will ensure that schools, colleges and universities stay open," he said. From Thursday, all pubs, bars and restaurants must operate at table service only, except for takeaways, and together with all hospitality venues they must close from 10 pm. — PTI

RCB captain says glad to be 1-0 up for a change

DUBAI, SEPTEMBER 22

Royal Challengers Bangalore captain Virat Kohli has credited leg-spinner Yuzvendra Chahal's three-wicket burst for his side's 10-run win over Sunrisers Hyderabad in their opening IPL match. Chahal (3/18) removed in-form Englishman Jonny Bairstow (61) and Vijay Shankar off successive balls in the 16th over to tilt the game decisively in RCB's favour. He had earlier removed Manish Pandey (34) in the 12th over. "It's amazing to be honest. Last year, we were on the other side of the result, 6-nil to start. It is nice to be 1-nil. We kept our composure," Kohli said.

"Yuzi (Chahal) completely changed the game for us. Not many spinners got much out of the pitch, but tonight he showed that you can turn it if you have it in your wrists. He showed he can get purchase

Djoker gets 10 euros more than Halep, fans fume

Organisers of the Italian Open and the tennis events came under fire on social media after it emerged that Rome men's champion Novak Djokovic was paid 10 euros more than women's winner Simona Halep. Djokovic received 205,200 euros for his triumph while Halep won 10 euros less for sealing the WTA Premier 5 title. But even as the Grand Slams have pushed for parity in prize money, some fans online vented their ire that while Halep's prize came close to that of Djokovic, it frustratingly fell short. Last year, Rafa Nadal took home 958,055 euros as the men's winner in Rome, almost double the prize money given to women's winner Pliskova.

Defending French Open champion Rafa Nadal was stunned by Schwartzman in the Rome quarterfinals, but Djokovic expected the Spaniard to be firing on all cylinders in Paris. "He has the highest chance of being in the final... If it's Roland Garros, it's Rafa you bet on," he said. — Reuters

Hockey team's analytical coach Ciriello resigns

NEW DELHI, SEPTEMBER 22

The Indian men's hockey team was dealt another big blow ahead of the Tokyo Olympics when analytical coach Chris Ciriello quit from his position due to health issues, weeks after David John tendered his resignation from high performance director's post.

Player of the match Chahal said, "When I bowled my first over, I realised I need to bowl stump-to-stump line and backed myself. At one point they were batting well and I was trying to bowl loopy ones and wide of the reach which helped in building pressure."

Bizarre game: Warner

Sunrisers captain David Warner rued his dismissal, run out at the non-striker's end off a deflection by bowler Umesh Yadav. "I can't remember the last time I was out like that. It was a bizarre game for us. There were four things that happened in this game that I have never seen before," Warner said, without elaborating. — Agencies

Ciriello is the third Australian support staff member, after John and men's team physiotherapist David MacDonald, to have resigned in one month. Their exodus will be a big blow for the team in its preparations for the Olympics as it is very unlikely for Hockey India to find their suitable replacements in these times. — PTI

Australian Ciriello, the decorated drag-flicker who is an Olympics bronze and World Cup gold winner, put in his papers over the weekend from his home in Victoria. The 34-year-old went back to Australia in June in the middle of the Covid-19 pandemic when the national players were given a month's break. The national camp resumed in Bengaluru on August 4 but Ciriello did not return. According to sources close to Ciriello, his treatment for skin inflammation was cited as the reason behind his resignation. "Chris has resigned as analytical coach. He went to Australia in June and was supposed to join the national camp last month but he stayed back, first because of some issues with his visa and then health problems," a source told PTI.

The Sports Authority of India also confirmed the development. "The SAI has just received his resignation letter and it is being processed," an official said.

I did well in Rome, Rafa the man to bet on in Paris: Djokovic

ROME, SEPTEMBER 22

Italian Open champion Novak Djokovic said getting back on court for a tournament so quickly after being disqualified at the US Open for striking a line judge with a ball helped him move on from the incident. The world No. 1 came in for heavy criticism at Flushing Meadows earlier this month and the Serb said he spent several days processing what had happened. He returned to tournament play in Rome and captured his 36th ATP Masters crown by beating Diego Schwartzman 7-5 6-3.

"I did experience mentally some ups and downs in the first four-five days after that happened," Djokovic said. "Obviously I was in shock... But I moved on. I've never had an issue in my life to move on regardless of how difficult it is. Obviously, having a tournament a week after helped a lot because I really wanted to get on the court and get whatever trace of that out of the way."

French challenge

Djokovic, who has won 31 of his 32 matches this year, said he would have to raise his game further to challenge for the title at the French Open, which begins on Sunday.

"I don't think I played my best tennis to be honest, I don't want to sound arrogant here. I know I still have a couple of gears," he added. "Hopefully I'll be able to raise that level for the French Open because that's going to be necessary."

Cops probe Suarez's cheating in citizenship test

Italian prosecutors today said they had evidence that the language exam taken by Barcelona's Uruguay striker Luis Suarez to obtain Italian citizenship ahead of a possible move to Juventus was rigged. Suarez, whose wife is of Italian descent, passed the exam last Thursday at the University for Foreigners in Perugia. It cleared the way for a fast-track citizenship approval which would mean Juventus could sign him without exceeding its permitted quota of non-EU players.

Allegedly, questions had been agreed with Suarez ahead of the exam and it had already been decided what marks to give him, despite his scarce knowledge of Italian. Suarez is not under investigation.

NEW DELHI, SEPTEMBER 22 Circumstances have forced the Athletics Federation of India (AFI) to soften its hard stance on keeping the national athletes in the training camp. With a number of foreign training staff and several trainees being away for various reasons, the training schedules have been toned down a bit.

High Performance director Volker Hermann has recently returned to India after attending to his sick father. The deputy chief coach, P Radhakrishnan Nair, is currently in quarantine in Patiala after attending his son's wedding.

VS Vismaya has left the camp to attend to her duties with the Kerala Government, while Subha has left to appear for her examinations.

Quarter-miler Hima Das has returned to the camp after attending to her ailing mother in Assam. Discus thrower Navjeet Kaur returned to Patiala today after being away.

The athletes too have been frequently leaving the camp due to personal reasons. Shot-putter Tejinder Pal Singh Toor has been permitted to leave to visit his ailing mother in Moga. He left the camp on Sunday and is expected to return by Friday.

Meanwhile, AFI is trying to organise a National Open competition for throwers in the last week of October in its effort to start its domestic competitive calendar. If successful, this would be the first such event in track & field after the Covid-19 pandemic.

HC allows Kangana to include Raut in plea against BMC

MUMBAI, SEPTEMBER 22
The Bombay High Court on Tuesday permitted actress Kangana Ranaut to add Shiv Sena's chief spokesperson Sanjay Raut as a party in her plea against the Brihanmumbai Municipal Corporation over the demolition of a part of her bungalow in Mumbai.

A Bench of Justices SJ Kathawalla and RI Chagla also allowed Ranaut to add Brihanmumbai Municipal Corporation (BMC) - Heward's designated officer Bhagyavant Late as a party to let him respond to any personal allegations that the actress makes against him.

Ranaut filed a plea in the High Court on September 9, seeking that the court declare the demolition of a part of her bungalow by the BMC illegal.

She subsequently amended her plea to demand Rs 2 crore as damages from the civic body. While hearing her amended plea on Tuesday, the High Court noted that Ranaut's
